

CHINESE CLASSICS:

WITH

A TRANSLATION, CRITICAL AND EXEGETICAL NOTES, PROLEGOMENA, AND COPIOUS INDEXES.

PT

JAMES LEGGE, D.D., LL.D.,

OF THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

IN SEVEN VOLUMES.

VOL. IV.-PART II,

CONTAINING

THE SECOND, THIRD, AND FOURTH PARTS OF THE SHE-KING, OR THE MINOR ODES OF THE KINGDOM,
THE GREATER ODES OF THE KINGDOM, THE SACRIFICIAL ODES AND PRAISE-SONGS; AND THE INDEXES.

London:

HENRY FROWDE,
OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS WAREHOUSE, AMEN CORNER, E.C.

HONGKONG:

PRINTED AT THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY'S PRINTING OFFICE.

THE CHINESE CLASSICS.

VOL. IV.

THE SHE KING, or
THE BOOK OF POETRY.

爲 遊 志 以 辭 之。 是 意 害 不 文

Mancius, V. Pt. I. iv. 2.

THE SHE KING.

PART II.

MINOR ODES OF THE KINGDOM.

BOOK I. DECADE OF LUH MING.

ODE I. Luh ming.

With pleased sounds the deer call to one another. .1 Eating the celery of the fields. I have here admirable guests; The lutes are struck, and the organ is blown [for them];— The organ is blown till its tongues are all moving. The baskets of offerings [also] are presented to them. The men love me, And will show me the perfect path.

TITLE OF THE PART.—/)][, __, 'Part II. | Minor Odes of the Kingdom.' 'Odes of the kingdom' is not, indeed, a translation of #; but the phrase approximates nearer to a description of what the pieces in this and the next part are than any other I can think of. 雅 is explained by 11, 'correct.' Lacharme translates parte mores describuntur recti illi quidem, qui tamen nonnihil a recto deficetunt.' But the pieces in this Part, as descriptive of manners, are not less correct, or less incorrect, as the case may be, than those in the next. The difference between them is that these were appropriate to lesser occasions, and those to greater. The former, as Choo He says, were sung at festal entertainments in the court; the latter at gatherings of the title by Parvum Rectum,' adding-quia in hac | the feudal princes, and their appearances at the

2 With pleased sounds the deer call to one another, Eating the southernwood of the fields.

I have here admirable guests,

Whose virtuous fame is grandly brilliant.

They show the people not to be mean;

The officers have in them a pattern and model.

I have good wine,

Which my admirable guests drink, enjoying themselves.

3 With pleased sounds the deer call to one another, Eating the salsola of the fields. I have here admirable guests, royal court. The names 'small' and 'great,'

'minor' and major,' may have had reference also to the length of the pieces, and to the style of the music to which they were sung, and which is now lost; but we shall find that in the subject-matter of the pieces there is a sufficient ground for such a distinction. As the Fung. or the compositions in the first Part, were produced in the different feudal states, the Ya were produced in the royal territory. The first twentytwo pieces of this Part are attributed, indeed, to the duke of Chow himself, and are distinruished from those that follow as the odes of 'Chow and the South,' and 'Shaon and the South' are distinguished from the other Books of Part I. As there were the correct Fung (正風) and the Pany degenerate (領面風), to there are 'the correct Ya,' and 'the degenerate Ya," It was proper to sing the Ya only on Front and on solution occasions at the royal resett the correct time they were used at the for the receiver, and even by ministers of the states, as in the services of the Ke family in Landing the the street of Cafficine (Ann III, il.); but the was a visity via new rose quence of the de-).

この Product Lot to purple of Lot Part in The Tart in Tart in Ode 1. Allusive. A FESTAL ODE, SUNG AT ENTERTAINMENTS TO THE KING'S MINISTERS, AND GUESTS FROM THE FEUDAL STATES. In the piece we read of 'guests' simply, but not of ministers or officers. Ying-tah says the officers became the king's guests, when feasted as the ode describes. On this view the entertainment would not include envoys from States, which it does according to Choo, to the time of king Wan.

Choo, to the time of king Wan.

I.l. 1, 2, in all the stt. Maou makes yën-yëm to be simply the cry of the deer, calling to one another; Choo makes it descriptive of 'the harmony of their cry.' Maou is wrong in identifying there with the charmony of the with the charmony of the with the charmony of the cry.' Maou is wrong in identifying there with the charmony of the cry.' and charmony of the cry.' are con I. ii. IV. 1. The the charmony of the charmony of the cry.' are con I.

calls it. 'a kind of celery;'—'with a green leaf, white inside, and stalks like quills, edible both raw and cooked.' [12] is, probably the male southernwood. is described by Maou mere-southernwood. It is described by Maou merely as 'a grass.' It is a marshy plant, with leaves like the hamboo, a creeper. Cattle generally are fond of it, as well as deer. Williams, any, —'perhaps a kind of salsola.' From the der browsing happily the writer proceeds to the grass and their entertainment.

St. 1,3-4. 以是,—as in L. x. H. 3. 在 and The second L. st. H. 1. 行,—as in L. t. H. 1. 行,—as in L. t. H. 1. The baskets here must be supposed to to tilled with pieces of silk, or other offerings. 不一人, 'to bear,'—'to bring in,' 照一行, 'to bear,'—'to bring in feel second.' This was part of the entertainter performance.

心。嘉以有且琴。鼓瑟嘉 賓燕旨湛。和瑟鼓賓。 之樂酒、我樂鼓琴鼓

For whom are struck the lutes, large and small.

The lutes, large and small, are struck,

And our harmonious joy is long-continued.

I have good wine,

To feast and make glad the hearts of my admirable guests.

II. Sze mow.

傷 盬。王 不 倭 騑。四章 四 悲。我 儴 廛。周 牡 氷 靡 歸。豈 道 騑

1 My four steeds advanced without stopping;
The way from Chow was winding and tedious.
Did I not have the wish to return?
But the king's business was not to be slackly performed;
And my heart was wounded with sadness.

ment, the host signifying by his gifts his appreciation of his guests. The 之 in 1.7 is merely expletive. 周行一大道.or至道, 'the great,' or 'the perfect way,' the path of right and wisdom.

St. 3, Il. 3—S. 德音,—as in I. xv. V. 1, et al. il.—示 in last stanza. 此—倫薄, 'to be mean.' 君子,—'officers,' in opposition to 民 of the line before. Both 則 and 俊 are verbs, of kindred meaning. 言一美, 'good,' 'admirable.' 式 is to be taken as as an initial particle,—as in I. iii. 以 敖一浩, here 'to enjoy themselves.' Compare the last two lines in I. iii. I. 1.

St.3. II.3—8. 港一樂之久, 'long continuance of the joy.' 燕-安, 'to compose,' 'to scothe.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 鳴, 萃, 笙, cat. 11: 箦. 将, 行., cat. 10: in 2. 蒿. 昭. 桃. 俊. 敖. cat. 2: in 3. 芩, 琴, 琴. 湛., 心. cat. 7. t. 1.

Ode 2. Narrative and allusive. A FESTAL ODE. COMPLIMENTARY TO AN OFFICER ON HIS RETURN FROM AN EXPEDITION, CELEBRATING THE UNION IN HIM OF LOTAL DUTY AND FILIAL FEEL-There is certainly nothing in the ode ING. itself to suggest its being composed for a festal occasion, and to compliment the officer who narrates his story in it. Both Maon and Choo, however, agree in the above account of it. It was not written, they say, by the officer himself, but was put into hismouth, asit were, to express the sympathy of his royal entertainer with him, and appreciation of his devotion to dury. There appear strikingly in it the union of family affections and leval duty, which we met with in several of the pieces in Part I.; and the merit of king Wan, to whose times it is assigned, shines out in the allowance which he makes for those affections.

Sit. 1. 2. 計斷 is defined as 'the app. of advancing without ever stopping.' Choo takes 用道 as = 大路, 'the great way:' Maon, as I have done in the translation. Acc. to this view, the ode must belong to the time when king Wān was still endeavenring to unite the States in allegiance to the last king of Shang, in whose service the expedition referred to must have been undertaken. Williams says that 经证 means 'returning from a distance;' but

- My four steeds advanced without stopping; They panted and snorted, the white steeds black-maned. Did I not have the wish to return? But the king's business was not to be slackly performed, And I had not leisure to kneel or to sit.
- The Filial doves keep flying about, Now soaring aloft, and now descending, Collecting on the bushy oaks; But the king's business was not to be slackly performed, And I had not leisure to nourish my father.
- The Filial doves keep flying about, Now flying, now stopping, Collecting on the bushy medlars. But the king's business was not to be slackly performed, And I had not leisure to nourish my mother.

exist and the feat.

that is not the meaning. The here—'winding.' different names by which it is called; but by none of them can I exactly identify it. It is said none of them can I exactly identify it. 'to et come,' The dist, in rec., says that 倭運, 透進。進進。麥蛇威運。100季移 he she extended as I have followed Moon in the translation of translation. Choo takes the the state of he me sming toursere us! The is the of the white he would not black mane. The " fall Aff ats man I duty at to are in B. 3, 4. tor of a VIII. 1. All mile, to knot; THE STATE OF ADMINISTRATION OF THE PARTY OF and the Boyle est co ates its, if at their every to be remarkable for its filial affection; and I have called it therefore 'the Filial dove.' This idea seems to be the basis of the allusion from it to the speaker in these two stanzas. Picenptien denote 'the app. of flying.' A must-Ab 栩.—ns in I.x. VIII. 1. , 'flying aloft.' here is difft. from the willow tree of the same name in I. vii. 1. This is the 村河木巴, pro-I ally a kind of modlar,—as both Medhurst and Williams say. The finest trees of the sort are said to be in Kan-sub, and Shen-so. Its young leaves, like those of a pomegranate tree, but softer and thinner, are estible. It grows in a bushy a cover to the height of 3 and 5 cubits, puts of 7th perglish flowers in the 6th or 7th month, and for the forth of a date.

将-卷, ten and.

來將作是懷豈駸載四駕歌念。母歌。用歸。不暖。驟略。彼

I voked my four white steeds, black-maned; They hurried away with speed. [But] did I not wish to return? Therefore I make this song, Announcing my wish to nourish my mother.

III. Hwang-hwang chay hwa.

- 1 Brilliant are the flowers,
 On those level heights and the low grounds.
 Complete and alert is the messenger, with his suite,
 Ever anxious lest he should not succeed.
- 2 My horses are young;
 The six reins look as if they were moistened.
 I gallop them, and urge them on,
 Everywhere pushing my inquiries.

St. 5. 原 denotes 'a fleet horse;' 慶慶,
'the app. of its rapid course.' 是用-是
', 'therefore.' 完二去, 'to announce.'—
This ode, with the 1st and 3d, are mentioned in the Tso-chuen, under the 4th year of duke Sëang, as sung at the court of Tsin.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 縣, 遲, 扇, 悲, cat. 15, t. 1: in 2, 騑, 儒; 馬, 盬, 盬, cat. 5, t. 2: in 3, 下*, 栩, 盬, 炎, iò.: in 4, 止, 杷, 母*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 5, 駸, 念, cat. 7, t. 1.

Ode 3. Allusive, and narrative. An ode appropriate to the despatch of an envoy, complimentary to him, and suggesting instructions as to the discharge of his duties. This piece also is referred to the time of king Wan.

St. 1. 皇皇,—like 煌煌, in I. xii. V. I. 原, as opposed to 隰, is defined by 高平,

'high and level,' 'a level height.' What flowers were to the heights and mendows, that the envoy was to the kingdom. Sin-sin expresses 'the app. of number and alertness.' Comp. 就就in I.i.V.1. 征夫 denotes the envoy and his suite. 每懷歷及一其所懷思, 常若有所不及, 'always as if he could not come up to what he purposes and thinks of.' St. 2. In this and the following stanzas the envoy is introduced as narrating, himself, the energy and carefulness of his progress:—thereby he is admonished with what energy and care he should proceed. 篇,—'colts;'—see I.i.IX.3. The term indicates here that the horses were young and full of spirit. 如 篇 denotes the fresh brightness of the reins. I. 3,—as in I. iv. X. 1, et al. 第一篇, 'everywhere.' 爰 is the particle. 套 and 部 both signify 'to deliberate,' 'to consult with.' Choo explains the combination by 部 情,—as in the trans-

- 3 My horses are piebald; The six reins are like silk. I gallop them, and urge them on, Everywhere seeking information and counsel,
- My horses are white and black-maned; 4 The six reins look glossy. I gallop them and urge them on, Everywhere seeking information and advice.
- My horses are grey; The six reins are well in hand. I gallop them and urge them on, Everywhere seeking information and suggestions.

IV. Chang te.

The flowers of the cherry tree-Are they not gorgeously displayed? Of all the men in the world There are none equal to brothers.

lation. Maou explains 周 by 庶信, 'with | lent to 容靓, the character being varied for loyalty and sincerity,' and says that 'to make | the sake of the rhyme, here and in the other inquiries of the good is 37, and to inquire about affairs is ill ; but the view of Choo is much to be preferred. The envoy would get all the information which her ould,-to guide him in do derries his daty, and to report to the court on his neturn.

St.T.以,-asin Lei HL 1. 如源denoics there die countries of the rains. The training stanzas. Maon says the phrase means 'to deliberate about the difficulty or ease of carrying things into execution.

St. 4. IN,—as in the previous ode. 次 表,-as in I.t.IV. 3. 度,-'to concert measures.' Maou says that the term means 'to delif-rate on how affair- stand in regard to propricty and righteen-ness.

St. 5. All denotes a dark coloured horse, plant Co. Charles il at : 於 il is equira- with white hair interspersed, 既均.—'are

- 2 On the dreaded occasions of death and burial, It is brothers who greatly sympathize. When fugitives are collected on the heights and low grounds, They are brothers who will seek one another out.
- 3 There is the wagtail on the level height;—When brothers are in urgent difficulties, Friends, though they may be good Will [only] heave long sighs.
- 4 Brothers may quarrel inside the walls, But they will oppose insult from without, equally adjusted.' The talk about.' Maou says that 'it is appropriate to consultation with relatives.'

Ode 4. Allusive and narrative. SETTING FORTH THE CLOSE RELATION AND AFFECTION TRAT OUGHT TO OBTAIN BETWEEN BROTHERS. The Preface assigns the composition of the piece to the duke of Chow, saddened by the justice which he had been obliged to execute on his brothers, the lords of Kwan and Ts'ae. The ode thus came into use at entertainments given at the court to the princes of the same surname as the royal House. Some doubt is thrown on this account of the origin of the ode by a statement in the Tso-chuen, under the 25th year of duke He (B. C. 645), which assigns it to duke Mult of Shaon (召穆公), in the time of king Le (died B. C. 827); yet in the 'Narratives of the States (國語,周,中, art.1), the very same man, who assigns it this origin, quotes it as 'a poem of the time of duke Wan of Chow.' There is nothing in the ode itself to guide us in adjudicating between these different views.

St. 1. The 常禄 is by most scholars distinguished from the 唐棣 of Lii.XIII, This is the te properly and simply so called. Its fruit is eatable, and not larger than a cherry. pose, indeed, it is a kind of cherrytree. Maou and Choo take 劉 as 一外 見貌 'outwardly displayed,' and the line as interrogative, 不 being-貴不. Ching Kiang-shing, on the other hand, took 男 as 'the calyx of the flower,' and (read foo) as =  the foot or stalk of the calyx,' saying that the calyx, glorified by the flowers, serves well to set forth the union of brothers, the younger serving the elder, the elder overshadowing and protecting the younger. Wuy-wuy means 'bright-looking,' 兄弟is not to be confined to bro-'splendid.' thers of the same parents; it denotes all of the same surname, who traced their lineage to a common ancestor.

St.3. Showing the superiority of brothers to friends in emergencies not so extreme. The friends the Urh-ya, with from on the right) is the wagtail. 'Its head and tail,' say some, 'are continually moving in concert, just as brothers respond to one another.' It is taken by Choo as an initial particle. Others make it equivalent to friends, 'to be fluttered.'—Friends are agitated, but they only sigh, and give no effectual help.

When friends, however good they may be, Will not afford help.

- When death and disorder are past, And there are tranquillity and rest: Although they have brothers, [Some] reckon them not equal to friends.
- Your dishes may be set in array, And you may drink to satiety: But it is when your brothers are all present, That you are harmonious and happy, with child-like joy.
- Loving union with wife and children Is like the music of lutes: But it is the accord of brothers Which makes the harmony and happiness lasting.

pesed to 外 in L2. must—體內. 'inside the 'to set forth' 新學 'to eat or dink to walls.' 務 is explained by 俸 which is found | replection.' 之 is an explainte. 孺. 'a chill' in the passage of the Tso-chuen referred to above. The -an initial particle, as in Lav.III.L.; comey as exist between a child and its parents. The usage of IK here seems to establish. The parties supposed to be feasted in the first Choe's construction of IR in the proceeding sia 友生-朋友. trimis 生 bere. is in other combinations, intensifies the substarts of the of the properties clarected. Some more both down minds 一不如友 4:54. This brings on the same meaning asthe countries of the combine I have followed.

Sc.t. 閱 is 'to wrangle' 子語 us co- | Sc.e. 爱豆--uicLxx.7.2 詹-康. 'a suckling,' is here used as an aljective, exkiesing such manual conflicace and complitwo lines are friends.

St. I. Brotherly have in nonemary to the comple-សំខែ បានវិទូលាយោបាយ ឬវិសាធនៈរៀបវិទ្ធិប្រ 🎿 ពិទៅថៃវិ similite more than a refer. Kitting Ping-chang super directions are from the same rect. forming. in lead on sum A-A. renital Enthers. Wer the hands and feel form one body, and for the the looked at as two in list talk. His lusion i and piles who are lux the union of the summanue?

然夏是是寒樂室宜程 乎。其圖。究帑。爾家。爾港。

8 For the ordering of your family,
For your joy in your wife and children,
Examine this and study it;—
Will you not find that it is truly so?

V. Fah muh.

矧循相求 嚶 遷 出 鳥 伐 伊 求 谀 甚 自 鳴 木 伐 人 友 鳥 春 幽 嚶 丁 矣。聲。矣。幸。矣。木。谷。嚶。丁。

1 On the trees go the blows chang-chang;
And the birds cry out ying-ying.
One issues from the dark valley,
And removes to the lofty tree,
While ying goes its cry,
Seeking with its voice its companion.
Look at the bird,
Bird as it is, seeking with its voice its companion;
And shall a man

St. 8. 将三子, 'a child,' 'children.' 妻 将二妻子 in prec. st. L. 3 refers to the truth, as the writer deemed it, set forth in the whole ode. 百二言, 'truly.' Ping-chang says here, 'If a man be generous and affectionate to his wife and children, while he is indifferent to his brothers, the generosity and affection are but the selfishness of human desire; but if he be generous and affectionate to his brothers, and carry on the same behaviour to his family, the generosity and affection are the justice of heavenly principle.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 韓, 弟, cat. 15, t. 2: in 2, 威, 懷, cat. 15, t. 1; 夏,求, cat. 3, t. 1: in 3, 原, 難, 歎, cat. 14: in 4, 務*, 戎 (prop. cat. 9), cat. 3, t. 2: in 5, 平, 章, 生, cat. 11: in 6, 豆, 飫 (prop. cat. 2), 具*, 孺*, cat. 4, t. 2: in 7, 合*, 翕, cat. 7, t. 3;

琴, 湛*, ib., t.1: in 8, 家*, 帑, 圖, 乎, cat. 5, t.1.

Ode 5. Allusive. A FESTAL ODE, SUNG AT THE ENTERTAINMENT OF FRIENDS; INTENDED TO CELEBRATE THE DUTY AND VALUE OF FRIENDSHIP, EVEN TO THE HIGHEST. In Maou the piece is divided into six stanzas of six lines each; it is now arranged, more correctly, into three, each of twelve lines.

St. 1. T,—as in I.i. VII. Këang Pingchang and some others understand the not of felling the trees, but of fashioning the felled trees for use, finding the idea of friendship in the combination of skill and strength for that purpose. But line 1 in st. 3 is inconsistent with that idea. A company of woodmen, whose blows sound responsive to one another, serves well enough to introduce a company of festive friends. Ying-ying is intended to represent the voices of two birds calling to one another. Maou gives the characters, I hardly see why, the meaning of 'frightened,' as if the birds were disturbed by the sound of the blows. I find, rather, in

Not seek to have his friends? Spiritual beings will then hearken to him; He shall have harmony and peace.

Hoo-hoo they go, as they fell the trees.
I have strained off my spirits, till they are fine,
And the fatted lambs are provided,
To which to invite my paternal uncles.
It is better that something should keep them from coming,
Than that I should not have regarded them.
Oh! brightly I have sprinkled and swept my courtyard,

And arranged my viands, with eight dishes of grain, along with my fatted meat,

To which to invite my maternal uncles.

It is better that something should keep them from coming, Than that there should be blame attaching to me.

the mention of the birds a continuance of the allusive, or perhaps a metaphorical, element. Ll. 3, 4:—See these lines quoted by Mencius, III. Pt. i. IV. 15, who moralizes on them in a manner not intended by the writer, though many of the critics here follow his example. I have followed Ying-tah in referring 室 in ll. 6, 8, to the bird on the tree. He says, 作文其友之堂. 村一元, 'to regard.' 另一记, 'how much more!' 友生,—as in the prec. ode. Ll. 11, 12 tell the value and power of friendship in affecting spiritual Beings. 刑一见 刑, such beings generally. The first 之 is the expletive. 終 followed by 且,—民, as in I. iii. V. ct al. St. 2. 章午 (hoo) 章午 is correctly defined by

St. 2. 青年 (hoo) 青年 is correctly defined by Choo as 'the sound emitted by a number of people in putting forth their strength together.' L. 2. 黄疸 is the word appropriate to the straining off spirits through a sieve or basket, to keep back all grains or other refuse. 石质 denotes the appearance of the spirits so strained, 砦is a lamb, not fully 'clear and agreeable.' grown, 'five months old.' 速二乙, 'to invite.' The kings were wont to style all the nobles of the same surname as themselves 諸父, and those of a different surname 諸 舅, as in 1.10. 適 微一無,—as in I. iii. ⇔'it should happen.' I.1. 於 (woo),—a note of exclamation. 孤婦, -see on I.xv.III.3. 爲,—as in I.xi.X.2. The 'eight dishes' is expressive of the abundance of the provisions. So says Choo; and Yen Ts'an observes that it is of no use trying to illustrate the phrase from the institutions of the Chow dyn,, which were formed subsequently to the time of king Wan, when this ode was made. We are not to suppose that the viands ([11]) It is simply were contained in these dishes. 'males.' Ying-tah would refer it to the lambs in 1.3.

They fell down the trees along the hill-side. I have strained off my spirits in abundance; The dishes stand in rows, And none of my brethren are absent. The loss of kindly feeling among people May arise from faults in the matter of dry provisions. If I have spirits I strain them, do I; If I have no spirits, I buy them, do I; I make the drums beat, do I; I lead on the dance, do I. Whenever we have leisure, Let us drink the sparkling spirits.

> VI. T'ëen paou.

之亦定

Heaven protects and establishes thee, With the greatest security; Makes thee entirely virtuous, That thou mayest enjoy every happiness;

St. 3. The strain I. xi. I. The strain of th This is better than Maou's making it-兄弟 embraces all L. 3,—as in I. xv. V. 2. the guests mentioned in the preceding st. The king calls them all his brothers. Ll.5, 6. Among the common people quarrels arose, because of their stinginess in the supply of the dry provisions of which their feather. visions of which their feasts were composed;— it was not for the king to be sparing in the supply of the richer food at his feast. There is a difficulty in believing that the king should speak 11.7—10 of himself, yet they cannot be otherwise construed. It breaks the unity of the stanza entirely to suppose, with Ching Kiangshing, that they are the language of the guests, praising the king for his favours:- When he has [good] spirits, he strains them for us, when he us,' &c. At the same time, we need not suppose that the king did any of the things mentioned himself; but he caused them to be done for the entertainment of his guests. Seu=se in 1.2. Koo = 首, 'to buy.' A comma must be understord after 迪 in ll. 7,8. Medhurst strangely translates 1.8.— 'There is no wine for me to buy!' 坎 represents the sound of the drum, and 迺 denotes the app. of the dancing. In all the last half of the stanza, the king, by the expression of his sympathy, encourages his guests to make merry.

Grants thee much increase, So that thou hast all in abundance.

- Heaven protects and establishes thee;
 It grants thee all excellence,
 So that thine every matter is right,
 And thou receivest every heavenly favour.
 It sends down to thee long-during happiness,
 Which the days are not sufficient to enjoy.
- 3 Heaven protects and establishes thee,
 So that in every thing thou dost prosper,
 Like the high hills, and the mountain masses,
 Like the topmost ridges, and the greatest bulks;
 That, as the stream ever coming on,
 Such is thine increase.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 丁, 嚶, 鳴, 韋, 韋, 生, 聽 平, cat. 11; 谷, 木, cat. 3, t. 3: in 2, 許, 莫, 羜, 父, 顧, cat. 5, t. 2; 埽*. 簋*, 牡, 舅, 咎, cat. 3, t. 2: in 8, 阪, 衍, 踐, 遠, 愆, cat. 14; 湑, 酷 鼓, 舞, 眼*, 湑, cat. 5, t. 2.

Ode 6. Naitative. An ode responsive to any of the five preceding. His officers and guests, feasted by the king, cflebrate his praises, and desire for him the blessing of Heaven and his ancestors.

St. 1. A, 'thee,' refers to the King. In 1.2, In and are both particles, which we cannot translate. It is difficult to determine whether to translate in the imperative or the indicative; but I conclude to adopt the latter mood. The ole is mainly one of praise; even stt. 4 and 5 must be translated in the indicative; and it is not till the last line that the imperative is more natural.

tirely;' Maon defines it by 信, 'sincerely.' 厚, 'generous,' 'faithful,' 'honest,' is here best given by 'virtuous.' 何福不除,一'what happiness is not taken away?' taken away, that is, to be replaced by greater. 多益一'much increase;'—of every good, we may suppose, in himself and his kingdom.

St. 2. 武 盡, 'entirely;' 製 = 善, 'good,' 'excellence.' 醛 also = 盡, 'entirely.' 宜 refers to all the king's doings as right. 百 元, 'the hundred emoluments' = all prosperities, all favours. 退 = 遠, 'distant,' 'long-during.'

St. 3, 具, 'to rise,' 'to flourish.' I do not see why Choo should explain it here by 成, 'abundant.' Ll. 3 and 4 should be connected with 1 and 2. 山 and 窗 give us the idea of the height of the hills; 阜 and 烫 of their mass. It is said, 'Land high and great is called 阜;

4 With happy auspices and purifications, thou bringest the offerings,

And dost filially present them; In spring, summer, autumn, and winter, To the dukes and former kings, Who say, 'We give to thee Myriads of years of duration unlimited.'

- 5 The spirits come
 And confer on thee many blessings.
 The people are simple and honest,
 Daily enjoying their meat and drink.
 All the black-haired race, in all their surnames,
 Universally practise your virtue.
- 6 Like the moon advancing to the full, Like the sun ascending the heavens, Like the age of the southern hills, when those dimensions are very large, 凌.'

Ll.5 and 6 go together. 如川之方至,
—'like the now coming to as of a river;' giving the idea of the ever-continued progress and increase of the stream.

St. 4. 古一一一次),—'lucky and purified.' The former term refers to the action of the king in choosing the day for the sacrifices, and the officers to assist in them; the latter to the bathings, fasting, and vigils, preparatory to them. 言,—'the spirits, and other articles of oblation.' 言一一一个"the spirits, and other articles of oblation.' 言一一一个"to offer.' This is done 'filially,' because the service referred to was to the king's ancestors at the several sensons, in the ancestral temple. In the Chung-yung, ch. XVIII., we are told how the duke of Chow carried up the title of king to his grandfather and great grandfather, and appointed the sacrifices for all the earlier dukes of the House of Chow. These are the 公 and 先 T of l.4. The same personages are the Ξ , or 'rulers,' in l. 4; and \Box , \Box , \Box give their answer expressed through their personator (Γ), or, as we should say, the medium, in the service. With reference to this passage, the dict. defines \Box by Γ , and \Box , 'to give.' The promise in l. 6 is, of course, to the king's line, more that to himself.

S. 5. 之, in Il. 1 and 3, is the expletive. By missing is meant the king's ancestors, now existing as 'spirits.' 用一至 'to come;' i.e., they are present, though unseen, in the temple. 言言:
贵, 'to give.' 質一貫, 'sincere,' 'honest.' Maou explains it by 成, meaning that 'the affairs of the people are peacefully settled. L. 5 is a denomination of all the people. Choo explains the terms as in the translation; but the old interpreters take both and 彩 as— 彩,

承。爾無之松崩。騫壽。或不茂。柏如不茶

Never waning, never falling, Like the luxuriance of the fir and the cypress;— May such be thy succeeding line!

VII. Ts'ae we.

1 Let us gather the thorn-ferns, let us gather the thorn-ferns;
The thorn-ferns are now springing up.
When shall we return? When shall we return?
It will be late in the [next] year.
Wife and husband will be separated,
Because of the Hëen-yun.
We shall have no leisure to rest,
Because of the Hëen-yun.

and by it they understand the heads of clans, who alone had surnames in those days. I will not say that their excessis is not the better of the two.

St. 6. (read kang, in the 3d tone) denotes the moon in her second quarter, going on to be full. The first half of 1.4 refers to the waning and decline of the sun and moon; the second to slips of the hill. 'The luxuriance of the pine and the eypress' is seen in the constant renewal of their leaves; and they are specified, rather than other trees, as being well known and evergreens.

The first, 'to continue,' 'to succeed to.' The e'some.'

"May there always be those who shall succeed to you!'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 固, 除, 庶, eat. 8, t. 1: in 2, 穀, 禄, 足, eat. 3, t. 3: in 3, 具, [达, 坍, cat. 1, t. 6: in 4, 享, 等, 王, 疆, cat. 10: in 5, 福。食. 德, cat. 1, t. 3: in 6, 坯, 丹, 污, 汞, cat. 6; 蒜, 茂。cat. 3, t. 2.

Ode 7. Allusive and narrative. An ode on the despatch of troops to guard the frontiers on the north against the wild tribes of the Heen-yun. This and the next two odes form a triad, having reference to the same expedition; this being appropriate to its commencement, those to its conclusion. The Preface says the expedition was undertaken in the time of king Wan, when he was only duke of Chow, and was discharging his duty, as chief of all the regions of the west, to the last king of Shang. Choo denies that the odes are of so early an origin, and says that the 'Son of Heaven' in the 8th ode, must be one of the kings of Chow; but he does not attempt to fix the date more particularly.

As to the form of the ode, it resembles that of the second in this book. Though intended to encourage the departing troops, it is written as if it were their own production, giving expression to their feelings on setting out, and in the progress of the expedition, down to its close. A translator's greatest difficulty is to determine the moods and tenses which he will introduce into his version. 'The Complete Digest' says, 'The piece was made with reference to the time when the expedition was despatched, and the language throughout must be taken as that of anticipation (Fr 12 12 15, **).

2 Let us gather the thorn-ferns, let us gather the thorn-ferns; The thorn-ferns are now tender.
When shall we return? When shall we return?
Our hearts are sorrowful.
Our hearts are sad and sorrowful;
We shall hunger, we shall thirst.
While our service on guard is not finished,
We can send no one home to enquire about our families.

3 Let us gather the thorn-ferns, let us gather the thorn-ferns; The thorn-ferns are now hard.
When shall we return? When shall we return?
The year will be in the tenth month.

抵皆是預道之辭耳).' I have adapted my translation to this peculiarity.

St. 1. 微,—as in I. ii. III. 3. 水 and 止, here and below, must be taken as expletives. describes the ferns as just rising out of the ground (生出地), when it must have been early in the spring. This gives the date of the first despatch of the troops, which is thus allusively intimated. The two in 1.3 are expletives. Wang Yin-che says 日福 is simply equivalent to 于 歸. When the men were going away, they had naturally been anxious to have the date of their return fixed. We may translate 日 聞 by 'as to our return,' or interrogatively, as I have done,—after Yen Ts'an. L. 4,—as in I. x. I. 1, where the explctives are different. L. 5. A wife gives the husband a 室; a husband gives the wife a 家. Choo simply says that the Heen-yun were 北秋, 'wild tribes of the north.' The Shwohwan does not give the characters, and elsewhere the same sounds are differently represented. Ching Kiang-shing says they were the same tribe that in his days went by the name of Heung-noo (区 奴). I suppose the two names are imperfect phonetic expressions of the same sound, which we also have adopted in Muns. Wang Taou says that the Hen-yun of Yin and Chow, the Heung-noo of Ts'in and Han, and the Tuh-keueh (F) of Suy and Tang, all refer to the same tribes. Sze-ma Ts'ëen in his Record of the House of Chow, and of the Heung-noo, says that in the time of king E (B. C. 933-909), those northern tribes became very trouble-some, and refers to this ode as a composition of that time.—It is understood that this reference to the cause of the expedition is made by the troops in a public spirit, showing that they sympathized with the court in the necessity of undertaking it. L. 7,—as in H. 2.

St. 2. I must believe that in this st. we have the words of a second detachment of troops sent off somewhat later than the former, when the ferns which, in st. 1, were only showing themselves, were now somewhat grown ().

of their sorrow of heart.' , 'to guard.' The term denotes the service of troops stationed anywhere to defend territory from invasion.

= 上, 'to be at an end.' 典= 間, 'to ask,'— to inquire, that is, about the welfare of their families.

St. 3. We have here a third detachment sent off, when the ferns had attained their full growth. This view of three separate detachments is sanctioned by Ching Kang-shing and Ying-tah. The latter calls them the

But the king's business must not be slackly performed; We shall have no leisure to rest.
Our sorrowing hearts are in great distress;
But we shall not return from our expedition.

- 4 What is that so gorgeous?
 It is the flowers of the cherry tree.
 What carriage is that?
 It is the carriage of our general.
 His war carriage is yoked;
 The four steeds are strong.
 Dare we remain inactive?
 In one month we shall have three victories.
 - 5 The four steeds are yoked, The four steeds, eager and strong;— The confidence of the general, decade of it. It is here the name of the 2d month, the 1st decade of the 3d, and the 2d decade of it. It is here the name of the 10th month:—the sun was drawing near to the extreme point of its southern course, and the Yin principle ruled predominant in the year;—only, however, to give place to the Yang. On the eve of its extinction, apparently, the principle of light and heat, was 'like an embryo in the womb,' about to make its appearance; and hence the month was named after it. So say all the critics. From the 10th to the 12th month, inclusive, was the conclusion of the year of st. 1.

St.4. The three detachments would seem here to be united, and marching with their rescal at their head, confident of great success. The Simoheman quotes 1.1, with instead of 爾, defining the term by 'the app. of abundant flowering.' 常 is the 常株 of III. 1. 路車, 'a carriage;' here 戎車, 'a war carriage,' as in 1.5. 君子 must here—將側, 'the general.' Choo explains 業業 by 壮, 'strong.' We shall meet with the phrase again. 定居一安居,—as in the translation.

The protection of the men.

The four steeds move regularly, like wings;-There are the bow with its ivory ends, and the seal-skin quiver. Shall we not daily warn one another? The business of the Hëen-yun is very urgent.

6 At first, when we set out, The willows were fresh and green; Now, when we shall be returning, The snow will be falling in clouds. Long and tedious will be our marching; We shall hunger; we shall thirst. Our hearts are wounded with grief, And no one knows our sadness.

> VIII. Ch'uh keu.

We proceeded with our carriages To those pasture grounds. 'From the place of the son of Heaven, Came an order to me to march,' [said the general].

ly means 'the calf of the leg.' Choo follows Ching King-shing, who says the character should be EL, 'to shelter.' By , 'the small men,' the speakers denote themselves. 翼翼 describes the regular, orderly, progress of the horses. 另具,—'the ends of a bow.' is here explained as 'the name of an animal, like a pig, found in the eastern sea, spotted on the back and green underneath. Medhurst calls it a seal. Perhaps a porpoise may be meant. He explains H as meaning 'fish skins, or clothes made of seal skins;' but 脱 is here used in the sense of 'a quiver.'

In 1.7 it is doubtful whether we should read

棘一急, 'urgent.' 日 or 日.

St. 6. Here the soldiers project their thoughts forward to the end of their expedition, or at least to the arrival of their relief. The 楊柳, called also simply 楊, is akin to the 蒲柳;see I. vi. IV. 3. (K,-'the app. of being weak and tender;' so, Yen Ts'an.

建此郊車。我練難。王之僕彼旅矣。于出矣。維事載夫。 族矣。改我其多矣。謂

So he called his carriage-officers, And told them to get the carriages all ready. 'The king's business,' [said he], 'is surrounded with difficulties; We must use despatch.'

We proceeded with our carriages
To that suburban region.
The banner with tortoises and serpents was raised,
And the ox-tails set up at the top of its staff;

at. 3. 思 is the particle. 罪罪 describes the app. of snow falling abundantly.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 薇, 儒, cat. 15, t. 1; 作*, 莫, 家*, 故, 居, 故, cat. 5, t. 1: in 2, 薇, 儒; 柔, 憂, cat. 3, t. 1; 烈, 渴, cat. 15, t. 3; 定, 聘, cat. 11: in 3, 薇, 儒; 删, 陽, cat. 10; 盬, 處, cat. 5, t. 2; 欢*, 來, cat. 1, t. 1: in 4, 何, 何, cat. 17; 華*, 車 *, cat. 5, t. 1; 業, 捷 , cat. 8., t. 8: in 5, 蹊, 依, 腓, cat. 15, t. 1; 戛, 服, 戒*, 棘, cat. 1, t. 8: in 6, 依, 霏, 遅, 飢, 悲, 哀, cat. 15, t. 1.

Ode 8. Narrative. An ode of congratula-TION ON THE RETURN OF THE TROOPS FROM THE EXPEDITION AGAINST THE HEEN-YUN. While the old interpreters and Choo differ, as in the case of the prec. ode, as to the time to which they refer this, they agree in regarding it as specially designed to felicitate the leader of the expedition,—'the awe-inspiring Nan Chung.' And so far they are correct. When the former go on, however, to make the general the principal speaker throughout the piece, hearing his words, e.g., in the whole of the first two stanzas, the difficulties of such a view are very great. Kënng l'ing-chang has pointed this out; but when he refers the first personal pronoun mainly to 'the poet (語人)' who wrote the piece, I cannot accept his construction. The soldiers of the expedition are the speakers throughout. They speak freely of their own toils and anxieties, while they glorify their general. At the same At the same time they introduce his words, and the words of their own wives, in a manner which is perplexing and unartistic.

St. 1. 11. 1. 2. 'The 'carriages' here are those comparing the force of the expedition, or of the 1st detachment of it. They proceeded to the pasture tal, and there waited till the other detachment should arrive, and the whole should be put in order for the march. To the distance of 50 le from the capital was called 'the near suburbs (近郊);' for other 50 le, the country was call-'the distant suburbs (漢文形);' and beyond that were the pasture grounds, where herds of horses and cattle were kept. Ll. 3, 4 abruptly introduce the words of the general, in which he informed the troops of the commission which he had received. We must identify the A here with the Tof 1.7, and other places. To make the T king Wan, as Yen Ts'an and others do, is quite inadmissible. Ll.5-8 give another abrupt turn, or rather two abrupt turns, in the composition of the stanza;—6 and 7 are narrative of the next proceedings of the general. 僕夫 is here defined as 御夫, 'the drivers,'—not of the general's war chariot, but of the baggage carriages. 載 is explained by 載其車以 17, 'load their carriages for the march.' is active, 'ordering,' or 'and ordered,' whereas in 1.4 it was passive, 買我 being — 'it was said to me,' or 'I received orders.' The last two lines give what the general said to the drivers. -as in st. 5 of prec. ode. II gives to the sentence a hortatory force.

grounds,' a considerable distance from the capi-

St 2. Ll. 1, 2 relate to a second detachment of the force, which arrived at the suburbs, probably 'the distant suburbs,' while the other was in the pasture grounds. Ll. 2—6 describe various arrangements for the march to the enemy, and should be extended to both the detachments. The chaou was a banner with

Did not it and the falcon banner
Fly about grandly?
The [general's] heart was anxious and sad,
And the carriage-officers appeared full of care.

- The king charged Nan Chung
 To go and build a wall in the [disturbed] region.
 How numerous were his chariots!
 How splendid his dragon, his tortoise and serpent flags!
 The son of Heaven had charged us
 To build a wall in that northern region.
 Awe-inspiring was Nan Chung;
 The Hëen-yun were sure to be swept away!
- When we were marching at first,
 The millets were in flower.
 Now that we are returning,
 The snow falls, and the roads are all mire.

tortoises and snakes coiled round them emblazoned on it, the top of the staff being surmounted by a maou, which has been described, as well as the yu, under I.iv. IX. 斯 is the final particle. 清清 is descriptive of the flags waving in the wind. L. 7 is taken of the general. 肖肯里曼第, 'the app. of being sorrowful.' 光,—see on IV. 3.

St. S. Here appears by name, the general,—a cadet of the Nan family; but we know nothing of him from any other source but this ode. The for 1.2 must be the of 1.2 must be the of 1.4 (northern) for 1.6. It is interesting to see at how early a period the idea of building a wall against the barbarians on the north originated, and began to be acted upon.

St. 4 brings us to the close of the expedition, and the progress of the returning march (comp. the last st. of the prec. ode); but as the critic Leu

The king's business was not to be slackly performed, And we had not leisure to rest. Did we not long to return? But we were in awe of the orders in the tablets.

- 5 'Yaou-yaou go the grass-insects,
 And the hoppers leap about.
 While we do not see our husbands,
 Our hearts must be full of grief.
 Let us but see our husbands,
 And our hearts will be at rest.'
 The awe-inspiring Nan Chung
 Is smiting the Jung of the west.
 - The spring-days are lengthening out;
 The plants and trees grow full of verdure;
 The oriole's cry comes këae-këae;
 [Our wives] go in crowds to gather the white southernwood.

says, the notes of time here make us refer the descriptions not to the commencement of the march northwards, and the conclusion of the march home, but to the course of both routes.

and the arc the particles.

'mire. Ll. 5, 6 must be construed in the past tense.

The refers, no doubt, to the orders from the court about the expedition, written, of course, in those days on tablets of wood.

St. 5. Li. 1—6,—see on Lii.III., the 1st stanza of which is all but exactly reproduced here. Instead of referring it, as all critics do, to the wife of the peneral, it seems to me much more natural to refer it to the wives of the soldiers, who then return in the last two lines to their great theme,—the general. The particle, as in I.i.II.3. The 'western Jung' would be another barbarous tribe, lying more west than the Hëen-yun.

于獨南赫還薄獲執夷。犹仲。赫歸。言醜。訊

With our prisoners for the question and our captive crowd, We return.

Awe-inspiring is Nan Chung; The Hëen-yun are pacified.

IX. Te too.

其有。在 女 日 繼 王 有 有 本 其 有 和 女 日 繼 王 有 有 本 杖 葉 林 夫 心 月 嗣 事 睆 杖 土 萋 。 是 傷 陽 我 靡 其 之 杜 。 要 。 杜 。 止 。 止 。 上 。 臣 。 置 。 杜 。

- 1 Solitary stands the russet pear tree,
 With its fruit so bright.
 The king's business must not be slackly performed,
 And the days are prolonged with us one after another.
 The sun and moon are in the tenth month.
 My woman's heart is wounded;
 My soldier might have leisure [to return]!
- 2 Solitary stands the russet pear tree, With its leaves so luxuriant.

一徒衆)'—the multitude of their followers. 夷一平, 'to be pacified,'—reduced to subjection.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 牧* (read mih) 來, 載, 棘, cat. 1, t. 8: in 2, 郊, 旐, 旄, cat. 2; 旆, 淬 cat. 15, t. 3: in 3, 方, 彭*, 央, 方, 襄, cat. 10: in 4, 華*, 途*, 居, 書, cat. 5, t. 1: in 5, 蟲, 螽, 仲, 降, 仲, 灭, cat. 9: in 6, 遲, 萋, 喈, 祁, 歸, 夷, cat. 15, t. 1.

Ode 9. Narrative. An ode of congratulation, specially intended for the troops on their return from the expedition against the Heen-yun. The congratulation is given in a description of the anxiety and longing of the soldiers' wives for their return. I have supposed that one lady speaks throughout, which imparts to the piece more vividness and interest. Choo takes all the stanzas as narrative; but the old interpreters make the first two allusive. It is not worth while discussing the point.

St. 1. L. 1, -- see L. x. VI. L. 2. Choo, after Maou, defines 院 by 實貌, 'the app. of the fruit,' without saying what that appearance is. The term has the meanings of 'bright,' 'beautiful.' Both in ll. 1, 2, 有 must be taken with the characters that follow it in its descriptive use. The pears would be ripe towards the end of the year,—in the 10th month of 1.5. not then time for the troops to return, but their wives fancy they might have leisure to do so, as the season would suspend their operations. 嗣一續, 'to continue;' syn. with 繼. -as in VII.3. I translate 女心, 'my woman's heart,' because $\mathbb{H}$ takes the place of 女 in the next stanza. 征夫 must here be restricted to the soldiers, or rather to the husband of the speaker, her 'conquering hero.'—difft. from the phrase in III. I. The last line must be taken as a wish (望之之辭; Yen Ts'an). The I are all the final particle.

St. 2. Ll. 1, 2. The winter has gone. It is spring again; but the troops still do not return,

The king's business must not be slackly performed, And my heart is wounded and sad. The plants and trees are luxuriant, But my heart is sad. O that my soldier might return!

- 3 I ascended that hill in the north, To gather the medlars. The king's business must not be slackly performed, And our parents are made sorrowful. His chariot of sandal wood must be damaged; His four horses must be worn out; My soldier cannot be far off.
- They have not packed up, they do not come; My sorrowing heart is greatly distressed. The time is past, and he is not here, To the multiplication of my sorrows. Both by the tortoise shell and the reeds have I divined, And they unite in saying he is near. My soldier is at hand!

though the time for their doing so was come. | She speaks of them as her parents, having be-征夫歸止一征夫可以歸也 my soldier might be returned.'

St. 3. L. 2. 言 is the initial particle. 起,—as in II. 4. L. 4. The parents here are the husband's parents, the 月姑 of the wife. and 宿酒, of the horses, as jaded (罷稅).

come a daughter of the family. 檀重,—800 भिम्म भिम्म is descriptive of the on I. ix, VI. 1. carriages as much worn and damaged (();

X. Nan kae.

陔南

St. 4. 用一不, 'not,' 最,—as in st. 1 of last ode. Ying-tah takes this line interrogatively. The meaning is the same. 逝一往, 'is gone by.' 而,—here—乃, 'and so it is that.' Wang Yin-che explains the line by 乃為憂. ,—to divine by burning the tortoise shell; 益, by manipulating the reeds. 當 has a verbal force, unless we carry it on to the next line;—'both together agree in saying.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 杜, 盬, cat. 5, t. 2; 賃, 日, cat. 12, t. 3; 陽, 傷, 遑, cat. 10: in 2, 杜, 盬; 萋, 悲, 萋, 悲, 扇, cat. 15, t. 1: in 3, 杞, 母*, cat. 1, t. 2; 岬, 盾, 遠, cat. 14: in 4, 來, 浹*, cat. 1, t. 1; 至*, 恤, cat. 12, t. 3; 佳, 近, (prop. cat. 13; but Kooshe contends it has here its original pronunciation) 派, cat. 15, t. 2.

Ode 10. This is one of the six odes, which are commonly spoken of as having been lost. Choo, however, contends that they were only the names of tunes, played on the organ, and never were pieces to be sung. Before this time, moreover, the 3d ode of the next Book was the 10th of this Book. For the grounds on which he changed the order of the pieces, and maintained that 'the lost pieces' were only names of tunes, see on the 1st and 2d odes of next Book. According to 'the Little Preface,' the subject of the Nan-kae was—'Filial sons admonishing one another on the duty of supporting their parents.'

二之二什之華白

I. Pih hwa.

華白

II. Hwa shoo.

黍華

TITLE OF THE BOOK.—白華之什,二 Part II.' The Pih-hwa is one of the six odes of which we have only the titles, and of which, as I have just stated, Choo contends there never was anything more; whereas, until his time, it was supposed that the odes themselves had been lost during the troubles of the Ts'in dynasty, having previously existed like the other 305. Choo derived the reason for his opinion from the E Le (義禮), Pt. IV., Bk. I, which contains an account of the entertainments in the Districts (郭 飲 酒 禮). It is there stated that, at a certain point in those entertainments, the musicians took their place on the elevated t'any (堂), and 'sang' to their lutes the Luh-ming, the Szc-mow and the Hwang-hwang chay hwa (the first three pieces of the last Book), and that, subsequently, the organ players took their place in the court beneath, and 'played the Nun-kae, the Pih-hwa, and the Hwa-shoo.' The former three pieces were sung; these three were only played:-from this Choo contends that Nan-kac, &c., were only the names of tunes. But this conclusion is greater than the premiss war-Where did the Preface get the account which it gives of the subjects of the missing pieces? They must have existed when the Preface was made, or there must have been then a tradition about them of which the author of it made use. Nan-kae, Pih-hwa, &e., are not the names of tunes, but titles evidently, like the other 305, taken from the body of the pieces to which they belonged. Moreover, in the last par. but one of the Book referred to, we are told that at the close of the music at those entertainments, all the instruments united, while the first three pieces of the Chow Nan and the Shaou Nan were sung;—it is not necessary, therefore, to conclude that the organ was played only with tunes to which there were no words.

The imperial editors of the E Le give their opinion in favour of Choo's view, supporting it mainly by a statement of Sze-ma Ts'ëen, in his Life of Confucius, that the Sage sang and played over on his lute the 305 pieces: but all which we can thence infer, is that the words of the six pieces were lost in Confucius' time. With regard now to the order in which the pieces are arranged, I have observed on the Nan-kae, that Maou places the third of this Book in the Decade of Luh-ming, before the Nan-kae, the Pihhwa. and the Hwa-shu. Therein he is wrong. He has 13 odes in his first decade, 13 in his second, and only 4 in his tenth;—taking no count of the six of which we have only the titles. Këang Ping-chang, agreeing with Maou in reckoning the 3d ode of this Book as the last of the first, transfers the Nan-kae to the beginning of this, and call his second Book the 'Decade of Nan-kae.' I cannot believe that the arrangement of the odes in decades was, as Soo Cheli argues, as old as Confucius.

Ode 1. The Preface says that the subject was—'The unsullied purity of filial sons.'

Ode 2. The Preface says that the subject was—'The harmony of the sensons, and the abundance of the harvests, leading to a large produce of the millet crop.'

III. Yu le.

- 1 The fish pass into the basket, Yellow-jaws and sand-blowers. Our host has spirits, Good and abundance of them.
- 2 The fish pass into the basket, Bream and tench. Our host has spirits, Abundance of them and good.
- 3 The fish pass into the basket, Mud-fish and carp. Our host has spirits, Good and in quantities.

Allusive and narrative. USED AT DISTRICT ENTERTAINMENTS, CELEBRATING THE ABUNDANCE OF EVERYTHING AND THE PROS-The idea of the pros-PERITY OF THE TIMES. perity of the times is found in the ode by taking both parts of the first three stanzas as allusive. That fish of so many different kinds should be taken in so inartificial a contrivance as the lew showed how good government produced an abundance of all material resources; the abundant supply of good spirits was also a proof The domain of the of the general prosperity. king was divided into six districts (六邦), of which the more trusted and able officers were presented every 3d year to the king, and feasted, the general superintendent of each district presiding on the occasion. The same thing took place in the States which were divided into three districts. At the former of those entertainments, this ode was used in the first place;—but the phrase 'district entertainments (細 飲),' had also other applications.

Stt.1—3. Fig is defined by Fig, 'to pass to.'
This meaning of the character is not given in the dict. One of the meanings given there, 'to be attached to,' to belong to,' would be suitable here. The liw was an exceedingly simple contrivance, made of bent bamboos, by which fish were caught as they passed through the openings of a dam. Maou says the chang is the yang (為), or 'the darter.' Choo says it was 'the yellow-jaws (黃 頫 魚) of his day, 'like the 'swallow's-head fish, its body thick, long, and large; its jaw-bones quite yellow, a large and strong fish, seeming to fly in leaping.' The sha of this passage is described as 'a narrow and small fish, constantly opening its mouth wide, and spurting out sand, from which it is called the "sand-blower (PK)"." Choo identifies the 🏢 with the 嗣同, a kind of blenny, and Yen Ts'an, after Maou, with the Etc. 'the tench.' Maou and Choo say the yen is the fit, the bullhead, or a sort of mudfish. By君子 is meant the ± 1, 'host,' or president at the entertainment. K'ang-shing seems to have read 君子有酒旨ns one line, and 且多 as another, the 🎏 referring to the provision of fish ; but evidently i always ends a line, and the three other characters are descriptive of the 酒. The 有 in st. 3 is equivalent to 多.

矣。物毒嘉 其矣,維

- The viands are abundant, And they are admirable.
- The viands are excellent, Both from the land and the sea.
- The viands are in quantities, And all in season.

IV. Yëw kăng.

庚 由

Nan yëw këa yu.

以式嘉有君單烝嘉南韓 樂。燕賓酒。子罩。然魚。有

In the south is the barbel, And, in multitudes, they are taken under baskets. The host has spirits, On which his admirable guests feast with him joyfully.

Stt. 4-6. 199, 'articles,' is interpreted as I have done;一謂水陸之羞,'viands from the water and the land.' [3,-'all together,' i. c., from both sources of supply.

The rhymes are—in stt. 1, 2, 3, 量, 酒, cat. 3, t.2: in 1, 溢, 多, cat. 17: in 2, 鱧, 台, cat. 15, t.2: in 3, 鯉, 有*, cat. 1, t.2: in 4, 多, 쫆, cat. 17: in 5, 旨, 偕, cat. 15, t. 2: in G,有., 時, cat. 1,·t.2.

Ode 4. This was the 4th of the missing odes, whose subject, acc. to the Preface was-'All things produced according to their nature.' Choo places it here.

Ode 5. Allusive. A restal ode, appropriate TO THE ENTERTAINMENT OF WORTHY GUESTS, CELLBRATING THE GENEROUS STEPATHY OF THE

to the time of king Ching, and said that he was the ### frincely man,' or host mentioned in it. There is no evidence of this.

Ll. 1, 2, in stt. 1, 2. Ching and Ying-tah take 嘉 魚 as—'fine fish,' and not any particular kind of fish. That was a mistake. The këa-yu is the barbel, 'with the body of a carp, and the scales of the rud.' By 'the south' is intended the country about the Këang and the Han, where the barbel abounds. Choo construes together as a compound initial particle. I have followed him in the construction of standing alone (II. i. IV. 4; et al.); but here it seems better to allow to it the meaning of 梁 'all,' 'multitudes;' and then 蒸然,-'in multitudes' Chaou is a basket, used to catch fish by placing it over them, after which they are taken out with the hand through a hole in the inverted bottom. This method of fishing was ENTLUMANER. The old interpreters referred it appropriate in the case of the barbel, which

- 2 In the south is the barbel, And, in multitudes, they are taken with wicker nets. The host has spirits, On which his admirable guests feast with him, delighted.
- In the south are trees with curved drooping branches,
 And the sweet gourds cling to them.
 The host has spirits,
 On which his admirable guests feast with him cheerfully.
- 4 The Filial doves keep flying about,
 Coming in multitudes.
 The host has spirits,
 On which his admirable guests feast with him again and again.

VI. Sung k'ëw.

丘崇

bores into the bed and banks of streams in search of its food. The reduplication of the character, which is used verbally, denotes the frequent repetition of the process intimated by it. It is a wicker net, or basket of some peculiar construction. in which the fish were taken and lifted out of the water. These two lines would seem to suggest the idea of the ruler's seeking out extensively men of worth and ability, and raising them from obscurity.

Id. 1, 2 in stt. 3, 4. In st. 3,—see on I. i. IV. In st. 4,—see on i. VII. 5. 一,—the particle. Id. 3, 4, in all the stt. 君子 is here as in ode 3,—主人, 'the entertainer.' 式,—as in i.I. I call it an initial particle, because there is a pause at 誓. 行 is a syn. of 樂. The 以 一'so as to,' or 'and hereby.' 綴之,一'comforting themselves,' or 'getting comfort from them.' The concluding 思 must be taken like the same character in I. 2, so that the significant portion of the line ends very abruptly with 又, on which Choo says 既 而 又 乖. The rhymes are—in st. 1, 里, 樂, cat. 2: in 2, 洲,行, cat. 14: in 3, 飘, 綏, cat. 15, t. 1: in 4, 來, 又*, cat. 1, t. 1.

Ode 6. The 5th of the missing odes. Its subject was—'How all things attained their greatest height and size.'

VII. Nan shan yew t'ae.

- On the hills of the south is the tae plant, On those of the north is the lae.

 To be rejoiced in are ye, noble men, The foundations of the State.

 To be rejoiced in are ye, noble men;—May your years be myriads and without end!
- On the hills of the south are mulberry trees;
 On those of the north are willows.
 To be rejoiced in are ye, noble men,
 The light of the State.
 To be rejoiced in are ye, noble men;
 May your years be myriads, unlimited!
- 3 On the hills of the south are medlars; On those of the north are plum trees.

Ode 7. Allusive. A FESTAL ODE, WHERE THE HOST, THE RULER, CELEBRATES THE VIRTUES OF HIS MINISTERS, THE GUESTS, PROCLAIMS HIS COMPLACENCY IN THEM, AND SUPPLICATES BLESSINGS ON THEM. The old school find in this piece likewise an ode of king Ching; but there is nothing in it to give any hint of its origin, nothing to prevent a wide application of it.

St. 1. The t'ac is the name of a plant called also 为 in, and 大河, the stalk and leaves of which are three-cornered, with hairy roots. The leaves, when dried, can be made into raincleaks and hats. The name 大河 is said to mean 'Peor man's need (景大 河河)' Modhurst says the lac is 'the orach,' and Williams calls it' a sow-thistle.' All I can find about it is, that 'its leaves are fragrant, and may be cooked and eaten.' The specification of the hills of the north and the south, embracing between them all the territory of Chow, is under stood to be suggestive of the number of the guests,—the many men of worth in the service of the State. L.3. See on Li.IV; but 君子 has here a difft. application, and is descriptive of the guests. Këang Ping-chang says—能人君樂之, '樂 refers to the joy of the ruler in his guests.' 邦家,一邦 is the State or kingdom; 家,the great Families or clans. In all the stanzas the last line must be taken as the language of supplication.—I have translated in the 2d person, because of the 闭 in the 4th stanza.

To be rejoiced in are ye, noble men, Parents of the people. To be rejoiced in are ye, noble men;— May your virtuous fame have no end!

- 4 On the hills of the south is the k'aou; On those of the north is the new. To be rejoiced in are ye, noble men;-Have ye not the eyebrows of longevity? To be rejoiced in are ye, noble men;-May your virtuous fame be abundant!
- On the hills of the south is the kow; On those of the north is the yu. To be rejoiced in are ye, gentlemen;-Will ye not have the grey hair and wrinkled face? To be rejoiced in are ye, gentlemen;— May ye preserve and maintain your posterity!

St. 3. The apposition of 把 and 季 makes | us take The as in i. II. 4, et al.

St. 4. On L'acu and nëu, see I. z. II. 2. 误二 何, 'how.' 眉壽, 'longevity of eyebrows,' -as in I.xv. 1.6. Choo gives for the phrase here 秀眉, 'elegant eyebrows,' and Choo Kung-ts cen remarks that 'long eyebrows are a token of longevity.

St. 5. The kow and yu have not yet been identified. The former is a high and large tree, resembling a white willow. The fruit hangs down from the extremity of the branches, some inches long, and is of a sweet taste. Wealthy men are fond of planting it in their gardens, and call it the 'tree honey (木蜜).' In the Japanese | 楔*, 蓍, 後, cat. 4, t. 2.

plates, it would seem to be the horenia dulcis. The gu is called in the Urh-ya the 'rat isse (鼠梓). Its wood issaid to be brittle in wet weather, and strong in dry,' 'like that of the mountain ts'ew (山杨), but black. 黄, 'Jellow,' is understood of the white hair of age, and る of the wizened, wrinkled face. nourish,' 'to maintain.'

The rhymes are-in st. 1, 臺, 汞, 基, 期, cat.1, t.1:in 2,桑,楊,光.疆, cat.10:in 3, 札季于, 世, 子, 已, cat. 1, t. 2: in 4, 居*, 程·壽, 茂*, cat.8, t.2: in 5, 枸*, VIII. Yew c.

儀由

IX. Luh sëaou.

夢蕭

- How long grows the southernwood,
 With the dew lying on it so bright!
 Now that I see my noble men,
 My heart is entirely satisfied.
 As we feast, we laugh and talk;—
 It is right they should have fame and prosperity!
 - How long grows the southernwood,
 With the dew lying on it so abundantly!
 Now that I see my noble men,
 I appreciate their favour and their brightness.
 Their virtue is without taint of error;
 May they live long, and not be forgotten!

Ode 8. The last of the missing odes. Its subject was—'How all things were produced and flourished as was natural and appropriate to them.'

Ode 9. Allusive. A FESTAL ODE, ON OCCA-SION OF THE KING'S ENTERTAINING THE FRUDAL PRINCES WHO HAVE COME TO HIS COURT. Both schools of critics agree in taking this as an ode sung, when the king was entertaining the feudal princes; but with the followers of Maou the subject of it is the praise of the king, the princes being the speakers, while with Choo the subject of it is the praise of the princes, the king being the speaker. The view of Choo seems to me much the more likely. Ll. 1, 2, in all the stt. 夏 is descriptive of the southernwood as growing 'long and large.' 声, —as in I. vi. VIII. 2. 斯 is the final particle. 吞愿,—as in I. vii. XX. 严,—'the appearance of the dew on the plant.' 寢鬼,—as in I. vii. xx. 泥泥,—'the app. of the dew moistening the plant.' 濃濃,—'the app. of the dew lying thickly.' These lines seem to suggest the idea of the happy relations between the king and the princes.

- How high is the southernwood,
 All wet with the fallen dew!
 Now that I see my noble men,
 Grandly we feast, delighted and complacent.
 May their relations with their brothers be right!
 May they be happy in their excellent virtue to old age!
- 4 How high is the southernwood,
 With the dew lying on it so richly!
 I have seen my noble men,
 With the ends of their reins hanging down,
 With the bells tinkling on their cross-boards and bits.
 May all happiness gather upon them;

Ll.3—6, in st. 1. On Choo's view, 君子 must here be the feudal princes, the guests of the king. 鳥 is in the sense of 'to disburthen.' Every thing antagonistic to the enjoyment of the feast was cast out of the king's mind.

we may suppose a 且, 'and,' between 那 and 笑. The last line is perplexing. 是以 gives it the appearance of narrative, which it cannot be. I take those terms as 一直, as in the translation, or making the whole line the expression of a wish. 捏 and 處 are to be construed as nouns. Choo defines the former by 善堂,—'fame,'and the latter by 安樂, 'tranquillity and joy.' 'Prosperity' gives the idea of the permanence implied in 處 better.

Ll. 3—6, in st. 2. Maou explains 首臣 by 首臣, 'favour.' From a passage in the Tso-chuen, under the 12th year of duke Ch'aou, where there is a reference to all the stanzas in this ode, we may conclude that 音臣 is the proper reading. 美, 'to be in error.' L. 6,—as in I.xi. V. 2.

Ll.3-6, in st.3. Maou makes 非一安, 'composed,' but in this ode that meaning is out of place. 豈弟, in later times 愷悌, has the meaning in the translation. $\stackrel{\square}{\rightleftharpoons}$ is defined by $\stackrel{\square}{\Longrightarrow}$, 'joyful,' and $\stackrel{\square}{\Longrightarrow}$ by $\stackrel{\square}{\Longrightarrow}$, 'easy,' 'unconstrained.' L.5 suggests a warning to the princes to avoid the jealousics which so readily sprang up between them and their brothers.

Ll. 3—6, in st. 4. Treasu is another name for reins, 'reins,' indicating that they were made of leather. is explained as the ends of the reins,—beyond the place where they were held in the hand of the driver; and is descriptive of these as 'hanging down.' were bells attached to the cross-bar (in) in the front of a carriage, and bells attached to the bits of the horses. Yung-yung,—as in I.iii. IX. 3. Choo says these were ornaments of the carriages of the princes; Maou, that they belonged to the royal carriages. Each writes according to his general interpretation of the ode.

The rhymes arc—in st. 1, 清, 篇 *, 語, 處, cat. 5, t. 2: in 2, 瀼, 光, 爽, 忘, cat. 10: in 8, 泥,弟,弟,豈, cat 15, t. 2: in 4, 濃, 沖, 雝, 同, cat. 9. X. Chan loo.

Heavy lies the dew; 1 Nothing but the sun can dry it. Happily and long into the night we drink;— Till all are drunk, there is no retiring.

Heavy lies the dew, On that luxuriant grass. Happily and long into the night we drink;— In the honoured apartment we complete our carousal.

- Heavy lies the dew, On those willows and jujube trees. Distinguished and true are my noble guests,— Every one of excellent virtue.
- From the t'ung and the e Their fruit hangs down. Happy and self-possessed are my noble guests,— Every one of them of excellent deportment.

Ode 10. Allusive. A festal ode, proper to the convivial entertainment of the TEUDAL PRINCES AT THE ROYAL COURT. Both echools agree in this view of the ode.

Ll. 1, 2, in stt. 1—3. 源源 is descriptive of the abundance of the dew. 陽一日,'the The abundant descent of the dew suggests the idea of the royal fayour, seen in feasting the princes. Ching, enlar-ging on this general idea, finds in the first two ett. a further intimation that the favour was so excessive, that the princes could hardly sustain in the 3d there is an intimation that, as the trees could sustain the dew without bending, so the princes could drink to the full, without being disordered. But the allusive portions of the odes will not bear such minute handling.

Ll. 3,4. 原原 conveys the ideas of the happiness of the feast, its length, and its fulness (安也,亦久也,足也). L.4 in st. 1 strongly expresses the wish of the king that the fullest justice should be done by the guests to his spirits. is here equivalent to 'to retire.' From the E Le, VI.ii., it appears that at it, but must become drunk and disordered; while these convivial entertainments, it was a regular formula for the ruler—the host—to say, 'Let all get drunk,' to which the guests responded,

'Yes. We dare not but get drunk.' 在宗

一在宗章, 'in the honourable apartment,' meaning probably the apartment of the emperor, appropriate to such occasions. 版 is the particle, 亲一成, 'to complete;' here — to finish the feast. 顺一则, 'intelligent.'

元一信, 'true,' £ e, sincere and loyal. L.4, in the 5d and 4th stt., is taken of the guests, drinking to the full, and yet not drunk, dis-ordered neither in their minds nor their deportment.

St. 4. And And Andrews on Liv. VI. The picture of the tung, in the Japanese plates to the She, is that of the Lignonia. He is descriptive of the fruit hanging down elegantly. There was no disorder in its appearance, nor was there any in the deportment of the guests.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 肠, 扁, cat. 15, t. 1: in 2, 草。, 考。, cat. 8, t. 2: in 8, 棘, 德, cat. 1, t. 8: in 4, 椅。, 離。, 儀。, cat. 17.

I. Tung kung.

- 1 The red bows unbent
 Were received and deposited.
 I have here an admirable guest,
 And with all my heart I bestow one on him.
 The bells and drums have been arranged in order,
 And all the morning will I feast him.
- 2 The red bows unbent
 Were received and fitted on their frames.
 I have here an admirable guest,
 And with all my heart I rejoice in him.
 The bells and drums have been arranged in order,
 And all the morning will I honour him.

TITLE OF THE BOOK.—形号之什,二 之三, 'Decade of T'ung-kung; Book III. of

Ode 1. Narrative. A FESTAL ODE, ON OCCA-BION OF A FEAST GIVEN BY THE KING TO SOME PRINCE FOR THE MERIT HE HAD ACRIEVED, AND THE CONFERRING ON HIM OF A RED BOW. In the Shoo, V. xxviii. 4, we have an instance of the conferring by king P'ing on a marquis of Trin of a red bow, and other gifts, which generally accompanied such a token of merit and of the royal favour. Red was the colour of honour with the dynasty of Chow; a red bow was its highest testimonial of merit, and gave to the prince who received it great prerogatives within the sphere of his jurisdiction.

Ll. 1, 2, in all the stt. J.,—Ying-tah says, 'The bows were lackered as a protection against frost and wet.' In l. 2, we must construe as a mere particle. The explanation of the term throughout the odes by J., 'I,' adopted by Maou and Ching, is here palpably absurd. They refer l. 2 to the prince recipient of the bow, and make him say, 'I receive and deposit it, as a precious relic for my

The red bows unbent
Were received and placed in their cases.
I have here an admirable guest,
And with all my heart I love him.
The bells and drums have been arranged in order,
And all the morning will I pledge him.

II. Ts'ing-ts'ing chay ngo.

有樂君旣中在者菁華者菁儀。且子。見阿。彼莪。菁莪菁

1 Luxuriantly grows the aster-southernwood, In the midst of that large mound. Since we see our noble lord, We rejoice, and he shows us all courtesy.

Ll. 5, 6. 'to feast,' is the name for the highest style of entertainment, where there was the greatest profusion of viands. At the 'entertainments (),' drinking was the principal thing; at the hēang or banquets, the table, or, to speak more correctly, the ground, was loaded with provisions. The 'entertainments' were given later in the day, and might be continued on into the night (see the last ode of last Book); the banquet took place early, and did not admit of easy familiarity. The bells and drums in 1.5 are the musical instruments employed on the occasion. I can make nothing out of —

Ching takes the phrase as \(\begin{array}{c} \begin{arra

The rhymes are st. 1, 藏, 貺, 饗, cat. 10: in 2, 載, 喜, 右*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 3, 弨, 橐*, 好*, 疇, cat. 3, t. 2.

Ode 2. Allusive and metaphorical. AN ODE CELEBRATING THE ATTENTION PAID BY THE EARLY KINGS OF CHOW TO THE EDUCATION OF TALENT. This is the account of the ode given in the Preface; and by all the school of Maou. Choo at one time adopted it, but he afterwards changed his mind, and in his work on the She he says that it is a festal ode about the royal entertainment of guests. The K'ang-he editors express themselves rather in favour of the old view.—It must be confessed there is almost nothing in the piece to help us to determine the subject of it. The absence of any mention of guests and their entertainment may be accepted against Choo's interpretation.

- 2 Luxuriantly grows the aster-southernwood. In the midst of that islet. Since we see our noble lord, Our hearts are full of joy.
- 3 Luxuriantly grows the aster-southernwood, In the midst of that great height. We see our noble lord, And he gives us a hundred sets of cowries.
- 4 It floats about,—the willow boat, Now sinking, now rising again. Since we see our noble lord, Our hearts are at rest.

Ll. 1, 2, in stt. 1—8. 菁菁,—nearly as in I.x.VI.2. The is a kind of southernwood, called 莪蒿, 蘿蒿, and by other names. Luh Ke says that it grows in damp and marshy grounds, tall and bushy, and that in the 8d month, its stalks may be eaten, either raw or cooked. Seu observes that this ode affords sufficient evidence that the plant grows in dry as well as moist situations. The Japanese plates to the She say that the ngo is now commonly called 'the aster of Corea (朝鮮菊)' white flower with which it is there depicted is very like that of a chrysanthemum.-The growth of the plant, so abundant in different places, is supposed to suggest the idea of the abundance of men of talent, only needing cultivation.

Id. 3, 4, 君子, on the view which I have followed, is to be referred to the king,—referred to him visiting or inspecting the schools of the State. That there were such, even in the early days of the Chow dynasty, will hereafter clearly appear. There is a difficulty with 且有价。 must have the same subject. The difficulty is the same, whether we adopt the old interpretation of the ode, or that of Choo. L. 4, st. 3, on the old view, indicates that the king, having provided for the training of the talents, saw also to their being thereafter furnished with offices and salary. Up to the time of the Ts'in dynasty, cowries were current as money in China, nor did such a currency even then immediately According to Choo and many others, 5 shells constituted a p'ang ()) or set; but Ying-tah gives a difft. account. The shells, he says, were of five classes, according to their size, the largest measuring 4.8 in, and those of the 4th class 1.2 in. Two shells of each of these 4 classes constituted a set, the very smallest not being reckoned.

St. 4. M.,—as in I. iii. XIX. The first two lines are metaphorical of the talented youth of the kingdom, without aim or means of culture, until they were cared for by the king.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 莪, 阿, 饞 *, cat. 17: in 2, 沚, 喜, cat. 1, t. 2: in 3, 躞, 刚, cat. 6: in 4, 月, 浮, 休, cat. 3, t. 1.

III. Luh yuch.

In the sixth month all was bustle and excitement. The war carriages had been made ready, With the four steeds [of each], strong and eager; And the regular accourrements had been placed in the carriages.

The Heen-yun were in blazing force, And thence was the urgency. The king had ordered the expedition, To deliver the royal kingdom.

Ode 3. Narrative. Celebrating a success-TUL EXPEDITION AGAINST THE HEEN-TUN, AND ESPECIALLY THE CHARACTER AND CONDUCT OF KEIN-FOO COMMANDING IT. With this ode commence what are called 'the Ta odes of a changed character (知) / The twenty-two pieces which precede are all, as we saw, referred to the earlier and more prosperous times of the Chow dynasty. This and the thirteen which follow are all referred, by the critics of the old school, to the time of king Seuen (), a monarch of great merit, B. C. 826—781. in whose first year the expedition here commemorated took place. Choo says. 'After kings Ching and Kang, the House of Chow fell into deeper. Leading the himse for The same than the sighth himse for The same than the sighth himse for The same than the same t decay. Le, the eighth king from Kang, was so oppressive, that the people drove him from the capital, when he took up his residence in Che (in Hoh Chow, dep. Ping-yang, Shan-se). The Heen-yun took advantage of this internal disorder, and invaded and ravaged the country, till, on the king's death, his son Tsing (瓦南), known as king Seuen, succeeded to the throne, and despatched against them Yin Keih-foo, whose successful operations were sung by the writer of this piece.

We saw on the 7th ode of Bk. I., how troublesome the Heen-yun were at the commencement of the dyn. of Chow. The ode now before us being narrative, and ending with the return of Keih-foo from the expedition, all the stanzas but the last must, evidently, be translated in the past tense. The writer had been in the expedition himself, or at least he identifies himself with it.

St. 1. 'The sixth month' is taken by most commentators as the 6th month of the Hea year, which would be the last month of summer. Whether the month was that of Hea or Chow, the mention of it was intended to show the urgency of the occasion, it being contrary to rule and custom to undertake any military ex-pedition till the labours of the husbandman were all over. 棲棲 is descriptive of the inquietude of the people (不安之貌); Maou says, 'of selecting and examining carriages and horses.' That, however, was only one form which the inquietude took. 戎重,一'warchariots.' Of these there were five kinds. See the Chow Le, Pt. III. Bk. XI., on the duties of the 車僕. 飭一整, 'to put into good condition.' Kuci-kuci,—as in i. VII. 5. 常服 denotes the various articles in which the soldiers accoutred themselves for battle. On the march they did not wear them. Whether we are told here that they were conveyed in the war-chariots or in the baggage waggons, I cannot say. 是用= 以, 'on this account.' 出征,—出 is to be taken as an active verb, and we are not to suppose, as some do, that the king himself took the field. The fis the particle. Ching makes a great blunder with it. Having said that it $= \begin{bmatrix} -1 \end{bmatrix}$, which is allowable, 🖂 itself being often used expletively, he proceeds to take that term as the verb 'to say,' and finds in \ are and the next line the king's charge to the general. 王=淑 if, 'to save and rectify.' I suppose that by 一 或 we are to understand the whole kingdom, and not the royal State merely.

2 Matched in strength were the four black steeds, Well trained to observe every rule. On this sixth month, We completed our accoutrements. Our accoutrements were compteted, And we marched thirty le [every day]. The king had ordered the expedition,

The four steeds were long, and stout,
And large-headed.
We smote the Hëen-yun,
And achieved great merit.
Severely strict and careful [was our leader],
Discharging his military service,
Discharging his military service,
And settling thereby the royal kingdom.

To help the son of Heaven.

St. 2. L. 1. 均 is a designation of the horses with reference to their essential quality of strength. In the Chow Le, IV.v., on the duties of the 校人, we are told that on great civil occasions of the State, the horses were given out, all for the same carriage of the same colour (毛馬而頒之), but on occasion of war, 物馬而頒之,'they thinged the horses, and gave them out,' i.e., they gave them out, all for the same carriage of equal strength (齊其力). L.2. 閑-閑習, 'to train,' to exercise.' The 'Complete Digest' expands the line, 閉習之而皆中法則, exercised them, and they all did everything according to the proper rule.' L.5. Thirty le was the regular stage for an army on march. The translation must be supplemented. We can make nothing of T more than to treat it as an expletive, but the whole line—日行三十 里, as in the translation. L. 8. 天子-王國in last stanza in last stanza.

St. 3. 少一長, 'long.' The first two lines are descriptive of the horses. As Ts'aou Suychung (曹华中) says, '必describes the length of their bodies; 唐, their fulness in the belly and back; and 間, the largeness of their heads.' 'Large-headed' is the definition of the last character in the Shwoh-wan, though Maou and Choo explain it here simply by 'large-looking.' 酒,—as in i. VIII. 5, et al. 百人一大功, 'great merit;' so, both Choo and Maou. L. 5 and the lines that follow are interpreted of the commander of the expedition, or of him and the leaders under him, as uniting the qualities of strict command (元一成), and of cautious

- 4 Badly reckoned the Hëen-yun,
 When they confidently occupied Tseaou and Hwoh,
 And overran Haou and Fang,
 As far as to the north of the King.
 On our flags was their blazonry of birds,
 While their white streamers fluttered brightly.
 Ten large war chariots
 Led the way in front.
- The war carriages were well made,
 Nicely balanced, before and behind.
 Their four steeds were strong,
 Both strong and well trained.
 We smote the Hëen-yun,
 As far as T'ae-yuen.
 For peace or for war fit is Keih-foo,
 A pattern to all the States.

prudence (翼=敬). 共=供, 'to provide,' 'to discharge.'

St. 5. I believe I have given the meaning of the first two lines correctly, Z being descriptive of the firm and secure manner in which the carriages were made; but I can hardly tell the force of 如 鮏 如 軒. The Shwoh-wan defines 睡 by 低, 'low,' and the Ching-yun (正 韻) dict. says, that it means, 'a carriage heavily laden in front; on the other hand, 'a carriage high in front' is called H. These war carriages looked neither high nor low, but kept as it were, level, and were well adapted for 倩=壯健貌 'strongfighting from. looking.' The yuen was in the dep. still so named in Shan-se, in the dis. of Yang-k'ëuh 叉武,—'civil and military,' turn 憲一法, 'pattern' Marte quam Mercurio.

6 Keih-foo feasts and is glad;
Great happiness is his.
In returning from Haou,
Distant and long had been our march.
He entertains and feasts his friends,
With roast turtle and minced carp.
And who are there?
There is Chang Chung, the filial and brotherly.

IV. Ts'ae k'e.

其涖方菑于新于采薄。采車止。叔畝。此田。彼世。言 芭

1 They were gathering the white millet, In those new fields, And in these acres brought only one year under cultivation, When Fang Shuh came to take the command.

為憲一以之爲法,'take him for their | pattern.'

St. 6. Here we have the general returned from the expedition, and feasting happily with his friends after all his toils. It seems better to regard the stanza as thus descriptive of Keihfoo in his own house, than with Yen Ts'an and many others, to find in it the public entertainment of him by the king. Choo Kung-ts'een likewise observes that we are not to understand the second line of any happiness or reward beyond that which he enjoyed in feasting with his friends. The introduction of the first person in the 4th line is owing probably to the writer of the ode having been closely associated with the general.

The introduction of the first person in the 4th line is owing probably to the writer of the ode having been closely associated with the general.

The introduction of the first person in the 4th line is owing probably to the writer of the ode having been closely associated with the general.

The introduction of the first person in the 4th line is owing probably to the writer of the ode having been closely associated with the general.

The introduction of the first person in the 4th line is owing probably to the writer of the ode having been closely associated with the general.

The introduction of the first person in the 4th line is owing probably to the writer of the year and the year of cooking a turtle seems strange; but Yen Ts'an remarks that perhaps they did have anciently such a method.

The introduction of the first person in the year of cooking a turtle seems strange; but Yen Ts'an remarks that perhaps they did have anciently such a method.

The here is the year of the year of cooking a turtle seems strange; but Yen Ts'an remarks that perhaps they did have anciently such a method.

The here is the year of the year of cooking a turtle seems strange; but Yen Ts'an remarks that perhaps they did have anciently such a method.

The here is the year of year but we must give to brothers in such a connection a very wide meaning.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 棲*, 膝, cat. 16, t. 1; 飭*, 服*, 急 (prop. cat. 7), 國, cat. 1, t. 8: in 2, 則服*, ib.; 成, 征, cat. 11; 里, 子, cat. 1, t. 2: in 3, 顋, 公, cat. 9; 星, 服*, 服*, 國, cat. 1, t. 8: in 4, 茹, 瘦, cat. 5, t. 2; 方, 陽, 章, 央, 行*, cat. 10: in 5, 安, 軒, 閑, 原, 憲, cat. 14: in 6, 喜, 祉, 人*, 友*, 健, 矣, 友*, cat. 1, t. 2.

Ode 4. Allusive and narrative. Celebrating Fang Shuh, and his successful conduct of a grand expedition against the tribes of the south. Chinese chronologers assign this expedition to B. C. 825, the year following that against the Hëen-yun, celebrated in the last ode. It is presumed from the conclusion of the last stanza, that Fang Shuh, who conducted it, had been one of the leaders in that first undertaking of Scuen's reign, under Yin Keih-foo.

His chariots were three thousand,
With a host of well-disciplined warriors.
Fang Shuh led them on,
In his carriage drawn by four piebalds,
Four piebalds orderly moving.
Red shone his grand carriage,
With its chequered bamboo screen, and seal-skin quivers,
With the hooks for the trappings of the breast-bands, and the rein-ends.

2 They were gathering the white millet, In those new fields,

St. 1. 润言,—as in i. VIII. 6, et al. 岂 is, by Maou and Choo, taken here for a kind of sowthistle (苦菜), the leaves of which are edible, both raw and cooked, and which might serve as food both for the men and horses of the expedition. I agree, however, with Yen Ts'an and Këang Ping-chang, in understanding it of the k'e in III. ii. I. 5, which is there defined as 白粱栗. Williams calls it—'a sort of white millet.' Why should sowthistles be gathered in the fields of Il. 2, 8, that had been brought under cultivation? The first three lines seem to give us a note of time for the commencement of the expedition, and to indicate the prosperity of king Seuen's govern-ment, under which the people were bringing the land into cultivation. By 'new fields' are intended fields in the 2d year of their cultivation, and by 蓝 畝, fields reclaimed 洲一幅, 'to come and that same year. assume one's official duty.' , here and elsewhere in the ode, excepting st. 3, 1. 3, is the final particle. In 1.5 we have a poetical exaggeration of the force of the expedition, for 3,000 chariots would give a host of 300,000 men. Each war chariot carried 3 mailed warriors, and had attached to it 72 footmen, with 25 men to look after the baggage waggons, cooking, &c.,—altogether 100 men. But the whole force of the kings of Chow only amounted to six armies (大軍), of 12,500 men each. To make out the 300,000, some critics suppose that the forces of the feudal States had also been called out for this service; but Choo, Yen Ts'an, and others say that the language is only intended to give us an idea that the force was very large. In 1.6, 師一衆, 'all;'干一杆, 'to guard,' 'defenders; 就一岸習, 'trained,' 'practised;' is the expletive. The 'Complete Digest' explains the line by 扞 禦之 練習之精, 'the multitude of the defenders had been admirably trained.' It is hardly worth while to discuss other interpretations of it. 翼翼,—as in i.VII.5. By 路車 is intended, the grand chariot conferred by the king on Fang Shuh, on his designation to the command, probably a 全路;—see the Chow Le, III.xi., on the duties of the 川 直. Various parts of this carriage were painted or lacquered red (奭-赤貌).簟第-簟 誦, in I.viii.X.1 魚 服—as in i.VII.5. Both Maou and Choo describe (2) as certain. metal hooks suspended from the under part of the horses' muzzles by way of ornament, and 鷹 as certain trappings belonging to the breastbands. I agree with Keang-Ping-chang however, in taking the former term of hooks by which the trappings were attached to the bands 《鈎膺--字連言,則是在胸之 鈎以繫 樊纓 不 必 言 繫 頟

St. 2. L. 3. 中軍事 中, meaning the fields about the villages where the people lived, and which would be fully under cultivation.

And all about these villages,

When Fang Shuh came to take the command.

His chariots were three thousand;

His banners, with their blazonry of dragons, and of serpents and tortoises, fluttered gaily.

Fang Shuh led them on,

The naves of his wheels bound with leather, and his yoke ornamented.

Tinkle-tinkle went the eight bells at the horses' bits.

He wore the robes conferred [by the king];

His red knee-covers were resplendent,

And the gems of his girdle-pendant sounding.

Rapid is the flight of the hawk, Soaring to the heavens, And again descending and settling in its place. Fang Shuh came to take the command. His chariots were three thousand, With a host of well disciplined warriors.

Fang Shuh led them on.

L. 6. see i. VIII. 3. L. 8. 車上記, 'the nave of a wheel.' This was bound round with leather, which was then lacquered red. 便行is the yoke at the end of the pole. Both Maou and Choo explain 錯 by 文, 'ornamented;'-Ying-tah says 'various things (雜物; 錯-雜) set in it. 玻璃 and 有瑞 are descriptive of the sounds given out by the bells, and by the gems of the girdle. On his appointment to the command of this expedition, we must suppose, Fang Shuh had had one degree added to his rank, and in consequence he now wore knowcovers of a light vermilion colour. The king's were of a deep vermilion tinge; in those worn by princes of States there was a dash of yellow (黃朱). The triangular gem at the top of the girdle-pendant was called IJ and was green, of the colour of an onion (流). The hang is put here for the gems of the pendant generally.

St. 3. Ris descriptive of the rapid flight of the bird. The 隼 is now commonly called 記. which, acc. to Williams, is 'a kind of kite or glede.' 戻一至,'to,' 'reaching to.' 发 一於; 止一所止:--tit settles down on its

With his jinglers and drummers, He marshalled his hosts and addressed them. Intelligent and true is Fang Shuh, Deep rolled the sound of his drums; With a lighter sound he led the troops back.

4 Foolish were the savage tribes of King,
Presuming to oppose our great region.
Fang Shuh is of great age,
But full of vigour were his plans.
He led his army on,
Seized [the chiefs] for the question, and made captives of a crowd [besides].

Numerous were his war chariots,
Numerous and in grand array,
Like the clap or the roll of thunder their onset.
Intelligent and true is Fang Shuh.
He had gone and smitten the Hëen-yun,
And the tribes of King came, awed by his majesty.

proper resting place,' meaning I suppose, its prey. So bold, so decisive, so fatal is the movement of an army like Fang Shuh's. L. 8. The ching was an instrument like a bell, and gave a jingling sound, which was the signal for troops to stop their advance. This line, seems to say that 'the jinglers beat the drums; but we must understand it as in the translation. So long as the drum sounded, the troops advanced, and they stopped when they heard the jinglers. L. 9. 12500 men were called a 情, and 500 men a 旅; but we must construe this line as if it were—陳其師旅,而誓告之. 第一告, 'to address.' 顯允, as in ii. X. 3. 淵淵 and 圖圖 both give the sound of the drums:—the former the deep roll with which they were beaten, as the troops marched from their entreuchments to engage the enemy; the latter a lighter and more cheerful sound, to which they returned victorious.

The stop*, 'all,' i. e., the troops.

St. 4. properly denotes the wriggling motion of creeping insects; and hence it passed into an expression of contempt,—'stupid,' 'insolent.' forming an adverb with to be construed with 1.2. was the general name for the wild, uncivilized tribes, lying south of the China proper of those days.

V. Keu kung.

- Our chariots were strong,
 Our horses were well matched;
 And with four steeds [for each], sleek and large,
 We yoked and proceeded to the east.
- 2 Our hunting carriages were good, And their four steeds in fine condition. Eastwards were the grassy plains of Foo;— We yoked and went there to hunt.

On King-chow, see on the Shoo, III.i. In the Ch'un Ts'ëw the great and barbarous State of Tsoo bears the name of King for some time after its first appearance in that history. 'The great region' is of course the 兀一大; 'great.' kingdom of Chow. seems an adverb, to qualify 'counsels,' 'plans.' L. 6,—as in i. VIII. 6. expresses the multitude of the chariots, and 厚厚 the completeness of their array. is the rapid clap of thunder. The last line is understood to say that the Man submitted to Fang Shuh without fighting, awed by the terror of his name and the display of his force. Both the 3d and 4th stanzas 威 而 服) arc, to my mind irreconcileable with such a view. Probably the campaign was soon over, as the Man found they were no match for the force that was brought against them; but there was fighting in the first place.

The rhymes arc—in st. 1, 芭, 畝*, 武, cat. 1, t. 2; 田, 千, cat. 12, t. 1; 翼, 颠. 服*, 草*, cat. 1, t. 8: in 2, 田, 千; 郯, 央, 衡*, 珞, 皇, 珩*, cat. 10; in 3, 天 千, 止, 武, cat. 1, t. 2; 鼓, 旅, cat. 5, t. 2; 淵, 圆, cat. 12, t. 1: in 4, 辔, 老*, 猶, 聰, cat. 3, t. 2; 厚 (prop. cat. 13), 富, 威, cat. 15, t. 1.

Ode 5. Natiative, Celebrating a great hunting, presided over by king sected on occasion of his giving audience to the FEUDAL PRINCES AT THE EASTERN CAPITAL OF One of the great undertakings of the Lou. famous duke of Chow was the building of Loh, a few miles from the pres. city of Loh-yang. King Woo had intended to fix there the capital of his kingdom, but his immediate successors did not carry out his idea. So long as the dyn. was vigorous, however, the kings made progresses to Loh, and there gave audience to the lords of the States. This practice, which was fallen into disuse, was revived by Seuen, the more emboldened to do so by the renown and strength acquired by the two victories commemorated in odes 3 and 4. He met the lords at Loh, and took the opportunity to have a great hunting in that part of the country, in which they shared.—The transitions of time are not indicated in the stanzas, but I have translated them in the past tense. The author writes as if he had been an officer in the retinue of the king.

st. 1. 文字文, 'strong.' It is the verb, 'to put in order,' in the passive voice. 同一 深, 'matched,' i.e., in their swiftness, which was the point attended to in preparing for hunting expeditions. Lung-lung is descriptive of the appearance of the horses being in good condition (元 實). 言 is the particle; and not, as Këang argues, the verb, expressing the order of the king. So, in next stanza. By 'the east' is intended Loh, 'the eastern capital.'

St. 2. Maou takes 甫 in the sense of 大, 'great,' so that 甫草一'large, grassy plains.' Choo, however, follows Ching, who takes the characters as—面田之草, 'the grassy country about Poo-t'een,' which was one of the eleven meres of the kingdom,—in the pres. dis.

- 3 Of the officers in charge of the hunt, The voices resounded as they told off the men. They set up the banners, with ox-tails displayed, And we proceeded to pursue the chase in Gaou.
- With their four-horsed chariots [they came],
 Forming a long train,
 In their red knee-covers and gold-adorned slippers,
 Like the crowd of an occasional or a general audience.
- The bowstring thimbles and armlets were fitted on; The bows and arrows were adjusted to one another; The archers acted in unison, Helping us to rear a pile of game.

of Chung-mow () It was afterwards included in the State of Ching, which was not yet constituted. His read teen, 'to hunt.' is properly the name of the winter hunt, as H (next st.) is of the summer. Interchanged as the characters are here, we must take them in the general sense of 'to hunt.'

St. 3. 之一,—'these gentlemen,' meaning the officers (百司), who had charge of the arrangements for the hunt. They had to select or tell off (建一數) the carriages, and their attendants that were to take part in it, and hāaou-hāaou gives the sound of their voices in doing so. The specification of this is understood as intimating that no other sounds were heard, such was the order with which the proceedings were conducted. In 十二, — is the particle; but we must give it the force of 'for.' L. 3. See i. VIII. 2. 其一一,—'to seize the animals.' 款 was properly the name of a hill, but is here used for the country about it. It was in the pres. dis. of Yung-yang (癸二).

St. 4 relates the arrival of the princes of the States to do homage to the king, which preceded the actual hunting, the preparations for which are described in the previous stanzas. describes the app. of their arrival, from difft. quarters, one after another. Yen Ts'an makes it = 大, 'large,' descriptive only of the horses. Han Ying explained it by 盛貌, 'numerous.' L.8 mentions two of the articles of dress worn by the princes. The 'red' of the knee-covers and slippers was the light vermilion, mentioned in st. 2 of last ode. How the gold was placed on the slippers I cannot tell. Lacharme wrongly says the slippers were woven with thread of mas the name appropriate to a meeting of princes, called by the king, on any exigency arising; 🛱 was the name for a general meeting of them, which ought to have taken place every 12 years. This meeting was neither of these, but the attendance at it made the writer think of them. -in trains long drawn out, as if a cocoon were being unwound.

St. 5. We come now to the actual hunting. The two a sort of thimble fitted on the right thumb, to assist in drawing the bow-string;

- 6 Of the four yellow horses of each chariot, The two outsiders inclined not to either side. No error in driving was committed, And the arrows went forth like downright blows.
- 7 As if at their ease, the horses neighed, Long and slow moved the line of pennons and banners; The footmen and charioteers created no alarms; The great kitchen did not claim its full complement.
- 8 So did the officers conduct this expedition, Without any clamour in the noise of it. Truly a princely man is [the king]; Great indeed are his achievements!

the 拾 was an armlet of leather, fitted on the left arm, as a protection and help in discharging the arrow. 依 is defined here by 利, 比, and 便利, 'to be made convenient.' L.2 means that the size of the arrow was adapted to the strength of the bow. 'The archers' are here especially the princes. 崇 appears in the Shwoh-wān with 手 instead of 木, meaning 'a pile.' The game was all piled up, prior to its distribution for various objects, and among different parties.

St. 6. 稍一偏滴不正, 'inclining to one side, and not straight.' The art of driving consisted principally in keeping the outside horses right. The nominative to 失 is 同时 一个They were not allowed to deviate from the rules for their galloping.' 加极一说ke splitting.' The arrows went forth, as sure of their mark as if they had been axes or hammers directed against something immediately beneath the hand.

St. 7. The hunting is over, and this st. de- 与他*, 极, cat. 17: in 7, 唱 scribes what followed. In the first three lines; cat. 11: in 8, 征, 龙, 成, ib.

we have the return from it without clamour or confusion. 南南 represents the neighing of the horses;—this was heard, but nothing else. 悠久,—the long and slow procession of the flags. 常一篇误, 'to terrify and disturb.' The last line shows how the king had contented himself with a small portion of the game.

St.8. L.2. 有 闰 refers to the sound of the horses neighing, the officers telling off the men, &c.; but all without clamour (無 整). Lines 3 and 4 ascribe all the order and success to the king. 方 and 展 are synonyms, signifying 'truly.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 攻, 同, 雕, 東, cat. 9: in 2, 好*, 阜, 草*, 狩, cat. 8, t. 2: in 3, 苗, 囂, 旄敖, cat. 2: in 4, 奕*, 舄*, 釋*, cat. 5, t. 3: in 5, 饮, 柴, cat. 15, t. 8; 調 (prop. cat. 3), 同, cat. 9: in 6, 駕, 猗*, 馳*, 破, cat. 17: in 7, 鳴, 旌, 怒, 巫, cat. 11: in 8, 征, 潑, 成, ib.

VI. Keih jih.

- A lucky day was mow,
 And we sacrificed on it to the Ruler [of horses], and prayed.
 Our hunting carriages were good;
 The team for each was in fine condition.
 We would ascend the greatest heights,
 And pursue the herds [of the game].
- 2 A lucky day was kang-woo.
 We had selected our horses;
 The haunts of the animals,
 Where the does and stags lay numerous,
 The grounds by the Ts'eih and the Ts'eu,—
 That was the place for the son of Heaven [to hunt].

Ode. 6. Natiative. Celebrating a hunting expedition by king Seuen on a smaller scale, attended by his own officers, and within the royal domain.

St. 1. Mow, it is said, was 'a hard day.' The cycle days were distinguished into 'hard (圖))' and 'soft (柔).' The 'hard' were the odd days 1, 3, &c., and the 'soft' were the even. The former were deemed lucky for all business abroad; the latter for all home business. A hunting expedition of course must be begun on a hard day. Reasoning from kang-troo in next stanza, we must conclude that the full name of the day here was mow-shin (戊辰). It is interesting to observe that the expedition was commenced with a religious service. In the Chow Le, IV.v., on the duties of the officer who had the care of the royal stude ((\nearrow) , we are told that in spring, he sacrificed to the 'Father of horses,' the Spirit presiding in the four stars, β , δ , σ , ϵ , of Scorpio, 'the dragon horse of the sky;' in summer, to the first breeder of horses; in autumn, to him who first subjected horses to the chariot; and in winter, to the Spirit ill-affected to horses. By . . 'the chief,' in the text is understood the first of these obpects of sacrifice,一馬祖. 既伯一既有事於馬祖, 'we had business with—i.e. we sacrificed to—the Father of horses.' Then 既高一因祭而而壽之,—as in the translation. Yen Ts'an says the four lines that follow are the words of the prayer, but that does not appear from anything in them; and Ting-tah thinks that they are the result of the prayer, and would translate them in the past tense indicative. They seem to me to supply the considerations which led to the prayer. 室面,—'herds multitudinous.'

St. 2. 差.—'to choose;'—as once already. The difficuly with lines 3—6 is to find an active verb, which may indicate the action of the hunters. Choo and others take 之從 in 1.5 as—從之, 'we pursued them.' This leaves 深知 standing quite unconnectedly. Maou takes 從 as the preposition—'from.' and explains ll. 5. 6. 'From the Ts'eih and the Ts'eu we pursued the game, and forced it to the place of the Son of Heaven.' The construction which I have adopted has not occurred to any of the critics. Ll.

- We looked to the midst of the plain,
 Where the animals were large and abundant,
 Now rushing about, now waiting together,
 Here in threes, there in twos.
 We led on all our attendants,
 To give pleasure to the son of Heaven.
- We have bent our bows;
 We have our arrows on the string.
 Here is a small boar transfixed;
 There is a large rhinoceros killed.
 The spoil will be presented to the visitors and guests,
 Along with the cup of sweet wine.

VII. Hung yen.

爱于劬于之其肅于鴻 鴻 及野。勞征。子羽。肅飛。鳫 鳫

1 The wild geese are flying about;
Suh-suh goes the rustle of their wings.
[There were] those officers engaged on the commission.
Pained were we and toiled in the open fields;

St. 3. 中原一原中, 'the middle of the plains.' L.2 must be understood of the animals of the chase. The meaning which I have adopted for 1.3 is given by Yen Ts'an from Ts'en Wan-tsze (锭文子). Three animals together were called 臺; two, 友. L5. is evidently to be understood of the officers engaged in the hunt, and their attendants. Maou erroneously takes 率 as — 騙, 'we drove,' and refers 左右 to the animals on the right and left. 能一樂, 'to pleasure.'

St. 4. to hold in the armpit,' is here used of the holding the arrow on the string between the thumb and the first finger. L. 3,—see on I.ii.XIV.1. The dict., probably after Maou, says, 'to die from a single arrow.' The text does not compel us to such an exaggeration. III,—as in III. 6.

All were objects of pity, But alas for those wifeless and widows!

- 2 The wild geese are flying about,
 And they settle in the midst of the marsh.
 [There were] those officers directing the rearing of the walls;—
 Five thousand cubits of them arose at once.
 Though there was pain and toil,
 In the end we had rest in our dwellings.
- 3 The wild geese are flying about,
 And melancholy is their cry of gaou-gaou.
 There were they, wise men,
 Who recognized our pain and toil;
 If they had been stupid men,
 They would have said we were proclaiming our insolence.

This was used at entertainments given by the king. The last two lines express the generosity of the king, who would share the spoils of the chase with his guests, when there was poured out (西河) for them the cup of spirits.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 戊*, 禱*, 好*, 阜, 阜, 醜, cat. 3, t. 2: in 2, 午, 馬*, 麌, 所, cat. 5, t. 2; 同, 從, cat. 9: in 3, 有*, 俟, 友*, 右*, 子, cat. 1, t. 2: in 4, 矢, 兕, 醴, cat. 15, t. 2.

Ode 7. Allusive. The People, REGATHERED INTO COMMUNITIES UNDER KING SEUEN, PRAISE THE OFFICERS BY WHOM THIS WORK HAD BEEN ACCOMPLISHED. Such is the account of this ode given in the Preface, and by the school of Maou. Choo takes a difft view of it, interpreting one another;—on which see below. He also doubts whether this and the three odes that follow should be referred to the time of king Seuen. With this ode, as with many other odes, the translator has only a choice of difficulties, and must adopt the view which seems to him the least unlikely.

Ll. 3-6, st. 1. It has been mentioned above that Choo understands by T 'the dispersed people thus addressing one another; but in the last st. of ode 5 we have the same words—
T T in ;—and the meaning of them there seems to be decisive against his view. The people appear, scattered about, with no houses to live in, and we are to suppose that the king had commissioned certain officers to go through the country, to collect them again into communities, and direct them in building houses

VIII. T'ing lëaou.

1 How goes the night?
It is not yet midnight.
The torch is blazing in the court-yard.
My princely men are arriving;—
There is the tinkling of their bells.

2 How goes the night? The night is not yet through. The torch is growing pale in the court-yard. My princely men are arriving;— There is the sound of their bells, regular and near.

for themselves. L. 4 describes the misery of the scattered people. If we interpret it of the officers, as Ying-tah, Yen Ts'an, and others do, we lose the analogy between the corresponding lines of st. 2. We must suppose that 河道 等 is the subject of 是 及. 冷,一溢, 'to pity;'

St. 2. A low wall is called . Këang Pingchang observes that indicates the work of the officers in deliberating, determining the ground, and leading on the people to build. The walls were built of earth and lime, beaten together in a frame, layer after layer. The frame was ten cubits in length, and 5 frames together formed a too (), so that walls to the extent of 100 too were 5,000 cubits in length.

Ll. 8—6 in st. 3 are taken as in praise of the officers, who had manifested a sympathy with the people, and an appreciation of their sufferings, which, if they had not been wise men, they would not have done. The whole piece is perplexing and obscure.

The rhymes arc—in st. 1, 羽,野*, 寡*, cnt. 5, t. 2: in 2, 澤*, 作*, 完*, cat. 5, t. 8: in 3, 嗷, 勞, 驕, cat. 2.

Ode 8. Narrative. Describing the anxiety of some king—supposed to be king Séven—not to be late at his morning levée. The Preface says that while this ode is in praise of king Seven, it was also intended to admonish him; and, as there is nothing of admonition in the language, the critics of the old school have various ingenious methods of explaining why that character should be attributed to the piece;—with which we need not trouble ourselves. Each stanza is to be taken as a soliloquy of the king, waking now and again, in his anxiety not to be late.

All the stanzas. If (read ke, 1st tone) is the particle at the end of interrogative lines,—as in Lix.III. L.2 III = IIII, 'the middle;'

III = IIII, 'to be completed;' III = IIII, 'verging toward.' L.3. The ting-liaau was a large torch kept burning all night (inside the entrance gate, leading to the hall), of links or faggots bound together,—100 in the court-yard of the king's palace, 50 in that of a duke's, &c. The princes and nobles repaired to the king's hall of audience at early dawn, when the king would be ready to receive them. The royal personage in this piece awakes again and again, and judges of the time from what was, or what he fancied must be, the state of the great torch.

IIII describes its appearance when well spent, and IIII, its app. as shining dimly through its smoke;—this meaning of III does

旂。觀止。子輝。燎晨。夜何夜 其言至君有庭鄉其。如

3 How goes the night?
It is getting towards morning.
The torch is smoking in the court-yard.
My princely men are arriving;—
I see their banners.

IX. Mëen shwuy.

- In large volume, those flowing waters
 Go to the court of the sea.
 Rapid is that flying falcon,
 Now soaring, now resting.
 Alas! among my brethren,
 My countrymen, my friends,
 No one is willing to think of the prevailing disorder;
 [But] who has not parents [to suffer from it]?
- 2 In large volume, those flowing waters Roll on their swollen flood. Rapid is that flying falcon, not appear in the dictionary, but Choo gives it (戶一大氣), and it is demanded by the connection. L.5. Both Maou and Choo explain 君子 by 諸侯, 'the feudal princes.' I apprehend there must be intended here by the phrase the ministers of the royal court rather, and any princes of States who might be in the capital at the time. The arrival of them mentioned in stt.1,2, could only be imaginary. L.6. 章章,—see on I.xii.II.3. $\frac{\text{F}}{\text{F}},—see on I.xii.II.3. $\frac{\text{F}}{\text{F}},—see on I.xii.II.3. $\frac{\text{F}}{\text{F}},—see on I.xii.II.3.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 央, 光, 將, cat. 10: in 2, 艾, 肝, 歳, cat. 15, t. 3: in 3, 晨*, 煇*, 旂*, cat. 13.

Ode 9. Allusive. BEWAILING THE DISORDER OF THE TIMES, AND THE GENERAL INDIFFERENCE TO IT, AND TRACING IT TO THE SLANDERERS ENCOURAGED BY THE CONDUCT OF MEN IN AUTHORITY. The Preface says the piece was intended to admonish and correct king Seuen. The critics of the old school differ so much among themselves in assigning the historical ground for such a view (see, e.g., Yen Ts'an and Këang Pingchang, in loc.), that I shall not enter on any discussion of it.

Now soaring, now rising higher. When I think of those lawless men, Now I rise up, now I walk about. The sorrow of my heart Cannot be repressed nor forgotten.

Rapid is that flying falcon,
Yet he keeps along the middle of the height.
The talk of the people,—
Is there no means of stopping it?
If my friends would reverently [watch over themselves],
Would slanderous speeches be made?

X. Hoh ming.

渚。在淵。潛野。聞阜。于鶴華鶴樂于或在魚于聲九鳴鳴

1 The crane cries in the ninth pool of the marsh, And her voice is heard in the [distant] wilds. The fish lies in the deep, And now is by the islet.

I.1.1,2, in stanzas. 万 is descriptive of the large volume of water flowing along. 可元,—see the Shoo, III.ii. Pt.i. 47. 可如 was the name appropriate to the app. of the feudal princes at court in the spring, and 元 to their app. in the summer. 另一,—as in I.v.IV. 4;—see also the the Shoo, I.11.

L1.3,4, in stt.1,2, and 1,2 in st. 3. Choo supposes, with great probability, that two lines are lost at the commencement of st.3, corresponding to the two with which stt.1,2 begin.

L.3,—as in IV.3.

L.3,—as in IV.3.

L.3,—fill for follow, 'to keep along.' The first 4 lines in stt.1 and 2 seem to allude to the troubled and uncertain state of the kingdom, while the first 2 in st.3

may suggest the idea that the troubles might yet be restricted within certain limits.

L1.5—8 in st. 1, contain an appeal by the writer to all his countrymen, and a complaint of their indifference to the common weal, 1.8 suggesting an issue which might rouse their concern.

The same lines in st. 2 describe the writer's own feelings. —'a foot-mark;' —'those who do not keep the foot-mark,' i.c. who deviate into unauthorized ways of their own. L. 6 pictures vividly the writer's anxiety and mental trouble.

In st. 3, 計算 is the idle, baseless, talk (記述 not quite = 'false') of the people, caused by the slanderous misrepresentations propagated by unworthy men in a higher position. 元,—as in I. iii. IV. 第二上, 'to stop.' 方 must here be taken of the writer's friends, men in eminent

Pleasant is that garden,
In which are the sandal trees;
But beneath them are only withered leaves.
The stones of those hills,
May be made into grind-stones.

2 The crane cries in the ninth pool of the marsh, And her voice is heard in the sky.

The fish is by the islet,
And now it lies hid in the deep.

Pleasant is that garden,
In which are the sandal trees;
But beneath them is the paper-mulberry tree.

The stones of those hills
May be used to polish gems.

positions; or, it may be, would conciliate such men by thus addressing them. 故一敬以旨 井,—as in the translation. 其一将, 'will;' and the whole line is interrogative.

The rhymes are—in st. 1,海,止,友*, 毋*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 2, 湯, 楊, 行*, 忘, cat. 10: in 3, 陵, 怨, 與, cat. 6.

Ode 10. Metaphorical. CERTAIN MORAL LESSONS. The Preface says this piece was intended to instruct king Seuen, but it does not say in what. Nor is there any agreement among the critics about the lessons hid in its aphorisms. In the first two lines of each stanza, Choo finds the lesson that sincerity cannot be hid (see the Doctrine of the Mean, XVI.5): in ll.3,4, that right reason and goodness are not restricted to any one place; in ll.5—7, that where we love, there may also be something to be hated; and in ll. 8.9, that where we dislike, there may yet be something good.

在 is the crane,—proverbial, in all its varieties, for its loud and sonorous voice. is explained by Maou as—'a marsh.' Ch'ing, better, calls it 'a pool in a marsh.' The '9th pool' is equivalent to the centre of the marsh. 信道,—as in I. vii. II. 3. 是,—as in I. vii. XI. 款 should be written, as the Shwoh-wān says, with 木, and not with 禾. It is the broussonetia, a small tree, from the inner bark of which a kind of paper and also of cloth is manufactured. Another name for it is 黃. 錯一順石, 'a grind-stone.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 野*, 渚, cat. 5, t. 2; 園, 檀, cat. 14; 蘀, 石*, 錯 cat. 5, t. 3: in 2, 天淵, cat. 12, t. 1; 園, 檀, cat. 14; 榖, 玉, cat. 3, t. 8.

K'e-foo. I.

- Minister of War, 1 We are the claws and teeth of the king. Why have you rolled us into this sorrow, So that we have no abiding place?
- Minister of War, We are the taloned soldiers of the king. Why have you rolled us into this sorrow, So that there is no end [of our toils]?

TITLE OF THE BOOK.一新 父之什,二 Z III, 'Decade of K'e-foo; Book IV. of Part

Ode I. Narrative. The sondiers of the ROTAL GUARD COMPLAIN OF THE SERVICE IMPOSED ON THEM BY THE MINISTER OF WAR. This piece is to be referred to the concluding years of Seuen's reign, when both his character and his administration had deteriorated. In his 39th year, B.C. 788, his army had sustained a great defeat from some of the northern tribes, which he made preparations to avenge in the following year. The regular levies for such a service being insufficient, he ordered his own guards, it is supposed, to join the force for the north; and we have in the ode their complaint at being called to a duty which did not belong to them: -directed nominally against the minister of War, but really against the king Choo, indeed, makes the ode to be the complaint of the army generally (子. 六軍之士); but the soldiers of the guard (司右虎賁之屬) are more likely to be described as 'the talons and teeth of the king.' So, K'ang-shing, the critics of the old school, and the K'ang-he editors.

St. 1, 而炎, is the same as 圻炎, in the Shoo, V. x. 13, q. r. Ying-tah observes that anciently 美, 圻, and 沂 were used inter-changeably. In the Chow Le, IV. ii., it appears as the duty of the minister of war (大司馬) to define the boundaries of the royal domain and of the various States (制畿封國); hence the name given to him in the text. - circumstances of sorrow, -as in i. IX. 4. Those circumstances were the going on a distant expedition with all its toils.

St. 2. 底-至, 'to come to;' and 底止-'to come to a stop.'

Minister of War. 3 You have indeed acted without discrimination. Why have you rolled us into this sorrow, So that our mothers have to do all the labour of cooking?

> II. Pih keu.

朝。以之

Let the brilliant white colt Feed on the young growth of my vegetable garden. Tether it by the foot, tie it by the collar, To prolong this morning. So may its owner of whom I think Spend his time here at his ease!

age;' 霾—'dressed food:' so that 尸 藜 to manage the cooking. i.e., to do all the work of that, procuring firewood, carrying water, &c., which it was the business of the son to do for his mother. Underneath the complaint here, there is, perliaps, a reference to an ancient rule, inferred by the critics from various examples in the Kwohyu and Tso-chuen, that an only son, whose parents were old, was not required to serve in the army. This, however, could not be the case with all the soldiers of the guard, though the existence of it with some of them served to aggravate the hardship of the service now required from them.

The rhymes are—in st.1, 牙*, 居, cat.5, t.1: in 2, 土, 止, cat.1, t.2: in 3, 聰, 饕, Ode 2. Narrative. The writer expresses HIS REGRET AT THE ABANDONMENT OF PUBLIC LIFE BY AN OFFICER WHOM HE ADMIRED. This ode also is referred to the concluding years of Seuch's reign, when men of worth, disgusted by his neglect, were leaving him. The writer is supposed to describe his own feelings by way of contrast to the king's indifference, condemning and admonishing him.

St. 1. 版版 is descriptive of the white colt, as pure and entirely white (深口). Such a

St. 3. P=1, 'to preside over,' 'to man- | colt was the one which the officer who was in the writer's eye was accustomed to ride on. 1, -see on I.xv.I.7. It means properly the stack-ground, where in the autumn the produce of the fields was stored, used in the spring and summer as a vegetable garden; so that here 場一圃. 苗 is used not only of grain in the first stages of its growth, but of the young growth of grass and vegetables. tether by the foot (絆 其足); 維, to fasten by a string attached to the neck or breast (聚其範). L. 4. The detaining the colt for a morning was but a small matter, but it shows how the writer longed to have its master always with him. 併人, 'this man,'—the officer who was bent on retiring from public life. The piece was made after he had consummated his purpose; but every stanza is complete in itself, and must be translated in the present 於焉一於此,'here,'or於是, 'hereon.' Wang Yin-che gives to 📜 alone this meaning in many passages. 道海,—as in I.vii.V. 2, though the idea of sauntering about is not so prominent as that of being at one's ease.

2 Let the brilliant white colt Feed on the bean sprouts of my vegetable garden. Tether it by the foot, tie it by the collar, To prolong this evening. So may its owner of whom I think Be here, an admired guest!

- If [you with] the brilliant white colt 3 Would brightly come to me, You should be a duke, you should be a marquis, Enjoying yourself without end. Be on your guard against idly wandering; Deal vigorously with your thoughts of retirement.
- The brilliant white colt 4 Is there in that empty valley, With a bundle of fresh grass. Its owner is like a gem. Do not make the news of you rare as gold and gems,-Indulging your purpose to abandon me.

St. 2. 完,一'the leaves of pulse, or beans.' It is synonymous with H in the last stanza.

St.3. L.3 requires that we understand 11.1,2, not of the colt, but of its master. 首 (pe) 然, brightly,'-as if, where such a man came, he 思 is here the partibrightened every thing. cle; but not in 1.6. L.3 expresses the value which the writer set upon his friend, and what honours he would confer upon him, if he had only the power, as the reward of his merit. 逸 (一佚) 豫,—'idle case;' but not in a bad sense. 慎一勿遇, 'do not go to excess,' t.3; 音, 心, cat. 7, t. 1.

'guard against;' and this meaning goes on to in the next line, - 'strive against.'

The officer here appears with his purpose carried into effect,—living in retirement; but the writer still hopes that he will retain some connection with himself. 金玉 are used as verbs. 音, = 'news (相盟)."

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 苗, 朝, 遜, cat. 2: in 2, 蔻, 夕,,客,, cat. 5, t. 8: in 8, 來, 期, 思, cat. 3, t. 1: in 4, 谷, 束, 玉, cat. 3,

III. Hwang nëaou.

- 1 Yellow bird, yellow bird, Do not settle on the broussonetias. Do not eat my paddy. The people of this country Are not willing to treat me well. I will return, I will go back, Back to my country and kin.
- 2 Yellow bird, yellow bird, Do not settle on the mulberry trees, Do not eat my maize. The people of this country Will not let me come to an understanding with them. I will return, I will go back, Back to my brethren.
- Yellow bird, yellow bird, 3 Do not settle on the oaks,

Ode 3. Metaphorical. Some officer, who HAD WITHDRAWN TO ANOTHER STATE, FINDS HIS EXPECTATIONS OF THE PEOPLE THERE DISAPPOINT-ED, AND PROPOSES TO RETURN TO THE ROYAL DOMAIN. This piece is said in the Preface to have been in condemnation of king Seuen, but there is nothing in it which should make us connect it in any way with his reign. The view of Maou and Ching, who find in it the case of a wife put away by her husband, and proposing in con-sequence to return to her own family, is too observed that the yellow bird, the object of men's absurd to be dwelt on. Neither Yen Ts'an nor the K'ang-he editors have a word to say in its favour. And Choo is not quite correct in referring the piece to some one among the people. The speaker in it has 'a clan (万克),' and must have been some high officer.

Ll. 1, 3, in all the stt. These lines are meta-phorical.—say some, of the people who would not treat the speaker well; but Yen Ts'an has

父。我歸。旋處。可人。那黍。啄諸復言言與不之此我

Do not eat my grand millet.
The people of this country
I cannot dwell with.
I will return, I will go back,
Back to my uncles.

IV. Wo hing k'e yay.

- I travelled through the country,
 Where the Fetid tree grew luxuriant.
 Because of our affinity by marriage,
 I went to reside with you.
 But you do not entertain me;
 And I go back to my country and clan.
- 2 I travelled through the country,
 Gathering the sheep's-foot.
 Because of our affinity by marriage,
 I came to lodge with you.
 But you do not entertain me,
 And I will return, I will go back.

liking, was ill adapted for such an application. More likely is Këang's view, that by the bird the speaker intends himself; and I have therefore translated the first line in the singular.

—as in iii. X. 2. M.—as in I. x. VIII. 1. K; 'to peck,' 'to peck up grain with the bill.'

—as in the Shoo, III. i. Pt. ii. 18. —as in I. x. VIII. 3.

Li. 4-7. In 不 我 肯 穀, 穀-善, used as a verb, 'to treat well.' The corresponding line of st. 2—'I cannot come to an understanding with.' The people had not intelligence to understand the speaker's case. is the particle.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 穀, 栗, 穀,族, cat. 3, t. 3: in 2, 桑,粱,明*,兄*, cat. 10: in 3, 栩,黍,處,父, cat. 5, t. 2.

Ode 4. Narrative. An officer who had left the royal domain, and sought for protection in a State where he had affinities by marriage, relates his disappointment, and the unworthy cause of it.

MENT, AND THE UNWORTHY CAUSE OF IT.

Ll. 1, 2 in all the stt. intimate the sufferings
the writer endured after leaving his own State,

孤 以 特。求 新姻

I travelled through the country, 3 Gathering the pokeweed. You do not think of our old affinity. And seek to please your new relative. If indeed you are not influenced by her riches, You still are so by the difference [between the new and the old].

Sze kan.

兄茂如苞如南 及矣。松矣。竹山。幽

By the graceful sweep of these banks, With the southern hill, so calm in the distance, [Has the palace arisen], firm as the roots of a clump of bamboos. [With its roof] like the luxuriant head of a pine tree.

or the royal domain. 摆,—as in I. xv. I. 6. 溪 is perhaps the dock. The common name for it is that which I have given (羊蹄菜). Its leaves may be eaten in times of great scarcity. The Japanese figure of the is that of the pokeweed,--the phytolacca decandra, the leaves of which are said to be eaten, when very young, even in the United

Ll. 3-6, in stt. 1, 2. The party on whom the refugee threw himself had married some member of his family, perhaps a sister, thus forming the affinity by marriage (香烟). With him he thought at first he would find a permanent home (声), and then he would have been content with a temporary refuge (宿). 音,—as in I.iii. The 思 in 思 復, is no more than the =,-an expletive particle. In II. 3-6, of st. 3 it would appear that the refugee's friend had contracted a new marriage, displacing his relative from her proper place. The ব্রিয় in 1.4 seems to imply that the new connection had been formed, and therefore I translate by 'you seek to please.' 掉一匹, 'a mate.' The last two lines are quoted in the Ana., XII. x., but not so as to give any clear indication of their meaning. Choo thus expands them:— 'Although it is not on account of her riches that you despise my poverty, it is yet because of her newness that you are different from what you were (雖實不以彼之富而 厭我之貧,亦祇以其新而異 於故耳),成一誠, which is given in the Analects, 'though indeed.' 而其(or 派)一滴, 'it just is.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1,標,故,居,家*, cat. 5, t. 1: in 2, 蓬, 宿, 音, 復, cat. 8, t. 8: in 8, 营*, 特*, 富* 異, cat. 1, t. 8.

Ode 5. Narrative. On the completion of A PALACE; DESCRIPTION OF IT, AND GOOD WISHES. FOR THE BUILDER AND HIS POSTERITY. The old interpreters all say that the builder was king Seuen; and accepting their view, which is in itself not unlikely, though there is no evidence for it in the language of the piece, we must refer the time of the composition to the early period of his reign. This and the next ode, it is said follow expected others condemnature of is said, follow several others condemnatory of Seuen, the compiler being unwilling to dismiss him from the She under a cloud, for the services which he had rendered to the House of Chow were very great. The piece was probably made

May the brothers [here]
Be loving among themselves,
And have no schemings against one another!

- Having entered into the inheritance of his ancestors, He has built his chambers, five thousand cubits of walls, With their doors to the west and to the south. Here will he reside; here will he sit; Here will he laugh; here will he talk.
- 3 They bound the frames for the earth, exactly over one another;

 T'oh-t'oh went on the pounding;—

Impervious [the walls] to wind and rain, Offering no cranny to bird or rat.

A grand dwelling is it for our noble lord.

for a festival on the completion and dedication of the palace;—as Choo says, 築室既成,

The first four lines are descriptive of the situation and appearance of the palace as a whole. Even the critics of his school have abandoned the view of Maou who makes them descriptive of the character of king Seuen. 秩夫一有字, 'orderly,' 'graceful.' 干,—as in I.ix. VI.1. 'The southern hill' is the Chung-nan of I.xi. X., which rose right to the south of the western capital of Chow. Maou defines 幽幽 by 深遠, 'deep and distant.' L.3 is taken of the foundations of the palace, like the roots of a clump of bamboos, not spreading about, but going deep into the earth; and 1.4, of the upper portion of it. The last three lines are a prayer that it might be the abode of concord and harmony. 式 is the particle; 猶一誌, 'to plan,' 'to scheme.' As Yen Ts'an has it,—颐其入居此室之後,兄,兄弟名相和好,無有相圖者矣.

Stt. 2 and 3 describe mainly the process of the building, and more particularly of what we may call the chambers or private portions of it, which formed the residence of the king.

ini, 'to inherit,' 'to continue in succession.' Neither Medhurst nor Williams gives this meaning of the character; but it is found elsewhere in the She. 女性, 'a deceased mother,' is here used of female ancestors generally, and we need not refer it, as K'ang-shing does, to to Këang Yuen, the ancestress of the House of the words, but the feminine term is put first because of the requirements of the rhyme. 元,—see on iii. VII. 2. 爱, like 於 in II.1, 2,—'here.' Either 居 or 底 will admit the meaning of 'to sit,' which I have given to the latter. In st. 3, 約=束, 'to bind,' with reference to the boards forming the frames into which the earth and lime, which were to be beaten together so as to form the walls, were 閣, is descriptive of the frames

- Like a man on tip-toe, in reverent expectation;
 Like an arrow, flying rapidly;
 Like a bird which has changed its feathers;
 Like a pheasant on flying wings;
 Is the [hall] which our noble lord will ascend.
- 5 Level and smooth is the court-yard,
 And lofty are the pillars around it.
 Pleasant is the exposure of the chamber to the light,
 And deep and wide are its recesses;—
 Here will our noble lord repose.
- 6 On the rush-mat below, and that of fine bamboos above it, Here may he repose in slumber! May he sleep and awake, raised exactly one over another; 秦素. of the noise of the pounding. 仮 in ll. 3, 4, 5 has the sense of 所. 除二去, 'to be kept away;' 学二草大, 'honourable and great:'一'By which wind and rain will be kept away, and bird and rat; the place which our noble lord magnifies.' By 君子 we are to understand the king.

St. 4 is understood of the hall, or state public room, from which the private apartments of the palace led off; but I cannot undertake to point out the different parts or appearances of it which are intended by the separate lines.

In the taken as III — If you like it to a man on tip-toe, then his reverence (IIII) appeared in it; and so in the other lines. Compute account of Confucius in Ana. X. iii. S. The man is not standing on tiptoe, but moving forwards, rising on his toes, in the height of his reverence.

In the arrow in rapid flight, and so going straight.

St.5 庭 is here the open court, in front of the sleeping apartments, described as 殖殖一平正, 'level and smooth. 有覺 describes the pillars round it as 'high, large, and straight.' Ll.3,4 describe the chambers, where they looked out on the light (其正), and where they were dark on each side of the door in them (其冥). 曾曾一快快, 'pleasant,' 'lightsome.' 歲歲一深廣之親, 'deep and wide-like.'

In st. 6 we have the king sleeping and dreaming. 完 is a mat woven of rushes, over which is laid one of fine bamboo work (声). 乃 — 'and so (将 然之詞);' but from this point the author expresses his wishes:—the critics say, his prayers. The first 寝 is a noun,—'bei-chamber;' the second a verb, 'to sleep.' The critics say that 占 must here be [Saying] 'Divine for me my dreams. What dreams are lucky?

25

They have been of bears and grisly bears; They have been of cobras and [other] serpents.

- 7 The chief diviner will divine them.
 The bears and grisly bears
 Are the auspicious intimations of sons.
 The cobras and [other] serpents
 Are the auspicious intimations of daughters.
- Sons shall be born to him:—
 They will be put to sleep on couches;
 They will be clothed in robes;
 They will have sceptres to play with;
 Their cry will be loud.
 They will be [hereafter] resplendent with red knee-covers,
 The [future] king, the princes of the land.

understood of the king's divining his dreams for himself; but the $\frac{1}{2}$ stands in the way of such a view. $\frac{1}{2}$ is said to be like a bear, but with longer head, and higher, of immense strength. I take with Yen Ts an to be i. q. $\frac{1}{2}$, which Williams says is 'an adder, cobra, or venomous serpent.' Choo says it is 'a serpent with a small neck, and large head, the body like a variegated ribbon, sometimes 7 or 8 cubits long.'

St. 7. 大人 is an officer of the department of the grand diviner (大卜之版); perhaps that officer himself.

Stt. 8,9 are translated by Morrison in his dictionary, under the character $\frac{1}{2}$, but not quite correctly. They show very clearly the different estimation in which boys and girls were held in ancient China, even as they are held at the present day. 載 is the initial particle. 浸,衣 and 弄 have all a passive, or hophal sense. The boy is placed on a couch,—to do him honour; the daughter on the ground, to show her meanness. 裳, 'the lower garment,' must be taken for robes generally. The boy is to be arrayed in full dress, while a swaddling cloth (常一课) will be sufficient for the girl. 璋 is a piece of jade fashioned into the shape of a half-mace (羊圭). used in worshipping Spirits, and as a symbol of dignity. The boy gets one of these to play with, while the girl gets only a tile, the emblem of her future employment, when, on a tile upon her knee, she will have to twist the threads of hemp. The cry of the boy is loud (中皇一大).

Ll. 6, 7 of st. 8 are descriptive of the sons when they shall be grown up, and brilliant

。載 发 之 子。 之地。截 唯非之陽。載

Daughters shall be born to him:— They will be put to sleep on the ground: They will be clothed with wrappers; They will have tiles to play with. It will be theirs neither to do wrong nor to do good. Only about the spirits and the food will they have to think. And to cause no sorrow to their parents.

> VI. Woo yang.

Who can say that you have no sheep? There are three hundred in [each] herd. Who says that you have no cattle? There are ninety, which are black-lipped. Your sheep come, Horned, but all agreeing.

(皇=煌煌) in the red apron of the king, or of the princes of a State. 室家 is here a designation for a State or the kingdom (國 與 天下之通稱). One of the sons would be 王, king; the others could be 君, lords of States:-in either case they could call all the 'Houses and clans' in their dominions their own. Very different is the future of the daughters, as 儀=善, 'good,' in sketched out in st. 9. contrast with 非. Morrison, however, greatly errs and exaggerates, when he translates 1.5 by 'She is incapable either of evil or good.' To be obedient comprises the whole duty of woman. She ought not in the family to take the initiative. As Choo says, 'If a daughter do nothing wrong (無美), that is enough. she should be distinguished for what is good. (有養) is not an auspicious thing to be desired for her.' She has her duties of housewifery. FLOCKS AND HERDS; WITH AN AUSPICE OF THE Which are expressed in l.6, and she must not PROSPERITY OF THE KINGDOM. There is nothing occasion sorrow to her parents. 'sorrow,' 'grief.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 7, 11, cat. 14; 苞*,茂*,好*,猹,cat.8,t.2: in 2, 祖, 堵, 戶, 處. 語, cat. 5, t.2: in 3, 閱, 臺, cat.5, t.3; 除. 去, 丰, cat.5, t.1: in 4, 量, 棘, 革 , cat. l, t. 8; 飛, 隮, cat. 15, t. 1: in 5. 庭, 楹, 正. 冥. 宛, cat. 11: in 6, 管, 寢, cat.7, t.1; 與夢, cat.6; 何.罷*, 蛇*, cat. 17: in 7, 罷*,蛇*, ib.; 祥,祥, cat. 10: in 8, 床,裳,瑄,晫*, 皇,干, ib.: in 9, 地. 裼, (prop. cat. 16), 瓦, 儀.. 議., 惟*, cat. 17.

Ode 6. Narrative. Supposed to celebrate THE LARGENESS AND CONDITION OF KING SEVEN'S

Your cattle come, Flapping their ears.

- Some are descending among the mounds; Some are drinking at the pools; Some are lying down, some are moving about. Your herdsmen come, Bearing their rain-coats and bamboo-hats, Or carrying on their backs their provisions. In thirties are the creatures arranged according to their colour; For your victims there is abundant provision.
- Your herdsmen come, With their large faggots, and smaller branches, And with their prey of birds and beasts. Your sheep come, Vigorous and strong, in the language to make us refer the piece to king Seuen; but it suits the early period of his reign well enough, and shows how under him prosperity was again revisiting all the departments of the kingdom's wealth.

St. 1. It might have been said in some previous reigns that the king had no flocks and herds;—it could not be said now. There were 300 sheep in a flock, and we are left to suppose there were many such flocks. There were 90 black-lipped (黄牛黑脣日椁) cattle, and we are left to suppose there were many more that could be otherwise described. L.6 describes the sheep as not butting one another with their horns. The Shwoh-wan defines tseihtseil by [1], 'harmonious.' Shih-shih is explained as in the translation, the motion of the cars being indicative of health.

St. 2. 訊 = 到, 'to move.' The first three pleasure, moving about as their inclination prompted them, not driven about or thwarted by their keepers; and herein was the secret of their good condition. The next three introduce the herdsmen, at their ease as much as their charges. The rain cloak (美), made of bamboo or palm leaves, and the hat made of splints (A), still meet us everywhere in China. = 掲, 'to carry in the hand.' iii. III. 2. We must suppose that here is a case of 毛物,-the arrangement of the animals according to their colour. It is a victim for sacrifice. This use of the sheep and cattle is specified merely as one of the various uses for which they served.

St. 3. Here the herdsmen are mentioned first. They had leisure, through their wise management of their charge, to collect firewood for lines show us the flocks left to follow their own | themselves, and to snare or shoot birds and ani-

None injured, no infection in the herd. At the wave of the [herdsman's] arm, All come, all go up [into the fold].

Your herdsmen shall dream,—
Of multitudes and then of fishes;
Of the tortoise-and-serpent; and then of the falcon banners.
The chief diviner will divine the dreams,
How the multitudes dissolving into fishes,
Betoken plentiful years;
How the tortoise-and-serpent dissolving into the falcon banners,
Betoken the increasing population of the kingdom.

VII. Tsëeh nan shan.

爾民師赫巖維南節本山節瞻。具尹。赫巖。石山。彼南

Lofty is that southern hill,
With its masses of rocks!
Awe-inspiring are you, O [Grand-] master Yin,
And the people all look to you!

mals. 素 and 素 are distinguished, as in the translation. Yen Ts'an interprets 1.3 of the work of the shepherds in dividing the males and females of their charge, and numbering them, but it stands in too close a connection with 1.2 to admit of such a view. 以一取, 'to take,' 'to bring.' 此样,一'females and males;' often used for 会员, 'birds, and beasts of chase.' L. 6. 震 is defined by 居, 'failure,' 'deficiency,' 'injury;' and 所 by 星灰, 'sickness of the herd.' This meaning is not given in the dictionary. The word properly means 'a mountain falling or slipping,' and is here applied to 'a flock going to ruin.' 比 here denotes the whole arm.

mous with 畢, 'all. 升一入 牢,—as in the translation.

St. 4. Choo says he does not understand the interpretation of the dreams here given, but gives on other authority than his own that which I have followed. It,—as in the prec. ode. is taken of 'multitudes' of men, which gradually give way () to swarms of fishes. The chaou (see i. VIII. 2, 3) was used, it is said, to collect the people in the suburbs and the country; the yu (see I. iv. IX. 2), those in the more thickly inhabited parts; so that the former dissolving into the latter gave the idea of increasing numbers. \subseteq \tilde{x},—as in st. 8 of last ode. \subseteq \tilde{x},—'the app. of multitudes.'

A fire burns in their grieving hearts; They do not dare to speak of you even in jest. The kingdom is verging to extinction;— How is it that you do not consider the state of things?

2 Lofty is that southern hill,
And vigorously grows the vegetation on it!
Awe-inspiring are you, O [Grand-] master Yin,
Dut how is it that you are so unjust?
Heaven is continually redoubling its afflictions;
Deaths and disorder increase and multiply;

The rhymes are—in st. 1. 羣, 椁, cat. 13; were charged with the highest functions of the state. Keih-foo of iii.III. was a Yin, and the minister. against whom this ode is directed. was probably his son or grandson. In st. 3 he is called 大師, grand-master. and was thus one of 'the three kung,' the highest ministers at the court of Chow;—see the Shoo, Vxx. 3. We must believe, indeed, that he was the chief of the three that he was a Yin, and the minister, against whom this ode is directed, was probably his son or grandson. In st. 3 he is one of 'the three kung,' the highest ministers at the court of Chow;—see the Shoo, Vxx. 3. We must believe, indeed, that he was the chief of the three kung,' the highest functions of the state. Keih-foo of iii.III. was a Yin, and the minister, against whom this ode is directed, was probably his son or grandson. In st. 3 he is one of 'the three kung,' the highest functions of the state. Keih-foo of iii.III. was a Yin, and the minister, against whom this ode is directed, was probably his son or grandson. In st. 3 he is one of 'the three kung,' the highest ministers at the court of Chow;—see the Shoo, Vxx. 3. We must believe, indeed, that he was a Yin, and the minister, against whom this ode is directed. was probably his son or grandson. In st. 3 he is one of 'the three kung,' the highest ministers at the court of Chow;—see the Shoo, Vxx. 3. We must believe, indeed, that he was a Yin, and the minister, against whom this ode is directed. was probably his son or grandson. In st. 3 he is one of 'the three kung,' the highest ministers at the court of the co

St. 1. The southern hill is the same as that in V. 1. The describes its appearance as 'lefty;' and M. I. the app. of the masses of rocks on it. What that mountain with its frowning rocks, was among other hills, that the grand-master Yin was among other men, in the estimation of the writer. He was the clan name of a great family in the royal domain, members of which, through successive reigns.

state. Keih-foo of iii.III. was a Yin, and the minister, against whom this ode is directed, was probably his son or grandson. In sta he is called 太 師, grand-master.' and was thus one of the three king, the highest ministers at the court of Chow;—see the Shoo, VXX.3. We must believe, indeed, that he was the chief of the three, the chief administrator of the govt. 具=俱.-win I,vii IV, cd at this time. the mind distressed, as if scorched by fire.' The people dared not speak even in jest of the minister's doings, but the writer does not hesitate freely to expose them, and even gives his name in st.10. 本二終, 'in the end.' 斯, 'to be cut down.'— 純, 'to be extinguished.' We must take 1.7 as speaking of what would be the issue of the state of things, 監=視. 'to see,' 'to end 民一'since' 篇 = 顺, 'to see,' 'to observe.' LS is addressed to the minister; and to the king, as Yen Ts-an interprets it. St. 2. Choo acknowledges that he does not understand 12. Acc. to the view which I have followed by 有實 is intended the regention on the hill,—its 'fruit (草木.川之質 也), and 其猗—猗猗.in.Lv.L1. The energy of nature appeared everywhere on the hill: there was no partiality in it, as in the administration of the minister. 謂何一如

何;—see Wang Yin-che on 謂. 方='now,' as in I.iii.XIII.1; but not for the first time, so that it='still,' 'ever,' as in i. VI. 3.

吞 'to continue,' 'to redouble.'

是維, 天子是眺。 是維, 天子是眺。 是維, 天子是眺。 是維, 天子是眺。 是維, 天子是眺。 是本, 天子是眺。 與 天, 不中昊天。

No words of satisfaction come from the people; And yet you do not correct nor bemoan yourself!

3 The Grand-master Yin
Is the foundation of our Chow,
And the balance of the State is in his hands.
He should be keeping together the four quarters [of the kingdom];
He should be aiding the Son of Heaven,
So as to preserve the people from going astray.
O unpitying great Heaven,

It is not right he should reduce us all to such misery!

4 Doing nothing himself personally,
The people have no confidence in him.
By making no inquiry, and no trial of their services,
He should not deal deceitfully with superior men.

sickness.' The term is used of epidemics. 完善言, 'good words,' words expressive of pleasure and satisfaction. L. 8 is addressed reproachfully to the minister, unmoved by the prevailing troubles. 懂 is here 章, 'have.' It also means 宗, 'to be painful;' but that meaning, though adopted by Yen Ts'an, is not so suitable in this place. K'ang-shing construes 世 章, but he makes the coucluding 達 an exclamation of the writer. 'Alas!'

St. 3. 尹氏.—like 李氏, in Ana. III. i. 氏—本. 'the root,' or 'the foundation,' meaning that the fortunes of the House of Chow depended or rested on the minister Yin. 均一平, 'even,' or 'that which makes even.' It

St. 4. The interpretation of this st. mainly depends on the meaning we attach to l. 4. Choo takes 君子 there of the king (若子); Yen

By dismissing them on the requirement of justice, Mean men would not be endangering [the common weal]; And his mean relatives Would not be in offices of importance.

- 5 Great Heaven, unjust,
 Is sending down these exhausting disorders.
 Great Heaven, unkind,
 Is sending down these great miseries.
 Let superior men come [into office],
 And that would bring rest to the people's hearts.
 Let superior men do justly,
 And the animosities and angers would disappear.
 - 6 O unpitying, great Heaven, There is no end to the disorder!

Ts'an of superior men, officers who really deserved the name. Maou agrees with Choo as to the particular phrase; but his construction of the whole st. is hopelessly involved and obscure. Yen Ts'an appears to be right. 君于stands in opposition to // in 1. 6. The whole st. condemns the minister for his own idle occupation of his office, and delegating his duties to his relatives, mean creatures, unworthy of trust. L.1 describes the minister's personal inattention to business (好 and 親 are synonymous), and 1.2 its natural consequence. Ll. 3, 4 describe his neglect of good officers. 閉 and 任 must be closely allied in meaning; and #='to employ in office,'-as in 1.8.

Ll. 5, 6 tell how he should dismiss his mean employes. 云 is the initial particle. 云 中, 'to be just,' and 己一口, 'to stop,' 'to have done with (影景).' 巧一行, 'to endanger.'

Ll. 7, 8 tell us who his employes were, and what would be the consequence of decisive dealing with them. 野童,—'fragmentary,' 'small-looking.' 'The father of a son-in-law is called 烘; two sons-in-law call each other 玩;' 烘二一字,'thick,' 'substantial.' 無 仁,—'to be employed in a substantial—remunerative—office.'

substantial—remunerative—office.'
St. 5 first attributes the misfortunes of the kingdom to Heaven, and then shows how the employment of proper men would remedy them.

(中一口, 'fair,' 'just.' 副一副, 'disorders.'
The dictionary explains it by 'litigations,' 'wranglings;' but its meaning must be more general; corresponding to 元 in 1.4. 足三五, 'to come to.' 周一皇, 'to rest.' 違三遠, 'to be far away.'

St. 6. L. 2. 定一止, 'to stop,' 'to end. L. 3=月月益思,—as in the translation.

With every month it continues to grow,
So that the people have no repose.
I am as if intoxicated with the grief of my heart.
Who holds the ordering of the kingdom?
Not attending himself to the government,
The issue is toil and pain to the people.

- 7 I yoke my four steeds,
 My four steeds, long-necked.
 I look to the four quarters [of the kingdom];
 Distress is everywhere; there is nowhere I can drive to.
- 8 Now your evil is rampant,
 And I see your spears.
 Again you are pacified and friendly,
 As if you were pledging one another.
- 9 From great Heaven is the injustice, And our king has no repose. [Yet] he will not correct his heart, And goes on to resent endeavours to rectify him.

式 and 斯 are the particles. L.5. 壁一河 病, 'disease induced by spirits,'—'to be intoxicated, stupified, by drinking.' The answer to l.6 would be, 'The Grand-master Yin.' 成 is best translated by a general term. Some make it here—平, 'the pacification.'

St. 7 is intended graphically to set forth the disorder prevailing all through the States of the kingdom. The writer would fain go to some place of quiet, but no such place was to be found. E.,—'the app. of being drawn back, and small,'—'to be in distress.' E.,—'to drive swiftly;' here—'to go.'

St. 8 sets forth the uncertain humour of the 'creatures,' to whose misconduct the troubles of the time were owing. 其 and 堂 are synonymous, or nearly so,—'to be pacified,' 'to be pleased.'

萬以爾式王以作家對那。高心。訛認。究誦。從

10 I, Këa-foo, have made this song,
To lay bare the king's disorders.
If you would but change your heart,
And nourish the myriad States!—

VIII. Ching yueh.

1 In the first month [of summer] the hoar-frost abounds,
And my heart is wounded with sorrow.
The false calumnies of the people
Also wax greater and greater.
I think how I stand alone,
And the sorrow of my heart grows intense.
Alas! through my anxious cares,
My hidden sorrow goes on to make me ill.

St. 9. Choo gives an active meaning both to 平 and 正.—'Yin is unjust, as if Heaven made him so, and therefore we read 吴 天 不…; and still he does not correct his heart, but resents the efforts of the men who would rectify him?' I agree with him in taking 1.3 of the minister, and not, as Yen Ts'an, of the king.

St. 10. Here at last the king is openly addressed. The writer, in the conclusion, fearlessly discloses his name, and intimates that there was one more guilty even than the guilty minister. A Këa-foo from the royal court is twice montioned in the Ch'un Ts'ëw, in the time of duke Hwan, as coming on messages to Loo. He would be a son or grandson of the writer of this ode.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 嚴. 赡*. 骸, 骸, 嘶, 脍, cat. 8: in 2, 猗*, 何, 蹇, 多, 烧, 些, cat. 17: in 3, 師, 氐, 維, 毗, 迷, 師, cat. 15, t. 1; in 4, 親, 信, cat. 12, t. 1; 仕, 子, 已, 殆, 仕, cat. 1, t. 2: in 5, 傭, 訩, cat. 9; 惠, 戾, 屆, 闕, cat. 15, t. 3; 夷, 違, ib., t. 1: in 6, 定, 生, 寕, 醒, 成, 政, 姓, cat. 11: in 7, 領 (prop. cat. 12), 騁, ib.: in 8, 矛*, 醻, cat. 3, t. 1: in 9, 平*, 寕, 正, cat. 11: in 10, 誦, 副, 邦, cat. 9.

Ode. 8. Narrative, allusive and metaphorical. A LAMENTATION OVER THE MISERIES OF THE KINGDOM AND THE RUIN COMING ON IT, ALL THROUGH THE KING'S EMPLOYMENT OF WORTHLESS CREATURES, AND HIS INDULGENCE OF HIS FAVOURITE, PAOU SZE. The mention of Paou Sze in st. 8 determines the date of this composition as belonging to the reign of king Yëw, unless, indeed, we ought to translate there in the past tense, which is not likely. The piece is long, and, I confess, wearisome, not being sufficiently specific. There is a good deal of difficulty, and consequently of difference among the critics, in the interpretation of many passages in it.

- Was it to make me suffer this pain?
 [Why was this time] not before me?
 Or [why was it] not after me?
 Their good words are [only] from the mouth;
 Their bad words are [only] from the mouth.
 The sorrow of my heart becomes greater,
 And because of this I incur contempt.
- 3 My sorrowing heart is very sad;
 I think of my unfortunate position.
 The innocent people
 Will all be reduced to servitude with me.
 Alas for us!
 From whom shall I henceforth get support?

St. 1. By 正月 all the critics understand the 6th month of Chow, or the 4th month of the Hea dyn.,-the 1st month, i.e., of summer, when the yang or masculine energy of nature was supposed to have the field to itself. Hom-frost would only have been natural in the first month of the year, either of Chow or Hea. Ying-tah quotes a passage from Tso K ew-ming, under the 17th year of duke Chaon, where 1 | | | is used as here. 訛言一說言, 'calumnious speeches.' 拟一大. 'prent.' is simply 京京一大, 'great;' Maou an expletive. makes the characters—'chronic.' 'carefulness,' 'anxiety.' Maou defines both and 痒 by 病, 'to be sick;' Choo explains the former by Mg, 'hidden,' 'secret,'-like a rat in his hole, unknown by men.

St. 2. Macu absurdly makes the kings Wan and Woo to be the 'parents' appealed to here, and to mean 'us,' all the people of the kingdom. The writer, in his sickness, appeals to his parents, and complains of his birth in such a time of misery and wickedness. Ll.3,4 are expanded in the 'Complete Digest,'一乃不自我之後,不自我之後,而適當此時; 'so that I was not born earlier or later, but just at this time.' 自 is explained by 從, 'from;' but we must take it as if it were 在, 'in.' 莠言,—'weedy words,'=evil words, words of slander. Ll.5,6 describe the character of the time, as devoid of all slucerity. Men's words of praise or blame, were from the mouth only, not from the heart. 愈 愈,—'waxes more and more.'

St. 8. 學學 expresses the intensity of the grief. 耐一福, 'happiness;' so that 無承二本, 'not to be fortunate.' In l. 6 we must take the term differently 并一具, 'all together,'—himself and the innocent people. 臣僕,—'servants and slaves.' Criminals and captives were anciently made such. 斯

I see a crow which will rest,

—But on whose house?

- Look into the middle of the forest;
 There are [only] large faggots and small branches in it.
 The people now amidst their perils
 Look to Heaven, all dark.
 But let its determination be fixed,
 And there is none whom it will not
 There is the great God,—
 Does He hate any one?
- 5 If one say of a hill that it is low,
 There are its ridges, and its large masse.
 The false calumnies of the people,—

is the final particle. L. 6 is expanded—未知將復從何人而受訴, so that 何 is governed by 從, and we may take 丁 as the particle. Ll. 7,8 are illustrative of the uncertainty of the writer's condition in the future. 爱—a pregnant 於, 'here:'—'I see a crow; here it rests.'

St. 4. A. as in iii. III. 6, A. and A. as in VI. 3. The meaning of II. 1.2 is variously determined. Acc. to the view of the old interpreters, which I have followed, the forest, with only some faggots and twigs left in it, is emblematic of the ravages of oppressive govt. in the court and kingdom. Choo gives quite a difft. view — In a forest you can easily distinguish the large faggots from the small branches, while Heaven appears unable to discriminate between the good and the bad.

es, while Heaven appears unable to discriminate between the good and the bad.' 夢夢一不明, without intelligence.' 克一及, 'to come to.' Ll. 5, 6 are expanded—及其有定,则未有不為天所勝 differ cat. Lis only for a time that Heaven is indiffer cat. Lis only for a time that Heaven is inferior of Heavent to the affairs of men. In l. 7, instead the Supreven, we have the personal God, 上前, names, 天ame Ruler.' The account of those two accepted by Chi d上前, given by Ching E, and absurd:—'With the reference to its form, we speak of reference to its form, we speak rule, we speak of reference to its lordship and rule, we speak of reference to its lordship and the are as good judged the 宇宙 the list meant by Ching was; and however he Supreme Power, as be explained, it certainly for the use of it may be explained, it certainly present the use of it may above and beyond the visit recarries our thoughts above and beyond the visit recarries our thoughts the particle. Wang ite Yin-che explains here by :- 'who is hat asked by Him?' St. 5. Ll. 1.2 contain an instance of an assertion the evidence of the absurtant nec of an assertion the everybody's eyes.

How is it that you do not repress them?
You call those experienced ancients;
You consult the diviner of dreams:
They all say, 'We are wise;
But who can distinguish the male and female crow?'

- We say of the heavens that they are high,
 But I dare not but stoop under them.
 We say of the earth that it is thick,
 But I dare not but walk daintily on it.
 For my freely expressing myself thus,
 I have reason, I have good ground.
 Alas for the men of this time!
 Why are they such cobras and efts?
- 7 Look at that rugged and stony field;— Luxuriantly rises in it the springing grain! [But] Heaven moves and shakes me, As if it could not overcome me.

St. 6. 局 一曲 身, 'to bend the body.' 第一小步, 'to walk with short, careful steps.' It might seem strange that the writer should say this of himself (就一號戶, 'to call out,' 'speak loudly,') but he had ground for doing so in the conduct of the royal favourites. 倫 and. 青 are explained by 道 and 理, 'right' and 'reason.' 度,—as in V. 5. Williams says of 場,—'a kind of spotted lizard or eft.'

St. 7. 阪田, 'hillside fields,' i. e., rugged and stony. 薨,—'luxuriant., 特~特生 They sought me [at first] to be a pattern [to them], [Eagerly] as if they could not get me. [Now] they regard me with great animosity, And will not use my strength.

- 8 My heart with its sorrow
 Feels as if it were tied and bound by something.
 This government of the present time,—
 How oppressive it is!
 The flames, when they are blazing,
 May still perhaps be extinguished;
 But the majestic honoured capital of Chow
 Is being destroyed by Sze of Paou.
- 9 This issue is ever my anxious thought.
 Moreover, you have the embarrassment of soaking rain.
 Your carriage is loaded,
 And if you throw away your wheel-aids,

Ll. 5—8 speak of the treatment which the speaker had received at court, or from the king's favourites,—prized at first, and then maltreated and disowned. 求我則一求我以為法則一定我以為"說解"的 as in the translation. 化化一"like so many enemies." 力. as a verb,—用力. 'to use the strength,' standing for ability renerally.

St. S. Ll. 1. 2.—comp. I. xiii. II. 3, and xiv. III. 1. 正元氏, 'the govt.' 爱, 'this,' is to be construed with 正. 胡然.—as in Liv. III.2. Ll. 5. 6,—comp. the Shoo. IV. vii. Pt. i. 12. 宗 居.—see on the Shoo, V. xiv. 21. The lady Sze of Paou was the favourite concubine of king Yëw. For her sake he degraded his proper queen: and his besotted attachment to her was the cause of his own death, and the greatest miseries to the kingdom. Her history is graphically related in the 无礼 元义二次 cally related in the 列國志. 威一城· St. 9. In this stanza and the next, the king is introduced under the figure of a waggoner, and warning is addressed to him,—as if with a feeling of despair. I translate l.1 after Yen Ts-an, who gives for it,—我永思其終. 第一 'to be in distress from.' 陰雨,—as in I. xiv. IV. 4. 最 in I.3—'is loaded,' and at the end

Your load will be overturned, And you will be crying, 'O sir, help me!'

- 10 If you do not throw away your wheel-aids,
 Which give assistance to the spokes;
 And if you constantly look after the driver,
 You will not overturn your load,
 And in the end will get over the most difficult places;
 But you have not thought of this.
- 11 The fish are in the pond,
 But they cannot enjoy themselves.
 Although they dive to the bottom,
 They are very clearly seen.
 My sorrowing heart is deeply pained,
 When I think of the oppression in the kingdom.
- 12 They have their good spirits, And their fine viands along with them.

of l. 5, it='the load.' I have translated in simply by 'wheel-aids.' They appear to have been poles that could be used, on occasion, to prevent the wheels from sliding, or applied to the spokes to heave the wheel out of a rut. Both Williams and Medhurst describe them erroneously, the former calling them 'the rack or cheeks of a cart,' and the latter, 'the poles of a cart, attached to it on each side, and which may be taken off occasionally.' has here the meaning of 'to overthrow.'

'I is equivalent to 'Sir.' In his distress the waggoner would thus address any one who, he thought, would help him.

St. 10. 無 may be taken as in the translation, or as—其, 'don't.' 員 (yun)—益, 'to be of use to.' 車一本, 'to get through, or over.' 純一本, 'yory' 'oxceedingly'

'very,' 'exceedingly.'
St. 11. The proper place for the fish is in the river or lake. In the clear pond it cannot escape being taken. This is supposed to illustrate the position of men of worth in the existing state of things.

seen.' The two That are mere particles.

St. 12. The first four lines describe the wealth and jollity of the unworthy favourites of

They assemble their neighbours, And their relatives are full of their praise. When I think of my solitariness, My sorrowing heart is full of distress.

13 Mean-like, those have their houses;
Abjects, they will have their emoluments.
But the people now have no maintenance.
For Heaven is pounding them with its calamities,
The rich may get through,
But alas for the helpless and solitary!

IX. Shih yueh che këaou.

食日辛朔之十章 之十之。有卯。日交。月 交月

1 At the conjunction [of the sun and moon] in the tenth month, On the first day of the moon, which was sin-maou, The sun was eclipsed, the court; the last two, the writer's distress in thinking of the existing disorder, and the coming ruin. 彼, 'those,'一彼人, 'those creatures.' Both and lare defined by 合, 'to assemble.' 旨愿一as in IV.1, 2. is explained in the dict., with reference to this passage, by 'to be familiar with and keep about.' Yen Ts'an quotes Wang Gan-shih's account of the term,—'to proclaim another's praises.' 说话,—'to be pained.'

 reference to this passage, is explained in the dictionary by ; but we must make a distinction between the two terms. See Mencius, I. Pt. ii. V. 3.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 霜, 傷, 將, 京 痒, cat. 10: in 2, 滴*, 後, 口, 口, 愈*, 侮*, cat. 4, t. 2; in 3, 禄, 僕, 禄, 屋, cat. 8, t. 8: in 4, 蒸,夢*, 勝, 憎, cat. 6: in 5, 陵, 懲, 夢, 雄*, ib.: in 6, 局, (prop. cat. 8), 蹐, 脊, 蜴, cat. 16, t. 8: in 7, 特,克, 則,得,力, cat. 1, t. 8: in 8, 結 (prop. cat. 12), 厲, 滅, 威, cat. 15, t. 8: in 9, 雨, 輔, 子, cat. 5, t. 2: in 10, 輻*, 載,意, cat. 1, t. 8: in 11, 沼, 樂*, 炤, 虐*, and 殺 of 12, cat. 2: in 12, 鄰 (prop. cat. 12), 云, 怨, cat. 13: in 13, 屋, 穀, 滁, 椓, 獨, cat. 3, t. 3.

A thing of very evil omen.

Then the moon became small,
And now the sun became small.

Henceforth the lower people
Will be in a very deplorable case.

2 The sun and moon announce evil,
Not keeping to their proper paths.
All through the kingdom there is no [proper] government,
Because the good are not employed.
For the moon to be eclipsed
Is but an ordinary matter.
Now that the sun has been eclipsed,—
How bad it is!

Ode 9. Natrative. Lamentation of an officer over the productes, celestial and terrestrial, betokening the ruin of Chow. He expounds the true causes of these and the abounding misery; names the chief culprits; and declares his own determination to remain at his post of duty.

St. 1. Ll. 1-3 give us a certain date for the composition of this ode, and determine it as belonging to the reign of king Yew, and not, as Ching Henen maintained, to that of his grandfather Le. The eclipse is verified, by calculation, as having occurred, on Aug. 29. B. C. 775, the very day and month assigned to it in the text. This was the 6th year of Yew's reign. 10th month is that of the Chow calendar; and not the Hea, as Choo says; and this fact may lead us to question the common view of the critics that the months mentioned in the She are all those of the Hëa year. 日有食乙二日有 所食之者, 'the sun was eaten by something.' All the eclipses mentioned in the 'Spring and Autumn' are reported in this way, with the addition of EX, when the eclipse was total. -We have here the earliest date in Chinese history about which there can be no dispute.

L.4. 即一民, 'bad,' evil.' The 方 and the 之 must both be disregarded as mere expletives. Ll. 5. 6. The critics all interpret these lines, as if they compressed in brief space what is said in II. 5—8 of the next stanza; but I cannot find all that meaning in them. Rather, the writer is referring in 1.5 to eclipses of the moon which had occurred, so that 次, 'that and this,' are equivalent to 'then' and 'now.' In Il. 7. 8 we have the inference of his superstition, confirmed, no doubt, by the state of things existing around him.

St. 2. Ll. 1, 2 are the judgment of superstition. Eclipses happen because the sun and moon keep their proper paths; and they do not portend evil. Ll. 3, 4. Me may refer to all the feudal States as well as to the 'middle State' itself, or the characters may, as is more likely, indicate the royal State only. In the Tso-chuen, under the 7th year of duke Chraou, we read, 'By the disregard of government in the State, and not employing the good, you bring on yourself reproof from the irregularities of the sun and moon.' Aff., in l. 6, = 'only.' L. 8. 'In what not good?'—Le., it is bad in every way.

- 3 Grandly flashes the lightning of the thunder;—
 There is a want of rest, a want of good.
 The streams all bubble up and overflow.
 The crags on the hill-tops fall down.
 High banks become valleys;
 Deep valleys become hills.
 Alas for the men of this time!
 How does [the king] not stop these things?
 - Hwang-foo is the president;
 Fan is the minister of instruction;
 Këa-pih is the [chief] administrator;
 Chung-yun is the chief cook;
 Tsow is the recorder of the interior;
 K'wei is master of the horse;
 Yu is captain of the guards;
 And the beautiful wife blazes, now in possession of her place.

St. 3. Not only were there eclipses portending evil; earth, as well as heaven, had its voices The disastrous occurrences reof admonition. lated here, however, need not all be referred to the year of the eclipse. As a matter of history, the streams of the King, the Wei, and the Loh, are reported to have become dry in the 3d year of Yew, when sundry landslips also took place. Yeh-yeh,-'the app. of fire;' here, of lightning flashing. 震一盲, 'thunder.' 湘,- 'to bubble up, as boiling water, or a spring.' IE,— 'to leap up, as a horse;' here=灵史, 'to mount.' 山家-山頂· 'a hill-top.' 崒-崔嵬· 'lofty,' 'rocky peaks.' We must suppose that the subject of the 8th line is the king, and to him also, or to him and his ministers (在位 之人), many refer the 人 in 1.7; but I prefer taking generally. As in st. 1 of the last ode.

St. 4. The writer here names the principal ministers and favourites of the king, to whom he attributed the misgovernment and miseries of the kingdom, referring also to Paou Sze. The critics all say that 皇父,家伯, and 仲元 are the designations of the parties intended, and the 晋, 果. 既, and 福 are clan names. The 子 in 果子 is simply our 'Mr.' There is nothing in the characters 帅士, 'high noble and officer,' to determine the nature of the office held by Hwang-foo. But he was evidently the leading minister in the govt., and was probably one of the 公, of equal rank with the Grand-master Yin of ode VII., sharing with him the general administra-

This Hwang-foo
Will not acknowledge that he is acting out of season.
But why does he call us to action,
Wtihout coming and consulting with us?
He has removed our walls and roofs,
And our fields are all either a marsh or a moor.
He says, 'I am not injuring you;
The laws require that thus it should be?'

6 Hwang-foo is very wise;
He has built a great city for himself in Hëang.
He chose three men as his ministers,
All of them indeed of great wealth.
He could not bring himself to leave a single minister,
Who might guard our king.

tion, and somehow, at the time when this ode was written, the more prominent in the conduct of affairs. 辛 is taken as—家辛. On this and 司徒, see the Shoo, V.7. 膳,—'provisions dressed for the table;'膳夫='chief cook.' 內史,—see on the Shoo, V. x. 13. 趣馬,—see on the Shoo V. xiz. 8, though the office would seem here to be more important than in that passage. 旨所兵,—see on the Shoo, V. ii. 3. L. 8 speaks of Paou Sze, who was raised to the dignity of queen in Yew's 5th year. She was now secure in her place (方底=方 居其所), and supreme influence.

St. 5. In this st. the writer identifies himself with the people, for we cannot suppose that he was himself one of those whose houses were thrown down, and who were obliged to follow Hwang-foo to Hëang. 河,—as in I. vii. IV. 2, 3. I. 2. 'How does he say that it is not the time? i. e., he will not acknowledge that he is acting out of season in calling us to remove elsewhere, when we have not been consulted, and when we should be attending to our husbandry;—as Choo has it, 皇父不自以 爲不時. 作=動, 'to move,' 'to call to move.' [] = , 'to come to.' To illustrate Il. 3-6, Këang Ping-chang refers to the addresses of Pwan-kang to the people when he wished to remove his capital to another site; see the Shoo, IV. vii. 茎 must here be used for 'roofs.' 卒=悲, 'all.' The fields would be either laid under water () , or covered with useless regetation (菜), according to 戕一害, 'to injure,' L. 8 their situation. means that the rules of propriety and govt. required that the masses of the people should do whatever might thus be required of them by their superiors.

St. 6. P.,—as in VIII. 5. There is irony in the term. Heang was a district of the royal domain.—in the present dis. of Mang (1111), dep. Hwae-king, Ho-nan. This had been assigned to Hwang-foo, and here he was establish-

He [also] selected those who had chariots and horses. To go and reside in Heang.

- I have exerted myself to discharge my service,
 And do not dare to make a report of my toils.
 Without crime or offense of any kind.
 Slanderous mouths are loud against me.
 [But] the calamities of the lower people
 Do not come down from Heaven.
 A multitude of [fair] words, and hatred behind the back.—
 The earnest, strong pursuit of this is from men.
- S Distant far is my village.
 And my dissatisfaction is great.
 In other quarters there is ease.
 And I dwell here alone and sorrowful.
 Every body is going into retirement.

一大邑. 'a grancin' 三有事, 'inse 一大邑. 'a grancin' 三有事, 'inse Crecurs of affire,' 三三卿 'airse miniters.' Comp. 三事 in the Shoot Vine.', The original distribution of the facility the hirisamplification are as in one of the facility the hirisamplification are as in one of the facility the hirisamplification are as in wealthy man for many accomplaints (多氮, 亶 一信. 'min' 侯—维 the purchase comcilitation' 老 as in vine. Shoot a state of minimal distributions.' 医组一时组居 as in the hirisamplification of the facility of the minimal distributions.' East of the facility dendy providing for himself against the correction which were coming on, which may keep became for the himse

The state of the wine recome to the course of the post of the wines recome to the course of the post of the wines which is to be understood of the wines which wines to the king and one as Coor the wines to the king and one as Coor the wines to the king and one as Coor the total wines in the level for. To under a report of the total wines with the columns are the total wines. The columns are the total total total the back harmed gives us a like of what the total columns are the total columns as $\overline{R}$. The columns are the columns are the columns as $\overline{R}$. The latest specials in a column as $\overline{R}$ is a baltile of which the latest specials in a column as $\overline{R}$.

自我敢我不天敢獨逸。友做不徹。命休。不

And I alone dare not seek rest.

The ordinances of Heaven are inexplicable,
But I will not dare to follow my friends and leave my post.

X. Yu woo ching.

四斬饑降其不吳浩。正兩國。伐饉。喪德。駿天。浩無

1 Great and wide Heaven,
How is it you have contracted your kindness,
Sending down death and famine,
Destroying all through the kingdom?

stream.' The two together express the idea of much talk with one, and the other two characters in the line show that the talk meant is mere flattery. Both Morrison and Medhurst, upon tsun, give the meaning of the whole line to the first two characters. Equally difficult are like the first two characters. Equally difficult are first business,' as in L.I., and 完, 'to be strong,' 'to contend.' The critics all connect them with the preceding line, as if they resumed the statement there, and affirmed it strongly. Choo gives for them 其力為

The substance of st. 8 is that the writer will not leave his post of duty. Choo takes ll. 1.2 as meaning.—'All the kingdom is in trouble and distress, but I am specially sorry for the extreme distress of my dwelling-place.' The meaning I have given seems much preferable. 海二病,'to be ill and distressed;' here—'to be dissatisfied. 有羡一有餘,'to have enough and to spare.' Choo explains 徹 by 均,'fair,' 'just.' A more applicable meaning of the term is 漁,'pervious.' 不 徹 — 'impervious,' 'inexplicable.' The critics unite in praising the generosity of the term 友,'friends,' in 1.8.

The rhymes are—in st. 1. 卯 *, 醜, cat. 8, t. 2; 微, 微, 哀, cat. 15, t. 1: in 2, 行 *, 艮, 常, 臧. cat. 10; in 3, 電, 令 *, cat. 12, t. 1; 騰, 崩, 陵, 懲. cat. 6; in 4, 士, 宰, 史, 氏, (prop. cat. 16), cat. 1, t. 2; 徒, 夫, cat. 5, t. 1, 馬 *, 處, ib, t. 2: in 5, 時, 謀 *, 萊,矣, cat.1, t.1: in 6,向,藏,王,向, cat.10: in 7,勞,囂, cat.2;天,人, cat.12, t.1: in 8,里,海, cat.1, t.2;憂,休, cat. 3, t.1; 徹,炎, cat.12, t.3.

Ode 10. Narrative. A GROOM OF THE CHAMBERS MOURNS OVER THE MISERABLE STATE-OF THE ENGGOM, THE INCORRIGIBLE COURSE OF THE KING, AND THE RETIREMENT FROM OFFICE AND RESPONSIBILITY OF MANY, WHILE HE ALONE HOLDS TO HIS POST. There is evidently some mistake in the title and summary of this piece as given in the Little Preface, of which I have seen no satisfactory explanation. It is no use discussing a matter in itself unimportant, and on which no satisfactory conclusion can be arrived at. Nor is it clear that the ode belongs to the time of king Yëw. Lëw Kin and many others assign it to the period after his death, when the capital was transferred to Loh. On the whole, however, I prefer to adhere to the more common view.

St. 1. The writer, in the trouble of his mind, appeals to Heaven, as if he would charge on it the misery of the kingdom, thereby expressing more strongly the extent of that misery. 法, and 昊 are synonyms, meaning 'vast,' 'great and wide.' 废,一大, 'great.' Some define it by 長, or 反, 'to prolong,' 'to be constant.' 德二重, 'kindness.' 能僅 together—'famine.' The former character denotes a failure of the crop of grain; the latter, of vegetables. 旻 天 is the name appropriate to the heavens in autumn, as if they then looked down with compassion on the decay of vegetable life. 疾 成,—'in angry terrors.' L. 6

Compassionate Heaven, arrayed in terrors, How is it you exercise no forethought, no care? Let alone the criminals:—
They have suffered for their offences;
But those who have no crime
Are indiscriminately involved in ruin.

The honoured House of Chow is [nearly] extinguished, And there is no means of stopping or settling [the troubles]. The Heads of the officers have left their places, And no one knows my toil.

The three high ministers, and [other] great officers, Are unwilling [to attend to their duties] early and late. The lords of the various States, Are unwilling [to appear at court] morning and evening. If indeed he would turn to good,—
But on the contrary he proceeds to [greater] evil.

is spoken, acc. to Yen Ts'an and others, of the king. It is directed against him, but we must construe it with the preceding line. 合格, 'to set aside,'—'not to speak of.' 伏,—'to lie prostrate;'伏罪, 'to lie prostrate with crime;' i.e., 'to acknowledge it,' or 'to suffer for it.' 岩一'as to.' 淪一'图 or 沒, 'to fall or sink down.' 胥一相, 'together.' 淪胥一相與陷沒, 'they are together involved in ruin.' 銅一偏, 'all round.' 以鋪, 'so as to be all round,' make an adverb,—'indiscriminately.'

St. 2. In VIII. 8 we have 宗周 for 'the honoured capital of Chow,' and 周宗 here may have the same meaning, which, indeed, is the view of Ch'ing. The view adopted by Choo, that the phrase means 'all the States having the surname of the Choo family' cannot be admitted, for they were numerous and strong. Evidently, the writer is contemplating the possibility and probability of a change in the dynasty. 既一一个has been extinguished;' but this is, probably, a vivid expression for what the writer saw to be in progress. 反一定, 'to settle.' 正一長, 'chief,' 'head;' and 正大夫 are 'the heads of the different official departments (六百之長).' 離居,—they had left the capital, and resided elsewhere. 對一學, 'toil.' 三事,—see on IX. 6. 'The phrase is here taken to denote 'the three kung (三公),' the highest ministers about the court; and 大夫 may be simply s

- How is it, O great Heaven,
 That he will not hearken to the justest words?
 He is like a man going [astray],
 [Who knows] not where he will proceed to.
 All ye officers,
 Let each of you reverently attend to his duties.
 How do ye not stand in awe of one another?
 Ye do not stand in awe of Heaven.
- War has done its work, but he withdraws not [from evil]; Famine has done its work, but he goes not on [to good]; So that I, a [mere] groom of the chambers, Am full of grief and in pain daily. All ye officers,

 Ye are unwilling to declare [the truth to him].

 When you hear a question, you [simply] answer it, And when slander touches you, you withdraw.

designation of them, or may indicate the chiefs of the six great departments of the govt. Ll. 7, 8 are illustrated by the fact that the loss of the capital and the death of Yëw were at last owing to the refusal of the princes to come to his aid. They had once been deceived by the cry of wolf, and when the wolf really came, they remained in their own States, thinking the alarm was false. Ll. 9, 10 express the folly and madness of the king's conduct. Choo expands 1.9

St. 3, 辟三法, 'a law;' 辟言三法度 之言, 'words in accordance with law.' 臻 三至, 'to come to.' L. 5 refers to the officers pounded by the king.

changed, and is behaving well.'

St. 4. 戎一兵, 'weapons,' i. e., war. The meaning of 不退, 不遂 is illustrated by a passage in the Yih, under the diagram 大壯, where it is said, 'a ram pushes against a fence, and can neither go backwards nor forwards.' 曾一義, 'familiar;' 勢 御, 'a familiar or attendant,' one who waited upon the king in his privacy. 「一病, 'to be in pain or distress' 宗一方, 'to aunounce,' i. e., here, the truth. 原言, - 'words that you hear.' i. e., any question pro-

- Alas that [right words] cannot be spoken,
 Which come not from the tongue [only]!
 The speakers of them are sure to suffer.
 Well is it for the words that can be spoken!
 The artful speech flows like a stream,
 And the speakers dwell at ease in prosperity.
- 6 It may be said about taking office,
 That it is full of hazard and peril.
 By [advice] that he says cannot be followed,
 You offend against the Son of Heaven.
 By advice that he says will be followed,
 You excite the resentment of your friends.
- I say to you, 'Remove to the royal capital,'
 And ye say that you have not got houses there.
 Painful are my inmost thoughts, and I weep blood;—
 Every word I speak makes me hated;
 But when you formerly left to reside elsewhere,
 Who was it that made houses for you?

St.5. The lamentation in l.1, and the felicitation in l.4, are not in the first place for the respective speakers, but for the state of the times, which would only listen to speech of a certain kind. I take l.2, with Këang, as descriptive of the words which the king would not hear, as from the heart and not from the mouth only (是從心上驅出,不徒著之舌也).

St.6 further shows the difficulty of being in office at such a time. It is all to be taken as from the writer, and I must reject the construction of Soo, Choo and others, who expand ll. 1,2 thus,—'People all say, "Go and take office," but they do not know how perilous such a thing is.' We saw reason, on Book I. of Part I., to reject the explanation of by 往. 丁 cannot be translated here. 顾 must be nearly synonymous with 拓. 云 is to be referred to the king. L. 6 = 見 怨 丁 友,—as in the translation.

St. 7. The writer here appeals to all officers of worth who had withdrawn from the capital, urges them to resume their duties, and shows the inconsistency of the reason they alleged for not doing so. Ll. 3,4 express the writer's struggles and determination at all risks to speak out his mind. 鼠一膩, in VIII. 1. 無言不完一言而不見疾憎於人,—as in the translation. In 1.6, 誰從 is not,—'who followed you?' but 'by the aid of whom?'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 德, 國, cat. 1, t. 8; 圖, 辜, 鋪, cat. 5, t. 1: in 2, 滅, 戾, 徵, cat. 15, t. 8; 夫, 夜*, 夕*, 恶, cat. 5, t. 1: in 3, 天, 信, 臻, 身, 天, cat. 12, t. 1: in 4, 退, 遂, 淬, 醉 (so Twan reads instend of 訊), 答 (prop. cat. 7), 退, cat. 15, t. 8: in 5, 言, 言, cat. 14; 出, 淬, cat. 15, t. 8: 流, 休, cat. 3, t. 1: in 6, 仕, 殆, 使, 子, 使, 友*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 7, 都, 家*, cat. 5, t. 1; 血, 疾, 室, cat. 12, t. 3.

I. Sëaou min.

1 The angry terrors of Compassionate Heaven
Extend through this lower world;
[The king's] counsels and plans are crooked and bad;—
When will he stop [in his course]?
Counsels which are good he will not follow,
And those which are not good he employs.
When I look at his counsels and plans,
I am greatly pained.

TITLE OF THE BOOK.—小旻之什,二之元, 'The Decade of Scaou Min; Book V. of Part II.'

Here his explanation halts; but we may accept it nevertheless, and 'The Little or Minor Min' is equivalent to 'The Min of the Minor Ya.'

Ode 1. Narrative. A LAMENTATION OVER THE RECKLESSNESS AND INCAPACITY OF THE KING'S PLANS, AND OF HIS COUNSELLORS. The Preface refers the piece to the time of king Yew; —there is nothing in it to make us either adopt or reject this view.

St. 1. L. 1,—as in st. 1 of prec. ode. Choo gives to 是 here the meaning of 'deep and distant,' such being the app of the autumn sky. I prefer, however, to retain the meaning of 'compassionate.' 更一折, 'to diffuse.' The meaning is, that the calamities consequent on the anger of Heaven were everywhere experienced. L. 3 is to be understood of the king. 就 is the 'counsel;' 渔, 'the counsel developed in a plan.' 巴适二环降, 'perverse and bad. 斯 cannot be translated, but we may say it to be pained,' 'in distress.'

- Now they agree, and now they defame one another;—
 The case is greatly to be deplored.
 If a counsel be good,
 They all are found opposing it.
 If a counsel be bad,
 They all are found according with it.
 When I look at such counsels and plans,
 What will they come to?
- Our tortoises are wearied out,
 And will not tell us anything about the plans.
 The counsellors are very many,
 But on that account nothing is accomplished.
 The speakers fill the court,
 But who dares to take any responsibility on himself?
 We are as if we consulted [about a journey] without taking a step in advance,
 And therefore did not get on on the road.

St. 2 is interpreted of 'the mean men,'—the worthless counsellors of the king. Maon makes 演演 to mean 'to harass one's superiors,' and 訓訓, 'to have no thought of one's superiors.' Han Ying took both expressions together as 三不善之貌, 'the app. of not being good.' I have followed the meanings assigned to them by Choo, who was preceded in them by Lëw Hëang and Ts'aou Suy-chung (曹粹中). 具一俱, 'all.' For the last line, the 'Complete Digest' gives—伊于何至,而能有所定也乎.

St. 3. The tortoise-shell was consulted so irreverently, that no response could any longer be got from it. 告述一告所圖之 古凶, 'tell whether a plan were lucky or unlucky.' In Il. 4, 8, 是用一是以, 'therefore.' 集成, 'to be accomplished,' 'to succeed;'—no plan could be agreed on. The meaning of Il. 3 and 5 is the same. 發言一發言之人, 'the speakers.' 庭 is the open court below the hall of consultation. 咎, 'blame;' here = 'responsibility of failure.'—No one dared to say, 'I will be responsible for this

4 Alas! our formers of plans

Do not take the ancients for their pattern, And do not regulate them by great principles.

They only hearken to shallow words,

And quarrel about shallow words.

They are like one taking counsel with wayfarers about building a house,

Which will consequently never come to completion.

Although the kingdom be unsettled,
There are some who are wise, and others who are not.
Although the people may not be numerous,
Some have perspicacity, some have counsel,
Some have gravity, and some have orderliness.
But we are going on like the stream flowing from a spring,
And will sink together in a common ruin.

St. 4. 為猶,—like 發言, in last, st.,—
'plan-makers.' 先民, 'former people,'—ancient worthics. 程一法, 'a law,' 'a pattern; here, 'to take for a pattern.' In 1.3, 严 is explained by 道, 'reason,'—plans that are based on deep principles. 严 二, 'that which is regular;'—what does not admit of deviation. 一言, 'near words,' = shallow speeches. 丁 道 蒙, 'to take counsel 'at the way-side,' i. c., with way-farers. 造一道, 'to succeed;' or to 'go forward,' as in st. ± of last ode.

last ode.

St. 5. Bad as things were, they might be remedied, if the king would only take the advice of those who were competent.

be settled.'

is here explained by

'many.' The people are spoken of as few, because they had been much dispersed by the 冰。如臨兢他。莫知馮虎。不 履深兢。戰知其河。不敢 薄淵。如戰其一。人敢暴

They dare not without weapons attack a tiger;
They dare not without a boat cross the Ho.
They know one thing,
But they only know that one.
We should be apprehensive and careful,
As if we were on the brink of a deep gulf,
As if we were treading on thin ice.

II. Sëaou yuen.

懷不人。念 心 展 鳩。宛 小小二 無。明 昔 憂 天。翰 彼 允 人。有 發 先 傷。我 飛 鳴

1 Small is the cooing dove,
But it flies aloft up to heaven.
My heart is wounded with sorrow,
And I think of our forefathers.
When the dawn is breaking, and I cannot sleep,
The thoughts in my breast are of our parents.

prevailing troubles. Ll. 4, 5,—see the Shoo, V.iv. 6, where we have \(\frac{1}{2} \) for \(\frac{1}{2} \). Ll. 6, 7 must be taken interrogatively, or we may drop the \(\frac{1}{2} \) in translating.

St. 6. Ll. 1—4 are descriptive of the king's counsellors who had sense enough for some things, but could not, or would not, apprehend others of more importance. 录一徒博, 'to attack empty-handed,'—without weapons; 满一位, 'to cross empty-handed,'—without a boat. 其他, 'the other,'—any other. Ll. 5—7 are advice tendered by the writer to the king. 单位, 'to be cautious.' 后, 'to approach to.'

The rhymes are—in st.1, 土, 沮, cat.5, t.2; 從, 用, 邛, cat.9:in 2, 誂, 哀*, 違, 依.底, cat. 15, t.1: in 3, 猶, 集 (prop, cat.

7), 咎, 道, cat. 8, t. 1; in 4, 程, 經, 聽, 爭, 成, cat. 11: in 5, 止, 否 *, cat. 1, t. 2; 膴 (prop. cat. 5), 謀 *, ib., t. 1; 丈, 敗, cat. 15, t. 8: in 6, 河, 他, cat. 17; 兢冰, cat. 6.

Ode. 2. Allusive and narrative. Some officer, in a time of disorder and misgovernment, urges on his brothers the duty of maintaining their own virtue, and of observing the greatest caution. The Preface says the piece was directed against king Yew; and Maou and his school, in their endeavours to carry out this view, are obliged to resort to 'chisseling' in explaining the diff. stanzas. It may have been composed in Yew's reign; but there is no indication of any political object in it.

St. 1. 元一小說, 'small-looking.' Choo says the këw here is the pan këw (其 九), or pigeon; but the opinion of Maou, who makes it the same as the dove in I.v.IV. 3, is preferable. Maou also is the more correct in his definition

Men who are grave and wise,
Though they drink, are mild and masters of themselves;
But those who are benighted and ignorant
Are devoted to drink, and more so daily.
Be careful, each of you, of your deportment;—
What Heaven confers, [when once lost], is not regained.

- In the midst of the plain there is pulse,
 And the common people gather it.
 The mulberry insect has young ones,
 And the sphex carries them away.
 Teach and train your sons,
 And they will become good as you are.
- 4 Look at the wagtail, Flying, and at the same time twittering. My days are advancing;

of 翰, by 高, 'high.' It is descriptive of the flight of the dove. That such a lofty flight should be accomplished by so small a creature seems to be the consideration which led to the mention of it;—as an instance of what may be attained by effort. 昔先人 is to be understood of the speaker's ancestors, who had been, we may suppose, worthy officers of their kings. 明美,—'when the light is issuing.' —人,—'the two individuals,' must mean the speaker's parents.

St. 2 is simply narrative. Drunkenness must have been a vice of the time. 齊一肅, 'grave.' 克 自克, 'overcome themselves.' Such men could use moderation in their drinking. 壹一專一, 'devoted to.' 富一甚 or 命, 'increasingly,' 'more and more.' 又一復, 'to be repeated.' 天命, 一'the decree of Heaven,' 'what Heaven gives or appoints.' What the writer had in his mind is by no means clear. Possibly, it may have been the good human nature, which by vice, and drunkenness especially, may be irretrievably ruined.

St 3, I do not see how II.1,2 bear on the subject of the stanza, which is that of insuring the virtue of the young by good training. It is here taken to be I, 'large beans.' II. 3, 4 bear on the general idea, but by a strange popular error. The ming-ling is a small green insect, generally found on the mulberry tree, but also elsewhere. The ko-lo is the sphex or solitary wasp, which carries away the young of the ming-ling into its hole, where, it is supposed, they are changed into young wasps! Both Choo and Yen Ts'an take I as I, after Ch'ing. and 1.6—'And by means of what is good make them like yourselves.' But we must take I here as elsewhere,—merely an initial particle. I good.' I,—'to become as.'

or appoints.' What the writer had in his mind is by no means clear. Possibly, it may have st. 4. 題一元, 'to see.' 育介,—as in i.IV.3. The energy and activity of the bird are what procure it a place in this stanza.

Your months are going on. Rising early and going to sleep late, Do not disgrace those who gave you birth.

- 5 The greenbeaks come and go,
 Pecking up grain about the stack-yard.
 Alas for the distressed and the solitary,
 Deemed fit inmates for the prisons!
 With a handful of grain I go out and divine,
 How I may be able to become good.
- 6 We must be mild, and humble,
 As if we were perched on trees.
 We must be anxious and careful,
 As if we were on the brink of a valley.
 We must be apprehensive and cautious,
 As if we were treading upon thin ice.

邁 and 征 both 一行, 'to go,' 'to proceed.'
而一大, 'you.' 斯一其;—it combines with the words following it to heighten their descriptive power. 系一奏, 'to disgrace.'

To be in distress;'—Han Ying read Disconfinement in the solitary, friendless people.'

and 派 are synonymous, signifying 'a print the former term being appropriate to place confinement in the country; the latter, to the solitary in the synonymous in the synonymous in the former term being appropriate to place confinement in the country; the latter, to the synonymous in the

St. 5 交 交,—as in I. xi. VI. Acc. to Choo, the vulgar name of the sang-hoo is 声 赏, which I have adopted in the translation. Another name for it, which all the critics allow, is 酒旨, or 'grease-thief,' from its fondness for all fatty matters. The bill is slightly hooked. It is evidently one of the dentirostres. Flesh is said to be its natural food, and not grain, but it is here represented as pecking up grain;—with reference to the struggle for life in consequence of the prevailing misgovernment.

is nearly all 'solitary, friendless people.' and fif are synonymous, signifying 'a prison,' the former term being appropriate to places of confinement in the country; the latter, to those about the court. Han Ying read JF, which does not help us in determining the meaning. The classes mentioned should have been objects of kindly care to the government, whereas it decmed them (宜) fit for its prisons. L.5 refers to a custom on which we have not much information,-that of spreading some finely ground rice on the ground, in connection with divination, as an offering to the spirits. The use of plain grain here may be an indication of the writer's poverty. 目何如何目, from what,' how.'

St.6. The three couplets here must all be translated in the same way,—imperatively.

III. Seaou pwan.

- 1 With flapping wings the crows
 Come back, flying all in a flock.
 Other people all are happy,
 And I only am full of misery.
 What is my offence against Heaven?
 What is my crime?
 My heart is sad;
 What is to be done?
 - 2 The way to Chow should be level and easy. But it is all overgrown with rank grass. My heart is wounded with sorrow,

The 'Complete Digest' and Yen Ts'an are wrong in taking the first as indicative.—Mild and humble men are,' &c. \(\frac{1}{2} \) \(\frac{1}{2} \) be humble to others. The district of the times required that they should be very careful of their conduct, as the only way in which they could escape danger.

The thymes are—in st.1, 天, 人, 人, cat.
12, t.1: in 2, 克, 富., 又, cat.1, t.2: in 3, 采,子, 夏., 似, ō: in 4, 令 (prop.
cat.12), 鳴征,生, cat.11; 邁, 寐, cat.
15, t.3: in 5. 扈, 寡., cat.5, t.2; 栗 煮,
卜, 穀, cat.3, t.3: in 6, 木,谷 ō: 兢
冰, cat.6.

Ole 3. Allusive and narrative. The eldest son and heir-apparent of king Seven rewalls his degradation, and the ease with which the king was led away by slanderens. The queen of king Yew was a princess of the State of Shin (甲), and their eldest son, E-kin (百日) had been declared heir to the throm. When Yew became enamoused of Paou Sze, the oneen was degraded and E-k'ëw banished to Shin, while it was announced that a child by the favourite should be the king's successor: and in reference to these events it is supposed that E-k'ëw made this piece. Choo says that it is clearly the composition of a banished son, but that it does not follow that that son was E-k'ëw, or any son of king Tëw. The Preface assigns it not to E-k'ëw himself, but to his tutor;—which is altogether gratutous.—See the remarks of Mencius on its character, in his Works, VI., Pt. ii., III.

St. 1. A is defined by Maon by A, 'to be pleased.' Choo treats it as if it had A at the side, and makes it—'the app. of fispping wings.' In or grasse (some maintain that the two characters together are the name of the bird;—comp. A in Li.V.) is a species of crow, smaller than the common, and white in the belly. B is descriptive of the birds 'flying in a fock.' The sight of the crows, all together, suggests to the prince his own condition, solitary and driven from court. The old school of critics find a disgusting allusion in what they allege to be a fact, that the y-see carnot disgorge its food to feed its young;—so the prince was cut off from

And I think till I feel as if pounded [all over]. I lie down undressed, and sigh continually; Through my grief I am growing old. My heart is sad;—
It puts me in pain like a headache.

- 3 Even the mulberry trees and the tsze
 Must be regarded with reverence:
 But no one is to be looked up to like a father;
 No one is to be depended on like a mother.
 Have I not a connection with the hairs [of my father]?
 Did I not dwell in the womb [of my mother]?
 O Heaven who gave me birth!
 How was it at such an inauspicious time?
- 4 Luxuriant grow those willows, And the cicadas [on them] go hwuy-hwuy. Deep looks the pool, parental favour! 穀,—here, 'to be prosperous or happy.' 併 and 云 are both expletives.

St. 2. 跟跟一下易, 'level and easy.' 居道,—as in I. xiii. IV. 鞠一篇, 'altogether.' In the disorder of the times the road to the capital was now little frequented. On this view of ll. 1, 2, st. 1 is narrative. 尽,—'to think sorrowfully.' 壽一春, 'no beat,'—as in a mortar. 'To sleep without undressing is called 假策;'—such a sleep is but 'borrowed.' 用一以, 'thereby;' 灭一疾, 'to be ill.' L. 8 does not end the stanza happily,—in our view.

St. 3. ,—see on I. iv. VI. The mulberry line shows the tree and this were both planted about the farm- of astrology.

by Maou and Choo, to be equivalent to F, 'time.' But it means 'lucky time,' 'a star,' and the F I indicates that it had been an unlucky star. Kënng observes that this 8th line shows they had in those times the science of astrology.

And abundantly grow the rushes and reeds [about it].

[But] I am like a boat adrift,—Where it will go you know not.

My heart is sad;—

I have not leisure to lie down [even] undressed.

What is to be donuning away,

2 The way to Chow should be level and easy, But it is all overgrown with rank grass.

My heart is wounded with sorrow,

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 天, 人, 人, cat. 2, t. 1: in 2, 克, 富*, 又*, cat. 1, t. 2: in

· 采,子, 頁 , 似, ib: in 4, 令 (prop. at. 12), 鳴,征.生, cat. 11;邁,寐, cat. 5, t. 3: in 5, 扈,寡, cat. 5, t. 2; 粟,ય, sound made by me meets. 推译 Yu or 'deep-looking.' 有准者淵,— of all acts that are deep, the abyss;' but I suspect the genuineness of the 者, which interferes with the exsural pause in the line. 霍章,—as in I. xv. I. 3. Pe-p'e,—'to be abundant,' 'numerous.'

Paou Sze, the queen was degrad. banished to Shin, while it was ann a child by the favourite should be successor; and in reference to thes supposed that E-këw made this mays that it is clearly the companished son, but that it does not that son was E-këw, or any The Preface assigns it not but to his tutor;—which it tous.—See the remarks, acter, in his Works, Year, at heapplies.

seter, in his Works, V

St. 1. is to be a g the applicability of its more pleased.' Choo the done, whereas the prince was a side, and may fugrave. I do not understand why Yu or yu-ser s'an should think that the king is spoken actes to in this st. L. 8,—'How is it that no one knows it?' i.e., all the circumstances of my case.

That there is nothing he cannot bear to do.

My heart is sad,

So that my tears are falling down.

Our sovereign believes slanders,

- As readily as he joins in the pledge cup.
 Our sovereign is unkind,
 And does not leisurely examine into things.
 The tree-fellers follow the lean of the tree;
 The faggot-cleavers follow the direction of the grain;
 [But] he lets alone the guilty,
 And imputes guilt to me.
 - There is nothing higher than a mountain;
 There is nothing deeper than a [great] spring.
 Our sovereign should not lightly utter his words, help it to escape. 崖一里, 'to inter.' 尚一as in last st. This puts the verbs in the present-complete tense; but it is more consonant to our idiom to translate them in the future. 秉心一章心, 'holds his heart,'—keeps it in such a state. See Men. II. Pt. i. VI., on the 忍心. We can only translate the 忍 in l.6. The 之there and in l.8 give 忍 and 隕 (一落) a state or passive force.

neuter or passive force.

St. 7. Choo explains 算 by 氧, 'to return.'
When a guest is pledged by the host in a cup, he must pledge him in return. 如 或 雪,—'as if some one were pledging him.' 合了 一次, 'slowly;'—when the slanders came to his ears, if he would only deliberately examine them, he would be sure to find out their false-hood. Ll. 5, 6. The meaning of his is acknow-ledged,—'to split wood in the direction of the grain,' which can be done with comparative ease. On the analogy of this, I explain his, which the critics say means 'to support at the top,' so that, when the tree is cut through at the bottom, it may not fall upon the fellers. This definition is made, however, to suit the supposed exigency of the passage. The first meaning of the term in the dict. is 'to draw sidewise.' in l. 8 is explained by in, 'to add to,' 'to impute.'

St. S. The first four lines seem to be in allusion to the exalted and unapproachable dignity of the sovereign, who yet might be wrought upon by designing men, and if he were not

我遑不我我無我無于耳後。恤閥。躬筍。發梁。逝垣。屬

Lest an ear be laid close to the wall.

Do not approach my dam;

Do not remove my basket.

My person is rejected;—

Of what use is it to care for what may come after?

IV. Keaou yen.

O vast and distant Heaven,
Who art called our parent,
That without crime or offence,
I should suffer from disorders thus great!
The terrors of great Heaven are excessive,
But indeed I have committed no crime.
[The terrors of] great Heaven are very excessive,
But indeed I have committed no offence.

careful of his words, would fall a prey to evilminded slanderous people. Ching explains by H, 'to use,' but he understands for the words of slanderers, whereas I must take it of the king's own words. Ll. 5—8 occur in I. iii. X. 3. The writer here must have been familiar with that ode, and these lines suited both his circumstances and purpose.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 斯, 提*, cat. 16, t. 1; 程*,何,何, cat. 17: in 2,道*,草*, 营*,老*,首, cat. 3, t. 2: in 3, 梓, 止, 母*, 裹, 在, cat. 1, t. 2: in 4, 嘻, 浑, 届, 寐, cat. 15, t. 3: in 5, 伎, 雌, (prop. cat. 15), 校,知, cat. 16, t. 1: in 6, 先*,墐*,忍*, 则, cat. 13: in 7. 醇, 究, cat. 3, t. 2; 掎*, 地*, 佗, cat. 17: in 8, 泉, 言,垣, cat. 14; 筍, 後, cat. 4, t. 2.

Ode 4. Narrative and allusive, with perhaps a metaphorical element here and there. Some one, suffering from the king through slander, appeals to Heaven, dwells on the nature and evil of slander, and expresses his detestation of and contempt for the slanderers. The subject of this suits the reign of king Le well enough; but there is nothing in it to enable us positively to refer it, as the Preface does, to that time.

St. 1 悠悠, conveys here the ideas of 'distant and vast.' 且 is the particle, as in I. vii. X. 1, and often; 曰 might also be left untranslated. 無一大, 'great.' So, both Choo and Maou; who also explain both 已 and 泰by 是, 'excessive.' 已成一疾成 in I. 1. 慎一贯, 'really.' 成 must be understood in I. 7.

- Disorder then comes to the birth,
 When the first untruth is received.
 Its further increase
 Is from our sovereign's believing the slanderers.
 If he were to be angry [with them],
 The disorder would probably quickly be abated;
 If he were to show his joy [in the good],
 The disorder would probably quickly cease.
- Our sovereign makes frequent covenants,
 And the disorders are thereby increased.
 He believes the scoundrels,
 And the disorders thereby grow into oppression.
 Their words are very sweet,
 And the disorders thereby advance.
 They do not discharge their duties,
 But only create distress to the king.
- 4 Very grand is the ancestral temple;—A true sovereign made it.

St. 2. 管,—'what is erroneous,''what oversteps right.' 管始, is the first insinuation of slander. 酒一谷 受, 'to admit,' 'to receive.' 君子 is to be understood of the king. 怒 and 社 (三喜) are antithetical;—the one being directed against the slanderers, the other towards the good assailed by them. 治一天, 'with rapidity.'

St. 3. L. 1 shows the weakness of the king.
As suspicions arose between him and princes of States, he would make a covenant with them as if they were his equals. By , 'thieves,' 'robbers,' we are to understand the slanderers; as the king gave credit to them, he was led on to acts of violent oppression. , 'to send in food;' here , 'keep entering,' 'advance.' In 1.7, , to discharge one's service.' L, the terms being inverted for the sake of the rhymes. If is the final particle. II, -as in I.1.

St. 4. 页页一大貌, 'great-looking.' 'The front part of an ancestral temple is called Wisely arranged are the great plans;—Sages determined them.

What other men have in their minds,
I can measure by reflection.
Swiftly runs the crafty hare,
But it is caught by the hound.

Trees of soft wood, easily wrought,
Are planted by wise men.
The words of way-farers that come and go
Can be discriminated by the mind.
Their easy and grand words
[Only] issue from their mouths.
Their artful words, like organ-tongues,
Show how unblushing are their faces.

庐; the back part, the apartments behind, leading off from the large one in front, 寢: Ying tah observes that we are to understand by the two terms here the temple as a whole 《廟寢一物》 君子 ու 聖人 correlative expressions, and hence 君 must be understood otherwise than in the two preceding stanzas. 秩秩。有序, derly,'-well conducted and arranged. The 'great plans' here are the great principles on which and by which the govt. should be con-莫=定, 'to determine.' The writer seems to adduce these two things as implying wisdom beyond his reach; but it was not so with the schemes of other men. By 他人 he intends the slanderers. On ll. 5,6, see Men. 第一狡, 'crafty.' The craf-J. Pt. i.VII. 9. ty hare is a metaphor for the objects of the writer's indignation.

在染-柔貌, 'soft-looking.' St. 5. The trees intended are supposed to be useful, -those which supply good timber and are easily wrought. 君子 still does not refer to the king; but it has a lighter meaning than in the last stanza. 行言-行道 words of people walking on the road.' ff, 'to distinguish.' These two things seem to be adduced by the writer by way of appeal to the king.—He could understand them; how then did he allow himself to be led away by the slanderers? Ll. 5-8 speak of two classes of their speeches, whose true character it would not be difficult to determine. 舒, 'easy,' 'natural-like.' L. 8,- 'thickness of the face,' = shamelessness, incapability of blushing.

6

Who are they?
They [are like men who] dwell on the banks of the river;
And they have neither strength nor courage,
While yet they rear the steps of disorder!
With legs ulcerated and swollen,
What courage can you have?
You form plans great and many,
But your followers about you are few.

V. Ho jin sze..

我不我胡孔其人彼 斯何門。八梁。逝艱心斯。何人

1 What man was that?
His mind is full of dangerous devices.
Why did he approach my dam,
Without entering my gate?

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 且, 辜, 憮, 憮, 辜, cat. 5, t. 1; 威, 罪, cat. 15, t. 1; in 2, 涵, 讒, cat. 8, t. 1; 怒, 沮, cat. 5, t. 2; 祉, 已, cat. 1, t. 2; in 3, 盟*, 長, cat. 10; 盜, 暴, cat. 2; 甘, 餤, cat. 8; 共, 邛, cat. 9: in 4, 作*, 莫, 贬, 獲*, cat. 5, t. 8: in 5, 樹*, 數*, 口, 厚, cat. 4: in 6, 麋. 階, 伊, 幾, cat. 15, t. 1 (so Twan. Koo-she, 斯, 麋, 階; 勇, 尰; 何, 多, 何).

Ode 5. Narrative. Some noble suffering from slander, and suspecting that the slanderer was an old friend, intimates the geounds of his suspicion, and laments his case, while he would welcome the restoration of their former relations. The Preface assigns this piece to a duke of Soo, who had been slandered by a duke of Paou. There can be no doubt there was a State of Soo within the royal donain, corresponding to the pres. dis. of Wun (HI), dep. Hwae-k'ing, Ho-nan, the lords of which, viscounts, were often in the highest positions at court, with the title of king; and there was probably a state of Paou. We have no records, however, of any kind to illustrate or confirm the statement of the Preface.

St. 1. L.1 is hardly a question, but = 'That man, so and so.' The writer does not care to

伊誰云從 維暴之云 的逝我梁 不見其身 被何人斯 胡逝我梁 不見其身 不見其身 不見其身

Of whom is he a follower? I venture to say,—of Paou.

- 2 Those two follow each other in their goings;—
 Which of them wrought me this calamity?
 Why came he to my dam,
 Without entering to condole with me?
 Our former relations were different from the present,
 When he will have nothing to do with me.
- What man was it?
 Why came he to the path inside my gate?
 I heard his voice,
 But did not see his person.
 He is not ashamed before men;
 He does not stand in awe of Heaven.

show that he knew his surname and name.

斯 is the final particle. 東一次, 'dangerous.' Ll.3,4 give the reason for suspecting the man, who had occasion to come near the writer, but shunned his immediate presence. 云, inl.5,—是, as in iv.VIII. 4. There is more difficulty with the 之云 inl.6. Wang Yin-che approves the view of Maou, who says that 云=言, and gives for the two lines.—他能是從,維暴公之言也, but 之言 are to me as perplexing as 之云. I must take 之云 as equivalent to 云丽, an acknowledged ending of a sentence, which we can hardly translate, but which takes something from the positive character of what is said.

St. 2 The 'two men' are the above follower of Paou, and Paou himself. The latter was the real offender, but the writer shrinks from directly saying so. 二 in 1.6 is best taken as the initial particle, and left untranslated. 不我可一不以我高可, 'does not consider me tolerable,'—a person to have anything to do with.

St. 3. was the name of the path leading from the gate to the foot of the hall or reception-room. The person here comes nearer to the writer than in st. 1, and yet still avoids him, awakening a correspondingly greater indignation.

被何人斯。其為飄風。胡雅深。 (與何人斯。 其為飄風。 胡雅梁。 (與我心。) 一次 (與我心。) (與我心。 (與我心。) (我心。 (與我心。) (我心。) (我心。 (與我心。) (我心。 (與我心。) (我心。 (與我心。) (我心。 (以此。)

- What man was it?
 He is like a violent wind.
 Why came he not from the north?
 Or why not from the south?
 Why did he approach my dam,
 Doing nothing but perturb my mind?
- You go along slowly,
 And yet you have not leisure to stop!
 You go along rapidly,
 And yet you have leisure to grease your wheels!
 If you would come to me but once!—
 Why am I kept in a state of expectation?
- 6 If on your return you entered my house, My heart would be relieved.
 When on your return you do not enter it, It is hard to understand your denial.
 If you would come to me but once, It would set me at rest.

St. 4. 完成,—as in L. xiii. IV. 2. Ll. 3, 4 express the uncertainty of the person's movements, characteristic of a slanderer.' 流代(che)—但, 'only.'

St. 5. The writer here exposes the falsehood of the excuses made by his slanderer for not coming to see him. He means 'to stare; 'not,' i. c., if you say you did not do it.

St. 4. 完且 风,—as in L xiii. IV. 2. Ll. 3, 4 used here to denote the fixed look of longing expectation.

St. 6. His enemy had alleged in the former st. that he was unable to call on the writer, being despatched on some public business;—might he not call on him when he returned?

—'to be easy;' it is explained by to be glad.'

The (ch'c)—

The chief of the

- 7 The elder of us blew the porcelain whistle,
 And the younger blew the bamboo flute;
 I was as if strung on the same string with you.
 If indeed you do not understand me,
 Here are the three creatures [for sacrifice],
 And I will take an oath to you.
- 8 If you were an imp or a water-bow,
 You could not be got at.
 But when one with face and eyes stands opposite to another,
 The man can be seen through and through.
 I have made this good song,
 To probe to the utmost your veerings and turnings.

VI. Hëang pih.

犬亦人。彼 貝 成 斐 萋 卷 甚。已 者。諧 錦。是 今。 今 伯

- 1 A few elegant lines
 May be made out to be shell-embroidery.
 Those slanderers
 Have gone to great excess.

dog, a pig, and a fowl, whose blood was used sometimes in making covenants. See the Tsochuen, under the eleventh year of duke Yin.

St. 8. The yih is a creature altogether fabulous, or of which fabulous stories are told. It is said to lie concealed in the sand at the bottom of a stream, and when the shadow of any one on the bank appears in the water, to spurt sand at it, after which the person is sure to die. It has many names,—'the short fox,' 'the shadow-shooter,' 'the water-bow (,' 'this shadow-shooter,' 'the water-bow (,' 'traitorous;' but that is not the meaning of it, though the terms are contemptuous.

- 2 A few diverging points
 May be made out to be the southern Sieve.
 Those slanderers!
 Who devised their schemes for them?
- With babbling mouths you go about, Scheming and wishing to slander others. [But] be careful of your words;— [People] will [yet] say that you are untruthful.
- 4 Clever you are, and ever changing, In your schemes and wishes to slander.

plained as 面見人之貌, 'the app. of seeing a person face to face.' In the meaning which I have given to 罔極, 'without limit,' I am borne out by Këang Ping-chang. In I. 6, 極一究 極, 'to investigate thoroughly.' 反侧反覆不正直, 'upsetting and deflected.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 艱*, 門, 云, cat. 12: in 2, 渦, 我, 可, cat. 17: in 3, 陳, 身, 人, 天, cat. 12, t. 1: in 4, 風*, 南*, 心, cat. 7, t. 1: in 5, 含*, 車*, 盱, cat. 5, t. 1: in 6, 易, 知, 祇, cat. 16, t. 1: in 7, 詹, 知, 斯, cat. 16, t. 1: in 8, 顿, 得, 極, 側, cat. 1, t. 3.

Ode 6. Metaphorical, narrative, and allusive. A EUNUCH, SUFFERING FROM SLANDER, COMPLAINS OF HIS FATE, AND WARNS AND DENOUNCES HIS ENEMIES. The title of this ode,—Heang-pih,—is not taken from any of the stanzas, but is nearly equivalent to the , or ennuch, of st. 7. was the name of a passage in the interior of the palace. of which the writer had the superintendance,—as is denoted by the He was perhaps the chief of the cunuchs. It is assumed, and we may admit it, though it is nowhere stated in the piece, that his own mutilation was in consequence of the slanders from which he had suffered.

St. 1. Maou defines 萋斐 by 文章相端, 'elegant figures crossing one another;' and Choo, by 小文之貌, 'the app. of small strokes or elegant lines.' 貝錦,— shell embroidery,' i. e., a piece of silk embroidered till it looks like a beautiful shell;—comp.

就貝 in the Shoo, III. i. Pt. i. 44. By the combination of a few lines a striking effect may be produced, and so had it been when some trivial faults of the writer had been magnified and woven, as it were, by his slanderers, into great crimes. 人 in 1.3 is in the objective, governed by 潛. 大一泰, 'too.'

St. 2. Is explained in the Shwoh-wan by 張口,'to open wide the mouth';'侈一大, 'great.' Choo explains the two characters toge-small and widely extended.' 箕, 'the sieve,' is the name of one of the 28 constellations of the zodiac, part of the sign sagittarius. It is assigned properly to the eastern region of the heavens, but is here spoken of, perhaps from the writer's observation at the time, as in the It consists of four stars, two which are called 'the Heels,' close together, and two, more widely apart, which are called 'the Mouth.' The illustration appears to have a similar meaning to that used in the previous stanza. 淌=丰, 'who presided over the scheming with them?' Various definitions have been proposed of 光直光直, but we may accept that of Maou and Choo, - 口 舌 殼, 'the noise of the the app. of coming tongue going.' and going.' Ll. 3, 4 contain words of warning to the slanderers; which are continued in st. 4. 捷捷 describes them as 'as clever (優利

They receive it [now] indeed, But by and by it will turn to your own hurt.

- 5 The proud are delighted,
 And the troubled are in sorrow.
 O azure Heaven! O azure Heaven!
 Look on those proud men,
 Pity those troubled.
- Who devised their schemes for them?
 I would take those slanderers,
 And throw them to wolves and tigers.
 If these refused to devour them,
 I would cast them into the north.
 If the north refused to receive them,
 I would throw them into the hands of great [Heaven].

說, and 幡幡, as 'changeable (反覆說).' The king is intended chiefly in 1.2. I translate 1.4 in the future tense, as do nearly all the critics;—e.g., Yen Ts'an; 汝能讚人人亦能讚安,其禍將遷及汝矣. The writer, however, projects himself forward into the future, and sees his anticlipation actually realized (既). '汝一汝.

St. 5. 好好 is explained by 樂, 'to be joyful.' and 草草 by 愿, 'to be sorrowful.' The writer here appeals to Heaven.

St. 6. Ll. 1, 2 are repeated from st. 2. Some would elide them from this stauza. Ll. 3—8 contain the strongest expressions of the writer's indignation. 有北一北方, 'tne region of the north,' where there are the rigors of winter and the barrenness of the desert. 有 occurs here, according to a usage, which I do not know how to explain. Wang Yin-che says that 有 is often used as a helping word. 'When one character is wanting to complete the rhythm of a sentence, 有 is employed for that purpose.' This use of 有 is pointed out in the index of characters and phrases to the Shoo. 有吴一昊天, 'Great Heaven;' but the phrase shows that the writer did not rest in the thought of the material heavens. See the article in the index to the Shoo, just alluded to.

7 The way through the willow garden Lies near the acred height.
I, the eunuch Măng-tsze,
Have made this poem.
All ye officers,
Reverently hearken to it.

VII. Kuh fung.

轉將改。維恐及風。習養藥樂。將予將兩。維獨。將不知。

1 Gently blows the east wind;—
The wind followed by the rain.
In the time of fear and dread,
It was all I and you.
In your time of rest and pleasure,
You have turned and cast me off.

St. 7. It is difficult to tell what the writer intends in II. 1, 2, and various views are taken of his meaning. The willow garden lies low (), and the cultivated acres lie above it (), yet they adjoin one another. If is explained by), 'to add to,' here—'to adjoin.' It may be that the writer alludes in 1.1 to himself, and in 1.2 to other officers of higher rank than he had been in. As calamity from the slanderers had befallen him, so might it go on to overtake then;—and therefore, for their warning had he made this ode. If years had beginning the elder one among the eunuchs.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 錦, 甚, cat. 7, t. 1: in 2, 箕, 謀*, cat. 1, t. 1: in 3, 翩*, 人, 信, cat. 12, t. 1: in 4, 幡, 言, 遷, cat. 14: in 5, 好*, 草*, cat. 3, t. 2; 天, 人, 人, cat. 12, t. 1: in 6, 者*, 謀, (prop. cat. 1), 虎, cat. 5, t. 2; 食, 兆, cat. 1, t. 3; 受, 昊*, cat.

3, t. 2: in 7, 丘*, 詩, 之, cat. 1, t. 1; 子, 子, ib., t. 2.

Ode 7. Allusive. Some one complains of the alienation from him of an old friend, produced by the change for the better in the circumstances of the latter.

St. 1. Ll. 1, 2,—see on I. iii. X. 1. certainly a difficulty in ascertaining the relation of these lines to those that follow, and more especially in stanzas 2, 3. On the ode referred to, I have adduced Yen Ts'an's explanation of E E, and he rejoices in the confirmation of it, which stt. 2 and 3 here supply him with. I still adhere, however, to the more common view. Here ll. 1, 2 are supposed to set forth how friends depend on each other. In II. 3, 5, 🌇,—as in I. vii. IX. 1, 2. It is explained by . ; and in I. x. II. 3, we had an instance of the repetition of H, at the commencement of two lines. We can hardly translate 👭 here. L. 4. It was 'I and you;' i.e., we were all to each other.

- Gently blows the east wind;— 2 And the wind is followed by the tornado. In the time of fear and dread, You placed me in your breast. In your time of rest and pleasure, You have cast me off like an abandoned thing.
- Gently blows the east wind;— And on the rock-covered tops of the hills, There is no grass which is not dying, No tree which is not withering. You forget my great virtues, And think of my small faults.

VIII. Luh ngo.

- Long and large grows the ngo;— It is not the ngo but the haou. Alas! alas! my parents, With what toil ye gave me birth!
- 頹 is defined in the Urh-ya as 'a scorehing whirlwind.' The bland east wind, succeeded by this, may allude to the consequences of the ruptured friendship. Neither Maou nor Choo sanction this view; but it seems to me the most natural in the case. 潤一忘 去之物, 'a forgotten or abandoned thing.' St. 8. 程 崑,—as in Li.III. 2. We must suppose that the effects of the tornado following the east wind are described. 菱-夏 落, 'to decay and fall,' = to wither. 怨, as

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 雨, 女, 子, cat. 5, t. 2; in 2, 頹, 懷, 遺, cat. 15, t. 1: in 8, 嵬, 萎, 怨 (prop. cat. 14), ib.

Ode 8. Metaphorical, narrative, and allusive. A son deplokes his hard fate in being pre-VENTED FROM RENDERING THE LAST SERVICES TO HIS PARENTS, AND ENLARGES ON THE PARENT-AL CLAIM. It is a pretty clear conclusion from the piece that the parents of the writer were dead; that he had been kept away from them by the private of th by the exigencies of the public service is assumed by most of the critics, and the thing is in itself probable enough, but it is nowhere distinctly intimated. The internal control of the critical co opposed to it, must be translated by faults. ly intimated. It is by the supposition, however, that a political character is attributed to the ode, as having been directed against the govt. of king Yew.

- 2 Long and large grows the ngo;— It is not the ngo, but the wei. Alas! alas! my parents, With what toil and suffering ye gave me birth!
- 3 When the pitcher is exhausted, It is the shame of the jar. Than to live an orphan, It would be better to have been long dead. Fatherless, who is there to rely on? Motherless, who is there to depend on? When I go abroad, I carry my grief with me; When I come home, I have no one to go to.

Stt. 1,2. 義,—as in iii.II. 蒿,—as in i.I.2. We have not met with Fit before, but it also is the name of a species of southernwood. I have kept the Chinese names, because the meaning turns on the difference between the plants, and a translator would therefore have to give the exact name of each, which I am unable to do. The ngo, it is said, is much superior to the other two plants; and Choo on this founds his interpretation of the stanzas as metaphorical. The writer, according to him, feels that by the discharge of his duty to his parents to the last, he should have proved himself like a ngo, whereas, having failed in that duty, he was only like a hace or a wel. Many critice, however, find the allusive element in the stanras, and not the metaphorical. The rgs, they i say, looks quite different from the Arm and the 's more.' Les certainly imple a that the weir but the writer was unable to distinguish a parents were deal.

them. His blindness was the effect of his grief; and he states the fact to introduce the sorrow which had caused it. I do not attempt to hold the balance between the two views. 侧旁,—as in Liii.VII. 1. 海,—as in i.VIII. 2.

St. 3. fiff is 'n pitcher,' and bill 'n vase or jar' from which the pitcher is supplied. The two are dependent on each other, and so are used as metaphorical of the relation between a son and his parents. Opposite sides are taken in interpreting the difft, parts of the comparison. Some will have the son to be intended by the pitcher, others the parents; and so, with the jar. IIIf - III. 'solitary.' The connection determines the meaning of fiff IL to be 'an orphan.' In the dictionary off is defined by H. We cannot make a distinctl a letween the terms. 出入.—ss in Analisi, 险一

- O my father, who begat me!
 O my mother, who nourished me!
 Ye indulged me, ye fed me,
 Ye held me up, ye supported me,
 Ye looked after me, ye never left me,
 Out and in ye bore me in your arms.
 If I would return your kindness,
 It is like great Heaven, illimitable,
- 5 Cold and bleak is the Southern hill; The rushing wind is very fierce. People all are happy;— Why am I alone thus miserable?
- 6 The Southern hill is very steep;
 The rushing wind is blustering.
 People all are happy;—
 I alone have been unable to finish [my duty].

St. 4. The last line of this st. is in the mouth of every Chinese, when speaking of what is due to parents. In l. 5, 復 is explained by 反 環, and by 不能暫舍, which latter I have adopted. 腹一懷抱, 'to hold in the embrace.' 一, in l. 7, 一其, 'their.' L.4 in prec. st., is one of the examples, adduced by Wang Yin-che to illustrate the expletive use of 之.

St. 5, 6. 南山,—as in iv.V 1, et al. 烈烈 (= 'high and large') and 律律 are taken by Choo as synonymous; and also 發致 and 弗明. Yen Ts'an explains 烈烈 as — 果剂 in I.xv. I. 1,—'cold is the southern hill.' This suits the passage better. The bleak and rugged prospect suggests to the writer the misery of his own condition. 書 is passive—這此書,'suffer this misery.' 卒,'to finish,' meaning to discharge his duty to his parents to the last.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 蒿, 勞, cat. 2: in 2, 蔚, 瘁, cat. 15, t. 3: in 3, 恥, 人, 特, cat. 1, t. 2; 恤*, 至*, cat. 12, t. 8: in 4, 翰, 音, 育, 復, 腹, cat. 3, t. 8; 德, 極, cat. 1, t 8: in 5, 烈, 發, 害, cat. 15, t. 8: in 6, 律, 弗, 平, is.

IX. Ta fung.

- Well loaded with millet were the dishes, And long and curved were the spoons of thorn-wood. The way to Chow was like a whetstone, And straight as an arrow. [So] the officers trod it, And the common people looked on it. When I look back and think of it, My tears run down in streams.
- 2 In the States of the east, large and small, The looms are empty. Thin shoes of dolichos fibre

Ode 9. Allusive and narrative. An officer, OF ONE OF THE STATES OF THE EAST, DEPLORES THE EXACTIONS MADE FROM THEM BY THE GOV-ERNMENT, COMPLAINS OF THE FAVOUR SHOWN TO THE WEST, CONTRASTS THE MISERY OF THE PRESENT WITH THE HAPPINESS OF THE PAST, AND Appeals to the stars of heaven idly behold-ING THEIR CONDITION. According, to the Preface, the writer was 'a great officer of T'an,' one of the smaller States of the east: We know from the Ch'un Ts'ëw that T'an was extinguished by Ts'e in the time of duke Chwang of Loo, so that an officer of it might have written this piece in the reign of king Yew, 'to show the disorder of the times.' This is all that can be said on the statement in the Preface.

St. 1. 复,—see on I. xi. X. 2. As the kwei were used to contain the boiled millet, at feasts and sacrifices, 污,generally used for 'an evening meal,' is taken to signify that article. 有 蒙 describes the appearance of the dishes and their contents. The 上 or 'spoons' were used to take the meat from the tripods in which it had been boiled, and 有 就 describes their appearance as 'long,' acc. to Maou, or 'crooked,' according to Choo. It seems to me that this st. should be taken as narrative; but the critics all make it allusive, the abundance and happiness of the past rising up in contrast to the penury and misery of the present. 周道,一'the way to Chow;' not, as Yen Ts'an and others, 'the way of Chow' in its govt. In 1.6, / must mean 'the common people,' in opp. to 君子 of 1.5. We must understand III of their looking at the road with satisfaction. look back or round.' 🛱 is here difft. from the initial particle, which we cannot translate, and— in the next line. Both of them have the force of 奶, making adverbs of the verbs that precede them. Seun-tsze, indeed, quotes books of the after Han, with 外. 油 is 'the app. of tears falling.'

St. 2. 'The little cast and the great east,'—as in the translation. 清 is the shuttle containing the thread of the woof; 油, the cylinder with the threads of the warp. 其 点 is a good instance of the descriptive use of 主.

Are made to serve to walk on the hoar-frost. Slight and elegant gentlemen Walk along that road to Chow. Their going and coming Makes my heart ache.

- Ye cold waters, issuing variously from the spring,
 Do not soak the firewood I have cut.
 Sorrowful I awake and sigh;—
 Alas for us toiled people!
 The firewood has been cut;—
 Would that it were conveyed home!
 Alas for us the toiled people!
 Would that we could have rest!
- 4 The sons of the east
 Are only summoned [to service], without encouragement;
 While the sons of the west
 Shine in splendid dresses.

Ll. 2, 3,—see I. ix. I. 1. would be the sons of the chiefs of the States, employed on missions to the capital. T'caou-t'caou is descriptive of them, as 'slight-looking,' and unaccustomed to toil; and yet in 1.6 they are represented as making the journey on foot. L. 7. 'They have gone, they have come;' but we can hardly translate there. Ching defines it by in, and then gives it the meaning of , 'empty.'—'empty they go and empty they come.' This does not seem admissible.

St. 3. 例,—as in I. xiv. IV. I. 光泉 is a spring whose waters come out at the side, in rations narrow channels. 夜新二已 蕤 wish. After the toil of preparing the firewood, it would be a relief to have it conveyed home for them; so the people would be glad to have some rest from their toils.

St. 4. 'The sons of the men of the east' are the officers of the States of the east; and 'the sons of the men of the west' are the officers

The sons of boatmen Have furs of the bear and grisly bear. The sons of the poorest families Form the officers in public employment.

If we present them with spirits,
They do not look on them as liquor.
If we give them long girdle-pendants with their stones,
They do not think them long enough.
There is the milky way in heaven,
Which looks down on us in light;
And the three stars together are the Weaving Sisters,
Passing in a day through seven stages [of the sky].

about the capital. 順,—as in iv. IX.7; 來 (now read in 3d tone)—最 無, 'to soothe and encourage;' taken, here, passively. 赵人,—'private men,' people in menial employments. 武一月, 'to be employed.'

L1. 1-4 present unusual difficulties. St. 5. Maou took them as illustrating the want of principle in the king's government, and would understand by at the commencement of each line. L. 8 of st. 4 has spoken of the officers of the capital, and Maou supposes it is said here they were employed, 'some on the ground of their being drunkards, and some not because they were drunkards; some for the splendid gems of their girdle-pendants, and some not be-cause of their abilities.' This is plainly inadmissible. Choo, and even Yen Ts'an, consider the lines as illustrating the perverseness of the king's officers, whom those of the cast could in no way conciliate. We must understand 饋 之 after 或 in 1.1, and 與之以 at the beginning of 1.3. Then 以 in 11.2, 4,—以為. I have followed this view in the translation, though we have, after all, to leave the II un-第一元, nearly as in the Shoo, II.i.7. From l. 5 to the end of the piece we have an interesting instance of Sabian views. The writering instance of Sabian views. er, despairing of help from men, appeals to Heaven; but the Power to help him there he distributes among many heavenly bodies, sup-posing there must be spiritual Beings in them, taking account of human affairs. And even this appeal proves in vain. 運 is 'the milky way,' called also 天河;—see on Pt. III. iii. IV. 織女, 'weaving ladies,' is the name of three stars in Lyra, in the form of a triangle. denotes that triangular shape,—阳 新. cannot get this meaning from 是支, as it is defined in the diet.; but the Shwoh-wan quotes the line with 支 and L by the side, which is thus defined in the Yuh-p'cen (玉篇). Choo says he does not understand 一课, but he quotes the view of Ching, which I have given. The stars seem to go round the circumference of the heavens, divided into 12 spaces, in a day and night. They would accomplish 6 of those in a day, but as their motion is rather in advance of that of the sun, they have entered into the 7th space by the time he is up with them again.

- Although they go through their seven stages, They complete no bright work for us. Brilliant shine the Draught Oxen, But they do not serve to draw our carts. In the east there is Lucifer; In the west there is Hesperus; Long and curved is the Rabbit Net of the sky;-But they only occupy their places.
- In the south is the Sieve, But it is of no use to sift. In the north is the Ladle, But it lades out no liquor. In the south is the Sieve Idly showing its mouth. In the north is the Ladle, Raising its handle in the west.

襄 is thus taken—駕—更其肆, as in I. iv. II. 2.

St. 6. 報章,—'bright piece of recompense.' The sisters, with all their weaving, working on the woof, with no warp, made nothing out for the good of the afflicted east. The Draughtoxen' is the name of some stars in the neck of describes their bright appearance. - 車箱; 'the box or body of a carriage;' -used for the carriage itself. 服箱='to draw the carriage." Lëw E (劉彝) says, 'The Metal star (Venus) is in the east in the morning, thus opening the brightness of the day (尼文 卯); and it is in the west in the evening, thus prolonging (庚-經) the length of the day (長庚).' The writer, of the ode, however, evidently took Lucifer and Hesperus to be two stars. E is the Hyades, supposed to resemble a rabbit net. L. 8 belongs to the three stars last mentioned, 'placed in their positions ( = 行 列]),' but exercising no beneficent influence on mundane affairs.

St. 7. 箕,—see VI. 2. But the Sieve did nohere is a thing to vindicate its name. constellation in Sagittarius, supposed to resemble a Ladle for taking spirits from a jar; it was as ineffectual for any purpose, as the Sieve. The Sieve's two diverging stars, turned to the east, looked as if it records the handle looked as if it would devour it, and the handle of the Ladle in the west looked as if it would take up the contents of the east.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 上, 砥 " 失, 厦, 視, 涕, cat. 15, t. 2: in 2, 東, 空, cat. Sze yuch.

- In the fourth month comes summer, And in the sixth month the heat begins to decrease. Were not my forefathers men? How can they endure that I should be [thus]?
- The autumn days become cold, And the plants all decay. Amid such distress of disorder and dispersion, Whither can I betake myself?
- The winter days are very fierce, And the storm blows in rapid gusts. People all are happy; Why do I alone suffer this misery?

9; 泵, 行., cat. 10; 來, 欢., cat. 1, t. 1: in allusive element in various ways. In ll.3 4 the writer appeals to his forefathers, as if they 3, 泉, 欢, cat. 14; 素, 人, cat. 12, t. 1; 載, could help him in his extremity. He was their 3, 泉, 歎, cat.14; 薪, 人, cat.12, t.1; 截, 息, cat.1, t.3: in 4, 子, 子, 子, 子 cat.1, t.2; 來, 服 " ib., t.8; 裘 " 試, ib., t.1: in v, 漿, 長, 光, 襄, ent. 10: in 6, 襄, 章, 箱, 明., 庚., 行., ib.: in 8, 楊, 漿, ib.; 舌棍 cat. 15, t. 8.

Ode 10. Allusive and narrative. CER BITTERLY DEPLORES THE OPPRESSION AND MISERY OF THE TIMES. Kënng Ping-chang thinks the piece was made in the last year of king Yëw, such is the hopelessness which it expresses; but there is nothing in the language to enable us to say anything with certainty as to its date.

St. 1. The months here are evidently those of the Hëa calendar. 但是是但, 'the heat goes,' i.e., begins to go. Ll.1 and 2 thus seem to say that, in the sphere of nature, suffering did not always continue, whereas, in the writer's experience, there was no end to his suf-fering. The critics, however, bring out the fering.

descendant; they might still be able to sympathize with him. I agree with Wang Yin-che in taking 🙃 in l. 4 as-75. Some make it- 🗑.

凄凄,—as in I. vii. XVI. 1. 俱, as often. 朋一满, 'to be sick,' 'to decay.' There is reason to believe that Maou's text originally had JE, which is evidently to be preferred. Eff, both by Maou and Choo, is defined by 虑, 'sorrow;' but there is no necessity for giving that new meaning to the term, as the common one of the, 'separation,' 'dispersion,' suits the passage at least equally well; —so, Yeu Ts'an. Moh=流, 'to be distressed.' 爱 must here—於何, 'where.' The 'Family Sayings' quote the line with 奚. 滴一 至, 'to go to.'

St. 3. See VIII. 5.

- 4 On the mountain are fine trees,—
 Chestnut trees and plum trees.
 Of their degenerating into ravening thieves,
 I know not the evil cause.
- 5 Look at the waters of that spring, Sometimes clear, sometimes muddy. I am every day coming into contact with misfortune; How can I be happy?
- 6 Grandly flow the Këang and the Han, Regulators of the southern States. Worn out as I am with service, He yet takes no notice of me.
- 7 I am not an eagle nor a hawk,
 Which flies aloft to heaven.
 I am not a sturgeon, large or small,
 Which can dive and hide in the deep.

St. 4. 计 is here evidently used for 'trees.' 宾 is the particle, 二维. Ll. 3, 4, speak of the ministers of the king's government. Very different were their high places, with them occupying them, from the hills with their fine trees. 这一意, 'to be changed,' 'to be degenerated.'

St. 5. The only difficulty here is with 構. Maou defines it by 成, 'to complete,' to work out;' and Ching by 合集, 'to collect' 'to bring together;' but then they expand 我 into 我 諸侯, 'our princes of States.' Choo accepts the explanation of the term by 合, but by and by for 構 漏 he gives 遭害, 'to meet with injury.' It would be well to say here, simply, that 構=遭, 'to meet with.' 云 is here a particle (語中助詞).

St. 6 A handle for the sort silk threads,' and hence, 'to regulate.' The Këang and Han defined the boundaries of the States, drained their territories, served as lines of defence, and were otherwise of service to them, which they all acknowledged. The writer's services to the kingdom, however, were taken no notice of. A handle for that such a person was in existence.' We must understand that in the 4th l. the writer has the king in view.

告維作君根隰藤山耸哀。以歌。子槐。有薇。有

8 On the hills are the turtle-foot and thorn ferns; In the marshes are the medlar and the c. I, an officer, have made this song, To make known my plaint.

St. 7 is narrative, and sets forth very strikingly the hardship of the writer's lot, unable in any way to escape from his own and the general mistry. It is read ton, and explained by III. I am eagle. The character is ordinarily read then, meaning a quail, which, evidently, cannot be intended here. The reading is found, which, we may presume, is more correct. It is some kind of hawk. A paper kite is called in Chinese III. L. 2,—as in H. 1. L. 3,—see I. v. III. 4.

St. Finand Fig.—see I. iii. II. 2, 3. The file is described as 'the red file, a tree with small leaves, bifid, and sharp, the bark coarse and irregularly broken, furnishing a hard wood, used by wheel-wrights.' The author of the Japanese plates says he does not know the tree. Yen Ts'an would read it, probably the arum aquaticum. The keuch and uci were eatable, he says, and so must the ke and the t'e be, the writer meaning to say that he would retire to the hills and marshes, and support his life by whatever eatable he could find. The two lines however, seem rather to refer to the writer's condition,—out of place and out of heart.

The rhymes are in st. 1, 夏*, 暑, 子, cat. 5, t. 2: in 2, 凄, 腓, 闆, cat. 15, t. 1: in 3, 烈, 發, 害, ib., t. 3: in 4, 梅*, 尤*, cat. 1, t. 1: in 5, 潤, 穀, cat. 3, t. 3: in 6, 紀, 仕, 有*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 6, 天, 淵, cat. 12, t. 1: in 8, 薇, 梗, 哀, cat. 15, t. 1.

- I ascend that northern hill, And gather the medlars. An officer, strong and vigorous, Morning and evening I am engaged in service. The king's business is not to be slackly performed; And my parents are left in sorrow.
 - 2 Under the wide heaven, All is the king's land. Within the sea-boundaries of the land, All are the king's servants.

TITLE OF THE BOOK.—北山之什二 之六, 'The Decade of Pih-shan; Book VI. of Part. II.'

Ode 1. Narrative. An officer complains of the arduous and continual duties unequally imposed upon him, and keeping him away from his duty to his parents, while others were left to enjoy their ease. See the remarks of Mencius on this ode, V. Pt. i., IV. 2.

St. 1. is the initial particle. It is impossible to say whether P is here the willow, or the medlar tree. The analogy of many other odes, where ascending a hill is spoken of, make us suppose that the object of the writer was to look mournfully in the direction of his home.

The writer refers to himslf in 土子, 'an officer and a gentleman.' Both Maou and Choo define 偕 偕 by 强 北 貌,—as in the translation. 從事,—as with us, 'to pursue business.' L.5,—as in I.x.VIII., et al. 憂 is here used actively.

His great officers are unfair,— Making me serve thus as if I alone were worthy.

- 3 My four horses never halt;
 The king's business allows no rest.
 They praise me as not yet old;
 They think few like me in vigour.
 While the backbone retains its strength,
 I must plan and labour in all parts of the kingdom.
- 4 Some enjoy their ease and rest,
 And some are worn out in the service of the State;
 Some rest and loll upon their couches,
 And some never cease marching about.
- 5 Some never hear a sound, And some are cruelly toiled; Some lazily roost, on their backs looking up, And some are all-bustled in the service of the king.

大夫 are intended the ministers at the court, with whom was the direction of the govt., the writer shrinking from charging the hardships of his lot on the king himself. The 'Complete Digest' expands the last line—乃使我朝夕從事,而獨以賢推我也.
St. 3. 彭彭 has occurred twice before, but

St. 3. 彭彭 has occurred twice before, but with a difft. meaning. Here it 一不得息, 'cannot rest.' The meaning of 傍傍 is nearly the same. The subject of 嘉 and 解 is the 大夫 of last stanza. Both characters are to be taken as verbs,—as in the transl. 將一壯, 'strong.' 旅一膂, 'the backbone.' 經營,—經一經畫, 'to describe, or map out;' 營一造, 'to make.' When a person builds a house, he is said—經之,營之.

St. 4. This and the following stanzas set forth the unfairness, with which the ministers of the govt. dealt with the various officers. 派派一安息领, 'the app. of resting at ease.' 表答,—as in st. 6 of last ode. 仅,—'to lie down;—here used contemptuously.

不或八咎。慘飲或掌。王為。靡風或慘酒。湛事議。出畏或樂 鞅

6 Some indulge long in pleasure and drinking, And some are miserable, in apprehension of blame; Some, at home and abroad, pass critical remarks, And some have everything to do.

II. Woo tsëang ta keu.

底祇百無塵煎太無 太無 女無 兮。息憂。息 兮。自 車。將 車將

1 Do not push forward a waggon;—
You will only raise the dust about yourself.
Do not think of all your anxieties;—
You will only make yourself ill.

St. 5. 四歲,—'any crying out, or noise,' outside. 一, 'to roost;'—contemptuous. Both Maou and Choo define 英掌by失容, 'disordered,' 'without any manners,' all in a bustle and fume. Ch'ing gives to 英 the meaning of 'to carry on the head,' and 掌一'to carry in the palms,' so that the combination represents the app. of a man overburdened. This is the meaning, however we make it out from the characters.

St. 6. 混,—as in i. I. 3. 咎,—as in v. I. 3. 出入,—'going out and coming in;'—everywhere, continually. 屈 (in 3d tone, 諷),—'to censure,' 'to satirize.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 杷, 子, 事, 母*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 2, 下*, 士, cat. 5, t. 2; 资, 臣, 均, 賢, cat. 12, t. 1: in 3, 彭, 傍, 將, 剛, 方, cat. 10: in 4, 息, 國, cat. 1, t 3: 牀. 行*, cat. 10: in 5, 號, 勞, cat. 2; 仰. 掌, cat. 10: in 6, 酒, 씀, cat. 3, t. 2; it*, 爲*, cat. 17.

Ode 2. Allusive. Some officer, overloaded in the king's service, thinks it better to try and dismiss his troubles from his MIND. Such is the view taken of this short piece by Choo. The Preface says the at the officer expresses his regret for having redecommended unworthy persons—'little men'—'le opublic employments;—regret which is in vait a. This view is found in Seun King () A finite in the language to suggest to be us the idea of 'little men.'

Maou gives no explanation of 制 Choo, after Ching, defines it by 扶迫 support and push forward.' 'A large car: [rist] i. e., a waggon, is one that requires the strepagh of oxen. Pushing forward a waggon certa suggests the idea of being subjected to he and labours, rather than the having recomment unworthy creatures to employment. The 'just,' 'only.' 浜 is defined by 病, 'to be ill.'
There is evidently some error of the text in the character; for the line will not rhyme as it stands. Lew E proposes to read 洭, and has an ingenious argument to show how the or 唇 of that character was changed into 仄 when the stone tablets of the text of the classic were prepared under the Tang dynasty. Twanshe does not admit its validity; but I feel sure the character in the text is an error. There is some evidence for 15, both the meaning and tone of which are suitable.

- Do not push forward a waggon; The dust will only blind you. Do not think of all your anxieties;— You will not emerge from imperfect views.
- Do not push forward a waggon;— The dust will only becloud you. Do not think of all your anxieties;— You will only weigh yourself down.

III. Seaou ming.

O bright and high Heaven, Who enlightenest and rulest this lower world! I marched on this expedition to the west, As far as this wilderness of K'ëw. From the first day of the second month,

St. 2. 冥冥-昏晦. 'dark,' 'obscure.' The last character in the stanza is interchangeable with 默. Choo explains it by 小明, as in the translation; Maou, by I, 'light;' and then Ching takes # as='come forth into:'-which is not admissible.

St. 3. 置作一亩, 'to cover,' 'to becloud.' 重 is said to be equivalent to 累, 'to involve;' but its proper meaning answers sufficiently well.

The rhymes are—in st. 1. 庭. 涯 (see above on st. 1), cat. 12, t. 1: in 2, 冥. 頒. cat. 11: in 3, 跳, 重, cat. 9.

Ode 3. Narrative. An officer, kept long abroad on distant survice, deplores the HARDSHIPS OF HIS LOT, AND TENDERS GOOD AD- ode of last Book. The Preface says that in this a great officer expresses his regret at taking service in an age of disorder; but while the writer deplores his lot, he expresses neither repentance nor regret. However hard it is, he braces himself to it, and tenders loyal advice to his friends. We must suppose, with Ying-tah, that he was an officer of high rank, in charge of some great expedition.

照点—"enlightenest and comest to.' The idea of Em here is nearly equivalent to 'to rule.' Choo defines 征 by 行, 'to march: but it is well to bring out the idea of 'an expedition,' which is in it. Where the wild country of Kin was we do not know. 初吉, —'in the beginning, which was lucky.' This is taken by all the critics to mean 明日, the first day of the mean.' 吉is elsewhere used NAMESHIPS OF HIS LOT, AND TENDERS GOOD ADVICE TO HIS MORE FORTUNATE FRIENDS AT for the first day of the meson, the despatch most to court. See what has been said on the title of the 1st educations, this piece in the remarks on the title of the 1st education.

I have passed through the cold and the heat.

My heart is sad;

The poison [of my lot] is too bitter.

I think of those [at court] in their offices,

And my tears flow down like rain.

Do I not wish to return?

But I fear the net for crime.

2 Formerly, when I set out, The sun and moon had renewed the year. When shall I return?

The year is now late.

I think how I am alone,

While the affairs devolving on me are very many.

My heart is sad,

And I am toiled without any leisure.

I think of those [at court] in their offices,

Looking back to them with fond regard.

the second month of spring,—the second month of the Hëa year; and I do not see anything irreconcileable between this 5th line, and 1.2 of stt.2 and 3. There is no necessity therefore for the construction of Këang Ping-chang, who connects this line and the 4th, saying the troops had left at the beginning of the 1st month, and arrived in the wilderness of K'ëw a month after. This is very forced. L.6. Maou defines have a winter towards the end of the second year, when the relieving troops ought to have arrived. A winter had passed, and a second summer.

L. 8. I can only understand the translation, after Choo. L. 3 in stt. 4,6 seems decisive on this point. Yen Ts'an adopts the meaning of the translation of of the laid on the laid on the last line.

St. 2. L. 2. 除 is used here as in i.VI.I.

Both Maou and Choo explain it by 除陳

(一舊) 生新, 'the taking away of the old,

Do I not wish to return? But I am afraid of reproof and anger.

3 Formerly, when I set out,

The sun and moon were giving a mild warmth.

When shall I return?

The affairs of government are become more urgent.

It is late in the year,

And we are gathering the southernwood, and reaping the beans.

My heart is sad;

I give myself nothing but distress.

When I think of those [at court] in their offices,

I rise and pass the night outside.

Do I not wish to return?

But I am afraid of the vicissitudes of things.

4 Ah! ye gentlemen!
Do not reckon on your rest being permanent.

and the birth of the new.' Certainly, the first month of the year may thus be described better than the second; but we need not suppose that the writer carefully weighed all his expressions. 二 is the particle. L.4,—as in I.z.I. 1. 單,—as in v.IX.3. L.10. 隆略一略言, in x.IX.1. 讀一責, 'to reprove.'

St. 3. L. 2 與一媛, 'to be warm.' This suits the 2d month of spring well enough. L.4. 壓一急, 'urgent.' L.6 points to the end of the autumn or the beginning of winter. 蕭,—as in I.vi. VIII. 2. Yen Ts'an expands 1.8 by 我仕非其時,自遺此憂愛, 'By taking service at an improper time, I have

St. 4. Këang Ping-chang is the only scholar, so far as I know, who argues that in this stanza and the next, the writer is addressing himself; and his proof for his strange opinion is altogether defective. The writer addresses his friends, to whom he has made reference in all the previous stanzas. Choo expands the 2d line by 無以安愿為常,言當

Quietly fulfil the duties of your offices, Associating with the correct and upright. So shall the Spirits hearken to you, And give you good.

5 Ah! ye gentlemen!
Do not reckon on your repose being permanent.
Quietly fulfil the duties of your offices,
Loving the correct and upright.
So shall the Spirits hearken to you,
And give you large measures of bright happiness.

IV. Koo chung.

君淑且憂湯淮將鼓華鼓子。人傷。心湯。水將。鐘鐘

1 His bells ring out tsëang-tsëang,
While the waters of the Hwae go sweeping on;
Sad is my heart and wounded.
The virtuous sovereigns [of old],—
In my heart, indeed, I cannot forget them.

有勞時,勿懷安也, 'Do not think your present rest will be permanent;—there will come a time of trouble, do not cherish that rest as what you most prize.' The meaning is clear if we take the line in the indicative mood;—'there is no such thing as permanent abiding in repose.' Choo explains 鼠 in l.4 by 鼠, 'to assist;' but there is no necessity for any other than its more common meaning—'to be with.' 'to associate with.' In l.5, the first — 鼠 as often:—'The Spirits. they will hear.' The second loses its force in the preceding verb. In l.6, 以,—鼠 'to give to.' Kang-shing takes 式—鼠, 'to use;' but we may take it, as heretofore, as a particle. Choo explains with by

Fig. 'emolument;' but I prefer a more general meaning.

In st. 5. 介一大, 'great,' 'to make great.'
景一 'bright;' not 'great,' as both Maou and Choo say.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 土, 野*, 暑·苦, 雨, 暑, cat. 5, t. 2: in 2, 除. 莫. 庶, 服*, 顧, 怒, iò.: in 3, 奥, 蹙*, 菽, 戚*, 宿, 覆, cat. 8, t. 8; in 4, 庭, 與, 女, cat. 5, t. 2: in 5, 息, 直, 福*, cat. 1, t. 3.

Ode 4. Narrative. Supposed to refer to and deplore some expedition of king Yew

- 2 His drums ring out këae-këae,
 While the waters of the Hwae rush along;
 My heart is sad and grieved.
 Of the virtuous sovereigns [of old]
 The virtue was without flaw.
- His bells ring out, his large drums resound; There are the three islands in the Hwae; Sad is my heart and moved.

 Of the virtuous sovereigns [of old] The virtue was different from this.
- 4 His bells ring out k'in-k'in;
 His lutes, large and small, give their notes;
 The tones of his organs and sounding stones are in unison.
 They sing the Ya and the Nan,
 Dancing to their flutes without error.

TO THE COUNTRY OF THE HWAE, WHERE HE ABANDONED HIMSELF TO THE DELIGHTS OF MUSIC. Choo says that he does not understand this piece, and can give no account therefore of the object of its composition; and the Preface says nothing more than that it was directed against king Yew. Allowing that king Yew was contemplated in it, its argument must be given much as I have done. The difficulty with Choo and others is that there is no account anywhere of Yëw's having undertaken an expedition to the country about the Hwae. I agree with Yen Ts'an that if anything be related in one of the King, that is a sufficient historical voucher for it (經卽史也); but the remark is not applicable here, for in the ode there is no mention of king Yew. A sentence is adduced in evidence of Yëw's having had to do with the tribes of this part of the kingdom, by Këang, out of a narrative by Tso-she, under the 4th year of duke Ch'aou, par. 2; but it is not to the point. It is quite conceivable, however, that a sovereign of Yëw's character should have marched to the Hwae to punish the wild tribes of the region, and have amused himself as it is supposed this ode describes him to have done. Such an expedition would be a historical parallel to Caligula's against Britain.

Ll. 1, 2 in all the stt. 鼓 is the verb,—'to strike:'—'They strike the bells.' 以, 時中, and 欽欽, are all intended to give the sound of the bells. Kaou in st. 3 is described as 'a large drum, carried in a carriage, in war-like expeditions, and long.' 为,—as in L v. IV. 4; 治 is said to have a similar meaning. What the 'three islands' of the Hwae were, or where, we do not know. On the 光, see the Shoo, III. i. Pt. i. 28, 29.

V. Ts'oo ts'ze.

1 Thick grew the tribulus [on the ground],
But they cleared away its thorny bushes.
Why did they this of old?
That we might plant our millet and sacrificial millet;
That our millet might be abundant,
And our sacrificial millet luxuriant.
When our barns are full,

I. 3 in st. 3. 抽 is defined in the Urh-ya by 動, 'to be agitated.' The Shwoh-wan gives the character as 曲 with 心 at the side.

as or like the conduct of Yew.

Ll. 3-6 in st. 4. Maou and many others take 笙磬 as the name of a certain kind of k'ing or sounding stone; but there is no necessity for doing so, and the 同音 certainly agrees better with the natural construction of them as two different instruments. Maou and Ching again take Ya and Nan as the names of certain dances or certain pieces of music; but even the critics who generally defer to their authority do not agree with them here. The Nan are the odes of the Chow-nan and the Shaou-nan. We need have no difficulty in admitting that they existed as a collection in the time of Yew, we hesitate in admitting that a portion of the Ya also existed as a collection,—those, perhaps attributed to the duke of Chow. 答 is equivalent to 'to dance,'—as in I.iii. XIII.3. 以 are all = 用, 'to use.' 不僭, - 'without transgressing,' i.e., violating the rules of the music or the dance.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 將, 傷, 傷, 忘, cat. 10: in 2, 階, 湝, 悲, 囘, cat. 15, t. 1: in 3, 整*, 洲, 妯, 猹, cat. 3, t, 2: in 4, 欽, 乔音 黃*, 僭, cat. 7, t. 1.

Ode 5. Narrative. SACRIFICIAL AND FESTAL SERVICES IN THE ANCESTRAL TEMPLE; AND THEIR CONNECTION WITH ATTENTION TO HUSBANDRY. This piece and the nine others which follow are all said, in the Preface, to have been directed against king Yew; but there is nothing in them to lead our thoughts to him, nothing to indicate dissatisfaction in the mind of the writer or writers with any one. The device by which the critics explain the statement of the Preface can hardly be called ingenious :- 'The sad experience of the writers,' it is said, 'leads them to describe the scenes of a happier time in the past (傷今思古). On this view these odes tell us not what the writers saw passing beneath their own eyes, but of what they might have seen if they had lived two or three hundred years earlier;—and this without the slightest indication that they are doing so! I confess that this decade of odes shakes any confidence which I have been disposed to put in the Preface very much.

In fact, these odes are out of place among the mass of others belonging to a degenerate time (), and fully deserved to be ranked with the first eighteen pieces of this Part, which are ascribed to the duke of Chow.

Choo thinks the piece celebrates the services in the temple of some noble landed proprietor, and he says that the in 1.4 of st. I is that individual's designation of himself. I incline rather to the view of others, put in a strong light by Këang, that the services spoken of are those of the king's ancestral temple. The is simply the poet's identification of himself with the Parties of whom he sings.

St. I, 夾,—see on Liv.II. 陳 is another name for it as a thorny bush. 楚楚 expresses the luxuriance and denseness of the growth. 言 is the initial particle; and 抽 = 除, 'to take away.' L. 3 = 古人何乃爲此事

And our stacks can be counted by tens of myriads, We proceed to make spirits and prepare viands, For offerings and sacrifice; We seat the representatives of the dead, and urge them to eat:—

Thus seeking to increase our bright happiness.

With correct and reverent deportment,
The oxen and sheep all pure,
We proceed to the winter and autumnal sacrifices.
Some flay [the victims]; some boil [their flesh];
Some arrange [the meat]; some adjust [the pieces of it].
The priest sacrifices inside the temple gate,

Ms, "Why was it that the ancients did this?" The writer ascends, in the line, in thought, to the first founders of the Chow dynasty, who laid its foundations in the attention which they paid to agriculture. The answer to the question 與與and 異異 are is given in 11.4—6. synonymous expressions, denoting the plentiful app. of the crops. It in 1.7 is incompatible with the view of the old interpreters, that the piece is descriptive of the practices of an an-Mi,—the stacks in which the cient time. sheaves of grain were built up in the fields. L. 10 = 以原元, 'wherewith to offer sacrifices.' Ying-tah observes that we are not to distinguish between and jil, and that the line stands as it does from the necessity of the poet. 妥一安, 'to make comfortable.' The object of this character is the A, mentioned in st. 5, a representative or personator of the worthy who was sacrificed to. The dead, existing now in their MH or spirit-state, of course were not visible, and one of the sacrificer's relatives was selected to represent him in the ceremony. The representative was supposed to be taken possession of for the time by the represented, so that we read in the Le Ke, - J-1,]]]]] 泵, 'The She was the visible image of the spirit.' The person selected for this part, according to certain rules found, up and down, in the Le Ke, was neccessarily inferior in rank to the principal sacrificer, yet for the time he was superior to him, occupying the place of his departed ancestor. This circumstance, it was supposed, would make him feel uncomfortable; and therefore as soon as he appeared in the temple, the sacrificer was instructed, by the director of the ceremonies, to ask him to be scated, and to place him at ease; after which he was urged to cat, and to take some refreshment, which is here expressed by (()). [The practice of using these representatives of the dead was disused after the Chow dynasty.]

St. 2 describes the progress of the sacrifice, but still only a preparatory stage of it, L. 1 is explained by , 'were of correct deportment,' and is to be understood of the various officers whose functions are described in ll. 4, 5. In l. 2, must be construed with , so that the two characters,—'pure-like are.' If we take as the pronoun, the line is to me altogether out of connection. L. 3,—see i.VI. 4. The names of the sacrifices are used for the offering them; and while only two of the sensonal sacrifices are mentioned, we must extend them so as to include the other two. , —as in I. xv. I. 6. Choo interprets of putting the prepared meat on the trays or stands for it, and then carrying the trays into the temple. This is the view of the characters given by Ching; but these operations are appropriate more to

And all the service is complete and brilliant. Grandly come our progenitors; Their Spirits happily enjoy the offerings; Their filial descendant receives blessing:—They will reward him with great happiness, With myriads of years, life without end.

They attend to the furnaces with reverence;
They prepare the trays, which are very large;
Some for the roast meat; some for the broiled.
Wives presiding are still and reverent,
Preparing the numerous [smaller] dishes.
The guests and visitors

the service described in the next st. I have therefore followed Maou, who defines by 陳于牙, and 將 by 齊其肉, 'arrange the meat on stands,' and 'adjust the pieces of it' Kënng supports this view. L. 6. 刑儿, 'to pray,' one who makes or recites prayers.' is evident that the word is here the designation of an officer, and not a verb,—as Lacharme makes it, 'Ritus precationum peraguntur.' I translate it by priest, for want of a better term; see Ana., VI. xiv. is 'the space inside the gate of the temple;'-as if to give the Spirits of the dead a welcome on their entrance into the L.8. By 先祖 we are to understand all the ancestors to whom the sacrifices were presented. 皇 is defined by 大, 'great,' and 君, 'ruler.' The 'Complete Digest' gives the meaning as I have done,一先祖儼君 臨之尊. L.9. Choo takes 加保 as an honourable designation of the F, which we might translate 'surety of the Spirits.' The structure of the line, corresponding to the one before, so that 保 剻 seems to answer to 先 MI, serves to recommend this view; but in st. 5 is evidently different from the J.

I must therefore take 保, with Maou, as— 安, 'quietly,' 'happily,' aud construe as in the translation. L.9. 孝孫, 'filial grandson,' filial descendant, is the name given to the sacrificer.

St. 8 goes on to the setting forth and further business of the sacrifice. 载, 'to hold,' = to attend to. 暗暗 expresses 'reverence of manner.' L.2. The were stands, of no great height, on which the meat and its accompaniments were placed. L.S. Choo takes A of the roasted flesh generally; 表 of the broiled liver. Ying-tah says that meat on which the operation of A passed was more difficult to cook, and required to be kept nearer the fire than that which was subjected to 炙. L.4. 君婦=主婦, the presiding wives;'--the queen and other ladies of the harem; -see the note on the Interpretation of 莫莫 denotes 'a still and reverent =, = as in I.xv. V.2; dishes conmanner.' taining sauces, cakes, condiments, &c. Ll.6

—9. The guests and visitors were nobles and officers of different surnames from the sacrificer, chosen by divination to take part in the sacrificial service. L. 7 describes the ceremonics of

Present the cup, and drink all round.
Every form is according to rule;
Every smile and word are as they should be.
The Spirits quietly come,
And respond with great blessings:—
Myriads of years as the [fitting] reward.

We are very much exhausted,
And have performed every ceremony without error.
The able priest announces [the will of the Spirits],
And goes to the filial descendant to convey it.
'Fragrant has been your filial sacrifice,
And the Spirits have enjoyed your spirits and viands.
They confer upon you a hundred blessings;
Each as it is desired, each as sure as law.
You have been exact and expeditious;

drinking which took place between them, the representative of the dead, and the sacrificer; which it would be tedious to attempt to describe in detail. 交 借, "crosswise and diagonally," about equal to our 'all round.' 卒一說' altogether.' 反 一合 於 法 反, "according to rule;" 和一得 其 宜, — as in the translation. It seems to me, however, that these four lines are out of place at this part of the service, and that they would come in better in a description of the feast, which followed the sacrifice. L. 9. 而 保,—as in last stanza. 将一家, 'to come.' I suppose the spirits would come in the persons of their representatives. L. 12. 百年一報, 'to recompense.' This would be the reward of the sacrificer for his filial dutifulness.

St. 4. In this stanza and the next we have the conclusion of the sacrifice. 熯二退, 'to be exhausted,' and the critics expand it by 新力

I is explained by H; but we need hardly seek to translate it. 善其事日工,"To be skilful at one's business is called T. 告一致神意以告主人,'conveys the mind of the Spirits, and announces it to the sacrificer;' having learned their mind from their 登二子, 'to give;' but we representatives. must understand the term here of the conveying the message he was charged with. 否, 'fragrant.' 盾,—'to delight in,' 'to rel-,—as in i.VI.4. L.8. 縱 is explained by 期. 'to expect,' 'to prognosticate;' 式 一法, 'what is law or rule.' The meaning must be, I think, as I have expressed it. I cannot understand Choo, when he says that ## I intimates 'the number of the blessings.'

ग्रीहै, 'the strength of our sinews is exhausted.'

You have been correct and careful: They will ever confer on you the choicest favours, In myriads and tens of myriads.'

The ceremonies having thus been completed,
And the bells and drums having given their warning,
The filial descendant goes to his place,
And the able priest makes his announcement,
'The Spirits have drunk to the full.'
The great representative of the dead then rises,
And the bells and drums escort his withdrawal,
[On which] the Spirits tranquilly return [to their place].
All the servants, and the presiding wives,
Remove [the trays and dishes] without delay.
The [descendant's] uncles and cousins
All repair to the private feast.

L1.9, 10 are complimentary to the master of the sacrifice on the manner in which all the ceremonies of the service had been attended to. 一座一座, 'to arrange,' 'exact;' 稷一灰, 'to be expeditious;' 王一上, 'correct;' 胶, 'to charge,' 'careful.' 極一至, 'to the utmost.' 時一是, which we may consider as meaning 'to be,' or 一次是, 'hereupon;' but we can hardly translate it.

St. 5 brings us to the conclusion of the sacri-

St. 5 brings us to the conclusion of the sacrifice. The in 1.2 is defined by to announce, the meaning being that the music now announced the end of the service (to an announced the end of the service, descended from the hall of ceremony, and took his place at the foot of the stair on the east,—the place appropriate to him, I suppose, in dismissing his guests. L.4,—as in the last st. The priest took the message contained in 1.5 to the sacrificer from the representative of the Spirits. Ying-tah is quite incorrect in supposing that the message was taken from the master to the representative. 具一俱, 'all.' We cannot suppose 醛 to mean anything more than the translation expresses. L. 8. This line was referred to in connection with the 8th of st. 2, as proving that 胂保 could not be another name for the P. Choo seems not to identify them here, for he says,-送尸而神歸, 'when the She are escorted away, the Spirits return, Where do they return to? The answer to this given by Ch'ing K'ang-shing is—'to heaven.' 军一家 諸宰 applies to all the 室, 'a steward.' servants about the household, or the royal estab-君婦,-as in st. 3. lishment. to remove;' kindred in meaning with 微. The removal of the dishes terminated the sacrificial service, but the sacrificer proceeded to entertain his relatives at a private feast. 兄弟,—'all, old and young, who were of the same surname as the sacrificer.' 備一具, 'all.'

The musicians all go in to perform,
And give their soothing aid at the second blessing.
Your viands are set forth;
There is no dissatisfaction, but all feel happy.
They drink to the full, and eat to the full;
Great and small, they bow their heads, [saying],
'The Spirits enjoyed your spirits and viands,
And will cause you to live long.
Your sacrifices, all in their seasons,
Are completely discharged by you.
May your sons and your grandsons
Never fail to perpetuate these services!'

VI. Sin nan shan.

田曾原昀甸維南信山信之。孫隰。昀之。禹山。彼南

Yes, [all about] that southern hill
Was made manageable by Yu.
Its plains and marshes being opened up,
It was made into fields by the distant descendant.

言 has the force of 世 and 焉, terminating with a pause the first member of the line.

St. 6. The feast was given in the apartment of the temple behind the hall where the sacrifice had been performed, so that the musicians are represented as entering—going in—to continue at the feast the music which they had discoursed at the sacrifice. In l.2 the feast is called to the sacrifice. In l.2 the feast is called to the sacrifice following on the sacrifice. They had drunk then; now they were both to eat and drink. The sim in l.3 cannot be got rid of, as in st. 2. We must, I think, come to the conclusion that the ode was written in compliment to the sacrifice—the king, probably—by one of the relatives who shared in the feast; and so here he addresses him directly. 将一進, 'to send forward,' or 行, 'to go round.' 慶,—'to rejoice,' 'be happy.' Ll. 9, 10 are descriptive of the sacrifice that had been offered, and of all others of the same kind in the same temple, so that the Head of the family discharged them (盡之=盡其禮), in great accordance with the statutes (惠一順), and with the seasons for them. 杏一麼, 'to discontinue;' 号,—'to lead out,'—to prolong. 之 refers to the sacrifices.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 棘. 稷, 翼. 億, 食, 祀. 侑., 福., cat. 1, t. 3: in 2, 蹌,

We define their boundaries, we form their smaller divisions, And make the acres lie, here to the south, there to the east.

2 The heavens over head are one arch of clouds, Snowing in multitudinous flakes.
There is superadded the drizzling rain.
When [the land] has received the moistening, Soaking influence abundantly,
It produces all our kinds of grain.

羊, 营, 亨*, 將, 前*, 明*, 皇, 饗, 慶*, 疆, cat. 10: in 8, 踖*, 碩, 炙*, 莫, 庶, 客*, 錯, 度, 獲*, 格*, 酢*, cat. 5, t. 3: in 4, 熯, 愆, 孫 (prop. cat. 13), cat. 14; 祀, 食, 福*, 式, 稷, 敕, 極, 億, cat. 1, t. 3: in 5, 備*, 戒*, 告 (prop. cat. 3), cat. 1, t. 3; 止, 起, ib., t. 2; 尸, 歸, 遲, 私, cat. 15, t. 1: in 6, 奏 (prop. cat. 4), 禘, cat. 8, t. 8; 將, 慶*, cat. 10; 飽*, 首, 考*, cat. 8, t. 2; 盡, 引, cat. 12, t. 1.

Ode 6. Narrative. Husbandry traced to its first author; details about it, going on to the subject of sacrifices to ancestors. There is a close connection between this ode and the last, and the critics suppose that they proceeded from the same writer; this one being fuller on the subject of husbandry and more concise on that of sacrifice. The Preface refers it to the time of king Yëw, and thinks that the author wrote it under an impression of grief that that monarch had ceased to pay regard to the statutes of king Ching, under whom the political and land systems of the Chow dynasty were first fully organized. But there is nothing in the ode to suggest to us the idea either of Yëw or of Ching.

St.1. In II. 1,2, there is a recognition of the work of the great Yu, as the real founder of the kingdom of China, extending the territory of former elective chiefs, and opening up the country. This merit was universally attributed to him, and the writer acknowledges it.

writer makes mention of it. As Yen Ts'an says, he does not mean to confine the work of Yu to that part of the country; but on the other hand there is nothing in the language to afford a confirmation of the statements of the Shoo about that hero's achievements. , 'to regulate,' 'to reduce to order.' 啊啊-墾辟貌, 'the app. of being opened up for cultivation.' Ying-tah says that 遐 denotes the use of the plough, and 辟 the clearing away of the wild natural growth of the ground. Whom are we to understand by The old interpreters all say—king Ching. Choo says,—the principal in the sacrifice; who is with him, as in the last piece, some great landed proprietor. Technically, the terms denote—'the great-grandson;' but they are used, more generally, for any remote descendant. I more generally, for any remote descendant. agree with Choo in referring them to the principal in the sacrifices, which the poet had in his mind; but those royal, I think; and some one of the kings of Chow is intended. 'fielded them.'

Ll. 5, 6. is used as in the last piece. The writer would be a cadet of the royal House, and identifies himself with its services. denotes the larger divisions of the country into fields; the divisions of the fields into smaller portions by paths and ditches. The last line simply expresses the direction of the fields according to the course of the channels and the nature of the ground. See Medhurst's dictionary on the character .

St. 2 describes the influences that operate in winter and spring to prepare the ground for the labours of the husbandman.

- The boundaries and smaller divisions are nicely adjusted,
 And the millets yield abundant crops,
 The harvest of the distant descendant.
 We proceed to make therewith spirits and food,
 To supply our representatives of the dead, and our guests;—
 To obtain long life, extending over myriads of years.
- 4 In the midst of the fields are the huts,
 And along the bounding divisions are gourds.
 The fruit is sliced and pickled,
 To be presented to our great ancestors,
 That their distant descendant may have long life,
 And receive the blessing of Heaven.
- 5 We sacrifice [first] with pure spirits, And then follow with a red bull; Offering them to our ancestors.

stood by Choo of the clouds all one colour (— in). Is is the verb. Fun-fun denotes 'the app. of the falling snow;' mih-muh, that of 'drizzling rains of spring.' Ll. 4, 5 describe the ground after receiving plenty () of the rain, moistening it (), soaking into it (chen), all in sufficient measure ().

St. 3 describes the abundant harvest in consequence, and the devoting of a portion of it to sacrificial purposes. L. 1. Ho Këae (可持; Ming dyn.) says, 'Krang and yih are both the names of the boundaries of the fields; the former of those marking off the space of a tsing (井), cultivated by 8 families, and the latter the subdivisions of this assigned to each family.' 是 denotes 'the well defined adjustment of those divisions.' L. 2. Yuh-yuh denotes 'the abundant app. of the grain.' L.3 ascribes the rich harvest all to the virtue of the king. Ll.4—6,—as in the last ode. L.6 specially applies to the king.

St. 4. The hundred mow in the centre of a tsing were devoted to the govt., and in the middle of them again were 20 mow, assigned to the eight families cultivating the space; and on them were erected the huts in which they lived, while they were actively engaged in their agricultural labours. The term here denotes both the process of pickling and the result. In only to peel the skin off, but also to slice the fruit.

[Our lord] holds the knife with tinkling bells, To lay open the hair of the victim, And takes its flesh and fat.

6 Then we present, then we offer;
All round the fragrance is diffused.

Complete and brilliant is the sacrificial service;
Grandly come our ancestors.

They will reward [their descendant] with great blessing,—
Long life, years without end.

VII. P'oo t'een.

自農食其我十歲甫偉 甫古人。我陳。取千。取田。彼田

1 Bright are those extensive fields,
A tenth of whose produce is annually levied.
I take the old stores,
And with them feed the husbandmen.
From of old we have had good years,

menced the services, being intended to bring the Spirits down (隆)). The libations were followed by the sacrifice of a red bull (監), red being the colour in the victims slain under the Chow dynasty. 祖考-先祖 in st. 2 of last ode. Choo says that ll. 4-6 describe the action of the principal in the sacrifice himself (執者主人親執也); Yen Ts'an, that such action was delegated to a high official. The text does not enable us to come to a decision in the matter. 黨刀,—small bells were somehow attached to the handle of the knife so as to give a tinkling sound during the operations. The first operation was to lay open the hair, and declare that it was of the proper colour, that the victim was 'without spot.' 當一脂膏, 'the fat.' The burning of the fat was the second step in inviting the descent of the Spirits.

St. 6. 派 is taken by some as the name of the winter sacrifice; but it is evidently synonymous here with 亨, and is to be taken as 一進, 'to bring or send forward;' The 'Complete Digest' gives 且是, 'from this,' 'then,' for the simple 是. Ll. 2-6,—as in the last ode.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 何, 田, cat. 12, t. I; 理, 畝 , cat. 1, t. 2: in 2, 雲, 雾, cat. 13; 霂, 渥, 足, 穀, cat. 8, t. 8: in 3, 戛, 彧, 穑, 食, cat. 1, t. 8: 寰, 年, cat. 12, t. 1: in 4, 廬, 瓜 *, 菹 cat. 5, t. 1; 祖, 茄, ib. t.: in 5, 酒, 牡 *, 考 *, cat. 3, t. 2; 刀, 毛, 膋, cat. 2: in 6. 亭 *, 明 *, 皇, 疆, cat. 10.

And now I go to the south-lying acres,

Where some are weeding, and some gather the earth about the roots.

The millets look luxuriant;

And in a spacious resting place,

I collect and encourage the men of greater promise.

With my vessels full of bright millet, And my pure victim-rams, We sacrificed to [the Spirits of] the land, and to [those of] the four quarters.

Ode 7. Narrative. Pictures of husbandry and sacrifices connected with it. Happy understanding between the people and their superiors. Here, again, we must reject any reference to kings Yëw and Ching. Who the 'I' in the piece is, it is difficult to say, but evidently he and the 'distant descendant' are different persons; and not one, as Choo makes them out to be. I suppose he may have been an officer of the king, who had the charge of the farms, as we may call them, in the royal domain. That the piece describes what was taking place under his observation, and not the state of things in any former reign, is plain from the 'now (4),' in st.1, l.6.

St. 1. Ll. 1, 2. (草='bright-looking.' = 大, 'large,' 'extensive.' Maou says that H means 'all the fields under heaven,' i.c., all the fields of the kingdom; but evidently the poet is speaking of what came under his eye. L. 2 tells the revenue from the produce which was paid to the crown,—a tenth (17 —); the 10th of every hundred, and the 1000th part of every ten thousand. Maou seems to have attached no definite idea to the - and -, and says that they designate the largeness () of the revenue;-in which he is quite in error. Choo, after Ching, takes the two characters as= 10,000, and makes the revenue to have been a ninth;—see Yen Ts'an on the passage. I have followed Yen's view;—had come to it, indeed, before I examined his Work.

Ll. 3, 4. 陳二舊 聚, 'the old grain,' arising from the abundance of former harvests, mentioned in l. 5 (有 年 - 'years of plenty').

By I we can only understand the writer or speaker in the piece. When Yen Ts'an takes it of the husbandmen, as if they were speaking in their own persons, he overturns all rules of exe-(g, 'to feed,' may be extended so as to embrace all the duty which was anciently held to devolve on a ruler;—see Men. II. Pt. ii. IV. 5. In l. 7, 耘一除草, 'to take away the grass,' 'to weed;' tsze=雝本, 'to cover up the roots.' How this last operation was done is a disputed point, on which we need not enter. L. S. E-e describes the 'luxuriant appearance' of the springing millets. Ll. 9, 10. Ching takes 介 as—舍 and 廬舍, 'the huts,'—those mentioned in st. 4 of last ode; but why introduce here a new meaning of the term? Choo gives for 1.9-於其所美大止息 旒, which is better; but the meaning of 事 位一所, 'the place which.' 黑一進, 'to advance,' but the meaning is here more 'to encourage.' superior character.'

The general rule was that the sons of husbandmen should continue husbandmen; but their superior might select those among them in whom he saw promising abilities, and facilitate their advancement to the higher grade of officers. We are not to suppose that he did so in the case mentioned in the text, but his casy condescension and familiar intercourse with them would keep ambition alive in the aspiring youth among them.

That my fields are in such good condition Is matter of joy to my husbandmen. With lutes, and with drums beating, We will invoke the Father of husbandry, And pray for sweet rain, To increase the produce of our millets, And to bless my men and their wives.

- The distant descendant comes, 3 When their wives and children Are bringing food to those [at work] in the south-lying acres. The surveyor of the fields [also] comes, and is glad. He takes [of the food] on the left and the right, And tastes whether it be good or not. The grain is well cultivated, all the acres over;
- St. 2. We are to understand that the sacri- | atmospherical influences. Choo understands II. fices mentioned in 1.3 had been sacrifices of thanksgiving offered at the end of the harvest of the preceding year, and that that in 11.7,8 either had been or was about to be offered in the spring, to which the piece has reference. Ll. 1,2. 以, 三用, and may be translated 'with.' 浑 is here the same as 染; and 明 was an established name for the sacrificial millet. The order of the terms is here inverted from the necessities of the rhyme. the name for 'a pure, unblemished victim.' Both Maou and Choo say that by 11 is meant 'the sacrifice to 后士.' or 'to sovereign Earth,' meaning the earth as the supreme Power in correlation with Heaven; but I agree rather with Chaing, who understands it as the sacrifice to the Spirits presiding over the productive energies of the land (五七之神,能生萬 物者). 方 is the Spirits presiding over

4,5 as an acknowledgment by the proprietor that the condition of his fields was a blessing he was indebted for to his husbandmen (我田 之所以善者非我之所能 致也,乃賴農夫之福而致 之耳). I prefer taking them as in the translation, B having the sense of 'felicitation.' So, Yen Ts'an (我田盡善,農夫喜 慶之). L.7. 御=迎, 'to meet;' here= 'to invoke.' By 'the Father of fields' is intended the mythical emperor Shin-nung (神 農), who first taught men the art of husbandry. Acc. to the Chow Le, the 1st of the odes of Pin was sung at the sacrifice for rain. render happy,'- to bless with abundance.

St. 3. Here the king appears on the scene in the 'distant descendant.' Ll. 2-4. see on Lxv. the four quarters of the sky, and ruling all there. The old men, who were unequal to field

Good will it be and abundant.
The distant descendant has no displacency;
The husbandmen are encouraged to diligence.

The crops of the distant descendant
Look [thick] as thatch, and [swelling] like a carriage cover.
The stacks of the distant descendant
Will stand like islands and mounds.
He will seek for thousands of granaries;
He will seek for myriads of carts.
The millets, the paddy, and the maize,
Will awake the joy of the husbandmen;
[And they will say], 'May he be rewarded with great happiness.
With myriads of years, life without end!'

work, led on the women and children, with the provisions. Ll. 5,6 apply to the surveyor of the fields; some think, to the king also. 穰一取 to take.' 其左右二歲, 'the provisions on the left and right.' Ll. 7,8. 禾 is used generally for all growing grain. 易一治, 'to be in good order.' 長 is explained here by 竟, 'to finish,' 'the utmost;' it—our 'all over.' 終…且,—as in I. iii. IV. 4, et al. 有,—as in ii. III. 3.

St. 4 A.—as in I.xv.I. 7. is not, as where it has hitherto occurred, the tribulus terrestris, but means the 'thatch of a house,' made, it is said, out of the maou () grass. As thick as thatch would be the crops. A.—as in I.xi.III. 2, 'the curved end of a carriage pole,' here denoting the swelling appearance of the crop, looked at from below.

V.1. 妖,—as in I.xi.IV.2. 京,—as in I.iv. VI.2. Ll. 5,6. 乃 expresses the transition of the thought. 倉 as in V.1; 箱,—as in v.IX 6. The 斯 = 其. Wang Yin-che adduces the lines in his instances of that usage of the character—'He will seek for thousands, to wit of granaries,' &c. L. 9,—as in st. 2; and ll. 9,10, express what will be the wishes and prayers of the husbandmen.

The rhymes are—in st. i, 田, 千, 陳, 人, 年, cat. 12, t. 1; 畝  耔, 薨, 止, 土, cat. 1, t. 2: in 2, 明  羊, 方, 臧, 慶 *, cat. 10; 鼓, 祖, 雨, 黍, 女, cat. 5, t. 2: in 3, 止, 子, 畝 , 喜, 右  否 , 畝 , 有  敏 , cat. 1, t. 2: in 4, 梁, 京 , 倉, 箱, 梁, 慶 , 疆, cat. 10; 豫 , 庾, cat. 5, t 2.

VIII. Ta t'ëen.

- Large are the fields, and various is the work to be done. Having selected the seed, and looked after the implements, So that all preparations have been made for our labour, We take our sharp plough-shares, And commence on the south-lying acres. We sow all the kinds of grain, Which grow up straight and large, So that the wish of the distant descendant is satisfied.
 - It ears, and the fruit lies soft in its sheath; It hardens and is of good quality; There is no wolf's-tail grass, nor darnel. We remove the insects that eat the heart and the leaf, And those that eat the roots and the joints. So that they shall not hurt the young plants of our fields.

Ode 8. Narrative. FURTHER PICTURES OF HUSBANDRY AND SACRIFICES CONNECTED WITH IT. St. 1 describes the labours of the spring. 田一甫田 in the last ode. 稼 may have here its proper meaning of 'sowing the seed,' including, however, all the other labour in connection with that. L. 2 refers to the preparatory work done in the winter. 'to select the seed; 刊文 the implements in good order.' As Yen Ts'an expands the line, 苍 (the two things mentioned in 1.2) 既已周備,乃 可以從事於耕 L.4. 耜—asin L. xv.I.1. 胃 (read yen)=利, 'sharp.' L.5. 俶-始, 'first,' 'to begin.' 載-事, 'busi- IV. 1; 莠, -ns in I. viii. VII. 1, 2: -see the ness.'- Our first business is with, we first go to work on, the south-lying acres. L.7 describes the growth of the grain. 庭一直, 'straight.' In 1.8, 若一順, 'to accord with.' 曾孫 is under the government of this 若一 The labours of the husbandmen and their success were all in accordance with the wishes of the distant descendant (民能順曾孫

St. 2 describes the growth of the grain and the labours of summer. It is tried to explain 方 by 房, 'a house,' referring to the grain when it bursts from the car, and the husk is all but empty. As the husk fills, but the grain is 稂,-as in I.xiv. still soft, it is called 卓.

May the Spirit, the Father of husbandry, Lay hold of them, and put them in the blazing fire!

- The clouds form in dense masses. 3 And the rain comes down slowly. May it rain first on our public fields, And then come to our private! There shall be young grain unreaped, And here some sheaves ungathered; There shall be handfuls left on the ground, And here ears untouched:— For the benefit of the widow.
- The distant descendant will come. When their wives and children Are bringing food to those [at work] on the south-lying acres.

Shoo, IV.ii.4. The insects in II.4,5 are described as 'caterpillars which injure the growing grain, and are said to attack, severally, the different parts of the plant mentioned in the translation. We cannot, with our present know-稺 is apledge, give to each its proper name. plied to the young of plants, animals, and men; specially and properly, it denotes, as here, 'young grain.' Li. 7, 8 are to be taken with Choo, as a prayer, though a good enough meaning is drawn from them by Yen Ts'an and others, who read them as indicative. 田淵 -as in the last ode. 田哨有神一田 而是 那朋, 'the Spirit of the Father of husbandry.' The 有 must be considered here to have the expletive usage which often belongs to it.

St. 3 describes the loyal feeling of the husbandmen, and some ways in which kindness to the poor was manifested. Ll.1—4 are best taken, like 7, 8 of last stanza, as expressing the wish or prayer of the husbandmen. descriptive of 'the clouds gathering,' and i of their being collected in dense masses. 那那一徐, 'gently.' 'The rain comes,' says Yen Ts'an, 'so to as soak the ground, but yet not breaking the clods.' Ll. 3, 4,—sec on Mencius, III. Pt. i. III. 9, 19. L. 5, probably refers cius, III. Pt. i. III. 9, 19. L. 5, probably refers to patches where the grain had not ripened as in the field generally, and which were left for the poor and the widow. 'bundles,' or 'sheaves.' Some bundles would purposely be left, not gathered in; and so with some handfuls in 1.7, and ears in 1.8. 滑垂, 'left behind.' Only the 'widow' is specified in l. 8, but the benefit, no doubt, extended to the poor generally, 伊一維, nearly— 'to be.'-Compare the legislation of Moses, in Deuteronomy xxiii. 19—22, et al.

St. 4. Ll. 1—4,—as in st. 3 of last ode.

'There, however,' says Choo Kung-tseen, but I am not sure that he is correct, 'the great personages appear in the spring, to stimulate the husbandmen to diligence, but here in the harvest, to rejoice with them in the success of their labours. The words here are those of the hus-connection with the harvest, for the poor, in

The surveyor of the fields [also] will come and be glad.

They will come and offer pure sacrifices to the Spirits of the four quarters,

With their victims red and black, And their preparations of millet: Thus offering, thus sacrificing, Thus increasing our bright happiness.

IX. Chen pe Loh e.

禄至泱。維 f。以 翰 如 止。若 水 洛

Look at the Loh, With its waters broad and deep. Thither has come our lord, In whom all happiness and dignity are concentrated. Red are his madder-dyed knee covers, In which he might raise his six armies.

bandmen, stimulating one another, to rejoice the heart of their superior. However this be, we must understand the sacrifices immediately spoken of as sacrifices of thanksgiving for the bountiful harvest. I is the name for a sacrifice offered with a pure mind; -as in the Shoo, TL6. 方禋祀=禋祀四方之 MH, 'purely sacrifice to the spirits of the four quarters.' They would not do so, however, all at once, or all in one place, but in the several quarters, as they went along on their survey of the royal domain. For each quarter the colour of the victim was different, and hence we have the specification in 1.6 of a red victim which was offered to the Spirit of the south, and of a black victim, which was offered to the Spirit of the north. Choo says that 1.9 expresses the wish of the people for the happiness of the distant descendant. It seems more natural to take it as I have done.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 戒*, 事, 耜, 畝., cat. 1, t. 2; 碩., 若., cat. 3, t. 3: in 2, 烙 is often used for that in the Shoo. L. 2 here 阜*, 好*, 莠. ib., t.2; 騰 (prop. cat.6), 販, cat. 1, t. 8; 稺火*, cat. 15, t. 2: in 8, 萋, 祁, 私, cat. 15, t. 1; 稺, 穧, ib., t. 2; 穗, 利, ið., t. 8: in 4, 止, 子, 畝., 喜, cat. 1, t. 2; 祀, 黑, 稷, 祀, 福, ib. t. 8.

Narrative. THE FEUDAL PRINCES, Ode 8. MET AT SOME GATHERING IN THE EASTERN CAPI-TAL, PRAISE THE KING AS HE APPEARS AMONG THEM. To what time we should assign the piece, or who the king referred to was, we cannot tell. It seems quite absurd to assign the piece, with the Preface, to the reign of king Yew, and say that it celebrates the ways of the ancient kings, to brand him for his neglect of them. Of the gatherings of the feudal nobles at the castern capital, in the neighbourhood of the Loh, I have written on iii. IV.

St. 1. 浴,—see the Shoo, III. i. Pt. i. 53, 55, ct al. As the 'eastern capital' was built near it,

- 2 Look at the Loh, With its waters broad and deep. Thither has our lord come, The gems at his scabbard's mouth all-gleaming. May our lord live myriads of years, Preserving his House!
- 3 Look at the Loh,
 With its waters broad and deep.
 Thither has our lord come,
 In whom all happiness and dignities are united.
 May our lord live myriads of years,
 Preserving his class and States!

shows that the writer has the river in his view, though perhaps the occasion makes him speak of its waters in larger style than they deserved. 洪二深 盾貌, 'the app. of being deep and wide.' 君子 is here, evidently, 一天子, 'the son of Heaven,' the king. L.4 is descriptive of him as concentrating in his own person all the happiness, riches, and dignity of the kingdom. 111 萩,—as in VII.4. Choo well explains the phrase here by Al, 'to be accumulated.' L. 5. Mei = 'madder-dyed.' I cannot accept the statement in the Shwoh-wan that the term is a name of the madder plant;—see I. vii. XV. 1. Kiah 一部, 'the knee covers.' 有頭,-as in iii.VI.1. 作一起, 'to raise.' The whole line must be taken as I have translated it. We are not to suppose that the object of the meeting celebrated was to raise the king's armies for some martial expedition; but the nobles thus express their joy in him as a sovereign equal to his position. 'Six armies' was the force of 75,000 men, which the king could raise in the royal domain.

St. 2. L. 4. Pc (Maou has E on the right) with which the king's scabbard was adorned about the top or mouth of it; and all the critics agree in taking peih of the gems at the end or bottom of it. But according to the analogy of the corresponding line in st. 1, and a hundred other lines in the She, yëw-peih can only be descriptive of the pe pung, and I have translated accordingly. Ll. 5, 6 contain a wish or prayer for the king or for his dynasty. 室家='the fortunes of his family or dynasty.' 'The son of Heaven,' says Choo Taou-hing (朱道行; Ming dyn.) 'has all under heaven for his family (天子以天下為家).'

St. 8. L. 4. 同 is equivalent to 聚, 'to be collected;'—as in iii. VI. 2; et al. 家邦一家室 in last stanza. All the great families and all the States or regions in the kingdom are considered as belonging to the sovereign.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 茨, 師, cat. 15, t. 1: in 2, 郑. 室, cat. 12, t. 3: in 3, 同, 邦, cat. 9: and perhaps, 矣, 止. cat. 1, t. 2, in all the stanzas.

Shang-shang chay hwa. Χ.

- Splendid are the flowers, And the leaves are luxuriant. I see these princes, And my heart is entirely satisfied. My heart is entirely satisfied;— Right is it they should have praise and prosperity!
- Splendid are the flowers, 2 And deep is their yellow. I see these princes, Full of all elegance. They are full of all elegance;— Right is it they should have every blessing!

Ode X. Allusive and narrative. Responsive TO THE FORMER:-THE KING CELEBRATES THE PRAISES OF THE PRINCES. Nothing could be more natural than this view of the piece, which is given by Choo,—leaving the time and the king undetermined as in the preceding ode. The Preface says the piece was directed against king Yew, who neglected the sons of ministers of worth, and gave the places which they should have occupied to mean creatures of his own. But there is nothing in the whole piece to lead our thought, away from the princes commended in it, to their fathers and ancestors.

St. 1. Choo, after Maon, defines 裳裳 by 堂堂, which Ying-tah again explains by 光 明, 'brilliant,' 'splendid.' Comp. 皇皇 考華 in i.IV.1. Some adopt the reading of 常, and think that 常常一the 常禄 of | = 福慶, 'happiness and prosperity.'

i. IV. 1. for which there seems no reason. =蓝鹟, 'luxuriant-looking.' The beauty of the flowers and the luxuriance of the leaves are in allusion to the elegance and accomplishments of the feudal princes; -it seems absurd, in K'ang-shing and others, to find the king in the flowers, standing high, and the princes in the 之子,—these genleaves, growing below. tlemen;'-the princes whom the ode celebrates. Ll. 3-6,-see on ii. 1X. 1.

St. 2. L. 2. ,-the dict. says that this term is to be read here as II, but does not define its meaning. Maou and Choo understand it as indicating 'the abundance or depth of the yellow (黄盛).' L.4. 章 - 文章, 'elcgance; referring, I suppose, to their dress, equipments, and accomplishments. L.6. 慶

- 3 Splendid are the flowers,
 Some yellow, some white.
 I see these princes,
 Drawn by their four white steeds, black-maned.
 They are drawn by their four white steeds, black-maned,
 And the six reins are glossy!
- 4 To the left [they move], to the left,
 And they execute the movement properly.
 To the right [they move], to the right,
 And they execute the movement properly.
 They are possessed of the ability,
 And right is it their movements should indicate it.

St. 3 Ll. 4—6,—see on i.H. 2, III. 4.
St. 4. This stanza is all narrative. By the 君子 we are to understand the princes,— the 之子 of the other stanzas; and by ll. 1,3 are intended their movements and deportment on all sides, in all circumstances. 宜之 and 有之 have a similar meaning. Choo Kungts'ëen says that 有之 in l. 4 is to be referred to the external demonstrations of the princes, and in l. 5, to their internal possession of what these were the outcome of. Then the last line says that it was only natural the external demonstration should be in harmony with the internal reality.—Yen Ts'an, who adopts the view of the Preface, refers ### to the fathers or ancestors of the ### to the princes or nobles spoken of; and holds that 1.6 means—'It is right they should be like their fathers.' One can only smile at such exegesis.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 清, 篇, 篇, 篇, 篇, cat. 5, t. 2: in 2, 黄, 章, 章, 慶, cat. 10: in 3, 白*, 駱, 駱, 若*, cat. 5, t. 3: in 4, 左, 宜*, cat. 17; 右*, 有*, 有*, 仅, cat. 1, t. 2.

I. Sang-hoo.

- They flit about, the green-beaks,
 With their variegated wings.
 To be rejoiced in are these princes!
 May they receive the blessing of Heaven!
- They flit about, the green-beaks,
 With their glancing necks.
 To be rejoiced in are these princes!
 They are screens to all the States.

TITLE OF THE BOOK.—桑扈之什,二之七, 'The Decade of Sang-hoo; Book VII. of Part II.'

Ode 1. Allusive and narrative. The king, entertaining the chief among the feudal princes, expresses his admiration of them, and good wishes for them. As usual, king Yëw is found here by the old interpreters, who think that the piece was designed to reprove somehow the want of propriety in the festal intercourse between him and the princes. Këang Pingchang adduces various passages from Tso-she, in which Il.3, 4 of stt. 3, 4 are quoted, in support of this view; but the lines might serve the purpose for which the speakers in Tso-she employ them, on the interpretation of the ode adopted by Choo, and which I am obliged to follow.

St. 1. 文文,—as in I. xi. VI. Sany-hoo,—as in v. II. 5. The bird is said to be called 'the mulberry hoo, because it appears when the mulberry tree is coming into leaf. (表表 is applied to the feathers of birds which are 'striped and variegated,'—有文章, as Maou expresses it. Ll. 1, 2, here and in the next stanza, are intended to compliment the princes on the elegance of their manners.

L. 3. Choo takes 旨 as a final particle, like 只, which we have often met with, and often occurring after 樂; and 君子 refers to the princes whom the king was feasting. Maou gives 旨 as 〓; 'all,' and 君子 as embracing both the king and his princes;—which is very unnatural, and difficult of construction. Still more unlikely is Ch'ing's view of 旨 as 'the designation of men of talents and wisdom.' The dict. gives both Maou and Choo's account of 旨, with reference to this line, without any further remark. L. 6 may be explained indicatively, or, with Choo, as a prayer of the king for the princes. 而言論, 'happiness,' 'blessing.'

St.2. $= \mathbb{E}[\mathbb{E}]$, 'the neck.' The last line leads us to think of the keun-tsze as the chief of the princes, rulers of the larger States, and having authority over the smaller ones, so that all the regions of the entire kingdom were sheltered behind them as so many 'screens.'

- 3 These screens, these buttresses,—
 All the chiefs will take them as a pattern.
 Are they not self-restrained? Are they not careful?
 Will they not receive much happiness?
- How long is that cup of rhinoceros' horn!
 Good are the spirits in it and soft.
 While it passes round, they show no pride;
 All blessing must come to seek them.

II. Yuen yang.

宜福萬君羅畢于鴛鴦鴛之。禄年。子之。之飛。鴦鴦

1 The Yellow ducks fly about,
And are taken with hand-nets and spread-nets.
May our sovereign live for ten thousand years,
Enjoying the happiness and wealth which are his due!

St. 3. L.1. 之一是, 'this,' 'these.' 翰 is nsed in the sense of 英久, the frame-planks used in building, and here equivalent to 'supports,' 'buttresses.' L. 2. 岸三君, 'ruler,' 'chief.' The 'hundred peih' are all the smaller princes, who looked up to the 君子 in the ode, and took them for a pattern (憲一法;爲 憲 - 以之為法). Ll.3,4 are taken by Choo interrogatively, according to a usage, which we shall find common in Parts III and IV. Maou also adopts substantially the same 戰一般, 'to gather;' here= construction. 難一慎, 'to be careful.' self-collected. Wang Gan-shih brings out the meaning of the term thus,一難則不易易則傲慢, Feeling the difficulty of their position, they did not have a sense of ease; that sense would have 那一多, 'much,' been seen in arrogance.' great.' Choo's expansion of the lines is

不斂乎,豈不慎乎,其受福, 豈不多乎

St. 4. 児 角,—as in I.i.III. 3. 其 解一有 採, in v.IX. 1. Yen Ts'an and others say that the rhinoceros' cup here was inflicted on guests guilty of any impropriety. It may have been employed, sometimes, for that purpose; but there is no reference to such a use of it here, nor in I.i III. I. 2. The 思 is taken here as a medial particle. So, Wang Yin-che contends, it should be taken in I.i.I. 2, where, however, it may have its usual meaning. There are other instances of its occurring in the middle of lines, as here. I. 3. 彼 定 — 'in their intercourse,' or 'they in their conviviality.' 敖一傲, 'to be proud,' 'arrogant.' On this and l.4, Choo says, 無所傲慢,則我無事於求漏,而温反來求我也. Wang Yin-che construes l.3 differently. He gives to 彼 the meaning of 匪, and

THE SHE KING.

- The Yellow ducks are on the dam, With their left wings gathered up. May our sovereign live for ten thousand years, Enjoying the lasting happiness which is his due!
- The teams of steeds are in the stable, Fed with forage and grain. May our sovereign live for ten thousand years, Sustained in his happiness and wealth!

tries to show that the two characters are sometimes interchanged. His proof is not very extensive; but we might accept it, if he did not also have to go on to insist on 🔀 being rend on, and squivalent to,

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 扈, 羽, 胥, 祜, cat. 5, t. 2: in 2, 扈, 胥; 领, (prop. cat. 12), 屏, cat. 11: in 8, 翰, 忠, 難, 那 (prop. 17), cat. 14: in 4, 觩, 柔, 敖, (prop. cat. 2), 求, cat. 3, t. 1.

Ode 2. Allusive. RESPONSIVE TO THE LAST ODE; THE PRINCES EXPRESS THEIR PRAYERS AND WISHES FOR THE KING. The Writer, it is supposed in the Preface, speaks here of the ancient wise kings, who dealt with all creatures as they ought to do, and exacted moderate revonues for their own support. It would be nmusing, but a waste of time, to exhibit how the allusive lines are tortured to harmonize with this view. Even Kenng Ping-chang rejects it; this view. Even Reang Fing-enang rejects it is but he adopts a view from Ho Këae, which is about as absurd, contending that the parts of the ode suit admirably the history of king Yöw, and of his relations to his wife and his concubing and of his relations to his wife and his concubine And of his relations to his who and his concubine Paou Szc. Adopting, as I have done, the interpretation given by Choo, which suits admirably the last two lines of the stanzas, we can make nothing out of the first two which will indicate the pattern of the allusive element in them and the nature of the allusive element in them, and can only say that the ode is a remarkable instance of the allusive element in which there is no admixture of the metaphorical. So Yen Tsian characterizes it, (周之不兼比之); and yet he proceeds to serve up airesh the inanities of Maon.

St. 1. The yuen is the male, and the yang the female of what is called the 'Mandarin duck,' and galericulata. I adopt for it the name of the Yellow duck (III IIII), by which it is de- L. 1.

signated in the Pun-ts'aou, with reference to the prevailing colour of its plumage, though that is variegated, and the creature is, perhaps, the most beautiful of all the duck tribe. Another name for it is II in the duck the fine the factor which may be translated monogamist, and if either of a pair die, the to the grave from sorrow. The male and female other, which is, with the Chinese, an emblem of other, which is, with the Chinese, an emblem of conjugal fidelity. is the name for a handnet, with a long handle, with which creatures may be surprised and taken; in distinction from the other, is a spread-net, into which they go or fall themselves. 君子 is here=天 that all blessings are the king's 'due.' 宜之 conveys the idea

St. 2. L. 2 has wonderfully vexed the critics. The translation may be regarded as literal. One of the commentators Ch'ang (長子), who preceded Choo, says, 'When birds sit or roost together, their heads are turned in opposite directions, bringing their left wings folded up, so as to loan on each other, while their right wings are left at liberty to guard against any danger that may approach. This may be doubted as a general fact, but the writer of the ode had probably seen a pair of the Yellow ducks sented on a dam in the position which Chang describes. It would be an instance of their mutual attachment, which I believe to be a fact. 遐-遠 or 人, 'long-continued.'

Stt. 8,4. 東頂, _ 'teams of horses.' These are supposed to be the teams of the royal carringes; but I do not see that this is necessary, any more than that we should find out some connection between the king and the ducks.

L. 1. The dict. reads

彩福萬君摧秣在乘罩之。禄年。子之。之廢。馬

4 The teams of steeds are in the stable,
Fed with grain and forage.
May our sovereign live for ten thousand years,
In the comfort of his happiness and wealth!

III. Kwei peen.

蔦弟異嘉。爾酒伊弁。有華 與匪人。豈殺旣何。實類 女他。兄伊旣旨。爾維者

Those in the leather caps,—
Who are they?
Since your spirits are [so] good,
And your viands are [so] fine,
How can they be strangers?
They are your brethren, and no others.
[They are like] the mistletoe and the dodder, makes it = 巫, 'to cut forage.' The meaning is correct, but the rhyme in st. 4 will not admit of the pronunciation ts'o. The meaning of the line appears in the translation, but we need not insist on what most of the critics enlarge on,—that the horses were fed with forage when they were not employed, and with grain, when they were called forth to service. 文一養, 'to nourish.' One of the Soos takes it here in the sense of 老, 'to become old,' which also gives a suitable sense (福禄終其身). 綏二安, 'to give rest,' or 'solace.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 羅, 宜*, cat. 17: in 2, 翼, 福*, cat. 1, t. 3: in 3, 秣, 艾, cat. 15, t. 3: in 4, 摧, 綏, iò., t. 1.

Ode 3. Narrative, with allusive and metaphorical portions, in all the stanzas. Celebrating the king feasting with his relatives by consanguinity and affinity. The concluding five lines of st. 3 give some countenance to the view of the ode insisted on by the interpreters of the old school,—that the piece was intended by way of warning, to admonish king Yöw, who was abandoning himself to feasting and mirth when ruin was imminent. Still the spirit of the whole ode is so joyous, that we need not find in those lines any reference to special dangers which the writer had in mind, but only the general uncertainty of life, which made him think that the best plan was to enjoy the pleasures of the present time.

With regard to the different elements in the composition of the stanzas, Foo Kwang says, 'L. I in itself only says that those present at the feast were in their leather caps, and is simply narrative, but the second line is suddenly interjected, and serves to introduce II. 4, 5 below, so that II. 1, 2 become allusive. Then we have the metaphorical element in II. 6, 7.

St. 1. L. 1. Ying-tah observes that 并 is the general name for a cap. There are many varieties of it:—the 晉弁 used by an officer at sacrifices; the 章弁, used in war; the 元弁, used in hunting. The 皮弁 was used both by high and low, and therefore we know it must be it which is intended here. Ts'aou Suy-chung says that the 皮弁 was the ordinary cap worn at court, and at entertainments. As distinguished from the 章, it was made of deer skin, while the other was made from the skin of the ox. 有類 describes 'the app. of the cap,' but in what way we cannottell. L. 2—是(實一是一是)何人平,—as in Growing over the pine and the cypress. While they do not see you, O king, Their sorrowful hearts are all-unsettled. When they do see you, They begin to be happy and glad.

Who are they?
Since your spirits are [so] good,
And your viands are all of the season,
How can they be strangers?
They are your brethren, all assembled.
[They are] like the mistletoe, and the dodder,
Growing over the pine.
While they do not see you, O king,
Their hearts are full of sorrow.
When they do see you,
They begin to feel that things are right.

the translation. It is better to take the line thus, than as if, with Yen Ts'an and Keang, it- what for is this?' 維 and 伊 have both to be disregarded;—simply expletives. Ll. 3, 4 are addressed to the king as the entertainer or host The 鳥 is a parasitical plant, no doubt of the genus viscum. It may not be the mistletoe grown on the oak, but it is a plant of the same kind. Acc. to Maou and Choo, the A 羅 is the same as the 鬼 絲, 'rabbit-silk,' which is another name for the 唐, or dodder, of I. iv. IV. 1. This identification has been impugned, and the author of the Japanese plates says both the critics were in error. According to the picture given there, some kind of moss is intended. []]!,-asin I.i. II. 1. Ll. 8-12. I have been puzzled to know whether we should take these lines as in the 1st person, the writer expressing his own sentiments, and belonging to the guests; or as I have done in the translation. What mainly determined me was the fine, which would seem to put in the plural. See the phrase in iii. V. 4, where it denotes 'in many trains.' Here it is applied to the thoughts of the princes, 'loose and unconnected,' 'unsettled.'

St. 2. L. 2. 期 is a final particle, interrogative, interchangeable with the 其 used in the same way, as in Lix. III. 1, 2, et al. After Maou, Choo explains 時 by 善, but that is quite unnecessary. The character is here—

There are those in the leather-caps,
Which they wear on their heads.
Since your spirits are [so] good,
And your viands are [so] abundant,
How can they be strangers?
They are your brethren, and your relatives by affinity.
When there is going to be a fall of snow,
There is first the descent of sleet.
Death and ruin may come any day,
It is not long that you will see one another.
Rejoice over your spirits for the present evening;
O king, enjoy the feast.

IV. Keu heah.

匪匪逝季思肇車閒車 車渴。飢兮。女變兮。之關 肇

1 Këen-kwan went the axle ends of my carriage,
As I thought of the young beauty, and went [to fetch her].
It was not that I was hungry or thirsty,

'being in season.' L. G. 具一俱, 'all.' L. 10. 何何 expresses 'the depth of the sorrow (憂 盛滿).' L. 12. 臧=善; but the 'goodness' is that indicated in the translation. As Ch'in T'uy (陳推; Ming dyn.) says, 天倫之樂氏於,天下事無有善於此者,故曰有臧·

St. 3. L. 2. 阜= 5, 'many,' 'abundant.
L. 6. 甥舅 denotes the princes who were connected with the king by marriage, and had not the Kesurname. The Urh-ya says, 'A mother's brothers are called 內舅; a wife's father is called 夕舅; an aunt's son, 甥; so are a wife's brothers, and a sister's sons. To all who stand to me in the relation of 舅, I stand in the relation of 妈, I stand in the relation of 妈, I stand in the relation of J, I stand in the air has still enough of warmth in it to prevent the formation of snow, But when sleet once falls, we may presume that snow will soon follow it. L. 10 = 相見之日未知有幾, 'You do not know how many will be the days when you can thus meet together.' Ke Pun (季本; Ming dyn.) supposes that this and the other lines were the language passing from mouth to mouth at the feast. Rather they express the sentiment which the writer thinks should animate the company.

But [I longed] for one of such virtuous fame to come and be

Although no good friends be with us, We will feast and be glad.

Dense is that forest in the plain, And there sit the long-tailed pheasants. In her proper season that well-grown lady, With her admirable virtue, is come to instruct me. We will feast, and I will praise her. 'I love you, and will never be weary of you.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 何, 嘉, 他, cat. ing to the proper rule on such occasions (逝一 17;柏,奕*,懌*, cat. 5,t. 8:in 2, 期, 時, 來, cat. 1, t. 1; 上, 怲, 臧, cat. 10: in 8, 首, 阜, 舅, cat. 3, t. 2; 霰*, 見*, 宴*, cat.

Ode 4. Narrative and allusive. The REJOIC-ING OF A BRIDEGROOM OVER HIS YOUNG, BEAU-TIFUL, AND VIRTUOUS BRIDE. If we are to believe the 'little Preface,' and the critics who follow it, whether in whole like Yen Ts'an, or in part like Këang Ping-chang, we have in these verses an officer., not rejoicing over the bride whom he had got for himself, but drawing the picture of a lady whom he would rejoice to see as the bride of king Yew, instead of the hated and odious Paou Sze. With reason does Choo discard the authority of the Preface. Accepting the interpretation of the ode which lies upon its surface, we can sympathize with the writer in his joy, though some of his expressions are sufficiently strange and grotesque.

St. 1. 355,—as in Liii.XIV. 3. Choo says here that when the carriage was not in use, the heah were taken out, and were put in when it was about to be used. This I can hardly understand, unless we are to take the term for the bolt or pin of the axle ends, and not those ends themselves. Këen-kwan give the noise made by the iron ends of the axle, as the carriage moved on. 孌=美貌,'beautiful-looking.' 逝—往, 'to go,' meaning that he went in his carriage, 往迎之). Ll.3,4. The writer hungered and thirsted, but it was not for food and drink, but for his bride. 德音,—as in I.iii.X. 1, et al. 括=會, 'to meet with,' 'to be associated with.'-These four lines should be translated, I think, in the past tense, but in 5,6 the lady is at home with him in his house. The presence of friends is generally necessary to constitute a feast, but he and she would suffice alone for their mutual happiness.

St. 2. 依 is defined by 茂木貌 'the app. of luxuriant trees.' 平林-平地 之木成林, 'trees in a plain forming a forest.' The k'eaou is a pheasant, with a long tail, rather less, Choo says, than the 躣, whose flesh is very delicate. The pheasants were in their proper place in the forest, and so, the writer felt, was his bride in his house. and Choo define 戾 simply by 時, 'time;' but responding, as the term does, to the in l. l, it 一, as the 'Complete Digest' has it, 嫁之及 唐, 'married at the proper time,' 'in season.' The 德音 in the last st. gives place to 令 海 here. The writer knows the lady now,—no longer by report. L.5 is thus expanded in the 'Essence and Flower of the She:' 我 用 派 飲以樂之,且稱譽其德, 'I feast her to make her glad, and praise her virtue.' and met his bride at her parents' house, accord- In 1.6 the husband speaks directly to his bride.

DECADE OF SANG HOO. Although I have no good spirits,

We will drink [what I have], and perhaps [be satisfied]. Although I have no good viands, We will eat [what I have], and perhaps [be satisfied].

Although I have no virtue to impart to you,

I ascend that lofty ridge, And split the branches of the oaks for firewood. I split the branches of the oaks for firewood, Amid the luxuriance of their leaves. I see you whose match is seldom to be seen, And my whole heart is satisfied.

The high hill is looked up to; The great road is easy to be travelled on. My four steeds advanced without stopping; The six reins [made music] in my hands like lute-[strings]. I see you my bride, To the comfort of my heart.

St. 3. In st. 1 the bridegroom had said that without the aid of friends, they would feast and be happy together. Here he says that they would be so, without the appliances of an ordinary feast in good wine and viands. The Complete Digest, explains by by by hoping, but it does not add of what the hope was. The old interpreters make the hope to be that the king would change his ways, and receive from this good mate the help she was able to give him! I believe I have caught the meaning of the writer.

Ll. 1, 2 describe a labour on the part of the writer for which we are not prepared. It is not to be supposed that he actually did what these lines say, and I cannot regard Il. 1—4 as allusive, but as metaphorical. It was no easy thing to ascend the high ridge, and split the branches of the oaks; but when accomplished, such luxuriant trees repaid the labour (其葉 清今). So it had not been an easy thing to get the bride he had done (comp. I.i.I.), but now that she was got, he forgot all the anxieties of his quest. In 1.5, III 25, 'seldom.' Koo K'e-yuen (顧起元; Ming dyn.) gives the meaning of the line well: 鮮我觀爾,猶 宣難得見爾也,蓋惟其令

V. Ts'ing ying.

- They buzz about, the blue flies,
 Lighting on the fences.
 O happy and courteous sovereign,
 Do not believe slanderous speeches.
- 2 They buzz about, the blue flies,
 Lighting on the jujube trees.
 The slanderers observe no limits,
 And throw the whole kingdom into confusion.

mirable virtue was such as the world does not always have, and therefore he thus expresses himself.'

St. 5 gives, as it were, a summary of the whole ode. We can understand the lady's being compared to a 'high hill.' The appropriateness of 'a great road' is not so obvious (), \(\), \(\) as in i. II. 1, 2. The most natural interpretation of 1.4 is that which I have given; Choo seems to make the meaning to be that the reins were handled as skilfully as the strings of a lute are arranged. In the Le Ke, XXIX. 19, Il. 1, 2 are quoted, and a remark from Confucius is adduced, bringing out a lesson from the whole ode on the earnest pursuit of virtue! What he says is not to be taken as giving his view of the meaning of the ode; but he could hardly have said what he did, if he had interpreted it as the Preface does.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 率, 逝, 揭, 括, cat. 15, t. 3; 友*, 喜, cat. 1, t. 2: in 2, 鷮, 教, cat. 2; 譽, 射*, cat. 5, t. 2: in 8, 畿, 畿, cat. 15, t. 1; 女, 舞, cat. 5, t. 2: in 4, 岡 (prop. cat. 10), 薪, cat. 12, t. 1; 湑, 篇*, cat. 5, t. 2: in 5, 仰, 行*, cat. 10; 琴, 心, cat. 7. t. 1.

Ode 5. Metaphorical and allusive. AGAINST LISTENING TO SLANDERERS. The Preface says the piece was directed against king Yëw, who lent a ready ear to slander, and Choo so far agrees with it, taking it as a warning to some king, without mentioning Yëw. Some make it directed against king Le; but that is altogether an immaterial point. To me the piece looks suspiciously like one of the Fung; and there have been critics who on some little show of evidence have claimed a place for it in Part I, Bk. IX.; but there is no answering the question put by Këang Ping-chang, 'If it belong to the Fung, how did it come to be placed here in the I'a?' With regard to the difft. character of the first stanza and of the two others, Lëw Kin says, 'In the 1st stanza the flies and the keantsze appear as if in correlation, from which we know that the flies are here spoken of metaphorically. In the other two stanzas, the flies and the slanderers are in correlation and hence we know that their structure is allusive. The metaphor and the allusion are here very like each other, but they are really distinct;—as in the Kae fung.'

St. 1. E give 'the buzzing noise' made by the flies, as they come and go. I do not know that there is any difference between the 青蠅 here, and the 蒼蠅 of I. viii.I.l. The Japanese plates do not give the tsing ying at all, and Hing Ping says that the tsiang is a variety of it. Ching says that the fly in the variety of it. text dirties what is white, and makes it black, which makes it the fit emblem of a slanderer. 樊一藩, 'a fence, or hedge.' L. 3,—as in ii. IX. 8, et al.; only by 君子 here the king is intended. It is difficult to believe that either Yew or Le, or any sovereign of similar character, could be spoken of as in this line.—Both Yen Ts'an and Keang adduce here a passage from the books of Han, (武五子傳, 'History of the Five Sons of Woo') to the effect that the king of Ch'ang-yih dreamt one night of the emperor Heaou-woo, that he saw a great accumulation of filth left by these blue flies on the stairs of the palace, and consulted one of his officers on the subject, who quoted this ode, and told him that the dream indicated that there were 3 They buzz about, the blue flies, Lighting on the hazel trees. The slanderers observe no limits, And set us two at variance.

人。我極。人 榛。止 青 營 二 權 罔 讒 于 蠅。營

VI. Pin che tsoo yen.

維 稅 有 籩 秩 左 初 賓華 初賓旅。核 楚。豆 秩。右 筵。之 筵之

When the guests first approach the mats,
They take their places on the left and the right in an orderly manner.

The dishes of bamboo and wood are arranged in rows, With the sauces and kernels displayed in them.

St. 2. Choo defines 極 in 1.8 by 已, so that 罔極would一無已, 'without stopping.' 四國, - 'the four quarters of the kingdom.'

be equivalent to E in the prec. stanza; but it is a question how the term comes to have this significance. Both Ching and Choo give the meaning of it as A, 'to bring together,' the connection showing that the issue is variance. From A, we must infer that the speaker had fallen under the king's suspicions in consequence of being slandered; but it is strange any one should thus speak of the king on a level with himself. We might understand, indeed, the duke of Chow's thus addressing king Ching, and some have therefore assigned the ode to him, and explained the whole of the circumstances which brought the duke under suspicion for a time; but the language of the 4th lines in stt. 2,3 is not sufficient to justify such a view.

The rhymes are—in st.1, 樊, 言, cat. 14: in 2, 竦, 極, 國, cat. 1, t.3: in 3, 榛, 人, cat. 12, t.1:

Ode 6. Narrative. AGAINST DRUNKENNESS. DRINKING ACCORDING TO RULE, AND DRINKING TO EXCESS. A LIVELY PICTURE OF THE LICENSE OF THE TIMES. The old interpreters and Choo agree in thinking that the author of this was duke Woo of Wei;— whose praises are sung in I. v. I. There is not only the authority of the Preface for this, but that also of Han Ying, who adds, morcover, that Woo made it, when re-penting that he himself had fallen into the vice which he so graphically describes and strongly condenns. To him also is ascribed the second condenins. ode in Pt. III. iii. He played an important part in the affairs of the kingdom, which terminated in the death of king Yew, and the removal of the capital from Haou to Loh. before us is descriptive, we may presume, of things as they were at court in the time of Yew. The general plan of it is plain enough. In stt. 1, and 2 we have two instances of the temperate use of spirits, and in 8-5 we have the abuse of them on festive occasions. St. 1 is occupied with the moderate use of them at trials of archery before the king, when no license was indulged in. St. 2 is said to show the same moderation on occasions of sacrifice; but there is much in it that is perplexing and difficult to understand. The riotous feast described in stt. 3-5 was, probably, the entertainment given by the king to the princes of the same surname with himself, at the conclusion of the seasonal sacrifices;—the 'second benefit,' mentioned in the 5th ode of last Book. Stt. 3, 4 are sufficiently easy; but we are tasked to the utmost to explain satisfactorily all the lines of st. 5.

St. 1. There were various trials of skill in archery, of which the greatest was that here referred to,—before the king, and called 'the great archery (大貞).' The competition, it appears, was preceded, not by a heavy feast, but by a slight entertainment. L. 1. The guests need not be confined to those who were to take part in the shooting, though the 'Complete Digest' says so, 資,行射之人. There

The spirits are mild and good,
And they drink, all equally reverent.
The bells and drums are properly arranged;
And they raise their pledge-cups with order and ease.
[Then] the great target is set up;
The bows and arrows are made ready for the shooting;
The archers are matched in classes.
'Show your skill in shooting,' [it is said].
'I shall hit that mark,' [it is responded],
'And pray you to drink the cup.'

would be many others present,-princes, nobles, 筵一席, 'a mat,'—one made of and officers. bamboo. As in those early times they did not use tables, but entertainments were set out upon mats laid on the floor instead, 'to come to the mat (初 筵=初 即 席)' was equivalent to 'to come to the feast.' L. 2. referred to the mats. 秩秩,—as in I. xi. III. 3, et al. The order would appear in the salutations exchanged by the guests with their host and with one another, and in all their demean-L. 3,—as in i. V. 3, there being equal to 罠 there. L. 4. 殺 here is the name of the contents of the peen, not flesh, but pickles, sauces, &c. Perhaps preserved fruits may be included;-whatever of the kind was suitable for a slight entertainment. Ying-tah observes that 我 is a general name, and may comprehend every thing brought upon the table (or mat), the hih or kernels of the tow included; but its meaning must be here restricted. 旅二陳, 'to set in order,' 'to set forth.' L.5.和盲 is explained by 調美, 'tempered and fine,' so that I suppose that anciently the Chinese drank their spirits diluted, as they do now. L.6 指一项 'in the same spirit and manner.' L. 7 réfers to a necessary change which was made in the arrangement of these instruments. The archery took place in the open court, beneath the hall or raised apartment where the entertainment was given. Near the steps leading up to the hall was the regular place of the bells and drums, but it was necessary now to remove them more on one side, to leave the ground clear for the archers. L. 8. E here— E F, 'the pledge-cup.' The host first presented a cup to the guest, which the latter drank, and then he returned a cup to the host. After this preliminary ceremony, the company all drank to one another, -'took up their cups,' as it is here expressed. is descriptive of the order and decency with which the cup went round. After this, cup, the business of the meeting was proceeded to. L.9. The 'great target' was that used by the king, and in trials under his eye; we need not go into a description of it. Choo defines 元 (read kang) by 元, 'to spread,' 'to set out;' but that meaning of the character is not given in the dictionary, which quotes the passage under the definition of E, 'to lift or raise up,' K'ang shing refers the term to the centre part, a boar's head, painted on a piece of wood or cloth, which was now taken and affixed to the target frame in its place. L. 10, His is here 乃, used as the substantive verb. 張 can. hardly mean that the bows were bent and the arrows upon them, but that both bows and arrows were held ready for shooting. L.11. 同 Three pairs were = [], 'to be matched.' chosen by the officers who had the direction of The others matched themselves. the trial. L. 12. Requires that we take this line as the utterance of some one, probably of the opponent of the archer who was going to shoot; and then in Il. 13,14 we have the archer's reply. L. 13= 'I will make a bull's eye.' The defeated member of a pair had to drink a cup of spirits as a punishment; and to this 1.14 refers.

2 The dancers move with their flutes to the notes of the organ and drum,

While all the instruments perform in harmony.

All this is done to please the meritorious ancestors,

Along with the observance of all ceremonies.

When all the ceremonies have been performed, Grandly and fully,

'We confer on you great blessings,' [says the representative of the dead].

'And may your descendants [also] be happy!'

They are happy and delighted,

And each of them exerts his ability.

A guest draws the spirits,

An attendant enters again, with a cup,

And fills it,—the cup of rest.

Thus are performed your seasonal ceremonies.

St. 2. acc. to the view of Maou and most of the critics, illustrates the temperate use of spirits at sacrifices,—one of the seasonal sacrifices to ancestors being in the writer's eye, as is indicated in the last line. What is here described took place, I suppose, as the proper business of the sacrifice was being concluded. L. 1. 籥舞,—comp. l. 1. in Liii. XVII. 8. Maou says on the whole line, 秉籥而舞, 與 笙鼓相應,—as in the translation. L.2, -comp. l. 1 in vi.V. 6. All—'in concert.' L.3. 派 = 淮, 'to bring forward,' 'to advance;' 行一樂, 'to give pleasure to;' 烈一業, meaning 'meritorious.' This line refers, probably, to the dancing and music, as intended to please the ancestors who were the objects of the sacrifice, and is said, in 1.4, to be a sequel of, or in harmony with, all the other ceremonies which had been observed. A = A, = in accord with.' L.6 intimates that the great (==

大) observances, in the minutest portions (太 一 / DC) of them, had been attended to. Ll. 7,8 contain the communication from the spirits of the ancestors to the king or principal in the I has the optative force. 樂, 'to be happy.' Ll. 6-14 are understood to refer to the ceremony of drinking with the representative of the spirit on the part of the guests, and to which all the previous part of the stanza is introductory. In 11.9,10. we can only take 🗐 as a particle, and lay little stress on the [17], but render it in the 3d person. But what is meant by their 'displaying their ability,' I cannot tell, unless it be that they somehow showed their interest in the ceremony that was going on. The 'guest' in 1.11 is said to be the eldest of all the scions of the royal House present on the occasion. At this point, he presented a cup to the representative of the ancestor, and received one from him. He then proceeded to take some more spirits from one of the vases of supply (file-指 於 顺), and

- 3 When the guests first approach the mats,
 All harmonious are they and reverent.
 Before they have drunk too much,
 Their deportment is carefully observant of propriety;
 But when they have drunk too much,
 Their deportment becomes light and frivolous:—
 They leave their seats, and go elsewhere,
 They keep dancing and capering.
 Before they have drunk too much,
 Their deportment is cautious and grave;
 But when they have drunk too much,
 Their deportment becomes indecent and rude:—
 Thus when they have too much,
 They lose all sense of orderliness.
 - 4 When the guests have drunk too much, They shout out and brawl. They disorder the dishes;

the attendant (室人, -'a man of the chambers.' Who he was is much disputed.) in l. 11 came in, and filled another cup (又一复), which was also presented to the representative of the dead. This was called the 'cup of repose or comfort,' as in l. 13 (康一安; 酒所以安體);—and the sacrifice was thus concluded, in all sobriety and decency.

St. 3. Very different were the scenes at the feast which followed. The L throughout the st. is the final particle. 展读,—as in I.iii.I. 3, et al. In 1.4, 反反—'decorous,' 'observant of propriety,' as if the guests were conducting an introspective process with themselves. In 1.6, 译诗 is the reverse of this,—证事。 as in the translation. L.7. 遷一徙, 'to remove to another place. L.8 屢一數, 'frequently.' 僊僊 is defined 軒舉之狀, 'their manner in lifting themselves up.' L.10 抑抑一慎密, as in the translation. L.12. 心心一燥燥, 'indecent and rude. In 1.13, 是日 may be translated—'That is to say;' but it is better to take 日 all through the piece as a particle. 是日一'thus.'

St. 4. In 1. 2, 號 and 购 have nearly the same meaning; perhaps 购 approximates to 'brawling.' In 1.4, 欺谀一慎则之狀,

They keep dancing in a fantastic manner. Thus when they have drunk too much, They become insensible of their errors. With their caps on one side, and like to fall off, They keep dancing and will not stop. If, when they have drunk too much, they went out, Both they [and their host] would be happy; But remaining after they are drunk, Is what is called doing injury to virtue. Drinking is a good institution, Only when there is good deportment in it.

On every occasion of drinking, 5 Some get drunk, and some do not. An inspector is appointed, With a recorder to assist him. But those drunkards, in their vileness, Are ashamed of those who do not get drunk. These have no opportunity to speak,

'all to one side.' L. 6. 郵, i.q. 尤, 一過, 'that | in the translation; adding 今若此, 則 which is wrong.' L.7. The $\widehat{+}$, as in ode 3, shows the nature of the feast. In their riot, the guests wore their caps on one side (|||||), so that they were like to fall off (我一值 貌). 佐佳-不止, as in the translation. What is said in ll.9, 10 may be doubted. The meaning of 1. 10 is not clear. Choo says it is that both their host and they would be praised as having well discharged their several parts. In 1.12, 伐德一害其德, 'injure their virtue.' Choo expands Il. 13, 14:-所以甚美者,以其有令儀, 85

The two prec. stanzas are easily understood and explained, but it is not so with this; and from 1.3 to the end every critic of note has his own method. The 'inspector' and 'recorder' are generally supposed to have been officers regularly appointed for the conservation of good order on such occasions but Ching thinks that they were specially appointed by the drunken majority, to see that every one got drunk like themselves, allowing no 'heeltaps' or other evasion of the cup. Some take ll. 8—12 as the words of the drunkards; others as words of warning spoken to them by the sober. I have done the best I could with them,—mainly after Yen Ts'an. T is simply the initial character,

又。矧 舒 童 言。由 由 勿 怠。無 敢 不 殺。俾 醉 勿 言。匪 俾 多 識。三 出 之 語。匪 言 犬

And prevent the others from proceeding to such great abandonment.

[They might say]. 'Do not speak what you ought not to speak; Do not say what you have no occasion to say.

If you speak, drunk as you are,

We will make you produce a ram without horns.

With three cups you lose your memories;—

How dare you go on to more?'

VII. Yu ts'aou.

其藻。魚麵。豈在其藻。魚 尾。有在 樂在首。有在 王幸在 飲鎬。王頒在

- 1 The fishes are there, there among the pondweed, Showing their large heads.
 The king is here, here in Haou, At ease and happy, while he drinks.
- 2 The fishes are there, there among the pondweed, Showing their long tails.

and 勿 in L8 is merely indicative. The 童 辫 in L12 is 'a full grown ram, and at the same time young, without horns;—a thing not found in nature. It is supposed that the requiring the drunkards to produce this, which they could not do, would frighten them: 就一 to remember.' 又多一more and further.'

The thymes are—in et.1, 筵, 秩 (prop. cat. i2); cat.ii; 楚, 旅, cat.5, t.2; 旨, 偕, cat. 15, t.2; 嗀, 逸, cat.12, t.3; 抗, 張, cat. 10; 同, 功, cat.9; 的, 爵, cat.5, t.2: in 2, 鼓, 奏 (prop. cat.4), 祖, cat.2; 禮, 至 (prop. cat. 12), cat. 15. t.2. 林, 湛, cat. 7, t. 1; 能, 又, 時, cat.1; t.1: in 8, 筵, 恭(prop. cat. 9), 反, 幡. 蹇. 僊, cat. 14. 抑*, 秘, 秩 cat. 12, t. 8: in 4, 呶 (prop. cat. 2), 傑, 郵*, cat. 1; t. 1: 俄, 傞, cat. 17: in 5, 福*, 德, cat. 1, t. 8: 嘉. 儀*, cat. 17: in 5, 否*, 史, 恥, 念, cat. 1; t. 2; 語, 羖, cat. 5; t. 2; 識, 又*, cat. 1, t. 2.

Ode 7. Allusive. Praise of the KING BT THE PRINCES AT SOME FEAST:—HIS QUIET HAP-PINESS IN HAOU. It certainly seems ridiculous to find any indication of censure in this small piece. Even the 'Little Preface' seems to acknowledge this, saying that 'Yew is here censured by contrast with Woo in his capital of Haou.

Ll. 1, 2, in all the stt. 菜,—as in Lii.IV.1. Choo explains 無在 as if they were interrogative; which hardly seems to be necessary.

居。有在其藻。魚量。飲在 那在清。依在 酒在 其鎬。王于在 樂鎬。

The king is here, here in Haou, Drinking, happy and at ease.

3 The fishes are there, there among the pondweed, Sheltered by the rushes.
The king is here, here in Haou, Dwelling in tranquillity.

VIII. Ts'ae shuh.

車子之。何子筥菽。采菜菜。鸡鸡鸡鸡。鸡鸡鸡鸡。

1 They gather the beans, they gather the beans, In their baskets, square and round.
The princes are coming to court,
And what gifts have I to give them?
Although I have none to give them,
There are the state carriages and their teams.

of the fishes' heads, and if of 'the length' of their tails. If, 'depending on,'—sheltered by. If, —as in I. xii. X. The fishes are in the place proper to them, enjoying what happiness they could enjoy, and so they serve to introduce the king enjoying himself in his capital.

Ll. 3, 4. 全高一see on the Shoo, V.iii. 1. 豈, —as in II. ii. IX. 8, et al. Choo says it—樂. The order of the two characters is varied in stt. 1, 2, merely to get a fresh rhyme. 那一安;有那,—'in tranquillity.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, (and in 2, 3), 藻, 鎬, cat. 2; 首, 酒, cat. 8, t. 2: in 2, 尾, 豈, cat. 15, t. 2: in 3, 蒲, 居, cat. 5, t. 1.

Ode 8. Allusive and narrative. Responsive to the former;—celebrating the appearance of the foundal princes at the court, the SPLENDOUR OF THEIR ARRAY, THE PROPRIETY OF THEIR DEMEANOUR, AND THE FAVOURS CONFERRED ON THEM BY THE KING. It is not worth while saying anything on the old view of this picce, as intended to censure king Yëw for the carclessness and arrogance which characterized his treatment of the princes of the States.

Ll. 1,2. 叔,—as in vi. III. 8, et al. 筐之筥之,—see on Lil.IV. 2. The 之 make the characters preceding them into verbs; but we can only translate them as I have done. What is the nature of the allusion in these lines, or what is the transition from them to the lines that follow, is not clear. Nor is the allusive element evident in stt. 2,4, and 5, so that I shall not attempt to exhibit it. L.3. By 君 we are to understand the feudal princes. This stanza is anticipatory of their arrival at court. In Ll. 4-8 the king appears to be soliloquizing about the tokens of favour which he will confer upon them, and saying first that he had none to give, -to magnify the more their de-路 重, 'state chariots,' must here be

What more have I to give them? The dark-coloured [upper] robes with the dragon, And the [lower garments with the] hatchet.

- Right up bubbles the water from the spring, And they gather the cress [about it]. The princes are coming to court, And I see their dragon flags;— Their dragon flags moving [in the wind], While the sound of their bells comes hwuy-hwuy. There are the two outside horses, there are the whole teams,— Proofs that the princes are come.
- Their red covers on their knees, And their buskins below, understood of two classes:—those adorned with metal (全 里), which were conferred on princes of the same surname as the royal House; and those adorned with ivory (家 里), conferred on princes of other surnames. L.8 refers to the emblazoned robes which constituted the full dress of the princes, and the figures on which are all mentioned in the Shoo, II.iv. 4. The robes of a 'high duke' have been described on I.xv. VI.1;—which see. Ordinary dukes had 5 of the symbols, beginning with the dragon, on the upper robe, and 4 on the lower, beginning with the pondweed; marquises and earls had 7 in all, from the 'flowery fowl' downwards; viscounts and barons had 5, beginning with the 'temple-cup' above and the hatchet below.' The 丞 袤, therefore, of the text would seem to point to the robes of a duke, and the to those of a baron; but the line embraces all of all ranks on whom such distinctions of royal favour were bestowed.

St. 2. Ll. 1, 2. Peih-fuh describes 'the app. of the water issuing from the spring;' and lants'euen is 'a bubbling spring.' The name (lan with T at the side, instead of I() is explain-

涌出. 芹is figured in the Japanese plates as cress, and such, I believe, is the meaning of it here. The term is now applied to cress, parsion and color and co ley, and celery. Ll. 4—8 shows us the arrival of the princes at the court,—as if the king had been looking out for them. #F,-as in i.VIII.8, et al. 潤潤 denote the 'app. of the flags moving in the wind.' 唐博,—sec v.III.4, where the combination is used of the noise made by insects. It indicates the low sound naturally made by the bells, as the horses were driven gently along. In 1.7 we hardly expect to find 期, after 診, but rather look for 脏, 'the two inside horses' of a carriage. I can conceive no reason for the use of 馬圓, but its Fif in 1.8 seems to apusefulness as a rhyme. proach the meaning of Fit W, therefore. It sums up ll. 4—6 as evidences that the princes were indeed arrived.

St. 3. The whole of this stanza is narrative. Ll. 1, 2 describe two parts of the dress of the princes,—merely as specimens of the whole. ed in the Urh-ya by 正 出, which again = 青,-as in iii.IV.2, ct al. 股, 'the whole

There is no remissness in their demeanour;-Of such should the son of Heaven approve. To be rejoiced in are the princes, And the son of Heaven gives them the badges of his favour. To be rejoiced in are the princes. And their happiness and dignities are renewed and extended.

On the branches of the oaks. 4 How abundant are the leaves! To be rejoiced in are the princes, Guardians of the regions of the son of Heaven. To be rejoiced in are the princes. Around whom all blessings collect. Discriminating and able are their attendants, Who also have followed them hither.

thigh,' is used for the time, 'the knee,' unless, in- would also be occumpanied with tokens of fadied, we suppose that the covers extended all up the thigh. 刑师 for which 僵 alone is 'renewing and extending' to the princes their used was a buskin bound round the leg. below privileges and dignities. As the characters the knee. I must have reference to the 'indirect" manner in which the article was fastened ! round the leg. In LS, 菱 refers to all the 'interchange" of courtesies on the part of the princes with the king and with one another. 援。'to be slow,' 'remiss;'—comp.in L4. The 'Complete Digest' observes that the 子 of L t] rear of an army is called 畏. The place is one is not the 錫子 cf st. l, "the giving of gifts," ; har 許子,'the giring of approval' 美只 子is equivalent to the 君子崇胥 命之in L6 is better taken as in the translation. I think, then as meaning 'delivers charges to them, though those charges Mr. 'the place where,' or 'these on whom.'

worr. The subject of 申之in LS is the king stand they are best taken as the verb in the St. 4. IL.1.2. 本 _as in IV. 4. Yea Tsian observes here that it is the same tree as the 权. in Lx. VIII. et cl. 'abunianter luxuriant-leoking.' L.4. 'to pretect.' Hwang Tso says, 'To be in the of importance and protection to the whole host; and hence the term has the signification of "to protect." It is impossible to say whether we sre to take 荊 in the singular, denoting the royal domain, or in the planal denoting the States of the kingdom generally. L.6 117-

5 It floats about, the boat of willow wood,
Fastened by the band of the rope.
To be rejoiced in are the princes,
And the son of Heaven scans [their merits].
To be rejoiced in are the princes,
And their happiness and dignities are enlarged.
How joyous, how happy,
Is their coming here!

IX. Këoh kung.

遠無昏足反翮角縣 角矣。胥姻。弟矣。其弓。辟

Well fashioned is the bow adorned with horn, And swift is its recoil. Brothers and relatives by affinity Should not be treated distantly.

同一家, 'to be collected.' Ll. 7, 8 are descriptive of their officers whom the princes had brought with them (本), and who were in attendance upon them (此). Or, with Choo, we may take those two characters together in the sense of 從,本 being一指, 一种说, describing the ability of the officers as 'discriminating and adjusting.'

St. 5. Ll. 1, 2. 汎汎,—as in I.iii.XIX., et al. is the rope by which the boat is held fast; but here it and the next character must go together in that signification. Choo, indeed, says that ## and ### have both the meaning of 喪, 'to bind;' but we must take the former term as a noun here, and the latter only as the verb. In l.4, 爽-奖, -度, 'to measure;' here, to determine the relative merits of the 腿 has here the sense of 厚, 'in princes. large and abundant measure,' 'to give in such This sense of the term is found in measure.' the dict. 变流, used together, convey the

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 笆, 子, 子, 馬, 子, 黼, cat. 5, t. 2: in 2, 芹, 旂, cat. 13; 洱, 嘻, 駟, 届, cat. 15, t. 3: in 3, 股, 下, 彩, 子, cat, 5, t. 2; 命*, 申, cat. 12, t. 1; 子, 子, cat. 1, t. 2: in 4, 蓬, 邦, 同, 從 cat. 9; 子, 子: in 5, 維, 葵, 胞, 戻, cat. 15, t. 1; 子子.

Ode 9. Allusive, narrative, and metaphorical. Against the king's cold treatment of his relatives by consanguinity and affinity; the extensive and baneful influence of his example; the encouragement given by him to calumniators. This piece is evidently one of censure; and from its place in the 14, we may conclude that it was directed against some king. We need not wonder therefore that the 'Little Preface' should make Yew the object of it. The Preface further says that it was made by his uncles and elder brothers ("Little Preface").

- When you keep yours at a distance,
 The people all do the same with theirs.
 What you teach
 The people all imitate.
- 3 Those brothers who are good Continue to display much generous feeling; But between brothers who are not good, Their intercourse is marked by troubles.
- People who have no conscience
 Repine against each other, each one holding his own point of view;
 One gets a place, and shows no humility;—
 Till they all come to ruin.

the princes, older and younger than himself, of his surname. It may have been so; but there is nothing in the piece to tie us down to that conclusion.

St.1. 角弓 is a bow, in which pieces of horn were employed for ornament, as Choo says (以角飾弓), and also, we may suppose, for strength. 辟辟 is explained by 調和 舒, 'the app. of being tempered and harmonized;' i. c., the bow is in all respects well made. ,-'swiftly flies its return.' When the bow is drawn, all its parts are brought near to the archer; when he lets the arrow go, it returns to its former state, and is far off from him. So it is between the Head of a House, and his relatives. He should draw them to himself. If he relax the hold of his kindness upon them, they recoil from 音姻,-as in iv. VIII. 12. The phrase has the same meaning as 甥舅 in vii. II1.3. 看一相, 'mutually,' the members of the mutuality being those relatives and the Head of the House, who in this case is the king. We can hardly render the term in a translation.

St. 2. The 南, 'you,' is the Head of the House,—the king. By 民 we may understand, here and below, as I prefer to do, all the people generally, acted on by the king's example; and then 胥一皆, 'all;' (So, K'ang-shing). The interpreters of the old school, however, generally take 民, as referring to the king's relatives, and 胥 will have the same force, as in st. I, where Keang Ping-chang says, 民指王族不指庶民,下同。

St. 4, 無良-無良心, 'without the good heart,' without conscience. 一方一一隅, 'one corner.' Each one holds to his

- An old horse, notwithstanding, thinks himself a colt, And has no regard to the future. It is like craving a superabundance of food, And an excess of drink.
- 6 Do not teach a monkey to climb trees;—
 [You act] like adding mud to one in the mud.
 If the sovereign have good ways,
 The small people will accord with them.
- 7 The snow may have fallen abundantly,
 But when it feels the sun's heat, it dissolves.
 You are not willing to discountenance [those parties],
 And so they become [more] troublesome and arrogant.

own particular idea, and will see things only from one point of view. 旨言位, 'position,' 'office.' One member of a circle gets honour and wealth, and is only puffed up, and separated the more from the other members. L.4. 'They come to the end, and then there, is ruin.' The author of the 'Essence and Flower of the She' says that the line 至於亡斯已矣.

St. 5 and those that follow are all metaphorical. People without conscience, ever seeking place, are like an old horse, fancying himself still young, and not considering that he cannot do what he will be called on to do. They must have everything in larger measure than they require. On the last two lines, Choo says, 又如食之已多,而宜飽矣,酌之所取, 亦已甚矣. 饇—飽, 'to eat to the full.' This way of taking the lines is much more natural than K'ang-shing's:—'If the king wishes to feed the old, he should see that they are satisfied;—they are not able to eat much. If he wishes to give them spirits, it should be according to their capacity.'

St. 6. A monkey does not need to be taught to climb trees; a man in the mire needs no mire put upon him. But the king, encouraging and honouring base caluminators, made them worse than they would otherwise be. 君子, like 爾 in st. 2, is referred to the king. 微笑, 'good,' excellent.' 武一道, 'ways,' 'methods.' 屬一所, 'to be joined to.'

St. 7. Pëaou-pëaou expresses the abundance of the snow (盛 稅). 阻 = 日氣, 'the beams of the sun.' 曰 is the particle. The idea of the king's encouraging calumniators comes out more clearly in this stanza and the next. 下 = 眨下, 'to discourage and put down.' 遺 = 棄, 'to reject.' 式 is the particle. 妻, —in the sense of 屢, annoying and troublesome. Chung Tsae gives the meaning of the stanza fully and yet succinctly:—證言逻辑, 當 自 止, 而 王 甘信之,不肯眨下, 而遺棄之, 更益以長慢也.

用我如知日見浮爾羅憂。是耄。蠻流。現冷。雪

8 The snow may have fallen largely,
But when it feels the sun's heat, it flows away.
They become like the Man or the Maou;—
This is what makes me sad.

X. Yuh lëw.

子 靖 焉。無 帝 息 柳。有 菀 菀 極 之。俾 自 甚 焉。不 着 颜 焉。後 子 暱 蹈。上 尚 者

There is a luxuriant willow tree;—
Who would not wish to rest [under it]?
[But this] god is very changeable;—
Do not approach him.
If I were to [try and] order his affairs,
His demands afterwards would be extreme.

St. 8. P.,—as pëaou-pëaou in the last stanza. P.,—as iii.IV. 4, 'the wild tribes of the south;' is the name of other similar tribes in the west,—the of the Shoo, V.ii. 3. Those tribes were supposed to be without 'propriety or righteousness,' and such did the calumniators become through the king's encouragement of them.

The rhymcs are—in st. 1, 反, 遠, cat. 14: in 2, 遠, 然, id.; 教, 傚, cat. 2; in 3, 弟, 弟, cat. 15, t. 2; 袼 (prop. cat. 3), 瑜*, cat. 4, t. 2; in 4, 良, 方, 讓, 亡, cat. 10; in 5, 駒*, 後, 饇*, 取*, cat. 4, t. 2; in 6, 木, 附 (prop. cat. 4), 猷, 屬, cat. 3, t. 3: in 7, 漂, 消, 驕, cat. 2: in 8, 浮, 流、毫, (prop. cat. 2), 憂, cat. 3, t. 1.

Ode 10. Metaphorical and allusive. Some noble tells now impossible it was to approach or do anything for the king, and warns the others against doing so. The king intended here may have been Yew as the Preface says, but we have nothing in the piece to necessitate that conclusion.

St. 1. 崇 is explained by 茂木, 'a luxuriant tree.' L. 2 is to be taken interrogatively:

and 尚一庶幾, expressive of a wish. What such a willow tree was, an object inviting the traveller to rest under its shadow, such should the king have been, affording shelter to all the people. But it was not so. L. 3 has wonderfully vexed the critics. Both Maou and Choo say that by 上帝 the king is intended. There is no other feasible interpretation; and adopting it, I have translated the name with a small g. The 彼人 in st. 3 does seem to tie us down to this view of ; but the predicate in 基路 is very perplexing. 路, 'to tread the ground,' 'to walk,' is defined in Maou by Th, 'to move,' which is immediately manipulated by Ying-tah into 緣 動, 'to be changeable ;' and I do not see that anything better can be done with it. Choo, however, would read IIII, on the authority of a passage in the 'Plans of the Warring States (戰國策), where he says that 上天某 咖occurs. The passage is in the 类圆策; but Han Ying had a difft. reading still,— Accepting the reading IIII, Choo proceeds to give a meaning to the term, which I believe to be incorrect,一威题可畏, 'terrible and awful.' IIII does not have that

- There is a luxuriant willow tree;—
 Who would not wish to take shelter [under it]?
 [But this] god is very changeable,
 Do not get yourself into trouble with him.
 If I were to [try and] order his affairs,
 His demands on me afterwards would be beyond measure.
- 3 There is a bird flying high,
 Even up to heaven.
 The heart of that man,—
 To what will it proceed?
 Why should I [try to] order his affairs?
 I should only find myself in pitiable misery.

meaning. If we are to read in in the text, its meaning will be 'mysterious,'-akin to Maou's explanation of Kang-shing endeavours to keep the proper meaning of 上帝, and takes 蹈 as equal to 悼, so that the line = 'O God, we are very much distressed.' It is impossible, however, to accept his view. In 1.4, 朑一近, 'to be near to,' 'to approach.' In the corresponding line in st. 2 there is no difficulty with the E, and here 巨曜 = 'to bring one's-self near.' The 無一毋, imperative. Ll. 5, 6. 倬— 使, nearly = 'if.' 靖 = 安, 'to tranquillize,' or 治, 'to reduce to order.' 子極= 砸子, 'he would drive me to extremity,' i.e., make extreme demands on me.

St. 2. L. 2 喝一息, 'to rest.' It is found also in Pt. III., with the same meaning. L.4. 察一演, 'to make ill,' 'to distress.' Choo defines 邁 by 過, 'to go beyond,' or 'to excess.' The king would do so in his exactions from any one who tried to serve him (求之過其分).

St. 3. L. 2. 傅一至, 'to come or reach to.' 臻 in 1.4 has the same meaning. Choo says that 居 in 1.6 is equivalent to 徒然, 'to no purpose,' 'only.' 凶科-遭 凶而而可以此, 'to meet with misery, and be an object of pity.' K'ang-shing, taking substantially the same view, brings out the meaning of 居 differently.—'The king would find fault with me, and place me in a position of misery (罪我而居我以凶惡之地).'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 息, 暱*, 極, cat. 1. t. 3: in 2, 惕,瘵,邁, cat. 15, t. 3: in 3, 天,臻,矜*, cat. 12, t. 1.

I. Too jin sze.

- 1 Those officers of the [old] capital,
 With their fox-furs so yellow,
 Their deportment unvaryingly [correct],
 And their speech full of elegance!—
 If we could go back to [the old] Chow,
 They would be admiringly looked up to by all the people.
- 2 Those officers of the [old] capital,
 With their hats of tae leaves and small black caps!—
 Those ladies of noble Houses,
 With their hair so thick and straight!—
 I do not see them [now],
 And my heart is dissatisfied.

TITLE OF THE BOOK.—都人士之什, 二之八; 'The Decade of Too Jin Sze; Part VIII. of Book II.'

govt. It may be said that the officers and ladies of Haou, in king Yëw's time, did not deserve to be spoken of as the writer does; but we need not suppose that they are before his eye in anything deeper than their outward seeming. If this be not thought to satisfy the demands of the piece, we need only assume that the author goes back to an earlier time than that of Yëw.

St. 1. 都一王都, 'the king's capital.' 都人士一都人之為士者, 'the men of the capital who were officers.' In this stanza only the gentlemen appear. L.2 presents them to us in their winter dress of fox furs. L.3—其動作容貌既有常, 'their movements and deportment were

- Those officers of the [old] capital,
 With their ear-plugs of sëw-stones!—
 Those ladies of noble Houses,
 Each fit to be called a Yin or a Keih!—
 I do not see them [now],
 And my heart grieves with indissoluble sorrow.
- 4 Those officers of the [old] capital,
 With their girdles hanging elegantly down!—
 Those ladies of great Houses,
 With their [side] hair curving up like a scorpion's tail!—
 I do not see them [now];
 [If I could], I would walk along after them.

uniform,' i. e. unvaryingly correct. L. 4. 有章 有文章, 'elegant.' In l. 5, Choo takes 声, as the capital of Chow,—Haou; and I cannot give it any other meaning. Maou, however, defines it by 点 意, 'loyalty and faith,' so that the line is still descriptive of the officers, and in a higher sense than ll. 2—4. 声 does sometimes have this meaning, and Këang Ping-chang adduces from the Tso-chuen (under the 15th year of duke Sëang) a passage where ll. 5, 6 are quoted, and 声 is, apparently, thus taken. Still I must adhere to the view of Choo. These concluding lines are then akin to those in the other stanzas.

St. 2. 点,—as in ii. VII. 1. Maou seems to take it here as the name of a cloak made of the plant, but K'ang-shing joins it, better, as an adj., to 立. Both Maou and Choo simply say of that it was 'a cap of the blackest cloth.' The latter term means 'to take up with the fingers,' and applied to the cap, seems to give us the idea that it was small. The whole line tells of the strict economy of the old officers. We are hardly prepared to read of their wearing t'ac hats. L. 3. 君子女一貴家之女, 'ladies of noble families.' Choo says he does not understand I. 4, but that the analogy of stt. 4,5 shows that it is descriptive somehow of the beauty of the ladies' hair. This seems plain enough, and should dispose of the exegesis of Maou and others, who take 斯直 of the ladies,—'compact and straight as hair.' I join the 如 with the two terms preceding it;—comp. the account of Seuen Këang in Liv. III. 2, as not using any false hair. in 1.6— 元.

st. 3. L. 2. Comp. in I.v.I.2.

'to fill up.' L. 4.

and if are the clannames of great families, with which, perhaps, the kings had intermarried. The ladies of them would be the leaders of fashion in the capital. Choo says that the line shows how observant of propriety the ladies of the capital were; but the reference is rather to their elegant appearance.

L. 6. The dict. explains if with reference to this passage, as meaning 'bent,' or 'accumulated,' and reads the character yuh. If he means a knot tied and tied again, so as to resist attempts to unloose it.

St. 4. L. 2. 厲 is defined as 垂 帶之 稅, 'the app. of the girdle hanging down,' and 而一如; but what that appearance was, I cannot tell. L. 4. 卷 髮 refers to the short hair at the sides of the head, brushed back and curling upwards. Ch'ue is used for 'the sting

何見旗。髮伊有之。歷明分。我則幾餘。帶與矣。云有之。歷則

5 Not that they purposely let their girdles hang down;—
The girdles were naturally long.
Not that they gave their hair that curve;—
The hair had a natural curl.
I do not see them [now],
And how do I long for them!

II. Ts'ae luh

歸薄曲子一不采終。采入沐。言局。髮匊。盈緑。朝緑

of a bee;' but here it denotes a scorpion with its long tail. In l.6. 道一行, 'to go,' or 'to walk.' On II.5, 6, Choo says, 是不可得見也,得見,則我從之遊矣,思之甚也.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 黄, 章, 望, cat. 10: in 2, 撮, 髮, 說, cat. 15, t. 3: in 3, 實, 吉, 結, cat. 12, t. 3: in 4, 厲, 蠆, 邁, cat. 15, t. 8: in 5, 餘, 與, 肝, cat. 5, t. 1.

Ode 2. Narrative. A wife tells her sornow, and incapability of attending to anti-

THING. IN THE PROLONGED ABSENCE OF HER INTERAND, TO WHOM SHE WAS FONDLY ATTACHED. The I'reface says that this piece condemns the repining of widowhood, and adds that in the time of king Yew there was much of such repining. Its meaning must be that the ode condemns Yew who conducted his government so that there were many, temporarily or for ever, deprived of the society of their partners. There is nothing in the ode to make us refer it to the time of Yew. We should not have been surprised to find it in one of the Books of Part 1.

St. 1. Here and in st. 2, in Il. 1, 2, the speaker tells how her mind was so set upon her absent husband that she could not accomplish the easiest tasks. ,—as in v. IV. 5, et al.,—'the whole.' From dawn to meal-time was called 'the morning.' On I. v. I, it was mentioned that some take To there, not as the adj.= green, but as the name of a plant called 王 郷 'kingfodder,' or 'king-grass.' Evidently it is so used here, and there ought to be a - - at the top of the character. The plant is described as like a bamboo in its leaves and stem, of a plant-green colour, growing to the height of several feet, the leaves rough, and sharp-pointed. I suspect it is a bamboo,—the arundinacea, or the spinosa. For what purpose the lady would be gathering it, I do not know; but such was the preoccupation of her mind, that she had no success. - 匊='the two hands full (兩 手 日

- 2 All the morning I gather the indigo plant, And do not collect enough to fill my apron. Five days was the time agreed on;— It is the sixth, and I do not see him.
- When he went a hunting,
 I put the bow in its case for him.
 When he went to fish,
 I arranged his line for him.
- 4 What did he take in angling?
 Bream and tench;—
 Bream and tench,
 While people [looked on] to see.

河.' In 1.3. 局一卷,'curling.' The whole line—首如形蓬,of I. v. VIII. 2. Comp. also Il. 3, 4. with the lines 3, 4. of that passage. 南言 is the compound particle which we have often met with. It occurs to the lady that she was in no condition to meet her husband, if he should suddenly make his appearance.

St. 2. The 点 is the indigo-plant. Williams seems to be wrong, in calling it the Isatis;—see the Penny Cyclopædia, art. Indigo. 答言 "an apron." Choo says, 太诚前言之意, 即為於 Ll. 3, 4 are easily enough translated, 后 being taken as—归, 'to see;' acc. to Choo, or—至 to arrive, acc. to the Urhya; but we have some difficulty in understanding how an absence of five days should have produced such an excitement and longing in the wife. The filthy and absurd view of Maou, on which Ying-tah and Wang Taou dilate at length, can only be referred to. Ch'ing understands—'the days of the 5th, of the 6th month.' Yen Ts'an says, 'Anciently a gentleman, for three months after his marriage, did not engage in the duties of his office; and here we have the repin-ing of a newly married wife.' But this view is not applicable to the case before us. We must suppose that from some point in his journey homewards the husband had sent word to his wife that he would be with her in five days.

Stt. 3, 4 may be taken with Choo as referring to the future,—what the wife would do when her husband returned, or, which I rather prefer, with Këang, as referring to the past, what she had done when he was with her. course, is the husband; but it seems better not to translate the terms, but simply to say 'he.' In 1.2, 言 is the particle. 襲其弓=納 弓於韔中, 'put his bow into its case.' She might do this either on his going away to hunt, or on his return from hunting. arrange in order; 綸之繩,一爲之綸 細. In st. 4, 筋—as in I.i.X. 8, et al.: 颱, as in I.viii.IX.2. The only difficulty is with the last line. Yen Ts'an has, I think, surmounted it best. He says, 旁有觀看 者 (as in the translation), 以人見 善釣為樂也,今久不歸, 故思而述之

III. Shoo mëaou.

- 1 Tall and strong grows the young millet,
 Fattened by the genial rains.
 Very long was our journey to the south,
 But the earl of Shaou encouraged and cheered us.
- We carried our burdens; we pushed along our barrows; We drove our waggons; we led our oxen. When our expedition was accomplished, We knew we should return.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 緑, 纲, 局, 沐, cat. 3, t. 3: in 2, 蓝, 花。, 凭。, cat. 8, t. 1: in 3, 弓。, 細, cat. 6: in 4, 触, 老。, cat. 5, t. 2

Ode 3. Allusive and narrative. Celebrating the service of the earl of Shaou in nuilding the city of Seat, and the cheerful alachity of his soldiers under his manner. This ode and the 5th of Pt. III. Bk. III. should be studied together. King Seuen (B. C. 826—781) established the marquisate of Shin, as a bulwark against the encroachments of the tribes on the south and west, appointing its capital in Seay. This ode celebrates the expedition to which was entrusted the building of the city, and the inauguration of the State. There seems no reason, therefore why we should attribute this ode to any reign but that of king Scuen. The Preface, however, and all the crities of Maou's school, drag in king Yew, their bete noire, and say it was directed against him, who was divorcing his queen, and making her father, the marquis of Shin, his enemy.

St. 1. 克克,—as in Liv.X.4, et al. 泰古,—'the millet in the blade,' rising up above the ground. 陰雨,—as in iv.VIII.9, et al. 雹, 'to anoint;' here—'to water and nourish.' Ll. 1 and 2 are allusive of the kindly, invigorating manner in which the earl of Shaou conducted the expedition. 悠悠 conveys the idea of the length and distance of the march (遠行 here as in I.ii.V,—'the chief of Shaou.' The lord of that territory was properly a fi or earl. The one in question is known as 'duke Muh of Shaou (A A), receiving the title of kung, as being one of the highest ministers of the court. A,—as in I.xiv.IV.4. 'The term,' says Ho Keae, 'means that he cheered the men under their toils, compassionated them in their hunger and thirst, sympathized with them and stimulated them.'

St. 2. The writer, whoever he was, identifies himself with the soldiers of the expedition generally, and we must translate 我 in the plural. 任, 董, 車, 牛 are all to be taken as in the translation. As Ching gives it, 有 任 者, 有 將 車 者, 有 縣 車 者, 有 將 車 表, 1 表, 1 express a thought which cheered the minds of the men. 集 成, 'to be accomplished.' 蓋 is explained here as 未 定 之 辭, a 'peradventure.' Këang says that 云 has here its force of 'to say;' but I regard it as the particle.

- We went along on foot; we rode in our chariots;— Our whole host, and our battalions. When our expedition was accomplished, We knew we should return home.
- 4 Severe was the work at Sëay,
 But the earl of Shaou built the city.
 Majestic was the march of our host;—
 The earl of Shaou directed it.
 - 5 The plains and low lands were regulated;—
 The springs and streams were cleared.
 The earl of Shaou completed his work,
 And the heart of the king was at rest.

IV. Sih sang.

如其君旣有其有隱。隰。傾。樂子。見難。葉阿。桑桑

In the low, wet grounds, the mulberry trees are beautiful, And their leaves are luxuriant. When I see the princely men, How great is the pleasure!

St. 3. This st. speaks of the men-at-arms, the chariot-men, and the foot-men attached to them; the whole host, and its different divisions (五百人為族,五族為師).

(五百人為族,五族為師).
St. 4. 功二工役之事, all the labour which had to be put forth in building Sēay, which was in the pres. Tăng Chow (野州), dep. Nan-yang, Ho-nan. 肅書嚴正之貌, expressing the determination with which the work was gone about. 營二治,

"to regulate;" 江一丁, "to march." Yen Ts'an would refer ll. 3, 4 to the reduction of the tribes of the Hwae; but if such an undertaking was a part of the expedition, and the writer had been thinking of it, he would have expressed himself more explicitly. 列列一威武第, 'martial-like.'

on the waters, . Evidently from this stanza, we must think of the state of Shin as now for the first time colonized, and the country brought under some order and regulation.

- 2 In the low, wet grounds, the mulberry trees are beautiful, And their leaves are glossy.
 When I see the princely men,
 How can I be other than glad?
- 3 In the low, wet grounds, the mulberry trees are beautiful, And their leaves are dark. When I see the princely men, Their virtuous fame draws them close [to my heart].
- 4 In my heart I love them,
 And why should I not say so?
 In the core of my heart I keep them,
 And never will forget them.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 苗, 营, 勞, cat. 2: in 2, 牛, 哉, cat. 1, t. 1: in 3, 御, 族, 處, cat. 5, t. 2: in 4, 營, 成, cat. 11: in 5, 平, 清, 成, 军, ib.

Ode 4. Allusive and narrative. THE WRITER SPEAKS OF HIS ADMIRATION AND LOVE FOR SOME MAN OR MEN OF NOBLE CHARACTER. There would seem to be little, if anything, in this ode, to justify our regarding it as a satirical piece; but the Preface and its supporters manage to find in it Yëw's forcing good men into obscurity, and the desire of the writer to see them in office. Choo is of opinion that both this piece and the prec. are out of their proper place, through some mistake, in an early time, in the arrangement of the pieces in this Part.

Lll. 1,2, in stt. 1,2,3. The mulberry tree flour-

Lll. 1,2, in stt. 1,2,3. The mulberry tree hourishes best in a damp situation. 阿 is explained by 美说, 'beautiful-looking;' 難 by 强 说, 'luxuriant;' 幽, by 黑色 'of a black colour,'=dark. What the sight of such mulberry trees was in nature, that would the sight of the men he has in view be to the speaker.

Ll. 3,4, in the same stt. Who is intended by 君子, and whether we should take it in the singular or plural, we cannot tell. In st. 2, 1.4, is the initial particle. In st. 8, 1.4, lit. — 'Their virtuous fame is very glueing.' As Wang Gan-shih expands it, 其德音所及,所歷之基膠面也,'wherever their virtuous fame reaches, men cleave to them with firm adhesion.'

St. 4. 心乎 = 中心 in l.3. The 可is used as in I.vii.V.1,2; and implies some excitement in the statement. 還一句, as in ii.VII.4,5. The Pëaou Ko (表記) in the Lc, quotes the passage with 瑕, which we saw, on I.iii.XIV. 3, must be taken as meaning 一'how.' Ch'ing takes 還 here, as he always does, as meaning 灵, 'far off,' so that the line says, 'But they are far off, and I cannot speak to them.' This is all that can be forced from the ode, to give any plausibility to the view of it presented in the Preface.

The rhymes are—in st.1, 阿, 難 (prop. cat. 14), 何, cat. 17: in 2, 沃, 樂 *, cat. 2: in 3, 幽, 廖 *, cat. 3, t.1: in 4, 愛, 謂, cat. 15, t.3; 藏, 広, cat. 10.

V. Pih hwa.

- 1 The fibres from the white flowered rush, Are bound with the white grass.
 This man's sending me away
 Makes me dwell solitary.
- 2 The light and brilliant clouds
 Bedew the rush and the grass.
 The way of Heaven is hard and difficult;—
 This man does not conform [to good principle].
 - 3 How the water from the pools flows away to the north, Flooding the rice fields!

Ode 5. Metaphorical The Queen of king Yew complains of sense degraded and forsamen. The Preface says that in this piece the people of Chow censure the queen of Yew (周人東區后), where there is evidently a mistake,—probably of 后 for 王. It is quoted in a note in one of the Books of Han (外底原, LXVII. ch. ii., 孝成,班億份。

[] LXVII. ch. ii., 孝成,班億份。

[] The people of Chow censure king Yew for degrading his queen of Shin. There is nothing special in the piece to suggest to us this account of it, and the above reference to it in the Books of Han seems to me but slender authority. Choo, however, accepts it. The Preface is evidently wrong in attributing the composition to the people of Chow. The writer in the cde speaks of her own experience. If the queen did not write it herself, the author intended it to be taken as from her.

St. 1. In this and in all the art, the first two lines are metal horical: but the critics differ in their explanation of their bearing on the case of the queen and her husband, and it is hardly worth while going minutely into the discussion of the point. I is the for I. vii. XIX.2— a rush with a white flower, nearly allied to the ... Both Maca and Chao say that it is only after it has been steeped that it is called Ken (已): either it was tied with the nace in bundles to be steeped, or the stalks were so tied after they had undergone that operation. The two lines suggest the idea of the close connection between the two plants, and the necessariness of the one to the other—as it should be between husband and wife. By 之子, of course, king Tew is intended. 遠, scc. to the pres. system of distinguishing between the diffictiones of a character, should be in the third tone, = 遠葉. 俾 is stronger than 'to give; • 使, 'to cause.'

St. 2. 英英 denotes 'the spp. of the white clouds: 'Cheo says, 'as light and bright.' The idea in Il. I, 2 seems to be that the clouds bestowed their dewy influences on the smallest plants, while her husband neglected the speaker. 'steps,'=行. 'going.' 天步='the goings of Heaven.' Cheo says that the phrase=時蓮. 'the revolution of the time.'=cur' course of Providence.' 不道.—as in vi. IV. 3. Cheo. inappropriately. would explain it by 圖, 'to plan.'

St. 3. St. both by Macu and Chro, is defined by Hill, 'the app. of flowing.' Chins

I whistle and sing with wounded heart, Thinking of that great man.

- 4 They gather firewood of branches of the mulberry trees, And I burn them [only] in a [small] furnace. That great man Does indeed toil and trouble my heart.
- 5 Their drums and bells are beaten in the palace, And their sound is heard without. All-sorrowful I think of him;— He thinks of me without any regard.
- 6 The marabou is on the dam; The [common] crane is in the forest. That great man Does indeed toil and trouble my heart.

says that, between Fung and Haou, the streams all flowed in a northern direction. The flooding the rice fields was the greatest benefit to them; not so did Yëw deal with his queen.

'great,' as we have often found it, though generally descriptive of the largeness of the person. We must take it here of Yëw in his position as king.

St. 4. History, 'to gather.' His defined by H, 'to blaze,' 'to enlighten;' His a small portable furnace. II,—as in I. iii. IX. 4. The idea which it is tried to bring out of ll. 1,2 is this:—'Firewood from the mulberry tree is sufficient for all kinds of cooking, but in this case the speaker had but a small furnace, in which she could only use the firewood to give heat and light, thus not employing it as she ought to have done. So was she degraded from her place

as queen.'

St. b. I cannot myself see the metaphorical element in this stanza at all, nor does Choo try to point it out. Maou's idea seems to be that as the sound of music in the palace could not but be heard without, so would the king's virtue, if he had any, find its manifestation; but men found none. 操集一震,'the app. of sorrow;' 邁萬一不顧,'regardlessly.'

St. 6. Asia in iii.X.1,2. The ts'ëw is also a crane, said to be to, or 'bald;'—a kind of adjutant or marabou, 8 or 9 feet high, the eyes red, the neck long, fond of eating snakes, and able to maintain a fight with a man. 'Both the birds,' says Choo, 'live on fish; but the hoh is a clean bird, and the ts'ëw an unclean one. Here,

- 7 The Yellow ducks are on the dam, With their left wings gathered up. That man is bad, Ever varying in his conduct.
- 8 How thin is that slab of stone! He that stands on it is low. That man's sending me away Makes me full of affliction.

VI. Mëen man.

飲如我云道丘止黃縣華泉之何。勞遠。之阿。于鳥。蠻

1 There is that little oriole,
Resting on a bend of the mound.
The way is distant,
And I am very much wearied.
Give me drink, give me food;

however, the hoh is in the forest, where it would be famished, and the ts'ëw is on the dam, where it could have its fill. So had the queen and the concubine changed places,' &c.

St. 7. Ll. 1,2,—see vii.II. 1,2. _______,—as in I.v.IV. 4. The Yellow ducks were faithful;—how difft. from the king!

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 束,獨, cat. 3, t. 3: in 2, 茅*, 猶, ib., t. 1: in 3, 田,人, cat. 12: in 4, 薪,人, ib.; 煁,心, cat. 7, t. 1: in 5,外,邁, cat. 15, t. 3: in 6, 林,心, cat. 7, t. 1: in 7, 梁,良, cat. 10; 鬘,德, cat. 1, t. 3: in 8, 卑,派, cat. 16, t. 1.

Ode 6. Allusive. Some inferior complains OF HIS TOIL IN AN EXPEDITION, AND THE NE-GLECT WITH WHICH HE WAS TREATED BY HIS SUPERIORS. Such is, substantially, the account of this piece, given both by Maou and Choo. The former regards it as allusive; the latter, as metaphorical; and in this case, I think, the critical faculty of Choo is at fault. The 'Complete Digest,' expanding his view, says, 'The first line is from the critical the circumfirst line is from the writer, stating the circumstances; all the other lines are the language of the bird. For in this piece the whole case is put into the mouth of an oriole, and the lines flow naturally and easily; -metaphorically, without the appearance of metaphor, expressing the object of the writer. We must not think that in the last four lines we have a man longing for some one in whom he could trust for help; they are the thoughts of the bird to that effect 膏,順文說去,而 But if the writer chose Inform me, teach me; Order one of the attending carriages, And tell them to carry me.

- 2 There is that little oriole,
 Resting on a corner of the mound.
 It is not that I dare to shrink from the journey,
 But I am afraid of not being able to go on.
 Give me drink, give me food;
 Inform me, teach me;
 Order one of the attending carriages,
 And tell them to carry me.
- 3 There is that little oriole,
 Resting on the side of the mound.
 It is not that I dare to shrink from the journey,
 But I am afraid of not getting to the end of it.

to put the expression of his sentiments into the mouth of a bird, surely he would have made it talk like a bird. In I.xv. II. we have a metaphorical piece where a bird is the speaker, and a reference to it will show at once how different it is from the ode before us. I must conclude that Choo's better judgment here deserted him.

that Choo's better judgment here deserted him. All the stanzas. With his view of the piece, Choo defines 宗帝 as 'the sound of the bird,' some representation of its notes into which we need not further inquire. Maou says the terms express 'the app. of a little bird () 是 第2.' In the 'Great Learning,' comm. iii. 2, they appear as 是 ", and I have there translated them by 'twittering,' having then only had the view of Choo before me. 黄 ",—as in I.i. II. 1, et al. 丘 河 is defined by 田 河, 'a curved mound,' and Ying-tah gives for it 丘 之 田 山,—as in the translation. The analogy of 1.2 in stt. 2, 3, shows that this is correct-The bird has its proper place in which to rest: but not so was it with the speaker, who was left neglected, though exhausted with toil. See the use which Confucius makes of the I in the passage of the 'Great Learning' referred to. He is not explaining the ode, however, as Maou and others seem to think, but only drawing a In l. 3, st. 1, both Z and Z moral from it. are particles. In the other stt., fear,' 'to shrink from.' L.4. 我勞如何, -'What can I do under such toil?' or 'How 趨-疾行,'to great has been my toil!' go rapidly;' but here the meaning is not more than 'to go on.' 極-至, 'to arrive at.' The 'Flower and Essence of the She' quotes a sentence from the 'Narratives of the States,' which admirably illustrates this use of the term; - TIK

載謂後命誨教食飲能之。之之。之極。

Give me drink, give me food; Inform me, teach me; Order one of the attending carriages, And tell them to carry me.

VII. Hoo yeh.

- 1 Of the gourd leaves, waving about, Some are taken and boiled; [Then] the superior man, from his spirits, Pours out a cup, and tastes it.
- 2 There is but a single rabbit,
 Baked, or roasted.
 [But] the superior man, from his spirits,
 Fills the cup and presents it [to his guests].

朝舊,則夕極于魯國. In 11.5—S, all the 之, excepting the first in LS, must be translated by 'me.' The character loses its meaning in the verb preceding, intensifying its verbal force. 数 is the general term for 'to teach;' 海一'to inform,' 'to enlighten.' By 後車 we are to understand 副車, 'an attending carriage,' one of the carriages conveying the baggage of the expedition. 謂之, 'tell them,'—the people in charge of the carriage.

The rhymes are—in st.1, 阿, 何, cat.17; 食, 酶*, 載 (and in 2, 4), cat.1, t.2: in 2, 隅*, 超*, cat.4, t.1: in 3, 侧.極, cat.1, t.3.

Ode 7. Narrative. Where the provisions are most frugal, all the rules of politic rabbits and some of its employed in speal altogether gratuitous to bring in king Yew here, and to say that the piece was intended to brand the gluttony and irregularities of him and his the fire, or broiled."

courtiers by describing the simple manners and decency of an earlier time.

Both Maon and Ll. 1, 2, in all the stanzas. Choo say that 幡幡 is descriptive of 'the The 'Complete app. of the gourd leaves.' The 'Complete Digest' adds that the appearance is that of 'their waving about (搖動貌).' 忌, as in vi.V.2, et al. No supply of vegetables at a meal could be more frugal than boiled, or pickled, gourd leaves; and no supply of viands more frugal than a single rabbit. The III is taken as joined to 頂, with no meaning of its own;—so we found it joined to 螽 in Li. V., and 首 is equivalent to 'one,' to 虺 in v. VIL 1. a classifier used in giving the number of rabbits and some other animals, just as E, 'tail,' L.2 in is employed in speaking of pigs or fishes. stt. 2, 3, 4 gives the different ways in which the rabbit might be cooked:- in the fire (i.e., the ashes), or baked; near the fire, or roasted; over

瓠葉

- 3 There is but a single rabbit,
 Roasted, or broiled.
 [But] from the spirits of the superior man,
 [His guests] fill the cup, and present it to him.
- There is but a single rabbit,
 Roasted or baked.
 [But] from the spirits of the superior man,
 [His guests and he] fill the cup and pledge one another.

VIII. Tsëen-tsëen che shih.

湟東矣。維川高石。漸 石漸朝征。武其悠矣。維漸 朝征。武其悠矣。維漸 矣。不人勞遠。山其之

1 Those frowning rocks,—
How high they rise!
Over such a distance of hills and streams,
How toilsome is the march!
The warrior, in charge of the expedition to the east,
Has not a morning's leisure.

I.1.3, 4. Over such a frugal meal, the parties in the writer's eye would be as ceremonious as at a grand feast. First, the host pours out a cup of his spirits, and tastes them, to be assured they are good. Then he fills a cup, and presents it to his guests. The guests drink, and have a cup filled, which the host drinks (

Lastly the host has the cups of the guests filled, and they cause his to be filled, and they all drink to one another (

All drink to one another (

All drink to de.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 亨 ., 嘗, cat. 10: in 2, 首, 酒 (and in 8, 4), cat 3, t. 2; 燔, 獻 ., cat. 14: in 8, 炙 ., 酢, cat. 5, t. 8: in 4, 灿 ., 喜, cat. 8, t. 2.

Ode S. Naitative. Commemorating the hardships of a long and difficult expedition to the east, aggravated by great rains. We may readily conclude that the expedition was against the wild tribes of the east, but when it was undertaken cannot be ascertained. The Preface, as we might expect, refers it to king Yew, but we have no record of his having dispatched an army to the east. Ho Keae would assign it to the reign of king Le, going on a statement in the Bamboo Books, that, in Le's 3d year, the hordes of the Hwae invaded Loh, and were ineffectually opposed by Ch'ang-foo, duke of Kwoh.

Stt. 1, 2. L1. 斯斯 is defined as 高峻之貌, 'the appearance of being high and precipitous. The 1st appendix to the Yih-king quotes the line with 斯 and 石 under it, which Ho ts'aou puh hwang. Give me drink, Inform me, tear Order one of t And tell therr

- Every plant is yellow; Every day we march. Every man is moving about, Doing service in some quarter of the kingdom.
- Every plant is purple; Every man is torn from his wife. Alas for us employed on these expeditions! - How are we alone dealt with as if we were not men?
- We are not rhinoceroses, we are not tigers, To be kept in these desolate wilds. Alas for us employed on these expeditions! Morning and night we have no leisure.
- The long-tailed foxes May keep among the dark grass. And our box-carts Keep moving along the great roads.

Ode 10. Allusive and narrative. THE MISERY AND MURMURING OF THE SOLDIERS CONSTANTLY EMPLOYED ON EXPEDITIONARY SERVICES, AND TREATED WITHOUT ANY CONSIDERATION. Preface says that we have in the piece the complaint of the inferior States, constantly called out by Yëw to do military service. We have nothing in the language, however, to necessitate such a view; and some critics have assigned the ode to the reign of king Hwan.

Stt. 1, 2. The first lines are allusive of the condition of the kingdom, which was like the vegetable world seared and scorched,-burned yellow, and then nearly black. Choo takes in 1.3 of st.1 as—the 77 of 1.2. 管, 'planning and building,'—painfully engag-In st. 2, 1, 2, 74, 'to be an object of pity,' is here explained, by Ch'ing and Choo, by ## 妻, 'wifeless;' the meaning being that the soldiers, constantly kept in employment, were thereby separated from all the enjoyments of their domestic life. Han Ying read the which would still more evidently have that signification. The last line is taken interrogatively (貴 缅 為非民哉)

St. 3. All with the follow, 'keep along.' Ell. 1, 2 may be taken as an expansion of 1.4 of the last stanza.

St. 4. Maou takes 元 as meaning 'the app. of a small animal;' Choo and Yen Ts'an adopt the view of it which I have followed. 应,—as in IV.3. It was natural for foxes to be found among the long, dark grass; but not for these soldiers to be employed as they were. 没直 explained as 没草, 'service carts,'—meaning, I think, the 萱 or 'barrows,' of iii.2. The soldiers had to wheel them along with them, wherever they went.

The rhymes are—in st.1, 黄, 行*, 将, 方, cat. 10: in 2, 立, 矜*, 民, cat. 12, t.1: in 3, 虎, 野*, 服*, cat. 5, t.2: in 4, 狐, 車*, ið, t.1; 草*, 道*, cat. 8, t.2.

In the space afforded by this page, I take the opportunity to introduce Keang Ping-chang's treatment of the 10th ede, as a specimen of his method.

二章矜字,包括無數思 念室家之詞,獨為匪民民 人也,言人情皆欲安其家 室也.

	·
-

THE SHE KING.

PART III.

GREATER ODES OF THE KINGDOM.

BOOK I. DECADE OF KING WAN.

ODE I. Wan wang.

1 King Wăn is on high;
Oh! bright is he in heaven.
Although Chow was an old country,
The [favouring] appointment lighted on it recently.
Illustrious was the House of Chow,
And the appointment of God came at the proper season.

Ode 1. Natrative. Celebrating king Wan, DEAD AND ALIVE, AS THE FOUNDER OF THE DYNASTY OF CHOW, BHOWING HOW HIS VIRTUES DREW TO HIM THE FAVOURING REGARD OF HEAVEN, AND MADE HIM A BRIGHT PATTERN TO HES DESCENDANTS AND THEIR MINISTERS;—ATTRIBUTED TO THE DUKE OF CHOW, FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE YOUNG KING CHING.

王孫侯錫不王。亹若。在王孫侯錫不正。亹若。在王孫子。文哉已。令亹帝陟子。文玉周。陳聞文左降。

King Wăn ascends and descends, On the left and the right of God.

2 Full of earnest activity was king Wăn,
And his fame is without end.
The gifts [of God] to Chow
Extend to the descendants of king Wăn;—
To the descendants of king Wăn,

St. 1. Acc. to Choo, the first two and the last two lines are to be taken of the soul or spirit of king Wan in heaven; and to explain them otherwise is, simply, to explain them away. Maou makes 在上 in 1.1 = 在民

, 'was over the people;' and 1.2='Oh! his virtue was displayed to Heaven.' Then in 1.7 游隆='he ascended and descended;' i.e., he did what was right in the sight of Heaven above, and what was good in the sight of men below. On 1.8 Maou says nothing; but Ching took 在 in the sense of 察, 'to examine,' and interprets all the line-'King Wan was able to see and know the mind of Heaven, obeyed it, and acted according to it.' Yen Ts'an, dissatisfied with these explanations, says, 'King Wan's virtue was in accordance with Heaven. He ascended and descended, advanced and retired, as if he were always on the left and right of God, so that not a single movement of his was other than the action of Heaven.' The inadequacy of all these explanations of the text is sufficiently evident. Këang Ping-chang admits it in reference to ll. 7, 8, and adopts Choo's view, that the language can only be taken of Wan's spirit (以神言)

But we must adopt it also in Il. 1,2.

is simply—'is on high.' The writer is not thinking of Wan as 'over the people,' but in reference to the wonderful attributes of character which made him the object of the divine favour. He is called 'king Wan,' as having been kinged by the duke of Chow, after the subjugation of the Shang dynasty, when Woo in his old age received the appointment to the throne (Doctrine of the Mean, XVIII. 3);—not that he ever assumed the title of king himself. It was an error in the scholars of the Han dynasty to suppose that he did so, originating with Szema Ts'ëen. The appointment of Heaven lighted on Wan, but it took effect only when his son Fah became the sovereign of China as king.

L1.8—6. Ching is literally correct in saying that the history of Chow dates from the removal of Wan's grandfather, king Tae, to the territory so called, as I have related on the title of I.i.I; but Yen Ts'an is correct, as regards the spirit of the ode, in saying that it is the House of Chow. (周家), after and before its settlement in Chow, that the poet has in view. 其 in 1. 4 is the 'appointment of Heaven' that the sovereignty of the kingdom should be in the Chow family. The statement that the appointment was 'new,' or 'recent,' shows that we should not translate iii by decree. On the use of 有 in l. 5, see on II.v. VI. 6. Maou observes that 不顯 and 不時 are to be taken as affirmative of 顯 and 時. We may do this, or take the lines interrogatively. The 時一當其時, 'at the proper time.' I translate both 帝 and 上帝 by 'God.' The single term has that meaning, and the igspace , 'High,' is equivalent to the definite article. The one is the Elohim in Hebrew; the other is the Ha-elohim.

St. 2 tells us how the blessing of Heaven rested not only on the person of Wan, but extended also to his descendants and his ministers. In l. 1, 更更完成之就, 'the app. of strong exertion,' In 2, 今間一葉智, 'good praise,' fame. In 3, 陳 is explained by 黄, 'to diffuse,' 'to give.' The line is quoted, once and again, in the Tso-chuen and the Kwohyu, and always with 載 instead of 載. Maou explains 式 by 載, which it is much better to take in its frequent usage as an expletive particle, than to attempt, with K'ang-shing to give it the meaning of 允, 'to begin,' which it also has. It appears also more in harmony with the ode to understand God as the subject of 陳幼, than king Wan, as Ying-tah does;—so that the

In the direct line and the collateral branches for a hundred generations.

All the officers of Chow

Shall [also] be illustrious from age to age.

They shall be illustrious from age to age,
Zealously and reverently pursuing their plans.
Admirable are the many officers
Born in this royal kingdom.
The royal kingdom is able to produce them,—
The supporters of [the House of] Chow.
Numerous is the array of officers,
And by them king Wan enjoys his repose.

4 Profound was king Wan; Oh! continuous and bright was his feeling of reverence. Great is the appointment of Heaven!

深度,—as often. ins no more meaning than + 15, 'sons and grandsons,'=descendants. The usual order of the terms is changed here for the sake of the rhyme. That no peculiar meaning is to be sought in the form of the expression appears from its recurrence in st. 4. This line is under the govt of 製 鍋, or may be taken as in apposition with 唐. L. 6. 'The root and the the branches' denote the eldest sons by the recognized queen, succeeding to the throne, and the other sons by the queen and by concubines. The former should be the kings, and the latter the nobles of the kingdom, through a hundred genera-tions. The former would grow up directly from the root, and the latter would constitute the branches of the great Chow tree. Ll.7,8. And not only the descendants of Wan, but all the officers of the House of Chow should share in the favour -, 'officers,' should of Heaven through him. have its most extensive application. 不 島自 may here have its force of 'also.'

St. 3 continues the subject of the officers of Chow, for the duke of Chow knew that only through their loyal attachment would the throne In 1.2, 猶一謀, 'counsels.' 單一规句, 'zealous and reverent.' L. 3. is here an initial particle,—as in II.vii.IV. 🖳 夷, 'admirable.' Ll. 4, 5. 'The royal kingdom' is the kingdom of Chow,-both the original Chow, and the general dominions which the House had obtained through Wan and Woo. L. 6. 有一道幹, one part for the whole of the wooden frame by which adobie walls are raised, so that the term has the idea of erection as well as of support. Ll. 7, 8. Choo finds in here only the idea of 'numerous;' Maou adds to that the idea of good deportment,in II. vi.V. 2. I prefer to take 1. 8 of king Wan in heaven, in his spiritual condition (文王 之 꺠; Foo Kwang). St. 4 returns to king Wan and sets forth his great virtue of 'reverent attention' to his duties,

St. 1. Acc. to Ch. e the descendants of [the sovereigns] of Shang;—last two lines are scendants of the sovereigns of Shang, spirit of king W in number more than hundreds of thousands;

away. Macc when God gave the command,

F, 'was hey became subject to Chow.

They became subject to Chow.

The appointment of Heaven is not constant.

The officers of Yin, admirable and alert, Assist at the libations in [our] capital;—

They assist at those libations,

Always wearing the hatchets on their lower garment and their peculiar cap.

O ye loyal ministers of the king, Ever think of your ancestor!

through which it was that the dominion of the kingdom passed to this House from that of Shang. Ll. 1, 2 are quoted in 'The Great Learning,' Comm. III. 3, and then expounded. See the remarks on them there. L. 3. 假三大, 'great.' Choo makes the line—'The great appointment of Heaven rested on him;' but that term seems rather to be descriptive of the appointment of Heaven, and 武 to have its usual force of admiration. L. 7. 麗三數, 'numbers.' In Il. 7, 8, the meaning seems to be more vivid if we take 命 as I have done. 侯 二维, as in st. 2. Wang Taou says that both here and there it— 7, a force which 維 sometimes has. 丁周服—服丁周.

St. 5, carries on the subject of the descendants of Shang, and concludes with an admonition, drawn from their case, to the officers of Chow. There is in the st. an element of proud feeling in the triumph of the author's dynasty. Ll. 3, 4. By (the previous dynasty was called indifferently that of Shang or Yin) ______, I think, we must understand both the descendants of Shang and their ministers. They are described as 唐 (美) and 敏 (美), 'admirable and active.' When they appeared at the court of Chart the of Chow, they assisted at the sacrifices of the king in his ancestral temple, which began with a libation of fragrant spirits to bring down the Spirits of the departed. The libation was pour ed out by the representative of the dead, and the cup with the spirits for that purpose was handed to him by some of those who assisted at the service;—here it is represented as done by the 课一灌, 'to pour out as a officers of Yin. Choo defines 將 by 行, and Yinglibation. tah, by 💥 ;-we must take the two characters together, with the meaning which I have given them. L. 6. is the lower garment with the hatchets embroidered on it, though, as Ying-tah says, we are not to suppose that the blazonry 幂 was the was confined to that one figure. name of the cap, as worn, during the Yin dynasty, at sacrifices. The Hëa had used the 以久, and The officers of Yin the Chow used the

- Cultivating your virtue,
 Always striving to accord with the will [of Heaven].
 So shall you be seeking for much happiness.
 Before Yin lost the multitudes,
 [Its kings] were the assessors of God.
 Look to Yin as a beacon;
 The great appointment is not easily [preserved].
- The appointment is not easily [preserved]
 Do not cause your own extinction.
 Display and make bright your righteousness and name,
 And look at [the fate of] Yin in the light of Heaven.
 The doings of High Heaven,
 Have neither sound nor smell.
 Take your pattern from king Wăn,
 And the myriad regions will repose confidence in you.

used their peculiar cap;—by way of honour, and also by way of warning. In ll. 7, 8, the writer turns to the officers of king Ching, and admonishes and stimulates them. — it., 'to advance,' i.c., never to cease in the maintenance of their loyalty. Their 'ancestor,' of course is king Wan.

St.6. Ll.2-4. 丰 is merely the initial particle. 厥德 is not to be understood of the virtue of king Wan, but of that of the officers who are addressed; and 厥一'your.'言 is the particle; 四一合, 'to match,' 'to accord with;'命一'the will of Heaven,'—Choo says, 天型, 'heavenly principle.' 旨一'as a matter of course,' 'this is the natural way.' As Choo expands II. 8,4:—而又常自

省察,使其所行,無不合於 天理,則盛大之福,自我致 之有不外求而得矣. In 11.5— 8 we have the case of Yin again produced. See the 'Great Learning,' Comm. X.5. See also the Shoo, V.xvi,8, on the phrase 配 天, equivalent to 1.6 here.

equivalent to 1.6 here.

St. 7 continues the admonition in st. 6, converging, in the conclusion, from the officers of Chow to the person of king Ching himself. In 1.2, 遏, 一純, 'to extinguish,' = to ruin. In 1.8, 宣一布, 'to spread abroad;' 昭一明, 'to make bright;' 問一聞, in st. 2. In 1.4, 有一义, 'moreover;' 虞一度, 'to calculate,' 'to estimate.' 白天, -'from Heav-

II. Ta ming.

1 The illustration of illustrious [virtue] is required below, And the dread majesty is on high.

Heaven is not readily to be relied on;
It is not easy to be king.

Yin's rightful heir to the heavenly seat
Was not permitted to possess the kingdom.

en,' i, e., from the point of view of Heaven;—seeing how Yin's fall was brought about by Heaven, in consequence of the disobedience of its kings, and their neglect of their duties. See ll.5,6, in the 'Doctrine of the Mean,' XXIII. 6. If the doings of Heaven be thus, how can they be studied and known? The answer is in ll.7,8. King Wan might be considered as an embodiment of the virtue of Heaven, and he could be studied and imitated. 最一家, to resemble;'

一法, 'a pattern.' 儀刑文王一取法於文王,—as in the translation. 字一信, 'to believe.' 作字,—'will arise and repose confidence in you.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 天, 新, cat. 12, t. 1; 庤, 右*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 2, 已, 子, ib.; 世, 世, cat. 15, t. 3: in 3, 翼, 國, cat. 3, t. 3; 生, 楨, 歸, cat. 11: in 4, 上, 子, cat. 1, t. 2; 億, 服*, ib., t. 3: in 5, 常, 京*, cat. 10; 异, 祖, cat. 5, t. 2: in 6, 德*, 福*, cat. 1, t. 3; 帝*, 易, cat. 16, t. 3: in 7, 躬 (prop. cat. 9), 天, cat. 12, t. 1; 臭, 子*, cat. 3, t. 1.

Ode 2. Natrative. How the appointment of Heaven rested on king Wan, and descended to his son, king Woo, who overthrew the dynasty of Shang;—celebrating also the mother and the wife of king Wan. See on the title of II.v. I.

St. 1. Ll.1,2 are certainly enigmatical, Choo says that 则则 is 德之明, 'the brilliance of virtue,' and 赫赫 is 命之顯, 'the manifestation of the will of Heaven.' To the same effect in a measure is the view of Yen Ts'an. He says, 'The first two lines contain a general sentiment (泛言), expressing the principle that governs the relation between Heaven and men. Acc. to 1.1, the good or evil of a ruler cannot be concealed; acc. to I.2, Heaven, in giving its favour or taking it away, acts with strict decision. When below there is the illustrious illustration of virtue, that reaches up on high. When above there is the awful majesty, that exercises a survey below. The relation between Heaven and men ought to excite our awe.' I believe that Yen-she has appreciated the sentiment of the lines; but it is difficult to bring it out in the brevity of a translation. Maou refers the lines, erroneously, to the virtue of king Wan, which was displayed among men below, and gloriously seen by Heav-In 11.3-6 we have the same sentiment of the changing of Heaven's favour, and the same illustration of it, that run through the Part.

Ode 1. 忧一信, 'to be trusted.' 斯 is the final particle. L.4='He who has not an easy position is the king.' The idea is not that of gaining the throne, but of retaining it. 'The heavenly seat' is the throne, the seat given by Heaven to him who is called 'its son.' 股道一股之道嗣, 'the legitimate heir of Yin;'—referring to Show, the last sovereign of that dynasty. 灰一有, 'to possess.' 四方,—the middle State and all the feudal States of the four quarters,—the kingdom. We must bring down 天 from 1.3 as the subject of 使.

- Jin, the second of the princesses of Che, From [the domain of] Yin-shang, Came to be married to the prince of Chow, And became his wife in his capital. Both she and king Ke Were entirely virtuous.

 [Then] Tae-jin became pregnant, And gave birth to our king Wan.
- 3 This king Wăn,
 Watchfully and reverently,
 With entire intelligence served God,
 And so secured the great blessing.
 His virtue was without deflection;
 And in consequence he received [the allegiance of] the States from all quarters.

St. 2 refers to the father, and especially the mother of king Wan. She was a Jin, the second daughter of the prince of Che. As Maou gives the first line,一攀國,任姓之中 女. The 氏 belongs to 任, and precedes it by the inexorable law of the rhyme. Where Che was has not been ascertained; but we may presume from 1.2 that it was within the royal domain of Yin. The critics, at least, say that this is intended by the combination of Yinshang, the two names of the Yin or Shang dynas-taken as in the translation.
is the particle. 媚一婦, 'to become wife to;'—as in the Shoo, I.12. 京 is the 'capital' of Chow; so denominated from the fortunes of the family when the ode was written. The 乃 波 in 1.5 shows that the mother of king Wan is still the main subject of the stanza. title conferred by the duke of Chow on his great-in I. 4 is to take it as — II, 'only virtuous was their conduct.' It makes the T descriptive of the III. Ta'e-jin is the honorary name of the lady. Ta'e-jin is the honorary name of the lady. The selection of the lady. The selection in the highest terms. 'When she was pregnant with king Wan,' says Lew Heang, 'her eyes looked on no improper sight, her ears listened to no licentious sound, and her lips uttered no word of pride. When the king was born, he was intelligent and sage, so that when his mother taught him one thing, he learned a hundred things; and in the end he became the founder of the Chow dynasty. The superior man will say that T'ae-jin could commence the instruction of her child while he was yet in the womb.'

St. 3 is all occupied with the virtue of king Wan, which made him the object of God's fa-when the ode was written. The 为 放 in 1.5 shows that the mother of king Wan is still the main subject of the stanza. 王季 is the title conferred by the duke of Chow on his greatgrandfather;—see the 'Doctrine of the Mean,' XVIII. 3. The best way of dealing with the what I have given. 聿 is the particle. 裳

- Heaven surveyed this lower world;
 And its appointment lighted [on king Wăn].
 In his early years,
 It made for him a mate;—
 On the north of the Hëah;
 On the banks of the Wei.
 When king Wăn would wive,
 There was the lady in a large State.
- In a large State was the lady,
 Like a fair denizen of Heaven.
 The ceremonies determined the auspiciousness [of the union],
 And in person he met her on the Wei.

is defined by , 'to make to come.' E = 洲, 'crooked,' 'perverse.' 方侯國之歸,一as in the translation. St. 4 introduces the queen of king Wan, as specially provided for him by Heaven. Ll. 1, 2 refer to Wan, as singled out by Heaven to occupy the throne. It was hardly necessary to put 'on king Wan,' in brackets, as they are merely brought up from 1.3. come to,' 'to settle or light on." 載 - 年: 初 載='in his early years.' Thus his bride would be about the same age as himself. 一型[],—'a mate.' Hëah is the name of a river, on the north of which lay the capital of the State held by the father of Tae-sze. The Shwoh-wăn quotes the line with 合形; and Maou originally had A alone. The K was added in the Han dynasty. The river is supposed to have been in the pres. dis. of Hoh-yang (陽), in T'ung Chow (同 州), Shen-se. 英,-as in I. vi. VII. 2, et al. In 1.7, Choo defines 嘉 by 婚禮, 'the marriage ceremony;' certainly marriage is one of what are denominated the Grant or ceremonies: and we may adopt Choo's view, so that the meaning of the line is as I have given it. Even Yen Ts'an here follows Choo in preference to the old explanation of the term as meaning 'admired.' The great State is Sin (), to which the young lady belonged.

In st. 5 we have the marriage of Wan and It would be hard to say what specific this lady. idea the writer had in his mind in the 2d line, descriptive of the grace and other attri-侃一譬, 'to be compared butes of the lady. Han Ying read 2, which has the same 妹,—'a younger sister;' but here simply = 1, 'a young lady.' scriptive of the preliminary formalities; 文 is defined by 禮, 'ceremonies;' and 祥 by 吉, 'lucky,' 'fortunate.' Yen Ts'an says, 'The tortoise-shell was consulted, and gave a favourable Then they determined by the ceremonial observances that the thing was fortunate, and presented the bridal gifts (卜而得吉 則以禮文定其吉祥而納 All things being ready, the young prince went in person to meet the bride, and made a bridge of boats for her to cross the Wei The boats were moored across the stream, and then planks were laid upon them, so that the lady might walk over. Morrison, under the char. E, gives the stanza thus:-

Over it he made a bridge of boats;—
The glory [of the occasion] was illustrious.

6 The favouring appointment was from Heaven,
Giving the throne to our king Wăn,
In the capital of Chow.
The lady-successor was from Sin,
Its eldest daughter, who came to marry him.
She was blessed to give birth to king Woo,
Who was preserved, and helped, and received also the appointment,

And in accordance with it smote the great Shang.

7 The troops of Yin-shang
Were collected like a forest,
And marshalled in the wilderness of Muh.

'Of a great nation there is a daughter, Comparable to the angelic sisters of heaven. The elegant presents have determined his bliss; In person he meets her, on the banks of the Wei. Build the boats; make a bridge; Spare nought to illustrate his glory.'

Translating at random as Morrison did, for the purposes of his dictionary, it was not to be expected that he would give the verses correctly, according to the tenses they must have in their connection with others. It became a statute of Chow that a royal bride should be brought across a stream on a bridge of boats, king Wan having thus set the example.

St. 6 carries on the narrative to the birth of king Woo, Wan's son, who was to wrest the sovereignty from Yin. L.3. 丁周丁京, 'in Chow, in the capital,'—in his Chow capital (丁周之京). Ll.4, 5 must be taken closely together, in order to make any construction of them. 篇一卷, 'to continue.' T'ae-sze is called 'the continuing lady,' as the successor to T'ae-jin, whose praises were declared in st. 2. 維 睪 plainly means—'was from Sin.' Choo takes 行一城, as in the translation. Maou would connect it with the 77, in st. 2. Yen Ts'an agrees with Choo, referring to the use of the term, in I.iii. XIV. 2. It is difficult to give or to understand the force of 篇, 'real,' 'sincere,' 'to give importance to,' in 1.6. Choo takes it as I have done, 一天 又 篤 The T, thus understood, must be brought on as the subject of the verbs in 1.7. 右二則, 'to assist.' The 顧 cannot be taken as the pronoun of the 2d person;—we must regard it as a final particle, or as = 之. 燮= 和, 'harmoniously;'—we must suppose here 'in harmony with the will of Heaven.' says, 順天命·

We rose [to the crisis];—
'God is with you,' [said Shang-foo to the king],
'Have no doubts in your heart.'

8 The wilderness of Muh spread out extensive;

Bright shone the chariots of sandal;

The teams of bays, black-maned and white-bellied, galloped along;

The grand-master Shang-foo

Was like an eagle on the wing,

Assisting king Woo,

Who at one onset smote the great Shang.

That morning's encounter was followed by a clear bright [day].

Stt. 7, 8 are occupied with the decisive hattle, which issued in the overthrow of the dyn. of Shang, and gave the throne to king Woo. In st. 7, 1. 1, 股商,—as in st. 2; 旋=師, 'multitudes.' L.2. Comp. the Shoo, V.iii.9. L.3. 矢一陳, 'to be displayed' 'to be mar-牧野,—see on the Shoo, V. ii. 1. In 1.3, Choo takes 侯 as the particle 維, so that the meaning is, as I have given it (# 師爲有與起之勢) Ch'ing refers the 侯 to Woo, here called marquis from Shang's point of view; -which is very unlikely. Këang Ping-chang and many others take the line as saying, 'We of Chow and the princes on our side arose (予周以諸侯與起 而陳於牧野之地). Ll. 5, 6 are well taken by Këang as spoken to king Woo by Shang-foo, who commanded on the side of Chow. 篮步,- 'has come to you;'eis with you. 而一篇, 'to doubt.'

In st. 8, 洋洋一质大之貌, 'the app. of being wide and large.' 桓車, -see on I.

ix. VI. 煌煌,—see I. xii. V. 1. 顯,—is defined as 'a bay-horse, black-maned, with a white belly (關馬白腹). 彭彭,—as in II. vi. I. 3. 尚炎,—seen on the title of I. viii. 師一大師, 'grand-master. 時一是, 'he was.' 涼一'to assist;' as if it were 亮, with which the line is quoted in the Books of Han (王莽傳). Maou explains 肆 by 疾, 'rapidly;' Choo, by 縱兵, 'let go his weapons.' 會朝,—'the morning of the meeting,' i. e., of the battle. 清明—而天下清明, 'and all under heaven was clear and bright.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 上, 王, 方, cat.
10: in 2, 商, 京*, 行*, 王, ib.: in 3, 翼,
福*, 國, cat. 1, t. 3: in 4, 集, 合*, cat. 7, t.
3; 涘, 止, 子, cat. 1, t. 2: in 5, 妹, 渭, cat.
15, t. 8; 梁, 光, cat. 10: in 6, 天, 莘, cat. 12,
t. 1; 王, 京*, 行*, 王, 商, cat. 10: in 7,
林, 與 (prop. cat. 6), 心, cat. 7, t. 1; 旅,
野*, 女, cat. 5, t. 2: in 8, 洋, 煌, 彭*, 楊,
王, 商, 明*, cat. 10.

III. Mëen.

有陷災。古土初瓞。縣本家穴。陷入沿上。民縣縣之。未復宣漆。自之瓜

1 In long trains ever increasing grow the gourds.
When [our] people first sprang,
From the country about the Ts'eu and the Ts'eih,
The ancient duke T'an-foo,
Made for them kiln-like huts and caves,
Ere they had yet any houses.

Metaphorical and narrative. SMALL BEGINNINGS AND SUBSEQUENT GROWTH of the House of Chow. Its removal from PIN UNDER T'AN-FOO, AND SETTLEMENT IN CHOW, DOWN TO THE TIME OF KING WAN. The gradual rise of the House of Chow has been adverted to in the notes on the title of Part I. T'an-foo, it is there stated, removed with his tribe from Pin to the plain of Chow, in B.C. 1,325; and we have here an eloquent account of his labours in founding the new settlement. Duke Lew, to whom is ascribed the previous settlement of the tribe in Pin, in B. C. 1,796, is celebrated in the second Book of this Part; but what we read of T'an-foo, in the 1st stanza of the ode before us, is hardly reconcileable with the accounts of his distant predecessor, nor with the sketch of life in Pin, which forms the theme of I.xv.I. It is not history which we have of the early days of the tribe in Pin, but legends, and legends dressed up by the writer or the writers of the odes, carrying back into anti-quity the state of things which was existing around them in their own day.

St. 1. L. 1 is metaphorical, designed, evidently, to give us the idea of the growth of Chow from a very small beginning. Choo says that large gourds are called kwa, and small ones teeh, from which Williams explains the two characters together as 'large and small melons, met. posterity.' But 瓞 (i. q. 瓜, with 勺 on the right) is the gourd near its root, where it begins, very small as compared with the III, when it has grown and extended, with a vast developement of its tendrils and leaves. So had the House of Chow grown and increased, small at first, and ever becoming larger. Kënng Ping-chang says, 縣縣之瓜,本方初生之瓞, making it clear that he did not understand knoa and tech as two different plants, but as one, in the early and developed stage of its growth. 縣 縣,—as in I. vi. VII. The line is metaphorical really, though Maou makes it allusive, as introductory to the whole of the stanzas. It is so introductory; but it is itself metaphorical.

Ll. 2—6 certainly give us the idea of the tribe of Chow coming first into notice in the time of Tan-foo, in the country about the two rivers mentioned, and living there in habitations of the most primitive description. This is irreconcileable with the accounts which we have of it under duke Lew nearly five centuries earlier; nor will the student think that the difficulty is for will the student think that the difficulty is lightened by Wang Gan-shih, who says, 'The State of Chow [this can only be understood of the tribe, which afterwards settled in Chow] had nearly become extinct. Subsequently it occupied the country about the Ts'eu and the Ts'eih, and began to revive, so that the people are here spoken of as first originating there.' The Ts'eu and the Ts'eih were two rivers in the territory of Pin, and are not to be confounded with those of the same name in the Shoo, III. i. Pt.i. 75. We need not enter into the various discussions about them. 自居於沮漆之旁, 'from the time of their dwelling on the banks of the Ts'eu and Ts'eih.' 古公,一先公,.' the ancient duke;' 喜爱 is to be taken as the name. personage was the grandfather of king Wan, and appears as 'king T'ae' in the list of the kings of the Chow family. He is here called 'duke,' as the ordinary designation of the prince of a State after his death. A is 'a kiln for making pottery;' used here for 'to make in the shape of a kiln.' 🎁 is explained in the dict. by 累土於地上, 'raising up earth above the surface of the ground,' and is said to be, in this sense, interchangeable with 覆, 'that which covers or overshadows.' These kiln-like huts and caves were the dwellings in which the tribe of Chow lived in the 13th century before our era. They were left open, it is said, at the top, for the purpose of light. 家室 together

= regularly constructed houses.

- The ancient duke T'an-foo
 Came in the morning, galloping his horses,
 Along the banks of the western rivers,
 To the foot of [mount] K'e;
 And there, he and the lady Këang
 Came, and together looked out for a site on which to settle.
- The plain of Chow looked beautiful and rich, With its violets and sowthistles [sweet] as dumplings. There he began with consulting [his followers]; There he singed the tortoise-shell, [and divined]. The responses were—there to stay, and then; And they proceeded there to build their houses.
- 4 He encouraged the people and settled them; Here on the left, there on the right.

St. 2 commemorates the removal of T'an-foo from Pin to the plain of Chow. Of the circumstances in which the removal took place Mencius has given us a graphic account, very much to the honour of the ancient duke;—see Men. I. Pt. ii. XV. 1. 聚,一'came;' i. e., came from Pin. 卒=循, 'along,' 'following the course 衙=水 崖,'banks.' The 'western waters' are probably the Ts'eu and Ts'eih. Mount K'e, called also 'Pillar of the sky,' is 10 le north east from K'e-shan dis. city, dep. Fungts'cang. The prince's wife was a Kcang; she is commonly spoken of as Tae-këang (大 -as commonly, = 'there.' cessor of T'ae-jin and T'ae-sze. 'the site for a settlement;' the term has a pregnant meaning here,-to look out for such a

St. 3. The plain of Chow lay south from mount K'c. 無無一肥美貌 'the app.

of being rich and beautiful.' éd denotes sweet cakes made of rice. The soil in the plain of Chow was so rich, that vegetables, elsewhere very inferior, grew in it so as to be like those The * we have met with repeatedly cakes. About the 堇 I am not as the sowthistle. Choo calls it the 鳥頭, or 'crow'shead;' but more modern critics all will have it to be the violet; and as such it is figured in the Japanese plates. The roots of this yield an emetical substance; but I have never read of their being eaten. Attracted by the appearance of the plain, T'an-foo proceeded to consult and divine about making his settlement here. According to Mencius, his people had followed 契 is used here for him in crowds from Pin. an instrument which was employed in scorching or firing the tortoise shell; = 'to scorch.' I cannot tell why 我 is used before 詬; but it is better to neglect it in translating. The [in l. 5 is understood by Choo of Tan-foo thus reporting the result of his consultations and divinations. I have taken it rather differently.

He divided the ground into larger tracts and smaller portions; He dug the ditches; he defined the acres; Eron, the west to the east

From the west to the east,

There was nothing which he did not take in hand.

He called his superintendent of works;
He called his minister of instruction;
And charged them with the building of the houses.
With the line they made everything straight;
They bound the frame-boards tight, so that they should rise regularly.
Uprose the ancestral temple in its solemn grandeur.

St. 4 speaks of the general arrangements made by Tan-foo for the occupancy of the plain We cannot translate the 14 which occurs so frequently. 'Accordingly' would convey its force more nearly than any other term I can think of. Choo defines L by 居,—'to assign the place or quarter of residence.' The left and the right,' i.e., the east and the west, would be determined with reference to the site which had been fixed on for the town, that was to be the capital or residence of the chief himself. L. 3,—see on H. vi. VI. i. 盲 has been K'ung Ting-tah adopted taken variously. Ching's view, that the word = 時耕, 'to assign the times of ploughing and other agricultural operations;' Choo takes it as 一布 散 居, 'dispersed the people all over the country. Neither of these interpretations com-Much better is another which mends itself. Choo mentions, and which I have followed; 宣導其溝洫,'dug the ditches, large and small, i.e., made all the arrangements for the irrigation of the fields, which the peculiar system of husbandry and the division of the land required. His to be taken verbally,as I have done. L.5 seems to come in awkwardly; but we must take it as an account of the whole of the newly occupied territory, from the west, where it was nearest to the old site of the tribe in Pin, on to the furthest point towards the cast to which it extended. Then 1.6 has still T'an-foo for its subject. 周一偏, 'universally,' 'all round.' 爰 cannot be translated. Choo expresses the whole line very well as—醛事不為.

Stt. 5,6, and 7 all describe the processes and progress in erecting the buildings of the new settlement, and especially with reference to the residence or palace of Tan-foo himself. These processes took place under the direction of a superintendent of works and a minister of instruction; but I do not not believe that T'an-foo had at this time two officers at all corresponding to those who bore these names subsequently, when the Chow dynasty was consolidated, and whose functions are described in the Shoo and the Chow Le. The string or plummet was used so that the walls were made perpendicular and square. The building frames were firmly bound together (編 = 東), and raised as the space enclosed by them was completed, the lower board in the frame being removed and placed above. The same process was continued, tier exactly above tier, till the walls were car-ried to the required elevation. This is the meaning assigned to 以戴(上 承也 言以索束板 投土築 訖 則升下而上以相承戰) though it is getting more out of the 載, which simply signifies 'to contain' the earth, than the term can well convey. The intimation in the 4th line is interesting. The first building taken

- 6 Crowds brought the earth in baskets;
 They threw it with shouts into the frames;
 They beat it with responsive blows;
 They pared the walls repeatedly, and they sounded strong.
 Five thousand cubits of them arose together,
 So that the roll of the great drum did not overpower [the noise of the builders].
- 7 They set up the gate of the enceinte;
 And the gate of the enceinte stood high.
 They set up the court gate;
 And the court gate stood grand.
 They reared the great altar [to the Spirits of the land],
 From which all great movements should proceed.

in hand and completed was the ancestral temple. The chief would make a home for the Spirits of his fathers before he made one for himself. However imperfectly directed it was, religious feeling asserted the supremacy which it ought to possess. In st.6 we have the bustle and noise of the building graphically set forth. denotes the constant 'carrying of earth to = 架, 'all,' 'multitudes;' 度 is 'the throwing the earth into the frames (投土於板); 薨薨'the noise of the people (架聲), their chattering and shouting; 築 is 'the pounding of the earth;' and 登登, the blows of one long pestle answering to another. When the wall was thus reared, they pared or scraped it, till it was clear of all protuberances and made smooth (省))是), and then it gave a sound, when tapped, represented by 馮流. L. 5. See II.iii.VII.2. 皆 should, probably, be 偕,一俱, all together. L. G. see on II.vi.IV.3. The drum was beaten to stimulate the workers; but so many were they, and so cheerful and active, that the sound of it was almost drowned in the noise which they themselves made. St. 7 relates to the building of the palace and grand altar; but they are described, unfortunately, [ with reference to the palaces of T'an-foo's descendants when they had become sovereigns of the kingdom. The residence now reared was but a small structure apparently, consisting only of two buildings, an outer and an inner, leading to which were two gates. Subsequently the royal palace consisted of seven buildings, two more than those which constituted the palaces of the princes of the States. Belonging to it were two gates called the 皇門 and the 應門, which the princes could not boast of; and these names are here given to the gates of Tan-foo's residence. 應門-王之正門㎝朝門;-48 in the translation. 有优-高貌'highlooking; 将将一最正, 'severe and exact.' 家土-大社, 'the grand altar to the See the note on the Shoo, Spirits of the land.' III.i.Pt.i.85. 戎聰 - 大泉, 'great and universal, meaning all great undertakings, and such as required the cooperation of all the people. These were preceded by a solemn sacrifice at the grand altar. As Choo says, 起大事,動大衆,必有事乎社 而後出謂之宜. T'an-foo would raiso an altar, appropriate to his own circumstances; but it is here thus grandly described with reference to the royal position of his descendants.

8 Thus though he could not prevent the rage [of his foes], He did not let fall his own fame.

The oaks and the yih were [gradually] thinned, And roads for travelling were opened.

The hordes of the Keun disappeared, Startled and panting.

9 [The chiefs of] Joo and Juy were brought to an agreement, By king Wăn's stimulating their natural virtue. Then, I may say, some came to him, previously notknowing him; And some, drawn the last by the first; And some, drawn by his rapid successes; And some, by his defence [of the weak] from insult.

St. 8. Ll. 1, 2 are taken of T'an-foo in his relations to the wild hordes, which, as described by Mencius, obliged him to withdraw with his tribe, from Pin. He could not prevent them from showing their barbarous dispositions, but amid all his trouble from them, and subsequently, he showed his own great qualities. His defined in the Urh-ya by the 'therefore;' and by the horder has been discourse from what precedes.' Here it thus although.' We have met with before, —in the sense of the discourse from what precedes.'

Ll. 3—6 describe the gradual clearing of the country, and bring us down to the times of T'anfoo's son and grandson,—the kings Ke and Wan.

The yih is by some said to be the same tree; but it appears to be different, and is called, in the Urh-ya, the white juy (, 'a thorny, shrubby tree, growing to the height of 5 or 6 feet, and bearing a red fruit, like an ear-pendant, and eatable.' The country had been all overgrown with these, affording shelter to the wild tribes; but gradually the trees were 'thinned'—

St. 9 brings us to king Wan, and the States, one after another, coming to him to hail him as their leader. Joo and Juy were two States on the east of the Ho; but their positions cannot be sufficiently defined. 質 is explained by 成, and 成 by 平; 質 厥 成一'decided their strife and made peace.' The story of their case, as related by Sze-ma Ts'ëen, Lëw Hëang, and others, is this:-Their chiefs had a quarrel about certain fields, or a strip of territory, to which each of them laid claim. Unable to come to an agreement, they went to lay the matter before the lord of Chow; and as soon as they entered his territory, they saw the ploughers readily yielding the furrow, and travellers yielding the path to one another, while men and women

IV. Yih p'oh.

Abundant is the growth of the yih and the p'oh, Supplying firewood; yea, stores of it. Elegant and dignified was our prince and king; On the right and the left they hastened to him.

avoided one another on the road, and none of the old people had burdens to carry. When they got to the court, they beheld the officers of each inferior grade readily giving place to those above All this made them ashamed of their own quarrel. They acknowledged the error and folly of it, agreed to let the disputed ground be an open territory, and withdrew, without presuming to appear before the prince of Chow. When this affair was noised abroad, it is said that more than forty States tendered their submission to Chow. Choo says that he does not understand I. 2. I have followed Yen Ts'an's view of it. He takes ## as meaning 'the natural conscience (本然之良心),' as inseparable from man as his 'life,' and 蹶一動; 'to move;' thus connecting the line closely with the preceding. By the T I in ll. 1-6, we are probably to understand the writer of the ode, delivering his own opinion as to the causes which gave king Wan his great and ever increasing influence. The last three characters in every line are applicable to himself,—his attributes or the effects of his attributes. This is not the view of Maou or Choo; but Këang Pingchang gives it, and I can see no other reasonable mode of construction. Këang's words are, 🗴 王之與自予言之則日以 其有疏附耳能宣布德澤 使民歸也,以其有先後耳, 能前後相導使無過舉也 以其有奔奏耳,能使四方 耳,能愁楊武衞,折衝威敵也. The rhymes are—in st. 1, 뺬, 生 (prop. cat. 11), 穴,室, cat.12, t.3: in 2, 炎,馬.,滸, 下.. 女, 宇, cat. 5, t. 2: in 3, 臁 (prop. cat.

5), 飴, 謀 *, 龜 *, 時, 兹, cat. 1, t. 1: in 4, 止, 右 *, 理, 畝 *, 事, id, t. 2: in 5, 徒 家 *, cat. 5, t. 1; 直, 載, 翼, cat. 1, t. 8: in 6, 陾 (prop. cat. 1), 薨, 登, 馮, 與, 勝, cat. 6: in 7, 門, 門, cat. 18; 优, 將, 行 *, cat. 10: in 8, 愠, 間, cat. 13; 拔, 兌, 駾, 啄, cat. 15, t. 3: in 9, 成, 生, cat. 11; 附 *, 後, 奏, 侮 *, cat. 4, t. 2.

Ode 4. Allusive and narrative. In Praise of King Wan, celebrating his activity, influence, and capacity to rule. Such is the account, substantially, given of this piece in the Preface, and accepted by Choo. I do not wish to call it in question, but we have not the same amount of internal evidence as to its subject, as in the three preceding odes; nor is it without its difficulties,—as will appear in the notes.

St. 1. The yih,—see on last ode. The p'oh has not been determined. The Japanese plates do not give a figure of it. It is described as a dense and shrubby tree. met with several times. The meaning which I have given of 標 (Choo says, = 積) is determined by the previous . Kënng says, L.2 is introductory to all the rest of the piece. 薪之 indicates the gathering of the wood for to-day's use, and serves, allusively, to introduce ll. 3, 4 and st. 2. 標之 indicates the storing up of the wood for future use, and serves to introduce stt.3-5.' 濟濟 is here defined by 谷 親之美-ns in the translation. 辟= 君, 'ruler;' 辟王 is understood to be king Wan. 趣 is defined in the diet. by 疾 and , expressive of 'rapid movement.' L.4 indicates the States everywhere—on the right and on the left-hurrying to acknowledge the claims of the lord of Chow.

2 Elegant and dignified was our prince and king;
On his left and his right they bore their half-mace [libation-cups];—
They bore their instruments with solemn gravity,
As beseemed such eminent officers.

- 3 They rush along,—those boats on the King, All the rowers labouring at their oars.
 The king of Chow marched on, Followed by his six hosts.
- 4 Vast is that Milky Way,
 Making a brilliant figure in the sky.
 Long years did the king of Chow enjoy;—
 Did he not exert an influence upon men?

In st. 2. we have the lord of Chow,—again called 'prince and king,'-in his ancestral temple, assisted by his ministers or great officers in pouring out the libations to the Spirits of the The chang was a semi-mace (departed. 丰日璋); i.e., the obelisk-like symbol of jade, called a kwci, was cut into two parts, each one forming a chang; but we are not to understand here the chang simply, but a libation-cup, of which it formed the handle, and called 详 The handle of the king's cup was formed by a complete kwei; of a minister's, by a chang. Choo says, that as his officers stood on the chief's left and right, the chang would always be turned towards him, as they performed the libation, so that 1.2 has the same significance as 1.4 in last st.;-I do not see the value or point of the remark. 慨慨—盛壯, denoting the grave formality with which the officers went through their business. 些一俊, 'eminent.' Keang 奉璋威儀節

潤一舟行貌, 'the app. of a boat in motion.' 孫一架,'all.' 程,'an oar;' here,—, 'to row,' 'to use the oars.' rowers, all working willingly, are allusive of the alacrity with which the people followed the Choo defines T by 4; but chief of Chow. it is better to take it, as we have hitherto done in similar cases, as the particle. 直, 'six armies.' But only the king led 'six armies' into the field; and hence 1.4 could not be appropriate to the Head of the house of Chow, till king Wan's son, Woo, actually acquired the sovereignty of the kingdom. Këang here brings in the allusive force of the 檀之 in st. 1, so that the six armies correspond to the stores of wood laid up for future use. They had been prepared by Wau, but were used only subsequently, by Woo.

St. 4. 雲溪 is another name for the 天溪 of II.v. IX. 5, the 'Han of the Clouds,' the Milky Way. 倬一大, 'great,' 'vast;' or 'brilliant.' 章一文章, 'elegant figures.' 'King Engraved and chiselled are the ornaments; Of metal and of jade is their substance. Ever active was our king, Giving law and rules to the four quarters [of the kingdom].

> V. Han luh.

Look at the foot of the Han. How abundantly grow the hazel and the arrow-thorn! Easy and self-possessed was our prince, In his pursuit of dignity [still] easy and self-possessed!

Wan,' says Choo, 'died at the age of 97; hence the terms壽考: 遐一何, as in II.ii.VII. 4, 5, et al. 作人—'stimulate men;' as Choo says, 緣 化鼓舞之. The stanza, acc. to Keang, found its fulfilment when king Woo arranged the orders of nobility, &c., as related in the Shoo, V.iii.10, making the earth glorious as the Milky Way does the sky; but he was only completing the work of his father.

St.5. Ll.1,2 seem to be allusive of the state of the kingdom, made goodly and great by Wan and Woo, like the most precious substances, gold and jade, wrought on by skilful workmen. 追 (read tuy)=開作, 'to engrave,' 'to make figures on;'-with reference to the 金 in 1.2. 相 is explained by 質, 'substance,' its opposition to 黃, in l. 1, necessitating that meaning;—as Ying-tah points out. ,—'ever active;' Choo says the expression is equivalent to 太已, 'unceasing.' 知denotes 'great measures,' affecting on a large scale, like the great rope which commands the whole of a net ; AL, 'smaller regulations,' which are like the adjustment of threads of silk.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 標, 趣 (prop. cat. 4), cat. 3, t. 2: in 2, 王,璋. cat. 10; 뺁. 宜., cat.17: in 3, 楫, 及, cat.7, t.3: in 4, 天, 人, cat. 12, t. 1: in 5, 章, 相, 王, 方, cat.

Ode 5. Allusive and narrative. In PRAISE OF THE VIRIUE OF KING WAN BLESSED BY HIS ANCESTORS, AND RAISED TO THE HIGHEST DIGNITY WITHOUT SEEKING OF HIS OWN. The Preface makes the subject of this piece to be 'the blessing received from ancestors;' which is not very clear and precise. Nor does the ode itself say positively, who 'the princely man' in it was. Ching thought that the place of the king Ching thought that the phrase referred to king Tae and king Ke, Wan's grandfather and father. Maon wisely says nothing on the point. Yen Ts'an says that it is best here to agree with Choo, and refer the phrase to king Wan.

早 is understood to be the name of 8 hill; but nothing further can be ascertained 麓,—as in the Shoo, II.i.2. 描is described as 'like a thorn-tree, but red.' Its wood is good for making arrow-shafts. Here, as where the phrase has hitherto occurred, Choo, after Maou, defines 豈弟 by樂易, 'happy and easy.' Acc. to Yen Ts'an, the characters denote 'virtue complete and benevolence ripe, harmony and concord in full accumulation (德盛仁熟,和順充積之謂).
They seem to convey the idea of one who possesses a natural benevolence and satisfaction, and who is successful without ambition. 濟,—see Ana. II. xviii. 1. The connection between the first two lines and the last to seems ras fato be this,—that as the foot of the hi , king vourable to vegetable growth, so ' on and advancement.

Wan's natural qualities to his disti

- 2 Massive is that libation-cup of jade, With the yellow liquid [sparkling] in it. Easy and self-possessed was our prince, The fit recipient of blessing and dignity.
- The hawk flies up to heaven;
 The fishes leap in the deep.
 Easy and self-possessed was our prince;
 Did he not exert an influence upon men?
- His clear spirits are in the vessel;
 His red bull is ready;—
 To offer, to sacrifice,
 To increase his bright happiness.
- 5 Thick grow the oaks and the yih, Which the people use for fuel.

St. 2. 瑟 is defined here by 讀 密貌, 'the app. of being solid and close,' = massive. The 玉寶 here is the 圭寶, described under st. 2 of last ode. Choo adds here that the material of the cup was of gold. The 'yellow liquid' in it was the herb-flavoured spirits, mentioned in the Shoo, V.xiii. 25. As a cup of such quality was the proper receptacle for those spirits, so was the character of king Wan such that all blessing must accrue to it (豈弟之君子必有福祿下其躬,言以類應; Yen Ts'an).

St. 3. The hawk rises in the sky, and the fishes leap about in the deep,—without an effort;—it is their nature to do so. So there went out an influence from king Wan, unconsciously to himself. L.1,—as in st. 4 of last ode.

St. 4. Choo Kung-ts'ëen says, 'When virtue reaches in its influence to men, it is sure also to move spiritual Beings; and its possessor will receive blessing as is here intimated.' The is is the same as the is in of st. 2. in are contained; i. c., a supply of them is provided in the vessel for them. Choo explains the character by is, 'are in the vase.' The victims for sacrifice, under the Chow dynasty, were red. King Wan, as being all his life only the lord of Chow, could never have used such a victim; but there is no more difficulty in his being represented as doing so, than in the title of king, and various royal functions, so freely ascribed to him in these odes. The device of Köang, that the ode was made for king Woo, on some occasion of his sacrificing, when the duke of Chow reminded him of the virtues of their father, is unnecessary.

St.5. 瑟 must here—'dense' and 矮—
'to use as fuel.' As natural as it was for the people to take the abundant wood and use it,

囘。求弟條 藟。莫斯 君矣。 福 君 校。施 莫 勞 子。豈 不 子。豈 干 葛 矣。神弟

Easy and self-possessed was our prince, Cheered and encouraged by the Spirits.

6 Luxuriant are the dolichos and other creepers, Clinging to the branches and stems, Easy and self-possessed was our prince, Seeking for happiness by no crooked ways.

VI. Sze chae.

男。則嗣婦。京媚之任。思華百徽大室周母。文齊斯音。姒之姜。思王大

1 Pure and reverent was T'ae-jin,
The mother of king Wăn;
Loving was she to Chow Këang;
A wife becoming the House of Chow.
T'ae-sze inherited her excellent fame,
And from her came a hundred sons.

so natural was it for spiritual Beings to bless a man of king Wan's character.

'to soothe and encourage.'

St. 6. 莫莫,—nearly as in Li.II.2. 喜高,—as in Li.IV. 條枚,—as in Li.X.1. 巴一邪, 'crooked,' 'perverse.' Creepers naturally lay hold of trees, and as natural was it for king Wan to get to the height of dignity which he attained.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 濟, 弟, cat. 15, t. 2: in 2, 中, 降, cat. 9: in 8, 天, 淵, 人, cat. 12, t. 1: in 4, 載, 備*, 祀. 福*, cat. 1, t. 3: in 5, 塚, 勞, cat. 2: in 6, 枚, 囘, cat. 15, t. 1.

Ode. 6. Narrative. The virtue of king Wan and its wonderful effects; with the excellent character of his mother and wife. From st. 1 we are led to expect that the subject of the piece will be the two ladies Tracjin and Trac-sze; but there is barely a reference to the second in the other four stanzas. King Wan is no doubt the subject of them, though his name does not occur. The critics all resent the view that the virtue of Wan was derived from his mother and wife, though that is not an unnatural inference from the relation there would seem to be between st. 1 and those that follow. Ying-tah arranges the piece in 4 stanzas of 6 lines each, but he mentions that there was an old view, held by Maou, that it consisted of five, 2 of 6 lines, and 3 of 4. This is now adopted, and, apparently, on good grounds;—see Foo Kwang, in loc.

- He conformed to the example of his ancestors, And their Spirits had no occasion for complaint. Their Spirits had no occasion for dissatisfaction, And his example acted on his wife, Extended to his brethren, Andswas felt by all the clans and States.
- Full of harmony was he in his palace; Full of reverence in the ancestral temple. Out of sight he still felt as under inspection; Unweariedly he maintained [his virtue].
- Though he could not prevent [some] great calamities, His brightness and magnanimity were without stain.

周. Maou makes it = 王, 'royal:' but the meaning comes to the same thing. The whole line belongs to Tae-jin, and-稱其為周 室之婦,—as in the translation. was the wife of king Wan, so celebrated in the 1st Bk. of Pt. 1. 微美, 'admirable.' The 斯 in l.6—the descriptive 其. We are not, of course, to suppose that Tae-sze had 100 sons. She had ten, we are told; and her freedom from jealousy so encouraged the fruitfulness of the harem, that all the sons born in it are ascribed to her. See on I.i.V. In the Tso-chuen we have reference to at least eighteen sons of king Wan. St. 2. This and the stanzas that follow have king Wan for their subject. 黒=順, 'to accord with; —a not uncommon meaning of the term. 宗公,—宗蘭先公, 'the former dukes of the ancestral temple;' i.e., his ancestors to whom Wan offered sacrifice. 時 in 11.2,8 一元, the substantive verb. 一元, 'to be pained by.' Ll. 4—6 are quoted by Mencius, I. Pt. i VII. 12, where we have his view of the meaning. 刑一法; here, 'to give a pattern to.' T'ae-sze is called his 复妻,—a designa- 一大, 'great;' 疾一難, 'calamities.' These tion of the wife of a State, akin to the 夏小 君, mentioned by Confucius, Ana. XVI ziv. Choo, after Maou, takes 御一讶,一洵. prefer Ch'ing's view of it, as = 1/1, 'to rule.'

St.3. Yung-yung indicates the 'greatness of Wan's harmony (和之至),' and suh-suh, the 'greatness of his reverence (敬之至).' 不顯一人不見之時,'when he was unseen: 亦臨-亦若有臨之者, -as in the translation. See the 'Doctrine of the Mean,' ch. XV., which many of the critics refer to here. L.4. 射,—iq. 斁,—厭, 'to weary.' The idea found in the line is that king Wan never relaxed in his maintenance of his virtue. It was not only when circumstances called for an effort that he sustained himself; but he did the same when no effort was necessary. Yen Ts'an says, 無厭之時,踐履已 熟而亦自保守。悠久無疆 St. 4. L. 1,—comp. the 1st L of III. 8.

THE SHE KING.

Without previous instruction he did what was right; Without admonition, he went on [in the path of goodness].

5 So, grown up men became virtuous [through him],
And young men made [constant] attainments.
[Our] ancient prince never felt weariness,
And from him were the fame and eminence of his officers.

VII. Hwang e.

之求四監有臨上皇章皇莫。民方。觀赫。下帝。矣矣

Great is God,
Beholding this lower world in majesty.
He surveyed the four quarters [of the kingdom],
Seeking for some one to give settlement to the people.

two words are understood by all of Wan's imprisonment at one time by the last Shang sovereign, and other troubles of his early life; and I take them as the subject of 砂一純, 'to be prevented.' 烈一光, 'brightness.' 假,一大; must be here a noun,—as in the translation. 式一法, 'what is according to law or right.' Choo expands ll. 3, 4:一雖 事 之 無 所 聞 者 而 亦 無 不 合 於 法 長,雖 無 諫 記 之 善,所 其 不 八 於 善,傳 (i.e., 毛 傳) 所 體 性 與 天 合 是 也,

St. 5. It is a designation of men after they are 'capped,' and if if denotes those who are not old enough for that ceremony. If is taken of king Wan. Leu Tsoo-k'en observes that it is not more strange to find him thus spoken of than that Yaou and Shun should be similarly designated in the Books of Yu and Hea. If and if it make famous,' 'to make eminent.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 母*, 婦*, cat. 1, t. 2; 音, 男*, cat. 7, t. 1: in 2, 公. 桐, 邦, cat. 9; ? 妻, 弟: in 3, 廟, 保 (prop. cat. 3), cat. 2: in 4, 段*, 人 (prop. cat. 7), cat. 5. t. 2: in 5, 造 (prop. cat. 3), 土, cat. 1, t. 2. It is generally held that there are no. rhymes in these two last stanzas, and Twan-she is obliged to resort to a violent poetic license to make any out.

Ode 7. Narrative. Showing the rise of the House of Chow to the sovereignty of the kingdom through the favour of God. The cases and achievements of king Tae, king Ke, and especially of king Wan. St. 1. I.l. 1,2 are about equivalent to II.4,

BR. I. ODE VIL

Had failed to satisfy Him with their government; Those two [earlier] dynastics So throughout the various States, For one on which he might confer the rule. He sought and considered, Hating all the great [States], He turned His kind regards on the west, And there gave a settlement [to king T'ae].

King Tael raised up and removed The dead trunks, and the fallen trees.

莫,-as in | and a governor was now wanted. II.v.IV.4,一定, 'to settle,' 'establishment;' here, 'one who should give settlement to.' Jis the four quarters of the kingdom; i.e, all the States of it. Ll. 5,6 show how the necessity for the appointment of a new ruler had the two previous dynasties of Shang and Hea;
as in the Shoo, V.xii.18. This view is much Both Maou and Choo take as in the 5000, V. XII. 15. I has view is much preferable to that of Ching, that by the 'two preferable to understand the Shang sovereign kwoh', we are to understand the Shang sovereign of the kingdom and the marquis of the State of Ts'ung (般約吳族). Perhaps, the best translation of 不養 would be—'had proved failures.' Choo explains the phrase by 失其 道:Chring, by 不得於天心;Keang, by不得於天. II.7-12 tell us the result of the divine inspection of the rulers of the States. Only in the west was one found worthy to be the father of kings. III in 1.7 = The difft. view of Ching. We need not trans-Inte g. gin 1.8. If we do, then I should Maou and Ching both render here ... there. perpiexed the critics. Made and of the forest to properplexed the critics. long their lives. On Ching's view, God, in his forbearance, long spared Show and the lord of Ts'ung, giving them space for repentance and amenament. Choo takes as $=\pm\chi$, st. 2 must all be interpreted of king T'ac; and St. 2 must all be interpreted of king T'ac; and lil. 1—8 are descriptive of the work he accomplished in bringing the territory of K'ac-chow assigns to the character in l'art IV. This view I have adopted, but I am unable to follow Choo in his dealing with 1.10. As it stands, he does not understand it; and therefore he changes to hate,' into 增, 'to increase,' and takes 式 京 as = 規模, 'plans,' measurements.' Thus the line would mean that when God met with a ruler of whom He approved as fit to be king, he would, as preliminary to the ultimate king, ne would, as preniminary to the unmand exaltation of his House, in the first place enlarge his boundaries. Unfortunately, the ode does not stand as Choo proposes it should do. Taking the line as it is, by discarding A as a mere particle, we get the meaning of it which I have given, and which is fully sanctioned by Kënng Ping-chang (天於四 究爱度有能 颠以天命致之 强大之國不能 101.11,眷 殘民也,乃,云云). 者然, kindly, Both this line and the next are to be referred to the time of king Tae, instead are to be referred to the name of king 1 ac, instead of that of king Wan, as Ching thought and Ying-tah makes Maou also to have thought. The Kang-he editors allow that the superior critical ability of Choo appears here. If in 1.12 refers to the territory of K'e-chow; and Til = 'to give to.' As Choo expands the line, 迢此岐周之地與太王為

St. 2 must all be interpreted of king Tine; and

He dressed and regulated

The bushy clumps, and the [tangled] rows.

He opened up and cleared

The tamarix trees, and the stave-trees.

He hewed and thinned

The mountain-mulberry trees.

God having brought about the removal thither of this intelligent ruler,

The Kwan hordes fled away.

Heaven raised up a helpmeet for him,

And the appointment he had received was made sure.

3 God surveyed the hills, Where the oaks and yih were thinned, And paths made through the firs and cypresses.

under cultivation. Ll. 1, 2. 作=拔起, 'to | raise up,' referring to the 'fallen trees' in I. 2; 尾一头, 'to remove,' referring to the 'dead trunks.' It is the necessity of the rhyme which makes the writer mention the 茲(二木 立 死者) before the 翳(一木自婴 , here and below, may be taken as='them,' in app. with the lines that follow. 灌,—as in Li. II. 1. Maou understands 杨 of a particular tree,—a kind of chestnut; but Choo rows.' And he must be correct, as we cannot understand any particular tree by 灌. dict. distinguishes between the two meanings of the term, giving Maou's account of it under the pronunciation leek, and Choo's under le. Ll. 5, 殷 and 辟, both mean 'to open;' i.e., by clearing away and thinning (芟除). called in the Urh-ya the 河 柳, or 'river willow;' but there is no doubt that the tree is the tamarix Sinensis. I have translated I from the principal use to which it is put. calls it-'a tree found in Ho-nan, used for whiphandles and old men's walking staves." Yen

Sze-koo describes it as 'like a bamboo, growing in joints 8 or 9 cubits long, and 3 or 4 inches in circumference, fit as it grows for walking sticks, without any cutting or forming. It is called 震 本, 'the tree of longevity;'-from this use which it serves. The staves are common enough in the hands of old men, and in the I doubt Yen-she's account of it as market. being like a bamboo. Ll. 7, 8. 攘剔, 'to bare and to scrape,' denote the process of thinning. 檿 and 柘 both denote varieties of the wild or mountain mulberry tree (山 家), 明德is explained as-明德之君,-as in the translation; and a of the providence of God in removing king Tae from Pin to Chow. Choo says that he does not understand 1. 10; but he refers to Ching's view of it, according to which 串夷 i.q. 混夷 in III.8. Then 載路-滿路, 'all the way,' expressive of the completeness of the rout and flight of the barbarians;—comp. on III. 8, 11. 5, 6. L.9. By The is intended Tae Kënng, the wife of king T'ac.

St. 3 continues to trace the history of the house of Chow, from king Tae, through king Ke, gradually converging to king Wan, who,

DECADE OF KING WAN. BK. I. ODE VII.

God, who had raised the State, raised up a proper ruler for it; From the time of T'ae-pih and king Ke [this was done].

Now this king Ke

In his heart was full of brotherly duty. He gave himself the more to promote the prosperity [of the Full of duty to his elder brother,

And secured to him the glory [of his act].

He accepted his dignity, and did not lose it, And [ere long his family] possessed the whole kingdom.

Was gifted by God with the power of judgment, So that the fame of his virtue silently grew. This king Ke

His virtue was highly intelligent; Highly intelligent and of rare discrimination; indeed, is in the writer's mind all through it. Indeed, II III one III. 8, II. 3, 4. 省主省 視 to survey, Ching explains it by 善, to approve; but that idea is not in the term itself. to the rule of the Date. Ring Nam is intended by the term; and 1.5 intimates that this was determined before there was any librarious. determined before there was any likelihood of determined before there was any likelihood of his becoming the ruler even of Chow. Tine-pih his becoming the ruler even of king place and king Ka ns becoming the ruler even of Chow. The plan was the eldest son of king Trae, and king Ke was, perhaps, only the third (cession ought to have devolved on the former; cession ought to have devolved on the former; but seeing the sage virtues of Ke's son, Ch'ang (afterwards king Win), and that T'ae wanted the succession to come to him, he withdrow the succession to come to him, he withdrow from Chew alterether, and left the State to Ke. cepted his act without any failure of his own duty to him and he his own improvement of a Ke in his relation to his elder brother. cepted his act without any minute of his own duty to him, and by his own improvement of it, he made his brother more glorious through it. 因以 is explained as 非规强, without His feeling of brotherly duty was simply the natural instinct of his heart. Having accepted the act, it only made him the more enrnest to promote the good of the State (mi 其德以厚周家之慶》,至 修其德以厚向家之 thus he made his brother glorious by showing necrued from his resignation what advantages accrued from his resignation 要基兄以遷德之光猶且 彰其知人芝萌,不為徒讓 耳). We cannot translate the two 則 nor but must take the three as expletive particles. 襲 in l.11一失, 'to lose,' L.12 was accomplished only in the time of Ke's grandson, king Woo. Choo observes that the meaning of 奄 is something between 忍, and 遂, 'sud-

St. 4 goes on to describe the virtue of king denly, and accordingly. Ke, down to 1.9, when king Win is mentioned by name. All the rest of the piece is occupied with him and his achievements. L.2. 虔 is defined by 能度的制意 the ability to estimate things and determine what is right

Able to lead, able to rule,—
To rule over this great country;
Rendering a cordial submission, effecting a cordial union.
When [the sway] came to king Wan,
His virtue left nothing to be dissatisfied with.
He received the blessing of God,
And it was extended to his descendants.

God said to king Wăn,

'Be not like those who reject this and cling to that;
Be not like those who are ruled by their likings and desires;
So he grandly ascended before others to the height [of virtue].

The people of Meih were disobedient, in reference to them;' but the term has here a hiphil force, and the meaning is what I have given. L.3. 铂二部, 'still' In the Tsochuen and Le Ke the character appears as 臣, which has that meaning. Ll. 4, 5. 明二 祭是非,'to examine truth and error;'類 一分善聪, 'to distinguish between good and evil.' L. 6. Frefers to Ke's ability to be a leader of men, and especially of the princes of the States over which he was a kind of president; 君, to his possession of the virtues of a ruler in his relation to the people. L. 7. 'to be king over.' This is said from the point of view in the time of king Ching. L. 8 refers to Ke's maintenance of his own loyal duty to the dyn. of Shang, and his making all the States under his own presidency loyal also.—See a narrative of Tso-she, under the 28th year of duke Ch'aou, in which the whole of this stanza is quoted, and explained. Some of the definitions of the terms are different from what I have given. Each critic assumes a liberty to himself in this respect. The stanza, moreover, is quoted by Tso-she with X in the first line, instead of E; but L 10 seems to show that that must be a mistake.

Ll.9-12. 比于-至于, coming to." 比 is found in this sense both in the Analects and in Mencius. From was without repentance; i.e., was complete, there was nothing wanting, nothing wrong about it, to occasion regret to himself or others. From January as in Lill. By From January By From January Recially intended. St. 5 records the operations of Wan against a state called Meih, prefaced by some account of his character. The statement in l.1, that 'God spake to king Wan,' vexes the critics, and they find in the language of that find in the language simply an intimation that Wan's conduct was 'in accordance with the will of Heaven.' I am not prepared to object to that view of the meaning; but it is plain that the writer in civilar and the meaning. writer, in giving such a form to his meaning, must have conceived of God as a personal Being, knowing men's hearts and able to influence The critics impose on themselves by them. the manner in which they interchange and play with the terms-帝 and 天. 無然-不 可如此, 'don't be thus.' 畔一離畔, 'to separate from;' 援,- 'to hold with the hand, 'to cling to;' Ho denotes 'desire,' proceeding from within; 美, 'desire,' directed to what is without. Choo Shen ingeniously defines the four characters thus:--畔者竦 而離之接者親而附之也 歆者,欲之動乎中,羡者心

Daring to oppose our great country,
And invaded Yuen, marching to Kung.
The king rose majestic in his wrath;
He marshalled his troops,
To stop the invading focs;
To consolidate the prosperity of Chow;
To meet [the expectations of] all under heaven.

He remained quietly in the capital;
But [his troops] went on from the borders of Yuen.
They ascended our lofty ridges,
And [the enemy] arrayed no forces on our hills,
On our hills, small or large,
Nor drank at our springs,
Our springs or our pools.
He then determined the finest of the plains,
And settled on the south of K'e,

之慕乎外也. 誕 is an initial particle. 岸 is taken by Choo as—'the highest point of virtue.' Maou simply defines it by 高位, 'a high position.'

Ll.5—12. Meih or Meih-seu (空氣) was a State, ruled by K'eihs (点),—in the pres. Tsing-ning Chow (声点), dep. of P'ing-leang (平), Kan-suh. L.7. We must take 空人 as the subject of 長, 'to make an incursion into,' 'to invade.' Yuen was a State adjacent to Meih,—in the pres. King Chow (空外), dep. P'ing-leang; and Kung must have been a place or district in it. Ch'ing strangely took Yuen, Tsoo, and Kung as all the names of States,—an error which has crept into many accounts that we meet with of Wan's nchievements. 斯二其, intensifying the descriptive force of 怒. 姜 is the particle. 按三遏, 'to stop.' 但旅 is the forces of Meih, marching on Kung. 第一厚. The best word I can think of for it is—'to consolidate.' 對一答, 'to respond to.'

St. 6. It is hardly possible to determine the meaning of l. 1. Choo takes as — The tranquil-like, and as the capital of Chow, explaining the whole line as in the translation. Kënng prefers to take it of the people of Yuen, now delivered from their enemics, and giving their adherence to king Wan, 'as if they had been in the capital of Chow.' A couple of pages would not suffice to state and discuss the different views on a point which is in itself unimportant. L. 2 is descriptive of the movements of

On the side of the Wei; The centre of all the States, The resort of the lower people.

God said to king Wăn,
'I am pleased with your intelligent virtue,
Not loudly proclaimed nor pourtrayed,
Without extravagance or changeableness,
Without consciousness of effort on your part,
In accordance with the pattern of God.'
God said to king Wăn,
'Take measures against the country of your foes.
Along with your brethren,
Get ready your scaling ladders,

Wan's forces;—whether he was with them or not. They invaded Meih. Ll.3-7 intimate their complete success. They met with no opposition. The hills and springs which they passed became, as it were, theirs. 矢=陳,'to marshal troops.' 愛 and 河, in contrast as here, denote smaller hills and larger. Ll. 8, 9 are generally understood of a temporary change which Wan made of his capital. Choo takes 鮮, after Ching, in the sense of 善, 'good.' Maou takes it differently,—as a designation of small hills lying between large ones; others will have it that 鮮原 was simply the name of a place. The name of the city where Wan is said to have established himself for a time was Ching Ying-tah says it was not far from (娃色). the capital of king T'ae; and as it here appears on the south of mount K'e, we are not to think of Fung, which was 300 le to the south-east of that hill. Ll. 10—12. 将一侧, 'the side.' 方一郛, 'the point to which all the States 王 is here i. q. 往, 'to go to.'-萬 那皆向莊之,下民皆歸往之.

Stt. 7, 8 describe Wan's subjugation of Ts'ung as 5, 6 did that of Meih; and we have, as there, the achievement prefaced by an account of his great qualities. In st. 7, l.1, 慎=眷念, think kindly of.' In ll. 2, 3, I must be taken Wan's virtue had no as = III, 'and,' 'or.' great voice or colour; i.e., it was unostentatious. Choo allows that he does not understand 复 单. There seems no difficulty with 車,= 革, 'to change,' 'changing;' and as 夏 often means 'great,' Leu Tsoo-k'ëen proposes to take it here in the sense of 侈大, 'extravagant.' 不長='without prolongation of,' 'wishout nourishing, or encouraging.' Këang brings out, substantially, the same meaning, by taking 复 as = 'fervour of spirit,' from the use of the term for 'summer.' In Il. 7—12 we have a commission from God to Wan to attack the State of Ts'ung,—in the pres. dis. of Hoo (事), dep. Se-gan. Acc. to Sze-ma Ts'een, Hoo the marquis of Ts'ung, slandered the lord of Chow, who was president of the States in the west, to Show,

And your engines of onfall and assault, To attack the walls of Ts'ung.'

Against the walls of Ts'ung high and great;
Captives for the question were brought in one after another;
The left ears [of the slain] were taken leisurely.
He sacrificed to God, and to the Father of war,
Thus seeking to induce submission;
And throughout the kingdom none dared to insult him.
The engines of onfall and assault were vigorously plied,
Against the walls of Ts'ung very strong;
He attacked it, and let loose all his forces;
He extinguished [its sacrifices], and made an end of its existence;
And throughout the kingdom none dared to oppose him.

and our hero was put in prison. His friends effected his deliverance by presenting to the tyrant beautiful women, fine horses, and other remarkable and valuable things, and he was reinstated in the West with more than his former Three years afterwards, he attacked 諭-謀 'to conthe marquis of Ts'ung. · sult about," 'take measures against.' 一讐國, 'hostile States.' 兄弟, 'brethren, must denote here the chiefs of the States with which Wan was in alliance, or of which he had the presidency. That they should be thus denominated is insisted on as one proof that Wan never had in his life-time the title 的援,—'hooked grapplers.' of king. 協 and 衝 may be called scaling ladders. were engines employed in sieges. They are elsewhere spoken of as 'carriages,' which may only mean that they were moved about on wheels. The lin was raised, I apprehend, to an equal height with the walls, or perhaps, a greater height (在上篇下着), while the ch'ung was employed in assaults upon the walls, affording protection to those who attempted to mine them or break through them. 请一纸, 'the wall.'

St. S describes the siege of the capital of Ts'ung, at first prosecuted without much vigour, the chief of Chow wishing to win it to submission; but finally ending with its utter overthrow. Ll.1—7. 閑閑一余歲, expressing the slowness and want of vigour characterizing the first employment of the engines. 言言一言大, 'high and great.' 執訊, —see II.i. VIII. 6, et al. 東軍一come, one after another.' 饭鼠,—'those whose left cars were cut off,' or 'the cutting off of left ears.' When prisoners refused to submit, they were put to death, and their left ears cut off. 安

Ling t'ae. VIII.

了之。不民

When he planned the commencement of the marvellous tower, He planned it, and defined it;

And the people in crowds undertook the work,

And in no time completed it.

When he planned the commencement, [he said], 'Be not in a hurry;

But the people came as if they were his children.

安一'went on leisurely.' 類 is descriptive of a sacrifice to God, at the commencement of the expedition; 而最, of a sacrifice offered, on their arrival at the scene of warfare, to the Father of war. Choo says that this last sacrifice was offered to Hwang-te and Ch'e-yew (首 帝及蚩尤), whom we find engaged in hostilities far back in the mythical era of Chinese history. L. 6 expresses the object of Wan in these religious services, and in his reluctant prosecution of the war. 致一致其 至, 'to induce them to come to him;' 附二便 來附, 'to make them come and submit.' L. 7 tells the effect on the States generally; but

Ts'ang itself still held out. Ll. 8-12. Expresses the vigour with which the engines were now plied; { , the strength of the walls; E, -as in II.8; 絕一珍其記, 'to abolish its sacrifices;' 忍一减其國, 'to extinguish the State.' The rhymes are—in st. 1, 赫*, 莫, 獲*, 度, 廓, 笔,, cat. 5, t. 8: in 2, 翳, 栵, cat. 15, t.3; 椐, 柘*, 路, 固, cat.5, t.1: in 3, 拔, 兌, 對, 季, 季, cat. 15, t.3; 兄., 慶.,光.喪,方, cat.10: in 4, 心,音, cat.7, t.1; 類, 比, cat.15, t.3; 悔*, 祉, 子, cat.1, t.2: in 5, 援, 羡 , 岸, cat.14; 恭, 邦, 共, cat.9; 怒, 族, 族, 旅, 祜, 下., cat. 5, t. 2: in 6, 京 +, 疆, 园, cat. 10; 厕, 池。, cat. 17; 陽, 將, 方, 王, cat. 10: in 7, 10; 衝, 塘, cat. 9: in 8, 閑, 言,連,安, cat.14; 薦 (prop. cat. 5), 附, 侮*, cat. 4, t.2; 茀, 仡, 肆, 忽, 拂, cat.5, t.8.

Ode 8. Narrative. The JOY OF THE PEOPLE IN THE GROWING OPULENCE AND DIGNITY OF KING WAN. This ode must be referred to the time, when the chief of Chow moved his capital to Fung, after the overthrow of the State of Ts'ung, i.e., to B. C. 1,135, according to the standard Chronology, and only one year before his death. his death. The tower, the park, the pond, and the hall of music were all in connection with Fung,-in the pres. district of Hoo, dep. Se-gan, See ode X. 2. Shen-se.

St. 1. 紅 is here defined by 度, 'to measure out;' 營, in 1.2, by 表, 'to mark out.' But in II. vi. I. 3, viii. X. 1, we have 經營 together, as here, meaning 'to plan and build.' in ll. 1, 4, must be taken as a verb, 'to begin,' 'to make a commencement with.' It is difficult to determine the exact meaning of as applied to the tower, park, and pond. Some take it in the sense of 'royal,' as Fuh K'een and Pan Koo; and, no doubt, the towers of the kings of Chow, supposed to be built for astronomical and meteorological purposes, as well as for pleasure, were subsequently called ling, while the similar structures of the feudal princes were simply called kwan-t'ae (觀皇), or 'towers of observation.' But Wan was only a feudal prince when the tower in the text was made; and we may conclude that its name was subsequently extended to the towers of his descendants. Ching thought the name had a reference to the tower of his descendants. reference to the transforming influence that went forth from Wan, as with a spiritual efficaciousness (文王化行,似神之精明, 德、色、草、则, cat. 1, t. 3; 王, 方, cat. 故以名). Choo finds in it an allusion to

- 2 The king was in the marvellous park,
 Where the does were lying down,—
 The does, so sleek and fat;
 With the white birds glistening.
 The king was by the marvellous pond;—
 How full was it of fishes leaping about!
- On his posts was the toothed face-board, high and strong, With the large drums and bells.
 In what unison were their sounds!
 What joy was there in the hall with its circlet of water!
- In what unison sounded the drums and bells!
 What joy was there in the hall with its circlet of water!
 The lizard-skin drums rolled harmonious,
 As the blind musicians performed their parts.

St. 2. 'The park,' says Choo, 'was at the foot of the tower,'—the tower would be in the park; and also the pond in 1.5. E was the name for the female of the deer; the male was called together, here — 'does;' not— 'does and stags.' Their lying down is mention—ed as a proof of their feeling of enjoyment and security. 似一所. It is here our 'where.' 湿湿一巴澤貌一點 in the translation; so, 電電深質鏡. 於, pronounced woo, is a particle of exclamation, as in II.i. V. 2, et al. 切一满, 'to be full.'

Stt. 3,4 tell how the chief of Chow surrounded himself in Fung with the appliances of music and other festal celebrations, in addition to his tower and park. L.1, st. 3, is descriptive of the frames on which were suspended various drums and bells. The upright posts were named 元. That character denotes a fabulous animal, with a deer's head and a serpent's body, and I suppose the feet of the posts were carved to resemble it. The posts were connected by a cross beam (called 村), from which the instruments were hung, and over this was a face-board, gaily painted, and with its edges cut like the teeth of a saw. This was called 業 佑上大版; 刻之捷業如鋸齒光

IX. Hëa Woo.

于王在三哲世維下下下京。正在三哲世和下京。正天。后王。有周。武武

Successors tread in the steps [of their predecessors] in our Chow. For generations there had been wise kings;
The three sovereigns were in heaven;
And king [Woo] was their worthy successor in his capital.

so many ts'ung trees standing in a row. The 操性 in 1.1 may be considered = F, the substantive verb, but that in 1.2 = 11, 'and;'-see Wang Yin-che in voc. Choo says, 'The great drum was 8 cubits long; 4 cubits in diameter at the ends, a third more at the middle.' 鏞一大鐘, 'a great bell.' あくーas in last st. 青ー倫, 'attuned,' 'sounding in unison (言得其倫理): 辟一 起去, the round jade-symbol of rank, with a square hole in the centre. Et was the name of a building attached to the royal court, called a school or gymnasium(天子之學), where archery and other arts were taught to the cadets of the royal House. Around it was a circular pool; and the whole thing resembled a peil, with a pavilion rising in the centre of it. Attached to the courts of the States was a similar building, but the water formed only a semicircle in front of it (洋宫). Such a building the chief of Chow had erected in his park. Here he enjoyed his music; and the form of it served as a pattern to his royal descendants. In st. 4, 1.3, The skin of this iguana was used in making drums. 逢逢 is defined by 和, 'to be harmonious.' The music masters and musicians during the Chow dynasty are always spoken of as blind. The loss of the sense of seeing makes the blind more acute of ear; and hence blind persons were chosen for those positions. 'Persons having the pupil, and yet not seeing, were called mung; when they had not the pupil, they were called sow.' 公一事, 'business,' 'part.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 管, 成, cat. 11; 面, 來, cat. 1, t. 3: in 2, 固 *, 伏 *, ib.; 濯 *, 濯 *, 沼, 躍 *, cat. 2: in 3, 樅, 鏞, 筵, 廱, cat. 9: in 4, 鐘, 應, 逢, 公, ib.

Ode 9. Natrative. In praise of king Woo, walking in the ways of his forefathers, and by his filial piety becuring the throne to himself and his fosteritt. Nowhere in the ode is Woo expressly mentioned as the subject of it; but the common consent of the critics in referring it to him is not to be questioned. The 'king' in st. 1, is evidently one standing in close proximity to the three sovereigns of Chow who were in heaven. This excludes the idea that it is king Wan who is spoken of; and to no sovereign subsequent to Woo can it be referred with any degree of probability.

St. 1. L. 1 has been a great stumbling-block to the critics. Choo says that he does not understand the 1, and goes on to accept the view of some other scholar, that the T is a mistake for X. The meaning of the line will thus be, that Wan and Woo were the founders of Chow (文王武王實造周也). But Choo allows that Wan must be one of the 'three sovereigns ' in 1. 3, and the K'ang-he editors say that the mention of him also in 1.1 is a needless They might have said that the repetition. sentiment of the two lines is thus contradictory. We cannot admit the conjecture that $\mathcal{T}_{s ext{hould}}$ be X, nor that of Luh Tih-ming, who would read X; and must fall back on the 'chiseling' of the old school. Maou adopts from the Urlya a meaning of as = 152, 'to continue; but he says nothing on T. This is supplied by K'ang-shing, who makes There equivalent to 後, 'subsequent,' 'future;' and we get the idea of the line which I have given in the translation (後人能繼先祖者,維有 周家最大). This view appears to be confirmed by the words of Confucius in the 'Doctrine of the Mean,' XVIII. 2,一武王續 大王,王季、文王之緒. The 'wise kings' of 1.2 and the 'three sovereigns' of 1.3 are not to be taken to a strength of the sovereigns of 1.3 are not to be taken to a strength of the sovereigns. are not to be taken of different individuals. Both expressions are to be understood of the kings Tac, Ke, and Wan. All three of them are said to be in the aven, which is said only of king Wan in I.1. The expression with the said only of king Wan in I.1. expression, simple enough to a Christian reader, is to the Chinese critics full of perplexity; and where their ideas are utterly confused, it is impossible they should express themselves clearly. 'This matter,' says Choo, 'is mysterious and

- 2 King [Woo] was their worthy successor in his capital, Rousing himself to seek for the hereditary virtue, Always striving to accord with the will [of Heaven]; And thus he secured the confidence due to a king.
- 3 He secured the confidence due to a king, And became the pattern of all below him. Ever thinking how to be filial, His filial mind was the model [which he supplied].
- 4 Men loved him, the One man,
 And responded [to his example] with a docile virtue.
 Ever thinking how to be filial,
 He brilliantly continued the doings [of his fathers].

difficult to speak about. When it is said that king Wan is ascending on the left and the right of God, if we insist that the language implies that king Wan is really on the left and the right of God, and that there really is God as He is fashioned in the idol so-called in the world, that certainly is an error; but as the Sages have thus expressed themselves, there is this principle.' Of what he really means by there is this principle,' I have never been able to get a distinct hold. The 'king' in 14 must be understood of Woo; the 'capital' is Haou (FE; see on the Shoo, V.iii. 1), to which Woo is said to have moved in B. C. 1,133, the year after Wan's death.

St. 2. L. 1, it will be seen, is a repetition of the last line of st. 1; and so, in most of the stanzas below. This is a peculiarity of style, which we have already met with in other odes of this Book. Him is the virtue exemplified by the 'three sovereigns' of st. 1, by one after another. He has its usual meaning,—'to seek for.' I like this construction of 1.2 better than another advocated by Wang Taou, who takes He as—the substantive verb, or 'to play the part of,' and 求一匹, as if were the 速, of Li. I. I. I. 3,—as 1.3 in I. 6. Here, and below, 言 is merely the particle. L. 4. 成王之字—成王者之信於天下, 'produced—completed—in all under heaven the confidence to be reposed in a king.' The people had wished before that a chief of Chow might be the lord of them all; they now doubted no longer that Fah was the king they longed for; and so they carried him on to the throne.

St. 3. Both and ship have the meaning of the state of the

St. 4, L.1 here does not repeat the concluding line of st. 3;—'because,' acc. to Foo Kwang, 'this line is the sequel of stt. 2, 3, and not of 3 only.' 眉 要, 'to love,'—as in VI. 1. 兹

Brilliantly! and his posterity,
Continuing to walk in the steps of their forefather,
For myriads of years,
Will receive the blessing of Heaven.

6 They will receive the blessing of Heaven,
And from the four quarters [of the kingdom] will felicitations come to them.

For myriads of years, Will there not be their helpers?

X. Wăn wang yëw shing.

厥遹厥遹厥遹有文章 有文成。觀 军。水 聲。駿 聲、王 聲王

1 King Wăn is famous;
Yea, he is very famous.
What he sought was the repose [of the people];
What he saw was the completion [of his work].
A sovereign true was king Wăn!

一此, 'this,' i.e., him, king Woo. 一人,—
'the One man,' a common designation of the old kings and modern emperors of China. L.2 may be taken either of the people, as I have done, or of king Woo;—in the latter case of his 'docile virtue,' i.e., his filial piety. In either case, 侯 is the particle, 一維. Yen Ts'an adopts the construction which I have followed:—天下媚爱於武王,而應之以順德, as in II.iii.III.3, the 'things' being the ways of his fathers by which they laid the foundation of the prosperity of their House.

St. 5. L. 1 takes up the first half of 1.4 in st. 4; and the 茲 here = the 武 there. 來 = 後世, 'coming, or after ages;' meaning Woo's posterity. Choo says that 青午 一斤; but the common meaning of 斤 will not suit the passage. Sometimes 斤, however, is merely a particle, and 許 is here nothing more. So, Yen Ts'an (許, 語 助也). In 1.2, 繩一槌, 'to continue;'武一切, foot-prints.' In 1.3, and the corresponding line of st. 6, 斯 is a mere expletive.

expletive.
St. 6 tells how all the States would for myriads of years rejoice in the sway of the House of Chow, and support it against all competitors.

The rhymes are—in st.1, 王,京*, cat. 10: in 2, 求, 宇*, cat. 3, t.1: in 3, 式,則: cat. 1, t. 3: in 4, 德. 服 *, ib.: in 5, 許,武, 流, cat. 5, t. 2: in 6, 賀, 佐, cat. 17.

Ode 10. Narrative to the last stanza, which is perhaps allusive. The praise of king Wan and king Woo:—How the former displayed his military prowess only to secure the tranquillity of the people; how this appeared in the building of Fung as his

2 King Wăn received the appointment [of Heaven], And achieved his martial success. Having overthrown Ts'ung, He fixed his [capital] city in Fung. A sovereign true was king Wăn!

3 He repaired the walls along the [old] moat:
His establishing himself in Fung was according to [the pattern of his forefathers],

It was not that he was in haste to gratify his wishes;—

CAPITAL CITT; AND HOW THE LATTER ENTERED, IN HIS CAPITAL OF HAOU, INTO THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE KINGDOM WITH THE SINCERE GOOD WILL OF ALL THE PEOPLE.

整-名譽, 'fame.' Choo says that he does not understand , but thinks it may be the same as 聿, an initial particle. Yin-che has shown, with an abundance of evidence, that 耿, 聿, 遙 and 日, are all particles which are constantly interchanged. they are not mere expletives, nor initial particles, acc. to him, but have a certain conjunctional Maou and Ching explain = and is, now by i, now by i, and now by . Wang condemns all this, and adheres to the account of 所 in the Shwoh-wan as 詮 meaning probably, 'an explanatory conjunction.' The translator, however, cannot always translate the terms; and when he does translate them, he is obliged to vary his renderings. 7, 'great.' Ll. 3, 4 give the ground of Wan's great fame. It arose from his 1, or 'martial merit,' mentioned in st. 2; he saw the entire success of his enterprizes, and he undertook them, not from love of war, but to secure the repose of the people. We must either neglect the two j altogether in translating, or supplement the lines as I have done. Both Maou and Choo take A in the sense of 君, a ruler,' i.c., one who showed himself capable of ruling. 'It is a term,' says Keang, 'of admiration and praise.'

St. 2. L. 1 may be taken generally, with reference to the divine favour and destination regarding Wan, or specifically, with reference to the orders he got to attack Ts'ung;—see VII. 7. I prefer the former view. L. 4. On VII. 6 it has been said that many of the critics think that Wan, after the overthrow of Yung, removed his father's capital to a place called Ching; here we have him making another move, about a hundred miles further east from mount K'e. 1/E 🔁 is with Choo, and most other scholars. =徙都, 'he removed his capital.' They believe that Fung, under a different name, had been the capital of Ts'ung, and that Wan now moved to it, simply making what repairs on it were necessary for his purpose. This view is, probably, correct; and it is strongly in confirmation of it that we find nothing about the divinations which should have preceded so important a step as the building of a new capital city. He only changed the name from Ts'ung to Fung, with reference to the Fung-water, which was not far off.

St. 3. The moving of his capital to Fung was a great step towards vindicating the sovereignty of the kingdom for the House of Chow; but this stanza is intended to show that Wan took the step without any such motive. L.1. The Shwoh-wan defines 演 by 疾流, 'a rapid current;' but the critics are all agreed to take the character as = M, which, indeed, was the reading of Han Ying. Now the account of in the Shwoh-wan is, that it was the name of the ditch embracing a space of ten le square, ten cubits deep, and as many wide. On this view of the term, Wan must have built a new city, with such a ditch for a most, and the surrounding wall, ten le long on every side. Much better is it to take as meaning 'a moat,' without reference to its depth and width. The dict, gives this as the 2d meaning of the term (城池). 築城 will then mean that he

It was to show the filial duty which had come down to him. A sovereign true was our royal prince!

His royal merit was brightly displayed. 4

By those walls of Fung.

There were collected [the sympathies of the people of] the four quarters,

Who regarded the royal prince as their protector.

A sovereign true was [our] royal prince!

The Fung-water flowed on to the east [of the city].

Through the meritorious labour of Yu. There were collected [the sympathies of the people of] the four quarters. Who would have the great king as their ruler.

A sovereign true was the great king!

regained the walls of Isung, damaged by his countries betwee without any subsure at extra-siege of it; and the whole line must be rendered vagance. I have adopted the view of Kenny ssin the translation. 併. and in Li. 二篇 L.2 is very control. [L = 程], 'to be corresponding to. Choo makes the whole line to - 其作邑居亦稱其城而 不多大, 'the buildings which he made and not extravagantly large. 其作豐邑而遷都與公劉 是. 'his making the city of Fung. and reeving his capital to it, corresponded to Kungliw's removal to Fin. and king Trae's removal to Kral Either of these views is preferable to that of You Texas after Kraug-edica 其作 型邑之制度·唯其霜而已· 弱侈大也. The diameter of

4 sa belitting blo mak as a ligh dokn what he

La 蒙=鲁·亚达 2000 12 京 न्धरीकीय प्रयान सीते पूर्वितास्त्र का सुरामार्थ ist En pary nitte pps foret; persent interings best jurge bleserr Tre Periode ir 📃

△劉太王以來-St. 4 tells bow the new capital intensible and increased the derotion of the people to the

Tele allera estemplit War and his House the the 王后 "top! strenip" which is 正に 公=功 ಚಿನಾಯ ಕಾರ್ಯಕ್ರ

Chinal printing, Tr Bi-mapping Sa. 3. The observe mine to king Was whise

验验 治理 电量 干. 古 电过度阻 医异 Carte ray 显大松·武日 经大实故带皇王瑪·皇⁻⁻⁻⁻

- In the capital of Haou he built his hall with its circlet of water;
 From the west to the east,
 From the south to the north,
 There was not a thought but did him homage.
 A sovereign true was the great king!
- 7 He examined and divined, did the king,
 About settling in the capital of Haou.
 The tortoise-shell decided the site,
 And king Woo completed the city.
 A sovereign true was king Wool
- By the Fung-water grows the white millet;—
 Did not king Woo show wisdom in his employment of officers?
 He would leave his plans to his descendants,
 And secure comfort and support to his son.
 A sovereign true was king Woo!

great. The royal possession of king Woo became still greater than that of Wăn; and therefore he is styled "the great king." Choo says that is the designation of him who possesses all under heaven. The Fung-water lay between Wan's capital of Fung and Woo's of Haou, having the former on the west and the latter on the east. It went on in a north-east direction to the Wei, merged in which it pursued its course to the Ho. L. 1 must evidently be referred to Haou; but the special significance of the terms it does not appear. It is appropriate to the course of a stream flowing towards a larger one, or to the sea. L. 2 is a reference to the labour of Yu on the waters, as described with much exaggeration in the Shoo.

St. 6. In l.1 there would still seem to be a reference to the character of Woo, as really peaceful, notwithstanding his taking up arms against the dyn. of Shang, and overthrowing it. His building the peih yung (see on VIII. 3) was an indication of it. Ll. 2—4 describe the sincerity with which the whole people accorded their homage to him.

St. 7. Haou was built by Woo, and hence we have the account of his divining about the site and the undertaking, while nothing of the sort is recorded of Wan in regard to Fung.

The 'to examine;' i. e., Woo cast the whole thing over in his own mind in the first place.

The 'to reside in,' 'to make his residence.' In 1.5 we have the title of Woo, or 'martial,' given to king Fah after his death, and showing that the composition of the piece cannot, at the earliest, be placed before the time of king Ching.

St. 8. Both Maou and Choo understand by a kind of succory; but it is better, to take it, with Yen Ts'an and Këang, as the name of a valuable grain, 'a kind of white millet,' as Williams calls it (白菜菜). We shall meet with it again, certainly in this sense. 仕= 官, 'officers,' or 'to employ as officers.' About the Fung grew this grain, and it suggests to the writer the idea of all the men of ability whom Woo collected around him. 記一傳, 'to hand down.' L.4—熊安邓翼其子, 'to give soothing comfort and be as wings to his son.' His plan for his descendants would first take effect in the person of his son.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 整, 整, 炭, cat. 11: in 2, 功, 崇, 豐, cat. 9: in 3, 淡 (prop. cat. 1), 匹, cat. 12, t. 1; 欲, 孝*, cat. 3, t. 2: in 4, 垣, 翰, cat. 14: in 5, 績, 辟, cat. 16, t. 3: in 6, 廱, 東, cat. 9; 北, 服*, cat. 1, t. 3: in 7, 王, 京*, cat. 10; 正, 成, cat. 11: in 8, 岜, 仕, 謀*, 子, cat. 1, t. 2: and in all the stanzas 孫 cat. 6.

Shung min.

The first birth of [our] people Was from Keang Yuen. How did she give birth to [our] people? She had presented a pure offering and sacrificed, That her childlessness might be taken away. She then trod on a toe-print made by God, and was moved, In the large place where she rested. She became pregnant; she dwelt retired; She gave birth to, and nourished [a son], Who was How-tseih.

TITLE OF THE BOOK.—生民之什,三 , 'The Decade of Shang-min; Book II. of Part III.'

Ode 1. Narrative. THE LEGEND OF HOW-TSEIH:—HIS CONCEPTION; HIS BIRTH; THE PERILS OF HIS INFANCY; HIS BOYISH HABITS OF AGRI-OULTURE; HIS SUBSEQUENT METHODS OF AGRI-CULTURE, AND HIS FOUNDING OF SACRIFICES; THE HONOURS OF SACRIFICE PAID TO HIM BY THE House of Chow. Choo says he does not know on what occasion this ode was intended to be sung, but thinks it may have been used after the great border sacrifice, when the flesh of the

Preface says, the piece was designed to do honour to How-tseih as the founder to whom the princes of the House of Chow traced their lineage. After they obtained the sovercignty of the kingdom, he was made the assessor of Heaven (西 天)' at the border sacrifice;—the one man by whom the benevolent intention of the supreme Power for the nourishment of the people by means of the fruits of the earth had been realized. Kenng Ping-chang, trying to exhaust the idea of the author in the composithe great border sacrince, when the nesh of the victims was distributed among the high officers who had taken part in it. Evidently, as the motion of husbandry.—As to the division of the tion, makes out that his final aim was to impress on king Ching the truth that the prosperity of stanzas, Maou made the 3d to consist of 8 lines, and the 4th of 10; Choo, on the contrary, made the 3d of 10 lines, and the 4th of 8. The rhyme The is better made out by this arrangement. 8 stanzas consist of 10 lines and 8 alternately; and all but the first and last commence with the character 談正.

is here simply = our de-St. 1. L. 1. finite article. R, 'people,' is not to be taken generally, but with reference to the people of Chow,—the members of the House or family, which came in process of time to the sovereignty of the kingdom. In 1.2, 同 (and in 1.10)— 是, 'to be ;' or the demonstrative pronoun. We can hardly be said to know anything more about Këang Yuen, the mother of How-tseih, than what we are told in the She. It is assumed that she was a daughter of the House of T'ae (有卻氏女), which traced its lineage up to Shin-nung in præhistoric times, and that her name was Yuen. That she was married, and had been so for some time without any child, we infer from 1.5; but who her husband was, it is impossible to say. As the Chow surname was Ke (九), he must have been one of the descendants of Hwang-te. Indeed, Maou makes him to have been the emperor K'uh, the commencement of whose rule is placed in B.C. 2,431, so that Tseih or K'e (that was his name, and Tseih was only a title of office; see on 1.10) must have been a brother of Yaou. This view has the sanction of Sze-ma Ts'ëen, Lëw Hin, Pan Koo, Këa Kwei, Ma Yung, Fuh K'ëen, Wang Suh, Hwang-foo Meih, and others. But on this view, it is strange that we should have nothing in the Shoo about the relation between Yaou and K'e; and more strange, that we should find K'e, after the death of Yaou, when he must have been considerably over 100 years old, still in active employment under Shun. Choo follows the view of Ch'ing K'ang-shing, that Këang Yuen was not the wife of K'uh, but only of one of his descendants in the time of Yaou, between whom and K'uh Ch'ing believed there had been no fewer than nine reigns (為高莘之 计广发尺). The truth is that we must be content to be ignorant as to who the lady's husband was, and put the question on one side, according to the Chinese canon, as 'a doubtful matter (附 疑).' L.4,—see H.vi.VIII.4. We need not translate the 57, but had better take it as giving emphasis to the verbs. To whom it was that Keang offered sacrifice we are not told. Maou says it was a oustom in ancient times, when the swallow made its appearance, to offer n great border sacrifice, with the first Matchmaker as the assessor of Heaven in it, and attended by his wife, and all the ladies of the harem. At the altar honours were paid to those of the ladies who were in a state of pregnancy, and a bow and arrows were presented . to them,—as a sort of auspice that they would give birth to sons. Choo accepts this account; . but Kênng Ping-chang has shown that such a ceremony was never heard of till Leu Puhwei (呂不韋; Ts'in dynasty) invented it; and it would not answer, moreover, the exigency of the stanza, for Këang here sacrifices to have her childlessness taken away (明二去). impression we receive from the text is that she offered—to God, we may presume—a sacrifice, all alone, by herself, for that object. Ll. 6, 7 have occasioned, and still occasion, infinite perplexity to the Chinese critics. Fierce war is waged on the meaning of 帝, of 敏, and of 武. 1st. Does 武 belong to 1.6 or to 1.7? One of these lines must have 5 characters, whereas all the others in the stanza have only 籢 rhyming with 祀, 子, and 止, we might conclude that it terminates 1.6; but we have often found the rhyme resting in these odes on the penultimate term. And the analogy of 攸介攸止, in II.vi.VII.1, where those 4 characters form a line, is in favour of their doing the same here. I make 1.6 therefore, The term, acc. to Choo, who folbe referred? lows Ching, - L' , 'God.' Maou on the contrary held that the here meant 'emperor, and that Këang's husband, the emperor K'uh, But there is not another inis intended by it. stance in the classic of having this meaning, whereas its occurrence in the sense of 'God' 3d. How are we to underis very frequent. Maou takes the former stand 敏 and 歆? term in the sense of 灰, 'to be rapid,' or 'active,' and understands it of Keang Yuen, who followed the emperor to the altar, and was very alert in assisting him at the sacrifice. ing,' so that the meaning is that God, or some other Spirit who was sacrificed to, accepted the lady's sacrifice, and blessed her. on to say that 介 in 1.7 - 大, 'great,' or 'to make great,' and 止一福滁所止, 'the place (or the individual) on whom blessing and As Ying-tah expands Maou's dignity rested." view:-- 禮祀郊祺之時,其夫高 莘氏帝率與俱行,姜嫄隨 後、踐履帝迹、行事敬而敏 疾,故為神歆器,神旣裂 that the son of Heaven went himself to it,

When she had fulfilled her months,
Her first-born son [came forth] like a lamb.
There was no bursting, nor rending,
No injury, no hurt;—
Showing how wonderful he would be.
Did not God give her the comfort?
Had He not accepted her pure offering and sacrifice,
So that thus easily she brought forth her son?

則愛而祐之於是爲天神所 美大,為福祿所依止. All this confusion and perplexity of exegesis I must reject. It has been mentioned above that 1.4 occurs previously in II. vi. VII. 1, and I do not see how any other meaning can be got out of the words than what I have given to them both there and here. Coming now to the interpretation adopted by Kang-shing and Choo, it is certainly much simpler, and there is really nothing to say against it but the marvellousness of the circumstance. The is taken in the sense of III, 'the great toe;' which rests on the authority of the Urh-ya. is in the sense of if, 'to be moved.' K'ang-shing says the print of the foot was so large that Këang Yuen merely trod upon the toe; but Yen Ts'an, adopting his view of 帝, joins 敏 with 歆, bringing out the meaning, - 'and was immediately moved.' Evidently, this statement is not history, but legend. The wrath of Keang Ping-chang at it need only provoke a smile, nor need we have recourse to Yen Ts'an's doctrine of anthropo-morphism. 'When we read,' he says 'that Heaven sees, or that God hears, we are not to infer that Heaven has eyes, or that God has ears.' Still the instance in the text is different-from such expressions. The writer would convey by it the ideas that the conception of Howtseih was præternatural, and that it took place in the manner described. There is an analogous legend about the birth of the ancestor of the House of Shang, and Sze-ma Ts'ëen gives to a dragon the paternity of the first emperor of the Han dynasty.

Ll. 8—10. 載 is the particle. 震一有 身, 'to be pregnant.' The character occurs repeatedly in the Tso-chuen in this sense. I can make no meaning out of , understood in its usual signification of , 'early in the morning,' 'early;' to which Maou here adheres. Choo, after Ch'ing, explains it here by , the meaning of which must be what I have given in the translation. In 1.10, , see on the Shoo, II. i. 18. The two characters are evidently used here as equivalent to a name. They did not belong to the child, until he had grown up, and was appointed minister of Agriculture, and lord of Tae. His proper name, it has been mentioned, was K'e ().

St. 2 is occupied with the birth of the præternaturally conceived child without any trouble or pain to the mother. 影正, here and in stt.3—7 below, is simply an initial particle. 殱一終, 'to finish,' or 'to be finished.' 先生一首 生, 'first born;' 達 is the name for 'a lamb' (the Shwoh-wan calls it 小羊). Ll. 3 and 4 make it plain that the point of the comparison in 1. 2 is the ease of the birth. 圻 and 副 are synonyms, = 💯, 'to tear,' 'to be torn.' is pronounced like K, and with the meaning of that term. 赫-顯, 'to manifest.' pin is to be referred to the child. Ll. 6,7 may be translated interrogatively, and are equivalent to strong affirmations. We must understand that Këang Yuen is the object of mi, 'to give repose, or comfort to.' 康一安享, 'to enjoy tranquilly,' 'to accept.' 居然一徒 然, 'with ease;'-compare the use of 居 in II. vii.X. 3.

- He was placed in a narrow lane,
 But the sheep and oxen protected him with loving care.
 He was placed in a wide forest,
 Where he was met with by the wood-cutters.
 He was placed on the cold ice,
 And a bird screened and supported him with its wings.
 When the bird went away,
 How-tseih began to wail.
 His cry was long and loud,
 So that his voice filled the whole way.
 - 4 When he was able to crawl,
 He looked majestic and intelligent.
 When he was able to feed himself,
 He fell to planting large beans.
 The beans grew luxuriantly;

St. 3.—the dangers of How-tseh's infancy. It does not appear from the ode who it was that exposed the child to the various perils here mentioned. Maou supposed that it was the father, the emperor Kuh. Ching, on the contrary, not holding that Keang Yuen was the wife of Kuh. makes her to have been the parry, and assumes that her object was not to get rid of the child, but to show still more clearly what a marvellous gift from heaven he was. I have purposely translated by he was placed, so as to leave the matter in the uncertainty in which we find it. Choo takes IFF FC, to protect:—as in II. i. VII. 5: and it is as well to follow here the analogy of that passage, though Maou's IFF to avoid, would suit the line quite as well. The avoid would suit the line quite as well. The avoid would suit the line quite as boy. 匍匐.—as in Lift X.4. The 貫一 定一是. 'to be;' but we can hardly translate it. Choo makes 岐嶷-峻茂之狀, 'majestic-looking;' Maon.—'intelligent.'

食, both by Maon and Choo, is taken as=自

His rows of paddy shot up beautifully; His hemp and wheat grew strong and close; His gourds yielded abundantly.

The husbandry of How-tseih 5 Proceeded on the plan of helping [the growth]. Having cleared away the thick grass, He sowed the ground with the vellow cereals. He managed the living grain, till it was ready to burst; Then he used it as seed, and it sprang up; It grew and came into ear; It became strong and good; It hung down, every grain complete;-And thus he was appointed lord of Tae.

能食, 'was able to eat himself,' i.e., was 6 or 7 years old. Accepting this, Wiff must = 及至, 'and when he came to.' 及 is one of the meanings of M given by Wang Yin-che. L.4. 茲=樹, 'to plant.' The 之 loses its meaning in the verb:- 'he planted it.'-he planted. 在寂一大豆, 'large beans.' 揣湍.—see Ⅱ.i.VⅢ.2. The boy's bean plants sprang up, and grew like flags waving And he did not take beans only in the wind. in hand. 役=钉列. 'rows.' He introduced, it would appear, the practice of planting paddy out in rows. 嵇嵇=苗美姓之 新, "the appearance of the growing plant looking beautiful. 惊惊 -'luxurisnt and dense.' 冬-剥剥 J.III.i ni zz-.规瓜 vielding much fruit. St. 5 introduces us to the young man, whose qualities had recommended him to the notice of Yaou, as we may infer from the Shoo, so that he had been appointed minister of Agriculture. He | Ts'an, after Ch'ing, that 📠 denotes the growwas not yet lord of Tae. and it is a question therefore whether the 后稷 should not go together, simply as the title of that office (后稷, 農官名: Kēang Ping-chang). Ll. 1, 2 tell us the general principle which distinguished his husbandry from that of others. The 'to reap,' has here the general meaning of 'the art of husbandry.' 相'= 助 'to assist.' 'The growth of the grain, says Keang, depends on the seasons given by heaven and the nourishment given by the earth; but How-tseih added to these the complete and wise application of human labour L.3 relates to his preparation of the ground for the seed. gulate, 'to manage;' meaning here, 'to clear 畫茂, 'yellow luxuriances,' is a deewer.' nomination of the cereals. The next 5 lines tell of his management of the seed, and the richness of his produce. The 種 in L 6 seems to necessitate this view, for it is better to take 種 as in the translation, than to say with Ten

是之歷。恒糜維種。誕年是之際。是之雜種。雖然是之之。是是一種。是一種。

He gave his people the beautiful grains:—
The black millet, and the double-kernelled;
The tall red, and the white.
They planted extensively the black and the double-kernelled,
Which were reaped and stacked on the ground.
They planted extensively the tall red and the white,

ing up of each kind of plant, without any admixture of other sorts (牛 不 雜). We must then understand 1.5 of K'e's management of the seed, fostering its germinating quality before he committed it to the soil; and we cannot take 👍 as in II. vi. VIII. 2, where it denotes the grain in its sheath, about to show itself in the ear. Choo here explains it by 📆, as in that other passage; but with the meaning of 'the living germ enclosed in the visible grain as its house.' Then is the grain with that germ in a state of development, ready to burst out. Choo says, 方, 房也, 苞, 甲而未振 批, on which Choo Kung-ts ëen abserves, 仕 意 藏 於 其 中 是 爲 房 也, 生 意蓄而欲泄。是爲甲,甲 「木之仁也,拆則破其種 而出之矣. The other terms describe the gradual and successful growth of the plants. 浦 is the heavy ear of the full grain hanging down with its own weight; and 栗, the fullness of each separate grain (栗不秕也). The several 賈 can only be explained by 是 or 催. Këang says that they denote how K'e had the way of bringing about the results described in the terms that follow (數實字便有 道不). L. 8. 'Then he had the House of T'ae.' This is understood as saying that because of his merits as minister of Agriculture, K'e was invested with the principality of T'ae, -in the pres. dis. of Woo-kung (武功), K'ëen Chow (乾), Shen-se. His mother is said to have been a daughter of that State. Perhaps the ruling chief was displaced, or removed to some other principality. At any rate, somehow, K'e was made lord of Tine.

St. 6 shows us K'e in his govt. of T'ae teaching his people the art of agriculture and methods of sacrifice. E - 'to send down,' 'to confer.' The expression is strong, and indicates that the people of T'ae had before K'e's time been unacquainted with agriculture, or acquainted with it only very imperfectly. 清草 is 'the black millet (黑 黍), and 豖, a variety of that, the husk of which is said to contain two grains (一秤二米者). 糜 and 苣 are also two large-grained millets, or varieties of holcus, the former red (赤粱栗), and the other white (白粱栗). It is most likely that these four plants are merely specified by way of illustration, and that the writer meant his readers to understand that it was K'e who first introduced the cultivation of the cereals. We can find a reason for the specification of them in the fact that the black millets were used in making the spirits which were employed in sacrifices, and the red and white for offerings. L.4 怪 (kăng) — 徧, 'every where,' 'extensively:' meaning that these millets were planted L.5. 是畝, 'were acred,'= extensively. 棲之於畝, 'were stacked on the ground.' L. 7. 任 is 'to carry on the the shoulders;' 頁, 'on the back.' Choo observes that the processes in 1.3 are to be extended to the black millets, and those in 1.5 to the red and white. It is a case of what is called 互文. L. 8. 肇一始, 'first.' The grain was carried home 以供始祭之 1. 'to supply the sacrifices which How-tseils first instituted.' Maou thinks that Yaou had conferred on K'e the privilege of offering the great sacrifices to Heaven; but this is very unlikely, and it could not be said that K'e founded those sacrifices. The meaning must be that K'e instituted the sacrifices of the ancestral temple, or at least so developed them that he might be called the founder of them, just as he was the founder of husbandry, though we cannot suppose that before him men had not made imperfect attempts to draw their food from the earth.

Which were carried on their shoulders and backs, Home for the sacrifices which he founded.

And how as to our sacrifices [to him]? Some hull [the grain]; some take it from the mortar; Some sift it; some tread it. It is rattling in the dishes; It is distilled, and the steam floats about. We consult; we observe the rites of purification; We take southernwood and offer it with the fat; We sacrifice a ram to the Spirit of the path; We offer roast flesh and broiled:-And thus introduce the coming year.

St. 7 must be referred to the ancestral sacrifices of the kings of Chow, when they did speci-al honour to How-tseih as the founder of their line; and it should be translated in the present tense. The $\frac{1}{2}$, therefore, in 1.1, is specially applicable, as l'ing-chang says, to any monarch of the dyn. of Chow,—the king reigning, whenever the ode was sung. Ll.2—5 describe the preparation of the grain for the offerings, and for distillation, with the process of distillation. But we must not suppose that these things were done at the time of the sacrifice; -they had been previously performed, and the Eli intimates that there were men appointed for each operation. 蓉 expresses the 'hulling' of the grain; 榆, the scooping of the grain, so hulled, out of the mortar(抒一白); 簸, the silting of it.' 蹂 is the 'treading' of the grain out of the cars (躁,以脱其穗); but why this operation should be mentioned last, I cannot tell, unless it be to indicate, as Choo seems to say, that there was in this way kept up a constant supply for the hullers. the grain,' which had thus been cleaned; . 題 貞 give the sound of the grains in the dish as they | to remind the kings of Chow that on an atten-were washed. 派,—'to distil;' 浮浮 show us the vapour floating about in the process of

L.6 refers to the formal observances and solemn thoughtfulness preparatory to the sacrifig., 'to consult,' belongs to the divining for the day, and the selection of the officers to take part in the service (卜 日, 擇 土); 惟一黑, 'to think' belongs to the fasting, vigils, &c. (齋. 戒. 具. 修). L.7-蕭 合祭性之脂,燕之,'we take southernwood, and burn it along with the fat of the victims.' This filled the ancestral temple with fragrance. L.S. 叛= 牡羊, 'a ram.' was the name for a sacrifice offered to the Spirits of the road on setting out on a journey; but from the mention of it here, we must conclude that it was used also in connection with the services of the ancestral temple. In the Le Ke it is spoken of as offered in the first month of winter (月令:孟冬其祀行). In 1.9, 烈 - 炙, 'to broil,' which we have often met with in connection with 燔. The flesh, thus roasted or broiled, was offered to the personator of the dead. L.10 shows that all the services of the ancestral temple, through the honour done to How-tseih in them, were intended

We load the stands with the offerings,
The stands both of wood and of earthenware.
As soon as the fragrance ascends,
God, well pleased, smells the sweet savour.
Fragrant is it, and in its due season!
How-tseih founded the sacrifice,
And no one, we presume, has given occasion for blame or regret in regard to it,
Down to the present day.

II. Hing wer.

泥。葉體。苞履。勿牛行敦章行戚泥維方方踐羊蓋。彼 葦

In thick patches are those rushes, springing by the way (-side); Let not the cattle and sheep trample them. Anon they will burst up; anon they will be completely formed, With their leaves soft and glossy.

tion to agriculture depended the permanence of their dynasty. . 'the inheriting year,' i. e., the coming year, which it was hoped would inherit the fruitfulness of the past.

St. 8 is understood as relating, briefly, to the great border sacrifice to God, where How-tseih was introduced as His assessor. 川—栽, as in I.iii. IX. 4. = 'to fill in the appropriate offerings.' The 祭 was a vessel, shaped like the 📜, but made of earthenware, used to contain the soup, or water in which flesh had been boiled; -- in those early days without any addition of vegetables or spices. L.4. 居-安, 'tranquilly,' 'well pleased. 歌=食氣, 'to cat—i.e., to smell—the savour.' L.5. 前一句, 'how,' and 可 = 誠, 'truly.' We may take these two terms as imparting the force of admiration to the 臭 and 時. I prefer this to understanding a 但, 'only,' after 胡.- 'How | is it fragrant only? It is also truly seasonable. Ll. 7,8 may be understood as saying that the lords of Chow, and especially the kings of the dynasty, had been most careful to observe the sacrifice to How-tseih in connection with their other grand sacrifices, thereby keeping up their recognition of the importance of agriculture, and furnishing an example to their successors in all the future.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 民, 嫄 (prop. cat. 14), cat. 12, t. 1; 祀于, 敏*, 止, cat. 1, t. 2; 夙, 育, 稷 (prop. cat. 1), cat. 3, t. 3; in 2, 月, 達. 害, cat. 15, t. 3; 靈, 年, cat. 11; 祀, 于, cat. 1, t. 2: in 3, 字, 星, ib.; 林, 休, cat. 7, t. 1; 去, 呱, 計, 路, cat. 5, t. 1: in 4, 匐, 嶷, 食, cat. 1, t. 3; 旆, 穟, cat. 15, t. 3; 幪, 床, cat 9: in 5, 道*, 草*, 茂*, 仓*, 亳*, cat. 3, t. 2; 平, 奎*, cat. 12, t. 3: in 6, 秠*, 芒*, 秠*, 松*, 亡*, 百*, 元*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 7, 榆*

Closely related are brethren;—
Let none be absent, let all be near.
For some there are spread mats;
For some there are given stools [besides].

The mats are spread, and a second one above;
The stools are given, and there are plenty of servants.
[The guests] are pledged, and they pledge [the host] in return;
He rinses the cup, and the guests put theirs down.
Sauces and pickles are brought in,
With roast meat and broiled.

(prop. cat. 4), 躁, 叟, 浮, cat. 3, t. 1; 惟, 脂, cat. 15, t. 1; 敬, 烈, 歲, ib., t. 3: in 8, fully formed reed. 泥 泥—柔 澤貌, as in the translation. In the reeds growing up densely from a common root we have an emblem of brothers all sprung from the same ancestor; and in plants developing so finely, when

Ode 2. Allusive and narrative. A FESTAL ODE, CELEBRATING SOME ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY THE KING TO HIS RELATIVES, WITH THE TRIAL OF ARCHERY AFTER THE FEAST; CELEBRATING ESPECIALLY THE HONOUR DONE ON SUCH OCCA-SIONS TO THE AGED. Choo inclines to the view that the feast here described was given at the conclusion of the sacrificial services in the aucestral temple. Before his time, the commentators considered that it had no connection with any sacrifices, but was designed simply to show how the good kings of Chow cultivated the friendly affection of the princes, their relatives, and behaved with courtesy especially to the old. The K'ang-he editors remark that there is no evidence that the trial of archery formed part of the feasts which were given after sacrifices. It does not seem to be worth while to discuss this point at large.

St. 1. 章,—as in I. v. VII. 1, et al. They are called here 行章, 'reeds by the way,' meaning, says Këang, 'the paths along the ditches in the fields.' 敦 (lwan)—聚第, 'the app. of being collected together.' The line shows us the reeds just appearing, in a mass, above the ground. The 方 in 1.3='now;' and redoubled, it has the significancy given in the translation. 河, in st. 5 of last ode, is used of the germ ready to burst from the seed; here of the young shoot going on to develope itself.

fully formed reed. 泥泥一柔澤貌 as in the translation. In the reeds growing up densely from a common root we have an emblem of brothers all sprung from the same ancestor; and in plants developing so finely, when preserved from injury, an emblem of the happy fellowships of consanguinity, when nothing is allowed to interfere with mutual confidence and 戚戚=親, 'near,' 'affectiongood feeling. Maou defines the expression by 内相 親, 'mutual internal affection.' 莫=勿 of are only provided with mats to sit on, the old have stools (\prod_i) given them in addition, on which they can lean. 建一陳, 'to spread,' 筵,—see on II. vii. VI. 1.

St. 2. 設席一重席, 'the redoubling of the mat.' K'ung Ying-tah says, 'When, after it has been said that the mats are spread, it is added that a mat is placed (設席), we know that there were two mats, as in the line 下 空口 可以 "有一个"。 "我一个"。 "我一个"。 "我一个"。 "我一个"。 "我们 means that there were many attendants, one to succeed another in waiting. This attention was shown especially to the old. Ll. 3, 4. The spirits were first presented to the guests, and each man drank his cup. This was called Excellent provisions there are [also] of tripe and cheek; With singing to lutes, and with drums.

The ornamented bows are strong,
And the four arrows are all balanced.
They discharge the arrows, and all hit,
And the guests are arranged according to their skill.
The ornamented bows are drawn full,
And the four arrows are grasped in the hand.
They go straight to the mark as if planted in it,
And the guests are arranged by the humble propriety of their demeanour.

Then the representative of the guests presented a cup to the host, who drank it. This was called 西色. The host then rinsed his cup, and those of the guests were refilled; but instead of drinking them immediately, they put them down for the present (真之 this way the feast was opened. There is no difference in meaning between 爵 and 斝. The former was the name for a cup under the Chow dynasty; the latter was the name used under the Yin. The 或...或, here, and in L 6,— our 'both...and.' L.5.而此而 =the brine of meat minced small and pickled. There was this 'to present,' that it might be eaten with, and give a relish to, the viands. mach; here = tripe. 服 = 口 flesh above the mouth,'—cheek. ਜੋਨ੍ਹਿ, as has been already observed, is used of singing to the accompaniment of stringed instruments; 罩 is the drum without singing.

 the arrows with reference to their steel points. They are said to be 'balanced (),' because a perfect arrow had its centre of gravity at one third of its whole length from the steel head. L. 4. Choo explains by ph, 'all hit;' but that can only mean that all hit the target, not that all hit it in the centre, or equally near the centre, for 1.5 shows that they were arranged according to the skill which they had shown. To be level or equal,' would seem to imply that all were equally successful, which cannot be the case. "superiority.' This is a not infrequent use of the character. Choo says the meaning of it here is pink."

Ll.5-8 tell how a further distinction was made among the successful competitors, according to the manner in which they conducted themselves towards those who were unsuccessful. 不便in l. 8 = 'showing no insolence ;一个 以中病不中者. In this matter the adjudication must have been very difficult, and it would be very easy to put on an appearance 句=殼,'to of complaisance and humility. draw a bow to the full.' L. 6 does not imply that the four arrows were held in the hand at the same time. As Ying-tah says, from the E. Le, the arrows were stuck in the girdle, and the archer took them out with his right hand, one after the other, fitted them to the string, drew the bow, and discharged them. 如 樹 describes

4 The distant descendant presides over the feast;

His sweet spirits are strong.

He fills their cups from a measure,

And prays for the hoary old [among his guests];—

That with hoary age and wrinkled back,

They may lead on one another [to virtue], and support one another [in it];

That so their old age may be blessed, And their bright happiness [ever] increased.

III. Ke tsuy.

景介萬君以旣以旣寒旣福。爾年。子德、飽酒。醉醉

You have made us drink to the full of your spirits; You have satiated us with your kindness, May you enjoy, O our lord, myriads of years! May your bright happiness [ever] be increased!

the arrows sticking in the mark, straight and firm, as if they had been carefully and leisurely planted in it (如手成樹之, 言質革而堅正). The archers are all spoken of as 'guests,' as being at the time the king's guests; and in st. 4 he is mentioned as the or 'host.'

standing that the Mir intimates that the king here begged the old guests to tell him the results of their experience. Then ll.5—8 tell how those venerable men, having done so, 'to lead him on and support him in a virtuous course, concluded by wishing for him old age and increasing happiness. Choo, on the other hand, takes the whole as in the translation. The Kang-he editors say that both interpretations are allowable. Only one of them, however, can be the correct one; and I have no hesitation in preferring the view of Choo. age,' means old age marked by hoar hair. 香,—see on VI. ii. VII 5. 台 is used for 無台, the name of a fish, remarkable for the spots and wrinkles of its skin, to which it is supposed the skin of old people gets a resemblance. The different seem to imply a reference in the speaker's mind to the spirits, which, by nourishing the old age of the guests, would help them to realize the things which the king desired for 祺一吉, 'auspicious,' 'happy.'

The four stanzas of the ode, as now edited, appear in Maou as seven;—two of 6 lines each,

終令融。昭朝。介子旣酒。旣 有終。高明爾萬將。爾蔣 飯。今朝有昭年。君殺以

- You have made us drink to the full of your spirits; Your viands were all set out before us. May you enjoy, O our lord, myriads of years! May your bright intelligence [ever] be increased!
- May your bright intelligence become perfect,
 High and brilliant, leading to a good end!
 That good end has [now] its beginning:—
 The personator of your ancestors announced it in his blessing.

and five of 4. Ching divided them into eight stanzas of 4 lines each. There can be no doubt that the modern arrangement is the most correct.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 葦,履,體,泥,弟,爾,几, cat. 15, t.2: in 2, 席*, 酢,炙*, 膘, 咢, cat. 5. t. 3; 御, 斝*, ib. t. 2: in 3, 堅,鈞,均,賢, cat. 12, t. 1; 句*, 鍭,樹*, 侮*, cat. 4, t. 2: in 4, 主*, 醽*, 斗, 耉, ib.; 背, 翼, 福*, cat. 1, t. 8.

Ode 3. Natrative. Responsive to the LAST:—THE UNCLES AND BRETHREN OF THE KING EXPRESS THEIR SENSE OF HIS KINDNESS, AND THEIR WISHES FOR HIS HAPPINESS, MOSILY IN THE WORDS IN WHICH THE PERSONATOR OF THE DEAD HAD CONVEXED THE SATISFACTION OF HIS ANCESTORS WITH THE SACRIFICE OFFERED TO THEM, AND PROMISED TO HIM THEIR BLESSING. The position of this ode seems to confirm Choo's view of the preceding as descriptive of a feast given by the king to his relatives at the conclusion of a sacrifice in the ancestral temple. It is plain that such a feast must have preceded the occasion to which this ode was appropriate.

St. 1. It seems best to take 醉 and 節 as in the translation, understanding 爾 or 王 as the nominative to them. Yen Ts'an says:—王 既 我 以 酒, 既 愈 我 以 德. 德 is taken in the sense of 思 惠, 'kindness,' referring especially to the abundance of the feast. In 1.3, 君 子 refers to the king, as does the 简 in 1.4. Those two lines are a prayer for the king, and we have to suppose 天, 'Heaven,' as the subject of 介, though we need not express it in the translation. To use again the words of Yen Ts'an, 我 無 以

報上,願其享萬年之壽,而 天助爾大福. On 1.3,—'May you, O king, live for ever!' Le Ch'oo says, 'From antiquity it has been the custom of ministers, in responding to their rulers, to wish that they might receive abundance of happiness. The T'ëen-paou (ILi. VI.) is an ode responsive to the sovereign, and the way in which his kindness is responded to in it is simply a wish for his long continued happiness; and so here, the ministers of king Ching respond to him by wishing for him ten thousand years.'

St. 2. 将,—as in II.vi.V. 6. Choo says that 阳 期 is equivalent to 光 大, 'bright and large.' But it is better to give to 明 the substantive force of 'intelligence.' Wang Gan-shih explains the two terms by 明 德, 'intelligent virtue.'

St. 3. 融 is explained by 明之盛, the fullness of intelligence.' The term denotes 'steam or vapour issuing forth,' and hence is used here of intelligence, the manifestation of which cannot be repressed. HH (formed also with the same elements in the reverse order) denotes the brilliancy of the intelligence. Choo defines it by 廬明, which we may call 'ethereal intelligence.' 令終一善終, 'a good end.' Choo says the phrase is equivalent to the 考終命 in the Shoo, V.iv. 89. But it seems to be here more than we understand by a good end, and to characterize not the end of his life merely, but of all his undertakings, their issues being perpetuated in his posterity. L.3 suggests a thought of caution to the king, that as the end flows from the beginning (依义 = 始) he would best provide for the future by attending to the present. At this point the speaker or speakers seem to be unable to say anything more as from themselves, and go on to quote the learning the language in which the blessing of his ances4 What was his announcement?

'[The offerings in] your dishes of bamboo and wood are clean and fine.

Your friends assisting at the service,

Have done their part with reverent demeanour.

5 'Your reverent demeanour was altogether what the occasion required,

And not yours only, but that also of your filial son.

For such filial piety, without ceasing,

There will ever be conferred blessing on you.

tors had been conveyed in the temple. Of the | II, or their representatives at the sacrifices, I have spoken on II.vi.V. 5, ct al. The expression 公尸, 'ducal personators,' is somewhat difficult to account for. Choo says that it is an instance of old custom continuing to prevail, even after the princes of Chow had attained to the royal dignity; and nothing less unsatisfactory can be found on the point. 言告之謂嘏辭也,'announced in good words, meaning the blessing." If there were more than one representative of the departed, as I have previously said that each of the ancestors had his personator, it would seem necessary to suppose that one of them, in pronouncing the blessing, spoke for himself and all the others. St. 4. From 1.2 to the end of the ode we seem to have the words of blessing; and this st. gives some grounds of it. 逗豆,—as in L xv. V. 2, et al. 鄙嘉一清深而美, 'pure and admirable.' This predicate must be understood of the contents of the dishes. As Yen Ts'an says, 汝逗豆所盛之物,深帶而嘉美. By the 'friends' are intended the various officers who had taken part in the sacrificial services. 福 has the meaning of 佳 'to assist,' and also of 檢 'to repress,' 'to exercise self-discipline,' and the critics combine them here, which does not seem to be necessary.

St. 5 The there must be understood of the king himself, or it may belong to him and his son, carrying on l. 1 to 2. Maon, indeed, and Ching continue to interpret the phrase of the assisting officers, of whom also they understand the 2d line, as saying that they were superior men, who possessed the virtues of 'filial sons.' But we may be sure that their interpretation is wrong. The Spirits of the dead had not sufficient interest in those officers that they should thus dwell upon them; and 君子is here, as in stt. 1, 2, appropriate to the king, while the 'filial son,' would be his eldest son, who, we know, took a certain part in the services in the ancestral temple. H="in season," what I take 有 as if it were the seasons required.' (, = 'and.' Leu Tsoo-k'een seems to me to have caught the meaning of 1.3 better than any of the other critics. He understands it of the king and his son, who had both shown themselves so filial (君子旣孝,而嗣子 Right was it that his ancestors should confer on the king all kinds of blessing (猶一善). -I may mention another view of the stanza, given by a P'ang Chih-chung (彭韩中; at the end of the Sung dyn.):- From his reverent demeanour so entirely what the occasion required, it might be seen with what filial duty king Ching sacrificed to his ancestors. It was proper that he should have a filial son coming after him; yea, that filial sons should appear for ever in his line, generation after generation, for that Heaven should grant kings thus to follow one another of the same character was in the order of nature and reason.' See the 'Collected Comments,' in loc. A similar view did on my first study of the stanza occur to myself, but I concluded that the one given in the translation was preferable.

6 'What will the blessings be?
That along the passages of your palace
You shall move for ten thousand years;
And there will be granted to you for ever dignity and posterity.

- 7 'How as to your posterity? Heaven invests you with your dignity, Yea for ten thousand years, The bright appointment is attached to your person.
- 8 'How will it be attached?
 There is given you a heroic wife.
 There is given you a heroic wife,
 And from her shall come [the line of] descendants.'

St. 6. 唇 is explained as 宫中之恭, the lanes or passages of the palace. Then we must take ll. 2 and 3 together, and there comes out the meaning that the king should have a long and undisturbed life in the quiet of the apartments of his palace. As Foo Kwang expands the passage,一所謂善者如何, 則玄便爾居於深遠嚴密之 宫室,無有外虞. This is, perhaps, the most likely of the various interpretations that have been proposed. I much prefer it to the view of Yen Ts'an, who says that as the passages of the palace were the means of egress, 1.2 intimates that from king Ching in his palace a transforming influence should go out over the whole kingdom, and, if it were so, he would deserve to live for ten thousand years. L.4. TE 一而 派, 'happiness and dignities;' but it is difficult to see what more there is in this than is intimated in the two previous lines. The posterity, 'descendants.' St. 7. 被(3d tone)—程, 'to cover over.'

to.' The 1st line would seem to be here out of place, for the other lines seem to say nothing about the king's posterity, unless it be that the fact of the appointment of Heaven being attached to his person secured the same also for them.

St. 8. 養一子, 'to give.' 女士一女之有士行者, 'a lady [or ladies] having the conduct of an officer.' As it appears, from st. 4, that the king had already a son, ll. 2, 3 must be translated in the present, or in the present-complete tense. 從二億, 'and thereon.'

We must understand after it, and is then with, or, as Julien calls it, the sign of the accusative case.

[It must be confessed that the above communication from the Spiritual world is not a little difficult to construe. We are obliged to have recourse to 'chiscling,' to make out the sense and sequence of the utterance.]

and sequence of the utterance.]
The rhymes are—in st. 1, 德, 福, cat. 1, t. 8: in 2, 将, 明*, cat. 10: in 3, 融, 終, cat. 9; 依, 告*, cat. 3, t. 8: in 4, 何, 嘉, 儀*, cat. 17: in 5, 時, 子, cat. 1, t. 2; 暨, 類, cat. 15, t. 3: in 6, 壹, 年, 肖, cat. 12, t. 1: in 7, 禄, 僕, cat. 3, t. 3: in 8, 土, 土, 子, cat. 1, 17. Here's.

逐來遊旣旣來公

The wild-lacks and widgeous are on the King: The personators of your ancestors feast and are happy. Your quirite ure clour.

Your visuals are fragrant:

The personators of your ancestors feast and drink;— Their happiness and dignity are made complete.

The wild ducks and widgeons are on the sand: The personators of the dead enjoy the feast, their appropriate tribute.

A50. 2. 35 An arte trevert att g ale balte geter beite beite beite bette it bath eine batet. mire an, entrag un wern. Thirte mae a eitigfieprovide my grope to the end they executive elect the day encounting it a more enterin errelar ison the totals the fine of their IX. in the Store, Pt. IV a state et oe el mbieh all mbo had actol as plie gegenentatiene eit jeren matiere if the Sjürfte en it of receding day were feasted, as they had e there at the feast with which it had been we up I up. Ches says that the materials of the freet were the remains of the exception of the day lefters, warmed up again. The 公 Ja, 'persometers of the king's annesters,' seem to make it plain enough that the previous sacrifice had been that in the ancestral temple, and so say 1-th Macu and Choo. Ching Kinng-shing, however, led away by the language of what is regarded as the supplementary and unauthorized sentences in the Preface, would extend it to all other parifles as well; but the K'ang-he editors rightly condemn his view. Choo and the old interpreters agree generally in the interpretation of the stanzas, till they come to the last line, which Choo understands of the personnters of the dead, and the others of the king who was feasting them, making it express the blessing which the Spirits would give him. Without raying that Choo's view is wrong, the imperial editors speak rather in favour of the other; but Choo's construction is the more natural, and I cannot see why it should be rejected.

And, 'the wild Ll. 1, 2, in all the stanzas. duck, -as in I. vii. VIII. 1. The R. cannot so readily be determined. Choo explains it by mil. 'gulls;' but the difficulty with me is the assign ing the King, so far away from the sea, as if it |

e were the proper habitat of such birds. Maou calls it & Mid. 'a kind of wild duck;' so also Luk Tern, who adds that the hea is fond of diving, while the e prefers to float in the water, and hence one name of it is the gon (3 na)." am inclined to think therefore that the e may be the widgen, of which it is an acknowledged pseuliarity that it does not willingly dive. There hirds are represented first as on the King. -upon which You Te'an says, 'The Wei ();), flowing enstwards, first receives the Fung (IIII), and afterwards the King. The Fung enters the Wei from the south, and the King from the north-west. King Wan resided in Fung, on the west of the river so named, so that it was necessary to cross it before reaching the King. King Woo resided in Haou on the east of the Fung, and was therefore not far from the King. In consequence of the nearness of the capital to the King, the allusion is made of the birds upon that stream. The 'sands' in st. 2, and the 'islets' in st. 8, would be on its banks and in its in st. 4 would be where some channel.

smaller river flowed into it (小水入大水 日深); and 弧 (read mun) is a gorge, where the stream flows between its banks rising high, and narrowing the channel. In all these places the birds felt at home, and enjoyed themselves; and so the reference to them serves to introduce the parties feasted,-in a situation where they might relax from the gravity of the preceding day, and be happy,

L. 2. In is understood of the quiet happiness of the mind (军,以心之安言);宜

Your spirits are abundant, Your viands are good; The personators of your ancestors feat

The personators of your ancestors feast and drink;—
Happiness and dignity lend them their aids.

The wild ducks and widesers.

The wild ducks and widgeons are on the islets;
The personators of your ancestors feast and enjoy themselves.
Your spirits are strained,
Your viands are in slices;
The personators of your ancestors feast and drink;—

The personators of your ancestors feast and drink;—Happiness and dignity descend on them.

The wild ducks and widgeons are where the waters meet;
The personators of your ancestors feast, and are honoured.
The feast is spread in the ancestral temple,
The place where happiness and dignity descend.
The personators of your ancestors feast and drink;—
Their happiness and dignity are at the highest point.

一to be treated as they ought to be (宜者稱是飛也); 處一得其所安也, 'to find the place in which they could happily rest;' 宗一尊, 'to be honoured;' 熏 熏一和悅貌, 'the app. of harmony and pleasure;' in which for the time they rested.

Ll. 3, 4, in all the stt., are addressed to the entertainer, i. e., in the present case, to the king, praising him for the abundance and quality of the provisions of the feast. 是一'very fragrant'(否之证而): 行,—as in II. i. V. 3;

evidently— If in 1.3, nothing more than the is by which it is ordinarily defined. If denotes long pieces of dried or preserved meat, and why the writer should have described the viands as consisting of them, I can conceive no reason but that he wanted a rhyme. He goes on to speak, in st. 4, of the feast as given in the ancestral temple, the place of dignity and honour (IF), and in st. 5, returns to the spirits as IFF or 'delicious.'

後飲。公炙厥熏。來鹽。鳧聲 製。無尸芬於。旨止公驚 有燕芬。燔酒熏尸在

The wild ducks and widgeons are in the gorge;
The personators of your ancestors rest, full of complacency.
Your fine spirits are delicious,
Your flesh, roast and broiled, is fragrant;
The personators of your ancestors feast and drink;
No troubles shall be theirs after this.

V. Këa loh,

天命天。受民令子。假*假申之。保命宜德。顯樂光。自右于人。宜顯君

Of [our] admirable, amiable, sovereign
Most illustrious is the excellent virtue.
He orders rightly the people, orders rightly the officers,
And receives his dignity from heaven,
Which protects and helps him, and [confirms] his appointment,
By repeated acts of renewal from heaven.

Ll. 5, 6 belong to the guests, 1.6 telling, or auspicing, the advantages accruing to them from being feasted by the king. 而而成, 'happiness and dignity or emolument,' are expressive of the 成一成 就, 'to honour so done to them. be complete,' or, as the 'Complete Digest' has it, 完全無與;爲 is taken in the sense of 助, 'to aid (福祿不來助其身 乎);崇-積而高大,'accumulated so as to be high and large. I have said in the introductory note that I.6 is referred by the old school to the person of the king. Thus Yen Ts'an expands it in st. 1 to TH 以福旅來成坊, 'The Spirits will come and bestow in complete degree happiness and emolument on you; meaning by the you king Ching. But 1.5 is in the 3d person, and there is no of person in the text that there is any change of person in 1. 6.

The rhymes arc—in st. 1, 涇, 寕, 淸, 馨, 成, cat. 11: in 2, 沙, 宜 *, 多, 嘉, 爲 , cat. 17: in 8, 渚, 處, 湑, 脯, 下, cat. 5, t. 2: in 4, 淚, 宗, 宗, 降, 崇, cat. 9: in 5, 亹*, 熏, 欣, 芬, 艱*, cat. 18.

Ode 5. Narrative. In Praise of some kind, whose virtue secured to him the favour of heaven; auspicing for him all happiness, and especially a line of distinguished posterity. Probably, the response of the personators of the departed to the previous ode. The Preface and the old school say that the king here is king Ching; but of this there is no evidence,

St. 1 is quoted in the 'Doctrine of the Mean,' XVII. 4, with 嘉 instead of 假, and so the passage appears twice in the Tso-chuen. We may conclude therefore that 嘉 is the proper reading; and L. 1 = 我可嘉可樂之君子,—as in the translation, the king under whom the piece was composed being intended by 君子. L. 2 is taken as the key-note of

- 2 [So] does he seek for the emoluments of dignity, [and obtain] all blessings,— Thousands and hundreds of thousands of descendants,
 Of reverent virtue and admirable character,
 Fit to be rulers [of States], fit to be king,
 Erring in nothing, forgetful of nothing,
 Observing and following the old statutes.
- May they manifest all self-restraint in deportment,
 And their virtuous fame be without fail!
 Without resentments, without dislikes,
 [May they] give free course to [the good among] the officers,
 Receiving blessing without limit,
 And regulating all within the four quarters [of the kingdom]!

the ode, the excellent virtue, so illustrious, being what secured the favour of Heaven. The ing what secured the favour of Heaven. evidence of the virtue appears in 1.3; 📋 is an active verb. meaning 'to order aright,' 'to do what is befitting in reference to; -as in I.i. VL, II.i.IV.8, et al. When 民 and 人 are contrasted, as here, \(\int \) denotes officers of the govt. (在位者). L.t. 禄 is here the royal dignity, with all its emoluments. And this line is amplified in the two that succeed. Ching, indeed, supposes that the king is the subject of these lines, and that they describe his dealing with his officers, -the \bigwedge of L.4. favouring them and giving them appointments; but his view has deservedly fallen into neglect. It is Heaven, no doubt, which is spoken of;-comp. st. 6 in i. II. In the 'Doctriue of the Mean,' we have 佑 for 右, showing that the meaning of the term is 'to aid.' must mean 'to confirm the appointment,' which the king already enjoyed. 申=重, 'to repeat,' i.e., to renew the appointment so that it should go down from the king to his descend-

St. 2. Choo says that II. 1, 2 contain a wish that the king's descendants may be many, and II. 3—6, a wish that they may be worthy. L. 1,—comp. i. V. 1. The meaning is that the way in which the king sought for his dignity, by the display of illustrious virtue, was such as to bring with it all other blessings (王者干蔵 而得百福:本上交令德受 藤 而 言). I agree with Choo, after Ching, in referring 1.3 and those that follow to the king's descendants, and not, with Yen Ts an and others, to the king himself. 穆穆is defined in the Urh-ya by 敬, 'to be reverent,' and 皇 宜 has a difft. 皇by美, 'to be admirable.' meaning from that in st. 1, and here—fit to be. 君一諸侯, 'princes of States.' The eldest son would always be king; the others would to err. rule over States. 紅=過. 由一循從, 'to observe and follow.' 'The old statutes' are the rules and laws of the ancient good kings.

St. 3 is also to be interpreted of the 子孫, or descendants of the king. L. 1. 抑抑一 as in IL vii. VI. 3. L. 2. 德音 is taken by Choo as in the translation.—a meaning of the phrase which we have often met with. Others. as Yen Ts'an, give 音 here the sense of 言語, 'words.' 秩秩.—as in Lxi. III. 3, et al.,—有

4 Regulating all, and determining each point, Giving repose to his friends,
All the princes and ministers
Will love the son of Heaven.
Not idly occupying his office,
The people will find rest in him.

VI. Kung Lëw.

倉。積 疆。場 康。居 劉。篤 · 公 廼 廼 廼 廼 廼 匪 匪 公 劉

Of generous devotion to the people was duke Lëw.
Unable to rest or take his ease [where he was],
He divided and subdivided the country into fields;
He stored up the produce in the fields and in barns;

序有常, 'orderly and permanent.' L.3 may be taken actively, as in the translation. So, Choo; but he says also that some understand it passively,—'without giving occasion for resentment or dislike.' L. 4. 儿 = 类首, 'the fellows,' or 'compeers,' meaning the various officers who might be regarded as equally deserving. The meaning of A is not quite different from that of the same phrase in last st., but we cannot translate it in the same way. Ke Pun says, '突由舊章 means—to imitate his ancestors; 率由羣匹 means—to honour the worthy.' L. 6. 深刻,—as in i.IV. 5. St. 4 continues the good wishes for the king's descendants, and, principally, for the king of the time being among his descendants. L.1. On 級對系L see i. IV. 5. I do not know well what account to give of the two Possibly, the 之綱 at the end of st. 3 may have suggested this order of the terms; but the more likely. solution of the difficulty is that the line reads as it stands, instead of 綱之紀之, the writer wishing to get 紀 as a rhyme with 友, 士, and 子, below. L.2. 那一安, 'to give repose to.' 別友, 'friends,' is used for the ministers of the court, and members of the royal family. As Choo expands ll. 1,2,一君能綱紀四方,而臣下賴之以安. Ll. 3, 4. By 百辟 are intended the feudal princes (諸侯), and by 卿士, the high ministers of the court (羣臣). 媚,—'to love;' as in i. VI. 1, et al. Ll. 5,6. 解一情, 'to be idle.' 些一息, 'to rest,' which meaning, we saw, is given to the term by many in I. iii. X. 6.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 子, 德, cat. 1, t. 8; 人, 天, 命*, 申, cat. 12, t. 1: in 2, 福*, 億, cat. 1, t. 3; 皇, 王, 忘, 章, cat. 10: in 3, 抑*, 秩, 匹, cat. 12, t. 3: 疆, 綱, cat. 10: in 4, 紀. 友*, 士,子, cat. 1, t. 2; 位, 壁, cat. 15, t. 8.

Ode 6. Narrative. The STORY OF DUKE LEW:—HOW HE MADE HIS FIRST SETTLEMENT IN PIN, BUILDING THERE, LATING OUT THE GROUND, FORMING ARMIES, ARRANGING FOR A REVENUE, TILL PIN BECAME TOO SMALL FOR ALL HIS FEOTLE. I call this the story of duke Lew, instead of legend, as in the case of How-tseih, because the events told in it are not of the same marvellous character. There probably is an element of history in those events; but, when we com-

L. S. H. and M are synonyms, signimediately in view, in distinction from the new eni won and ratical the writer has now imrere used in opposition to the the next 祺 edt it en 'aisig eidt', 氣 祺 dictionary. this meaning here, though it is not found in the look at, 'to survey,' It is necessary to give I H, 松此章補悉之 L. 2. 干 is the particle. 頒末的站方墨处以視而示 below. I agree therefore with treats of the state of chang in referring this states i.e. when Lew had deterthings in the earlier site, when Lew had determined on the removal (LX T) is a like the mined on the removal (LX X). first, nor, indeed, consistent with the progress of the settlement as described in the stanzas of the settlement as described in the stanzas plang. I agree therefore with Këang Pingbeen felt that II. 3 and 4 were hardly predicable at of the numbers and condition of the people at state of things on the arrival in Pin; but it has St. 2 is generally taken as descriptive of the the march. tion, but larger. L. 9. 罢一扶 是, hereon, axe!, HE = The a weapon of the same descripettie, 'an axe,' i. e., in the connection, 'a battle , peing prepared, ' being made ready, L. 9. H 10 seass out end 張 tant oron nialy srow Uite Initive mood. L. S. See on H. vil. VI. I. It is -ni edt 10 '01' ruo andt orom on ern H ban in the dict. as 'a hill like a boiler;' i. e., accordread By, and the word is accordingly defined tops. Lub Tih-ming says that some copies descendit, udi erant incolæ. deerant qui montium verticem incolerents in valles version of these lines:--. Montes ascendit, nec where Lacharme found any authority for his and again was in the plains.' I cannot conceive vacended and was on the hill-tops; he descended please his people by the display. Il. 6, 7. 'He we may rather suppose that it was to attract and -: med the wild people around them; ban and the distinct work of any ti larly, it is difficult to say. The critics imagine why his doing so should be mentioned particuhe marched about in the style described, and escape the necessity of such a movement. Why on the migration, to see if he could in any way going over his old territory, before determining long. I.l. 6-10 refer to the labours of Lew in of the trouble of removal; but it did not last . some dissatisfaction among the people, because ·令玄園鄾 L. 5. There was of course from Kënng Ping-chang. He expands the 市宣肃与国副县狱—:enil He expands the given in the translation is adapted to the view grown of the value at a stanta which I have adopted I bas M do gainsom of T by the first. second verb was a consequence of what is stated If after A indicates that the action of the fying the number of the inhabitants. L. 4. The

And there were no perpetual sighings about it. He ascended to the hill-tops; He descended again to the plains. What was it that he carried at his girdle? Pieces of jade, and your gems, And his ornamented scabbard with its aword.

The peoples were numerous and eroclamation [of his continuation for his

Of generous devotion to the people was autied;
The pastons devotion to the people was settled;
The people were numerous and crowded;

õ

He tied up dried meat and grain,
In bottomless bags and in sacks;—
That he might hold [the people] together, and glorify [his tribe].
Then with bows and arrows all ready,
With shields and spears, and axes, large and small,
He commenced his march.

pare what is related here of his doings and of the growth of Pin with the intimations as to the condition of the settlement and the people in the time of Tan-foo, as we have them in ode III. of the first Book, it is evident that what we have here are mainly pictures of fancy, and not the relations of history. Who shall gather out the grains of ore from the rubbish in which The composition of the they are imbedded? ode is ascribed in the Preface to duke K'ang of Shaou,—the famous Shih of the Shoo (see on V. xii., et al.). He made it, we are told, for king Ching, when he was about to undertake the duties of the govt., to admonish the young monarch, and remind him of the devotion to the people, and to the business of the people, which characterized his great ancestor.

St. 1. L. 1. — 'duke;' is the name. I suppose that the title precedes the other term, because that is the name and not the honorary epithet. The case is analogous to that of Lew was not a duke, but his descendants honoured him as such, the title of king not being carried up by the duke of Chow beyond the grandfather of Wan. I have translated by 'of generous devotion to the people,' that being the meaning given to the term here by all the critics. In itself, it — , 'generous,' 'magnanimous,' 'of large heart and mind.' Very early it was applied to Lew;—see the Shoo, V. iii. 5.

The whole stanza is descriptive of the commencement of Lew's migration into the territory of Pin. But where did he migrate from? Acc. to Maou, he was living previously in T'ae, the principality with which How-tseih, as we saw on I.5, was invested by Yaou; and was driven out of it in a time when the rule of Hea was in great disorder. This is contrary, however, to the generally received view, which I have given on the title of Book I., Pt. I. According to that, Puh-chueh, the grandfather of Lew, was obliged to fly from the Hea or Middle Kingdom of that time altogether, and take refuge among the wild tribes of the north and west. Puh-chueh again is said to have been the son of How-tseih, so that Lew was his great-grandson. This could not be, if the standard chronology is anything nearly correct in fixing the settlement of Pin in B.C. 1,796. It places K'e's investiture with T'ae in B.C. 2,276, so that from him to his greatgrandson, a period of 480 years elapsed, during which there had been the reigns of Shun, and of Yu and 16 of his descendants, besides an interregnum of 40 years. I must believe—if belief at all can be spoken of in such a case—that one of K'e's descendants had taken refuge among the uncivilized people in the west, not far from Pin, and that Lëw, one of his descendants again, came forth from among them, moving in the direction of the east, towards the end of the Hëadynasts.

dynasty. L.2,-不敢歸居, 'He did not dare to dwell at ease.' It thus appears that Lew did not change his place in consequence of any pressure from without, as Tan-foo did subsequently. It appears further, that wherever he was pre-viously, whether in T'ae, or among some tribe of the west, he was himself a considerable chief, who had advanced from the nomadic to the His movement was the agricultural condition. result, probably, of a restless and ambitious disposition, which required a larger sphere, and in which a principle of benevolence held sway. L. 3. Here and below, 延 (三乃) is used as We can hardly translate it, but it in i. I. iii. 4. 場 and 疆,—as in II. vi. VI. =our 'and so.' 3, 4; only the terms have here the force of verbs. L.4 積 (read tsze) and 倉 are in the same way used as verbs, the former term denoting stacks in the open air. L.5. 熊仁 flesh dried,' and 糧= grain prepared for use.' L. 6. The terms here are translated after the definitions of Choo. Maou makes the difference between the two articles to be simply that the toh is 'small,' and the nang 'large.' Ho K-sae says the grain was a says the grain was carried in the nang, and the other provisions in the toh fastened round the waist. For 1.7, Choo gives 思以輯和其民 人而顯光其國家, thinking hereby to keep together in harmony his people and officers, and to distinguish his State and its But such terms are too magniloquent

[The people] were numerous and crowded; He had surveyed the plain [where he was settled]; Of generous devotion to the people was duke Lëw.

In sympathy with them, he made proclamation [of his contemplated measurel,

Pieces of jade, and yoou gems, What was it that he carried at his girdle? He descended again to the plains. He ascended to the hill-tops; And there were no perpetual sighings about it.

And his ornamented scabbard with its sword.

in the dict. as 'a hill like a boiler;' i.e., accordread Ex, and the word is accordingly defined tops. Luh Tih-ming says that some copies descendit, ubi erant incolae. Alldeerant qui montium verticem incolerent; in valles version of these lines:—'Montes ascendif, nec where Lacharme found any authority for his and again was in the plains.' I cannot conceive ascended and was on the hill-tops; he descended FI. 6, 7, He please his people by the display. we may rather suppose that it was to attract and rude dress of the wild people around them;bns mean shi besilved the mean and larly, it is difficult to say. The critics imagine why his doing so should be mentioned particuhe marched about in the style described, and escape the necessity of such a movement. Why on the migration, to see if he could in any way going over his old territory, before determining long. Il. 6-10 refer to the labours of Lew in of the trouble of removal; but it did not last . some dissatisfaction among the people, because ·令玄園歠 L. 5. There was of course 帚 玄 吳 馴 县 纮─:enil He expands the from Keang Ping-chang. given in the translation is adapted to the view of the view adopted The meaning of ing and by the first. second verb was a consequence of what is stated A after # indicates that the action of the

гре шихср. The hegin, The hegin, to commence tion, but larger. L. 9. B=13 E, hereon. exe; the same descripan aze, i. e., in the connection, 'a battle being prepared, ' being made ready. L. 9. HK still more plain here that the has the sense of finitive mood. L. S. See on II. vii. VI. 1. It is and H are no more than our 'to' of the in- | tying the number of the inhabitants. L. 4. The

(5.途訴章 14.始,出 擴未尚、站、多靈、以识而、示 $\widetilde{\mathbf{x}}$) Invomoration the removal (things in the earlier site, when Lew had deterbelow. I agree theretore with account of the state of chang in referring this stanza to the state of Deen filt that IL. 8 and 4 were hardly predicable of the numbers and condition of the people at first, nor, indeed, consistent with the progress of the settlement as described in the stanza pelow. I agree therefore with Këang Ping-pelow. I agree therefore with Keang Ping-pelow. state of things on the arrival in Pin; but it has St. 2 is generally taken as descriptive of the

L. 3. III and The aynonyms, signimediately in view, in distinction from the new et.,—the old site which the writer has now imwere used in opposition to the M in the next 斯鼠, 'this plain,' as if the 期 dictionary. this meaning here, though it is not found in the look at, 'to survey.' It is necessary to give L. 2. T is the particle. 01,'脉一悬

Of generous devotion to the people was duke Lëw. He went there to [the place of] the hundred springs, And saw [around him] the wide plain. He ascended the ridge on the south, And looked at a large [level] height, A height affording space for multitudes. Here was room to dwell in; Here might booths be built for strangers; Here he told out his mind; Here he entered on deliberations.

ing to Ying-tah, 'large above and small below.' This I do not understand. L. S. 尚 is used in the sense of 常, 'to carry at the girdle.' L. 9. 瑶,—as in I. v. X. 2. L. 10. 韓 瑧,—see on II. vi. IX. 2. I can only take 容 刀 as—'containing the sword.' The more common view is that the characters—容 飾之刀, 'the ornamented sword;' but Choo also gives the other construction (謂 鞞奉之中, 容此刀耳).

St. 3 shows us duke Lëw now, certainly, in Pin, selecting the site, we can hardly say for his capital, but where he fixed his own headquarters as the chief of his tribe. Ll.2,3. Where the 'hundred springs' were has not been determined. Some refer them, I think correctly, to the pres. dis. of San-shwuy (三水) in Pin Chow. Too Yew 体抗; of the Tang dyn.) thought the name remained in the district of Pih-ts'euen of the Tang dyn.; but that would carry us away from Pin altogether to the dep. of Ping-läng (平凉), in Kan-suh. 海一大, 'large.'-Here were two requisites for forming a settlement; -- a large plain, and plenty of water. Ll.4-6. 视-見, 'to see.' 京 in l.5 must evidently have the force of a substantive, and therefore Choo explains it by 高 厉, 'a lofty height.' The first meaning of the term given in the dict. is , 'great;' the second is from the Urh-ya,—'the very highest mound or hill.' A hill would in those days be the most suitable place for a chief to take up his residence on. L.6 is difficult. Choo say! on 京 師,一高邱而衆居,'a high hill, where all could dwell.' But what can we rake of the F, which gives us the idea of - cract of comparatively level and uncultivated country? Came afterwards to have the significance of a capital city, the residence of the son of Heaven;' but that meaning of the terms was given to them from this line, and we cannot here translate-'the country about the capital.' I can only take the line as in apposition with 京 in 1.5, and suppose that it means—'a height which also afforded room for multitudes.'—The author of the 'Essence and Flower of the She' takes 京 as merely another pame for the great plain of 1.3, and supports his view by the application to it of B; but in this way there is no advance in the narrative. Ll. 7—10. 時-是:于時,'-here.' 處處-'he built places to dwell in,' i. c., for himself and his people; 族 — 'he made booths or huts for strangers,' i. c., for people of other tribes who came to join them (旅一賽旅). In illustration of this, Këang adduces a statement of Maou, that when Lew removed to Pin, eighteen States followed him!' 膏 and 諝 are distinguished as in the translation (直言日言,論難

Ğ

And taken a pig from the pen. He had sent to the herds, And they took their places on the mats and leaned on the stools. He caused mats to be spread, with stools upon them; With his officers all in dignified order, When he had found rest on the height, Of generous devotion to the people was duke Liew.

And so he gave them to eat and to drink, He poured out his spirits into calabashes;

Acknowledged by them as ruler, and honoured.

He determined the points of the heavens by means of the [His territory] being now broad and long, Of generous devotion to the people was duke Lëw.

we cannot suppose him to have entered, at such individuals among them to be their Heads. ruler, and then divided them into clans, with as if he had assumed to them all the relation of indicate something that Lëw did for his guests, In st. 4 we have an account of the feast given for cups. L. 10, upon the analogy of I. 9, would shadows; and then, ascending the ridges, 草么特而欲且臺 menen (臺瓦松而科之草 the guests are the subjects of 🛱 and state for them. I must suppose therefore that. ters; nor was the tribe in a sufficiently advanced a feast as is described, on such important mat-points (考日景以正四古). L.t. was to determine exactly the four cardinal made by the sun. The object of this operation as a verb, meaning 'to examine the shadowssouth. L. 3. 💂 (ying),—'a shadow;' here used. from east to west; है, the extent from north to L.2. A indicates the extent. arrangements. ing provision for a revenue, and some other for permanent occupation and cultivation, mak-St. 5 shows us the duke laying out his territory

T'8=用銀票, they used calabashes L.7. 4. - 'an enclosure for feeding cattle.' liams does not give this meaning of the term. place of the shepherds.' It is strange that Wil-, herda; Choo, better, by 臺林之區, the ρλ complete tense. Maou defines and stools. We must translate the past 4 implies that he himself had placed the mats ningelf for the pig, any more than the 埋 in go to., This does not imply that Lew had gone Dulter U is very clear. L. 6. 溫一部, to upon the stools. In this line the force of go up upon the mats; the fan 'to lean ot, 蒙夏-夏·g·T Tu uo 995-47 T .e.V.ir.II 992-;(脈簫) 計五季) T9II thenrselves to him in formal and dignified mantaken of his officers or principal men presenting that the force of the descriptive I. 2. 2 is as now resting (K=K) on the height. The on the chosen site. I.2 is to be taken of Lew by Löw when he took possession of his quarters

He surveyed the light and the shade,

Viewing [also] the [course of the] streams and springs.

His armies were three troops;

He measured the marshes and plains;

He fixed the revenue on the system of common cultivation of the fields:

He measured also the fields west of the hills; And the settlement of Pin became truly great.

Of generous devotion to the people was duke Lëw. Having settled in temporary lodging houses in Pin, He crossed the Wei by means of boats, And gathered whetstones and iron.

When his settlement was fixed, and all boundaries defined,

) 医,一'the dark and the bright;' meaning, probably, the lie of the country with reference to the hills. Ying-tah says, 'The country south of a hill is yang; that north of it is yin. But by broad valleys and large streams the climate differs as hot and cold, and the fields are adapted for the cultivation of different things; and there-fore he made that survey.' Lacharme has Lacharme has endeavoured to put most of this into his translation:- 'monticulam conscendit, unde in subjectas terras patebat aspectus, quas vidit alias calori solis apricas, alius calori solis minus pervias.' L.5. The object of this inspection was, it is supposed, to determine how the fields should be laid out, in what direction they should be made to lie. Choo says that he does not understand 1.6, and makes no reference to any attempts of others to explain it, showing that he considered them all to be unsatisfactory. So, indeed, they are. Eminently absurd is Maou's view that the line is descriptive of the march to Pin in three bodies, the women and children inside, guarded by the armed men against any surprise or attack. This would belong to stanza 1. I cannot understand why any mention at all should be made of armies here. Ll.7,8 go together, the measuring of the wet grounds and the plains being preparatory to the laying out of the ground. 徹田;—see Mencius, III. Pt. i. III. 6-13. The words mean to assign the fields on the principle of common (行政) labour. Choo says here, 'The fields

(武人); and each of 8 families had 100 acres for itself, leaving 100 acres for the govt., which were cultivated by the 8 families in common. The Chow system of cultivating the govt. fields by common labour took its rise from this, and the duke of Chow did no more than fully 糧 is used in the sense develope the system. L. 9. All the critics of 'taxes paid in kind.' explain 夕陽, after Maou, by 山西, 'the country lying west of a hill.' Of course this would receive the rays of the sun in the evening, while that on the east of the hill would be in the shade. Lëw, it is supposed, turned his attention to the land on the west of the hills of Pin to the land on the west of the hills of Pin, to find room for the increasing numbers of his people. L. 10. 允一信, 'truly;'

-as often.

as often. , 'great.'
St. 6 treats of the increase of the people and their territory. L. 2 seems to have reference to the first arrival in the district, when Lew made temporary lodging homes for himself and his followers (始來未定居之時). Këang, however, will have it that the line has reference to the provision made for fresh arriv-L.3.—'He crossed the Wei, making a 强 is used in this sense in the Shoo, III.i.Pt.1.70. L.4 厲 (now written with 石 at the side) — 石丘, 'a whetstone;' 我一致 end for the sake of the rhyme. The line, as ex-[= 11, to go to.' The term stands at the 東記 コンズ スト, the country beyond a river. (人民工人), and flowing east till it joins the King. stream, rising on the north-west of mount Woo a to omen out ai (obis out ta X tiv ro) 密益日代原与土利-密代 from the meaning of the term in st. 3. 10. M. here-M., all, 'multitudes;' different up that of Kwo, beginning at its mouth. Ll. 9, valley of Ilwang, and M. that of their pushing ns the idea of their occupying the two sides of the YY, to sdirecze, gives names of two valleys. valley; here=a valley. Q and M are the tlieir resources. Ll. 7, 8., III ... atream in a the increase in the number of the people and in in and i express 盟和其田融 孔·汕外居土獡)+minien-距 their dwellings; M-M, to be settled; LL 5, 6. 11 - 活, plements of agriculture. These two things are found, it is said, abundantly in the bills south of the Wei. They would want them in Pin for building their impound want them in Pin for principle in the Res. I. 雨, 面, 面, 点, 面, 如, and for their impouses (if they did build any), and they did build any (if they did build any), and they did build any (if they terms by M 📆 i but they only mean by that Both Maou and Choo define the L. II. IV. I. ni sa-, A TI Ll. 1-3, in all the stanzas. for the admonition of king Ching. tributed to the duke of Shaou, as made by him the last, and also the one that follows, are at-This piece, like THE DUTIES OF HIS POSITION. HOW MUCH MORE SHOULD A SOVEREIGN FULFILL MYX DX HOMYN INGENOITY BE MADE USEFUL; Ode 7. Allusive. THE MOST UNLIKELY THINGS (II) cat. 14; 强, II *, cat. 12, t. 8.

(前, cat. 14; 糧, 陽, 深, cat. 10; in 6, 值, ,里,泉:01.1m,侧,尚,贵:au::0.1m,宗 聞*, 平*, 到*, cat. 8, t. 1; (prop. cat. 7), 5, t. 2: in 4, 休 屬, 儿, 休, cat. 15, t. 2; 高, 元 ant. 10; 野 to 流流 語, cat. cat. 3). 孫 N. cat. 2: in 3, 泵, 原, cat. 14; .gord) 舟 ;+1 .tm , 魚 燗 機 宣 .* 粱 "别 光 張 湯 行 " out 10: in 3. 原 The rhymes are—in st. I. 現, 題, 倉, 課,

Le the parent of the people! [How much more should] the happy and courteous sovereign And it may be used to steam rice or millet. Draw it into one vessel and let it flow to another,

Take the pool-water from a distance;

ւրօրթ քառջլդ TIA

They went on to the country deyond the Juy. tosuop amusag nopuladod oqr su puV And pushing on up that of Kwo; (Compying both sides of the Ilwang valley, The people became numerous and prosperous,

- 2 Take the pool-water from a distance;
 Draw it into one vessel and let it flow to another,
 And it may be used to wash a [spirit-] vase.
 [How much more should] the happy and courteous sovereign
 Be the centre of attraction to the people!
- Take the pool-water from a distance;
 Draw it into one vessel and let it flow to another,
 And it may be used for all purposes of cleansing.
 [How much more should] the happy and courteous sovereign.
 Be the centre of rest to the people!

expression the rain which has flowed into pools | on the road (道上雨水流聚). and High have here the same meaning—'to lade out,' as the 'Amplification of the Meaning of the She (詩經行義) says, 酌 與挹 無 二意、蓋悒即酌也, i.e., the lading out (浥) and the pouring out (西方) indicate here the same thing. In this way 1.2 is an amplification and explanation of l. l. 洞 = 遠, 'distant,' 'from a distance.' I do not see what this specification of the pools as at a distance adds to the meaning. By 彼 and 兹, 'that and this,' we are to understand two vessels, which perform the part of filters. I have seen such an arrangement often in Chinese houses. 77 = so as to flow into (=].' Medhurst says, '挹注,—'to transfer liquids from one vessel to another.' is 'to steam rice;' specially indicating, acc. to the critics, one point in the operation,—the throwing in a fresh quantity of water, when the first has all been steamed off. is 'to steam millet.' This signification is given in the dictionary (炊黍稷日饎); and it gives a much better and simpler meaning than that of 🏨 食, to which this passage is referred. Alf ini. - 'to wash a jar;' see on I.

By 君子 is intended the 'sovereign' generally. There is a lesson in the ode for Ching, but he is not specially intended by 豈弟,-as in I.v., et al. the phrase. lines of st. 1 are quoted in the Le Ke, XXIX. 28, and enlarged on as if by Confucius, with rather a different meaning; but we there read 凱 弟, and the former term indicates, it is said, the sovereign's efforts to teach the people, and the latter, the satisfaction and repose which he gives them (凱以强教之弟以 說安之). I prefer to keep to the usual meaning of the terms in the She. 攸歸,-'he to whom the people turn,' around whom they collect. 攸堅,—'he in whom the people rest;' Æc,—as in V.4.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 館,子,母*, cat. 1, t. 2: in 2, 鹽, 歸, cat. 15, t. 1: in 3, 液*, 竖, ib., t. 3. The 茲 and the 子, in the difft. stanzas may be considered to rhyme with themselves.

8

Τ

vo uənə,y VIII.

立-

And I took occasion to give forth my notes. Rambling and singing; There was [our] happy, courteous sovereign, Came the wind whirling from the south. Into the recesses of the large mound

O happy and courteous sovereign, Full of satisfaction you rest. 'Full of spirits you ramble;

l. 3 of the king. chang, accepting Choo's view of it, as 'not to be changed,' should yet hesitate at his interpreting tive. I cannot understand how Keang Pingelements,—narrative, allusive, and metaphori-call There can be no doubt it is simply narraof the stanza, till we recognize in it all the three k'ëen thinks we cannot get at the full meaning fective assistance to his government. and courtesy encourage the resort to himself of officers able to give him good counsel and effective target such a services. into its recesses, so should the king by humility ing their lessons to him in songs. Ch'ing again took Il. I,2, as metaphorical, intimating that as the indented mound welcomed the genial wind the indented mound welcomed the find the indented the mound welcomed the genial wind by the south wind, appeared to him to introduce by the south wind, appeared to him to introduce ing their lessons to him in songs. Ch'ing again The indented mound, with its recesses penetrated king, but to superior men, the Narrative, with allusive portions. | lines as allusive, and l. 3, as referring not to the finite object:--. Alay it be given to you to...... king, and L 3 away from him. The simplest way is to look on the term as expressive of a wish in the duke's mind, without any very definite object. odi ot 関類 gairieler in tall ea tast os virean soudject for (B; but it is not, to my mind, There is a difficulty, on Choo's view, to find a 高北山·意文颜自图如耳道2 風発輸業育一:(.nyb gnik :泉縣) followed the definitions of Tsow Ts'euen wide, large, and elegant, I have 所太閩 yd amret two terms by 閩 大 閩 mous, or nearly so. Choo explains them to-St. 2. # A and B must be synony-

> L. II. iii. II. ni es—,阳 schools will appear in the notes. for, its continuance. The difft views of the in his prosperity, and his auspice of, and wishes an old statesman in his young sovereign, his joy wery doubtful; and I see only the complacency of myself the admonitory element in the piece is ode, like the two that precede, to the duke of Shaou, for the admonition of king Ching; but there his agreement with them ends. To the statement of the Preface, which assigns the ggrees with Maou and his school in accepting NUMBER OF HIS ADMIRABLE OFFICERS. Сроо HIM' ON THE HAPPINESS OF HIS PEOPLE, AND THE CONGRATULATING HIM, IN ORDER TO ADMONISH CHING, DESIRING FOR HIM LONG PROSPERITY, AND ADDRESSED BY THE DUKE OF SHAOU TO KING stanza is marrative. Maou took the first two breezy height, and entering into the spirit of the young monarch's delight, he responded to his song with one of his own. On this view the take the opportunity. The duke, we are to suppose, was walking with the king on some (县 濕 The M- and thereupon; -. I 其出文 (属出 Libe notes of a song (原出) of himself. Fig. 'to set forth.' The term, we have seen, is used of the marshalling of troops; here it is applied to the giving out or In l. 5, the writer, i. e., the duke of Shaou, speaks X = 是,—as in Ode IV., et al. to the king. 8,-as in the prec. ode; and # 7 referring v. VIII. I, et al. The some merely 's whirling wind,' not 's whirlwind.' Its coming trom the south indicates its genial nature. L. 'a bend,' or recess in the hill.

PART III.

May you fulfill your years, And end them like your ancestors!

- 3 'Your territory is great and glorious, And perfectly secure. O happy and courteous sovereign, May you fulfill your years, As the host of all the Spirits!
- 4 'You have received the appointment long-acknowledged, With peace around your happiness and dignity. O happy and courteous sovereign, May you fulfill your years, With pure happiness your constant possession!

This is the view of Yaou Shun-muh (如 第 牧; Ming dyn.):-天保三俾爾,是 三俾爾是人所 注望皆忠臣望君之辭 the T'een-paou (II.i. VI.) (里 窗 occurs thrice, with reference to Heaven as the Giver; here we have the same characters also occurring thrice, as expressive of human expectation:—both the desire of a faithful minister for his sovereign. 崩一終, 'to complete,' 'to fulfill.' Both Maou and Choo take in the sense of fin, 'the appointed time,' or 'life.' Others will have it to mean the whole of the nature, as formed 先公,—'the former dukes;' but for virtue. evidently all the king's ancestors, both the early dukes and the later kings, are intended. 面一派, 'end.' They had a good and famous end. Such might the king have!

St. 3. + = 'the country and all in it,'
—lit., the country with its roofs or shelter.

W 章 一大 明,—as in the translation.

Some would read 版 for 版, and 版 章 would mean 'population tablets, or lists;' but it was hardly worth Choo's while to mention this view. In 1.2, 亦 and 乙 are both expletives. L.4— 百 神 以 爾 烏主, 'all the Spirits regarding you as their host.' Ying-tah says, 'He who possesses all under the sky sacrifices to all the Spirits, and thus the son of Heaven is, indeed, the host of them all.'

son of Heaven is, indeed, the host of them and St. 4. 長 in st. 1 describes the appointment of Heaven to the sovereignty of the kingdom as long vested in the princes of Chow. 书, and 問 in l. 5, both—漏, 'happiness.' The throne had come to Ching with abounding tranquillity (康一大 平 無 事); and the speaker wishes in l. 5 that he might always possess it in the same condition (常 享此太平之 dattern. 八里前, the four quarters take you as their in 1.3 = 'fitted thereby to.'... L.5 = M = 8.1 ni 有獨有孝ure to be construed. The serve to you for reliance.' Similarly 有翼, 可富木首, there are those who may or 体, to rely, or 'lean upon; 有油 ro of the king's 'admirable officers.' 流 tion in the verses. Ll. 1,2 give the attributes ever, so much of admonition as of congratula-St. 5. Choo says that from this stanza to the end, the piece sets forth how the happiness spoken of thus far was to be realized,—by means of wise and loyal counsellors. I do not see, how-wings. 亦乘爱止-乘於其所 miedt to banes ott erig et behaestal ern Mi .e.vi.II , coold solt ni en-, II 鳥 S tr 7, 55 see on i. IV. 5, et al. take you as their stay and regulator. All -L. 5-四方以魚綱, the four quarters I.S. of the general appreciation of them. 1.2, of the purity of their virtue (温州) (獨尊張豐) sonkrangqa olitsəlam zisht the prec, stanza. It seems to me better to take them still of those advisers. L. I speaks of St. 6. Choo and the critics of his school understand Il. 1—8 of the king,—what he was though the aid of the advisers referred to in the perfect of the course of the critics and the critics and the critics are seen to the critics and the critics are critically the critical country of the critical cri

> Loving you, the son of Heaven. Ready to be employed by you, Many are your admirable officers, O king, While they settle in their proper resting place. Rheir wings rustling,

The male and female phonix by about,

by you.

9

Through them] the four quarters [of the kingdom] are gnided O happy and courtcous sovereign, The subject of praise, the contemplation of hope.

Like a jade-mace [in its purity], full of dignity and majesty [are they], You are a pattern to the four quarters [of the kingdom]. So that, O happy and courteous sovereign, To lead you on, and act as wings to you,

Men of filial piety and of virtue, , You have helpers and supporters, ç

- 8 'The male and female phænix fly about,
 Their wings rustling,
 As they soar up to heaven.
 Many are your admirable officers, O king,
 Waiting for your commands,
 And loving the multitudes of the people.
- 'The male and female phænix give out their notes,
 On that lofty ridge.
 The dryandras grow,
 On those eastern slopes.
 They grow luxuriantly;
 And harmoniously the notes resound.
- 10 'Your carriages, O sovereign, Are many, many.

广,—as in the translation. 便,—as in II. vii. X.3. Ll. 1—3 are supposed to be allusive, serving to introduce the officers spoken of in 4-6. Of course it was all imagination about such fabulous birds making their appearance. -6. 藹藹is explained by 衆多, 'many.' 君子,王,天子 all, evidently, refer to the king. I do not see how, with 君子 thus used here, it can be taken differently elsewhere 吉人-吉士,人taking in the piece. the place of __ merely for the sake of the rhyme. Compare 🛨 🛨 in I.ii. XII.1, though the phrase is used there with a very different application. 媚一愛, 'to love.' We have met with the character in this signification repeatedly. 維君子使(or命)=維君 子之所使(所命)

St. 9 is metaphorical of the prosperity of the kingdom, or allusive, if we take it in connection Choo Shen (朱善) says with the next st. that 1.1 is metaphorical of the abundance of men of virtue and talents; l. 2, of the court; l. 3, of the worthy sovereign; and l. 4, of the brilliant time. The woo-tuny is the dryandra cordifolia, which woild be seen to the dryandra cordifolia, of which various wonders are related. The phonix, Medhurst's dictionary on 村司. it is said, will rest only on this tree. 朝陽 is the opposite of 夕陽 in VI.5. The cast catches the 'morning' beams and is then bright; the west is bright 'in the evening' with the light of the setting sun. L. 5 describes the luxuriant growth of the dryandras, and 1.6 the notes of the phonixes.

St. 10. 開一開習, 'trained and exercised;' 馬也 must have the significancy of 'fleet.' 夭

Ι

Your horses, O sovereign, Are well trained and fleet.
I have made my few verses, I have made my few your song,

IX. Min laou.

The people indeed are heavily burdened,
But perhaps a little ease may be got for them.
Let us cherish this centre of the kingdom,
To secure the repose of the four quarters of it.
Let us give no indulgence to the wily and obsequious,
In order to make the unconscientious careful,
And to repress robbers and oppressors,
Who have no fear of the clear will [of Heaven].
Then let us show kindness to those who are distant,
And help those who are near;—
And help those who are near;—
And help those who are near;—
Thus establishing [the throne of] our king.

have been addressed directly to the king. Erithe piece; but he says that it cannot be said to Unoo agrees with the Preface as to the date of Odes of the Kingdom, Degenerate (郵大源): assigned the next ode and the first five of the 3d Book. This then is the first of the 'Alajor era oala emit ezon'v ot-(王 萬 陳) e.I. further says that he made it to reprehend king whom the three preceding odes are ascribed. It (A B A), a descendant of duke K'ang, to composition of the piece to duke Muh of Shaou, PRETAILING MISERY. The Preface assigns the ING PARASITES, WHO WERE THE CAUSE OF THE PUT AWAY THE PARTIES, ESPECIALLY FLATTER-EFFECT A REFORMATION IN THE CAPITAL, AND CALLS UPON HIS FELLOWS TO JOIN WITH HIM TO AND SUFFERING, SOME OFFICER OF DISTINCTION Ги у тиле ов різокрев Ode. 9. Marrative.

- 2 The people indeed are heavily burdened,
 But perhaps a little rest may be got for them.
 Let us cherish this centre of the kingdom,
 And make it a gathering-place for the people.
 Let us give no indulgence to the wily and obsequious,
 In order to make the noisy braggarts careful,
 And to repress robbers and oppressors;—
 So the people shall not have such sorrow.
 Do not cast away your [former] service,
 But secure the quiet of the king.
- 3 The people indeed are heavily burdened,
 But perhaps a little relief may be got for them.
 Let us cherish this capital,
 To secure the repose of the States in the four quarters.
 Let us give no indulgence to the wily and obsequious,
 To make careful those who set no limit to themselves,
 And to repress robbers and oppressors,
 Not allowing them to act out their evil.

dently it was written by a minister for one or more of his associates; and the reprehending of the king is an idea needlessly tacked on to it.

Il. 1, 2, in all the stt. Ferhaps 亦, as well as 上, should be treated as a mere expletive; I have ventured to translate 亦 by 'indeed,' on the authority of Këang, who says that it is here 主。 一年, wearied and worn out.' is defined by 表, 元, 元, and 即, giving us the ideas of 'perhaps,' 'nearly' with the faint intimation of a wish or half-hope that the thing could be done. 原, 休, 起, 息, and 安, are all closely allied in meaning,—as in the translation. The 'Complete Digest,' in the first stanza gives:—彼中外之民,其勞甚矣,今雖未能遽躋于咸亨之域。庶幾其可以小康矣.

Ll. 3, 4. 惠,—'to show kindness to.' By 中國 is not intended 'the middle State,' but 京師, 'the capital,' or centre of the kingdom, which, indeed, takes its place in st. 3. 四方

Then let us be reverently careful of our demeanour, Then let us be reverently careful of our demeanour,

The people indeed are heavily burdened,
But perhaps a little repose may be got for them.
Let us cherish this centre of the kingdom,
That the sorrow of the people may be dispelled.
In order to make the multitudes of the evil careful,
And to repress robbers and oppressors,
So that the right shall not be overthrown.
Though you may be [but as] little children,
Your work is vast and great.

The people indeed are heavily burdened,
But perhaps a little tranquillity may be got for them.
Let us cherish this centre of the kingdom,
That it may not everywhere suffer such wounds.
Let us give no indulgence to the wily and obsequious,
In order to make the parasites careful, weans all the States in the four quarters of the Lessonce and Flower of the She' has it,— kingdom (蓄夏), or the whole of the kingdom generally, not excluding the territory of

T 書

Line royal donnain. So, 回國 in st. 8, and 國 in st. 8, and 國 in st. 8, and 國 in st. 8, and 國

Li. 5, 6. All is best taken as the imperative the 5, 6. All is intended wily men, obsequiously following, is intended wily men, obsequiously following those from whom or through whom they expected to gain advantage. We must suppose that deceitful hatterers of the king were in the writer's rejew in the first instance, but the expression riew in the first instance, but the expression need not be confined to his parasites only.

Ğ

Ŧ

大是玉正無寇式諫。用安。欲反。俾虐。遇

And to repress robbers and oppressors, So that the right shall not be reversed. The king wishes to hold you as [sceptres of] jade, And therefore I thus strongly admonish you.

就, — 'to connive at,' 'to give indulgence to.' means 'to be reverent or careful;' here used in a hiphil sense, 'to make careful.' definition of it in the dict. is 嚴禁, 'sternly to repress,' which would suit very well here. Choo explains it, much in the same way, by 無良一無良心之人, 'men without conscience;'—those parasites and others. They are described in st. 2 as 悍 娰, which Maou explains by 大亂, 'men guilty of great disorders,' and Choo, after Ching, by 謹 謹, 'braggadocios.' In st. 3, they are 图 極, 'nieu who set no limits to their evil conduct;' in 4, the ᇍ萬, 'the crowd of the furiously wicked; and in 5, the 繼之. These last terms mean 'inseparably connected,' and are to be understood of men who attached themselves with parasitic clinging to their ruler (人) 之固結其君者

Ll. 7,8, are a further effect to follow from the course recommended in 1.5, and 📆 may have its meaning of) = 1, 'to,' 'and thereby.' The same parties are here described as 'robbers and oppressors,' and they are exhibited, in L8 of st.1, as being without any awe of 'what is clear,' i. e., the will of Heaven as to human duty. 一窗, as in II.iv.VII.1,IX.3. Choo explains 明 by 天之明命. In stt. 2, 3, 5, 1.8, the 無 is not imperative, but, = 'so as not to,' 'so that not.' In st. 3, 慝一惡, 'wickedness;' 作 程,- 'to act out their wickedness.' The 'Complete Digest' says:一不使其播惡於 梨. In stt. 4, 5, 正敗 is 'the right injured (敗一壞);' and 正反, 'the right reversed or overturned,'-a more serious thing, good taken for evil, and evil for good.

Ll. 9, 10 are directly to the party or parties whom the writer had in view. 菜遠 is the rule for treating foreigners or people from a distance;—see Confucius' use of the phrase in the 'Doctrine of the Mean,' XX. 12. Yen Ts'an says that by 遠 here is intended the E and the Teih (夷水), i. e., foreigners generally; and this meaning fits in very well with the relations subsisting at the time between China and the tribes about it. 河, 'the near,' will then be the people of China itself. I venture to give to file here the meaning of 河, 'to help,' 'to give ability to.' Choo explains, it by 河, 'to deal with them according to sympathy.'

In st. 2, the 'service' would be that of the ministers addressed, and of their fathers and Choo takes 休 in 1.10 as =美; ancestors. but I do not see why we should depart from the In st. 3, 以近 meaning of the term in 1.2. 有德,- 'to approach the virtuous,' i.e., to cultivate association with them. In st. 4, 戎= // 'you.' I cannot construe it, as Maou does, with the meaning of 大, 'great.' 小子, -'a little child; but the expression is common in the Shoo, used by the king of himself, and applied by him to ministers and princes whom he is addressing. It does not necessarily imply Confucius used to address his disciples youth. by it. A must here have the full meaning of Ħ, 'to use,' = the service you do. -- 'to count precious,' 'to make much of.'

The rhymes are—in st.1, 康, 方, 良, 明, 王, cat. 10: in 2, 休, 述, 怓 (prop. cat. 5), 憂, 休, cat. 3, t.1: in 3, 息, 國, 極, 慝, 德, cat. 1, t.3: in 4, 惕, 泄, 厖, 敗, 大, cat. 15, t. 3: in 5, 安, 殘, 絡, 反, 諫, cat. 14.

`uv_cŢ \mathbf{X}

And I therefore strongly admonish you. Thus] your plans do not reach far, You have no reality in your sincerity. As there are not sages, you think you have no guidance; The plans which you form are not far-reaching. The words which you utter are not right; And the lower people are full of distress. God has reversed [His usual course of procedure], the neglect of their duties by those who should ascribed to God; but the real cause of it was in The affliction of the time might be the ode. Ll. 7,8 give the reason of the writer's composing 計號爲點而計號爲效賈 resources; they had no reality in their profesthe officers think they were left to their own L.5. But not only did Kwang-yun(開開). the bottom, on the authority of the dictionary Wang Taou would read 📴 with & at characters come to have this meaning, I cannot erring thoughts of your own minds. How the gives for it M M A You yield to the fig. , being without anything to rely on.' Ch'ing ter blacu, explains this phrase by ALL Fr advising as occurred to themselves. Choo, afas seen in the conduct of the officers, talking and indicates the consequence of this thought you think there are now no sages. Then 歌二, there are not sages; i.e., 通 = 强, connsels, or 'plans;'—as often. right, 'accordant with reason (合理), L.4. bress it now, -, you, whi a verb, -, to be appear directly till at. 3; we must, however, ex-III is the conrades of the writer, who do not anger at the renzisaness of govt., and at crimes, especially of the king. L. 3. The subject of his associates;—as both he and they believed that calamities from God were signs of His Ode 10. Marrative. An oppicer of expe- | the writer's way for all that he had to urge on Choo, however, take the characters in the sense At 1. The Urh-ya defines the bartial. Januar and to to be depreased, 'to be partial.' Initially and the partial.' officer addressing other officers on the disorder officer addressing other officers on the disorder into which public affairs had fallen. The Preface also ascribes it to the 'carl of Fan,' on which we can only say that there was a State of that mame in the royal domain, and that we find, in the Oh'un Ts'ëw, long after king Le, an earl in the Ch'un the court on a mission to Loo. Of it sent from the court on a mission to Loo. cridence requires us here also to assign it to an Preface makes this ode, like the last, one of censure addressed to king Le, but the internal унісн іт місит веви тилт Нвауви ула. Тро THEN' ESPECIALL IN THE ANGRY MOOD IN THEM, AND SETS FORTH THE DUTY REQUIRED OF HIN SHOWN BY OTHER OFFICERS, ADMONISHES COMPLAINS OF THE WANT OF SYMPATHY WITH BIERCE MODERS OVER THE PREVALLING MISERY;

the language is what I have given. It prepared God. I believe that the correct explanation of To wrong; but his meaning, perlangs, was not not but if it is any will also of Yen Te'ra, who says that the writer did not wish to blame the state of things to and therefore attributed the state of things to the state of the percent explanation of Ead distress. Actively; $= \frac{1}{12}$, 'to be in distress, 'continely; ' $= \frac{1}{12}$, 'to be in distress,' Activing could be farther from the truth than this, and that the writer well knew; but by this way of presenting the disorder and misery that prevailed, he seeks to convey his strong impression of it. Maou says that God is strong impression of it. Maou says that God is here a designation of the king, which is entirehere a designation of the king, which is entirehere a designation of the king, which is entirely wrong; but his meaning, perhaps, was not by wrong; but his meaning, perhaps, was not were, that they were the objects of his aversion. pursued by God is stated in 1.2. The lower people are His peculiar care, but it might be supposed, from the condition in which they then supposed, from the condition in which they then are the objects of the receiver. 国). The consequence of this unusual course the meaning which I have given (反其 常 of X, to reverse, to act contrary to; with

- 2 Heaven is now sending down calamities;—
 Do not be so complacent.
 Heaven is now producing such movements;—
 Do not be so indifferent.
 If your words were harmonious,
 The people would become united.
 If your words were gentle and kind,
 The people would be settled.
- Though my duties are different from yours,
 I am your fellow-servant.
 I come to advise with you,
 And you hear me with contemptuous indifference.
 My words are about the [present urgent] affairs;—
 Do not think them matter for laughter.

have been the wise advisers of the king and directors of his govt. The in 1.7 carries that line on to the next, intimating that the want of foresight in the plans was what moved the writer to give his admonition.

St. 2. L. 1. Here and below, 方 = 今, 難一降難, 'to send down calamities.' L.2. 無 然,—as in i. VII.5. 质, 'to be complacent; 'almost, 'to be joyful.' L. 3. 脉一重j, 'to be moving,' with reference to the unrest and excitement which was every-equivalent to 省省in Men. IV. Pt. i. I. 11, 12. It has the meaning of being remiss and indifferent (弛羰之意). In ll. 5-8, 之 is simply an expletive. Fix refers to the speeches-advices and plans—of the ministers. 亚二和'to be harmonious,' meaning, I suppose, if the ministers were of one accord among themselves; 怪是=

1977, 'to be of a pleasant character,' what the people would like. Some make the harmony to be accordance with reason. But the view which I have given is more natural. Yen Ts'an says:

元之以言論之間,宜相和協……庶幾合謀并智,可以措民於安耳。治合合, 'to be united;' 莫一定, 'to be settled.'

St. 3. The writer complains of the way in which he himself and his advice were treated by the other officers, and warns them against the course which they pursued. L.1. 異事, —'have a difft. service,'=不同職. L.2.

及詞,—as in II. v. V.7. 貸一官, 'an officer;' 同菜。—'official comrades:'—the writer and those whom he was addressing were all, in common, servants of the king. I.1.3, 4. 則=

就, 'to come or go to' 貴貴 expresses 'the app. of insolent self-sufficiency.' I.1. 5, 6.

服一事, meaning the urgent 'affairs' which demanded their immediate attention. Yen Ts'an prefers the meaning of 服 一行, 'to do,' so Consult the grass and frewood-gatherers. The ancients had a saying:-

Till they are beyond help or remedy. But the troubles will multiply like tlames, But you make a joke of what is sad. It is not that my words are those of age, But you, my juniors, are full of pride. An old man, [I speak] with entire sincerity; Do not in such a way make a mock of things. Hearen is now exercising oppression;—

Utterly departing from all propriety of demeanour, Do not be either boastful or flattering, Heaven is now displaying its anger;—

L. I. WE = 12, 'to be angry.' Maou are beyond the reach of medicine." L. 8=' Cannot be cured, "Buizold od ot, "Aid rows which were so abounding. tound in the A. 6.—the troubles and sor-Ll. 7, 8. The subject of these lines is to be take what is sad to be matter of insolent jest." M = M, to take to be, -. You na often.

any whose behaviour the writer meant to speak ·8.1 (玄娜晉號以 It is difficult to and lias been followed by Yen Ts'an (🄥 acters its own meaning,—as in the translation, this definition, subjoins, in illustration, the phrase in the text with the above explanation of it. Choo therefore gave to each of the charantent of it. T, 'great;' although the dict., after giving But this does not suit the A which means meaning, apparently, 'to present a soft and obsequious appearance to others,' Such is the meaning of the characters given in the Urh-ya. explains 杏 眦 together by 體 素 haughty guit. Id. 6, 6. E.—"it is not that"...; to raise the feet high in walking,"-to have a 副 , the app. of being proud. In means si 粉 粉 the prec. ode. They might not be what we call other officers who were A +, as in st. 4 of insolent way; and the repetition of the charac-ter expresses the app, of doing this, or ex-presses the action of the verb emphatically. an ni lo droge sport of in an form of the character. The man is defined by That was probably the original text,—in the old explained by KK KK, 'the app. of being sincere.' young, but they were his juniors. himself as an old fellow, in contrast with the Il. 8, 4. 2 ti e the writer's designation of

to be taken into account by his comrades. persons in such mean employments were to be consulted, surely theadvice of the writer deserved nonce. 如誓誓,—as 如 慧 其, in Moncius, I. Pt. II. ii. 2. If ancient worthies thought that

v. I. 4, meaning ancient men of worth and emi-De carried into effect. Ll. 7, 8. A. E., -ns in II.

that the line='bly words are practical,'-may

L. 2.

3F 4F

Till good men are reduced to personators of the dead.

The people now sigh and groan,

And we dare not examine [into the causes of their trouble].

The ruin and disorder are exhausting all their means of living,
And we show no kindness to our multitudes.

Heaven enlightens the people,
As the bamboo flute responds to the porcelain whistle;
As two half maces form a whole one;
As you take a thing, and bring it away in your hand,
Bringing it away without any more ado.
The enlightenment of the people is very easy.
They have [now] many perversities;—
Do not you set up your perversity [before them].

of here. Yen Ts'an refers it to the behaviour ! of all classes of the people (衆人之威 霵). In l.4, 載 is the particle, having, however, a faint meaning, as a sort of copula. Good men reduced to the semblance of personators of the dead were good for nothing, could only eat and drink. L.5. All the critics follow the Urh-ya in explaining tëen-he by philip, as in the translation. The Shwoh-wan quotes the line as and P, with I at the side. L. 6. The 我, which is the subject of 敢 (the adv. 莫 standing before it according to a common usage with negatives), must be taken of the writer and the officers he was admonishing,—of the ministers of the king generally. 支 is used for 揆,—as in II.vii. VIII.5. L. 7. Choo takes 資 as i. q. 容, 'ah!' ·alas!;' but this seems to me a most unnatural construction; nor is there any necessity for it. 'necessaries,' the means of living; | 夜 (一無) 否, the want of, or the extinction of, the necessaries of life. In l. 8, [17] = 17, meaning the multitudes of the people. The writer calls them 'our multitudes,' to indicate the claim which they had on the superior classes.

which they had on the superior classes. St. 6 seems to say that Heaven had so attuned the mind to virtue, that if good example were set before the people, they would certainly and readily follow it. L. 1. III, 'a window,' or 'an opening in a wall,' is here used as a verb, —'to enlighten,'—to let light into the mind as surely as a window lets light into a house. L.2. 壎 and 篪,—see on H.v. V. 7. These two instruments were played together; and when the whistle gave the note, the flute immediately took it up. So would the people respond to the presentation to them of what was right. L. 3. The chang, we have seen was a half mace. Two chang, put together, would form a kwei, or a whole mace. As surely might the people be brought into accord with what was right. L.4. You take a thing, and bring it away in your hand;—there is no difficulty. As easily might the people be led. On the analogy of 11.2,3 what is denoted by is must be consequent on what is denoted by IX; hence those critics are wrong who find two illustrations in the line, like Yen Ts'an (如往取物之必得 如手攜物之必從). L.5 sets

Good men are a fence;

We must not let him solitary be consumed with terrors. We must not let the fortified wall get destroyed; The circle of [the king's] Relatives is a fortified wall. The cherishing of virtue secures repose; Great Families are buttresses; Great States are screens; The multitudes of the people are a wall;

Great Heaven is intelligent, And presume not to drive about [at your pleasure]. Revere the changing moods of Heaven, And presume not to make sport or be idle. Revere the anger of Heaven,

And is with you in your wanderings and indulgences. Great Heaven is clear-seeing, And is with you in all your goings.

as the dict. explains 宗 alone,—🛱 宗; but in i. X.4, et al. L.6. 🚼 子 is explained by Choo in as-, fig., 'all of the same surname,' fig. Houses (Wang Can-shih). The dict. explains the character with reference to this passage, by the strong Clans (Choo), or E S, the great to the royal domain. L. A. 未最高的 to the States, which were supposed to serve as 'screens' fied wall. L.S. A F are the great feudal of the people. IH. and i but not a fortimultitudes,'= # = # = # the multitude "ithone anything more; i.e., no addi-不一飜, 'a fence. L. 2. 大師, 'the great his account of the character the same as Maou's. 褦

the 📻 must here be taken of those of the same

大 Builde, 'great,' adding , 清 king's ministers. L. l. Maou explains My as in the translation—counsel given to all the general view of the ode, IIII amust be taken great truths, which should lie at the basis of tar-reaching plans. In harmony with our scent to be what the writer considered to be The statements here made would 7 7S go vor. 是一部, 'Perversity, 無一部, 'RMO[[O] their superiors, the lesson in Il. 7,8 naturally they yielding so readily to the impression of enlightenment of the people being thus easy, tional effort is required (無 所 些).

accomplished. The 🖂 is the particle.

surname as the king, and the phrase has the 抗一'the fortified meaning in the translation. wall surrounding a city.' Those six lines are plainly coordinate; and I cannot conceive why many of the critics separate 5 and 6 from the others; -- especially strange seems the view advocated by Këang, that F denotes the king himself. The overthrow of the wall in 1.7 must be extended to the ruin of all the other bulwarks of the throne. If the king were so left alone, every calamity which he could fear would come This, I conceive, is the meaning of upon him, 取一the descriptive 直. 1. 8.

St. 8 sends home all that precedes by impressing it on the officers that they were always subject to the inspection of Heaven. L. 2. Solution of the copula; If and I both mean 'bright;'

=intelligent. In II. 6, 8, 及爾,—as in st. 3:
here,—天及爾, 'Heaven and you.' 王—往; 出王—出入往來, 'goes out and in, goes and comes. 衍一溢, 'to overflow;' nearly—our 'to be dissipated.'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 板, 輝*, 然, 遠, 管, 夏, 遠, 諫, cat. 14: in 2, 難, 憲, ib.; 蹶, 泄, cat. 15, t. 3; 峄, 冷*, cat. 7, t. 3; 懌*, 莫, cat. 5, t. 8: in 3, 僚, 嚣, 笑, 薨, cat. 2: in 4, 虐*, 謔*, 蹻*, 策, 鸿.: in 5, 濟, 毗, 光, 尸, 屎, 葵, 箭, cat. 16, t. 1: 命, 為, 辟, 辟, 远, t. 8: in 7, 藩, 垣, 翰, cat. 14; 屏, 运, t. 8: in 7, 藩, 垣, 翰, cat. 14; 屏, 运, 城, cat. 11; 壞, 畏, cat. 15, t. 1: in 8, 怒, 豫, cat. 5, t. 2; 淪*, 驅*, cat. 4, t. 1; 明*, 王, cat. 10; 旦, 行, cat. 14.

.panT .I

How wast is God,

The ruler of men below!

How arrayed in terrors is God,

With many things irregular in His ordinations!

Heaven gave birth to the multitudes of the people,

But the nature it confers is not to be depended on.

All are [good] at first,

But few prove themselves to be so at the last.

south from which he did not return; king Mulh, who drove about in his chariot wishing to go over all under the sky; king Kung, who extinguished the State of Meih; king E, who smote the dog-Jung; and king E, who charged the corns of audience. These four kings were all chargeable with a loss of virtue, but the consequences of their conduct were not any great detriment to the royal House. When king Le, however, came to the throne, by his violent oppressions, his neglect of good men, his employment of mean creatures, his disannulling the old statutes and laws, his disannulling the old statutes and laws, his disannulling the old statutes of his will, the dynasty was brought into imminent peril; and this into imminent peril; and this is disannulling the old into imminent peril; and this stantents.

St. I. The object of this stanza seems to be object of this stanza seems to be object of this stanza seems to show that whatever miseries might prevail, and be ignorantly ascribed to the Supreme Ruler, they were in reality owing to men's not fulfilling the law of Heaven inscribed on their hearts; and this general statement is preliminary to the particular case of king Le, as set forth in the particular case of king Le, as set forth in the particular case of king Le, as set forth in the particular case of king Le, as set forth in the harden's view of the stanza was that by God king. Le really was intended; and so the writer, while biasphening the king. It is not necessary to blasphening the king. It is not necessary to blasphening the king. It is not necessary to the will; for even the critics of his own school, such tail; for even the critics of his own school, such as Yen and Légang, have abandoned it in whole or in part.

Title of the Book. The Decade of Tang; Book III. of Part III. But though this Book is called a decade III. But though this Book is called a decade Iike the others, it really contains eleven odes. The critics say nothing, so far as I know, on the anomaly. It only shows that the division of the last three Parts into Decades was a device of the last three Parts into Decades was a device of the last three parts into Decades was a device of the last three parts into Decades was a device of the last three parts into Decades was a deviced the last three parts into Decades was a deviced the Inst three parts into Decades was a deviced the last three parts into Decades was a deviced the Cambridge.

Τ

To Confucius.

Ode I. Martative. Warrator and elementation of the countries.

To king Le on the issues of the countries and in the countries are the indication of the countries are the indication of the countries of the structure of the of countries of the structure of the of countries of the other of countries of the other of countries of the other of countries of the countrie

Alas! you [sovereign of] Yin shang,
That you should have such violently oppressive ministers,
That you should have such extortionate exactors,
That you should have them in offices,
That you should have them in the conduct of affairs!
Heaven made them with their insolent dispositions,
But it is you who employ them, and give them strength.'

3 King Wăn said, 'Alas! Alas! you [sovereign of] Yin-shang,

Ll. 1,2. 源 寫 give the idea of greatness; or vastness(廣大之貌)。辟一君,'ruler.' h,--'the lower people;' but in such passages as this, the phrase is equivalent to 'the men of this lower world,' as in the translation. Ll. 3,4. 疾威,—as in II.iv.X. 1, et al. If God were, indeed, the ruler of this world, how was it that He could ever appear in His government, as if arrayed with terrors? This is the question to which we have the writer's answer in 腔,—as in st. 6 of last ode,— []. ll.5—8. must be taken of the acts of the king, considered as done under the ordering of God; or we may refer it, more generally, to the evil do-ings that everywhere abounded, with the same reference. Yen Ts'an says, 疾威者王所 爲,而天實命之. 11.5,6.烝-泉, 'all,' 'the multitudes of.' in must here be taken of the nature conferred by Heaven,—as in the commencing words of the 'Doctrine of the Mean,'-天命之謂性. 'to be believed,' 'to be trusted.' Ll. 7,8. , 'not, or none, but,' = every one, all. 'All have the beginning; i. e., all men have at first the good nature conferred by Heaven. L. 8 = 'But few are able to have the end,' i. s., to preserve the same good nature to the last. Yen Ts'an says, 'In their beginning all are good, but in the end few are good. Men do violence to, and abandon, themselves;—it is not Heaven that makes them do so.' I need not enter here into any argument on these incautious utterunces.

St.2. Ll. 1,2. 本一達, 'alas!' 腹高,—as in i.II. 2, et al. By 'you, Yin-shang,' is intended Show or Chow, the last sovereign of the Yin or Shang dynasty. Ll. 3-6. The force of the is, I think, given exactly in the translation. Këang makes it equivalent to a question,—何乃有是人,何乃用 是人, 'How is it that you have and employ these men?' 彊 禦,—lit., 'strong opponents,' meaning violent oppressors (暴虐之臣). 若克,—as in Men. VI. Pt.ii. VII. 2. The Urhyaexplains the phrase by 聚斂, 'tax-gatherers.' It is difficult to fix the meaning of the 克. Perhaps, the two characters, as I have said in Mencius, — 'grasping and able.' 服 = 事, 'affairs;'在服一'in the conduct of affairs.' L. 7. A, 'waters overflowing,' gives us the idea of the insolence of the men; and 德 has the general signification of 'conduct or disposition.' The dict. quotes the pass. under A. The whole line=天降是滔慢凶德之 , 'Heavon sent down these men of evil character, so insolent.' L.8 與一使之居位, 'put them into office.' 力 is used as a verb,= 'to give strength to.' 是一貫, with little more meaning than our , and indeed.' St. 3. Ll. 3-6. 而 - 汝, 'you.' 秉, 'to hold fast;' here=用, 'to employ.' 義一善,

Fig. is the particle. Choo says that to state a such someogness of such a state of the copula-o some of the particle, with perhaps the force of by H, to be employed. It is little more than lence; irobbers. A is by some here explained sequence. -oir to ansmylolyme all sailyment of riowhole stanza. L. 5 tells how the ministers im-posed on the king, and in L 6 we have the con-So, the expression is in dericer harmony with the The High the resent. The High indicates, in my tiers of resent. The king's officers officers are the king's officers officers there is no seen that those which they indulged are that those with the contract of the contract the character of the ode. then the state of the source of the source to you about the serious is sentiment is foreign to great hat source of the source of -mm 01, 省二煤 their diese violent oppressors, with their boog beeu no I'-: senet teeq out ni R . 2012 3. I . 20 out of the lines, unless we construe, with son sed gainesan victoristies van nes ver sint The Hat you use, before L2. Only in bun: 清 sroled bootsrahm si 'tdguo' 當 A Sebie and no bae baided 'M bae ff 'sud' ·最利-是-胡·B. I. G. S. 出一是一执是 sakes of the characters being ratied for the sake tuous. Il.5,7 have the same meaning, the and yet you rourself consider them to be vir-You do many things calendated to excute enmity, 學智以自而事之點而為至 asinit IX Liswell expanded by Chooof a riolent and self-confident will. I take H 元朝课, the app. of a strong temper, i.e.; Line with 10 14, and 10 12 are defined by example. L.3. (T. Amel anotations of the St. 4 attributes the disorders to the king's own L, 'stopping,' 'coming to an end.'

·gaistuo 如龍一张、河町、雪一間 the line, which=長 件 服 制, they go on duplication of the A only serves to eke ont H. But this does not seem necessary. The rethat character,—'to curse; synonymous with

of the good class; | the read as a bear si and sith the meaning of And so you have no [good] men behind you, nor by your side. All varietingent are you of your [proper] virtue, And consider the contracting of enmities a proof of virtue. You show a strong fierce will in the centre of the kingdom, Rands-ni Y [10 ngis19702] not izalA leals, bice as W gaid

"Lithout limit, without end." Thence come oaths and curses, And [thus] robbers and thieves are in your court. They respond to you with baseless stories,

But [you employ instead] violent oppressors, who cause many You ought to employ such as are good,

L'ago.III. Za

Without any intelligence of your [proper] virtue, You have no [good] intimate adviser nor minister.

- King Wan said, 'Alas!
 Alas! you [sovereign of] Yin-shang,
 It is not Heaven that flushes your face with spirits,
 So that you follow what is evil and imitate it.
 You go wrong in all your conduct;
 You make no distinction between the light and the darkness;
 But amid clamour and shouting,
 You turn the day into night.'
 - 6 King Wan said, 'Alas!
 Alas! you [sovereign of] Yin-shang,
 [All round you] is like the noise of cicadas,
 Or like the bubbling of boiling soup.
 Affairs, great and small, are approaching to ruin;

are understood to refer to smaller officers, such as might attend on the king's person; (), 'associate') and (), to the great ministers of the govt.

St. 5 affirms more strongly that the root of all prevailing misery and disorder was in the king himself, and specifies his drunkenness.

Ll. 3, 4. Choo defines 面 by 飲酒變色, 'drinking till the colour is changed,' i. e., till the face is flushed. 不義從式 is a natural sequence of this drunkenness,一惟不義之事是從而法(or用)之. Ch'ing took l. 4 as—不宜從而法(or用)之. - that is, men who drink to excess. It is strange that Wang Taou should prefer this exegesis.

L. 5. Less, 'demeanour;'—the whole of the conduct and bearing. L. 6. The redoubled like the redoubled like, means 'without reference to,' 'without consideration of.' L. 7. —redoubled, as often, and merely the particle. L. 8. we speak of 'turning night into day.' Here the day is turned into the night. Excesses, only common in darkness, were committed openly.

Excesses, only common in darkness, were committed openly.

St. 6. Ll. 3, 4 are taken by Choo as embleming the confusion and disorder that everywhere prevailed. This is preferable to Yen Ts'an's reference of them to the drunken orgies of the prec. stauza. 瞬 we have met with already, as the cicada, or broad locust; 塘 is an insect of the same kind. 加州如美, 'like bubbling, like soup,'一加美之湖, as in the translation. The repetition of the 如, separating the Yih the same name occurs, and Kaou-tsung the Yih the same name or bis si (D.B. Buth cent. B.C.) is said to have attacked al 'srartaup tanteib' 'स्ट्रीं Vd 92brilg odt the States. What region or regions the 'de-fine States, were we cannot tell. Maou explains former expression of the kingdom at large,—all former expression of the kingdom or regions the 'de-sing States. What region or regions canning of H M and A A makes us take the ing the king as dwelling placed—above the people is inadmissible. Ll. 7, 8. The opposition -menn, 工人禺-間人ban, 工=en 間 pursue this course. Maou's construction of 用', atill', or. 计而出由一計由 मि = रि मि tant vas vam ew 10 ,eviletive Keang); (H) - 'still,' the F is merely an : 田貴) sorutaoro sid bus guid out to noitan especially in this Book.

ern etoor and that os es is chaet no ot '- Et L.S. 頭 流一500 on Ana. IV.v. S. be overturned. 10. 医第一角 18. I. 8. 用一個 16. 10. i(典順今王光) sings of former kings (先王之制典); L. 6. JH., - 'canons,' the instructions and general 点,一点ke 点 简, meaning the king of Yin. taken as an adjective, qualitying the 🎼 L.A. ed your 7 may be translation. The may be 善不北魯帝土非=8.1 .7.38 TE', to extend to:

rangus to tooldo shi sed of , & = = the difft, words of a line, which go together to connection of calling was beyond it. It is stranged to connon enough in the odes, and poetical style, common enough in the design.

The difft, words of a line, which go together to connon enough in the odes, and still everywhere prevalent in China, should have still everywhere prevalent in China, should have still everywhere prevalent in China, should have some style, common enough in the design.

The country of the arrange demonstration of the short and of this high antiquity.

BusheniY [lo ngierevos] noy legiA IsalA', bias asW gaiX

.nwordtrevo gaisd ai taminioqqs taerg ruov oz baA But you will not listen to them,

There are still the ancient statutes and laws. Although you have not old experienced men, [syav] blo and gains not using the old [ways]. It is not God that has caused this evil time, Right you [sovereign of] Yin-shang. King Wan said, Alasl snoiger nomeb ent ot shnetze bnA Indignation is rife against you here in the Middle kingdom, And still you [and your creatures] go on in this course.

害。未

"When a tree falls utterly, While its branches and leaves are yet uninjured, It must first have been uprooted." The beacon of Yin is not far-distant;— It is in the age of the [last] sovereign of Hea.'

> TT. Yih.

An outward demeanour, cautious and grave, Is an indication of the [inward] virtue. People have the saying, 'There is no wise man who is not [also] stupid.'

Ll. 4, 5 show that it is the fall of a tree which is spoken of ;- to uproot.' I do not understand Choo, when he says that the character is equivalent to 新掉. Yin has to look at; the beacon of Yin. last sovereign of Hëa was the tyrant Këeh. these two concluding lines is the moral of the ode. King Le was to look to Show as his beacon, as Show had been warned to look to Këeh.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 帝*, 辟, 帝, 辟, cat. 16, t. 3; 湛 (prop. cat. 7), 終, cat. 9: in 2, 克,服*,德,力, cat.1, t.8: in 8,類, 懟, 對, 內, cat. 15, t. 8; 视, 冤, cat. 8, t. 2: in 4, 國, 德, 德, 側, cat. 1, t. 3; 明 4, 卿 4, cat. 10: in 5, 式, 止, 晦*, cat. 1, t. 2; 呼, 夜*, cat. 5, t. 1: in 6, 蟾,羹*, 喪, 行*, 方, cat. 10: in 7, 時, 舊*, cat. 1, t. 2; 刑, 聽, 傾, cat. 11: in 8, 揭, 害, 媵, 世, cat. 15, t. 3. Also A, cat. 15, t. 1; and A, cat. 10, in stt. 2-8, rhyme with themselves.

Ode 2. Narrative excepting st. 9, which is allusive. Containing various counsels which DUKE WOO OF WEI MADE TO ADMONISH HIM-SELF, WHEN HE WAS OVER HIS NINETIETH YEAR; ESPECIALLY ON THE DUTY OF A RULER TO BE CAREFUL OF HIS OUTWARD DEMEANOUR, AND TO RECEIVE WITH DOCILITY INSTRUCTIONS DELIVER-ED TO HIM. Ode VI. of the 7th Book of last Part is also attributed, we saw, to the same duke Woo, and there is a remarkable similarity in the structure and in many of the phrases of | the two pieces. Especially do there appear in both the duty of attending to the outward deportment, and the way in which that is liable to be disordered by drunkenness. The authority for attributing this ode to duke Woo is the statement of the Preface, and an article in the 'Narratives of the States (國語,楚語, , art. 6).' The article relates how Woo, at the age of 95, insisted on all his ministers and officers being instant, in season and out of season, to admonish him on his conduct, and coucludes by saying that he made the 'warnings in the E to admonish himself (作懿戒以 目版).' The E is taken as only another name for Yih. It is added that after his death he was styled 'the Intelligent and Sage duke Woo.' One would hope that the incident related of him on the 1st ode of Bk. IV., Pt. I. is not true.

But the Preface says that the ode was made by duke Woo, not only to admonish himself, but also to reprehend king Le. Now, Woo became marquis of Wei in B. C. 811, fully 16 years after the death of Le. His rule lasted for 55 years. This ode must have been made near the close of it;—the composition therefore must be dated considerably more than half a century from Le's reign. Unless there were in it very clear indications of its referring to Le and his times, we ought not to accept the statement of the Preface. But there are no such indications. The school of Maou, coming to the study of the piece with a foregone conclusion, try, indeed, to make them out; but the whole is much more naturally explained on the view that it was simply for Woo's own admonition. It is clear to my mind that king Le was dragged into the piece to account for its place in the Ya, supposed to contain only Odes of the Kingdom.

ls from his doing violence [to his natural character]. The stupidity of the wise man Is determined by his [natural] detects. The stupidity of the ordinary man

In all quarters [of the State] men are influenced by it. What is most powerful is the being the man;-

With far-reaching plans and timely announcements, With great counsels and determinate orders, All in the four quarters of the State render obedient homage. To an upright virtuous conduct,

And with reverent care of his outward demeanour,

One will become the pattern of the people.

is nothing strong, only man.' By A we are to I. Pti. V. I. Literally, we might render-'There &c. Yen Ts'an refers to 黄 强, in Mencius, .Doctrine of the Mean, L 3,—莫見子隱, off to according to the analogy of the made public, or are required. the proper season, whenever they ought to be timely announcements, are those given out at and not varying with circumstances. mined orders, are orders based on principle, one's own person or affairs. Æ nm, 'datergreat;' great plans' are not concerned about LL5-8. 計一大: be taken as synonyms. great. II A in L. 2 and II a in L. 4 wust ward,' upright;' Choo, by TA, upright and Ll. 3, 4. Maou defines R by T istraight-fortake such an one as instructor. men to fill all the offices of govt. take 👫 🔨 , getting men, as getting proper misled by their reference of the ode to king Le. ideal,—as Choo says, 龍 杰, 'Deing able to complete his humanity,' The old school, understand 'being the man, realizing all his 莫 = sail saft 说一强 ot of etrong. in a high position, to influence others. The power of a man, playing the man out the meaning. Ar and Me have to be disregarded in making contrary to; W = the descriptive E. Both contrary, do violence, to.' III E. -, the going nere, 'to be determined by.' $\overline{\mathbb{A}}=\overline{\mathbb{A}}$, 'to go is used nearly as in Ana. XVII. xvi. of a natural ought not to become the stupid. not acknowledge the sentiment. The vise man a sort of key-note to the piece. The writer will 高高,一as in the translation. The line is 順完刑其顯自而替, 眷愚不 而哲育無一sin The line = 無有哲而 indication of the inward character. L.4. Ji noviy The demeanour is the outcome or dently it is used here in the sense which I have defined by 廉 角, 'a corner or angle, Evi-L. 2. [#] is L. I, -as in II. vii. VI. 3. St. I. The relation of the outward demeancur to invard virtue. The diffi.

- As for the circumstances of the present time,
 You are bent on error and confusion in your government.
 Your virtue is subverted;
 You are besotted by drink.
 Although you thus pursue nothing but pleasure,
 How is it you do not think of your relation to the past,
 And do not widely study the former kings,
 That you might hold fast their wise laws?
- 4 Shall not those whom great Heaven does not approve of, Surely as the waters flow from a spring, Sink down together to ruin?
 Rise early and go to bed late, Sprinkle and sweep your court-yard;—

In st. 3 the admonitions become sharp, and personal. We need not suppose that duke Woo was really guilty of the things here charged upon him; but he chose to be addressed in this style, that he might be the more put upon his guard against them. Much of the piece must be taken in the same way. Ll. 1,2. The H here occasions a good deal of difficulty, and we can hardly tell what to make of it. Yen Ts'an is the only critic, so far as I have observed, who makes the first line terminate with it, so that the meaning is-'As for the things under our present ruler, him who has now risen to the throne;'-with reference to king Le. But how could a composition written more than 50 years after Le's death speak of him as the king now? Even those of Maou's school who end the line with A interpret it of Le, unconscious of the anachronism they fall into. It might seem that by pointing as Yen Ts'an does, we get it to rhyme with IK, but the characters belong to different categories. Choo follows Ching in explaining 與 by 尚 or 專尙, 'to give honour to;' but this seems to require the construction of the lines that follow, which Ching adopts:- You give honour -i. e., office-to those

St. 4 Here again the meaning of II. 1—3 has to be brought out interrogatively.

i. III. 8, VI. 4, 5. It is defined by the therefore; but we can hardly translate it. Choo explains to by the characters—the them away. Literally the characters—those not esteem or honour. As surely as the water flows in a stream from the spring, sowould such persons sink together, under the displeasure of Heaven, to ruin.

To keep at a distance [the hordes of] the South. To be prepared for warlike action, Your bows and arrows, and [other] weapons of war;— Have in good order your chariots and horses, So as to be a pattern to the people.

To be prepared for unforeseen dangers. Be careful of your duties as a prince [of the kingdom];-Perfect what concerns your officers and people;

Be cautious of what you say;

Be reverentially careful of your outward demeanour;

In all things be mild and correct.

A flaw in a mace of white jade have given it in the translation (質 春

。產玄頹双吳郃

-nitsib as , 1

取言,一'this word;'一品取 Ana, XI. v. of the value Confucius set on Il. 7-10, in the for. I. 6. 柔=柔順, mild. See a proof that had not been foreseen, or specially provided pression for 'sudden emergencies, -dangers と 洋 底)、 L. 8 不 虞 is a common exof the kingdom, should observe (書格) menaures or rules which you, as one of the princes of the ode to king Le. 爾 秦 度 - the L. 2 should be decisive against any reference guished from Et .= 'men in office.'

cannot be remedied. - 人 印 管 流, cannot de repaired, i. e., word. 王古一'a flam, 'a defect.' 不口流

In the 'Flower and Essence of the She, however, 'to pacify,' 'to reduce to a state of order.' To esnes ent ni bootszebnu gnied yldndorg XII ·夛來強不玄動 Ten Tarm says, 由此以迅速震電方,

L. 8. 18- 18- 19, 'to keep at a distance.' As high price on virtue.' L. 6. 章=表, 'a signal.'

venery, the despising of wealth, and setting a

it includes the putting away of slander and of observed, 'seems to say nothing forcible, but yard, and what is inside of it.' 'The line,' it is трегеру: г.б. А ф от Ж. А,- тве соитеaink down; 🏲 – 👬 , together; 💹 – and Nothing can be done. But for a flaw in speech May be ground away;

BR. III. Opr II.

it is said that 🏋 has all the meaning which I Stö. L.1. Fi is defined by M and R.

Do not speak lightly;—your words are your own:—
Do not say, 'This is of little importance.'
No one can hold my tongue for me;
Words are not to be cast away.
Every word finds its answer;
Every good deed has its recompense.
If you are gracious among your friends,
And to the people, as if they were your children,
Your descendants will continue in unbroken line,
And all the people will surely be obedient to you.

7 Looked at in friendly intercourse with superior men, You make your countenance harmonious and mild;— Anxious not to do anything wrong. Looked at in your chamber,

St. 6. On the importance of being careful of one's words. L.1. We have the same characters in II.v.III.8; but the force of H 膏 is here more apparent; or, at least, they may have a meaning quite applicable here and justifiable, that does not present itself in the former passage. Yen Ts'an explains the phrase by 由之言, 'words from one's self,'-which are one's own. L.2 is to be taken with reference to the speech;—'Do not say that what you utter is of little importance.' Ll. 3,4. 逝=去, 'to go.' Words ⇒ 存, 'to hold.' once spoken go away from the utterer, and cannot be recalled. Ll. 5,6. 些 = 古, 'to be responded to;'—synonymous with 幸民. Ll.7— 10 give an illustration of what is here said. will be kindness shown both in word and The 'friends' are the ruler's ministers and great officers, with whom he was in the habit of associating. Yen Ts'an expands 1.8 into-下及庶民與其小子, but

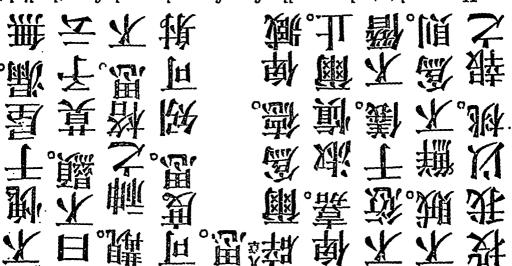

I cannot suppose that the 小子 are the children of the people, or any class different from the 庶民. Twan Ch'ang-woo (沒言武; Sung dyn.) says, 此小子止謂庶民, 'The 小子 here means nothing more than the people.' The translation shows my view of the line. 細繩,—as in Li.V.2.

St. 7. Curefulness in speech enforced by spiritual considerations. Ll. 1—3. 友君子一友 於君子,'friendly with superior men.'

monious; —as often. L. 3 gives a thought as it passes through the mind of the individual spoken of—'Am I not; —may I not be—doing what is wrong?' [] — [], 'how,' 'why.' Ll. 4,5. Being in the or 'chamber' was a very different thing from being in the society of friends, and a man might think it was not necessary to keep himself under restraint there; but the monitor requires that he should do so. All this is indicated by the []. The open court;

單二利, 'to be harmonious,' 'to make har-

8

which shines in. You ought to be equally free from shame before the light

The approaches of spiritual Beings No one can see me here.' Do not say, This place is not public;

Cannot be calculated [beforehand];

But the more should they not be slighted.

Watch well over your behaviour, Be entirely good and admirable. O prince, let your practice of virtue

And allow nothing wrong in your demeanour.

There are few who will not in such a case take you for their Committing no excess, doing nothing injurious;-

pattern.

I return to him a plum. When one throws to me a peach, to be in error, 無一無, to injure, i.e., to the 'Doctrine of the Mean, XVI. 4. ing to the connection. See Il. 8,10 quoted in 是一部, the behaviour, generally. 信一套, , you much more, or 'how much less, accord-一段 '; to be tired of ', to be tired of ; 獨一澤 mirable!, Il. 8-6. 枫一善, 'well.' Ts'an says, 'All under the sky take the lesson is you (i.e., from king Le, supposing the lesson is addressed to him), and your conduct is their pattern; you ought to make them good and adoje! A', to merante, or, cojenjute!, EP is none; Z is expletive; A is the final parti-— ∰, imperative; Щ is indicative, — 'there of E, 'a law,' 'to take the law from.' west wall, through which the light was admit-ted (日光田流入). L1.6—10. 無 1y; and yet the old school takes RE in the sense lines should ever have been construed differenthowever, with the chamber, I prefer to interpret it of the opening or window in the northdirectly addressed to Woo, and must be trans-lated, 'O ruler.' It seems strange that the ponse, Lrom the connection of the phrase here, the 律章即) oitsuppratie (甲青素), called the E in or dripping place of a short pause or half (职 網,略,如 that serves to admit the light to the rooms below, is in Chinese houses, to which several roofs converge, which receives the water from them, and gest' remarks that after sig we must make a a general force and application; but we can

所法則者 The 髌 gives to the line be injurious to virtue. L. 6=4) A A and refers to duke Woo. The 'Complete Diconduct in a ruler. Ll. 2. 除一套, 'a ruler,' the sure issue and influence of virtuous

To look for horns on a young ram Will only weary you, my son.

9 The soft and elastic wood
Can be fitted with the silken string.
The mild and the respectful man
Possesses the foundation of virtue.
There is a wise man;—
I tell him [good] words,
And he yields to them the practice of docile virtue.
There is a stupid man;—
He says on the contrary that my words are not true:—
So different are people's minds.

Oh! my son,
When you did not know what was good, and what was not good, hardly give it in a translation any other reference than to duke Woo. Ll.7—10 are illustrations of the truth insisted on, and of the absurdity of expecting the same result in any other way. L. 9 will be understood by comparing it with l. 12 in the last stanza of II. vii. VI., duke Woo's ode against drunkenness.

The fittle son,' addressed to a man of 95, is dwelt on as showing the earnestness of Woo, and his desire to be kept ever in mind of his duty.

St. 9. On deality.

St. 9. On docility in receiving good advice. Ll. 1—1. 在菜 is defined as 'soft-looking (柔彩),' and 菜, which means 'soft' has here the additional meaning of 'lasting (柔忍之本),' given to it. 其一夜, 'to cover;' here to fit with. Such wood, fitted with the string, becomes a bow,—an article of use and value; and serves with the poet to introduce the idea of the mild and humble man, who has in his qualities the capacity of becoming truly virtuous. Ll. 5—10. The 其 and the 景 of st. 1 reappear. Both Maou and Choo understand the 話言 of the 'good words of antiquity; -which does not appear to be necessary. L.7 is construed by the critics as—順其德 而行之, 'acts in accordance with the virtue [in the words], and practises it.' I prefer the meaning which I have given in the translation,—that the 順德 is the wise man's own docile virtue. L. 10 appears to be a reflection on the two cases which have just been stated. As Choo puts it,一言人心不 同、愚智相越之遠也· This is much more natural and simple than to hear in it a remark of the stupid man:- You think so, but other people may have a different opinion. As Yen Ts'an has it,一人各有意見 何得以汝所見爲是

St. 10. If people will not learn, it is in consequence of their self-sufficiency. What is excusable in a child may justly be required from a grown man who has been well taught. L. 1. (read woo)

But I held you by the ears. Not conly] did I charge you face to face, But I showed the difference by appealing to affairs, Not [only] did I lead you on by the hand, DECADE OF TANG.

Although you have held a son in your arms. If people are not self-sufficient, And still perhaps you do not know,

My heart is full of pain. When I see you so dark and stupid, And I pass my life without pleasure. Who comes [only] to a late maturity after early instruction? Great Heaven is very intelligent, II

But regarded me as troublesome, You would not consider me your teacher, And you listened to me with contempt I taught you with assiduous repetition, which it; the individual were given; or, which I hastructions were given; it it indifferent ways and sappose you say; or which I hastructions were given; it is indifferent ways. expresses the dark, and unintelligent, , intelligent, 'clear-seeing,' "阳一湖" St. 11. The lamentation of a father over his hiquis 19% ban blo caos be lost in learning it, the E suppose, do not know, you are old, and there is no time to read the lesson rather differently: -- If still you a son of your own, you ought to know, particles, I.I. 7, 8 leave the moral in them to be supplied: "Now that you are old, and have as son of your over, you are old, and have as son of your over, you are old, and have and evell, 'right and wrong,' Li. 8—6 show us by the fand, giving him by facets illustrations of body for him, and holding him by the and round to him, and holding him by the early and lake; in the morning of life, and in its decline. 非傑, wot only.

Still perhaps you do not know;—But you are very old.

Oh! my son,
I have told you the old ways.
Hear and follow my counsels;—
Then shall you have no cause for great regret.
Heaven is now inflicting calamities,
And is destroying the State.
My illustrations are not taken from things remote;—
Great Heaven makes no mistakes.
If you go on to deteriorate in your virtue,
You will bring the people to great distress.

ence and contempt' with which they were received. II.7, S. 用意一见意, 'to consider to be;'—you do not regard my words as teaching, which you should welcome, but as an oppression inflicted on you. II.9, 10,—much as 9, 10 in last stanza, only 耄, 'an octogenarian,' or 'a nonogenarian' is a great advance from 已记了. 亦聿 cannot be translated. They simply fill out the line.

lated. They simply fill out the line.

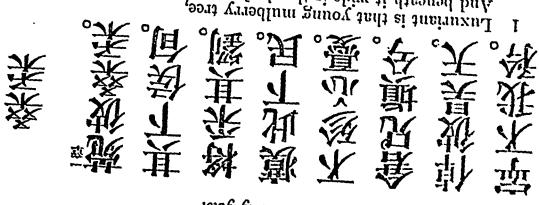

St. 12. All the previous stanzas are here enforced by a consideration of the consequences of attending to, or neglecting, the lessons given in them. L. 2.

Li is the final particle. 董章章, 'the old ways or maxims.' L. 6. 日 and 厥 can hardly be translated. The former has the force of our 'to-wit.' L. 7. The 'illustrations' are understood of the confirmation which might be adduced from instances in the past of the consequences of wrong-doing;—like the instance in the concluding lines of ode L 太一善, 'to fall into error.' 日 董一 宋 年, 'perverse and evil;' here used actively as a verb. 读 =

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 禺., 思., repeated thrice) cat. 4, t. 1; 疾 (prop. cat. 12),

戾 cat. 15, t. 3: in 2, 訓, 順, cat. 13; 告 (prop. cat. 3), 則, cat. 1, t. 3: in 3, 政, 刑, cat. 11; 酒, 紹 (prop. cat. 2), cat. 3, t. 2: in 4尚,亡,章,兵.,方,cat.10;寐,內, cat. 15, t. 8: in 5, 度, 虞, cat. 5, t. 1; 儀 *, 嘉. 磨, 爲 , cat. 17; 玷, 玷, cat. 7, t. 1: in 6, 舌, 逝, cat. 15, t. 3; 苟 (prop. cat. 4), 讐, 報, cat. 3, t. 2; 友*, 子, cat. 1, t. 2; 繩, 承, cat. 6; in 7, 頭, 愆, cat. 14;漏, 觀, cat. 4, t. 2;格*,度,射*, cat. 5, t.3: in 8, 嘉, 儀 *, cat. 17; 賊, 則, cat. 1, t. 3; 李,子, ō., t.2: in 9, 繇 基, ō., t.1; 膏, 行 (prop. cat. 10), cat. 14; 僭, 心, cat. 7, t.1: in 10, 子, 否, 事. 耳, 子, cat. 1, t.2; 盈, 成. cat.11: in 11, 昭, 樂., 惨 (prop. cat. 14; but Twan reads 燥), 貌 +, 教, 虐 *, 耄, cat.2: in 12, 子, 止, 悔 *, cat.1, t.2; 國, 忒, 德.棘, i., t.3. It will be seen that, in some of the stanzas, the versification is very irregular and defective; -more so, perhaps, than in any previous ode.

տշն նաչ III

Shouldest thou not have compassion on us? Othou bright and great Heaven, My commiscration fills [my breast]. Is an unceasing sorrow to my heart; The distress inflicted on these [multitudes of the] people, But they will pluck its leaves till it is quite destroyed. sobade off is obir it desped but Luxuriant is that young mulberry tree, suffering which so greatly distressed and de-pressed him. before the writer throughout as the cause of the medintely after Le's dethronement, and he is The ode was composed, I suppose, ini-Ode 3. Metaphorical, narrative, and allusive. Justily a translator in giving them prominence. I have used, therefore, the present tense through-

费閱悲言 40 東 11 章 44 董 4

斯真 Kuen dyn.) who says 拉十

R 章 , to come to an end. 清人

as in I. zv. II. 3; comp. also I. i. VIII. 2. 一、体 · 制is defined by 偏一"wide, 好一 -the shade afforded by it. A is the particle, the sake of the thyme. 其下, beneath it,

Derry tree. The characters are inverted for

St. 1. 1.1. 1-3, F. -ns in II. iv. VIII. 7, et al.

or rient allusions to them are too indistinct to eye, and if he had anywhere those dukes in duces, faithful in other of the thousand and to the people. I thought of translating stt.

I—6 in the past tense, and from 8 to 16 in the present; but the whole is given as if it were equally passing immediately under the writer's are and if he had anywhere those dukes in given in the translation is sufficiently un-tural and simple. It is from Hoo Yih-kwei to make of this last character; but the view Choo says that he does not himself know what dukes, faithful at once to the House of Chow Könng with a special reference to the two loyal tinued; -a meaning which it elsewhere has and much of it, after st. 7, is interpreted by the explained by M, long-conwould be composed sometime during that period; not take up his interpretation of them, nor that of 'Alutual Harmony,—an important chronologic-al era in Chinese history. The piece then side. Maon took them differently; but we need as HAU, which may, perlaps, de translated two period of their administration being known mean 'commiseration (景大関書,):'-equiwas carried on by the dukes of Shaon and Chow, dep. P'ing-yang, Shan-se. There he remained till he died in $27. In the meantime the govt. the verge of ruin. Il. 4-6. F. na in II. r. to Che (录), in the pres. Hoh-chow (電 州), flourishing kingdom which was now brought to pressions; and he only saved his life by flying ture. These three lines are metaphorical of the explained of the definenement (in effect) of Le in B. C. 841. The people then rose en masse against him, irritated by his long-continued opagainst him, irritated by his life, hy duing places the stript tree before us as in a pic-聚 it o Incernte and destroy. The 其 劉 will receive that "Village in the construction of the verbe. In st. 7 we have a fine indicated clearly enough in the statement that—'Heaven has extinguished or put an end to the king.' This is universally of 10 offset) offset) of 10 offset) of 10 offset) of 10 offset) of 10 offset) offset) of 10 offset) offse valuation of T (精多夫現故) val lo be a sensitive in an animal sensitive is to deferent and a first sensitive in the sensitive in first line of st. 12, as from the ode of Leang-foo under the lst year of duke Wan, quotes the others subsequently occur in history. Tso-she, of Juy is mentioned in the Shoo, V. xxii., and and course conservors. The piece itself says no-thing about the earl of Juy as its author; but the statement rests not only on the authority of the Preface, but also on the Tso-chuen. An earl of the living is mentioned in the Shoo, V. xxii., and ESPECIALLY HIS OPPRESSIONS AND LISTENING TO LEPRINGS THE MISCOVERNMENT OF KING L.P.,— AND DISORDER OF THE TIMES, WITH A VIEW TO Thus unit any defined your and and and

The four steeds [gallop about], eager and strong;
The tortoise-and-serpent and the falcon banners fly about.
Disorder grows, and no peace can be secured.
Every State is being ruined;
There are no black heads among the people;
All are reduced to ashes, [as it were], by calamity.
Oh! alas!
The doom of the kingdom hurries on.

3 There is nothing to arrest the doom of the kingdom; Heaven does not nourish us.
There is no place in which to stop securely; There is no place to which to go.

appeals to Heaven. 卓男貌, 'bright-looking;'— see in i. IV. 4. 第一句, 'how,' ll. 7,8, the writer makes his moan, as if he felt that it was of no use again appealing to Heaven.

St. 2. The consequences of the king's misgovernment in the wars and desolation everywhere prevailing. Ll. 1,2 give us a picture of an army on its march. L. 1,—see II. iii. III. 1. L. 2,—see II. i. VIII; 2. 有關 give 'the app. of the banners flying in the wind.' L.3 describes the effects of the constant strife. 夷=平, apparently used as a verb,—'to be pacified;' 泯 一 成, 'to be extinguished,' 'to be ruined.' 2 is used in the sense of 'black-headed,' and l. I gives a very graphic picture of the times, when the young and able-bodied of the people were slain or absent on distant expeditions, so that only old and grayheaded people were to be seen (斯時丁 壯盡行·國中之民未有黎首) Maou tries to construe 黎 in the sense of 趣, so that the line = 'The people are disordered.' Yen Ts'an takes it as - in, - The people are few.' Choo's interpretation seems to bring its own evidence with it. 具一俱, 'all.' 禍, 'calamity,' has here the force of a verb in the passive,=' to be calamitized,' if we could say so.

以此一'so as to be reduced to ashes.' In ll. 7,8, the writer makes his moan, as if he felt that it was of no use again appealing to Heaven. 有反一'alas!' 'it is deplorable.' 步 is used much as in II. viii. V. 2. It is defined here, in the same way, by 軍一'revolution,' 'doom,' 'fate.' 频一点, 'urgent.' 斯一the graphic 士.

St. 3. The same subject, with an indication of the writer's view that the misery was all owing to the king's neglect of the men who would give him peaceful counsels. L.1. 岌賌,—much as in II. xiii. X.5. Choo here construes 資 as there, ='alas!'; but still more unnaturally. writer says that 'the fate of the kingdom has nothing to rely on (國運困窮,無所 資賴). L.2. 將一養, 'to nourish.' L.3. Both Maou and Choo define 疑 here by 定 'established,' 'sure;' and it is found in the dictionary in that sense, with the pronunciation ying; though here it is commonly read as yih, which also is given in the dict. with a kindred signification. L 4. Z is the initial particle; though we might also construe it here as = 'to say.' 狙 and 往 can hardly be distinguished in

Who reared the steps of the disactisfaction, Allowing no love of strife in their hearts. Superior men are the bonds [of the social state],

I was born at an unhappy time, The grief of my heart is extreme, Which has reached the present distress?

Very urgent is the trouble on our borders. Many are the distresses I meet with; There is no quiet place of abiding. From the west to the east, To meet with the severe anger of Heaven. And I dwell on [the condition of] our territory.

sage,—more generally. Choo's view was the same, probably, as that of Ying-tah, that the writer was an officer engaged in the conduct of an exprefer to take the terms as in the former pas-Man) by E, 'dwelling,' or 'residence,' but I defines T by M, village, and T eafter Choo, indeed, here '8.IIIV ii ni an-, == + templation of it. R. A. - as in II. iv. VIII. 12. sery of the country, and his own sadness in the con-The writer continues to dwell on the mi-= H, distress, misery.

his neglect and discouragement of them.

in the kingdom, but beyond. The rude tribes HE, 'borders.' The distress not only prevailed 室 is defined by 黎 and afflicted, 'distress,' i.e., all through the kingdom. the west (where the capital was) to the east; L. 5 seems to me equivalent merely to 'from =], great, Another reading is .

thinking of home; but I do not see that we are required by anything in the verses to take such a pedition of the east, and that, in this l. 2, he is

99

AOT' IA' 8, laying the stair-steps of evil (萬一記), by vour with the king; and he is intended in H. 7, maintain order. But such men were not in iacontrae,-seeking peace and pursuing it, so as to cates the ruling principle of their character and 置宜維待國家; and 1.6 indithe gove, should have been (對政 < 計 mean the good and able men in whose hands Then T will will together, Then meaning is found in II. iv. VII. 3, where # verbal force of its own. The key to the true of the All; which, evidently, has here a distinct they both refrain from giving any explanation 平肃高个至即骪断业 Thave been the view of Choo, who says, M. king Le (清 简 事), and this seems also to princes of the States. Yen Ts'an refers it to at all on l. 5. Ch'ing understood by The the 5, 6 are hard to construe. Maou says nothing 品、(西卦和向果而,下卦云) meaning-'If we would go, where can we go to

獙

You have your counsels; you employ caution;
But the disorder grows and dismemberments ensue.
I tell you the subjects for anxiety;
I instruct you how to distinguish the orders of men.
Who can hold anything hot?
Must he not dip it [first] in water?
How can you [by your method] bring a good state of things about?
You [and your advisers] will sink together in ruin.

6 [The state of things] is like going in the teeth of the wind, Which makes one quite breathless.

Some have a mind to go forward,
But they are made to think it is of no use to do so.

were pressing on the borders; but this does not necessarily imply that the writer was serving there.

those of ability and virtue should have been placed in high positions for the conduct of afplaced in high positions fairs, and those of a difft. style, in low positions, fairs, and those of a difft. style, in low positions, fairs, and those or a difft.

In st.5 the writer addresses himself directly to the king, who is intended by the R, 'you.' We have to understand an 餟, as the subject of the 為in l. l. 胀一值, 'to be careful,' 'caution.' Some take the 1st as='to form,' 'to make,' and the 2d as=以爲, 'to take to be," to think; but they are evidently co-ordinate (王豈不謀且慎哉) The king's plans, however, were radically bad, and their 況一滋, 'to inconsequences were evil. crease; 斯 創,一斯一則, or with little more force than 而, 'and (而 國 日 削).' In ll. 3, 4 the writer says he had told the king what matters should occasion him the most anxiety, and how he could remedy the disorder prevailing only by the use of the proper men. 序爵=次序賢能之爵, 'to arrange in an orderly way the rank of the worthy and able.' Ts'aou Suy-chung says, 'Outside the royal domain were the dukes, marquises, carls, viscounts, and barons; about the court were the koo, the kuny, and all the various officers:—these had the rank. In arranging the individuals, placed in high positions for the conduct of affairs, and those of a difft. style, in low positions, simply to receive orders; those who achieved merit should have been advanced, and those who did not so, should have been dismissed. Ll. 5—8. A heated substance would only injure him who handled it incautiously; and the king's measures could only lead himself and others to ruin;—see ll. 5, 6 quoted by Mencius, IV. Pt. i. VII. 6, where the meaning is plain; but still I 近, indeed, is merely am puzzled with 1.6. the initial particle, like at in 1.8; but I have ventured to take a new view of 不以灌. Nearly all the critics suppose them to mean-without dipping the hand in water. But to dip the hands in water will not be of much service in laying hold of a heated substance; where as, if the substance be put in the water and cooled, it may then be handled. I verily believe this is the meaning; but the utmost Wang Taou will allow to it, is that it may be proposed as a The Tso-chuen, new view (可備under the 31st year of duke Scang, quotes the passage rather in accordance with my view.

St. 6. But those who might have been efficial

St. 6. But those who might have been effectual advisers and helpers to the king had been forced hopelessly to retire from the public service. Ll.1,2. is 'going against, in the teeth of, the wind.' To do so produces breathlessness

And labour like the people instead of eating [the bread of They attach themselves to husbandry,

They love this substitute for [official] emolument. Their sowing and reaping are precious to them; office].

explained so naturally.

Heaven is sending down death and disorder,

It is sending down those devourers of the grain,

I have no strength [to do anything], And think of [the Power in] the azure vault.

So that the husbandry is all in evil case.

All is in peru and going to ruin;

And has put an end to our king.

=our azure rault. The 'Flower and Essence of the concave azure, is a name for heaven, is here simply that of 'strength,' or 'ability,' Ll. 7, 8. IF M.—as in IL vi. I. 3; but the idea tion, 'one thing as connected with another.' 'all together;' S gives us the idea of 'repetibonng exclumation; --, alas; alas; -moo s—'仙 玉 gether, 'entirely.' Ll. 5, 6. "I.IIIV. vIII. II. ai 992- A 孤一號ee in U. vi. VIII. 3. living by it. had taken to husbandry would hardly find a in the wake of many others, so that those who ministers would carry that into execution. Il. 8, 4 indicate famine as another evil following according to the testament of his father; but the Le would succeed whom we had established. 我立主,一'the king things were tending. as it the writer were speaking of the issue to which tense, rather than with Yen Ts'an, in the future, taking M. vith Choo, as in the past-complete

I agree therefore in 天土金憂腐然戊斟핡無官

note that, in Il I, 2 here, there seems to be an St. 7. I have observed in the introductory = 🏬, to prize, or 'love.' for an official provision." 19,-'to be precious. on the business of husbandmen to be a substitute 以代献食, 'They put forth their strength 事玄母農戊盡-食升吳戊 happier than if they had struggled on for office. Such men, dispirited, take to be farmers, and are -3.11、(砂灰脂积音形、砂腐 ·We cannot do anything(皆便之日,世 it in the passive:-Such men are made to say, to cause. It is best to take 瀬人也 常賢人 南=進、to enter on public employment. 04, ()第二篇 equivalent to A,—meaning men of vorth (F ai 知 take service if they could do any good. opposing wind acts on men's breath; and similarly did the king's oppressive govt. act on men's minds. L. 8 is assigned to men who would -Ile, 'difficulty in breathing'). Thus a strong allusion to the easting out of king Le, and his flight to Che.

L

In no other way can L2 be

8 Here is a good and righteous ruler,
Who is looked up to by the people and by all;—
He keeps his heart, and his plans are formed on mature deliberation, Searching carefully for helpers.
There is one who has no such character,
But reckons only his own views to be good;—
He holds only to his own thoughts,

9 Look into the middle of that forest,
At the herds of deer roaming together.
[But here] friends are insincere,
And do not help one another in what is good.
People have the saying,
'To go forwards or backwards is alike impracticable.'

And causes the people to be distracted.

之降災也,蓋念穹蒼,則必求 所以挽囘天意矣.

St. 8. Two pictures;—the good and thoughtful ruler, and the wayward. Këang contends that by the good ruler here are intended the two loyal ministers,—the dukes of Shaou and Chow. But I cannot agree with him. If such had been the writer's intention, he would have indicated it more clearly. The former picture is of what king Le ought to have been; the latter, of what in 1.1 is defined by its opposite 不順; in 1.5, 惠 - 順理, 'to act in accordance with reason and principle.' In 1.3, the 'keeping the heart' is expressive of impartiality,—even justice. 宣一漏;—the plans are formed after mature consideration, and large advice. 考,- 'to examine;' with reference to the care with which he looks out for advisers ; 'III,--' to be cautious ;' with reference to the care with which he employs them. In:
1.6, 单三以篇, 'to consider, or allow, to be.' L.7, 肺腸, 'lungs and intestines;'— comp. 心腹腎腸 in the Shoo, IV.vii.
Pt. iii. 3. L. 8. 平,—as in the prec. st.

St. 9. An instance of the disorder of the times in the faithlessness of friends. L. 2 生生 represents the deer as 'numerous and moving together.' Comp. 就就in I.i.V.1. L. 3. 一不信, 'not true,' faithless.' L. 4—不相與以善道, 'They do not associate together in good ways;'—the intercourse of friends was not like the intercourse of deer. This is an instance of what is called 反果, 'allusion by contrast.' L. 6. 谷 is explained by 第, 'to be reduced to the last degree,'—to be impracticable.

OI

It is not that I could not speak [all this];-There is a stupid man;-His views and words reach to a hundred le. Here is a wise man;

How is it I was withheld by my fear? He on the contrary rejoices in his madness.

The people [in consequence] desire disorder, And he is thought of and promoted once and again. There is a hard-hearted-man, But he is not sought out nor employed. Here is a good man,

Great winds have a path;-And find enjoyment in bitter, poisonous ways.

Here is a good man, They come from the large empty valleys. 71

Whose goings will be according to his inward filthiness. There is a man unobservant of the right, Whose doings will be good.

each according to his nature. Tye dood man and the unprincipled act jurious to life; hence it is called 🛼 🚠 to find it sweet. See on Liii, VIII. S. Choo says, 'The t'oo is a bitter vegetable, whose taste is bitter, and its juice is acrid, and inpescald, 'H = Th maintained over them.

Choo says he does not understand l. 6; but is T.pe put it is really nothing more than the copula. is defined by H, 'to use,' pritth-place. There is, as it were, their the hollow valleys. May, or , path. Great winds come out from 题一類, the office, and to employ. I - I, 'to repeat.' H = H meaning to advance to נוף נמנופגי St. II. The good man and the cruel, and the consequence of the king's giving all his favour to have warned the king against them; but he was restrained by his fear of his violence. the stupid and reckless class. The writer could 察不而激 The king's advisers were of 而퉸視禿艷丝颞 foresight of the wise man. Сроо вида, 話 St. 10. The wise man and the stupid;—two classes of the king's advisers. Ll. 1,2 indicate the maintained over them.

The meaning is as in the translation.

The covetous men try to subvert their peers.
I would speak, if he would hear my words,
But I can [only] croon them over as if I were drunk.
He will not employ the good,
And on the contrary causes me [such] distress.

Ah! my friends,
Is it in ignorance that I make [this ode]?
[But it may happen] as in the case of a bird on the wing,
Which sometimes is hit and caught.
I go to do you good,
But you become the more incensed against me.

willing to accept 征 as — 行, 'to go,' — to do. If we assent to this, then there should be no difficulty with the 中. Its most natural meaning is what I have given (中 垢 者, 由 中 而 發 於 外 也). Wang Taou says there is probably an error of the text in 征. This is very likely.

St. 13. Choo says that 敗類 is equivalent to 比族 in the Shoo, L11, which we may admit. L1.3, 4 are very variously construed; but the view which I have given of them is as likely as any. 對 here is not 'to answer,' but 'to speak to,' to take the initiative. 誦言,一'to croon one's words to one's self.' Choo Kungts'een says, 無可與語,故自語其言,故自語其言,故自語其言, 語言為之獨語, 'disorder,' 'confusion.' I think the writer must be referring to his own state of mind as indicated in L4. Wang Taou, however, takes 我 as pressive of the general disorder that prevailed.

Sze-ma Ts'ëen, in his account of king Le, says that in his 30th year his chief favourite was a duke E of Yung (英克), and that Lëangfoo of Juy remonstrated with him on the ground of E's well known covetousness and greed; but without effect. It may be therefore that he is specially intended by the

St. 14. By the 'friends,' whom the writer addresses in this stanza, we are to understand the evil ministers of the king. We need no suppose that the name is ironical;—he would fair be their friend, if they would only allow him to be so. The meaning of l. 2 is, that he knew what reception his sentiments were likely to meet with. He goes on to say, in Il. 3, 4, that, notwithstanding, he might do some good:-as birds on the wing are generally missed, yet sometimes one is brought down (豈無一二或中 者乎). 蟲 is used here as - 鳥, 'a bird;' it is often employed not of insects merely, but of all living creatures. _____, _see on Ana. VII. xxvi; 七獲-射中, 'to shoot and hit.' Ll. 5, 6 are an expostulation. Z is taken as 一往, 'to go,' in consequence of the 來 in l.6. 陰 (in 3d tone),—'to afford shelter to,'=to

91

The unlimited disorder of the people is owing to those hypocrites, skilful to prevarieate. They work out the injury of the people, As if their efforts were not equal to it. The depravity of the people I'lle depravity of the people is brought about by their strenuous endeavours.

That the people are unsettled Is owing to the robbers that prey on them. Hypocritical, they say 'These men will not do;' But when their backs are turned, they show their skill in reviling [the good].

Although you say, 'We did not do this,' I have made this song about you.

in 2, 翻 : I. 3, 61 . 3ao 1. 泵 . 骤 . 页 . 3a . 2 ni :1.1,21.4m ... 符天퓆. 吳. 届:1.1,8 The rhymes are—in st. 1, 泵, 劉, 墨, cat. made this ode, and sung your conduct evad 1' 行 5 世 据 而 翡 出 扑 to acknowledge their fault. If BENava, 是不認過之前, It is a refusal other interpretations. On HE-I- Hoo Kih-kwel It is not worth the space to discuss 赛非出敌以确交自义 ovident and cannot be concealed ($\frac{1}{2}\) [nbout them]:-- I know the truth; the thing is they did not speak so; but I have made this song these men gloss themselves over, and think that On Il. 5, 6, his words are, 'But says on II. 3, 4. backs are turned from you, they show their skill in speaking evil to revile superior men.' So Choo in 1.8.— They hypocritically say that small men will not do to be in office; but when their My as in the prec. stanza. So with M St. 16. R-A, 'to settle,'-as in II. lv. X.

He approves of the latter, but manipulates it ti soteluninger 如 如 motton of and soften it with reference to the 'light, bad ways' of those 1.2; but he gives blacu's explanation of it by)[, 2, by. Choo anys he does not understand yn in meaning-to be owing to, 'to be determined tound, and which is explained by 王 and 晶, In II. 2, 6, -with the meaning which we have often St. 16. With IL 1, 5 comp. Il. 6, 6 of st. 11. trary that I came to territy you (MM=MM). told you my views, and yet you say on the conusual meaning and tone:---: I went and privately a riew of these two lines, taking mith its Choo mentions, with a measure of approbation, (口紅然乙級種間) thin (知識 Z 整成 D)! benedt (na it there were - ne the top).

the her was are construed together.

.21.11 ni sa-流[]

一些級而此用競專輩批由

lation. Tr in L. 4 is the particle intermediate.

-enart off ni en-震 风 震 工一背 著

alimself into 'hypocrites (2) alimself

亦---| 用競獅

IV. Yun han.

雲漢

1 Bright was that milky way,
Shining and revolving in the sky.
The king said, 'Oh!
What crime is chargeable on us now,
That Heaven [thus] sends down death and disorder?
Famine comes again and again.

泯, 燼, 頻, cat. 12, t. 1: in 3, 資, 疑 (prop. cat. 1), 維, 階, cat. 15, t. 1; 將, 往, 競*, 梗 *, cat. 10: in 4, 慇, 辰 , 東 (prop. cat. 9), 瘡, cat. 18; 宇, 怒, 處, 圉, cat. 5, t. 2: in 5, 1, 1, 1, 1, (prop. cat. 15), cat. 12, t.8; 削, 爵*, 濯*, 弱*, cat. 2: in 6, 風 *, 心, cat. 7, t. 1; 愛, 逮, cat. 15, t. 8; 穡食, cat. 1, t. 3; 寶 *, 好 *, cat. 3, t. 2; in 7, 王, 痒, 荒, 蒼, cat. 10; 贼, 國, 力, 腸,狂, cat. 10: in 9, 林, 譖, cat. 7, t. 1; 應, 穀, 谷, cat. 3, t. 3: in 10, 人, 人, cat 12, t. 1; 里, 喜, 能 , 忌, cat. 1, t. 2: in 11,迪,復,毒, cat. 8, t. 8: in 12,谷,榖, 垢 (prop. cat. 4), ib.: in 18, 隧, 類, 對, 醉, 悖, cat. 15, t.8: in 14, 作*, 獲*, 赫*, cat. 5, t. 8: in 15, 極, 背*, 克, 力. cat. 1, t.8: in 16, 寇 (prop. cat. 4), 可, 詈 *, 歌,

Ode 4. Narrative. King Seuen, on occasion of a great drought, expostulates with God and all the Spirits, who might be expected to succour him and his people, asks them wherefore they were contending with him, and details the measures he had taken, and was still taking, for the removal of the calamity. King Seuen does not occur by name in the ode, though it is ascribed in st. 1 to a king; and all critics accept the statement of the Preface that it was made, in admiration of Seuen, by Jing Shuh (),—a great officer, we may presume, of the court. It is mentioned in the Chun Ts-ëw, under the 5th year of duke Hwan (B. C. 706), that the king sent the son of

Jing Shuh on a mission to the court of Loo; and this, it is supposed, was the son of the writer of this ode. This is just possible; but Seuen's accession is placed in B. C. 876, and his death in B. C. 781. Jing Shuh may have been the standing appellation of the Head of the family. what year in Seuen's reign the drought occurred, and whether it extended over a series of years, we cannot ascertain. The 'Bamboo Books' refer it to the 21st year of king Le, and say that it continued on to his death in Che, and that then, on the restoration of his son (king Seuen) by the two regents, there ensued a great rain. Hwang-poo Meih refers it to the end of Seuen's reign, as a judgment for the errors into which he then fell. The standard chronology places it in B. C. 821,—Seuen's 6th year. This point must be left undetermined. As Këang says, 疏以宣王遭早早晚及早年 多少,經傳無文、當關之,是也· St. 1. Ll. 1, 2 are introductory, and must be translated in the past tense. The author would have us think of the king gazing at night on the sky, to see if there were any indications of coming rain. As there were none, he gave vent to his feelings in the verses that follow. 雲漢,—as in i. IV. 4. Ts'aou Suy-chung says, 'The appearance of the Han in the sky is like a cloud, and yet it is not a cloud;—hence it is called "The cloudy Han!" I do not think, however, the name means anything more than 'the Han in the clouds.' What the Han was on the face of the earth, that the Milky Way was in the sky. 昭一光,'bright;' 回一轉,'turning,''revolving.' Këang observes that l. 4 is not to be understood as spoken murmuringly;—the king really wished to know what offence he and his people were chargeable with. L. 6. 謎 館,一 see on II. iv. X. 1. 薦,—i. q. 荐, 'to occur repeatedly; '臻=至, 'to come.' The phraso denotes that the drought had not been of one year only (言非一歲之旱). The 學

How is it that I am not heard? Our maces and other tokens are exhausted:-There is no vietim 1 have grudged;

Its fervours become more and more tormenting. The drought is excessive;

To the [Powers] above and below I have presented my offer-I have not ceased offering pure sacrifices; From the border altars I have gone to the ancestral temple.

How-tseilt is not equal to the occasion; There is no Spirit whom I have not honoured. -: ared then buried thera:-

God does not come to us.

I have done, Yen Ts'an says, 不肯臨顧 the offerings. I prefer translating the term as it. Hence Choo explains III by 3, 'to accept who could have given the help, would not do to deliver from the drought (K 元); and God, to honour. LL 7, 8. How-tseih was not able .c. 宗-草, jade-tokens being used up. statement in the preceding stanza about the tokens. The fact that these were all buried at the conclusion of the sacrifice explains the spirits, the entables (grain and eakes), the jade-圖含王本為一部一個一個 articles used in sacrificing; as Ying-tah says, The two terms embrace all the (佳 却) (or on the altare) during the eacrifice; is the placing of the offerings on the ground sacrifice to Heaven, and / of that to the Earth. oilt to beterpreted of the Mean, XIX. 6. In l. 5, sacrificed to; a service, according to Confucius, rendered to God. See the 'Doctrine of the border altars,' at which Heaven and Earth were the ancestral temple;"-as often. 酮宗-宫-17 Hill, -as in II. vi. VIII. 4. 副 my pure sacrifices have never ceased.

St. 2. L. J. 大 玉-'is too or very exceslanguage of complaint exigency of each passage. Here again, Keang cautions the reader against finding in the line the We must not cling tenaciously, he says, to ex-plain it always in the same way, but follow the by 😿 (or 📶), and now as expressing a wish. nod is explained now by 图, now by 圃, now remarks that in occurs frequently in this ode, I' 10. ma = [11], why, or 'how.' Len Lean To be exhausted.' 'to be exhausted.' grudge,—as often. He Shoo, V. vi. an instance of the pein and kneet in sacrificing;—see on pp. 4, 8. All such symbols in the royal tressury had been used on this occasion. grudge,"-as often. into disuse, and reviving them. L. 8. 强一也 the line by referring to a custom, in times of great calamity, of sacrificing to all Spirits, oven scarching out sacrifices that had fallen to take up and sacrifice to.' Choo illustrates In l. 7 has a prognant meaning. Int.

·跳九嘗未师酆珠-s.1 ·(2 (福一器) and very violent (隆一路) Mere it denotes the fervent beat;-accumulated at the side) by E. steaming vapour. sive. L. S. The Urh-ya explains in in (with

This wasting and ruin of our country,—Would that it fell [only] on me!

3 The drought is excessive,
And I may not try to excuse myself.
I am full of terror and feel the peril,
Like the clap of thunder or the roll.
Of the remnant of Chow, among the black-haired people,
There will not be half a man left;
Nor will God from His great heaven
Exempt [even] me.
Shall we not mingle our fears together?
[The sacrifices to] my ancestors will be extinguished.

我. Li. 9, 10., 程 i. q. 耗.—'to waste,' 'to injure;' 斁一敗, 'to ruin.' 丁一當, 'to light upon.' Choo takes 茚 as in last stanza, 一何; but there seems to be an opposition between 下土. meaning the country generally, the people, and 我 躬, the king's own person. I prefer therefore taking 茚 as—'would that.' Choo himself says that such a construction is not at all unsuitable (或 日, 與 其毛斁 下土, 军 使 裁 害 當 我 身 也, 亦通). It was one of the Soos who first proposed this view.

St. 3. L. 2. Both Maou and Choo define 推by 土, 'to put away,' 'to remove;' so that the line simply says that the drought could not be removed. The significance of the term, however, is deeper than this. Its primary meaning is 'to push away;' and the king is speaking, I believe, of the responsibility for the calamity,—how he acknowledged it as resting on himself, and did not wish to put it off on any other body (不可能). Compare 工無 点, in Men. I. Pt. i. III. 5. In Il. 3, 4 the king is speaking of his own alarm, and not, as Ching says, of that of the people.

恐, 'to be afraid;' 業業一危, 'to be or to feel in peril.' L.4,—as in II. iii. IV.4. Ll.5, 6. 周餘-周家所餘之民'the people that remain of the House of Chow; referring, probably, to the way in which the country had been depopulated in the preceding 子一無右臂貌, the app. of a person who has lost the right arm;' and hence it comes to signify 'half a man.' See the remarks of Mencius on the absurdity of taking these lines literally, and the important canon which he lays down for the interpretation of the She (V. Pt. i. IV. 2). As Choo expands it, we must here bring to the interpretation our understanding of the interpretation of the standard of standing of the object of the writer, and then we perceive that the king is grieving over the drought, and does not really mean to say that there would be none of the people left. Ll. 7, 8. L otherwise than I cannot take 吴天上师 other the two Lacharme makes the two translation. Lacharme makes the two in the translation. Lacharme makes the two parts of the line in apposition:— Augustum cælum qui est summus rerum dominus et dominator. But such an apposition of the personal name and the vague designation of Heaven, especially with the epithet of 'great' attached, is to my 則 in 1.8 has mind exceedingly unnatural. the force of our 'even.' Even the king himself would not be left. The terms are not to be understood as a sort of repetition of 11.5, 6,—that the people would not be left to him. Ll. 9 10. The king turns as it were to his colleges and relaking turns, as it were, to his officers and relatives, and calls on them to sympathize with him

'The dronght is excessive, And it cannot be stopped. More fleree and flery, It is leaving me no place. My end is near;—

The many dukes and their ministers of the past Give meny dukes and their ministers of the past

O ye parents and [nearer] ancestors, I low can ye bear to see us thus?

'The drought is excessive;—
Parched are the hills, and the streams are dried.

of 'how,' it is tautological after []. have been expected. In its ordinary meaning take in, as-in, partially, 'what could not In l. 10, Yen Ts'an and some others people. refer the X H to them as the parents of the take the A MI as kings Wan and Woo, and which made Ch'ing, and after him Ying-tah, Probably it was a regard to the character of Le, state, give him any aid; but we are only to find in his words the expression of natural feeling. father, the oppressive Le, would, in his spiritroyal ancestors, nearer to him than the dukes of antiquity. He could hardly hope that his ll. 9, 10 the king turns to his parents and his services to the people and to the kingdom. of States, who had signalized themselves by take 🗟 🗘 more generally,—of all princes of Some -II) sinentraged inicial official departments (IIministers of note; -- but without avail. early period of the House's history, and their particle. LL7,8 tell us that the king had sacrificed to all the ducal lords of Chow in the Inan out ai II ();—which I do not sec.

St. 5. L. 2. Mills and streams, as scorched by the says that it must be taken not of the king ouly, meaning here, and it is understood to be a designation of death. The 'Complete Digest' ment, of Heaven in giving the throne to the occurs in I.7, meaning 'the great appoint-The suffering was unendurable. I'J' 2' C' THE HL, -'I have no place,' i. c., of shelter. It is, however, merely the initial particle. Many critics make X = $ Z, all accompanied the drought (栗 県, 東) is descriptive of the flerce blazing heat that St. t. L. 2. 俎一上, to be stopped, L. 3 sacrinces. a family or a State means the extinction of its 面之而以其其其所被他 ty which a filial Chinese can conceive (H their sacrifices would be so,—the greatest calamiancestors' deing extinguished, he means that to be extinguished. T is the particle. (平點異與財不) · $ 青千珠去 所不特张言 大楼。果脉不肋)脉 ult 10 vorol zidt critic, so far as I have observed, who points out exred bin esenteib eid ni

The demon of drought exercises his oppression, As if scattering flames and fire.

My heart is terrified with the heat;—

My sorrowing heart is as if on fire.

The many dukes and their ministers of the past

Do not hear me.

O God, from Thy great heaven,

Grant me the liberty to withdraw [into retirement]!

I struggle, and fear to go away.

How is it I am afflicted with this drought?

I cannot ascertain the cause of it.

In praying for a good year I was abundantly early;

I was not late [in sacrificing] to [the Spirits] of the four quarters and of the land.

God in the great heaven heat. Maou defines it in the same way as in last st.,一旱氣. The hills were parched, and vegetation on them withered; and the streams were dried up. Ll.3, 4. 上二旱河川, or 旱鬼, 'the demon of drought. Yingtah, from 'The Book of Spirits and Prodigies,' gives the following account of him:—'In the southern regions there is a man, two or three cubits in length, with the upper part of his body bare, and his eyes in the top of his head. He runs with the speed of the wind, and is named Poh. In whatever State he appears. there ensues a great drought.' L. 4 is descriptive of the demon's action. 上京, 'to set on fire.' Ll.5, 6. 日子, 'to be burdened with,' or 果, 'to fear.' 其, 一'to smoke,' 'to steam.'

Does not consider me.

Ll. 7, 8. Comp. the corresponding lines of last stanza. Ll. 9, 10. The king supposes that the calamity is owing to himself. As Këang expands the last line, 'If I do not satisfy the mind of Heaven, it were better to let me withdraw, and give place to one more worthy. Let not the multitudes of the people thus suffer on my account.'

St. 6. In this stanza the king ventures to expostulate with God, and to complain because of the calamity that had befallen the country, which he could in no way understand. L. 2. He had expressed a wish that he might retire from the throne; here he says that he was afraid to do so,—lest, apparently, he should thereby be leaving his post of duty. If the 'I earnestly exert myself.' Yen Ts'an says, Rain Ja Reverent to the intelligent Spirits, I ought not to be thus the object of their anger.

'The drought is excessive;—
All is dispersion, and the bonds of government are relaxed,
Reduced to extremities are the Heads of departments;
Full of distress are my chief minister,
The master of the horse, the commander of the guards,
The chief cook, and my attendants.
There is no one who has not [tried to] help [the people];
There is no one who has not [tried to] help [the people];
They have not refrained on the ground of being unable.

almost every π ord, about π bich there is any difficulty in these odes, becomes a battle-field of It is amusing how often plained in the Urh-ra. sorrowful; as if it were ##, which is so exatill the particle; 里 is defined by de, to be i Z '.o. qu doolot' up to.' Z is TT 9'10" translation. = 1 , 'to save,' 'to help.' edt ni an-i出為不上遂而·錦 不言自声端落地百岁周 expands them,一部出無有 the officers mentioned, and generally. the king's person. Il 7,8 are to be taken of taken generally for the officers who attended on ed teum $\frac{1}{2} -see on II.ir, IZ. 4. 觀、預确、愚趣、宰家 be distressed. 聂玄官熙=五眾 be reduced to extremities' IE,—as in stt. 4,5, adopt it in this place. Il. 3-6. support from the meaning given to L 7, I cannot emos savives view derives some 现票语言), first of estores of the esto -ein a. to m terpret m ou diese die-101 is very forced. I must prefer taking A meaning is thus brought out, the same Choo's, but the attempt to explain the drought, all their ordinary duties were suspend-The exigency of the exigency of the the govt. of the kingdom (相與網級 型 ministers to be his friends, with whom he directs pary meaning, saying that 'a ruler considers his ter Ching, try to explain the A in its ordi-This seems to me very likely. In the misery and confusion occasioned by the dronght, the ordinary duties of govt. were suspended, and ordinary duties of govt. Ten Tsian and others, atview of some that A tail smos to weight there is no government; and he mentions the equivalent to M M L that ME X H = Choo says that A Al is is difficult to tell. is the subject of The 'to be dispersed;' and it to be angry with. Siz rery perplexing. We ask what sider; here, = to sympathize with. If = IR, -noo ot', 20 = 顯 him as they were doing. with him, and bless him, instead of dealing with layed to offer them. Ll.7—10. As the king had thus eagerly discharged his religious duties, God and all spiritual Beings should be pleased aces of thanksgiving, and the king had not de-layed to offer them. Il.7—10. As the king moon, and stars), for a blessing on the year to follow. He had not allowed the season to go by. On l. 6, see II. vi, VII. 2. These were sacri-Honoured ones of heaven (天天) 'uns əq1pray to God for a blessing on the labours of the year, and in the let month of winter, to the what had been the king's practice. The rule The rule must be translated in the past tense. They tell As in II. iv. VII. I, et al. TT 2'e ·ces fin st. 4. 源一流, 'to distress.' had nowhere to go to (出無所之). Ll.8,4. Choo says that he was afraid to go, because he 业效应的效应的证券

I look up to the great heaven;— Why am I plunged in this sorrow?

8 'I look up to the great heaven, But its stars sparkle bright.

My great officers and excellent men,

Ye have drawn near [to Heaven] with reverence with all your powers.

Death is approaching,

But do not cast away what you have done.

You are seeking not for me only,

But to give rest to all our departments.

I look up to the great heaven;—

When shall I be favoured with repose?'

The king addresses himself to his offi-St. 8. cers, and tells them that though they might seem to have done their utmost, and in vain, they must still persevere, and concludes with a final appeal to Heaven. L. 2. E. occurred in I.ii.X., with reference to the stars, meaning 'small-like,' and 嘻嘻(三有樓) has twice occurred, onomatopoetic of the noise made by insects and bells; but neither of these usages suits the exigency of this line. Choo therefore defines the term here by 明鏡, 'bright-looking,' which may be the same, only more clearly expressed, as Maou's account of it,一衆星貌, 'the app. of all the stars.' There was nothing in the aspect of the sky to betoken rain. has been variously explained, but I content myself with giving the view of Choo, who takes officers 'had come to Heaven,' co-operating earnestly with the king in all the services and measures which he had taken to remove or abate the calamity. They had done this until there seemed nothing left which they could do more (無贏-無餘). Choo's words are—羣 臣竭其精誠 而助王以昭假 於大者已無餘矣). We must give to the meaning of 'reverently,' 'sincerely.' Ll. 5, 6. The fruitlessness so far of all that had been done might engender a feeling of despair; but the king himself struggles against that, and encourages his officers to do the same. as in st. 4. Ll. 7, 8 remind the officers that it was not the king's interest only which they were seeking. L.7—'Is it that you are seeking [relief] for me only (何但求為我乙 ·身而已)?" 戾—定,'to settle.' In 11.9, 10 the king once more turns to Heaven, 曷惠其寕=何 and begs its favour. 時惠我以安寧乎,'When will you favour me with repose?'

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 天, 人, 臻, cat. 12, t. 1; 牲, 聽, cat. 11: in 2, 融, 宫, 宗, 臨 (prop. cat. 7) 躬, cat. 9: in 3, 推, 雷, movy bung

I

Who gave birth to [the princes of] Foo and Shin. From these mountains was sent down a Spirit, With their large masses reaching to the heavens. Grandly lofty are the mountains,

Are the support of Chow, Foo and Shin,

混, 思, 思, 祖, 如, 题, 男, 遗, 遗, Diffusing [their influence] over the fourquarters of the kingdom. Screens to all the States, banded together under the rule of Ts'00, and death of Yew, and the removal of the capital to Loh. Subsequently, Shin proved but a very ineffectual barrier against the tribes that were alliance with the Dog Jung, which issued in the tachment to Paon Sze, her father formed an When he degraded her in consequence of his atwith so much eclat did not turn out happily. King Seuen's son, Yëly, married a daughter of the House of Shin, a daughter probably of the chief mentioned here, and made her his queen. of the same name, Ho-nan, while Sear was in Tang Chow, in the same dept;—See, however, the notes on st. 6.—'The movement which the ode celebrates with however, who adopt this view place the older capital in the present dis. of Nan-yang in the dept. a new city as its capital in a situation better adapted to the exigencies of the time. Those, a better solution of the difficulty than to suppose that there had been a State of Shin, beyond the limits of the royal domain, and that what was now done was to enlarge its territory, and build a new city as its entity party as a paye. defend the kingdom against the encroachments of the ambitious and restless Man. This would be with the royal House, whom the king now invested with this newly formed principality, to "里"字"下面如子"写"明》目"里" had done good service, and was in close alliance statements point to colonization. If the under-taking was not entirely of that character, it was so to a great extent. Possibly, there may have been a Shin within the limits of the royal domain, south from the capital, the lord of which that done good service, and was in close alliance 然, cat. 5, t. 1: in 7, 犯 军 民 (prop. cat. 劉莫姑去。m:81.310 恐間黨 · 焚. 川, ēni: 2.1, cat. 5, t. 2: in 5, 川, 顿, for cultivation, and the removal of the chief's family from the royal domain to it. All these marry. This might scent to preclude the marringe of consins; but it does so only in the male dividuals of the same surname shall not interand the House of Shin we have an illustration of how one-sided is the Chinese rule that in-connection between the kings Seuen and Yew may add further here that in the history of the was extinguished and absorbed by that growing state during the period of the Chiun Ister. I

Shin was constituted. We have in this ode and II. the building and fortifying of Seay as the capital city, the erection even of the ancestral temple, the laying out of the country it was now for the first time that the State of Shin was constituted. We have in this ode and of China. But for the expressions in size acoust, it coiles of Shin's returning to the south, it should adopt without lesitation the view that should adopt without free time that the State of But for the expressions in st.6 about tered seriously on a discussion of this point; but tered seriously on a discussion of this possesses of the sanxious to get for himself a dequirer who is anxious to get for himself a difficult of the kingdom think the kingdom of th of the State, which is also a principal topic in the State, which is also a principal topic in the ode before us. We must accept the date assigned to the piece; but a more important question is whether there had been previously a State of Shim, or whether that part of the country where it lay was now for the first time country where it lay was now for the first time country where it lay was now for the first time country where it lay was now for the size time tourised. None of the Chinese critics have enclously on a discussion of this point; but tered seriously on a discussion of this point; but the Heen-yun, in the commencement of that monarch's reign. Then in II. viii. III. we have an account of the building of Seay as the capital ox use current. Senen is not mentioned in the ode, but there is little doubt as to his being the yeiler the there is little doubt as to his was Yin Kein-foo, who appears in H. iii. III. as the commander of an expedition, against the tribes of the Hierarum, in the commencement of that the Hierarum, in the commencement of that тив липлуских млрк гоп из китепис BE THE MARQUIS OF SHIM, AND DEPENDER OF THE KINGDOM, WITH TOINTHENT BY HING SEUEN OF A RELATIVE TO Narrative. CELEBRATING THE AP-成玉章。吐北

2 Full of activity is the chief of Shin,

And the king would employ him to continue the services [of his fathers],

With his capital in Seay,

Where he should be a pattern to the States of the south.

The king gave charge to the earl of Shaou,

To arrange all about the residence of the chief of Shin,

Where he should do what was necessary for the regions of the south,

And where his posterity might maintain his merit.

line. King Seuen's mother was a Keang, and his son's wife was also a Keang. Husband and wife must have been very closely related by consanguinity.

is called it; and the largest of such mountains again are called 歉(or 岳); and the Shoo opens with a 'chief of the four mountains,' as the principal minister of Yaou:-see on the Shoo, L11. From this distant personage was descended the great family that boasted the surname of Keang, branches of which, in the time of Chow, ruled over the States of Ts'e, (齊), Hen (許), Shin (申), and Len (呂) or Foo (南). The four great mountains, or the Spirits presiding over them, were supposed to have a special interest in it, and hence are here said to have sent down a Spirit or Spirits which caused the birth of the princes of Shin and Foo, whom the writer of the ode had in his mind's eye. On the 3d line, 'The mountains sent down spirits, Hwang Ch'un (黃標, Sung dyn.) remarks that it is merely a personification of the poet's fancy, to show how High Heaven had a mind to revive the fortunes of Chow, and that we need not trouble ourselves about whether there were such Spirits or not (惟新降神, By | and | we must understand the princes of those States. There can be no doubt that by 用 is intended the 目 自 of the ode, and as we know that III was a marquisate, I have translated these characters by the Chief of Shin, with pose was given to the marquis over the States Choo supposes that of the south generally. indicates the marquis of Leu or Foo, to whom we owe the 27th Book of the 5th Part of the Shoo,-a prince of the time of king Muh, anterior to Senen by nearly two centuries. A contemporary of the marquis of Shin must be intended, a descendant of that previous worthy, who had rendered important service to Senen. Very absurd is the view of Yen Ts'an, that the. person intended was Chung Shan-foo, who was the chief minister to Seuen. This interpretation is traceable to a comment of Ching on the Le Ke, XXVI.8, where the stanza is quoted. But we know from other sources that that Chung Shanfoo was not a Këang at all;—Sss on the next ode.

LI.5-8. 翰,—as in II. vii. I.3, et al. The 于 in II.7, 8, and also in I.4, st. 6, is the preposition, = 於, 'in,' 'at,' &c., the order of the characters being inverted for the sake of euphony. So says Wang Yin-che, the great Authority upon the particles. His words are 丁,於也,常語也,亦有於句中倒用者; and then he adduces the above three instances from this ode. 著,—as in ii. I.8, 'a screen.' 宣宣其德澤,—as in the translation.

St. 2. Ll. 1—1. 重重,—as in i. L. 2. Choo, indeed, says the phrase is used differently in the two places, but I cannot see the difference 演奏, 'to continue.' It is used here with hipful force. The king would have him continue his services in a new sphere (干使之變).

89 VOL. IV.

soe ob ot lesimid laids out to do so? should have given orders for this; was it not Build off Tury see son ob I tand ei buim Ym ni vey the household to Seay. The only difficulty Ling further ordered his principal officer to conchief could not enjoy his domestic bliss, and the family was not removed to his new residence, the aid slidW' 5 倒り 源 靈剛劑 Maou explains the phrase. As the 'Complete Digest' expands II. 7, 8, A. A. the Womplete 以紫燕是之 In rather than F H, 'the officers of it, as Maou explains the phrase. the members of the household, the whole fami-The od live 'nom edervird' , A A noul Choo takes the terms;—申 南京 配 officer of the marquis's household in Haou. derstand, probably, the steward or principal master and manager, we are to unterms mean to lay out the land on the principle of mutual cultivation, so that a fixed revenue might be made sure for the chief. L. R. By the earl of Shane is here told to do to the standard of the standard of solution is here told to do to the standard of the sta 祖,田游,中四一,田土游 allaw' Mere M orow di li an vigorously, 'to display.' Maou absurdly interprets the term or 'service,' Maou absurdly interprets the term 作=奮起, to put forth and the country round it would be more thickly Seay was to be the centre of the State. The city St. S. Illi-4. L. 2.-l. 4 of last stanza. L. 3. bring out a suitable meaning from the ordinary acceptation of the term,—'to ascend, I.8 idenby M. complete, Yen Ts'an tries in vain to S is defined should do when settled there. for the control of the chief of Shin's taking up acribed in st. 4, for the chief of Shin's taking up his residence in Seay. Ll.7,8 refer to what he Testile the residences, must mean does not affect the translation of IH by 'earl,' pose, one of the kung at the court; but all this ment of territory. He was also, we may suparranging the details of every new apportionof Works, and that on him devolved the duty of supposed that the earl of Shaou was minister Ll. 5,-8. H. 1-869 on H. viii. III. 1t is (対版 氯命) sound marquis to take the leadership of the southern this 4th line, we have the commission of the M A L. Ch'in P'ang-fei remarks that, in tion. 五='to give a pattern to (恒譜表 to go to, and the second as the preposihave to be disregarded, though there is a plausi-bility in Ying-tail's explanation of the first by Eingle term = the 作声 there. The two sense of 'a capital city' as in i. Z. 2, and the Trough of the Trough o should lay the foundations of his influence, Telers to the services he had already ren- peopled than other parts; and there the chief dered to the throne. I much prefer this to Choo's view of it as 'the services of his forefathers To remove the members of his family to the spot. The king gave charge to the chief's steward

— Vlqmis A

To make the statutory definition of the territory and fields of

, po sussum of,

which should thence go forth.

The king gave charge to the earl of Shaou, Proceed to display your merit,

And by means of those people of Seay, Be a pattern to the regions of the south,

The king gave charge to the chief of Shin, 288

- 4 Of the services of the chief of Shin,
 The foundation was laid by the earl of Shaou,
 Who built first the walls [of his city],
 And then completed his ancestral temple.
 When the temple was completed, wide and grand,
 The king conferred on the chief of Shin
 Four noble steeds,
 With their hooks for the trappings of the breast-bands, glittering bright.
 - The king sent away the chief of Shin,
 With a carriage of state and its team of horses,
 'I have consulted about your residence,
 That it had best be fixed in the South.
 I confer on you a great sceptre,
 As the symbol of your dignity.

St. 4. Id.1-4 tell us how the earl of Shaou accomplished part of the charge committed to him. The critics will nearly all of them have it, that 1.1 relates to the chief of Shin's occupancy of Sëny, so that 功 is merely — 事, 'affair;' and then "in 1.2 is 'the building of that city.' But I must take III with a higher The line is a proand more general meaning. leptical description by his friend, Yin Keih-foo, of the services which the chief in his new sphere would render to Chow; and of which the foundation was laid by the earl of Shaou in fulfilling the commission given to him by the king. 一妇, 'commencement.' 拔, — 'walls ;' i. e., 寢廟, together,—'the the walls of Seay. ancestral temple; as in II. v. IV. 4.

Ll. 5—8. We are to suppose that news of the completion of Seay has been sent to the court, and the king dispatches the new marquis to his flef. The describes the appearance of the temple as deep and solemn ().

一出說, 'strong-looking;'—comp. the same phrase in ii. X. 4. 如質,—as in II. iii. IV. 1. 湿泥—光明鏡, 'bright-looking.' These steeds with their equipments were tokens of the royal favour, usually granted on occasions of investiture. The subject is continued in the next stanza.

St. 5. St. 2. The state-enringe here would be one adorned with ivory, as being conferred on a prince of a different state. next stanza, a prince of a different surname from the royal House;—See on II. vii. VIII. 1. The team was Ll. 8, 4. 6 rethat described in prec. stanza. fers to the thought and consideration with which the king had determined on placing his relative as the chief of Shin in the South. That quarter of the kingdom required his presence and services Ll. 5, 6. 圭 was the more than any other. jade-token of rank, which the princes of States held as the emblem of their dignity, and which they carried with them when they appeared at court. I do not know that we are to find any special meaning in the adjunct of 1-1 'great,' with which the kwei is mentioned here. Heon's son, and not his grandson.]
St. 6. Li. I.—1. I have said in the introductory note, that the A and has here seem to point to the chief's having previously deen settled in to the couth. A closer study of these lines, however, the south. A closer study of these lines, however, p here, by 'avunculus,' Oh'ung-urh was duke Lacharme is correct in rendering them there, as have inadvertently translated the terms by 'mother's brother,' mother's nephew, instead of 'mother's brother. I bie the pre— 其 正 i. I. xi. ix., where I 'king's uncle, any uncle. We thus know that king Seuen's mother must have been a Könng, and that the chief of Shin was her brother. We thus know that Wang Yin-che on II (read A). which is an obsolete synonym of that II ;—see Te Tor anistake for II. line which we have often met with,—the is used here merely as a particle, - II in the II. i. 7, meaning 'a symbol of rank.' Ll. 7, 8. H to the king himself. T-fi, in the Shoo, —воше елеп вил гро 🎘 🛨 мріср мяв рторет it may have been the hete, proper to a duke; of the South, ranked above an ordinary marquis, be the 情量; if the marquis of Shin, as chief If it were merely the token of a marquis, it would visions., 😿 is the initial particle. 📆 📆 -014,一,小型-014 accumulate, or 'store up.' 01, 绿 10 小小一制 L. 6,—as l. 6 of st. 3. there was nothing to detain him, as all previous preparations and been made for his journey. (赴)放果了 ち 計 対 競 留 選 ち that the king had detained him once and again T, 'to go,' 'to proceed.' | and M intimate than I have given it in the translation. south; and meed not have any more meaning chief of Shin's having been formerly in the Shin., Thus the To the does not refer to the ot. Depended the the the proceeded to Mei, who immediately after returned to Haou to K'e-chow, and so it was that he gave his charge and the parting-feast to the chief in The king was then on a visit of inspection the districts, dep. Fung-ts'čang. It lay west from the capital Haou, and as Ying-tith observes, The way from Haou to Shin did not lie through te iny west The king gave a parting feast to the chief in Alei, the name of which still remains in one of obliged to draw such a conclusion from them, enables us to explain the terms without our being

7 Martial-like, the chief of Shin Entered into Seay.

And the king gave thin a parent feath more than the chief of Shin returned, [and proceeded] to And found himself at last in Seay.
The king had given charge to the earl of Shaou, To make the statutory division of the lands, And to lay up stores of provisions, And to lay up stores of provisions, That the progress of the chief might be accelerated.

The chief of Shin returned, [and proceeded] to the south, Then the chief of Shin returned, [and proceeded] to the south,

. to unsteu.

Go, my uncle, And protect the country of the South.'

His footmen and charioteers were numerous,
And throughout the regions of Chow all rejoiced.
'You have got a good support:—
Very distinguished is the chief of Shin,
The great uncle of the king,
The pattern of the officers, both civil and military.'

8 The virtue of the chief of Shin Is mild, and regulated, and upright. He will keep all these countries in order, And be famed throughout the kingdom. [I], Keih-foo, made this song An ode of great excellence, Of influence good, To present to the chief of Shin.

St. 7. Ll. 1—4. 番音 武勇貌, 'martial-looking;'—compare the same characters in the Shoo, V. xxx. 5, where K'ung Gan-kwoh would interpret them in the same way. 即,—as in II. iii. IV. 4. 周邦, 'the regions of Chow,'—周人, 'the people of Chow.' In ll. 5—8 we have the people of Chow congratulating one another—with little cause, as it turned out—on the security which they might now feel with regard to their southern borders. 双一次, 'you;'—as in ii. IX. 4. 不顾,—as in i. I. 1, et al. 富一法, 'to afford a pattern to.' Some take the term as—'to take a pattern from,' as if the line—'Taking the kings Win and Woo as his pattern;' but this does not suit the connection so well.

St. 8. The author of the ode gives expression to his appreciation of his friend, and his hopes of his doing great things in the south. He shows also that he had a sufficiently good opinion of his own composition. I.l. 1—4.

一川貞, as in III.8, et al.; meaning that the chief's virtue was regulated, so as to be in accordance with reason and principle. 'It contained,' says Yen Ts'an, 'the elements of mild docility, and stout straight-forwardness, the union of which is Choo exnecessary to make virtue complete.' plains 技 by 治, and Ching by 順;='to rule,' 'to keep in obedience.' The dict. gives the character with this meaning in the 1st tone. The 2d tone gives a better meaning,—'to make what is crooked straight.'Ll. 5—8. 詞前, in II. iv. VII. 10; with reference to the piece as intended to be sung. Choo defines 風 by 歷, 'sound,' or 'notes.' I must think the meaning of the term here is 'influence.' 'It was sufficient,' says Yen Ts'an, 'to affect and move the good in men's hearts.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 天, 神, 申, cat. 12, t. 1; 翰, 蕃, 宣, cat. 14: in 2, 事, 式, cat. 1, t. 2; 伯*, 完*, cat. 5, t. 8; 邦, 功,

VI. Ching min.

Heaven, in giving birth to the multitudes of the people, To every faculty and relationship annexed its law. The people possess this normal nature, And they [consequently] love its normal virtue. Heaven beheld the ruler of Chow, Brilliantly affecting it by his conduct below; And to maintain him, its Son, And to maintain him, its Son, Gave birth to Chung Shan-foo.

nerally. As Wang Child (王) ; Sung dyn.) case of king Seuen, and therefore, to mark its appreciation of him, and for his help, it now produced Chung Shan-foo. So, the critics general contract of the others with virtue and powers peculiar to them-selves. Such an occasion was presented by the there described; but on occasions it produces Heaven produces all men with the good nature and those that precede seems to be this,—that The connection between these lines, Kung-ta'cen says, 明僵任 小颜颜件上,ini.H. L. As Choo Thus the line-HH HH tudes of the people. in l. 7. III III 11. III III. III. III III. II 七割即 ruler of Chow; the same as 'the Son of Heaven' -- 11 , to see; 建里, tpe Li. 5—8. 監 真 愚 田水 Щ 玄順擊,香順∹gaitesrafai wöß may find the following sentences of Chin Tinthe ratious laws of its constitution. The student where denominated " " " I and " I he is the mater. In 1.4 I think, must = 'to be endowed with. In 1.4 I think, must = 'to be endowed with a falling the state. I have state or its end in the property of the the normal nature called Fr in L 8, and elseof affection between parent and child. This is ceding ode, this was also made by Yin Keih-foo, to present to his friend on his departure from the present to his friend on his departure from the court.

St. I. II. I—I would in themselves be difficult to interpret, but we get an idea of the meaning, which has been attached to them from a rety early time, by Alencius' quotation of them in support of his doctrine of the goodness of hunan nature, and the remarks on them which he attributes to Confucius;—see Alencius, V. Pt. i. All in support of his doctrine of the goodness of hunan nature, and the remarks on them which he attributes to Confucius;—see Alencius, V. Pt. i. All in the support of his doctrine of the goodness of hunan nature, and the remarks on their and the figure are things, and there are their laws there are their laws and there are their laws

TUES OF CHUIC SHAN-FOO, WHO APPEARS TO HAVE BEEN THE PRINCIPAL MINISTER OF EING SEUEN, AND HIS DESPATOR TO THE EAST, TO FORTIFT THE

people, — mankind generally. A. Pt. i. and tributes to Confucius; and A. A. and the feedble, — mankind generally. — there are things, and there are their laws atood of what belongs to the human constitution; and the critics interpret the term most faculties and all the relationships of society. Every faculty has its function to fulfil, and the construction and the duty are the laws which the transform to fulfil, and thurstion and the duty are the laws which the function and the duty are the laws which the third instance, with the eyes, and hearing the distinctly with the ears; the maintenance of distinctly with the ears; the maintenance of righteousness between ruler and minister, and righteousness between ruler and minister, and

- 2 The virtue of Chung Shan-foo
 Is mild and admirable, according as it ought to be.
 Good is his deportment; good his looks;
 The lessons of antiquity are his law;
 He is strenuously attentive to his deportment.
 In full accord with the Son of Heaven,
 He is employed to spread abroad his bright decrees.
- The king gave charge to Chung Shan-foo:—
 'Be a pattern to all the princes;
 Continue [the services of] your ancestors.
 You have to protect the royal person;

,所謂出乎其 To the same effect F.眷宣王·爲生賢佐 As to the personage, whose birth is thus specially ascribed to Heaven, both Maou and Choo say that the three characters (中 山 甫 were his designation. This does not seem quite accurate. He was a descendant of king Tae, styled Yu-chung (庭 仲), whom king Seuen, because of his merits appointed marquis of Fan (樊侯), when he adopted 伸 as his 尺 or clau name. His surname of course was Ke (力力); and Shan-foo was his designation. After a time, the State of Fan lapsed again to Chow, and another family received it as its appanage, taking the surrame of Fan ing the surname of Fan. Such is the account given, after much research, by Wang Taou. The diet. appears to be wrong in saying that Fan became the surname of Shan-foo's descendants.

St. 2,—the virtue of Chung Shan-foo. L. 2.

Let I is to be referred back to I in the last stanza. His virtue mild and admirable, was according to the law for it;—we might translate—'was normal.' As Leu says, 'If the mildness had gone beyond that standard, it would have been weakness.' L. 3. We must construe

Flower of the She' expands the 令儀,一外則令善其容止. L.5. By 古訓, 'ancient lessons,' we must understand the rules and maxims of the former sage kings. 式一法, 'to take as the law,' 'to imitate.' L.6. J is used as a verb, = 知, 'to be strenuous with.' L.7. 若一順, 'to be in accordance with.' King and minister were drawn together by a mutual sympathy and a common aim. L. 8. 明命, 'the brilliant orders,' belong to the king. 元一六, 'to spread abroad;' meaning to make known, and carry into execution.

St. 3. L.1. When the king gave the charge to Shan-too, which is contained in 11.2—8, we cannot too!

to Shan-foo, which is contained in II. 2—8, we cannot tell. I apprehend it is merely the writer's way of indicating the important functions with which his hero was entrusted. L. 2.

— 'to give law, be a pattern, to.' 一片。
— all the princes of the States. From this line it is inferred that Shan-foo was king Seuen's chief minister (家学, 知音长.

L. 3. 大声, 'you;'—as in st. 7. of prec. ode. From l. 4. it is inferred that with the office of chief minister Shan-foo united that of Grandguardian (大學), which latter Choo thinks may have been hereditary in his family. L. 5.

Give out the royal decrees, and report on them.

So that in all quarters it shall be responded to.' Spread his government abroad, Be the king's throat and tongue;

And Chung Shan-foo carries it into execution. Most dignified was the king's charge,

In the service of the One man. Never idle, day or night, Protecting his own person; Intelligent is he and wise, Are clearly distinguished by Chung Shan-foo. In the States, the princes, be they good or bad,

And the hard is ejected from the mouth.' The soft is devoured, The people have a saying:-

enoinstant out at a the translation. Sood or bad.' By the 'States' we are to But Chung Shan-foo

II. 8, 4. 沿一侧, 'obedient,' 活 看一点

"lercon," The king expresses the issue, as it

爱 ,od bnogest bas erir od ' 5瓤而或

'Throat and tongue'=mouth-piece. I. 8. $

and effects of these (打而侵之). L.L.

Report again to the king on the progress

decrees and send them forth (SA);

a'gaist of last st.; He is to receive the king's it were already an accomplished fact.

H _ L. to coury into execution.

Trys. 單單三歐, Errae, , dig-teeth; and so a had minister will oppress those People generally eat readily what is soft, and east out of their mouths what is hard for the equally characterized by gentleness and princess. to have nothing feeble in its mildness, but to be The virtue of Shan-foo is here shown .6.32 (買乙即斉哲發 dom (14) and the manifestation of it (14) are distinguished as the quality of wir-

H 2, to distinguish elearly. LL 5-8. H understand the princes of them.

研辨=便

who cannot resist, and keep away from those whom it would be dangerous to meddle with.

DECADE OF TAXG.

Does not devour the soft, Nor eject the powerful. He does not insult the poor or the widow; He does not fear the strong or the oppressive.

- 6 The people have a saying:—
 'Virtue is light as a hair,
 But few are able to lift it.'
 When I think of the matter,
 It is only Chung Shan-foo that can lift it.
 I love him, but can do nothing to help him.
 Any defects in the king's duties
 Are supplied by Chung Shan-foo.
- 7 Chung Shan-foo went forth, having sacrificed to the Spirit of the road.
 His four steeds were strong:

But it was not so with Shan-foo. 1 = 1, 'to eat.' Choo explains it by 1 = 1, 'to receive,' 'to take in;' which hardly seems necessary. 1 = 1, —as in II.viii.X.2, 'wifeless.' But wifeless men and widows are mentioned merely as specimens of the helpless classes, which might be safely insulted, but which Shan-foo did not insult.

St. 6. Keih-foo exalts here to the utmost the virtue of his friend. Ll. 2, 3. Virtue ought to be light and easy of practice, as it is that for which man was made; but alas! few people are actually virtuous. This a common saying of those times attested. The same of those times attested. The same of the sam

'comrade,' which sometimes has. Ching did so; and Yen Ts'an, after him, says, 'I examine, and among my comrades there is none but Chung Shan-foo who can lift up the hair of virtue. L. 5 is says that he would be glad to help Shanfoo, but his virtue was complete without any help. Ll. 7, 8. ,—see on I. xv. VI. 1. By

We come at last, in st. 7, to the occasion on which the ode was made, the despatch of Chung Shan-foo by the king to fortify the principal city of Ts'e. We must suppose that the city was the capital of Ts'e, for if it had been any other, it would have been mentioned more particularly. We have, however, no record in history of the transaction. In the 20th year of king Le, B.C. 858, duke Hëen of Ts'e moved his capital to Lin-tsze (); but we can hardly suppose that it king,' i.e., of him who wore the or dress.

His men were alert;

He was always anxious lest he should not be equal to his

To fortify the city there in the east. The king had given charge to Chung Shan-foo, To the tinkling of their eight bells. His steeds went on without stopping, commission;

Chung Shan-foo proceeded to Ts'e;-And their eight bells, all tinkling, With his four steeds so strong,

I, Yin Keih-foo, bave made this song:-And he will soon return.

To soothe his mind! Among the constant anxieties of Chung Shan-foo, May it enter like a quiet wind, here=崇 there. L.S. By 東京 Tre are to nor with any of the others. "能给"中四 cat. 15, t. 3. Lines 1, 2 do not rhyme together, he animated with his own spirit. L.5,—as in i. · 资、依, 古 ; £ 1, cat. 8, t. 2; 表, 8 ii : 5 ferred either to Shan-foo, or to his men, whom (古 順 圖 :en : en : en : in :) The rhymes are—in st. I, 則, 德, cat. I, t. clear and quiet wind on external nature. the ode should have on Shan-foo, like that of a is infended to characterize the influence which defines by F E, deep and long, Eridently It is difficult to translate the The rbich Choo object of his mission. L. 5,-as in VI. 8. St. 8. L. 1,—as in III. 2. L. 2,—see III. vi.IV. 2. L. 4. Comp. L. 8 in V. 6. The line may be taken as a wish, or indicatively as in the transfation, and expressing Keih-foo's confidence in his triend's ability to accomplish speedily the object of his mission. L. 5.—as in VI. 8. L. 6.

T'S IT

·北流, 京, 人, car. 12, t. 1: in 5, 我, 此

西事双不恐常

to as such. L. 2,-as in H. i. VII. 4.

capital may have been in need of repair.

understand Ts'e, in the east of the kingdom.

L. G. Comp. L. in H. iii. VIII. I.

expressing the rapidity with which they marched in Comp. the same phrase in II. v. VI. 4. L.

ascertain what ancient personage was sacrificed roads, at the commencement of a journey or expedition. It would be of little use trying to expeditions are represented in the sample of the confined and the confined are represented in the confined and the confined are represented in the confined are represented as a confined are represented of spirit of sacrifice to the Spirit of troubles in Ts'e, and the fortifications of its perhaps half a century. There had been many -coming a not os tor so long a time,- VII. Han yih.

Very grand is the mountain of Lëang,
Which was made cultivable by Yu.
Bright is the way from it,
[Along which came] the marquis of Han to receive investiture.
The king himself gave the charge:—
'Continue the services of your ancestors;
Let not my charge to you come to nought.
Be diligent, early and late,
And reverently discharge your duties;—
So shall my appointment of you not change.

甫,茹,吐,寡*,禦,cat.5, t.2: in 6, 舉, 舉,助,補, ib.: in 7, 業,捷*,及 (prop. cat. 7), cat. 8, t. 3; 彭*, 鏘,方, cat. 10: in 8, 睽階,齊,歸, cat. 15, t. 1; 風*,心, cat. 7, t. 1.

Ode 7. Narrative. Celebrating the Marquis of Han:—his investiture, and the king's charge to him; the gifts he received, and the parting feast; his marriage; the excellence of his territory; and his sway over the regions of the north. The ode is referred by the Preface to the time of king Seuen, which is not controverted by any of the critics, and the authorship to Yin Keih-foo, but this point is not so clear. The ode itself does not say it, nor is there any authority for it independent of the statement in the Preface. The Han which is spoken of was a marquisate, held by Kes, sprung from one of the sons of king Woo. After the time of king Seuen, it was extinguished by the State of Tsin, and assigned to one of the ministers of that growing dominion, who took the clan-name of Han. It subsequently, on the breaking up of Tsin, after the Ch'un Ts'ëw period, became one of the seven great States into which the kingdom was divided,—of much larger dimensions than the original marquisate of Han.

St. 1. Ll. 1, 2. 'Mount Löang,'—see on the Shoo, III. i. Pt. i. 4. It was considered the 'guardian hill' of Han (韓之鎮). 奕奕 is defined by 大, 'great;' but Wang Taou remarks that the reduplication of 真 here is not to be taken as setting forth the great size of the mountain, but as a dignifying description of it (美大之詞). I think he is correct, and have translated accordingly. 甸一治, to regulate. is the term, in the passage of the Shoo referred to, applied to Yu's dealing with mount Lëang, whatever that was, when the inundation of the Ho was remedied, and the country around made capable of cultivation.

Ll. 3, 4. The most natural interpretation of these lines that the these lines is that the prince of Han, after the death of his father, came by the regular route of communication, which was in good condition, to the capital, to receive the king's confirmation of his succession. Maou, however, refers the i, to the method of king Seuen's administration, brilliantly reformed from the disorder which marked the reign of his father; and if he understands of the prince's appointment to be chief of the regions of the north (Fill). To this I cannot agree.

Ll. 5—12 Contain the king's charge to the new marquis. L. 7. It is the royal 'we' or 'our.' in is the appointment of the prince, and all which was implied in it. It is 'do not neglect,' 'do not allow to come to nought.'

6

Thus assisting your sovereign. Be a support against those princes who do not come to court,

Very long, and large, With his four steeds, all noble,

The marquis of than came to court,

He entered and appeared before the king. With the large sceptre of his rank;-

The king gave him

A chequered bamboo-screen, and an ornanented yoke; A fine dragon-flag, with its seathery ornaments;

A dark-coloured robe with the dragons on it, and the redslippers;

frontlets; The hooks for the trappings of the breast-bands, and the carved

Ll. 6-19 give an enumeration of gifts conto succeed to the State. verified at the court, and so vindicate his claim prince now brought it with him, that it might be Han,—granted originally by the king; and the

mentioned in detail, because the occasion was ferred by the king. The critics say they are 示意, and somehow indicative of the rank or of ox-tails, as a piece of blazonry () the banner was attached, made of dyed feathers or signal, carried at the top of the staff to which read july of we are to understand the pennon Ch'ing (新乙香色者). By 辍 (in dict, we must take the term here as=' splendid.' So -ns in II. i. VIII.3, et al. 枫一善, 'good;' but well he knew to reward loyal duty. L. 7. MF. extraordinary, and king Seuen would show how

周上間日銀): It was made of motal, on the forehead of the horse was called yang (I. L. 10. 鐵川 —as in V. 4. 'An ornament as in II. vz. I al es-; E T. J. IIIV .iiv .II al es II.IV.1; 铝氰/-i8, st. 8. 1.9. 玄衮of him who used it. I. 8. T ai besu only mill to pere the sceptre belonging to the marquises of ai 圭 代 edT ·大一般 'Buol',员一创 St. 2. Ll. 1-6 belong to the marquis's pre-simply by IF, 'to correct.' L. 12. The king

林 新 正 文 Choo defines it here

This gives an pregnant signification, - throne against such leaders of insubordination. marquis was to prove himself a support of the

as was their duty, present themselves on the denomination of States whose princes did not, VIII. I. But T III is in the Tso-chuen a Maou takes E - II, 'straight,'-as in II. vi.

Will, 'your duties;' i.e., the duties of your posi-

, receirly, 関 瓜, your position, 一國

I.9. 共一型, to discharge; 图一部. 9.1

regular occasions in the king's court.

tion.' L. 10. A = K, 'to change.'

The leaning-board bound with leather, and a tiger's skin to cover it.

The ends of the reins, with their metal rings.

3 When the marquis of Han left the court, he sacrificed to the Spirit of the road;

He went forth, and lodged for the night in Too.

There Hëen-foo gave him the parting feast;—

With a hundred vases of clear spirits.

And what were the viands?

Roast turtle and fresh fish. And what were the vegetables?

Bamboo sprouts and poo.

And what were the gifts?

A carriage of state with its team.

Many were the vessels of sauces and fruits;

And the other princes [at court] joined in the feast.

engraven or inlaid (鍵). L. 11. 鄭 弘,— the k'ang was a cross-board fixed in the the carriage, against which the parties in it might lean, and for the sake of greater strength it was bound with leather (橫木 可 憑 者,以 鄭 持之,便丰固). 淺 is taken for 虎
皮, 'a tiger's skin,' so called from the shortness of the hair. This was laid over the leaning board to cover it (殿). L. 12. 僅 草,—as in II.ii.IX.4. The 全 V were metal rings, with which these ends of the reins were fitted and ornamented.

St. 3. L. 1. Herefers to the new marquis's leaving the capital, on his return to Han. The as in VI. 7. L. 2. It must be the name of some place not far from the capital, where the marquis halted,—no doubt, in expectation of the parting feast. Ll. 3 (1),—as in V. 6. Hëenfoo must have been some noble and high minister, delegated by the king to preside at the parting-feast. Some erroneously suppose that it was given as by himself (奉王命也 非朋友私餞; Këang). L.4 is intended to show on what a large scale it was. L. 6. 黑鼈,—as in II.iii. III.6. L.7. 藏 is a general name for culinary vegetables (菜茄 L. 8. The 省, or bamboo sprouts, are well known as a vegetable; but I cannot tell what the poo were. In the Chow Le, however, I.v. 61, we find them mentioned as one of the staple articles for the vegetable dishes, under the name of A, which Biot has translated by 'des pieds de jonc pris au fond de l'eau.' L. 10. The carriage would be one of those adorned with metal, as the marquis was a Ke. L.11. H has given to it here the meaning of 多親, 'the app. of being many.' L.12. 侯氏, 'the princes,' is a designation of the

Filling the gate with their splendour. The marquis of Han looked round at them, Leisurely like a beautiful cloud. The virgins, her companions, followed the lady, Illustrious was the glory [of the occasion]. The eight bells of each emitting their tinkling;-His hundred chariots were in grand array, To the residence of Kwei. The marguis of Han went to receive her, The daughter of Kwei-foo. A niece of king Pun, The marquis of Han took to himself a wife, well look round and admire. leisurely and adorned. angua emparia out. .据新戏 till till sandab work. a cloud. the one in and might well be said to look like A A A M these must be included in 新裔) and to marry nine ladies at once (新春 accompany ner; so that a feudal prince was sent, each, a young lady with similar suite, to father. Then two Houses of the same surname and a cousin; -- virgins from the harem of her The bride was accompanied by a younger sister II. 9, 10. 露佛,一, all the younger sisters. asis VII.7. L.S,-asini.1L -"L" T Jaise-流電 ; Lil. Jaise-加 目 7. 3 cubital (於在土地外; Ho K'sue) IL to Ewei-foo, and would not be far from the residence. This was probably the city assigned To educe of the place of is the final particle. marquis went in person to meet his bride. of Hwang-te. Il. 4-5. ill intimates that the surname, acc. to tradition, of one of the sons appears also from next st., was K'eih,-the would have been mentioned. His surname, it he been one of the feudal princes, his State Chow is inferred from I. 2 of next stanza. Had other princes who were at court at the time | tion. That he was a minister of the court of driven from the throne. One to the father of the was so styled from the river Fun, which was near Ohe where he lived so long after he was driven from the throne. One of Le's sisters doing Eun ne are to understand ling Le und gaid the mourning for his father, and had received the royal sauction to his succession. L.2. By immediately that a feudal prince had concluded this the marquis seems to have proceeded immediately after his return to Han. It was mediately after his return a follow the raile, indeed, that marriage should follow the raile after the rail arines had concluded however, is quite legitimate. K'ang-shing says, been done above. The riew in the translation of Han, though he explains the phrase as has simpram out of A A toirteer oals bluow ed structions, himself preferring the latter. I think of — 相, with 燕 晉 for 相 膏 on account of the rhyme. Choo mentions both conprefer to take as the final particle, instead have been his clan name, and Foo the designa-

of the lady; or, as Ting-tan says, Kuei may too was probably the designation of the father

171LG-

lady, so that she was his Eg, or niece.

And there is no State which he had not visited. When he would select a home for Han-k'eih, There seemed none so pleasant as Han. Very pleasant is the territory of Han, With its large streams and meres, Full of big bream and tench; With its multitudes of deer, With its multitudes of deer, With its wild-cats and tigers. Glad was he of so admirable a situation, And here Han-k'eih found rest and joy.

6 Large is the wall of [the city of] Han, Built by the multitudes of Yen. As his ancestor had received charge

St. 5. I.l. 1—1. I have referred, on the last stanza, to the evidence these lines supply that Kwei-foo was a high minister of the court, who had been employed on many missions to the different States. He had, evidently, and very properly, taken the opportunity to look out for a good match for his daughter; and Ying-tah is troubled, unnecessarily, to defend him against a charge of violating the established rule that the family or iriends of the gentleman must take the initiative.

Il. 5—10 are descriptive of the pleasantness of Han. 言于于 and 市 set forth the large size of the rivers and marshes, and of their finny inhabitants. 厚度,—see i. VIII.2; but evidently they give us the idea in this place of 'deer generally.' 反反一次,'to be in multitudes.' 新, 'a cat,' is here—a wild-cat. 'It seems strange,' says Fan Ch'oo-e () Sung dyn.). 'that these wild creatures should be mentioned in proof of the pleasantness of the country; but they came into the mind of the poet, and their existence in such numbers showed how the country abounded in woods. Moreover, the skins of the bears could be worn, and their flesh would afford good eating; while the wild cats would destroy the vermin, and the tigers the wild boars which preyed upon the fields!' L. I has for its subject Kwei-foo.

(=喜) 既一既慶, the inversion being more euphonious. L. 12. 燕—安, and 思樂,—as in the translation.

St. 6. Ll. 1, 2. He to be large.' Yen was the State to which Shih, the duke Kiang of Shaou, was appointed; and it would appear that he had been entrusted with the charge to build and fortify the capital of the principality

To preside over all the wild tribes [of that quarter], The king [now] gave to the marquis of Han The Ohuy and the Mih, Forthwith to hold the States of the north, And to preside over them as their chief; Making strong his walls, and deep his mosts, Laying out his fields, regulating his revenues, Presenting his skins of the white fox, With those of the red panther and the yellow grisly bear.

VIII. Këang Han.

Large was the volume of the Këang and the Han, And the troops advanced like a flowing current. There was no resting, no idle wandering;—We were seeking for the tribes of the Hwae.

ne does not know either of these animals. V. 5,6. The author of the Japanese plates says .vi.U ni sn—.以员 ther; -see L. M. XIV. I, et al. is a kind of leopard or panon to 1. 12, white or polar bear. The K must be carried make it a kind of tiger or leopard; some, the Other authorities yn as E M, 'a white fox,' mutual aid. Il. 11,12. Fig is given in the Urhvenues; meaning that he should attend to the cultivation of the country on the Chowsystem of gelds; 编二上赋税, to adjust his reaid eganam ot, 他田東部一庙 quis to promote the civilization of the wild like to think it was part of the duty of the marand revenues, are those of Han, though I should see the remark of Keang Ping-chang upon the The H.,-as in ii. I. 5, where 11 F Tr 6 10 .8 .J cutted , States, by courtesy.

I must understand the wild tribes of the north, may here be translated 'forthwith.' By IL trides, which were now giving trouble. L. 7. 🔠 Chuy, of whom there is no previous mention in any record, and the Milh must have been two carried on to l. 5 and those that follow. L.G. The trines. The M, 'on the ground of, is to be to, i.e., to go on from Han to regulate those to me, to account for, as meaning-to go on Xing-tah has endeavoured, successfully it seems We are puzzled with the K, which required attention and management in the early referring to the tribes which more particularly The H= 1. seems to—'certain,' Pt. ii. 22). Man domain (see the note on the Shoo, III. i. charge not only for the rule of that State, but to be president of the wild tribes beyond it. These are called 'the hundred Mam, as being in the first state of the paper of t will be the first marquis of Han, who received II.3,4. 光加 tor the new State of Shin. appointed by king Seuen to do the same duty of Han, just as we have seen his descendant

We had sent forth our chariots;
We had displayed our falcon-banners.
There was no resting, no remissuess;
Against the tribes of the Hwae were we marshalled.

2 Large flowed the Këang and the Han,
And grandly martial looked the troops.
The whole country had been reduced to order,
And an announcement of our success had been made to the king.
When the whole country was pacified,

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 何, 命*, cat. 12, t. 1; 道*, 考*, cat. 3, t. 2; 解, 易, 辟, cat. 16, t. 3: in 2, 張, 王,章, 衡*, 錫, cat. 10; 懷 (prop. cat. 15), 厄, cat. 16, t. 3: in 3, 祖, 屠, 壺, 魚, 滿; 車*, 且*, 胥, cat. 5, t. 1: in 4, 子, 里, cat. 1, t. 2; 彭*, 鏘, 光, cat. 10; 雲, 門, cat. 18: in 5, 到, 樂*, cat. 2; 土, 計, 順, 虎, cat. 5, t. 2; 居譽, b., t. 1: in 6, 元, 蠻, cat. 14; 貊*, 伯*, 壑, 籍*, cat. 5, t. 3; 皮*, 罷*, cat. 17.

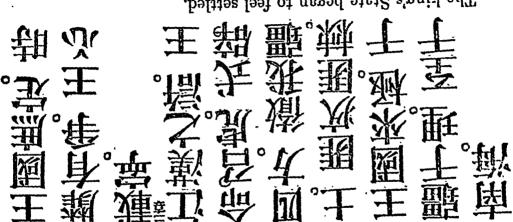

Ode 8. Narrative. Celebrating an expedi-TION AGAINST THE MORE SOUTHERN TRIBES OF THE HWAE, AND THE WORK DONE FOR THE KING IN THEIR COUNTRY, BY HOO, THE EARL OF SHAOU, WITH THE MANNER IN WHICH THE KING REWARDED HIM AND HE RESPONDED TO THE ROYAL FAVOUR. This is another of the odes of king Seuen's time, and the expedition celebrated in it is assigned in the common chronology to the second year of his reign, B. C. 825 (or, counting A. D. as 1, The Preface attributes its composition, as in the case of the prec. ode, to Yin Keih-foo; but the internal evidence of the piece is sufficient to discredit such an authorship. The ## in st. I shows that it was written by some one-one of the officers-in the expedition; and the date of the composition is to be placed at the time indicated in the second stanza, when the army had returned in triumph to the junction of the Könng and the Han. The earl of Shaou who commanded in it is the same whose services at the formation of the State of Shin are commemorated in ode 5.

St. 1. Ll. 1, 2. The mention of the Këang and the Han together indicates to us their point of junction at the present Han-kfow;—see on the The troops had Shoo, III. i. Pt. ii, 8, 9, et al. marched thither from the north, and then pursued their course along the united stream, thus placing themselves on the south of the tribes about the Hwae. It is remarked that they could safely take that decided course, because the tribes of King Chow had previously been reduced to order, as related in II.iii.IV. 浑浑, describes 'the appearance of the vast volume of the rivers 武夫 is to be taken of the (水 戍 貌): troops of the expedition generally,-all 'warriors.' 滔 滔,-as in I. viii. X.4. Ll. 3, 4. 安,-'to rest,' to take the thing easily; 遊,一 'to wander,' to march in a sauntering manner. The here and throughout the ode,—是. So, Wang Yin-che. This view of the character makes the construction simple and easy. The statement that the troops were come to seek the enemy strikingly sets forth their ardour. Ll. 5, 6. See II.i. VIII. 2. Ll. 7, 8. 舒一富舒, 'to be remiss.' fin w, 'to marshal,' or to 'be in array.'

St. 2. The expedition had been entirely successful, and we must suppose that the army was now returned to the junction of the Köang and the Han, and was halting till an answer should be received from the king to the announcement of the success which had been made. Ll. 1, 2. H.,—as in I. viii. X. 3. H. H. The H. The past-complete tense. Ll. 3, 4. The H. Trefers to all the quarters of the country occupied by the tribes against which the expedition had been sent.

The Hwae,—see on the Shoo, III. i. Pt. ii. 11.

The king's State began to feel settled. There was then an end of strife, And the king's heart was composed.

On the banks of the Keang and the Han,

The king had given charge to Hoo of Shaou:

'Open up the whole of the country;

Mot to distress the people, nor with urgency,

But making them conform to the royal state.

Alake the larger and the smaller divisions of the ground,

As far as the southern sea.'

Zenen. geography of his kingdom possessed by king He have a memorable note of the idea of the 'The southern sea' indicates the sea about the mouth of the Hwae. mouth of it to the Hwae. no necessity to take T = E, as Keang does. imperative, instead of the indicative. TUGEG 13 ference in the lines is that here we must use the regarded no more than /7 there. The only difafford. L. G.—comp. l. 3 in i. III. 4. Tean be in the centre, 'that which will serve as a stan-dard rule. Such rule the royal lands would by H and H Z T, that which is exactly 型,—as in prec. stanza. benneb eren ei fer sideration for the now submissive people. they would only acknowledge his authority, and observe his regulations. Li.5, 6. The earl was to execute his charge wisely, and with due condal prince, and he was willing, probably, that the aborigines should continue to occupy it, if territory had not been assigned to any feuthe king asserts it as delonging to himself. Lµe in i. VIL 2. L. 4,—comp. L. 6 in V. 3. By the L.S. 代势· and settlement of the country. tion of the wild tribes, as the permanent order the king's object was not so much the subjec-; Ch'in P'ang-fei). We see from it that 命而此乙與工協王宣詣邦 in person and gave the charge; but that he sent it (The tree not to think that the king came title given to him, after his death, of duke Muh of Shaou; more commonly known by the honorary as in L. vi. VII. I. R. was the name of the eart in the same retrospective way. 北江, 2. 保計 take the second stanza of the story of duke Lew of which there is no intimation. We had to to return to the country which he had subdued; to the announcement of success, but that which had been sent to the general, when the army had reached the junction of the rivers on its forward march. If we do not take it thus, we must suppose that the earl of Shaou had again to return to the country which he had subdued: spective. The king's charge in it is not in reply St. 3, it seems to me, must be taken as retro-(輝詩不、凱而風鑒夷新) Buildat this stanza, which can hardly command our assent, that the enemy had submitted without a the 清 等 不 玩 玩 所 市 霸 is the gardiele. Yen Ts'an draws a conclusion from 机真) mobgain throughout the kingdom (東原 himself too strongly, as it, with the pacification of the Hwae tribes, there was an end of strife confidently. In L 7 the writer perhaps expresses defined by क्र It expresses an auspice very of the royal State, the king's domain. -as in L 3. T must be taken, I think, of all that had been intended. Ll. 5, 6. [11] F., M -, enceese, the accomplishment done for it. had planned and built; i. e., we had reduced it to order, we had done all that could be

- The king gave charge to Hoo of Shaou:—
 'You have everywhere diffused [and carried out my orders).
 When Wan and Woo received their appointment,
 The duke of Shaou was their strong support.
 You do not [only] have a regard to me the little child,
 But you try to resemble that duke of Shaou.
 You have commenced and earnestly displayed your merit;
 And I will make you happy.
- 4 'I give you a large libation-cup of jade,
 And a jar of herb-flavoured spirits from the black millet.
 I have made announcement to the accomplished one,
 And confer on you hills, lands, and fields.
 In [K'e-]chow shall you receive investiture,
 According as your ancestor received his.'
 Hoo bowed with his head to the ground, [and said],
 'May the Son of Heaven live for ever!'

In stt. 4, 5 we seem to have the reply of the king to the announcement of success. I cannot agree with Këang in regarding st. 4 as merely a continuation of the charge in st. 3 (艇 一時 事). Even he and the others who take the same view are obliged to find in st. 5 the reward conferred on the victorious leader; but these two stanzas are connected together. The E and of 1.1 in 4 extends to 1.6 The may be used with reference to any royal communication. In st. 4, the second and other lines, on the view of the whole which I adopt, must be taken indicatively. 有,-as in III. 1. 宣一布, 'to spread abroad;' i.e., the orders which he had received from the king. Ll. 3, 4. The 文献 are kings Wan and Woo; and the 召 公 is the great Shih, duke K'ang, the founder of the House, who was one of their principal supporters. 翰一翰, as in II. vii. I. 3, et al. Ll. 5, 6 are intended to depreciate the king himself and exalt the earl. The king was not to be compared with Wan and Woo, but Hoo was a town and with the way and the state of the state o but Hoo was a true descendant of Shih. Ll. 7, 8. 戏公一汝功, 'your meritorious service.' 用 = 以, 'thereon,' 'therefore.' The happiness which the king would give is that detailed 潘一賜, 'to give;' as in ii. III. in st. 5. l. 1. 主寶 is the same as 王璋, in i. V.2; -see the notes there, and on i.IV.2. L.2. Comp. in the Shoo, V. xiii. 25. The cup and the spirits would be used by the earl in sacrificing in his ancestral temple. But there were more substantial rewards for him in the shape of an increase of territory,—hills and fields (H are taken together). 文人, 'the accomplish·平101.180,王·七张·思·241.13 来。唯多,让事,事,事,亦亦亦亦 The thymes are in st. 1, P. M. . . . Sudmi of Gotal rather than military prowess. the divide of Buid off Baisivbe vol free odly yaising ai slinu lie stanks, but it is not sufficient to justify his stanks; but it is not sufficient to The critical construction of the line. LL 4—8. The critical construction of the part of the part in a stant in the Chow dynasty, modelled, apparently, from this oids not be lossed laiotities tubioning and more although the following the more although the following attended with the following attended with the following attended to the following the followin E I W (these 4 characters I cannot make suse of).

He then adduces the inscription on the time of the duke K'ang, and engraved on it this stance. The duke the sound of the kingdom; and Hoo now roused himself to the kingdom; and Hoo now roused himself to the carried to indicate king what is said in L.5, that should be invested with his new posses—
the carried by invested with his new posses—
the carried by the old territory of K.e.chow,
the carried by the old territory of K.e.chow,
the carried by the old territory of K.e.chow,

Spirrse ody ni boroidon bad zne'n skub doidn The service and achieved in the service is burized for the translation of which Keing Ping.

The view in the translation of which Keing Ping.

The view in the translation of which Keing Ping.

The view in the translation of which Keing Ping.

The view in the translation of which Keing Ping. ai'rbaurteano nood end ban oitenning what, ary e A to declare, 'to declare,' to celebrate; A when a product from the first possible in the possession of the possible possession of the possible po

Partinial sid of Streets over Build off

Till they perment in guarters of the kingdom. Les finis display his civil virtues, This good fame shall be without end. Torry incelligent is the Son of Heavens Jay for Son of Heaven live for ever! And sold in the family of the Buil 901 10 Sesonboog out by talqeib oenoqeor ai bul. Hoo bowed with his head to the ground,

 $M_{\pi^*III^Oos}IX^$ dectde of Taxa

'Put my six armies in order,
And get ready all my apparatus of war.
Be reverent, be cautious,
That we may give comfort to the States of the south.'

2 The King said to the Head of the Yin clan, 'Give a charge to Hëw-foo, earl of Ch'ing, To undertake the arrangement of the ranks, And to warn all my troops.

Along the bank of the Hwae.

定争, 每, cat. 11: in 3, 滸, 虎, 土, cat. 5, t. 2; 棘, 極, cat. 1, t. 3; 理, 海, ib., t. 2: in 4, 宣, 翰, cat. 14; 子, 似, 祉, cat. 1, t. 2: in 5, 卣 (prop. cat. 3), 人, 田, 命*, 命*, 年, cat. 12, t. 1: in 6, 首, 休, 考*, 壽, cat. 3, t. 2; 子, 已, cat. 1, t. 2; 德, 國, ib., t. 3.

Ode 9. Narrative. CELEBRATING AN EXPEDITION OF KING SEUEN AGAINST THE MORE NORTHERN TRIBES OF THE HWAE,—ITS IMPOSING PROGRESS AND COMPLETE SUCCESS. The Preface ascribes the composition of the piece to duke Muh of Shaou, the earl Hoo of the preceding ode,—whether correctly or not we cannot tell. The title—Chang woo, 'always martial'—has occasioned much speculation, as it is not taken, as is the case with the titles generally, from any line of the piece. It may be, as Twan Ch'ang-woo says, that this circumstance shows that the title possesses a peculiar significancy; but the attempts to discover it have been unsuccessful. According to the Chinese canon,

St. 1. The appointment of a commander-in-chief. The king accompanied, we shall find, the expedition in person, but he wisely entrusted the actual command of the armies to an officer of experience. L. 1 is appropriate to the orders of the king, it being considered necessary that anything emanating from him should be described in grand terms. L. 2. If think, to the office of Grandmaster, which, it appears from 1.4, was held by Hwang-foo, who was now appointed commander-in-chief. He was a descendant, we are told in 1.3, of Nan Chung, the same who is celebrated in H. i. VIII., as having done good service to the State against the Hëen-yun, in the time of king Wan. A minister, styled also Hwang-foo, is mentioned in H. iv. IX. as a very bad and dangerous man in the time of Yew, Senen's son and successor. Both character and years forbid us identifying him with the worthy in the text; but he may have been his son. Il. 5—8 contain the charge proper given to the general, though some critics also include in it ll. 3, 4. 片前,—see on i. IV. 3. King Seuen would take the field with all his forces. The 川 in 1.6 can only have the force of 'and.' 戎 = Fig., 'military weapons,'= all the apparatus of war. Ll. 7, 8. The States of the South are all those in the province of Seu which were harassed and disturbed by the movements of the wild tribes that necessitated the expedition. It was to be conducted specially with a view to their relief and comfort. We can hardly do other than translate 1. 7 in the imperative mood, though is the sign of the past tense. The command is in the substance of the lines rather than in the form of them. As Ying-tah expands them, 師嚴器備,當恭敬臨之 又當戒懼而處之施戶 勿得暴掠,為民之害也. St. 2. The charge to the minister of War.

St. 2. The charge to the minister of nan
1,2. H.,—'The Yin,' or the Head of the Yin clan. This is Yin Keih-foo, author of several pieces in this Book, and whose own military services against the Hüen-yun are commemorated in II. iii. III. He appears here as the H. 'Recorder of the Interior,' or secretary to the king, and transmits his orders to Hëw-foo, earl of Ching, a district in the

and agitated. L.7. E. 12. S. And Asilaked. L.7. E. 14. S. boyom od ot' missoosus botquriotninu H'II. TO I III. See, in perfect order. I. 8. s. in perfect order. I'lle advance wis in perfect order. I'lle advance wis in perfect order. I'lle advance wis in perfect order. ""; indiagos bah, 强州。 and bung unid out bundersbung the king on F va #, calmly; (#= 17, tommch, (So, Ch'ing). Have followed. Harmely; 'Heisurely;' He which and sold in the second and Li.2,4. Choo does not understand 1.8, but he . Ving is Lulus. A Shings, 20 (1933). 大型業業 bine, bodsinguiteib, 覷如赫 ause inspired by it. Li.1.2. Choo defines The majestic advance of the ling, and off to some presence of the presence of the Junithous anigim mundun bun tommus Buirge o student she proposed the labours of the translation (The Mark expected that the expected that the managed tha ni novia oval i dolla wolv oli americana sun come della mino della 是更更多,moajue apont and protracting an My ban is overawe it, and bin the country to overawe it, and bin is Bainoitaite'、公憩以丟留 ten bonindro ei secure the re-establishment of order. L.7. H little more than the presence of his armies to Fing was confident of success. It would take filmon 41 sannons in tankanny 10 Hill tion celebrated in the prec. ode. L. 6, die -lbogx9 out in thir Alab nood Zaived it to divos northern bank of the river, the tribes on the off no ban tran off 10 and oth bluow osoft the banks of the Ilwae (Miles of the Alons 斯斯, in march along, 淮南。8—3.11 in bins si infin sorioins of bluon esoubbe silt The substance of the best indicated is equivalent.

The address of the best indicated in the substance of the substance in th Mui en Mill 4. L. L. Mood or der in loos ui lu eron Louis suils soe han essanti lunovor tiuti esorut oils lo enoisivib. Alib ada ot naises bluow ool-will ुग्तिम वर्ष पव पुत्र वर्षा पव, न्यू में मू commang. odi Indernin oi '- ,Ta jili 8.1 ode todester Neway 100, na second in ode todester Manny 100, na second in ode todester the ni don bluon bun (A) (A) (A) In VI lo roteinin Choo says he does in 1.8 General domain, near the Yung who was Seneral and what the 'three businesses' in 1.8 are, but mentions the view which I have given in inister of War (in the which I have given in (inister of War (in the which I have given in this of War (in the which I have given in this of War (in the which I have given in this of War (in the which I have given in this of War (in the which I have given in this of War (in the which I have given in this of War (in the which I have given in this of War (in the white in the whi

As by the roll of thunder or its sudden crash, Jo noise terrified, the region of Seu. by Sen from stage to stage was moved; egani noslord in von (2522mm ni 2900m zin hivi 40%) Leisurely and calmly the king advanced, The Son of Heaven looked inajestic. full of grandeur and strength, and generation occupying lene territoryly in Jene torritoryly occupying lene territoryly proceed in Thirt the three-fold labours [of husbandry] may proceed in Thirt the three-fold labours [of husbandry] order. Lynotiust odd Buiygusso tou to 2000 ou ou oos or tree ou fasten un object of the outer un object of the outer units of the outer u thas to bund out goe or [ung o'lj

- The king aroused his warlike energy,
 As if he were moved with anger.
 He advanced his tiger-like officers,
 Looking fierce like raging tigers.
 He displayed his masses along the bank of the Hwae,
 And forthwith seized a crowd of captives.
 Securely kept was the country about the bank of the Hwae,
 Occupied by the royal armies.
- The royal legions were numerous;
 [Swift] as if they flew on wings,
 [Imposing] as the current of the Këang and the Han;
 Firm as a mountain;
 Rolling on like a stream;
 Continuous and orderly;
 Inscrutable, invincible;
 Grandly proceeding to set in order the States of Seu.

St. 4. The whole region of Seu was moved and awed by the invading force. This st. tells us how any resistance that was offered was dealt with. L. 2—如 震 富之然, 'like the rage of shaking thunder.' Le Ch'oo-e observes that the two substantive words in the line are to be construed together, without reference to the 如 between them, such repetition of a term being merely one of the characteristics of the ancient style (一句, 雖有兩如字,乃古文之一豐). Këang observes that the 進, 'to advance,' in l. 3 was the work of Hëw-foo. It may have been so; but it suited the poet's purpose to ascribe it to the king. 'The tiger officers' are to be taken of the officers of the army generally (泛言,不止皇炎 从 外). L. 4. 阅一查 忽之貌

St. 5 gives a glowing description of the king's army. 單單,—as in II. iii. IV. 4. L. 2 in-off tud anieszimous risads to Tiresnis sals rest to L.5. [H] .- to return, There had not been time Seu-phis for the time. Eing's court, but his OF WOMEN AND EUNICHS IN THE GOVERNMENT.

OF WOMEN AND EUNICHS IN PIECE WAS COMPOSED

The Preface says that this piece very the the carl of fran against king Yew. There by the carl of fran against the reign of any time of Yew, for it will not suit the reign of any before the plans was come of the Leveloped. List. sus dira bennors were error that such the king's plans were crowned that some the king's plans and come to some the first such that the plans were developed to the first some the companion of t thingra of old old of moss with and the sun of moss with the sun of our sunder stands of the sun of THE SAME STATE OF THE GOVERNMENT AND SERVICES AND SERVICES AND SERVICES OF SER TABLES OF THE THE LANGE OF THE LANGE OF THE VALUE OF THE The sor. The social does not say. The sor-AND INTINITIES OF THE INTERFERENCE OF THE INTERFERENCE Juda ali dud alest ban surti erari ere K. Ode 10. Marrative; but almaive in the may code 10. Marrative; but almaive musert and range from the marrates and marrative in the marrative in terprise. L.1. Mission of procedure. the successful conclusion of the en-四:11:四: 图:01:15 , 130 to collect, 10 see in order. T. S. 图 - X. Ernndly, 证 is here 選"回点:8.4.1.1加。周克真、1.1.8.4加强 棚而不一点不。地院而不一個 (14, 8, 1m)、 (24, 1m), (Williamirai esi ,7.1 han ;(3n 19.6.1117. 通、土浦郊、梁。中,京山、京山、海 ·· 新:2.4.5), cat. 5), cat. 5, t. 2; 那

All ni en E Francourant de l'ann con la lanc de l'annie neares are reprined to the more of the strength of the strength strings of the strength of the strength of the strings of the dientes the rapidity of its march; 1.3, the impostance of the diek explain iff here by the input that they would not rebel again. The rhymes are—in st. 1, 1 (prop. cat. 1), .[su noqu] nob tree sire sent down [upon us]. Choo and the dick explain El here by E Very long have we been disquieted, Subuis on su snoile ji Jud I look up to great Heaven, Chen jang.

ind the king suid, Let us return. ebnim 'dent ognede ninge tou bluon 'yell' Lis [chiefs] appeared before the king. The country was all reduced to order; Through the merit of the Son of Heaven. Transport bedeeted to some [sleins] sil [emist of sen came [at once to terms]; 'l'he king's plans were directed in truth and sincerity, $Z^{(aab)}HU^{(aa)}$ DECYDE OF LYZC.

deal off ni orientle tud (oriterin).

There is nothing settled in the country;
Officers and people are in distress.
Through the insects from without and from within,
There is no peace or limit [to our misery].
The net of crime is not taken up,
And there is no peace nor cure [for our state].

Men had their ground and fields, But you have them [now]. Men had their people and followers, But you have violently taken them from them. Here is one who ought to be held guiltless, other king; but there is nothing in it to indicate the authorship. We saw that the last ode of the preceding Book was also ascribed to an earl of Fan in the time of king Le. If the note of the Preface be correct, the writer of this ode may have been the son or grandson of the writer of the other.

St. 1, Ll. 1, 2. Comp. ll. 9, 10 in IV. 7, 8. The writer appeals to Heaven, as if the suffering that abounded were caused by it, and then proceeds to indicate and probe the real sources of it;according to the manner of many of these odes. Ll. 3, 4. Choo, after Maou, takes La as - 1, for a long time,' and 萬二霞, 'disorders ;'—as in the translation. Këang suggests another construction which is perhaps preferable, taking 填 in the sense of 寒, 'to be hindered,' 'to be straitened;'-this brings on 天 more clearly as the subject of 降 (天何不惠養我 大亂之災,云云). 11.5, 6. 操,—as in II. vii. X. 2, but the signification is here passive. Ll. 7, 8. 勐 联,—see II. vi. VIII. 2, III. iii. III. 7. The characters are evidently used here metaphorically of some evil ministers of the king; but there is to me a difficulty with 盃 疾, the other two characters in the line. Choo says nothing about them farther than that 疾 is to be taken as = 害, 'to injure,' so that the line—'Insect-like they com-Maou and Ching have mit insect injury.' neither of them anything on the point; but Ying-tah says that 'Maou-tsih denotes insects that injure the grain, and muou-tseih the appearance of their doing so; —as above. More satisfactory is a view given by Këang from some old writer of the surname Ho (何氏), that 'insects which attack the grain, coming from without, are called tsih, while those that are produced within the grain itself are called tseih On this view, the in-目內生日疾); sects from without will be Hwang-foo and other bad ministers of Yëw, and those from within will be represented principally by the queen Paou Sze. 届一板, 'limit or end.' , 'peace,' 'to be pacified.' Ll. 9, 10. By the 'net of crime (圣一絕)' we are to understand the multitude of penal laws, to whose doom peo-ple were exposed. These were never relaxed, never modified. Men were continually exposed to them; they acted as a net, which is never taken up, but is always kept in the water. 摎,—as in I. vi. XVI. 2.

St. 2. The point of interest here is to determine to whom to refer the 'you;'—whether to the king directly, or to the evil ministers represented by the devouring insects in last stanza. It seems best to refer it to the king, like the in st. 7. Ll. 1, 3 belong to princes and offi-

St. 4 enlarges on the procedure of the parties inSt. 4 enlarges on the procedure with the imspoken of and evil done by them, with the dogrown of letting them have anything to do informino, V B-$ tunepp, I.10. 陆= 是 od vam ed. I subbal a no tine ully to sqots out to incident of a so to sqots out a series of or sqots out of the series of or other or of the series of other or of the series of other or A. IIX. iii.I ai Ma iii. an oosthories in the dick, defines it as the dick, when grown, thinly bird, other accounts of it are given; on unfilly bird, Other accounts of it are given; an unfill bird, Other accounts of it are given; an unfill bird, other accounts of it are given; tions one is and there is no Chinese suother form of Hill; and The diet, defines it as -arden I. S. IV . HX. I ni England standard succession of the standard succ nam tud 'ediw ban bandend' ,ered ton ore file by Morrison, under the character W. F. writer seems to maye thought that there was a fectual in fectual to may essentially, victous in famous in fectual transming the wind were virtues in a man monething in the virtue winds of econe, where and instruming intermediate in the winds stansa translated by a woman, transming good, became winds and instruction of the winds The second of th dift, from its meaning in last st. - is here defined by the vetain, 'to hoonled as

The end, in the contract that the contract in the end, The contract is shaders in the beginning may be talking and the contract that the contract is a special to the contract that the contract is a special to the contract that the contract is a special to the contract that the contract is a special to the contract that the contract th Lultisosb , Lultuud , awob asam tasd ysdT od wom maiaringd odt ai sachards "isda Are women and ennuchs.

Those from whom come no lessons, no instruction,

Disorder does not come down from heaven; Is [like] a stepping-stone to disorder. guguot guol a dity agaion A But she is [no better than] an owl. Admirable may be the wise woman, But a wise woman overthrows it. Lydio a loj llaw oll qu ebliud nani oziw A Lit mon let him escape [from it]. There is one who ought to be held guilty, Jut you snare him [in the net of crime].

 B_{k} , III, Ook Z. DECYDE OF LYZG.

But they do not say [that their words were] very wrong;—
[They say], 'What evil was there in them?'
As if in the three times cent. per cent. of traffic,
A superior man should have any knowledge of it;
So a woman who has nothing to do with public affairs,
Leaves her silk-worms and weaving.

Why is it that Heaven is [thus] reproving [you]? Why is it that the Spirits are not blessing [you]? You neglect your great barbarian [foes], And regard me with hatred. You are regardless of the evil omens [that abound], And your demeanour is all-unseemly; with public affairs. L.1, The subject of 脏门 (= 篇, 'to reduce to extremity') is the women and eunuchs of 1. 10, st. 3,-Paou Sze and her creatures; and 岐(=害)忒(-變詐) are descriptive of their characters. L. 2 == 終, 'in the end.' 背一反, 'to be contrary to.' Ll. 3,4 are not a little perplexing. If we take the subject of [to be the false slanderers, then \(\frac{1}{12}\) I 'do they say?' is equivalent to-'They do not say.' They do not say that their words are 不 極,- wrong without limit; but they make light of them, as in 1.4 (而反日是何足為慝(━惡) 平). This is Choo's construction; and though it is 'chiselling,' nothing better can be made of the lines. I was inclined to translate according to the view of the lines given by Këang: - May not this be pronounced excessively wrong? But he (i.e., the king) says on the contrary, "What is there wrong in it?" But to justify this, 1.3 should be 豈不日極, instead of 量日本極. Ll. 5, 6 present a case which would be altogether out of reason.

trader.' is a profit three times the amount of the capital. A trader may know such a thing and seek it; but it is foreign to the superior man to do so. So ought it to be for a woman to occupy herself at all with public affairs, leaving her proper duties of rearing silkworms and of weaving.

In st.5 the writer addresses the king directly.

In ll. 1,2, 何以 and 何, are equivalents = 'why,' 'how is it.' Maou defines 富, 'to enrich,' by iii, 'to bless.' Without answering his questions, the writer goes on to expose the king's errors, which, indeed, supplied the best answer to them. Ll. 3,4. A M;—the great Teih.' There must have been at the time a threatening of trouble from some of the wild tribes in the north; but the king took no measures against them, while he made the writer, because of his plain speaking, the special object of his animosity. We are to conclude that it was not in this ode only that the author gave expression to his sentiments. 胥一相· king magnified the author, so as to put himself on equal terms with him as his adversary. Li. 5,6 further describe the king's ignorance of the situation of affairs, and incompetency for it. 用一関, 'to pity;' 'to regard with compasnocestonus as senta trivos Samusas es nocesorary foidy ai en Esvisora Villanatinos es nocesorary for a ni en Boyloyai soylosmodi banol olgoog odi at novasta notary got, one yet, on et alors to one boots so hold in a notary multinum vicing so hold on which differ ni multinum vicing so hold on which on the content of represented and worn with cares. ei nearch Abido 10t 10t 2. 2. 11. 1. 3. By the new transformer and assure more arritage as fastings on the state of the st .Wod', the trad long been growing. The ful, how. to disappear, to go away. bework worker a soring of the vriter's soring showed such a spring as evidence of its depth; "nom poon," 个辈 10 The manner in which the water bubbled up from ing, of the king's conduct. aloitrag out ai \(\frac{7}{4}\) S. T. I. I. A. L. I. I. ai II. vii. VIII. 2. -bnsequences, already experienced and impendthe far franching ought to be. Il. 7.8 tell the figure drawing a mail orom at essabas boltios a an worner or worner to A has to be taken A we not good; or more generally, 4.1 ni 10 3ningani ont the meaning of an ei 8.1 = Tik K .9810W 20W July 10 Buonino ban in all in the be close at hand, all in on tous events which were rife, bad in themselves, 10 osnos odi ni oron nodili si Mi A. A. Then Mare I'll manny and the calami- Then Them A. I'll manny and the calamination were rife, and in themselves, and in themselves. Heaven is sending down calamities to not as Heaven is sending down calamities, independent than defore, independent than defore the defore that the defore the defored the defore the defore the defore the defore the defore the defored the defore the defore the defored the defored the defored th Why were things not before me? Synb-of to [Vino] is gl The sorrow of my heart,— Revealing its depth. Buildud restring comes the water bubbling. .bas si trasal Yau bad. Good men are going away. Heaven is letting down its net, in it]. Luduny heart is sourowful. Good] men are going away. Heaven is letting down its net, it if it it. I fand bud bud fare the calamities in it. And the country is sure to go to ruin. Good] men are going away. $\eta_{x,\, III,\, Out}\, X$ DEGYDE OL LYZG.

But mysteriously Great Heaven Is able to strengthen anything; Do not disgrace your great ancestors, And it will save your posterity.

> XI. Shaou min.

Compassionate Heaven is arrayed in angry terrors; Heaven is indeed sending down ruin, Afflicting us with famine, So that the people are all wandering fugitives;-

In the settled regions and on the borders all is desolation.

Ll. 5, 6,—as in II. iv. VIII. 2. Ll. 7, 8. After all, 1 the extremity of the kingdom might prove Heaven's opportunity. 貌貌 is defined by 高 京原, 'the app. of being high and distant;' but the idea which it gives us is that of mysteri-置一古, 'to strengthen,' 'to make firm.' Ll. 9, 10 are an admonition to king Yew, grounded on the writer's faith that all things are possible with Heaven. L.9 summons him to repentance, though that is not expressed. is the initial particle, though we might also give to it the meaning of H or W.

The rhymes are—in st.1. 惠, 厲, 怒, 届, cat. 15, t. 3; 收, 瀍, cat. 3, t. 1: in 2, 田,人, cat. 12, t. 1; 套, 說, cat. 15, t. 3; 罪, 罪, ib., t.2: in 3, 城,城, cat. 11; 隱, 階, cat. 15. t. 1; 天, 人, cat. 12, t. 1; 誨*, 寺, cat. 1, t. 2: in 4, 忒, 背 *, 極, 慝, 識. 織, cat. 1, t. 3; 信,事,ib,t.2:in 5,富.,忌,ib;祥,亡, cat. 10; 類, 捧, cat. 15, t. 3: in 6, 罔, 亡, 罔, 亡, cat. 10; 優, 憂, cat. 3, t. 1; 幾, 悲, cat. 15, t. 1: in 7, 深, 今, cat. 7, t. 1; 後, 證 (prop. cat. 9), 後, cat. 4, t. 2.

Ode 11. Narrative, all but st. 6, which is perhaps metaphorical. THE WRITER BEMOANS THE MISERY AND BUIN WHICH WERE GOING ON, SHOWING HOW THEY WERE OWING TO THE KING'S EMPLOYMENT OF MEAN AND WORTHLESS CREATURES. The Preface ascribes this piece, like the last, to the earl of Fan; the style is like that of the other, and I believe that the authorship of the two was the same. 'The writer, says Kënng, 'saw that nothing now could be done for the kingdom, and that the honoured capital of Chow was near destruction; but in his loyal and righteous heart he could not cease to hope concerning his sovereign. In the former ode he expresses his wish that the king would not disgrace his great ancestors, and here that he would use such ministers as the duke of Shaou. A filial son will not refrain from giving medicine to his father, though he knows that his disease is incurable, and a loyal minister will still give good advice to his sovereign, though he knows that the kingdom is on the verge of ruin.' The name of the ode seems to be taken from the character 💂 in st. 1, and in st. 7; and it is thus distinguished from the Sëaou-min of II. v. I. St. 1. L. 1,—see on II. iii. I. 1. L. 2. 篇一 厚, 'largely,'—in many and severe ways. L.3. 滇,-as in IV.6. 饑饉,-as in II.iv.X.1, et al. L.4. 卒=盡, 'entirely.' 流亡, 'are disappearing as if borne away on a current.'

ε

Breeders of confusion, utterly perverse:-Ignorant, oppressive, negligent, Devouring insects, who weary and confuse men's minds, Heaven sends down its net of crime;-

These are the men employed to tranquillize our country.

Insolent and slanderous,-

Are constantly subjected to degradation. For long in unrest, We, careful and feeling in peril, The king does not know a flaw in them.

The grass not attaining to luxuriance; As in a year of drought, 果 者一, to be insolent. branded in last st. L. I is further descriptive of the parties to regulate and order: the cause of all the misery by employing them. but I. 5, intimates that it was the king who was me in H. 12, et al. Thus far these destroyers from Heaven; of the country appear as a pest from Heaven;

道寫中水,直要) Choo (要更, 本) withered; -and this seems to be the view of the upon a tree, where of course it will get dry and denote the same taken from the grass and stuck that mean an aquatic grass, then 🏚 🖹 will 中祭章, grass doating in the water. under the pronunciation cha, defines E by There is a difficulty with 表音. The dict., There by X as in II. v. I. 4, last line. I.3. L. 2. Both Maou and Choo define 4,-na in at. I of last ode. E. .- to be degraded. writer and of others like-minded with him. the terms. This and L 4 are descriptive of the Both Maou and Choo agree in this definition of 墨聞無齡站看者上木然對「藍回 '(e-00'd) and (a) are ing the rish a rish -sib baa gainiur, 專其個別一影影 or as = 'disrespectful,' # being = #. L. 4. tion, He being= (H, ' to discharge one's duty;' 露共 may be taken as in the transla-期而涿.肥不而暑) notaleanst out I prefer, however, to take the terms as in the meaning of 'to castrate,' which belongs to and the passage is referred to in the dict. under Ch'ing take as a designation for eunuchs; I suppose on men's minds. L. 3. Maou and these insect-like ereatures works 'within, i. e., Lini Lin in IL.8. The action of St. 2. TF 1' 5'comp. Il. 7, 9 in st. 1 of last -, to be desolate." 《翻 空 betoup deul ogseenge of a in the quoted, 蕪溉智卒潦四而伐,中囡而

the royal domain and the feudal States (M dom; -- perhaps the capital, or more generally is explained as M III, 'the centre of the king-

I. G. 屋,-ns in III. iv. 居, ns opposed to 屋,

As water plants attached to a tree; So do I see in this country All going to confusion.

The wealth of former days Was not like our present condition. The distress of the present Did not previously reach this degree. Those are [like] coarse rice, these are [like] fine;— Why do you not retire of yourselves, But prolong my anxious sorrow?

The dict., however, quotes the gloss of is used without and the other adjuncts. Ying-tah, that is the name for any withered vegetation.' A withered branch hanging on a tree, and the same fallen into the water, and floating about in it, are equally called . In 1.5, L is the final particle. 潰一 亂;—as in the translation. On the difft meanings of 農, Yen Ts'an says, 'In I.iii.X.6, we have 有洗有潰,where 潰 is explained by 怒, "anger;" in II.v. I.4, we have 是用 不潰于成, where 潰 is explained by 潢, "to succeed in," "to attain to," as in 1. 2 of this stanza; in st.2 of this ode, we have 潰, and here 無不潰止, where the term is explained by 萬, "disorder." On all the instances Hëang-she (項氏; probably Hëang Gan-she 項安世; al. 平甫, al. 容齋; Sung dyn.) observes, "When water is 潰, it breaks forth violently in every direction, hence great anger is 潰 怒; great progress is 潰 遂; great disorder is 潰亂:—the same idea underlies each application of the term." this explanation is very lame, because the term

Këang insists on of the explanation of the term in every instance. Thus 1.2 is with him= Does not the grass have its luxuriance destroyed?'

St. 5. Ll. 1,2. Choo says that 時一是, 'this,' having in mind probably the 滋 in l.4; but I prefer Ching's 時 - 今時, the present time.' Formerly men who deserved it got wealth, i. e., the emoluments of office; now only worthless creatures were in office. Ll. 3,4. And the distress of good men at this time was beyond all precedent. L.5. 彼,—'those,' referring to the worthless men who enjoyed the favour of the king; #f, - 'these,' referring to the good men who were discountenanced. 'coarse,' = 提, rice that has not been hulled. 粺,—'rice that has been hulled fine,' = fine. In Il. 6,7, the writer addresses himself to the king's favourites. 替一廢; 自 替,-'to 脂一 because of this; retire of themselves.' compare III. 15,16, and the other places where 倉兄, in Ⅲ1. 引一長, 'to be prolonged.' 斯 has its descriptive power,—like 其. St. 6. Choo gives this stanza like the others

Yew's father; and the duke of Shaou necessarimakes A I to bo , the tormer king, Seuen, Künng without any reason Wan and Woo. P. - A. 'great.' He whole line is interrogutive.

St. 7. 11, 1,2. 'The former kings' must be - this, or the, L. G,-as l. 7 in last stauza. 班一半 or 歷, Breut, , Aige, 靴 tioned as the feeders of the pool, because through them the water would be conveyed into it; whereas the spring fed itself, 'from its centre.' Mi = Mr., punka, Incao uto moninterrogatively, 🔀 deing disregarded as exbe discovered. LL 2 and 4 must be construed the present disorder and threatening ruin might cach of which had its cause; and so the cause of LL 1-1 mention two things, metaphorical sion in conversation that it was better taken as

7 雷雷·墨·· (atr.), t.2. makes 客(?) 引, 頻 rhyme, cat. 12, t. 1. In H. H. eat. 9. Out of 6 and 6 together, he . P. 3. 6, 高. 時, 既, 歌, 恐, 恐, 品, 高. 6, 生, 1, 血 6, 中, Twan-she gives us 🏋 (prop. cat. 3), L., cat. I, 10: in 2, II, in 4 there are no rhymes,—though The rhymes are—in st. I, III, T., cat. old virtue. , still., 電-電輝くV, men of the L. 7 is to be construed interrogatively. All contracted, to be contracted, 3.4 记字 引 vto open up; 一部 in VIII. 8. instead of duke K'ang,—the famous Shih. I.I. as narrative (III); but he allowed on one ocea- by decomes duke klub of the 6th and other odes,

Are there not still some with the old virtue? Among the men of the present day, isuly id() Now it is contracted in a day a hundred le. Who would in a day enlarge the kingdom a hundred le. There were such ministers as the duke of Shaou,

Formerly when the former kings received their appointment, Will not calamity light on my person? So that my anxious sorrow is increased. Great is the injury [all about]

Is it not because no water rises in it from itself?

A spring becomes dry,—

Is it not because no water comes to it from its banks? $oldsymbol{V}$ boot peromes $oldsymbol{q}_{L}$

THE SHE KING.

PART IV.

ODES OF THE TEMPLE AND THE ALTAR,

ROOK I' SYCHIEICIVE ODES OF CHOW,

THE DECADE OF 18'130 MEAOU.

տունա ըահան ·I

[All] assiduous followers of the virtue of [king] Wan. Great was the number of the officers:-Reverent and harmonious were the distinguished assistants; Ah! solemn is the ancestral temple in its pure stillness.

Grandly they hurried about in the temple. In response to him in heaven,

And will never be wearied of among men. Distinguished is he and honoured, of Choo and Kenng. Yet there are some odes whose only claim to have anything to do with sacrifices is that they are found in it. Choo adds, in opposition to the older interpreters, 'form.' As all the pieces cannot be referred to the services of the ancestral temple, I have combined in the name of the Part the definitions of Choo and Keing. Yet there are some odes of M. with the definition of M. appearance, in the Dict, yang given as the first pronunciation of the characters Aff and F. We find, indeed, count takes its form from the ancient interchange Beings their achievement thereof. tion of complete virtue, announcing to apiritual Tire or run Part IV, Part IV, pieces in admiration of the embodied manifestawill the wing are sung are 其以,容悉玄劑 盐美諸聚 Songs of Praise, In the Great Preface we anting studies also sont the odes in this Part as Sacrifices. The term Aff itself means 'to praise as oleum oilt rot egnoz' 祝縣 紫 么 而 亲 for the music of the Ancestral Temple; Kenng's, eynd's 清樂 字順宗 si 政 to motital ab Odes of the Temple and the Aliar, Choo's

II. Wei T'ëen che ming.

之文不於不於之維 之維 德王顯。乎已。穆命。天 命天

The ordinances of Heaven,—
How deep are they and unintermitting!
And oh! how illustrious
Was the singleness of the virtue of king Wăn!

that of the thirty-one pieces in the Sung of Chow, while most were made (or fixed, E) by the duke of Chow, there are perhaps some among them belonging to the reign of king K'ang, and even of a later date. To the Sung of Chow, he says, were annexed the four pieces called the Sung of Loo, and the five forming the Sung of Shang, because of their analogous character.

Title of the Book, and of this Section of As this stands in the K'ang-he edition, and was fixed, I suppose, by Choo, we have 店公貞, 清廟之什,四之一,'Book I. of Part IV.; the Decade of Tsing-meaou in the Temple Odes of Choo.' But this ordinary distribution of the different portions of this Part is defective, making five Books, instead of three only :-- the odes of Chow; of Loo; and of Shang. Then, as the odes of Chow have been arranged into Decades (with eleven pieces in the last, as in the third Book of Part III.), we have to divide the title of the Book, and that of the Decades; as I have done. Z -, 'The Sacrificial Odes of Chow; Book I. of Part IV; and the latter, 清面之 什, 四一之一, 'Decade of Ts'ing-mëaou; Section I. of Book I., Part IV.

Ode. 1. Narrative. CELEBRATING THE REVE-RENTIAL MANNER IN WHICH A SACRIFICE TO KING WAN WAS PERFORMED, AND FURTHER PRAISING HIM. Choo agrees with the Preface in assigning the composition of this piece to the time of the sacrifice mentioned in the Shoo, V. xili. 29, when, the building of Loh being finished, king Ching came to the new city, and offered a red bull to king Wan, and the same to king The ode seems to me to have been sung Woo. in honour of Wan after the sacrifice was offered. L. 1. 5 (woo), —the exclamation. with Maou, 一美, 'admirable,' 'elegant;' with Choo,=深遠, 'deep and distant,' 'solemn.' The term is descriptive of the temple, further said to be in, 'pure,' or as Choo defines the term, 清 講, 'pure and still.' Maou and Ching make it applicable rather to the worship or the worshippers in the temple; but why should we depart from the natural and appropriate signification of the line? L.2 belongs to the princes of the States who were assembled on the occasion, and assisted (#P=III) the king in the service. 南一被, 'to be reverent;' 雕二和, harmonions.' L.3 belongs to the officers who took part in the service, -in the libations, the prayers, and the various arrangements. 酒舊 = it, 'numerous;'-as often. I refer l.4 both to the princes and the officers, who are said to be characterized by the same virtues which had marked king Wan. 文之德 can hardly be 'the virtues of civil life,' but 支土之德;

—as in the translation. Ll. 5, 6. There is an opposition of 在天 and 在廟, the former referring to king Wan as in heaven, the latter to him as present by his spirit-tablet in the temple. 對,一'responding to,'一直L;越 is defined by 1. The line is rugged; but it leads us to think of the worshippers as being awed by the thought of king Wan in his exalted state, and con-sequently being most exact and alert in all their 殿 is defined by 大 duties in the temple. 而疾, 'grandly and alertly.' Wang Taou takes it as— , a meaning found in the Urhya; and the says, — in III. iii.
VIII. 8. Ll. 7, 8 indicate the testimony borne by all the same to the wan. by all the service to the virtue of king Wan. L. 7 must be taken interrogatively, or we may disregard the 不. 承一尊, 'to honour,' 'to be honoured.' 身,—as in III. iii. II. 7, et al. 斯 is the final particle. There are no rhymes in the ode. Choo observes that in these odes of Chow, there are many of them that do not rhyme;—a peculiarity which he cannot account for. It is mainly owing to Ode 2. Narrative. Celebrating the virtue of king Wan as comparable to that of this circumstance, I suppose, that we have no longer the odes divided into a or stanzas.

They are marked off, however, into fin or small paragraphs. I have indicated those by a space between them in the translation, and by a

How does he [now] show his kindness?

And may his remotest descendant be abundantly the samel Striving to be in accord with him, our king Wan; We will receive [his favour],

.pm'st 15VI III.

霾弦身

They have been the happy omen of [the fortunes of] Chow. Till now when they have issued in our complete State, From the first sacrifice [to him], Are the statutes of king Wan. Clear, and to be preserved bright,

But neither the ode nor

As a specimen of how the I do not think we are to inquire minutely wherein the accord with king Win was, or was or prayer, as line 3 expresses the purpose of the writer for himself. roted.' The whole line is expressive of a hope, 一言 首。 Senerously deso denominated. scendants of Wan, after king Ching, might be 孫=後王, 'luture kings.' Any of the de-大順, 'to be greatly in accord with.' Maou defines it by 梨 'to collect. 觀電 '; eriever ot' , 😤 = 🏋 make sense of this. 大道旅行歌; but I can hardly and 流一流, so that the line 二点 fan Maou takes B as = $ (as in III. ii. V. I), ing. I have no doubt that it indicates the meaning, and have translated accordingly. and Choo would adopt that as the correct readof duke Scang, quotes l. 5 as fill !!! IM IE. Ll. 5-S. The Tso-chuen, under the 26th year and hereby be in great accordance with the Wan will also do the same. We will receive it, way Heaven may show its favour to us, king dance of all natural productions. In whatever rains, the happiness of the people, and the abunsion of abundant years, gentle winds, sweet Wan is just Heaven;—[as seen] at the present time in the quiet of all the States, the successtreams with that of Heaven and Earth. auus beneath, flows forth equally in the Chinese critics enlarge on the ode, I subjoin the remarks of Kēang Ping-chang, in his expansion of it:—'The virtue of king Wan, above and beneath flow. to be manifested.

of the translation, and the 🗡 🗖 of Ching. better, by 大禁臣, unmixed, —the 'singleness' able.' Alaou defines Aff dy 🛧 ' great;' Choo, 'inexhaustible,' and Maou's, III the 'illimitout intermission. Choo's deshuition is ill ig. Test or cease, i.e., operate withas seen in nature and providence. I apprehend, the will and operations of Heaven (客) 萬 The phrase in the text means, T T) esatures eti ot esatures Handa do in itself (天大自然者), and the latter that the former is indicative of what Heaven is guivne te Detreen 天道 and 天 faying of the Chrings of the Sung dyn, however, dis-命by 天之道, the way of Heaven, One Ll. 1, 2. Choo, after Ching, defines 天 argument of the contents than that which I any ancient testimony authorizes a more definite Jear of his regency.

of complete peace throughout the kingdom; and Alaou and Chring particularize and refine upon this, referring it to a sacrifice to king Wan by the duke of Chow, when he had completed the statutes for the new dynasty in the sixth seats and the sixth and th ode there is an announcement of the realization

HEAVEN, AND LOOKING TO HIM FOR BLESSING IN THIS THE FUTURE. The Presence says that in this

See Teze-eze on the 4 lines in the 'Doctrine of the Mean,' XXVI. 10.

IV. Lëeh wan.

Ye, brilliant and accomplished princes, Have conferred on me this happiness. Your favours to me are without limit, And my descendants will preserve [the fruits of] them.

his ways is the same as to be in accordance with the ways of Heaven. And why should we speak only of the present time? His descendants hereafter are sure as well largely to carry out his virtue, and not forget him.

There are no rhymes.

Ode 3. Narrative. APPROPRIATE AT SOME SAORIFICE TO KING WAY, AND CELEBRATING HIS STATUTES. According to the Preface, this ode was sung to accompany the performance of the dance of king Wan, called Stung (奏象舞). That dance consisted in going through a number of bodily movements and evolutions, intended to illustrate the style of fighting introduced by Wan in his various wars, and of which, it is supposed, we have an example in the speech of king Woo at Muh:- 'Do not advance more than six or seven steps, and then stop and adjust your ranks. Do not exceed four blows, five blows, six blows, or seven blows; and then stop and adjust your ranks (Shoo, V. ii. 7, 8). Choo observes, however, that there is no reference in the piece to the dance, and the imperial editors allow this, while at the same time they are very unwilling to give up the view of the Preface, accumulating a great number of authorities in support of it. But the fact is, all we can say about the ode is that it is appropriate to some sacrifice to king Wan. The #L is to me irreconcileable with the old view, which takes it in the sense of ﷺ, 'laws,' or 'methods;' meaning the style of fighting which Wan, it is said, introduced. But the term has a higher meaning than that, and—'canons,' 'statutes.' The piece has the appearance of a fragment. As Choo says,此詩疑有關文

L. 1. is defined by in H, 'perspicuous,' clear.' The term is indicative, and not, as Choo and many others say, to be taken in the imperative mood. 絹-續, 'to continue;' 配 — 明, 'clear.' These two terms are to be translated as I have done (所當網際 者). L.3 may be taken, as in the translation, of the time when Wan was first sacrificed to (武王有天下始祀交王以 王禮之時); or, so far as the terms are ways of king Wan. To be in accordance with | concerned, of the time when Wan himself first offered a particular sacrifice which the writer has in his mind (文王爱命,始祭 天而枝伐也,周禮以禋祀 祀昊天上帝; Ching). I much prefor the former method. 不知,—simply = 元 'to sacrifice.' L.4. 迄 = 至, 'till,' 'down to.' It covers the rest of the line:—'till by the use of them there is completion;' the meaning being, apparently, what the translation indicates. L. 4. 则具,—'a happy omen.' See on the 'Doctrine of the Mean,' ch. XXIV.

Rhymes are found in 成, 頑, cat. 11; 典*, 爬 *, cat. 18.

Ode 4. Narrative. A song in Praise of THE PRINCES WHO HAVE ASSISTED AT A SACRI-FIGE, AND ADMONISHING THEM. The Preface says that this piece was made on the occasion of king Ching's accession to the government, when he thus addressed the princes who had assisted Choo views it as him in the ancestral temple. a piece for general use in the ancestral temple, when the king presented a cup to his assisting guests after they had thrice presented the cup to the representatives of the dead. These two views considerably affect the interpretation of several of the lines. The imperial editors incline to maintain the occasion of the composition as assigned in the Preface. But there is nothing really in the piece to enable an impartial student to give his vote in favour of either view. Këang Ping-chang, for a wonder, agrees with Choo, saying, 儀禮, 簑三駅 ア之後 人酌資歌烈文在此時意 先之以載見之詩,而後歌烈 叉也. But in the text of the E Le there is no mention of the singing this piece.

L.1. 辟公一諸侯, 'the feudal princes;' —the 'distinguished assistants' of ode L. 📣 has here the general signification of 'prince,' and the phrase='ruling princes.' 规一光, 'brilliant; -some give it the signification of meritorious. It is certainly most natural to take the princes as the subject of B and E in 11.2,3; and

910-Buiy unW yd borrodor om ,d.l.II ni bing The 其 in 11. 6, 8, 10, and 12, as well as Maon brings out, substantially, the same mean-. Troneoual, 小疆. эпевилия эо от, В. Ж. = III ; 1198 s, эпо devoted to gain to entitely devoted to gain to entich grund' 斯桂自以际專一桂 anoting (prop. eat. 11), eat. 12, t. 1. Koo-she, A. Hi. accepts the meaning given in the trans-H. (prop. cat. 18), and A. Hill (prop. cat. 18), M. cat. 10), cat. 9; and Choo says he does not understand # fig. in Twan-she gives as thymes here, IIII (prop. cat. not clear. I suppose it is to be sought in the $g_{xyy} = g_{xyy} = g_{yy}$ The antecedent to La is in 1.4 is given to them, they would be following out their od bluos exegesis could be si won suchinombs all gaived by that babaim back to kings Wan and Woo, and they are re-AF odisidive Shang dynasty. By this the The I. Is sends the thoughts of the princes the States conferred on the princes after the Il. 9-12. Compare what was said on III. il. od or 'esoungphile's the 'happiness' to be . 5.大昌而司黜 The solder of Building a wonte units to be settled to the solder of the Choo expands the line, 唐法之子孫 田本 田 剛 孔 麗 田 順 次 $\cdot^{boloadai}$ 之想編戲產型搭號) eoyinninoeoyu ancessors of the princes before the king are Messill they had pronounced through their resucceeding to one another in order. and the happiness will be the Woo', who had been sucrificed to, as the nonii. Ring Woo in his struggle with the last sovereign binon barading goth motive barabenes esoning out ban ak W lo Aduob ou) elitiq2 odl . All ebanierob Moon and a host of others, of the service which Tescince and Flower of the She, however, undive all banderstand of noiseast off lo The Judy bearing with their assistance. The 44. Seems out the sacrifice. It seems out and soundsizes and babnatai ei souivrae anorg of the entegory of Translated are sacrifice which to the entegory of the subject, and must be translated by the subject. of the subject, and must be translated by will. It will secure the initiation of all the princes. — isuoujujų guisd si bodsiuguijstib jeom si judy Jes influence will he felt throughout your States. Tinn old gaing she being the man; It is the dignity of your successors. ્રુગોપ્રાગ્ટ _{રાગ્}યણ સાંત્રે ૧૦ છાણીનાંત્રી And the king will honour you.

setters and in the general son your States, and your States, and an all the son off the son off the son off the son off the son of the son off the son $n_{x\cdot I\cdot O_{D_x^xIV}}$ DECVDE OF TSIZE MEVOU.

新知·mq 體青河。Groo, quice er-

(100 ann ot, 大= 青

T'ëen tsoh V.

Heaven made the lofty hill,

And king T'ae brought [the country about] it under cultivation.

He made the commencement with it,

And king Wan tranquilly [carried on the work],

[Till] that rugged [mount] K'e Had level roads leading to it.

May their descendants ever preserve it!

Ode 5. Narrative. Appropriate to a sacri-FICE TO KING T'AE. The Preface says the piece was used in the seasonal sacrifices to all the former kings and dukes of the House of Chow; see in II. i. VI. 5. Choo confines it to a sacrifice to king T'ae. The imperial editors allow that both views have their difficulties. As only kings T'ae and Wan are mentioned in it, why should the Preface extend it to all the ancestors of the House of Chow? As they are both mentioned, why should Choo confine it to king Tae? They themselves favour the view of the Preface; but there is force in an observation of Choo Kungts'ëen, that, as the piece puts forward mount K'e both in the beginning and the end, it is plain it was made for a sacrifice to king Tae. See the account of T'ae's labours there in III. i. VII.

Ll. 1, 2. By 'the lofty hill' we are evidently to understand mount K'e, and 荒一治, 'to bring under cultivation.' Maou takes it as-大, 'to make great;' and seems to take 高山 generally,- 'Heaven produces all things that are found on the high hills, but king Tae by his practice of right ways was able to increase them.' Foo Kwang observes that 'to bring wild desolation (治荒) to order is called 荒, just as the regulation of disorder (治 亂) is called 論[.' Ll.3,4. I can only get a meaning out of these lines by referring 彼 to king Tae, and taking 康-安, as in the translation. Ching explains 彼 by 萬民, 'all the people;' i. e., all the people dwelling about mount K'e. They set to work and built residences (作宮室) there, so that king Wan could comfortably occupy it! Ll. 5, 6. Maou read 彼祖 矣, making l. 5, and joining 岐 to 有 夷之行as l. 6. But the meaning that can be forced from the lines read so is very inane:-'He, i. e., king Wan, went away, but by that time there were level roads about K'e;' or, acc. to Ching, 'Those who went there afterwards, did so because the ruler of K'e exercised an easy government;' or, acc. to Këang, 'Although king Wan moved away from it, yet his govt. of K'e was a model for the practice of a hundred ages." Choo adopted the reading of 川月 for 月, which had been proposed by Ch'in Kwoh (沈 括; Sung dyn.; earlier than Choo). In a chapter of the Books of the after Han (西南夷傳) we find the line as 彼岨者岐. There seems a necessity for altering Maou's reading and arrangement of the lines. 夷=平, 'level.' 行一路, 'roads.' L. 7 is to be taken as a wish, or the expression of an assurance. fared ill with the kings of Chow after they parted with the territory of K'e to the lords of Ts'in.

The rhymes are—荒, 康, 行*, cat. 10.

the second and the needed not to give the strong the strong then it, to found the strong then it, to strong then it, to strong then it, to strong then it to foundation, so that it is superincumbent that it is superincumbent. plished fact, about which he needed not to give tine. In 8,4 about which he needed not to give determined one (Hedivine will took place in their to the sovereignty of the kingdom had long been The form of the state of the second of the s Twere now to be corrected the entor of the time flowed that the same of former scholars, and showed that title, of former were that king's honorary fille, characters were that king's honorary title, that king's honorary title, the former were that king's honorary title, the former was corrected in each case; Twere not to be taken as the honorary title Scholars, and showed that the characters FR Then Choo was the king Ching. Then Choo was the solutions characters discussed the same characters discussed the same characters of the same characters of the same ching how preceding the trian observes, in ILI.I.Z., he exposed the error of former close to the same of t and moreover was held in the Unun is sew period by continent scholars;—see the Narratives of the biece without a states () the piece without a states () the piece without a state () t the honorary title given to Sung (Fills), the son tion of the charmeters # E in 1.8. Is in the the of this ode depend on the interpreta-Ode 6. Xurrative. Appropriate To A sacal-The different views which The different views with the meaning of the contractor.

May Heaven accept them! Mud a bun mur A I have brought my offerings,

III

·Lander o'll

l Villinpunt si guirusse os bul. Exercing all his heart, How did he continue and glorify [his heritage].

ti ni Vlbi 1251 01 Sinb don bib guide guide Jehich Jour True sovereigns received. dandaioqqa binimibib zi obam novasli

MY- 17 400 A 17

· Paina gaids will asi'T non H

DECADE OF TSING MEAOU.

時之夜。我變王。伊靖之刑 保威。畏其之。既嘏四典。文 之。于天夙〇右文方。日王

I imitate and follow and observe the statutes of king Wan, Seeking daily to secure the tranquillity of the kingdom. King Wan, the Blesser, Has descended on the right and accepted [the offerings].

Do I not, night and day, Revere the majesty of Heaven, Thus to preserve [their favour]?

Ode 7. Narrative. An ode appropriate to a sacrifice to king Wan, associated with Heaven, in the hall of audience. There is happily an agreement between the schools as to the occasion of this ode. The Preface, indeed, makes no mention of Heaven in its argument of it; but its mention of the Hall of Audience (H), 'Brilliant Hall') sufficiently shows the occasion to which it referred. We must suppose that the princes are all assembled at the royal court, and that the king receives them in the famous hall. A sacrifice is there presented by him to God, and with Him is associated king Wan, the two being the fountain from which, and the channel through which, the sovereignty had come to the House of Chow. It is unnecessary to enter into the controversies on the hall itself, and God as sacrificed to in it, whether to be conceived of as one or as five.

Ll. 1—3. Maou defines 將 by 大, 'great,' 'greatly;' and 事 by 獻, 'to offer,' 'offerings;' but it is much better to take 將一素, 'to bring,' 'to present;'—with Ch'ing and Choo. 'The reduplication of 我 is simply in the style of the She, to which attention has been called repeatedly; and we may regard 草 as under the regimen of 素,—as in the translation. The

The worshipper does not dare to presume that Heaven will accept the offering, but he asks that it will do so () to assist.' The offerings were on the left of the Spirit-tablets, so that if God accepted the sacrifice, he would descend and be on the right of the offerings. It has been observed before, that the right was anciently the place of honour.

Li. 4—7. From Henven the ode turns to king Wan, and the worshipper is sure that he does accept the service, rendered to him. Observe the contrast between the 里 of 1.7 and the 里 of 1.8. 章, 元, and 刑 are all of cognate signification, 二六, 'to take as the law.' Yen Ts'an observes that the accumulation of the terms is for the sake of emphasis (計 之 元). 田 is merely an initial particle. 元, "the Blesser (記 元).' Maou's construction, "We have always received blessing from king Wan,' comes to the same thing.

Li. 8-10. 于時一于是, 'thus,' Some prefer to keep the proper meaning of 時, so that 于時一'ever.' The antecedent to 之 in 保之 is very differently given. K'angshing makes it the ways of king Wan (於是得安文王之道). Choo makes it the regard of Heaven and Wan, as seen in their descending to accept the offerings (以保天與文王所以降鑒之意), and also the appointment by Heaven to the sovercignty (天命可以長保矣).

Rhymes are found in +, +, cat. 1, t. 1; and in +, +, +, cat. 10.

sid mori view sovereignty from his T S Woo, the chief of that House. 11.4. ovode 00 M to notinitate oft of universal rotato? and a nater to inclinations and at an important and an analysis and an inclination and at animaliar animals. and Asum A nouly 'Ylanar' '89X' -colining Heaven, by men, and by all Spirits. occupancy of the throne was acknowledged by wit hankalmondon and the proof that Wood neknowledged. the state of the s 1 10 Eo, 10 mare Choo, so that III would—'making tho sea-choo, so that III would would and the seems some successions the seems and progress the singdom, to make a special tour through the singdom, to macertain this, is nacertain with a special tentative object in it, to nacertain now, rather than JULE, with Ying-tah and 다니다. I prefer to take the as a select recessity; for which I do not see any necessity; to piace of timesti as the country of the second of the country of The rest is an intrinced the the the solution that the solution the solution of the duke of Chow. As he solution of the duke of Chow. It is to be taken of the duke of the solution off and noining to visuoris and The St. The St 10 solubadio obadisas elosoni o estitate di mi los controles of the dibedio de dibedio d this (Mill) estable of the States of all the Sampon A So, survey of the sentential of the sen SERBORIA NO SERVA CESA SERVA S An A section of solver in the colour of the

Raniod landiniqs IIn of Jeor moving him programme and selling the of Jeor moving him botomme and only have all only Fig. while with all off of the botomme and off To his movements

Truly are the honour and succession come from it to the Inog en en mid mosen novnoll zult. You's he making a progress through the States, inc. Sai se mid mayor and si wo'.

排其劉文 MIN East following VIII. Ske mue.

戢在周

Brilliant and illustrious is the House of Chow. He has regulated the positions of the princes; He has called in shields and spears; He has returned to their cases bows and arrows. I will cultivate admirable virtue, And display it throughout these great regions:-Truly will the king preserve the appointment.

Chih king.

The arm of king Woo was full of strength; Irresistible was his ardour. Greatly illustrious were Ching and K'ang, Kinged by God.

influence over all the States, for they must be call in ' as as in II. iii. I, 3 A time of peace understood as intended in the writer's mind understood as intended in the writer's mind by the 之 and the 莫不. Choo says. 读 乙而四方諸侯莫不 農性. The 1st 農 is active,—expressive of the way in which he moved the States. VIII. It is of no use trying to translate them.
Li 6. 7 contain the proof of Wo's sovereignty from his influence on spiritual Beings. i. e. on the Spirits of the rivers and hills throughout the kingdom. We have of course to accept the statement on the word of the writer. 寝is! defined by 次, 'to attract;' 柔, by 安, 'to give rest to.' The Spirits came and accepted his sacrifices; they found rest in Woo as their host. The Ho and the lefty mountains (न्त्र : are mentioned because, if their Spirits were satisfied with Woo, those of all other streams and hills, and and, were so. It S is the writer's ecuring assurance of the triamph of his House.

LL9-14 curry out the spirit of LS. Than! the two and are particles. L. 10 bel age to Worls distribution of the fiels of the kingdom;—see the Shoo, V. iii. 10.

had been inaugurated. On Il. 12, 13 I have made some observations in the introductory note. I must take them of the duke of Chow speaking of himself, and telling how he would go on to labour for the consolidation of the dynasty, elaborating all its statutes, which should be established throughout the kingdom. 東, 'to diffuse,' 'spread abroad.' 是夏, 'this Hêa,' Hêa being a name for the kingdom, as we find it used in the Shoo II. i. 20, even before the rise of the Hea dynasty. 保之-保天命. to preserve the application of Heaven. That had been gained by war; it would be preserved by peace and good government. The characters 建夏in I. 13 are sometimes used as the name of the ode. There are no rhymes.

O-le. 9. Narrative. An ode appropriate IN SACRIFICING TO THE KINGS WOO. CHING. AND KASG. Here again in the interpretation of this ode, Chao differs from the Preface, and from Maou and his school. On the place of king Woo in the piece there is no disagreement, the shoo, V. iii. 10.

观其平觀不-,evas od tud ,enil odt to It is difficult to get at Ch'ing's exact idea 而使大规其平 nould syrs og and seeured its tranquillity. Instrious was he, who completed his great work neaning the kings who were so styled. If we refer the terms to Woo, then the lines most ildifficulty with L 3, if we take M and M as result of that, 一, mid 刘紫. There is no Il = ' ardour.' Alaou and Choo take it of the tyranny, subduing every wrong impulse in himself, and resolute to secure universal good order.
The writer, it appears to me, would simply indiente the impression which he had of Woo's vigour and force. With L.2 comp. L.9 in ode 4. mori mobguis out rovilob or lify guiteorau ban of king Woo, maintaining in his lieure his strong asograng harom mail out to bootstaban od bluodle I.l. 1-1. The critics are all anxious that I. I to but on one side what is doubtful, an occasion for the application of the canonthink it right to preserve the older interpreta-ei 11., one berutam erom eil de shinghelm neis ei II was wrong in changing his mind, while yet they his grant work on the She, held the view of the oil interpreters, but they do not say that he the predicates in II. 4, 6 seem extravagant, when taken of Ching and Kang. The imperial call-tars ary that Choo himself, before he published band volte out no ban too W guid to ortigited ob an and lift in It. 3,5 if we take them as de-

with it hereafter as an instrument of music,—a meaning simply a reed or tube. We shall meet 高ーにの 響い which occurred in L iii. XVII.2, Th, 'to be harmonious,' 'to sound in harmony.' 電電電 is here defined by the worshippers. at the sacrifice, and the dessing conferred on uced to: and he proceeds to speak of the music characters and achievement of the kings sacri-The writer has done now with the intelligence. ogarly examining, 'the examining of 限 ban 深 限 Ju Yd bonftob ei 元 元 out great qualities, which justified their being associated with him in the honours of sacriter the other, to the throne, they maintained wint be had acquired. They were not within immediate succession to him, one of them atand Kung were kings equal to Woo; but, coming, the connection. It could not be said that Ching X E Die, Erandly and more; which suits The diet. defines it by cannot follow him. Mison explains it by iii, 'together;' where I Ll. 5-7. Choo gays nothing on the 🚮 here. tali into 'to bless.' which is immediately manipulated by Xing-Laou's making the term = 🥦 to admire;' 而云 所 君). This is much botter than ns a verb, to establish as ruler or king (|火祖考之道 L.L. 皇-春 Inkon readily with Choo as in the interpretation of ode VI We are obliged to strain the terms Our happiness and dignity will be prolonged. We have drunk, and we have eaten, to the fall; Careful and exact is all our deportment;

Messing is sent down in large measure;

Abundant blessing is sent down. The sounding stones and flutes blend their notes; The bells and drums sound in harmony;

loonogillotni riods enw gniturtonog woll (frandly held all within the four quarters [of the kingdom], Then we consider how Ching and Kang

X. Sze wän.

O accomplished How-tseih,

Thou didst prove thyself the correlate of Heaven; Thou didst give grain-food to our multitudes;—The immense gift of thy goodness.

Thou didst confer on us the wheat and the barley, Which God appointed for the nourishment of all; And without distinction of territory or boundary, The rules of social duty were diffused throughout.

The rules of social duty were diffused throughout these great regions.

kind of flute; which is its meaning here. 將將 is defined by 集 and 和集, 'to blend harmoniously.' The subject of 降 福 must be found, I apprehend, in the Spirits of the kings sacrificed to (此時神降之福). 護讓 is defined in the Urh-ya by 福, 'happiness,' or 'blessing;' but we are obliged to take the terms here of the abundance of the blessing. Maou defines them by 氣, and Choo, by 多.

II. 11.—14. 簡簡一大, 'great,' 'in large measure.' 反 反,—as in II. vii. VI. 3. L. 13 belongs to the conclusion of the sacrifice, when those engaged in it all drank together by way of fellowship and refreshment. Compare in III. ii. III. I, though the language there has reference to the feast that followed a sacrifice in the ancestral temple. 來反是反. Choo defines 反 數 覆, 'to be redoubled.' The blessing would not be received and then expire. It would keep coming back, and be, as it were, repeated (此 福 承 反 覆, 日 至 而 未 支).

The rhymes arc—王, 康, 皇, 方, 明*, 喤, 将, 豮, cat. 10; 簡, 反, 反, cat. 14.

Ode. 10. Narrative. CELEBRATING HOW-TSEIH;—AN ODE APPROPRIATE TO THE BORDER SACRIFICE, WHEN HOW-TSEIH WAS WORSHIPPED AS THE CORRELATE OF GOD. It is not worth while to go into minor controversies on the argument of this ode. There is a sufficient agreement upon it, but in the interpretation of the lines and characters there are, as we shall see, various differences of view. Compare the Legend of How-tseih, in III. iii. I.

is the initial particle,—as in Ll. 1, 2. We can only give 💢 the general III. i. VI. i. sense of 'accomplished,' as in the panegyric of Yaou, in the Shoo, I.i.1. 西天, 'to correspond to Heaven, is to be taken, I think, of the achievements of How-tseih's life, rather than of the place assigned to him at the border sacrifice. Ll. 3, 4. Choo follows Ching in taking in taking in taking *II, 'to supply with grain-food,' - as in the Shoo, II. iv. 1. Then 極一至, 'the utmost amount; and the meaning of 1.4 is as given in the translation. Maou says nothing on ____, but he defines 極 by 中, 'the middle,' i.e., the proper Mean of human nature, and this meaning is most unnaturally forced out of the lines:-- 'Thou didst preserve and establish the true life of all people under the sky, so that by thee, Howtseih, we might all get the correct Mean of our nature (存立我大 使衆民無不於爾后稷得其 中正言民賴后稷復其常 性).' Ll. 5, 6. 來 is taken as = 小麥, or 'wheat.' Wang Taou contends that it is merely the particle, or 是; but 來, when used in that sense, as no doubt it frequently is, is followed by a verb. 牟 (often with 努 at the side)

XIII.ix. 1.—This ode is sometimes called the virtuous. See Confucius' saying in the Ana, supplied with food, they could be taught to be When the people were is obo ni en- [] 👬 If the constant path, the duties of social life. हा-हा, anoitalenart oilt ni en onil oloifer oilt opposed to the ILL, and embling us to explain

A thyme is found in My fall, eat. I, t. 3.

天前高版ST天登智司 外登 桂九ᡴ 周 5 糸子共 不天 許大 の 程 録 ち 今 交 Mand hard') of preserved and to make percentral " now, to sure out it the series of "you," edition out the enty one amount the critics od or omen boil to meet the thirt come it The state of the s of each erw H. answeitenen (Last was thus by

BOOK I. THE SACRIFICIAL ODES OF CHOW.

[ii.] THE DECADE OF SHIN KUNG.

I. Shin-kung.

Ah! Ah! ministers and officers, Reverently attend to your public duties. The king has given you perfect rules;— Consult about them and consider them.

Ah! Ah! ye assistants,
It is now the end of spring;
And what have ye to seek for?
[Only] how to manage the new fields and those of the third

How beautiful are the wheat and the barley, Whose bright produce we shall receive!

TITLE OF THE SECTION.—臣工之什, 四一之二, 'The Decade of Shin-kung; Section II. of Book I. of Part. IV.'

Ode 1. Narrative. Instructions given to the officers of husbandry;—Probably after the sacrifice in the spring to God for a good year. According to the Preface, this was an ode sung in the ancestral temple, when the king was sending away the princes who had been at court and assisted him in the spring sacrifice to his ancestors. The imperial editors say that Choo himself at first accepted this view, but afterwards adopted that which I have given above in the first part of the argument,—'simply because the text only speaks of the business of husbandry (盖以經文言農事事).'

They add that later scholars have urged that if Choo's view be correct, the piece should have had its place among the Ya, and not among the Sung. But on the view of the Preface, the same thing might be urged, so far as the words of the ode themselves are concerned, There is no doubt in Upon it my mind that the old view is incorrect. we have an ode to the princes, and not a word in it is addressed to them. Nothing could be more far-fetched than Maou's method of accounting for this,-that the king chose to address the ministers of the princes, only the better to ad-Add to this the use of 我 monish the princes. in 1.13; and I do not see how any unprejudiced student of the piece can hold to the account of it in the Preface.

現命界

Order all our men Will in them give us a good year. The bright and glorious God

Anon we shall see the sickles at work. To be provided with their spuds and hoes:-

et to distinguish it from the plant gue,,--to hook or sickle. Fr. - soon. anon. Tread ras a kind of hoe; the chih, a short reapingased to raise the earth (The pole weeder or hoe." T'seen regis it was it was a devote to shade a second standard of dias (shie out in the nittle of the side), wongest of boundob ei of the bushandmen,—M A. A. (2d tone) If \(\, \, all the men, is, of course, to be taken : hy;' i e, grant a fruitful year. Ll. 13—15. will. H=H, by means of the wheat and Ll. 11,12. 适一至, to come to;' here—our from the mention of that time to think of them. no bel ai reacher the speaker is led on in summer. In the end of spring they were Choose says, 'The wheat and barley were ripe I have given is more natural and suitable. Fan bright gift:' i. e., of God. But the meaning which Z. Ill is taken by Choo as = 川朗, the [Jini an-梁來·指美·派领一; noit said by Choo to be 'an exchanation of admirasi皇林onen (耳) 吡S的 新 师 示者 惟此 新 备 之 即, cultivation. A the has to be understood before tient to read britt ett in the third year of their 表一张 I.V. iii.II no 902—; sbloh won', III] 张一下 以現然來預所火動其) all sub 工一类 日 百 日, all 70 ministers, all quire of you? So, the 'Flower and Essence of ale? is emphatic. I - E', an officer. H also be translated, 'And what more do us re-1.L.1-1. The reduplication of FELE, and reference to the Heary gear. Ll.7,8. L.7 may 王 , 人, cat. 12, t. 1. which we may add The Acad. 8, t. 1; and Rhymes are found in T. A. cat. 9; to ent', , to teab', mouth of the season, is to be understood with -III), 弄菜, 'late in spring,' i.e., the third 八 bac 元 = 景) ti to ruovet ni esugen bac िया प्रतान प्रदानात accepts this determination, fore Chee makes them a denomination of the cation of them is inai-plicable here; and theretion of the terms in that passage, such a signidwhether he de correct or not in his interpreta-Lefon grienom same out no steieni of bnn ;(用= 1 ban 天= 梨) sdgir e'rog the mailed soldier who eat on the chariot-平 10 土 展 Znincom at verning off enicly charioteer and a M. and Ch'ing exin his carrings, with his plough between the the labours of the year. There the king appears no ynissold a to'i bod ot ynigarg s'gniz odd diin They occur in the Le Ke, IV, i. 13 in connection nection. Mana says nothing on the terms. undetermined, and has to be fixed by the conolive is The meaning of H. D.E.I.I. kwal leronog our to nottailigge out at muosue liarities of soil and situation, to be taken into -mood su nous, (arch guile : AL FE) dies · There would be many things, says Ts Sent Gent-4. III. iii II ni en - 75 ; strandilabon . - . 75 Lomo, botalement od ot ton ei han A-Alquis -M. F. perfect rules. The redoubled M is M 'sguis Tomiol out', Till - en E gnist. Ill. ii. III. 8, et al. I do not see the necessity of mi ec- prigot, Me M. 2.1117 de Las in lion to constanc H A is difficult. Comp. R 在人士 拉斯爾斯-ne menning is apparent, but olicors of husbandry are intended. In to officers? but no must suppose that only the

E he. II.

Oh! yes, king Ching Brightly brought himself near. Lead your husbandmen To sow their various kinds of grain, Going vigorously to work on your private fields, All over the thirty le. Attend to your ploughing, With your ten thousand men all in pairs.

Instructions to the Narrative. OFFICERS OF HUSBANDRY. PROBABLY, LIKE THE PRECEDING ODE, AFTER SOME SACRIFICE TO GOD FOR A GOOD YEAR. The Preface says that this was an ode sung on the occasions of sacrifice by the king to God, in spring and summer, for a good year. But there is no intimation of sacrifice in it; nor would any one ever have thought of seeking for it but for the place of the ode in this Part of the She. Evidently the piece is of a kindred nature with the preceding one.

Ll. 1, 2. 隱嘻 form a compound exclamation; but it is not easy to determine its peculiar The dict. says that e is an exclasignificance. mation 'of pain,' 'of anger,' 'of perplexity;' none of which meanings suits this passage. Maou, again, defines he by 和, and Ying-tah by 敕, with which meanings I cannot construe the line. Yen Sze-koo (T'ang dyn.), however, explains the term as 自得之貌, 'the app. of satisfaction,' or 'self-possession.' So I understand it; and the two together-'Oh! yes.' The 王既昭假爾are all but unmanageable. That 成王 can only mean king Ching seems clear. Maou gives for the terms 一 成是土 事, which become still more obscure in Yingtah's expansion of them. Ching makes out the six characters to mean一能成周王之 カ、其德已著至矣。謂光被四 表格于上下. Choo, of course, takes 成王 correctly, but he says that 昭假爾 is like the 格爾象原 of the Shoo, IV.i.1, ctal.; and expands -成始置田官而

管戒命之也,'King Ching first appointed officers of the fields, and cautioned and charged them.' This also is quite unsatisfac-Kënng mentions an older view of Choo's 成其王業者既昭假 上前, 'Our establishment of our royal possession has been brightly approved by Thee, O God.' Këang rightly objects to this, that it introduces confusion into the piece, the 阅读 here being referred to God, and those in 11.5,7 to the people; and then he gives the view of one of the Soo, of which he himself approves:一天之 所以成我王業者旣昭至矣, 'The way in which Heaven has established our royal possession has been made brightly to appear;'—taking 阚 simply as—矣: both these views, besides other objections, there applies especially this, that the interpretation The view which I of 成王 is inadmissible. have adopted in the translation is a modification of one suggested in 'The Flower and Essence of the She.' We are to suppose that king K'ang, in connection with his sacrifice at the border altar, had performed some service at the shrine of king Ching, asking, perhaps, what day would be propitious for the sacrifice ($hilde{ ho}$ 於成王之廟). Then when the sacrifice had gone off happily, and he had assembled the officers of bushender he had assembled to officers of husbandry, he begins his address to them by saying that king Ching had come brightly near, and directed them to a fortunate day. This is the only way in which I can make any sense out of these lines. 繭 is simply—矣. L. 3. 時一是, 'these.' L. 4. 百穀, 'the hundred kinds of grain,'-the various kinds.

III. Chin loo.

A flock of egrets is flying, About the marsh there in the west, My visitors came,

Here, [in Chow], never tired of;—

With an [elegant] carriage like those birds. There, [in their States], not disliked;

They are sure, day and night,

To perpetuate their fame.

To perpetuate their fame.

A 爾 大一木 爾 經 大一本 爾 經 國 本 中華 由 attention, realizing on a grand scale turn up your private fields. Choo

There are no rhymes.

Lenerally held that M III is the pool about holders of the 80 le. They were all to be called - 留, the ten thousand uess of: take it with verbaltoree, —, to attend to the busihere explained by I, as often; but we must ILT, 8. III is consideration for the people. the rain might first fall upon the public fields, to show their loyalty, the king here speaks only of the private fields, to show his sympathy and people are elsewhere introduced, wishing that of it here contemplated, the public revenue was derived from a different system. As the behalf of the government;—contrary to the view of Choo, that in the royal domain, in the portion cultivated by the husbandmen in common on imply that there were also 'the public fields,' and was under the charge of a special officer. The mention of the 'private fields' seems to further says that it constituted a poo (- 11) We may suppose that this space is intended by the round number of 30 le in the text. Ching lies formed a square of a little more than 33 le. river () The space occupied by 10,000 famia small stream (雪); and ten thousand, by a must we may call a brook () a thousand by ten allotments, by a larger () a hundred, by of families were separated by a small ditch((); should be taken more generally. Ch'ing says, 'In the cultivation of the ground, the allotments defines E by E to plough; but the term H, 'grandly turn up your private fields.' Choo 承爾發大─承爾發顯 a a tat To perpetuate their fame.

takes the meaning to be that, though so numerous, they were to work with good will and union of forth to labour, in pairs to each plough.

IV. Fung nëen.

Abundant is the year, with much millet and much rice;

And we have our high granaries,

With myriads, and hundreds of thousands, and millions [of measures in them];

For spirits and sweet spirits,

To present to our ancestors, male and female,

And to supply all our ceremonics.

The blessings sent down on us are of every kind.

the Fife of III. i. VIII. 3, 4, which, it is said, was in the western suburb of the capital; but this point cannot be determined. Wherever the pool was, the egrets were in their element at it, and so the visitors whom the piece celebrates were in their element at the court of Chow. Those visitors, it is affirmed in the argument, were the representatives of the dynasty of Hëa, from the principality of Ke (FI), and of Shang, from that of Sung. It is of course only from tradition that the term is thus restricted. Final particle. If a such. The deportment of the visitors was supposed to be as elegant as the movements of the birds (Fi is in the final particle in these lines.

Ll. 5—8 are in praise of the two nobles, and contain assurance of the king's confidence in them and good will to them. 在彼,在此,一'there,' 'here;'—their own States, and at the court of Chow. 無惡,無擊無有惡之者;—as in the translation. 無幾, along with the wish of the king, convey his assurance, that so it would be with them. They would ever conduct themselves so as to deserve the praise which ll. 5. 6 expressed. 永久, together,—'to perpetuate.' Këang says, 'The rise of the three dynasties was entirely from the appointment of Heaven, without the shadow of partiality displayed in it, The displacement of one arose from such men as Këch and Show; and the elevation of another from such men as T'ang and Woo. The descendants of the occupying and of the displaced Houses stood to one another in the relation of host and guest, without any consciousness of undue exaltation on the part of the former, or of shame on the part of the latter! But this would require more than mortal virtue on both sides.

The rhymes are—雝, 容, cat. 9, and 惡, 斁*, 夜*, 譽, cat. 5, t. 1.

Ode 4. Narrative. An ode of ThanksgivING for a Plentiful Year. Both the Preface and Choo say further that the ode was used at the sacrifices in autumn and winter, and Choo adds that the thanksgiving was to the Father of Husbandry (Shin-nung,—see on II. vi. VII. 2,— the First Husbandman, or How-tseih), the Spirits of the land and those of the four quarters (方 元: as also in II. vi. VII. 2), &c. But opinions are endlessly divided as to the Spirits who were sacrificed to; and Fan Ch'oo-e, after enumerating half a dozen conflicting views, concludes by saying that the sum of the matter is that it was a plece to be sung at a sacrifice of thanksgiving (要之, 為 榮 条 之 樂 章).

L.1. A paddy or rice. This line is understood as referring to the grain of the people, that there would be no scarcity in their families, while ll. 2,3 refer specially to the stores of the king. Under millet and rice, we may suppose, all other kinds of grain are comprehended. Ll. 2,3. Choo observes here that is merely an expletive particle;—so I have treated it in nearly all cases of its occurrence. Without question, means 10,000; and is most commonly accepted as the name for 100,

reog aigt

In the court of [the temple of] Chow. There are the blind musicians; there are the blind musicians;

fin the latters: The high toothed-edge [of the former], and the feathers stuck There are [the music frames] with their face-boards and posts, give the signal for commencing, and the stopper. And the hand-drums and sounding-stones, the instrument to With the drums, large and small, suspended from them;

TT I'5" (秦祝 郡

ckW zaiz to slawst sat to llad bezier oft Here we must understand it of the court below E'-, a court-lard. about the court of Chow. enciaisum baild to noticellos this of each bene -ni me I tedi yes tenm I moisiv to besessed do performers of the 1st grade, 100 of the 2d, or performers of the 3d; with 300 assistants who were 《而引入》 bucces eds to t (而引大) zuer tel denote that the blind musicians were minny. In the Chow Le. III, 22, the enumeration of the fittes blind musicians gives 2 directors of the of estres seering out to notifieger oul T TIII T im ii 製類sin-習育

品 圉 品 品 inode beliim sem elbaed edi se gizum ekem bae ebas edi Zouriz elled Shang, they were supported on pillars; the dake of Chow introduced the practice of suspending "sammb bebreqsus shi sten noo isit dan çaiy enewama Lies ei i, zienayb eö H eist ander ehe en isit sein nobid in in sein sien sein sein sein egibed: eer lie no kerneene eeu zeit zuele eall' see eyest a to test as H bee seems lieme e to smen sat ee neekt yllersneg ei M 、備客陈置、母土多劑。經 642 16 bably they were employed as ornaments for the -org stull. Inteoi-sosis sat to diest sat no (青 = E) beselq 10 zoure erew to nezoge eredicet formed on in the open court below the hall. IL 3, 4,—see on IIL VIIL 3. Choo says that the -risg sessy stead exacquerizati edt IIA.

至增加; 殊調 S 劉軸 而) coitaurizaco resisod line as in the future tense, which, possibly, is the otle: 岩一層, universal, Chootakes the had been or might be sacrificed to, as the subject understand a MM. meaning all the Spirits who sacrifices and leasts whatsoever. L. S. We must Ile Zniacsm 's esimoms sos lle '一. 豐市 日 male, generally. A - A to be provided extend the meaning to ancestors, male and tetaking that meaning from M. But we must M. i.radiombacry bas rodicibacry in M. M. . co sor forth; so that 张 带= , to outer to. millions, LL5-7. 营,--'to make' 然一運, borband a vot noitenimoned edt en ei 👬 lo seu 底數價至價目称,The common of Madu and Choo bere (载 萬 至 百 日 occiococo, The latter seems to be the view Pozresion, then fift will be 10,000 X 10,000= lamiced at Laieir each ex emics out out, fon ob on II , noillim a zoincom en 📆 Laisker ni 669. I must also agree with Kwoh and others | The critics generally admit that it was not made a grand performance in the temple of king Wan. struments of music, and announcing the fact in Ches, says that this piece was made on the co-casion of the duke of Chow's completing his innazuour. The Preface, which is followed by CHOM; THE INSTRUMENTS OF MUSIC; AND THEIR Ode 5. Narraire. The elist ursiciles of

ಡು 15, ಒಪ್ಲಿ

These being all complete, the music is struck up.

The pan-pipe and the double-flute begin at the same time.

Harmoniously blend their sounds; In solemn unison they give forth their notes. Our ancestors will give ear; Our visitors will be there;— Long to witness the complete performance.

VI. Ts'een.

Oh! in the Tseih and the Ts'eu,
There are many fish in the warrens;—
Sturgeons, large and snouted,
T-ēaous, yellow-jaws, mudtish, and carp:—
For offerings, for sacrifice,
That our bright happiness may be increased.

not themselves discourse music, but were used to direct the band, the former giving the signal for the performers to commence, the latter for them to stop. The chuh was a sort of wooden box, with a handle in the top, which moved a cross piece of wood at the bottom, that gave the signal as it struck against the sides. The yn was made to resemble a conching tiger, with a toothed ridge upon his back, along which a stick was drawn to give the signal to stop. Another name of it is Ef. Medhurst, under chuh, has confounded the two instruments together. 奏 — 作業, 'to make music.' The season was a sort of pan-pipe, made on a large scale with 23 tubes of bamboo, or on a smaller, with 16 tubes.

in this was a kind of flute. But it was double in structure somehow, so that two were blown together.

LL9—13 Nothing is said in the above lines of the stringed instruments, which were used in the hall above the court, nor is the enumeration complete of all the instruments which were used in the court below. We cannot account for the omissions; but in Il. 9, 10, the writer proclaims the excellence of the performance. Performance as in [i.] IX. Comp. the difft. application of in [i.] I. II. II.—I3 must be taken in the future tense. The 'visitors' are understood, as in ode 3. The 'the complete performance;'—what would take place on grand occasions.

The rhymes are— 瞽. 處, 羽. 鼓. 圉, 奏 (prop. cat. 4), 舉, cat. 5, t. 2; 庭, 聲.鳴, 聽, 成, cat. 11.

Ode 6. Narrative. Sung in the Last Month of Winter, and in spring, when the king presented a fish in the ancestral temple. This is the argument of the piece given in the Preface, and in which the critics generally concur. In the Le Ke, IV. vi. 49, it is mentioned that the king, in the beginning of winter, gave orders to his chief fisher to commence his duties, ·bunx VII.

While the Son of Heaven looks profound. The princes assisting, They are here, in all gravity;— They come full of harmony;

And they assist me in setting forth the sacrifice, While I present [this] noble bull, 础如"哩"吧"市" The rhymes are—祖, 魚, cat. 5, t. 1; 膩*;

.EIV i.III ai sn-i需 高 ban 趙 趙 -ros odt ni gaitsisza (.VI [.J] ni ec-, 公 郑) Ll.I.2 are predicates of the princes —12 stood alone, we should take them, like II. 1—1, as descriptive, and translate in the 3d per-5—8 are as plainly from the lips of the king, the sacrificer; and so are IL 13—16. But if ILO . 國國千天 emret out at Memid to The king would never speak from an onlooker. of. Ll. 1-4 are plainly narrative, and proceed given by Choo, he has some difficulties to dispose () as well as yang.—Eren on the riew of theode that it was made at first to be used at that time, and hence πe find it called by the name of chief moved (太 難 人) and the probability is ficial ressels and their contents were being reat the conclusion of the sacrifice, when the sacritheir ancestral temples;—to the great dissatisfac-tion of the sage (See Ana. III. ii.). They used it great families of Loo used this ode in sacrificing in old view, and Choo exercised a wise discretion in departing from it. In Confucius' time the three opinions in the interpretation of the details on the in fact, no end of the perplexities and conflicting admits of explanation on Choo's view. There is, The imperial editors allow that the ode better inconsistent with the nature of the T's sacrifice. plated in it was king Wan, which seems to me Maou also says that the great ancestor contemwhich was established throughout the kingdom. for king Ching to celebrate the universal peace in the Analects, III. z., zi., and Ying-tah further thinks that it was made by the duke of Chow sacrifice offered by the kings of Chow, mentioned printe to the te (MR), or great quinquennial According to the Preface, the piece was appro-This account of the ode is that given by Choo. PICE BY KING WOO TO HIS PATHER WAY, APPROPRIATE AT A SACRI-Ode 7. Marrative.

Il. 1, 2. Mill is a compound term of received from the waters. indebted for the supplies of food which they their favour that the king and the people were of duty, and an acknowledgment that it was to would be presented to their ancestors, as an act the sturgeon, came into season, choice specimens of Chow. When the fish generally, and then analogous ceremonies were observed by the kings in the Preface is constructed; and no doubt, some spring, when the sturgeon began to make their appearance (IV. i. 25), the king presented one in the same place. On these notices the argument of the ancestral temple; and in the first month of sented one as an offering in the back apartment partook of the fish first captured, but first preand went limself to see his operations. 9H character is found in the dictionary (A tion in the case, thrown into the water for the comfort of the fish, to afford them warmth, and fort of they might breed. This meaning of the constructed of wood, if we can speak of construc-Maou and Choo define the term by A a place take is here as the verb,-'to lie hid;' but both same that are mentioned in II. iii. VI. I. Some exclamation. E. H. -rivers of K'e-chow; the in season. ty with which they were offered when they were would do so because of the reverence and sincerimany fishes that were offered to them. Spirits would send down happiness, because of the 大 吧。 But we are not to suppose that the Mid them with great dappiness (III) modt bin all the names in l. 4 but the or him which is described as 'a fish, long and narrow. Williams thinks it may be a species of thrysac or engrantis. The 'increase of happiness' would come from the Spirits of their ancestors. 'So offering from the Spirits of their ancestors, 'So offering and accrificing,' says Le Hua, ' the Spirits would and accrificing,' says Le Hua, ' the Spirits would ·喬含體息預 L.3.—see on I.v. L. We have met with

O great and august Father, Comfort me, your filial son!

'With penetrating wisdom thou did'st play the man, A sovereign with the gifts both of peace and war, Giving rest even to great Heaven, And ensuring prosperity to thy descendants.

'Thou comfortest me with the eyebrows of longevity; Thou makest me great with manifold blessings. I offer this sacrifice to my meritorious father, And to my accomplished mother.'

I can only regard L as a particle. Choo says on 穆穆simply that it is descriptive of the king (天子之容). Ying-tah, after the Urh-ya, finds nothing more in it than the general idea of 美, 'admirable,' 'elegant.' But that does not exhaust its meaning. The 'Complete Digest' expands it into 至和無迹,至敬無意,端默無為. 'Profound' comes nearer it than any one English term I can think of.

Ll.5—8. Here we have king Woo speaking, though there is no indication in the text of any change of person. Ll. 1,2. Choo takes 🎊 as the exclamation Oh!; and this obliges him to understand that the bull was contributed by the assisting princes(此和敬之諸侯薦 大牲以助我之祭事). But the imperial editors observe that there is no evidence that such a thing was ever done by the princes, while there are abundant testimonies as to the victims being provided by the king. The difficulty is altogether avoided by reading with its usual pronunciation, which gives the meaning of the line as in the translation. 一陳;肆祀,-'to arrange, set forth, the sacrifice.

Ll.7,8. 假一大, 'great;' we might also take it as - 嘉, 'admirable.' 皇考,-皇, as in

III.i. X.5; 考 is 'a deceased father.' 殺。 'to comfort,' 'to give support and settlement to.' Ll. 9-12 must be translated in the 2d person, though the lines themselves, as I have said, rather indicate the 3d. 維人,維后,—compare the 維人 in [i.] IV., l. 9. 宣-通 or in, with reference to the comprehensive range and penetration of Wan's wisdom. 'to give rest to.' Hwang Tso, referring to the statement in III.i. VII.1, that 'God surveyed the four quarters of the kingdom, seeking for some one to give settlement to the people, adds, 'Thus what Heaven has at heart is the settlement of the people. When they have rest given to them, Heaven is at rest.'昌-盛, with hiphil force, 'to make prosperous.

Ll. 13—16. 眉壽,—as in II.ii. VII. 4. 繁,—'manifold.' 右一尊, 'to honour,'—with reference to the sacrifice that had been offered. 烈考,—i. q.,皇考, in 1.7. 文母 must be referred to Tae-sze, the queen of Wan. In sacrifices to ancestors, the tablets of their wives were placed in their shrines, so that both shared in the honours of the service.

The rhymes are—雝, 公, cat. 10; 萧, 桴, cat. 3. t. 3; 牡*, 考*, ib., t. 2; 礼, 子, cat. 1, t. 2; 人, 天, cat. 12, t. 1; 后, 後, cat. 4, t. 2; 壽, 考*, cat. 3, t. 2; 祉, 母*, cat. 1, t. 2.

VIII. Tae hëen.

They appeared before their sovereign king, To seek from him the rules [they were to observe]. With their dragon-emblazoned banners, flying bright, The bells on their and their front-boards tinkling, And with the rings on the ends of the reins glittering, And with the rings on the ends of the reins glittering, Admirable was their majesty, and splendour.

He led them to appear before his father shrined on the left, Where he discharged his filial duty, and presented his offer-

".əldırıimba' 美一林 than Choo's taking it of the sound made by the explains the phrase (E III); - better tering appearance which these made. So Ch'ing ed with metal rings; 📑 🏥 denotes the glit-2 we learn that the end of the reins were adornthe sound made by the bells. From III. iii. VII. evig ot behastai si ### Tere called The pells on the yoke or the horses, bits those fixed at the top of the banner-staff, the front-board of the carriage were called AH; Bells attached to the brilliance of the flags. scriptive 音音 along with it. This is the first time we have found the decapital was accompanied. The as in Hi. VIII. they appeared at court, to be put in force in their own States. Ll. 3—6 all describe the state with which the arrival of the princes at the 'laws and rules,' meaning the various regula-tions which were delivered to the princes when (黨習尚) 隼 dir ənil ədə 選去一章 Miltates quotes is not to be translated. . the ruling king, is of course king Ching. 恕 APPROPRIATE TO AN OC- | feudal princes,' as in l. 12, as the subject.

LL 7, 8 have for their subject the king, who, after giving audience to the princes, proceeded to present them, as it were, to the Spirit of his father.

As in L. H. H. H. H. his illustrious father.

We must understand IV ihe here at court before the on the first occasion of;"-see above. A (read 1-6. 镇, is the initial particle; or—抗, first, but it was not said or sung at the sacrifice. Ll. ode, it will be observed, is about the sacrifice; which cannot be positively determined.—The subsequent occasion as well. The point is one ornos no os gniob eid ni ətrizqorqqrni gaidton əd ness, they say, in king Ching's leading them to the temple of his father, on their first presenta-tion at his court. This Lallow, but there would There was an appropriateone time admitted. imperial editors give their decision in favour of the view of the Preface, which Choo himself at mit of either interpretation of it, and there is nothing in the piece to fix its meaning. The first appearance of the princes at the court of their sovereign?? The character itself will adas Maou says, so that I. I will mean, 'on the Or has it the meaning of the Cyoo polds? Is it the initial particle, and untranslateable, as meaning given to the commencing term m. their appearance before the shrine of Woo, while Choo allows no such specification of time with Which view we are to adopt depends on the was on the first occasion of the princes making they differ is, that the Preface says the sacrifice Ching in the temple of his father. Wherein been made with reference to a sacrifice by king garding this ode in that they regard it as having SISTING KING CHING AT A SACRIFICE TO RING WOO. The Preface and Choo agree so far re-CYSION WHEN THE FEUDAL PRINCES WERE AS-Ode 8. Marrative.

概。熙福。綏文多之。死介享。 开俾以辟疝。思言滑〇 維維多公。烈皇保壽。以

That he might have granted to him long life,
And ever preserve [his dignity].
Great and many are his blessings.
They are the brilliant and accomplished princes,
Who cheer him with his many sources of happiness,
Enabling him to perpetuate them in their brightness as pure blessing.

IX. Yëw k'ih.

其 敦 有 有 其 亦 有 有 有 旅。环 沮。 萋 馬。 白 客。 客

The noble visitor! The noble visitor!
Drawn like his ancestors by white horses!
The reverend and dignified,
Polished members of his suite!

technical sense which is explained under chapter 19th of 'The Doctrine of the Mean.' Woo's place in the Ancestral Temple was on the left of the shrine of the great ancestor of the House of Chow. The reduplication of the might be disregarded. The offerings were the expression of the king's filial piety. Ho K'ëae says, 'Hëaou denotes the filial thoughts,—the inward tasking of the mind; hëang denotes the offerings, the outward contribution to the utmost of the ability (孝者,孝思, 内盡志也,享者,獻享,外盡物也).'

Ll. 9-14. The subject of will be | will be the spirit of king Woo, who would respond with blessing to the filial offerings of his son. is the expletive particle. On the \nearrow , the 'Complete Digest'says,之学指今日 👼, which I do not understand. The meaning of 1.2 evidently is that king Ching, through the favour of his father, would long preserve his dignity, and all the blessings of his lot. the initial particle;—as in the 10th ode of last Decade, et al. III - III, 'happiness,' 'blessings.' Ll.12-14, are in compliment to the princes assisting at the sacrifice, intimating that it was to their co-operation that the king was indebted for the favourable answer which would be given to his sacrifice. This seems to me the only natural or legitimate construction of these lines; and I am surprised that the imperial editors should demur to it, and call attention to Ching's view that 1.13 is to be understood of the blessing which the princes themselves would receive, and not of that which they secured for the king (綏之以多福, 是神安辟公以多福, 是神安辟公以多福, 是神安辟公以多福, 是神安辟公以多福, 是神安辟公以多福, 是神安辟公以多福, 是神安路公司, 一本 in ode VI. of the same. 于 has perhaps the force of 'up to the point of.' Choo's expansion of 1.14 is—使我(but the whole par. is in the 3d person) 得繼而明之,至于純 提出.

The rhymes are—王, 章, 陽, 央, 鶴, 光, 享*, cat. 10; 壽, 保*, cat. 3, t. 2; 庙, 嘏*, cat. 5, t. 2.

Ode 9. Narrative. Celebrating the duke of Sung on one of his appearances at the capital and assisting at the sacrifice in the ancestral temple of Chow;—showing how he was esteemed and cherished by the king. From ode 3 we may conclude that the visitor here celebrated was the representative

The noble guest will stop [but] two nights or four! lows to their a [tud] gots lliw tesug eldon sall

To bind his horses. Give him ropes

It is very natural that he should be blessed. Adorned with such great dignity, I will comfort him in every possible way. I will convoy him [with a parting feast];

Ll.5-S are indicative of the esteem felt at the suite of the duke. W-, v comband:, pere, the officers of Sung. elled; here they are metaphorically applied to are used of metal and jade engraved and chisno doubt, 一直其 in III, i. IV. 5. There they fined by 選 瑋, 'selected.' The characters, -ab ai 聚 (yut bran) 聚 .I.IV.7.II ai 斐蔞 cause it would suit the connection. Compare cept this explanation, though given merely bebeing reverent and eareful. It is as well to acters the meaning of 📆 🏋 ibe app. of derstand 對耳; but Maou gives the characduke. Choo acknowledges that he does not unthe Me in 1.4, the officers in attendance on the translation. 有要有且 is descriptive of Ch'ch, as = Mf, with all the meaning in tho particle, but I prefer regarding it here, with Soo carriage. Choo says M is merely the initial the court of Chow, as the other princes did, in a of one of the former dynasties, and the mention | At any rate, the duke of Sung would come to pletive particle. The first 32 - a 'rope;' -zə ədi ylənəm ei 膏 . :(新 型) eldgin zuol (哥哥) and that of 青 as meaning 'to lodge petition of A, as meaning 'to lodge two nights is called fig. The Urh-ya explains the renight in a place is called if it to lodge two nights eno egbol oT' lar phraseology in II, iv. II, 1,2. would have detained him. Compare the simithe court for the duke, and how gladly the king in that ode also we ought to take High as plural. of a singular construction of , 📆 ; but perhaps, in II. iv. II. may de pleaded in favour we must take all in the plural. The use of back being a thing not mentioned in the She, ringe drawn by white horses. Riding on horseduke, as the representative of Yin, had his carcolour, as red was with Chow, and hence the of Iin white had been the esteemed and sacred namely, and his attendants. With the dynasty visitor is indicated by it,—the duke of Sung Ands in it an indication that more than one K'Eing is the only critic I have met with who the joy which the sight of him occasioned. LI. 1—4. The repetition of the Recres to call attention to the visitor, and to intimate the Sang. Perhaps there is an indication in it temple; and therefore it is rightly placed among of the guest, but it was sung or recited in the

293

The language, like that of ode 3, is all in praise

fices in his ancestral temple. Ho K'cae says, where he would assist king Ching in the sacriis represented as coming to the court of Chow, critices of the House of Shang. In this ode he made duke of Sung, there to continue the sa-limself put to death, the viscount of Wei was nos oils bing, awob and ear nos e'gnist seat lo last king of the Shang dyn. When the rebellion Slice, IV. xi.), an elder brother, or an uncle, of the

he was the famous viscount of Wei (see the stantiation of the tradition in the Preface, that

-dus indicitus nei (eseron ro) eeron elinu ein de

XI 200 [4,] A 20

of the temple,—in the last line.

X. Woo.

Oh! great wast thou, O king Woo,
Displaying the utmost strength in thy work.
Truly accomplished was king Wăn,
Opening the path for his successors.
Thou did'st receive the inheritance from him;
Thou did'st vanquish Yin, and put a stop to its cruelties;—
Effecting the firm establishment of thy merit.

the second,—'to tie or tether.' If his horses | ode's having been sung in the temple;—before were tied, the duke would be obliged to remain. | the shrine of king Woo. The subject of

Ll. 9-12. The duke would not be stayed, and here the king tells how he would continue to show his appreciation of him, when he was 薄膏 is the compound particle with which we are familiar. 道之is taken as= 送之, 'I will escort him,' including the giving to him a parting feast. L.10 has been taken variously. Choo understands 左右, on the left and the right, as-in every possible way; and the meaning of the line is as I have given it in the translation. The construction is natural and unstrained. Ching understood 左右of the king's ministers (左右之), who would be present at the feast, and show their desire for the happiness of the distinguished visitor. The 'Essence and Flower of the She' adopts this view. Keang takes 左右 of the members of the duke's suite, who deserved, as well as their master, to be esteemed and honoured. L.11 is referred to the duke of Sung, the greatest of the feudatories of Chow, and worthy of his dignity; so that 🎇 has the sense of 大, 'great.' The only critic who takes a difft. view is Fan Ch'oo-e, who refers the line to Woo-kang, on whom the duke of Chow had dealt the terrors of justice (), because of his rebellion (). Thus the line contains a warning to the duke of Sung; but this is foreign to the spirit of the whole piece, to say nothing of the 'chiselling' of the construction. I said that in 1.12 there is, perhaps, an indication of the ode's having been sung in the temple;—before the shrine of king Woo. The subject of is not expressed, but is may very well be understood, and the line,—'Very easy is it for thee, O spirit [of my father], to send down blessing on him.' I have left the meaning, however, indefinite in the translation.

一易, 'easy,'—natural.

The rhymes are—馬., 旅. 馬., cat. 5, t. 2; 追, 綏, 威, 夷, cat. 15, t. 1.

Ode 10. Narrative. SUNG IN THE ANCESTRAL TEMPLE TO THE MUSIC REGULATING THE DANCE IN HONOUR OF THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF KING WOO. This account of the piece, given in the Preface, is variously corroborated, and I do not know that any of the critics have called it in question. The dance was made by the duke of Chow, and was supposed to represent in some way the success of Woo's career. Perhaps the brief ode was sung as a prelude to the dance; or it may be that the seven lines are only a fragment. This, indeed, is most likely, as we have several odes in the next section all referred to the same occasion. The property in 1.7 has made me use the second person in the translation throughout.

Ll. 1,2. 大 (woo),—the exclamation. The structure of 1.2 is like that of 無競性人, which we have met with in III. iii. II., et al. 别,—in the sense of 引, 'merit,' 'achievement.' Nothing could be conceived of grander or stronger than what Woo had accomplished. Ll. 3,4. But if Woo had reared the superstructure, him-, When thou was old, thou did'st establish ing of the term, ns — M. so that 1.7 is with Moou thus explains to leve. Fun Ch'00-0 is again singular in insisting on the usual mean-No bring about; '—na in III. i. VII. Even derous oppression exercised by Shory.

There are no thymes.

17. Media to kill, morning all the mar-10 to the first thought as the successor and help to the thing it is all that the first in the f came after him. LL I—s. Miller in inderiting Mill in to enothebased and Liel bad at W

Thy merit?

BOOK I. SACRIFICIAL ODES OF CHOW.

[iii.] THE DECADE OF MIN YU SEAOU-TSZE.

I. Min yu.

Alas for me, who am [as] a little child, On whom has devolved the unsettled State! Solitary am I and full of distress. Oh! my great Father, All thy life long, thou wast filial.

Thou didst think of my great grandfather, [Seeing him, as it were,] ascending and descending in the court. I, the little child,
Day and night will be so reverent.

Oh! ye great kings, As your successor, I will strive not to forget you.

TITLE OF THE SECTION.—閔子小子之什, 四一之三, 'The Decade of Min yu seaou-tsze; Section III. of Book I., Part IV.' Odel. Narrative. Appropriate to the young king Ching, declaring his sentiments in the TEMPLE OF HIS FATHER. The Preface says merely that we have here 'the heir-king presenting himself in the ancestral temple (阿王朝 大河也);' but the common consent of Maou and all the critics is that the king was Ching. The only question is as to the date of the com-

Ll. 1—5. 是一满, 'distress,' 'to be distressed,' so that l.1—'Distressed am I, the little child.' 一 is Ching's humble designation of himself; and is frequently put into his lips in in the translation. line='who was upright above and below,' i.e.; given by the ministers, but I prefer to take it as as-he does elsewhere, as - II; so that the than that proposed by Maou, who would take This is a much more likely construction 剃视>脈皇鉄見苦常)truco edt ni continually sceing, him ascending and descending 'this,' but we must substitute 'my' for it in the translation. L. 7 indicates how Woo kept the thought of his father defore him, as if he were 和一發 grandfather and Woo's father. MH, 'grandfather,' refers to king Win, Ching's In Il. 6-9 king Woo is still the subject of Il. 6,7. to be imitated by himself. the filial conduct of his father as the great thing * In his life, The young king proposes 具养, is, of course, king Woo. supported (MAM). M.—na in IL. VII. 3, et acter gives the idea of being solitary and un-Y. vii.t. 機, ·i. v. 类、 The redoubled charcompare king Ching's complaint in the Shoo, any special calamities in l. 2 we cannot tell; but Whteher there be a reference to "心功就酢 will be completion in the end; hence saying, 'When there is progressive action, there W. which Ying-tah endeavours to explain by may translate 'the kingdom. III is defined by or which wo of Chow of himself. boy; but elders also employed it. It occurs, for instance, in the Shoo, V. vi.10, used by the duke to the throne, or to the govt, would stand in that relation to his future reign. Ch'ing supposes that 1.2 is the counsel which had been Detamguant earw guiding treng yas doidy thin yaomerse to cation from the use of the denote the feast reign. The term is supposed to have this signifining, i.e., here, the commencement of Ch'ing's connaer, hardly affirm anything so definite about it. relates to a council held by Ching with his ministers in the ancestral temple; but we can HIS EVILLER. VAD COXCEDDES WITH AN APPEAL OR PRAYER TO HIS PATHER; STATES HOW HE MEANT TO DO SO; FOR COUSSEL TO HELP TO COPY THE EXAMPLE OF HIS DIERICULTIES: AND INCOMPETENCIES; ASKS THE FORMER ODE. cat. 10. the Shoo (c. g., V. vii. 2.9, et al.). It may seem appropriate in the lips of him who was only a 7,9 are both the final particle. Hearen-wards and man-wards. Unequal to the many difficulties of the State. 1 am [but as] a little child,

My continuation of them will still be all-deflected. However I endeavour to reach to them, And I am not yet able to earry them out. Ah! far-reaching [were his plans], How I can follow [the example] of my shrined father.

I take counsel at the deginning of my [rule],

err tind ; ind , 是一都

、故爲客以姑。

Ode2.

Ching's accession edai oi'

The [in II,

-niged edit' the benneh ai

The Preface says that this piece

Narrative. Seens to be a sequel to

The rhymes are—#  (Prop. cat. 1); succession in the kingdom. H is emphatic,— the thread of a clue or cocoon, -the line of both Wan and Woo. Maou defines R by ME.

Id. 10, 11. The 皇王 are to be taken of Le long for, 'to strive.'

THE YOUNG KING TELLS OF

点 To .tan ot .tal .t. ...

պոյ նարդ II.

其保考。矣家。降下。庭難。身。明以皇休厥陟土紹

In his room, [I will look for him] to go up and come down in the court,

To ascend and descend in the house. Admirable art thou, O great Father, [Condescend] to preserve and enlighten me.

III. King che.

在高無易命顯天敬敬敬上。高日哉。不思。維之。之

Let me be reverent, let me be reverent, [in attending to my duties];

[The way of] Heaven is evident, And its appointment is not easily [preserved]. Let me not say that It is high aloft above me.

must render it by 'my.' 昭考,—as in [ii.] [VIII. Ll. 3, 4. 悠-遠, 'far-reaching;' referring to the plans of king Woo. 🏌 is here defined by 盡, 'to carry on and out,' which is not found in the dictionary. A reference is made, in illustration of this meaning, to the use of In II. iii. VIII. 2, q.v. L. 5. # is with many of the critics taken as=扶推, (comp. its use in II. vi. 2), or = III, 'to help;' so that Ching is asking his ministers to support him and help him to attain to the example of his father. But we may understand it of his expressing his own purpose to try and advance (FT) in that direction; and then 1.6 says that though he might do so, his course would be diverging still, and like a dispersion of his father's achievements. 判=分; 渙=散 L. 8. L. , 'to be equal to bear,' or 'to cope with.' Ll. 9, 10 are puzzling, but I think we have the key to them in 1.7 of last ode. As Woo, there, is represented as keeping his father's example always before him, as if he saw him ascending and descending in his court, so does Ching here say that he would keep Woo's example before him. , - 'to continue;' i.e., Ching was now in his father's room continuing the line of Chow. Këang takes 📆 rather differently, but his general view of the lines is what I have given:一念我皇考之紹

我皇祖也,上下于庭,陟降于家,時時見之,無一事不相契合. In ll. 11, 12, the king addresses himself to his father, and indicates his dependence on his help.

The only rhyme which Twan-she makes out is 一浜,難, cat. 14.

Ode 3. Narrative. King Ching shows his sense of what was required of him to preserve the favour of Heaven, a constant judge; intimates his good purposes; and asks the help of his ministers to be enabled to fulfil them. The Preface says that in this piece his ministers present cautionary warning to the king; but that can be an account of the first six lines only. The general view is that in those lines we have the admonitions of the ministers, and in the remaining six the reply of the king.

In ll. 7—12 the king speaks certainly in the first person, and in the others I think the king is also the speaker, recapitulating, it may be, with his own view of it, the counsel which had been given. The only claim which the piece has to a place among the Temple odes is that it may be a portion of the consultation which, it is affirmed, took place between king Ching and his ministers,—in the temple.

Ll. 1—6. The Zafter 敬 serves to bring out its meaning as in the translation. In 1.2, 思 is the final particle. 顯 明, 'evident;' and this makes us take 天 as — 天之道, 'the way or course of Heaven.' L.3—see III.

It ascends and descends about our doings;

It daily inspects us wherever we are.

I am [but as] a little child,

I will learn to hold fast the gleams [of knowledge], till I arrive But by daily progress and monthly advance, Without intelligence to be reverently [attentive to my duties];

at bright intelligence.

And show me how to display a virtuous conduct. Assist me to bear the burden [of my position],

egaon De: .VI

VIII ०१को

against future calamity. I condemn myself [for the past], and will be on my guard

To seek for myself its painful sting. qssm a dim ob ot guidton svad lliw l

The indefinite Min and T

1:15 子.L. io, t. 2; 縣.明.. 行., at 10. The thymes are— 乙, 馬 恭 兹, cat. I, construction is simpler if we take it as a verb. 、計劃

公開

現以

銀示 T μ e Choo seems to take हिंह, as an adjective on my shoulders; -the duties incumbent on sustain a burden. 请 升 朝 .this burden ot, 出一升 'tsisas ot' 輔一船 .p. i-12 as addressed by the king to his ministers. monthly progress. $\overline{\Omega}_{1}^{L}$ has reference to the light which, from day to day and month to month, is so obtained. We are to regard IL II, duty. 消費 is the continuation of the daily and by which one enters into reverent attention to I. 6.7. L.4. It might be supposed that Heaven being so high above us, does not take account is opening the door of intelligence, the way of our affairs. The reply to this is given in U. by which one enters into reverent attention to

LEDGES THAT HE HAD ERRED, AND STATES HIS

Ode 4. Marrative.

иле Спис леккоп-

凡遗刑序日:聂凡杰日:逖 giren rise to a rariety of expressions for continu-祖事且顧刊事日-: essrgorq ewo ly advancing (將一進), The words have There may, possibly, be a reference in the line of Chow, which the young king had given credit of Chow, which the young king had given credit to Cofora time. L.9='Daily going towards, montherefore the comparison of Chow, which had been considered to the contraction of Chow, which the young king had given credit to Cofora time. L.9='Daily going towards, monthevery place, wherever we are. 亚。, here; i.e., in rendered by 'our.'

-fa" to noiteathingie out and mret out somet bas tion of men of talent, as being equal to the management of affairs (其九足住事), L. xr. IV. I. Ho K'eae says, 'T is a designa-ni əsu eti əreqmoə—'; erichte' , 🛊 — 🛨 fairs" in the text.

于及難。家未維排桃允惠。集予多堪鳥。飛蟲。彼

At first, indeed, the thing seemed but a wren, But it took wing and became a [large] bird. I am unequal to the many difficulties of the kingdom; And I am placed in the midst of bitter experiences.

V. Tsae shoo.

畛。隰耘。耦○浑其載載 載○徂徂其千澤。耕作。芟 芟

They clear away the grass and the bushes; And the ground is laid open by their ploughs.

In thousands of pairs they remove the roots, Some in the low wet lands, some along the dykes.

PURFOSE TO BE CAREFUL IN THE FUTURE; HE WILL GUARD AGAINST THE SLIGHT BEGINNINGS OF EVIL, AND IS PENETRATED WITH A SENSE OF HIS OWN INCOMPETENCIES. This ode may be considered as the conclusion of the service in the ancestral temple with which it and the previous three are connected. The Preface says that in it king Ching asks for the assistance of his ministers. No such request, however, is directly expressed.

%,—'to reprimand,' 'to warn.' Ching had offended somehow in the past,-probably in indulging suspicions of the duke of Chow. H gives emphasis to the declaration. 恒, 'to be careful against;'—compare its use in Ш.ііі.Ш. 5. Ll.2, 3. Maou and most of the critics take 莫='do not;'-addressed to the ministers. Then 菲 is defined by 塱 曳, as if the ministers had dragged him into contact with a wasp; but if this were a correct, exegesis, 1.3 would not begin with [] 🛣, 'seeking for myself.' in III.iii.III.6, meaning 'to cause or employ,' or, more generally, 'to have to do with.' This or, more generally, 'to have to do with.' gives a more satisfactory meaning, and the will be indicative, or 'let me not.' By the 'wasp' is intended, I suppose, the king's uncles, who had joined in rebellion with the son of Chow of Shang, and whom the king had been in the limit of the inclined to trust in preference to the loyal duke. Ll. 4,5 are intended to set forth how evil at first looks small, but becomes large as it developes. गृह नेंगों, 'the peach-tree insect' is the name of a small bird, called also 鷦鷯.巧婦!

('the clever wife,' from the artistic character of its nest), and by other names. Williams says it is 'a wren, turin, tody, or some such small bird.' 护一飛貌, 'the appearance of dy-鳥一大鳥 ing,' the bird on the wing. 'a large bird.' Choo refers to a fabulous belief that the wren grows into a hawk; but it took its origin probably from these lines, which do not necessarily imply it. What we have to see in them is what is small at the beginning (肇一始) developing to be something great. Ll. 6, 7 again express the sense which the king had of his insufficiency, and 1.7, perhaps, of the trouble which it had brought him into in the past. 製 is the name of 'a plant with a red stalk, and of a bitter taste; -- perhaps the smart-weed. Ching's experience had brought him, as it were, into the midst of a patch of it.

The only rhyme which Twan-she gives is that of 鳥*, 蒙*, cat.3, t.2. To this we may add, 蜂, 蟲, cat. 10.

Ode 5. Nattative. The cultivation of the ground, from the first breaking of it up, till it yields abundant harvests;—available specially for sacrifices and on festive occasions. Whether intended to be used on occasions of thanksgiving, or in spring when praying for a good tear. Cannot be determined. The Preface says the ode was sung in spring, when the king ploughed a furrow in the field set apart for that purpose, and prayed at the altars of the Spirits of the land and the grain for an abundant year. Choo says he does not know on what occasion it was intended to be used; but comparing it with flow the noise of their eating the viands brought to them Their strong helpers, and their hired servants. this younger sons, and all their children; There are the master and his eldest son;

They set to work on the south-lying acres. [Then] with their sharp plough-shares, [The wives] keep close to their husbands. The husbands think lovingly of their wives; resoundsi ากอยุเสีย here indicating the places where the labour was the ground was divided. A = A, to go to; banks, serving for paths, which were made alongside the ditches and channels by which specially intended for the fields; III, the raised thousand men. Red denotes the low wet grounds, [ii.] IV., he is inclined to rank it with that as sowing, an ode of thanksgiving. The imperial editors (thousand ows od bluow aring beared be two 人所法常告); But they must 主翻人玄仇撒 和 个 苦-puni they were like the hired labourers of a later be sent to the left or the right (Choo says that New who could to go and give a hand where they were needed). men who, after doing their own work, were able tamily. Ying-tah supposes they were strong clans, regularly attached, as helpers, to the we are to understand the labourers of different the able-bodied men (By these, I apprehend, 、者九市--酆:(山千觜乞林.帅 of the family (Ying-tal says, 祇副熙也, H); M = F H, the younger members 场中联始的领茨。此次顺亞 - th R, the younger sons (Ying-tah says, the family; 有三元, 'lie eldest son; 哥 like the 講 in L.L. 主一家長, the Head of redoubled 🦰 in II.5, 7 is evidently a partielo ants are at work in the spring of the year. The estate, on which the proprietor and his dependindicated, and to have before us a large, cleared Li. 5-12. We are now, I conceive, to with-draw our thoughts from the labours thus far in those early days. not till I. II that mention is neede even of the have got some remuneration for their labour even the growing corn.' But he is incorrect, for it is defines Fr. as the removal of the grass among same view, but in his 'Collected Comments' he At one time Choo took the roots of the grass and bushes;—so, Ching (AL weeding' here will be the clearing away of the the first taking in of the ground, then the Fr or Ll.3, 4. If Il.1, 2 be explained correctly of plained by M Hill to be opened and dispersed. which now found free admission to it.

seems to be the meaning of 澤 澤, which is expulverized through the action of the elements it turned up the ground, the earth became done, the plough could be set to work, and, as to remove bushes and trees. When this was to remove or clear away grass; Af-under cultivation before. The redoubled m is merely the initial particle. ing up of the ground, which has not been brought Ll. 1, 2 seem to commence with the first break-eye, and concludes by saying that the picture which he gives of it had long been applicable to cultivation to the state in which it was before his labour upon it, from the tirst bringing it under without controverting this, the poet evidently singled out some large estate, and describes the tud toothinent for some toyal sacrifice, but, ma enw ti tealt makes it clear that it was an the She. The imperial editors also say that its mi esseig teom mailt reader than most pieces in of the husbandry of those early times, and has

It brings before us a series of pleasing pictures

see that there is absolutely nothing in the ode itself to determine him in tayour of either yion.

in favour of the earlier view. The student will give a decision, more positive than is their wont, the whole country.

an ode of thanksgiving.

They sow their different kinds of grain, Each seed containing in it a germ of life.

In unbroken lines rises the blade, And well-nourished the stalks grow long.

Luxuriant looks the young grain, And the weeders go among it in multitudes.

Then come the reapers in crowds,
And the grain is piled up in the fields,
Myriads, and hundreds of thousands, and millions [of stacks];
For spirits and for sweet spirits,
To offer to our ancestors, male and female,
And to provide for all ceremonies.

Maon defines 噴 by 衆貌, 'the appearance of a multitude,' and then 繧 will indicate those bringing their food to the workers in the fields. He understands 土 in 1.10 of 十界, all the younger people who have come with the wives bringing the viands. Much more pleasing, and I believe correct also, is Choo's view of II.8-10. It is the sound made by the workers as they partake of the viands brought to them (架飲 食配. L.9 belongs to the husbands lovingly regarding their wives, and 1.10 to the wives keeping close to their own husbands. 'husband.' I do not think that Maou's explanation of the term by 子弟 is admissible. There is hardly a picture in the She equal to that which these three lines give us ;- 'a picture,' says Yen Ts'an, 'of a well-ordered, happy age (之氣象),略-利,'sharp,' The meal is over, and the husbandmen go to work. 始, 'to begin.' 載一事, 'to set to work on.' Il. 13,14. We come to the work of sowing. I-種子; 'the seed.' 斯-則, so that 1.14='what the seed contains is living.'

take 斯 as—此 in a vague sense,—not more than our the; 其穀實之種子,皆

Li. 15,16 tell of the first appearance and subsequent progress of the plants. 譯譯,一苗生貌, 'the appearance of the young grain growing;'—we must understand it of the blade. 達一出土, 'developing from the earth.' 傑 is the same, 'growing long (先長者),' through the abundance of the moisture (有厭一受氣足也). Ll. 17,18. 苗 is the plant now risen to a considerable height, and looking fresh and well-nourished (厭厭). 黑一耘, 'to weed,' 'weeders.' 縣 綿 describes the weeders as many and close on one another (詳密).

L. 19—24. We come to the reaping. 一大, 'to begin.' 章 事, 'to set to work on.' Ll. 13,14. We come to the work of sowing. 章 章 子; 'the seed.' 斯一則, so that 1.14='what the seed contains is living.' The 'Flower and Essence of the She' seems to does not know of what things I. 25 is spoken. I. 27 is understood to be descriptive of the spirits, and Fan Choo-e would refer I. 25 to the spirits, and Fan Choo-e would refer I. 25 to the ty: Maou defines to by E, 'from'; Choo, ent time; the second = , the present prosperiharvest.' Similarly, the first 🚣 = ' the prestansbands sidt, 事本中別—bacoses edt -K, this, The Arat 且-KE, here; long been blessed with abundant years. connection. or , E. ith nearly the same meaning, iEt 10e other occasions. HH=== ndranced in years, nurmer use which his testiff of the incontact would serve, in addition to sacriffees direct;—for would serve, in addition to sacriffees directs to visitors and guests at the State; and especially for the comfort of the old, whom we have seen, in III.ii.IV. 4, specially attended we have seen, in III.ii.IV. 4, specially attended to at the conclusion of sacrificial services; or on to at the conclusion of sacrificial services; or on the conclusion of sacrificial services; or other services or other services. viands of a feast. The paragraph shows the viands of the husbandry therefore that it should set forth the beginning land and the grain in autumn, and it was proper character of the ode suits well with a service of thanksgiving. Yen Ts'an says, 'This ode was made for the thanksgiving to the Spirits of the in the concluding paragraph there is a descrip-tion of the rictim in a sacrifice; and the whole think of it as a prayer for a good harrest, so there is nothing here about thanksgiving. But LAXD AND GRAIX. This is the account of the piece given in the Preface. Choo, indeed, says that as there is nothing in ode 5 to lead us to THE SPIRITS OF KKOTOA BHT KI DXI Ode 6. Marrative. Much arix to the PREat. 15, t. 3;香光 at. 10;霉毒, at. 11.

25. 靈,捷,霞, (prop. cat. 16), 秭,醴,妣,醴, 1, 4.2; 看, 養, 佛, 15, 4.8; 苗馬。此 The rhymes are—赤字: $ 4.8; $.48; $.48 times.

Il. 25-28. 勤一芬香, fragrant, Choo by 極 so that 振 古 - from very ancient

Each seed containing a germ of life. They sow their different kinds of grain,

With which they set to work on the south-lying acres. Very sharp are the excellent shares,

'IA

From of old it has been thus.

reand sze.

It is not now only that there is such a time:-It is not here only that there is this [abundance];

To give comfort to the aged. Like pepper is their smell, Enhancing the glory of the State. Fragrant is their aroma,

添颜

There are those who come to see them, With their baskets round and square, Containing the provision of millet.

With their light splint hats on their heads, They ply their hoes on the ground, Clearing away the smart-weed on the dry land and wet.

These weeds being decayed, The millets grow luxuriantly.

They fall rustling before the reapers, And [the sheaves] are set up solidly, and the end of the labours of husbandry. Hence, though the sacrifice was in the autumn, it recapitulates the ploughing of the spring, and anticipates the harvest of the winter.' The imperial editors say that 1.20 plainly indicates, in the use of a bull, a royal sacrifice, and 1.23, as plainly, that it did not take place in the ancestral temple, so that the account given of it in the Preface should be received without hesitation; while, as this is thus an ode of thanksgiving, the connection between it and the preceding is sufficient evidence that that was one of supplica-

Ll. 1, 2, — comp. ll. 11, 12 in last ode. 娶一嚴利, 'very sharp;' descriptive of the plough-shares. Some say that the phrase expresses the appearance of the shares going into the soil (耜入地之貌). The meaning is much the same.

I.l. 3, 4,—as ll. 13, 14 of last ode.
I.l. 5—7 are all to be referred to the wives and children of the workers, bringing their food to them in the fields. L.5 is difficult, and the sudden change of person in the use of ty, 'you,' is to me inexplicable; and I have adhered to the 3d person in the translation. Her, 'to see,' is also a strange term, and in also. Ll. 6, 7 show that we are to understand 1.5 of the wives and children bringing the food of the workers (加 子之來佳者). Fan Ch'oo-e gives, indeed, a different view of 1.5, as to be taken of the surveyor of the fields (I.xv.I.1) coming to inspect the ploughing; but I cannot entertain it. is the particle. 筐,笆,—as in I. ii. IV. 2. 其 霞,一'the food brought' in the baskets. 二维, having the force of the copula.

Ll.8-10. The workers have partaken of their meal, and go to their weeding. descriptive of their hats as light, and easily moved. Maou says nothing on the term, but Ching says,-戴糾然之笠; and Choo says that 紫牛好 denotes the ease with which the hat was lifted (笠之輕舉). In the 'Complete Digest' we read, 首動則笠動, 'when the head moved, the hat moved.' The line altogether is obscure to me. ,—as in 趙 = 刺, 'to cut;'-descriptive of the action of the hoes upon the ground. and III are synonymous, and cannot be attended to in the translation. 薅=去, 'to remove,' 'to clear away.' Choo observes that * and is are here one plant, with different names; called 茶 in the dry soil, and 夏 (smartweed) in the wet. Ying-tall also observes that the 茶 here is not the 苦菜.

come the threshing, or treading, and winnowing, after which the grain would be brought into the houses. So, the 'Flower and Essence of the their harvest might be said to be carried home to their stack-yards at the same time. Then would was bounded by a M. They formed, says appearance of the ears, close together as the teeth of a fine comb. L. 17. The 'hundred houses, or chambers in a hundred houses, are those of the hundred families cultivating the space which to describe the height of the grain, and 16, the (表表) qu doe 93971 ning L. 15 seems the solidity with which the sheaves of the cut 果果 describes the sound of the reaping.

evig of bootstood to give 71—81 J.T T'-the final particle. millets.

seems to say that the weeds, being destroyed and left to rot in the soil, help the growth of the , poz 01, 11 - Ly EF II' 15'

独规师 面似 of the She, expands them, 表 果 $\delta$ two lines must be taken, I think, together, as in the translation. As the Flower and Essence K - III , crooked, The concluding grain, the animals were as here described. For the sacrifice to the Spirits of the land and sacrifice; but that was in the ancestral temple. once observed, used victims of a red colour in was called #E. Chow, it has been more than et in centum familias dividuntur. Ll. 20—23. A bull, yellow a A bull, yellow and black-lipped,

Short and the part of the supersonal the suggestion of his—Familia numerosion facta est, supersonal transfer of the supersonal t 類。提五日潤。新刑藝刑一:slie rotiru slir

> And from the sheep to the oxen. From the hall he goes to the foot of the stairs, With his cap on his head, looking so respectful, In his silken robes, clean and bright,

Sze e. IIV

To hand down [the observances of] our ancestors. To imitate and hand down, With his crooked horns, [Xow] we kill this black-muzzled tawny bull,

The wives and children have a feeling of repose. Those hundred houses being full,

And the hundred houses are opened [to receive the grain]. United together like the teeth of a comb; High as a wall,

之胡不思自其兕及鼐休。考敖。吳柔。酒觩。觥鼐。鼎

[He inspects] the tripods, large and small. The good spirits are mild; There is no noise, no insolence:—
An auspice, [all this], of great longevity.

VIII. Choh.

大是熈時邁王쳈酌介。用矣。純晦。養師。樂

Oh! powerful was the king's army;

But he nursed it in obedience to circumstances while the time was yet dark.

When the time was clearly bright,

He thereupon donned his grand armour.

The rhymes are—耜, 畝*, cat.1, t.2; 女, 笆, 黍, cat.5, t.2; 糾, 趙 (prop. cat.2), 裹*, 朽, 茂*, cat.3, t.2; 挃, 栗, 櫛, 室, cat.12, t.3; 盈, 寕, cat.11; 角, 續, cat.3, t.3.

Ode 7. Narrative. AN ODE, APPROPRIATE TO A SACRIFICE, AND THE FEAST AFTER IT. Few pieces in the odes give more trouble to a translator than this one, short and apparently trivial as it is. The Preface says that it belongs to the entertainment of the personators of the dead in connection with the supplementary sacrifice on the day after one of the great sacrifices in the ancestral temple (, , , , , , ,);—see III. ii. IV. Choo says that this view is not correct, and gives the argument of the ode as stated above; but he does not say what sacrifice he thought was intended. The imperial editors argue at length in favour of the old view, to which I am half inclined to give in my adhesion.

am half inclined to give in my adhesion.

Ll. 1,2 bring before us an officer, or officers (土, an officer of inferior rank) in the sacrificial dress in which they assisted at the services of the ancestral temple (土 奈 於 王之服). 涿 describes the appearance of the silken robes as pure and clean (深彩).

—戴, 'to wear on the head.' 弁 is what was called the 晉 弁, 'a cap of linen, dyed purple.' 〈求 〈求 一 恭 順 貌, 'reverent and deferential-looking.' Ll. 3—5 describe the movements of this officer (or officers) preparatory to the sacrifice (if we are to find a sacrifice in the ode), or to the feast (if it relate only to a feast). It is defined by Fig. 2 It. the foundation (i.e., the foot of the stairs) of the apartments at the gate; —intending, I suppose what we may call the restibule at the pose, what we may call the vestibule at the gate leading to the ancestral temple. Two buildings there were outside the gate, fronting the south, and two inside it fronting the north. are to suppose that the officer goes from the hall to the foot of the stairs to inspect the various dishes arranged for the sacrifice or the feast, and then similarly goes to see the animals, and the tripods for the boiling of the flesh, Whether the be the great hall in the temple, or merely the hall in the inner buildings of the vestibule, we cannot say. I incline to the latter view, as it was in that hall that the personators of the dead were feasted; and if the ode speaks only of the entertainment to them which speaks only of the entertainment to them, which consisted of the provisions of the previous day heated up again, the 眸 and the 牛 will simply be the meat remaining over.

small tripod,' and , 'a large one.'

Ll. 6—9 are understood to describe the good

Il. 6—9 are understood to describe the good order which characterized the drinking at the feast, or at the conclusion of the sacrifice. The cup of rhinoceros horn was drunk as a punishment; but we are to conceive of it here as standing idly, with no occasion to resort to it. His is the particle;—having the force of the copula. Choo, after Maou and Ch'ing, defines by 'rheat, 'noisy.' The dict. gives it as—

以用而阿森赛 gives 就能而到 出。 achievement, For 1,7 the Com-·znidool-leirum· 熊 年-翻 劃 Shoo, V. iii. 8. L. 5. The is to de understood in edi io 太杰—edi=允太 'Liem',用 L.t. 是用一是以, thereon; 介一 TC) clearly shone; and Woo acted accordingly. - Hij) the bright the bright light (Hij) L. 3 is in opposition to the H THE of L2. The 小部以乙萘先规其脲不 而而言, but nursed it in obscurity (有声 had his army, but he did not display its warlike 遊天之道也),Gon-yang Sen says, He 县公特以南王东至未腴 >協橋天上) noved to year off Hearten plete, 'powerful.' The most likely meaning of i.2 is that which I have given in the translation. As Ying-tah says, 'High Heaven's time to take our 'off Chow was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff town was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff town was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff town was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff town was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff town was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff town was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff town was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff town was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to which we want to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet was not yet come, and king Woo quietoff to was not yet was no the name of a dance. L. I. Fix = J.K., com-21), and in the E Le (新 親), apparenty as sure, adding the gloss of Ying-tah, that when was guided by the ways of his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the kingdom; which is retry farmourishing the kingdom; which is retry farmourishing the kingdom; which is retry farmourishing the kingdom of his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the kingdom; which is retry farmourishing the kingdom of his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the kingdom of his and his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the kingdom of his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the kingdom of his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the history of his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the history of his ancestors, in retry farmourishing the history of history of 0077 JEAN SILEMENT 31'、也不天羡儿童 | 大岡北僧第言−,eyes soriard sdT ·(下)而 和(酉) somit of the times of second of the Woo's morements being regulated by a deliberto loorq and saul and in but of erow on it ee — estrisdilsb of ' gnincsm ze mist sult mort if the piece itself. Attempts are made to explain in tegrity. The name (लिंगू) does not occur in this. The whole may be portions of a larger this. Ode 8. Xarrative. An ode in practice of profice says that this ode size that this ode size that the ode windo. The Preface says that this ode was made to amounce in the duke of Chow, of the life of the duke of Chow, of the life of the bing in theoverthrow of Shang chievements of the king in theoverthrow of Shang and the establishment of the Chow dynasty. The 10th ode of last section was also sung, we saw, in connection with that dance. The same thing is affirmed of several of the odes that follow thing is affirmed of several of the odes that follow thing is affirmed of several of the odes that follow thing is affirmed of several of the odes that follow thing is affirmed of several of the odes that follow thing is affirmed of several of the odes that follow things.

car. 2), A, car 3, r. L. 五牛。原血山山新東東城(prop. The thymes are Aff .. (prop. cat. 3), an auspice might be drawn. doil'w mort gaint oldenunde na oron 'loorg e' derstand Lo. H. E. ... in ode J. M. Lanston -in teum on therefore, therefore, we must unof of or seed as a seed of the second of the or, "Assingenum drive evenled or " 11 10 111 onto and soule themselved from are object to the angle of the angle o

The martial king Woo Heaven does not weary in its favour.

There has been a succession of plentiful years:-There is peace throughout our myriad regions;

Muni]]

We have to be sincere imitators of thy course, [O king]. To deal aright, with what we have inherited, What the martial king accomplished. We have been favoured to receive

Z1 200 [1:] J. 22

閉皇于於厥克四于厥之。以天。昭彖。定方。以十。

Maintained [the confidence of] his officers, And employed them all over the kingdom, So securing the establishment of his Family. Oh! glorious was he in the sight of Heaven, Which kinged him in the room [of Shang].

X. Lae.

思。命。時維思。敷應勤文於問報我時受止。王齊之定。徂釋之。我既

King Wăn laboured earnestly;—
Right is it we should have received [the kingdom].
We will diffuse [his virtue], ever cherishing the thought of him;
Henceforth we will seek only the settlement [of the kingdom].
It was he through whom came the appointment of Chow;
Oh! let us ever cherish the thought of him.

i.e., to secure and carry out Woo's achievement.
L. 8,—lit., 'Truly only your course (公一事)
sincerely imitate.'

Twan-she does not give any rhymes.

Ode 9. Narrative. Celebrating the merit and success of king Woo. I have mentioned on the last ode, that this is considered (on the authority of the Tso-chuen), as having been a portion of the larger piece which was sung to the dance of Woo. Evidently its subject is king Woo. The Preface says that it was used in a declaration of war in sacrificing to God and the Father of war, which Ying-tah explains as if it had been made by king Woo when he finally took the field against Show. But this is evidently absurd, as it contains the honorary title given to the first king of Chow after his death,—'king Woo.' It may be that the piece came to be used on the occasion which the Preface mentions; but we must refer it in the first place to the reign of Ching.

reign of Ching.

Ll. 1,2 are descriptive of the happy condition of the kingdom under Ching. A revolution is generally followed by famine; but it was not so, when Woo had overthrown the dynasty of Shang. L. 3.

The 'the favour of Heaven;' —its favour towards the House of Chow.

桓桓=武貌, 'martial-looking.' L.6. 有十,- the officers which he had; -meaning, probably, the great leaders whom king Wan had gathered around him, and whom Woo retained equally attached to himself. L.5. 以四方-用于四方 meaning that Woo employed those officers throughout the kingdom, subduing its difft. parts, and securing their allegiance. So, K'eang;一武王保文 土所有之多士,保字正與 播棄相反謂愛惜之 以—用 ナ以三用于,于 being transposed according to a usage which has already heen pointed out. L. 6. T is the House of Chow. L. 7 is understood of the virtue of Woo, as recognized by Heaven. 卓,-as in [i.] IX. Choo says he does not understand E, but he accepts Maou's definition of it by 代, and 間 Z=代商,—as in the translation.

It is hardly worth while making a rhyme out of $\boxed{+}$, $\boxed{+}$.

a royal sacrifice, and sacrificed to.

Both those that are long and narrow, and the lofty mount-We ascend the high hills, Oh! great now is Chow.

Yes, and [we travel] along the regulated Ho,

Thus it is that the appointment belongs to Chow. Assembling those who now respond to me. All under the sky, chiels. derstands it as addressed to the appointed feudal lowing out his interpretation of Lo, Choo un-L. 6. is a repetition of part of L3, an admonition of the descendants of Wan to themselves. Folments of Chow, and not, as heretolore, of Shang." る商動非命>周階出爪 Sim these flets are now the appoint. 東部 ill :- as in the translation. Choo makes it 當王文毋蓋=onli out into oe, nitW 愛以兩玄問显微能玄日 L & III here again, is to be referred to king Odo 19. Sarrative. Curmunates the units is forth. The line, literally,=""we henceforth only opening of the seek settlement; i.e., tranquillity and order. piece that can be given from itself. The Tot. La. La. Lettered to be referred to king the control of the can be given from itself. The Tot.

There are no rhymes.

Soo Ch'ch, the anne, = M. Könng makea th vory uncertain. Maon makes to preas - 1995; of the ode so often referred to;—in which easo we should have to translate in the id person, and not the dist. The meaning of the id person, is of a later date, and should be referred, probably, to the time of king Ching, when the dynasty was fully acknowledged. Many critics, however, maintain that this piece likewise was a portion seen in the progresses of its initiative sour-neign. In [i.] VIII, we have an ode akin (o this, relating a tentuive progress of king You, to test the acceptance of his sovereignly. This is the false are muddled in sovereignly. and its firm possession of the readon, as Ode 11. Narrative. The greatzues of Chow,

20. Stano oils in food of the country of T. S.S. L. I. 请 is, probably,一个情况, "mon," l.L. pan, —, according to the Shwoh-win, M. 面=注:目令以注, эопос-T'T Adur in a referring it to the virtue of king. L. I. I is the final particle. 现别另萬而 virtue they attribute their possession of the bringdom. L.-f. Their right to the kingdom being such, they would occupy in it accordingly. III = II, this, which we can only Wan left nothing undone. L. 2. This it seems to me, is not naturally referred to king Woo; but to all the descendants of Wan; and to his virtue, they attribute the seems of the virtue. -: Yloritoo' Tie - and denot tang out to agis opaceace that III is here not since, nor the to inbour diligently. The Complete Digest'

和四千姓, C. ili. V, coolle oft ni bna, 温

最人香發大序剧,Lixx,etoslanA

been connected with the use of the term in the has contributed to this interpretation, as it has

If the piece ought to be understood in this way, the piece ought to be understood in this way.

Wee, speaking of himself. Choo's exposition of the fairs of the line is more or less anceted by this; but this river the In is to be understood of king no (順教徒夫) olymor learesone odr hin elost to incre eit foincquiosan coll ilaidw ni erowollot eit to tails aut ot ergenagge choon says, however, that it was the third of the opinion of the pieces sang to the dance of the pieces says it contains the words with the Prelace says it contains the words with understand 允 猶, and we are obliged, as usual in such cases, to fall back on Ching, who takes 亢 in its usual signification of 信, 'tru-和, 'harmonious,' referring, we may suppose, to the Ho, prone to inundation, but now keep-山狭而長者;—as in the translation. ing its channel. L.5. 敷天之下—普L.4 is very obscure, Choo does not profess to 天之下.—as in the translation. L.6. 京 天之下,—as in the translation. L.G. 夏 一景, 'to collect,' 'to assemble;'對一答, 'to respond to.' The line refers to the king's assembling the princes in the different quarters of the kingdom during his progress and giving of the kingdom, during his progress, and giving audience to them. They all now responded loyally. L. 7,-nearly as i. 5 of last ode.

There are no rhymes.

I. Këung.

On the plains of the far-distant borders.

Of those stallions, fat and large,
Some are black and white-breeched; some light yellow;
Some, pure black; some, bay;
[All], splendid carriage horses.

His thoughts are without limit;—

He thinks of his horses, and they are thus good.

He thinks of his horses, and they are thus good.

Three of the Book.— A without lim, how is it that we do not have a single satirate of thos; Book II. of Part IV. It that the royal ceremonies were not usurped in thing impossible to render here. A with the single string is impossible to render here. A with the single string is impossible to render here. A with the single string is impossible to render here. A with the single string is in the single string in the single string in the single string is in the single string in the single string in the single string is single string in the single string in the single string is single string in the single str crificial ode of that State? It is then contended that the royal ceremonies were not usurged at that the royal ceremonies were not usurged in Loo till the time of duke He (). B. C. 658 — 626). Without entering into this question, it rim to the odes here of the name of Loon flue application to the odes here of the name of Loon was made tion to the odes here of the name of Loon was made the campose that such application was made in use; and he allowed it just as he published in use; and he allowed it just as he published here way of censure or approval. It has often in the way of censure or approval. It has often here asked why there are no knay of Loo in the learn saked why there sure no knay of Loo in the loon asked why there strence with the really knug; but as they were wantonly called Sung, we have them here instead tonly called Sung, we have them here instead of in their proper place.

the capital in K'ëuh-fow () which is still the name of one of the districts of the department of Yen-chow, Shan-tung. Choo says that king Ching appointed the duke of Chow's eldest son directly to it. Sze-ma Ts'ēen's account is rather difft:—that the duke of Chow was himself appointed marquis of Loo, but that, was himself appointed marquis of Loo, but that,

Transpose of Loo; Book II, of Part IV. It is impossible to render here. It is impossible to the permise they are not such ficial odes of Loo; because of they are not such services rendered to the kingdom by the duke services rendered to Pilh-k'in [the duke's eldest son, and the first marquis of Loo], the privilege of Union Loo had its Sung, which consequence of which Loo had its Sung, which were sung to the music in its ancestral temple. Were sung to the music in its ancestral temple. Fingler rander, in this part of the She. Conductus found for there being such pieces as the four of this for there being such pieces as the found to the for there being such pieces as the found of the min Loo, bearing the name of Sung, and it for there being such pieces as the found sunply for the sun to this first them in Loo, bearing the name of Sung, and it toor there being such pieces as the simply of the discrement sound this in Loo, hearing the name of Sung, and it was not for him to designation. This is the best explanation of the name which can be given; but it is not complimentary to the discrimination or the noral boldness of the Sage.

This such a such private such a privilege and the such a polymentary to the discrimination or the noral boldness of the Sage.

Fat and large are the stallions,

Ι

The statement of Choo that such a privilege was ever granted to the first marquis of Loo is very much controverted. If it were granted to 2 Fat and large are the stallions, On the plains of the far-distant borders.

Of those stallions, fat and large,

Some are piebald, green and white; others, yellow and white; Some, yellowish red; some, dapple grey;

[All], strong carriage horses.

His thoughts are without end;-

He thinks of his horses, and they are thus strong.

being unable to go there in consequence of his duties at the court, he sent his eldest son instead; and that the territory was largely augmented after the termination of his regency, he still remaining in Chow.

Ode 1. Narrative. Celebrating some marquis of Loo for his constant and admirable thoughtfulness,—especially as seen in the number and quality of his horses. The Preface says that the marquis was Shin (H), known as duke He, who is mentioned in the preceding note. It refers indeed all the four pieces to duke He, who was the 19th marquis of the State, reckoning from the duke of Chow. But, as Choo observes, it is only the 4th ode of which it can be alleged with certainty that it belonged to the time of He.

Ll. 1,2, in all the stanzas. 国间 is descriptive of the body of the horses—'the belly and ribs'—as fat and large (原幹 肥 張). L. 2 gives the breeding and pasture grounds of the studs. 'The region beyond the city is called 汉, or suburb; beyond the suburb it is called 汉, or pasture; beyond the pasture it is called 武, or pasture; beyond the wilderness it is called 武, or forest; beyond the wilderness it is called 汉, or waste.' Morrison, after thus translating the classical passage on the subject, gives for the line—'In the wastes of the wilderness.'—But 王 in the text can only mean 'uncultivated plains;' and 江 is better rendered as I have done.

Ll. 3-5, if is the compound particle, which we have often met with. Many of the colours which are mentioned in ll. 4,5 may seem strange to connoiseurs of the animal; but I can only follow the definitions of the terms in critics and the dictionaries. is defined as 'a black horse, white in the stride (廳.馬日 跨); 驪 is 'a pure black horse;' 皇 is 'a horse, yellow and white (黄白日 黄is 'a horse, yellow and red (黄辟日 黄); 雕 is 'a horse with green and white intermixed (蒼白雜毛); 题, 'a horse with rellow and white intermixed (黃白雜毛); 辟, 'ared yellow (赤黃; probably, a chestnut); 騏, 'a greenish-black (青黑); 驛, 'a greenish-black scaly-like, the colour here deep, there light, marked like the scales of a fsh(靑鹽縣,色有深淺,斑駁 如魚鰶); 縣, 'white and black-maned(自 馬黑竇); 勵, 'a red horse, black-maned (赤身黑竇); 雒, 'a black horse, whitemaned (黑身白鹭); 駰 is probably a cream-coloured horse (陰白雜毛,今泥 题); 興, 'red and white, intermixed (形白 雜毛); 躩 is described as having white hairy legs (豪在骭而白), and also as 'black with a Yellow spine (鹽馬黃肴);' is 'a horse, with its eyes white like those ofatish (二目白日魚,似魚目 也):

Of those stallions fat and large, On the plains of the far-distant borders. t'at and large are the stallions,

Some, red and black-maned; some, black and white-maned; Some are decked as with scales; some, white and black-maned;

[All], docide in the carriage,

He thinks of his horses, and such they become. His thoughts never weary;

Some are cream-coloured; some, red and white; Of those stallions, fat and large, On the plains of the far-distant borders. tat and large are the stallions,

All, stout carriage horses. Some, with white hairy legs; some, with fishes' eyes;

His thoughts are without depravity;-

He thinks of his horses, and thus serviceable are they.

as Ho Leae says, to the speed of the horses. L', 10 Eo, or 'proceed,' referring, prodably, atrength; 作一書 電, to start up; 和grant 歌一量, Rood; 八一十二, or capable 、應乙黎酮見至硬) beslized (班子原) the marrellous quickness with which the thing The Complete Digest's arys that it indicates Hi, 'then,' with a vivid descriptive force. expect to meet with it in such an ode. cius mentions (Ana. II. ii.) as covering the whole of the Sae, or indicating the result to which the study of it will lead. We should not of depravity or perversity. One is startled to find here this last characteristic, which Confu-HE All, that they were without any element unending; Ilk Ty, that they were unwearied;

'rery strong.' i. e., obedient to the driver. 表表一體重 潾潾一不 独 弧 — keeping together, (代青) gnouts '一、 全五 (容) (字) (字) Maou says, 'both strong and handsome (.looking everything that could be desired; as these horses in a carriage, 黄萸一蓝鹟 一队队"单型"第 中、nse or loke 車囚 L. 6 tells the quality of the horses.

All denotes the pevetration of his thoughts,— THE 19, good' ange and mezhaustrole; The tuat as seen in his horses. 光-雷光 quis to whom the ode refers, and the result of Ll. 7,8 praise the thoughtfulness of the mar-

II. Yëw peih.

1 Fat and strong, fat and strong,
Fat and strong, are the chestnut teams.
Early and late are the [officers] in the court,
In the court, discriminating and intelligent.
[They are as] a flock of egrets on the wing,
Of egrets anon lighting on the ground.
The drums emit their deep sound;
They drink to the full and then dance:
Thus rejoicing together.

The rhymes are—in all the stanzas, 馬, 野*, 者*, cat. 5, t. 2; in 1, 皇, 黄, 彭*, 疆, 臧, cat. 10; in 2, 駓*, 麒, 侄*, 期, 才, cat. 1, t. 1; in 3, 縣, 維, 釋*, 斁*, 作, cat. 5, t. 3: in 4, 题*, 魚, 祛, 邪*, 徂, ib., t. 1.

Ode 2. Allusive. THE HAPPY INTERCOURSE OF SOME MARQUIS OF LOO WITH HIS MINISTERS AND OFFICERS;—HOW THEY DELIBERATED ON BUSINESS, FEASTED TOGETHER, AND THE MINISTERS AND OFFICERS EXPRESSED THEIR GOOD WISHES. The Preface refers this piece, like the others, to duke He.

I.1., 2 in all the stanzas. Endenotes 'the app. of a horse fat and strong (馬胆强乳).
'A green-black horse is called keuen (青年): — equivalent, probably, to our irongrey (今質麗也). These lines may be descriptive of the horses with which the ministers of Loo drove to the court; but the writer sets forth their good condition that he may introduce their masters, as worthy of equal praise in their way.

L1. 3,4 belong to the officers of Loo (如大大), though they are not expressly mentioned.
On 页夜 the 'Complete Digest' observes that the phrase is not be taken as 'from morning to night' but as indicating generally the length of time (時 之人) that the marquis and his officers spent together, such was the good understanding and fellowship between them. 在公一在公所, 'in the prince's,' or 'with the prince.' Këang, however, observes, correctly, that in st. 1 the 公=朝廷, 'the court of audience,' where the business of govt. was transacted, and in the other stanzas, it indicates some other place to which they adjourned to feast together. 明明 = 辨治, 'discriminating and well-ordered;'-with reference to the discussion and adjustment of affairs. Duty over, they proceeded to pleasure. 飲酒 and THE are evidently synonymous; and we cannot It is the particle, filltranslate 載 in st. 3. ing up the line and connecting its parts.

. mntnally, . together, ·斯=青 'sunt' 是于= an ustre of rem

L. 9, in all the stt., sums up the whole. decency and order. timate that the festivity was conducted with expletive particle. The A is understood to inhand. See the dict. on the character. 📻 is the rapid changes of sound with the drum near at the sound of yin, in the character, meaning the of the drum; as the in iii. 2. Maou keeps to lor guol edt seitention indicates the long roll Choo says that IIM here is equivalent to min instrument of music employed on the occasion.

the only six is a supposed in str. 1,2. The drum is mentioned, the only six is in supposed that it was the only and the only me six in the only in the

The rbymes are—in st. I, 黄, 明 *, cat. 10; ·ssampoos, '星一稽 of a prayer. 有一有年, abundant years. then a good year. H gives the line the force beginning' seems to intimate that there was e se smit this thom this time as a good wishes and prayers by the officers (A) LL5-6 in st. 3 contain the expression of their omrat of bootstabnu one seaners sorit out in 樂如下 年北北部 千 清 前 社 北京

下 . 舞. cat. 5, t. 2: in 2, 杜 ., 酒, cat. 5.

together, cat. 2.

Thus they rejoice together. —'leinghneseb eid of it imenert bat May our prince maintain his goodness, May the years be abundant. trom this time forth, With the prince feasting.

Early and late are the [officers] with the prince, Fat and strong are the teams of iron-greys.

Fat and strong, fat and strong,

Thus rejoicing together. They drink to the full, and then return home:— The drums emit their deep sound; Of egrets Aying about.

They are as a flock of egrets on the wing, With the prince drinking.

Early and late are the [officers] with the prince, Fat and strong are the teams of stallions.

Enorts bas and grong, fat and strong,

Ba. II. Opp II.

III. Pwan-shwuy.

Pleasant is the semi-circular water, 1 And we will gather the cress about it. The marquis of Loo is coming to it, And we see his dragon-figured banner. His banner waves in the wind, And the bells of his horses tinkle harmoniously. Small and great All follow the prince in his progress to it.

Ode 3. Allusive and narrative. In Praise OF SOME MARQUIS OF LOO, CELEBRATING HIS IN-TEREST IN THE STATE COLLEGE, WHICH PERHAPS HE HAD BUILT OR REPAIRED, TESTIFYING HIS VIRTUES, AND AUSPICING FOR HIM A COMPLETE TRIUMPH OVER THE TRIBES OF THE HWAE, WHICH WOULD BE CELEBRATED IN THE COLLEGE. It is not unlikely that the marquis in this ode is Shin or duke He, for we know that he was engaged in operations against the tribes of the Hwae. His part, indeed, was but a secondary one in them, and he was only a follower of duke Hwan of Ts'e, who had the supremacy among the feudal States; but it was not for the poet to dwell on the inferior position to which his State and ruler were reduced. To Loo had in the first place been assigned the regulation of the east; and in this ode and the next the writer, or the writers, would fain auspice a return of its former glories. There was a muttering at the time of an expedition against the barbarous hordes, and the piece predicts, or at least auspices, its triumphant conclusion,—all due to the troops and civilizing influence of Los. troops and civilizing influence of Loo. The immediate occasion of its composition must have been some opening or inauguration service in connection with the repair of the State college.

Ll. 1, 2 in stt. 1—3. is the initial particle, and the whole line may be compared with 1.4 in III. i. VIII. 3. 巴 corresponds to 抗 there; and 洋水 to 辟宫. That was, under the Chow dyn., the name of the principal royal college, and this was the name of the correspond-ing building in the feudal states. That we have seen was surrounded by a circlet of water; this only by a semi-circle, the edifice connecting on the north with the adjacent ground. This semicircle of water gave its name of 洋宮 to the college, heing one of the characters of the combines the signification of both the elements; here 水, 'water,' and 半, 'half,' which latter ' is also the phonetic portion of the compound. In the Le Ke, however, III.ii.20, et al., the name appears as 頖 宮. The situation is said to have been in the western suburb of the capital. It is not easy to describe all the purposes for which the college was used. In this ode the marquis of Loo appears as feasting in it, delivering instructions, taking counsel with his ministers in it, and receiving the spoils and prisoners of war. In the Le Ke, VIII. ii. 7, it is mentioned as a specific to the transfer of the specific transfer of transfe ed as connected in Loo with sacrifices to Howtseih; Wang Taou says, 'In the Pwan Kuny the officers of a state, in autumn learned ceremonies; in winter, books; in spring and summer, the use of arms; and in autumn and winter, they practised dancing. It was the great college of the States, and there especially were trials of archery, and the feasting of the aged.' 芹,一as in II. vii. VIII. 2. 藻,—as in I.ii.IV. 1. probably another name for one of the duckweeds (晨葵). Williams says, 'An aquatic vegetable like mallows. The leaves are smooth. 滇 is the initial particle. These plants about the water of the college are all understood to be allusive of the men of talents about the marquis, whom he was careful to encourage (皆是

亨僖公能育人才也) Ll.4—8 in stt. 1, 2. The writer describes the marquis of Loo coming to the college on the day of its inauguration, and occupied there. F 至, 'to come to.' | is the final particle. is the initial particle. 夜夜=旆旆, in II. i. third class, where the meaning of the whole VIII.2. Ts een Wan-tsz says, that the characters

£:

Without any impatience he delivers his instructions. Blandly he looks and smiles: This fame is brilliant. thus are served sill With his horses looking so grand. the marquis of Loo has come to it. And we will gather the pondweed in it. Pleasant is the somi-circular water, lolqooq oilt ili ilosmid ot gainbdus oc May he accord with the grand ways, And may there be given him the old age that is seldom enjoyed! teining boog out guidaind ei oll And in the college he is drinking. The marquis of Loo has come to the And we will gather the mallows about it. Pleasant is the semi-circular water, gave forth his instructions we do not know. On what subjects ho nite in this respect as it is in the original. L. T. sive voice enables me to leave the line as indeal-"Henven, as the nominative to B. Our pascritics understand mil or F, 'the Spirits,' or 悉古如源源现代师其 言者来聊-idal-Buix 10 woiv oils et tent seldom reached, or the perpetual youth which refuses to put on the appearance of age. This L. O. ME of may mean old age that is translating in the future tense, the writer feel-ing sure that what he auspiced would be fulparely praise and parely prayer; yet the prayer is not direct, and we get the spirit better by ing, and the writer expresses his wishes for him; All the other stanks are the sequel of this,

16 term in the case; - without impatience.' -, without anger; but anger is too strong a of the marquis wreathed with smiles. taken together, and show us the countenance cation in the She, the H and F must be particle. According to the usage of the redupliods ei 7 1 ni Mi · .outriv tol omal '音刷一 Le Choo says nothing; Ch'ing takes the S na In st. 2, Il. 4, 5, Fig. 174, -as in III.iii V. 4. On inollo en—'tog of' The lifen. tiele — in 1.8. great occasion. We cannot translate the partollowing the marquis towards the college on the denote the appearance of a chaster of leaves, and the particle, = \frac{1}{2}

Very admirable is the marquis of Loo,
Reverently displaying his virtue,
And reverently watching over his deportment,
The pattern of the people.
With great qualities truly civil and martial,
Brilliantly he affects his meritorious ancestors.
In everything entirely filial,
He seeks the blessing for himself.

Very intelligent is the marquis of Loo,
Making his virtue illustrious.
He has made this college with its semicircle of water,
And the tribes of the Hwae will submit in consequence.
His martial-looking, tiger leaders
Will here present the left ears [of their foes].
His examiners, wise as Kaou-yaou,
Will here present their prisoners.

長道,—'ways of length,' or 'permanence.' Choo says the phrase is equivalent to 大道, 'grand ways.' L. 8. 屈一服, 'to subdue,' or 收服, 'to keep in subjection.' 室頭一室架, 'the multitudes of the people.' The phrase means, acc. to most critics, the people of Loo (魯國之壑梁), though some find also a reference in it to the tribes of the Hwao (已合准夷在其中; Foo Kwang). St. 4 is altogether of praise; celebrating the good and gracious qualities of the marquis. 穆 is here simply 美, intensified — very admirable. L. 6. 四段一图格, 'brilliantly reaching to.' The idea is that the fine qualities of the marquis affected his great ancestors in their Spirit-state, and would draw forth their protecting favour. L. 8. 'What he seeks of himself—by the natural outgoing of his qualities—is blessing or prosperity.'

St. 5. L. 3. 伴 need not mean that the marquis had built any college which did not exist before, but that he had executed important repairs. As the 'Flower and Essence of the She's says, 仍其故址而修治之. L.4 seems to say that the making of the college would make the tribes of the Hwae submit. They would care very little or nothing about it, but it pleased the poot thus to write. The 'Flower and Essence' goes round about the toxt, saying that he who thus showed his interest in the welfare of the State would have the means to subdue the tribes (伐淮夷自有所以服之也). L. 5. 添添二章 新人,'martial-looking.' L. 6. 半 stands idea of DX, 'all-complete,' The Urh-ya makes Choo says the two phrases together give the (plderimba, 美 vd . 星 皇 bun ; suominan Maou defines M My by Echerous, 'magthe claims of another to any particular merit. their mutual complaisance, one not disputing derliness and discipline of the officers, and also tribes of the Hwae. Il. 5-7 set forth the ordistance, 'The east and south, means the IX" of all) or M. to keep back, 'drive to a I.H.) L. 4 光一次 L. I. Ist at nr 10 日 to the Ilwae, -those inferior in rank to the officers who would be engaged in the expedition St. 6 is an auspice concerning the body of the

-see the Shoo, II. iii., et al. famous Kaou-yaou, Shun's minister of Crime; oilt en (酒 - 默) inliiste an od bluo'n eronoit were questioned, and in 1.7 it is said their ques-(\sum) stonesing means on were other only 亚不、青然外甚夷那) avoilloder ing the wild tribes as transformed and no more Ll. 5, 6 give the result of the victory, l. 6 describmoithlemart off in the translation. translating. 第一萬 大, wide and large. of 50, others of 100. We must drop the R in -the bundles of arrows; consisting, some say whizzing sound of the rapid arrows. curve (特茲喬; Chring)). represents the bows drawn with strength into a 、瀬 其 J.XI.iiv JI ni an一、行 百 with a word of admionition to the marquis. Id. I and celebrates the complete victory, concluding wild tribes as it it were going on before his eyes, In st. 7, the writer describes a battle with the

here the judges who decided questions of dis-pute in the army (首 本版) Yen Ts'an defines it by 不 i些 tr alone for 学 宫, 部, -as in III.i. VII. 8. 深 二, tising up, 'vigorous,' 工be left cars of the slain were cut off. Those 型, -as in i. [iii.] VII.; VII.; THE-型, T 张一唱 in I. [iii.] VII.; 不相一語, Errace.

Inoissimine suoilledernn an or meat thynord bar. They have subdued the tribes of the Hwae, Their footmen and charioteers never weary! Their war chariots are very largel How their arrows whish wolf

How they draw their bows adorned with bonel They will here present [the proofs of] their merit. Rithout having appealed to the judges, Without noise or display,

Duerg bue suorogiV

Will drive far away those tribes of the east and south. With martial energy conducting their expedition, Men who have enlarged their virtuous minds, His numerous officers,

Only lay your plans securely, And all the tribes of the Hwae will be got!

8 They come flying on the wing, those owls,
And settle on the trees about the college;
They eat the fruit of our mulberry trees,
And salute us with fine notes.'
So awakened shall be those tribes of the Hwae;
They will come presenting their precious things,
Their large tortoises and their elephants' teeth,
And great contributions of the southern metals.

IV. Peih kung.

不其美赫枚實有關問。德嫄赫校。實倫。宮

1 How pure and still are the solemn temples, In their strong solidity and minute completeness! Highly distinguished was Këang Yuen, Of virtue undeflected.

主命). I must take ll. 7,8 as a counsel to the marquis suddenly interjected. In no other way can we deal fairly with the 窗, 'you.' 式 is the initial particle.

St. 8. As the result of the expedition, the writer sees the tribes of the Hwae coming to the college with their articles of tribute. Ll. 1—1. is defined in the Shwoh-wan as 'the rapid flight of a bird.' — 'trees.' There might be a grove about the college, but there could not be a forest. It is the fruit of the mulberry tree; i.q. It is presents a difficulty. Both Maou and Choo are silent about it; but Ching brings it under the category of in or in the community of a beautiful note; but the mulberries grown about the college of Loo would make it sing delightfully. And so would the influence of Loo, going forth from the college, transform the nature of the wild tribes about the Hwae! Ll. 5—8. 尽一贯语, 'to awaken to a proper consciousness.' Standing as the character does, it brings the E before us so quickened and transformed. 采 is defined by 美寶, 'admirable, precious things.' 元二大, 'large.' 恪一遺, 'to give,' 'to contribute.' By the 'metals of the south' are understood metals from King-chow and Yang-chow. Of both those provinces it is mentioned in the Shoo that among their articles of tribute were 全三品, 'gold, silver, and copper;'—see the Shoo, III. i. Pt. i. 44, 52.

The rhymes are—in st. 1, 芹, 旂*, cat. 13; 茂, 歲, 大, 邁, cat. 15, t. 8: in 2, 藻, 蹻*, 蹻*, 昭, 矣, 教, cat. 2: in 3, 茆*, 酒, 酒, 老*, 道*, 颮, cat. 3, t. 2: in 4, 德, 則, cat. 1, t. 3; 武, 祖, 祜, cat. 5, t. 2: in 5, 德, 服*, 馘*, cat. 1, t. 3; 陶*, 囚, cat.

She gave birth to How-tseih. Immediately, when her months were fulfilled, And without injury or hurt, God regarded her with favour;

nillet late, [To know] how the millet ripened early, and the sacrificial On him were conferred all blessings,—

Anon he was invested with an inferior State, How first to sow pulse, and then wheat.

Her months being fulfilled, without delay,-一下山, to regard with favour, L. T. ing, seems to de conveyed here by m ing. rulers tracing their origin up to How-tseih, On El. 3-3, about Leang Yuen's birth of How-tseih, see III. ii. I. 1, 2. The idea of being distinguished Trather than of being majestic or awe-inspired, rather than of being majestic or awe-inspired. Ll. 3-17 are intended to magnify Loo and its алео, Твот Тв'ецеп, 上之結構密也). structure, especially in the root, FE (so, Choo explains these characters of the fine and close completeness, furnished with every thing which temples ought to have (the training temples) nell, 下之盤甚固也); 校校, their says, not nearly so well, 黃大; Tsow Ts'euen, solidity of the temples (E a, Choo; Maon 所謂, 'pure and still,' 賈賈 describe the lieve that our 'solemn' gives the idea. and Ching's, My Spirit-tenanted.' I must beshut;' Këang's R. deep and far-reaching;' not used. Choo's account of it is 深胃 'deeply Ling-tall, that the templo had been shut up and explains IN by P. shut, meaning, acc. to and the 赋到. 国一国, temble, place 順 In · 順 In 音 · 随 In 语 · 10 ed 武世室. In later times we find mention called 世童; and the temple of duke Woo, call-Chow; the temple of Pih-kin, the first marquis, Grand templo (([[]]), dedicated to the duke of (南南), specially dedicated to king Wan; the to Keang. There were in Loo the Chow temple 3, t. l. in 6, 心育, cat. 7, t.l.; 皇, 禄, State (智之臺), commends itself even 雞實胰激育離以順 偷 聖而婚日調季) ai ni bəin certain admonitions and cautions gently insinucast the ode out of the She, but that there are would do. Keang thinks Confucius would have in a poetic rapture as to what his ruler was and for the writer, a minister, probably, of Loo, to eall in question the legality of celebrations in which he took part, and which he considered to be the glory of the State, and he was evidently be the glory of the State, and he was evidently ter and successes of duke 11e. But it was not exaggerated representations in it of the characceremonies and eacrifices, and condemns the princes of Loo were privileged to employ royal opinion, false according to his view, that the of this piece. It is a great offence to Keang, who deplores the sanction which it gives to the that the marquis Shin or duke He is the hero Ll. 5,6 of stt. 3 and 8 leave no doubt BEALTED. WHICH PIOUS ACT HIS SUCCESS WOULD BE THE CHYZD SCYTE THE TEMPLES OF THE STATE, OF ух оссугоя жиех Не пль перлиев ох л IL HYD EARH BERN:-MULLEN' BUOBYBEL' ON оь ессека, типси тосер маке соо лее тилт VZD VESLICIZO KOH HIM V MVCZIKICKZI CVUKEH IN PRAISE OF DUKE HE, Zarrative.

1.1.7.100 金彩语..腮林 r1: 抽 盡" 運" 源" care'r3: ju 8' car. 10; 翻, 到, car.9; in 7. 确, 起 car. 3,

that He had repaired all the temples of the mother of How-tseih, and without any reference to her being sacrificed to. The opinion of Choo, vere those of Keang Yuen, mentioned here, and of He's predecessor, duke Min, mentioned in st. 9; but Keang Yuen is introduced as being the der of the marquis. Maou thinks the temples us the occasion on which the ode was made,—some great temple-repairs executed by or-St. L. Ll. 1,2, and the concluding stanza, give

And taught the people how to sow and to reap The millet and the sacrificial millet, Rice and the black millet; Ere long all over the whole country;— [Thus] continuing the work of Yu.

Among the descendants of How-tseih There was king T'ae, Dwelling on the south of [mount] K'e, Where the clipping of Shang began. In process of time Wan and Woo Continued the work of king T'ae, And [the purpose of] Heaven was carried out in its time, Ll.9—17 pass to How-tseih, giving a summary of of sis, I believe, unexampled. Nor am I Compare i. [i.] X., and III. ii. I. 天 is understood as the subject of 降 in L 9, but our passive voice enables us to make the line as indefinite as the original. In 1 10, 種 belongs to 黍, and 穋 to 稷. 'What, though earlier sown, ripens later is called 蓮, and what, though later sown, ripens earlier, is called 稷. 稙 is applied to what is planted early, and 程 to what is planted late. Ying-tah observes that 重,穋,稙,and 稺are denominations applied to the growth and ripening of plants as early or late, and not names of kinds of grain (生 熟 早晚之異稱,非穀名). L.12 is most naturally understood of the investiture of How-tseih with the principality of T-ae, as mentioned in III. ii. 1.5. The only difficulty is with 1.16. Ying-tah, indeed, gives to the two lines the same meaning, and considers II.13—16 to be no more than a repetition of II 9—12 16 to be no more than a repetition of 11.9—12. T ± may very well mean the whole kingdom, the land below, in correlation with 上天, 'the sky above,' but such a meaning only are we to think in 11.7, 8.

sure that 【 或 denotes an inferior State. The phrase occurs in the next Book, as a designation of the feudal States generally. How-tseih was invested with T'ae. and made minister of agriculture subsequently by Shun, and gradually the benefits of his husbandry extended throughout the land. He did not become king like Yu, and immediately found a dynasty; but as Yu's labours had extended to all, so did his, and therefore he might be said to continue the line or work of Yn (緒一業).

St. 2 gives a very summary outline of the growth of the family of Chow, down to the overthrow of the Shang dyn. by king Woo, and the establishment of the State of Loo by king Ching. Ll.1—4 relate to king T'ae;—comp. III. i. VII. 1, 2. Dukes Lëw and Tan-foo are passed over without notice. The 'clipping' in passed over without notice. The 'clipping' in 1.4 is not to be understood of any active operations of king Tae against Shang, nor even, says Choo, of any thought or purpose in his mind. But his management of his territory drew the thoughts of the people in other States to the lords of Chow. A new centre of attraction was established, and served to increase the dissaffection to the govt. of Shang. Ll. 5—8. Passing over king Ke, the poet sketches the career of Wan and Woo, and especially of Woo. Of him from A A or 'uncle,' meaning the duke of The sketch now converges to the State of Table 'Ling' is king Ching as appears which possessed all the army of Woo. II. 13with reference to the enthusiasm and unanimity slang expression,—'to polish off.' ·同一氮 term in i. [ii.] IX. It is here equivalent to our ito deal with. Compare the use of the on the minds of the people. 以—(hm) 蓬 by his principal commander had laid deep hold I. 9—12 continue the sketch of the overthrow of Shang. LL 9, 10,—see III. i. II. S, II. 7, S. The words spoken to Woo on the day of battle the words spoken to wood on the day of battle the words spoken to wood on the day of battle the words of the words when the words were the words. to carry out, The subject of it is king Woo. 孤一款, to cut off, as Keang does. to gainesm out E of size of thesessen on si forbearance with Shang, and its time to give the sovereignty to Chow was fully come. There

The principal subject in st. 3 is duke He's offering the border sacrifice to God, in the spring-sacrifice for a good year, with How-tseilt as His correlate, and his seasonal sacrifices in the ancestral temple. Ll. 1—4 are a sequel to line ancestral temple. Ll. 1—4 are a sequel to line sential temple. Ll. 1—4 are a sequel to line strain temple. Ll. 1—5 are a sequel to line seiture of File-Fin with the marquisate of mention is made of one of the small States attached to Loo. Ll. 5—8 belong to duke He, and the state with which he proceeded to the sacrifices. The immediate successor of duke He, sacrifices. The immediate successor of duke sacrifices. The immediate successor of duke to. Heaven had now reached the limit of its forbearance with Shang, and its time to give to sovereignty to Chow was fully come. There is no necessity to give to the meaning of the limit was to be the first marquis, yet the sovereignty to cut off, as Keang does. There will specificate to the first marquis, yet the sovereignty to give to the meaning of the first was to be the first marquis, yet the state of the first marquis, to the duke, to carry out. The subject of it is king Woo.

Accordingly he appointed [our first] duke of Loo, . And made him marquis in the east, Giving him the hills and rivers, The lands and fields, and the attached States. The [present] descendant of the duke of Chow,

'God is with you.'

[Woo] disposed of the troops of Shang;
He and his men shared equally in the achievement.

[Then] king [Ching] said, 'My uncle,
I will set up your eldest son,
And make him marquis of Loo.
I will greatly enlarge your territory there,
I will greatly enlarge your territory there,
I will greatly enlarge your territory there,

In the plain of Muh. 'Have no doubts, no anxieties,' [it was said];

The son of duke Chwang,

With dragon-emblazoned banner attends the sacrifices,

His six reins soft and pliant.

In spring and autumn he does not neglect [the sacrifices];

His offerings are all without error.

To the great and sovereign God,

And to his great ancestor How-tseih,

He offers the victims, red and pure.

They enjoy, they approve,

And bestow blessings in large number.

The duke of Chow, and [your other] great ancestors, Also bless you.

In autumn comes the sacrifice of the season, But in summer the bulls for it have had their horns capped. They are the white bull and the red one;

(啟; 啟方), known as duke Min (閔公) who was murdered in the second year of his rule; and then, our duke He, an elder brother by a lady of the harmy was raised to the State by a lady of the harem was raised to the State. 承祀。一奉祀, 'to offer the sacrifices,' or 視祭祀, 'to look after the sacrifices,' 耳耳三柔從,一as in the translation. Ll.9-17. L.9 refers to the seasonal sacrifice in the ancestral temple. Spring and autumn, two of the seasons, are mentioned by synecdoche for all _as in i. [iü.] IX. L.10—所 the four. 脏解, 獻所祀、不有差忒. Këang insists on taking this of the offerings at the border sacrifice; but it connects more naturally with l. 9. Ll. 11—15. Lacharme gives for l. 11— 'Summus rerum dominus qui per se regnut.' 卓 皇, - maximus, 'the most great;' 后, - 君, 'ruler,' 'sovereign;' 元, - 'God.' L. 13 = 所 默. 則用辟色之辍牛, 'For his of red colour.'

L.14-上帝與后稷於是黎乙 於是宜之,—as in the translation. Ll. 16, 17, are in connection with ll. 9, 10. must be understood of Pih-k'in and the other dukes sacrificed to in the ancestral temple. 发,-'you.' The writer turns suddenly, and addresses duke He directly. St. 4 continues the subject of the seasonal sacrifices, and auspices, or prays for, the blessing which duke He might expect from his reverent discharge of them. Ll. 1, 2 refer to the autumnal sacrifice and the preparation in summer for it;—a specimen of the provision made for the sacrifices of the other seasons. the name of the autumnal sacrifice, used as a 載一始,'to verb, - to offer that sacrifice. begin,' showing that line 2 mentions what was a preparation for the service. 精 衡 was the name of a piece of wood fixed across the horns of the victim-bulls to prevent their goring; but one does not see how this could contribute to improve their condition. Acc. to Ying-tah's definitions in the Chow Le (XII. or II.5), si seurosed no (凱芭外士畫) "可一 wollout a dity dillud a no mnoi suff mi such servi sirings soft minimos or slowd soft mi such bellesido (西方 这 [4] 连 井 器 近 孔 4 1 元 Ilind a fo orugă sult zem srad toenesed (草) 曹)serr mitoir sal bellen ei 11 .eseoquuq 19al10 is interchangeable is interchangeable is interchangeable is interchangeable is interchangeable of Chow is in a sacrificing to the duke of Chow distinction in a sacrificial by way of distinction in a bright is the dyn required by the distinction of the dyn required by the bull was used to him should bear him the richm of the product of the charge of the distinction of the product of the charge of the charge of the charge of the charge of the containing the remaining the remaining the remaining the remaining the remaining of a golder or ruse the charge of th word to oduk out of prioring at the control of the rabun tud existence of the character; but under when the continue of the character; but under the discounty does the character; but under the character that came to the character that can be continued to the character that the Hill and the state of the most of the most of the most of the most of the state of emitoir out eshinsqe &

To V : Em Chon-o) or as a praire M. M. 雅以言去加円則) esmer commised ni e.l mori obeleneri vem o'll (副 藝 面 od hit od er svorsonne sid or gnichtrong sit 采言題頁) gnissold riod; roogzo rhyim n: o edub et auchnesseb leiffi salr. JI-8 LI Enizooperson in State of the St 题-丰丰工工工工工 海 at Justificate to moor linus e io age sair ono to Thod Estrent shi then evisors of ayuone mori gaired (H) the things all the evisors of ayuone summi yanirongus edi to miret shi hun ezis si tuman tuman tuman tuman da tuman edi. ono do where the first believe of one (8) ·V.ir.II 698) 胚 adt 10 esivoqe a eun 訊大 oth quos uiriq—bootstoon od of one quos the characters of or or of मी लिं. 'meat cut up fine, Two kinds of 《2萬而手其老臘》 16938100 then the hair best realded off, and then the mon Big n' MS HE sand su oradu t.

the first on the horns, and the [照] L.ö. 王台 is explained from the Chow Le, L.v. 所代 由王 explained from the chorns, and the work of the from the first that the first t Theywill make your friendship with your three aged [ministers], Ike the mountains! gaineya gaineya J

Long possessing the State Dio. J To preserve this eastern region, They will make you long-lived and good,

Jour ancestors] will make you gloriously prosperous! The filial descendant will be blessed. Jud the dancers all complete.

bands of large stand, wood, and the large stand; isquos ban aneat, and soups; iViugib eti ni toldog goblet in its dignity;

 $_{BZ,\,\Pi,\,Opz\,\Pi',\,Z}g$ PRAISE-ODES OF LOO.

Our prince's chariots are a thousand,

[And in each] are the vermilion tassels and the green bands of the two spears and two bows.

His footmen are thirty thousand,

With shells on vermilion-strings adorning their helmets.

So numerous are his ardent followers,

To deal with the tribes of the west and north,

And to punish [those of] King and Shoo,

So that none of them will dare to withstand us.

May [the Spirits] make you grandly prosperous!

May they make you long-lived and wealthy!

May the hoary hair and wrinkled back,

其獲福壽; Löw Kin). I prefer the former construction. L.10. 織而昌, - blazing and prosperous.' L.13 - 魯邦是可 常守而無失, 'That you may always keep the region of Loo, and not lose it.' L.14. -see on II. i. VI. 6, l. 4. L. 15. In II. iv. IX. 3, is used of a river rising and overflowing its banks. Ts'aou Suy, on 11. 14,15, says finely:-不虧,如日常盈;不崩,如山 常固;不震如地常静;不騰, 如水常平. Ll, 16,17. The meaning of क, 'three longevities,' is very obscure. Ching thinks they refer to the three principal ministers of Loo (三順); and Yen Ts'an says, 三壽考之三卿爲朋 友皆如岡陵之面、祝其君 臣 司慶也, 'The line contains a prayer for blessing to be shared by the ruler and his ministers together, he and his three aged ministers associating together in friendship, firm as the hills and mountains.' Nothing better can be made of the text.

St. 5 passes from the marquis's sacrifices to his resources for war, and ability to cope with his enemies, and concludes with a prayer or auspice for him, which is not so warlike as we

his right, and an archer on his left. And there were attached to it 72 foot-soldiers and 25 other followers, 100 men in all; so that the whole force would amount to 100,000 men. But in actual service, the force of a great State was restricted to three armies, or 375 chariots, attended in local colors are serviced to the service of the serv tended, inclusive of their mailed occupants, by 37,500 men, of whom 27,500 were what were called foot-soldiers, given in round numbers, in 1.4, as 30,000. 朱英,二矛,—see on I.vii.V. 禄縢,重弓,—see on Lxi.III.3. 貝,—see II.v. VI.1. These shells were connected together, and attached to the helmets by means of strings of vermilion colour (朱綾,所以 增增一级 綴貝而飾胄也。 indicating the number of the soldiers. 西戎, 'the hordes of the west.' 秋 - 北 派, 'those of the north.' In the 10th year of duke He, Hwan of Ts'e had led an expedition against these, but Loo took no part in it. Perhaps He had been engaged in some operations against them of which we have no record, or, which is more likely, his encomiast is only speaking of what he could do. 荆j is another name for the great southern State of Ts'00 might have expected. Ll. 1—9. 'A thousand chariots' was the regular force which a great State could at the utmost bring into the field.

Each chariot contained three mailed men;—the charioteer in the middle, with a spearman on treatics, and make would come, and seek for training of Loo, Tantagot tanaver of 開間一間 the great east, = And arteme east, therefore, as here—"to overspread." covers above is ealled Mr. I take the term, sides is called ifft, "a curtain;" that which of $\frac{1}{2}$, to cover over; "That which covers the likeliest meaning here, given in the dick, is that Choo simply repeats Ch'ing's Min and thereon; but Ill is not easily construed, peyond. per; but the marquis would extend his sway - in the conjunction. Ilonoius, VII. Pt. i. xxiv. i. q. v. v. v. v. vixx i. 4q. II V v. vixx i. 4d. II V vixio in Loo pro-organi in 100 9294 vi v. vixio in 100 pro-organi in hustxa hinov sinnram sitt nud van. Mencius, VII. Pt. i. xxiv. I, q. v. Str. 6, 7 anspice great achievements for the networkedgment of the networkedgment of the territories lying to the superiority of Loo on all the territories lying to the south and east of it, which could be considered in the original grant and tree or included in the original grant and tree or included in the original grant and tree or included in the original grant and tree original grant and reservant in Loo.

When the great him of Loo, between it and Tese, the included in Loo.

When and Alling were also two hills in Loo.

When and Alling were also two hills in Loo.

When and Alling were also two hills in Loo.

When and Alling were also two hills in Loo.

When a continue the continue of the c bodeixuou. M977, euoxogiv eoxod 'dei H=H, to employ: _mouot, 肇· next thus:一且順 Lasence of the She' connects this line with the Lie the state of the She' connects this line with the Lie to the state of LIL 10 Tilke the latter of marker stanks. ~;≅u⁄ij ebīow Ming dyn.) distinguishes the two Withstand, Hill The to punish, Chang Foo Shoot-ling the was appured to several manifering the character and the conclusion with the treaty of an interest of the came to the came to the protection of the came to the -Mail letovos of boildge erry han ban ()

Such shall be the the achievements of the marquis of Loo. All will proffer their allegiance:-The tribes of the Hwae will seek our alliance; Even the States along the sea. And we shall extend to the limits of the east, We grandly possess also Kwei and Mung; Tooked up to by the State of Loo. The mountain of T'ae is lofty,

With the eyebrows of longevity, and ever unharmed! For myrinds and thousands of years, May they grant you old age, ever vigorous, May they make you prosperous and great! Marking the aged men, be always in your employmentl

Ba. II. Opr IV. PAMSE-ODES OF LOO.

129

- He shall maintain the possession of Hoo and Yih, And extend his sway to the regions of Seu, Even to the States along the sea.

 The tribes of the Hwae, the Man, and the Mih, And those tribes [still more] to the south, All will proffer their allegiance;—

 Not one will dare not to answer to his call, Thus showing their obedience to the marquis of Loo.
- Heaven will give great blessing to our prince,
 So that with the eyebrows of longevity he shall maintain Loo.
 He shall possess Chang and Heu,
 And recover all the territory of the duke of Chow.
 Then shall the marquis of Loo feast and be glad,
 With his admirable wife and aged mother;

as l.7 more fully declares, 一莫不相率 以從於魯國, 'all will lead one another on to follow Loo.'

St. 7. Hoo and Yih were two hills of Loo,—in the pres. district of Tsow (河水水). (京本,—'where Seu dwells,' i.e., all the States in the region of Seu. In l.4 the writer expresses himself wildly and extravagantly. 河南 means properly the wild tribes of the south and of the north;—see Ana. XV. ii. 2, and the Shoo, V. iii. 6; but it is impossible to understand here by the expression any but the wild hordes south of the Hwae. Then in l. 5 he seems to go farther south still. 云声"yes,' i.e., to respond obediently. 云声"yes,' i.e., to respond obediently. 云声"yes,' i.e., to submit to.'

St. 8 is akin to the two preceding, auspicing for the marquis,—through the help of Heaven, the recovery of all the territory which had at any time been taken from Loo, and then the enjoyment of purest domestic and social happiness to a great and hale old age. L.1.

may here be defined by , 'great.' 常 (or 嘗) was a city, with some adjacent territory,—in the pres. dis. of T'ang (股), dep. Yen-chow, which had been taken from Loo by Ts'e. 言午, called in the Ch'un Ts'ëw, 言午 田 'the fields of Heu,' was on the west of Loo, and had been granted as a convenient place for the princes of Loo to stop at on their way to the royal court; but it had been sold or parted with to Ching in the first year of duke Hwan. The writer of this ode desires that He might recover possession both of Chang and Heu, and so have got back all the territory, which the duke 宇=士宇 of Chow could have claimed. 'territory.' Ll. 5-7. The marquis would feast in the inner apartment appropriate to such a purpose (內 寢) with his wife (called Shing Këang, 整美), and his mother (called Ching Fung, 成風); and in the outer banqueting. room (夕 震), with his worthy officers and 宜一魯侯所宜有, 'such ministers.

think, the RE II, of Mencius, VII, zzzi v.2, capit measures. I.S. Meaning, I of Tracegan. When the trees were felled, and prepared for use, they were sawn up into the prepared for use, they were sawn and proper lengths, determined by the fathom and the proper lengths, determined by the fathom and the same of the fathor. I Mon arranges the whole piece in 8 stanzas; in the whole piece in 8 stanzas; in the whole piece in 8 stanzas; in the piece in 8 stanzas; in the piece in 8 stanzas; in the piece in 8 stanzas; of 17 lines, each; 3, of 12; 4, of 28; 5,6, of 16; stanzas; and 7, 8, of 10, each. The present arrangement was fixed by Choo, after Soo Ch'eb. So choine, and the fixed by Choo, after Soo Ch'eb. So choine, and the fixed by Choo, after Soo Ch'eb. So choine, and the fixed by Choo, after soo Ch'eb. and the fixed by Choo, after soo Ch'eb. and so choines, and the fixed by Choo, after a so choine in the fixed by Choo, after a so choine in the fixed by the the piece. Sin-four then the press dep. The materials were got from T'soe- dep. Sin-foo, two hills in the press dep. Jule press were felled, and of T'soe-gan. When the trees were felled, and to the sawn un into the to notice gave occasion to the composition of ode commenced,—the temples, duke He's repair St. 9 returns to the subject with which the Iblido a to esco but they would be replaced by others, as in the and never de sans teeth. They might fall out, TA) ux noe-s'sduC' 26 awond the marquis would ever be renewing his youth, tendence of He-sze, a brother of the marquis, I think, however, the meaning must be this, that -first the work and been executed under the superinapartment of the marquis. It was on a grand-scale, but the renewed temples were on a grand-scale, but the renewed temples were on a grand-Suirtier ester edt to Et Al salet vem en 20

these of the plant of the party of the plants anielgzo new-dowde odt ban (M. 1999) diew onit teeth, is perplexing. The Urh-ya quotes the as de ought to have? Il. 8-10. A is emphatic, | q.v.

. Sarel , X = Vlqmie znisd XX ; slodn silv roi is the back apartment of the temples put Answering to the expectations of all the people. 到 . 5. In recelooking: L. 6. 图 Very wide and large, The work of He-sze, Splendid look the new temples, The large inner apartments rose vast. The projecting beams of pine were large; With the cubit line and the eight cubits line. Were cut down and measured, cool-nig to sesser qyo salf bad The pines of Tsoo-lae,

To hoary hair, with a child's teeth. Thus receiving many blessings, Our region and State shall he hold,

With his excellent ministers and all his [other] officers. B_{K} , II, O_{DE} IV. PRAISE-ODES OF LOO.

es Keang says, to no purpose.

moitalement out ni es- 警玄貝

—8.I. spiw, 10 to to to 10.8 In 多

Soldarimba, 'Luititurad' = 1 1 1

The rhymes are-in st. 1, 校, 回, 依, 返, cat. 15, t. 1; 稷, 福*, 穆 (prop. cat. 3), 麥, 國,穡, cat. 1, t. 3;黍, 秬, 土, 緒, cat. 5, t. 2: in 2, 王, 陽, 商, cat. 10; 武, 裕, 野*, 虞. 女, 旅, 父, 魯, 宇, 輔, cat. 5. t. 2: in 3, 公, 東, 庸, cat. 9; 子, 耳, cat. 1, t. 2; 解,帝*, cat. 16, t. 8; 辍*, 宜*, 多, cat. 17; 祖, 女, cat. 5, t. 2: in 4, 當, 衡,, 剛, 將, 羹*, 房, 洋, 慶*, 昌, 臧, t.2: in 9, 柏*, ይ, 尺*, 系方, 常, cat. 10; 崩, 騰, 朋, 陵, cat. 6: in 作*, 碩*, 若*, cat. 5, t.3.

5, 彩, 縢, 弓., 綾 (prop. cat. 7), 增, 四、悠永 cat. 6; 機富*, 背*, 試 cat. 1, t. 2; 大, 艾, 歲, 害, cat. 15, t. 8: in 6, 嚴, 詹*, cat. 8, t. 1; 蒙, 東 邦, 同, 從,功, cat. 9: in 7, 經,, 宅,, 貊,, 諾,, 若., cat. 5, t. 3: in 8, 嘏., 詹, 許, 宇, cat. 5, t.2; 喜, 母,, 士, 有,, 祉, 齒, cat.1, t.2: in 9, 柏*, 度, 尺*, 鳥*, 碩*, 奕*,

Na. I

How admirable! how complete! Here are set our hand-drums and drums. The drums resound harmonious and loud, To delight our meritorious ancestor.

The descendant of T'ang invites him with this music, That he may soothe us with the realization of our thoughts. Deep is the sound of the hand-drums and drums; Shrilly sound the flutes; All harmonious and blending together, According to the notes of the sonorous gem. According to the descendant of T'ang;

Tree of the Book.— Bok III. of Part IV.

'Sacrificial odes of Shang; Book III. of Part IV.

'Sacrificial odes of Shang; Book III. of Part IV.

Here we return, for several odes at least, to the proper meaning of Alpha Part of the She, the character having the same meaning as in the title of Book I. Shang is the name of the second of the three ancient fendal dynasties, and remains still as the name of the small department of Shang as the name of the small department of Shang was Seeh (A), who appears in the Shoo as minister of Instruction to Shan. Whether he minister of Instruction to Shan. Whether he second his investitute from Yaou or from Shan is a disputed point. In the 14th generation from Seeh was a Treedown. The cele-

Very admirable is his music.

tained their places in the ancestral temple of the dynasty, after their first establishment, and if all its sacrificial odes had been preserved, they would have been in praise of one or other of them. But it so happened that at least all the odes of which Tae-tsung was the subject were lost. Of the others we have only a small portion,—five odes in all.

Of how it is that we have even these, we have the following account. The viscount of Wei was made duke of Sung, there to continue the sacrifices of the House of Shang; but the govt. of that State fell subsequently into great disorder, and the memorials of the dynasty seem to have been lost. In the time of duke Tae (III) 3.

B. C. 798 -765), one of his ministers, Ching-k'aou-foo, an ancestor of Confucius (Vol. I., proleg., p.57) received from the Grand music-master at the court of Chow twelve of the sacrificial odes of Shang, with which he returned to Sung, and used them in sacrificing to the former kings of that dynasty. This story rests on a statement in the 'Narratives of the States (III)

As we have only five odes in the Classic, it is supposed that seven of those twelve had perished during the two centuries that elapsed between Ching-k'aou-foo and his descendant.

Choo adds that in the odes that remain there are many lacunæ, and passages of which the meaning is doubtful, so that he could not presume to be positive in the interpretation of them. To the same effect is a remark of Fan Ch'oo-e on the 1st ode, that the student must deal with these pieces as in reading the Pwan-kang and the Announcements in the Shoo, not insisting on the literal meaning of the text, but well satisfied if he can catch the writer's drift

者要當如讀盤語 不必以文義相屬 職其大旨可也

Ode 1. Narrative. APPROPRIATE TO A SACRI-FICE TO T'ANG THE SUCCESSFUL, THE FOUNDER OF THE SHANG DYNASTY, DWELLING ESPECIALLY ON THE MUSIC, AND ON THE REVERENCE WITH WHICH THE SERVICE WAS PERFORMED. By which of the sovereigns of Shang the sacrifice to which the ode refers was performed we cannot tell. He is simply spoken of as 'a descendant of Tang.' Are we to take the piece as from him, whoever he was, or as narrative rather, composed by some one, probably a member of the royal House, who had taken part in the service? On the former view the several ## in the piece, and especially the in the last line but one, find an easy explanation, but on the other hand, I cannot conceive the principal in the sacrifice speaking of himself simply as 源, or that he could say of himself 办 赫湯孫, as in l. 11. I understand the whole therefore as narrative, and translate the personal pronouns in the plural.

Ll. 1—4. Sacrifices, during the Shang dynasty, were commenced with music; during the Chow dynasty with libations of fragrant spirits;—in both cases with the same object, to attract the Spirit or Spirits sacrificed to, and secure their presence at the service. Ch'in Haou (Ming dyn.) says:—'The departed Spirits hover between heaven and earth, and sound goes forth filling all the region of the air. Hence, in sacrificing, the people of Yin commenced with a performance of music, wishing thereby to call the attention of the Spirits, who, hearing it, would perhaps come to be present at the service and to enjoy it.' I do not vouch for the correctness of this explanation; but the sacrifices of Yin or Shang did begin with music; and hence we have so much about it in this ode. 新原,—as in i. [ii.] VI.; but I translate here—'How admirable,' as we must take the terms as an exclamation of admiration (美而歎之; Ying-tah). 那,—as in II. vii. I. 3. The line must refer, I think, to the instruments of music. L.2. 置一陳, 'to set forth.' 姚鼓,—as in i.[ii.].V. L.8. 奏 denotes the striking up of all the drums. 簡 is defined by 和大,—as in the translation. Ll. 4. 17,-as in II. vii. VI. 2. 'The meritorious ancestor' is T'ang.

Ll. 5-12. L. 5. 'The descendant of T'ang' is the sacrificing sovereign. Ching, erroneously insisting on 孫 as meaning 'grandson,' says we are to understand Tae-këah. Maou takes 一大, so that the line - 'The descendant of T'ang performs this grand music.' better is it to take 假 as = 格, 'to come to,' so that the meaning of 奏館 is as I have given it, or, perhaps, stronger. L. 6 has perplexed the critics very much, though Ching got hold of what seems to be the correct view of it. In the Le Ke, XXVI. Pt. i. 2, 3, we are told how the sacrificer, as preliminary to the service, had to fast for several days, and to think of the person of his ancestor, where he had stood and sat, how he had smiled and spoken, what had been his cherished aims, pleasures, and delights; and on the 3d day he would have a complete image of him in his mind's eye. Then on the day of sacrifice, when he entered the temple, he would seem to see him in his shrine, and to hear him as he went about in the discharge of the service. The line seems to indicate the realization of all this. The 'Complete Digest' says on it 一級,安也;思成,言未祭而有所思、既祭而若有形聲,則所思者於是乎成矣謂神命來格也. 117,8 淵淵 indicate the deep sound of the drums, and ithe clear, shrill notes of the flutes. Ll.9, 10. These sounds were in harmony and blended together (高上相均謂之平), being regulated by the music which came from the bull above the dances were performed. ting the orderly gracefulness with which the 有项一项事然青次序, denowill suggest the meaning adopted here. L. 14. ciently interchanged. Bither of the latter forms Taou observes that 掌("" and 深 were anter, to give us this meaning of it; but Wang There is nothing in the diet,, under the characcompass of the notes of the bells and drume. 製 號 弧 山 meaning the richness and Both Maou and Choo say on 有數數 racter with 🏠 at the side, in III. i. VIII. 3. L. 13. Hethe same chaing to a conclusion, his representative. In this the service is drawall the feasting of the departed T'ang through posed to cover the offering of the sacrifice, and Ll. 13-16. The preceding paragraph is sup-

the hall above the court. Of the music in the

This, we are told, was not the ordinary king, or sounding stone (), which was among the instruments in the court, but the 'gem king (), or I have said I cannot oparticularly. It II, I2, I have said I cannot conceive of the sacrificer speaking, as in L II, of himself. Kenng says the line is in L II, of himself. Kenng says the line is in L II, of himself. Kenng says the line is in praise of T'ang, and not the sacrificer's boasting of himself (), himself. He sacrificer's boasting that is a mere evasion of the difficulty.

Lie 17-20 detendine the mudness and reverence of the sacrificer in all the service, showing him to be the true representative of all the great men of former men' to such as T'ang, noted for his
the 'former men' to such as T'ang, noted for his
The 'former men' to such as T'ang, noted for his
The force of the
The former men' to be reverent,
'to practise,' must be carried on to the next line.
'The force of the first in the first first in the first first in the first firs

Verrogarively. By and the mildness and rever-

Li. 16, 16. $\frac{1}{2}$,—as in i. [ii.] III, et al., only the term should here, perhaps, be taken in the singular, the visitor being the representative of the been another also, the representative of the Family of Shun. L. 16 must be construed interrogatively. $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{2}$ are synonymous,—

[Thus] offered by the descendant of T'angl

The former men set us the example;—
How to be mild and humble from morning to night,
And to be reverent in discharging the service.

From of old, before our time,

The large bells and drums fill the ear; The various dances are grandly performed. We have admirable visitors, Who are pleased and delighted.

II. Lëeh tsoo.

成。資載所。及錫斯祖。嗟亦我清○爾無帖。有應斯疆。申秋烈

Ah! ah! our meritorious ancestor!
Permanent are the blessings coming from him,
Repeatedly conferred without end:—
They have come to you in this place.

The clear spirits are in our vessels, And there is granted to us the realization of our thoughts. There are also the well-tempered soups,

Ode 2. Narrative. PROBABLY LIKE LAST ODE, APPROPRIATE TO A SACRIFICE TO T'ANG, DWELLING ON THE SPIRITS, THE SOUP, AND THE GRAVITY OF THE SERVICE, AND THE ASSISTING PRINCES. It is the view of Choo that the object of the sacrifice here was also T'ang the Successful. The Preface says that it was T'ae-mow, the second of the three Honoured ones (H) among the sovereigns of Shang. The imperial editors go at length into a discussion of the question, and say all that can be said in favour of the earlier view. But I am persuaded that Choo is correct. There is no getting over the of 1.1, and the have a sacrifice to T'ae-mow, and not a word in the piece in praise of him, which can be interpreted in any way of him, unless it be 1.4.

There is the same difficulty with the personal pronouns as in the former ode, and I can see no other method to dispose of it but that which I there adopted. The student can try if he can get any satisfaction from the following remarks of Lew Kin, who has on this ode endeavoured to cope with it:- 'The Sung odes all celebrate the complete virtue and set forth the accomplished merit of their subjects; but this is done by the singer (or writer), giving expression to the sentiments of the principal at the sacrifice. When from the stand-point of his own person he refers to that principal, he calls him "you." From the stand-point of the ancestor (sacrificed to), he calls him "the grand-son of Tang." When he introduces him in his own person, he uses the first personal pronoun. It is one and the same person who is indicated by these different forms of expression. The case is the same in the previous ode. So in the Chow Sung, [ii.] VII., the writer, from the standpoint of his own person mentions the sacrificer as "the Son of Heaven;" then, as "the filial son," also as here we have "the grandson of T'ang;" and again we have the sacrificer speaking in the first person just as here (領詩, 所以美盛德 告成功 而皆

4. 嗟嗟,-as in i.[ji.]I. meritorious ancestor'is, with all critics, T'ang, as in last ode. The 'Flower and Essence of the She' expands l. 2 into 烈祖眷顧後 人有常者此福, 'This happiness with which our meritorious ancestor blesses his posterity is his permanent possession.' Being permanent, he could confer it on one descendant after another. The pain 1.4 must be referred to the principal in the sacrifice with reference to which the ode was first made. On which of the kings of Shang he was, not even a conjecture 斯所, 'this place;'-in can be hazarded. His sacrificing to Tang in the anthis place. cestral temple was the greatest possible proof of his inheriting from him the royal dignity. Of course those who hold by the Preface refer the 'you' to T'ac-mow;—against all natural interpretation.

Ll.5—12. 阵士一道, 'spirits.' These are mentioned here as for the purpose of libation, at the commencement of the sacrifice. 載 indi-

With the grey hair and wrinkled face, in unlimited degree. He will bloss us with the evelvows of longerity, Nor is there now any contention [in any part of the service]. By these offerings we invite his presence, without a word, Prepared beforeland, the ingredients rightly proportioned.

'язмой рэзизициизо With the naves of their wheels bound with leather, and their

And confer [on us] happiness without limit. [Our ancestor] will come and enjoy [our offerings], Fruitful years of great abundance. And from Beaven is our prosperity sent down, We have received the appointment in all its greatness, The princes come and ussist at the offerings. Builatit the eight belle at their horses' bits all tinkling,

Thus] offered by the descendant of Trang! May he regard our sacrifices in summer and winter, the verbs that follow. Id. 21, 22,—as in last ode. 來一是, blending its meaning with ·Luu, L The subject of IL 19, 20 is comp. in i. [i.] IX. 11-11, wide; #= 11.13, L. 13,which he would receive from his ancestor. ing in the favour of Heaven, and the blessing the sacrifice, as the descendant of Trang, rejoicni legionizg odt ot niega enzuter obo odt 62-id Il nI . 'to offer,'=to take part in offering. In IL of the princes in coming to the court of Shang. L9 there. L. L5. The M indicates the object nerd being oridently equivalent to MR in reading, so that RE READING in Lo of last ode. The rest of the lines describe the stillness and gravity with which all the service was gone about. Ll. 12 express the describe was gone about. Ll. 12 express the describe which Tang, so wetshipped, would confer. Comp. L4 in II. iii. VII. 5. and Choo adopts the former as the true of the Mean, XXXIII.4, with 35 instead of band. Ll. 9, 10 are quoted in the 'Dectrine sees to the soup as carefully prepared beforepeated in the Ale, and so the Ale also must al ni equavalt out the to -or el abli omas bill gainequest to exuixim environment edit estenab articles used in the excribee for the whole. Id! cates their being 'contained' in their proper LL 13—20. IL 13—15 relate to the foudal resisted in the search La. Second massisted in the Lauppie, I augment a part of the lauppie, I augment to the Lauppie, I augment to the Lauppie, I augment to the Lui II. 2, Augment to the foudal lauppie, I augment to the foudal lauppie, I augment to the foudal lauppier. III. Heuen nëaou.

Heaven commissioned the swallow,
To descend and give birth to [the father of our] Shang.
[His descendants] dwelt in the land of Yin, and became great.
[Then] long ago God appointed the martial T'ang
To regulate the boundaries throughout the four quarters.

[In those] quarters he appointed the princes, And grandly possessed the nine regions [of the kingdom].

The rhymes are—祖, 祜, 所, cat. 5, t. 2; 成, 平., 争, cat. 11; 疆, 衡., 鸧, 亭., 將, 康, 蕿, 饗, 疆, 害, 將, cat. 10.

Ode 3. Narrative. Appropriate to a sacri-FICE IN THE ANCESTRAL TEMPLE OF SHANG; INTENDED SPECIALLY TO DO HONOUR TO THE KING WOO-TING. The Preface says that the sacrifice to which the piece refers was entirely to Woo-ting (配高宗). Choo on the contrary says nothing about Woo-ting, but simply that it belonged to the sacrifices in the ancestral temple, tracing back the family of Shang to its origin and to its attaining the sovereignty of the kingdom. If we accept the view of the Preface, we are obliged to adopt what seems to me an unnatural interpretation of IL 10, 11; but if it were not intended in some way to do honour to Woo-ting, we cannot account for the repeated mention of him in it. Ching would change the of the Preface into 12, maintaining that the sacrifice was in the third year after the death of Woo-ting, and paid to him in the temple of Seeh, the ancestor of the Shang dynasty. Wooting is mentioned in the Shoo, V. viii., and ix.

IL1-5. IL1, 2. 支鳥, 'the dark bird,' is a name for the swallow (支鳥, 鼠, 鼠, 鼠, 龍, 龍, 鼠, 龍, 龍, 鼠, 龍, 鼠, 龍, 鼠, 龍, 龍, 內, derived from this passage and the traditions connected with it. The mother of Seeh, it is said, was a daughter of the House of Sung (有娱失女), belonging to the harem of the ancient emperor K'uh, and named Kēen-teih (簡秋). Acc. to Maou, she accompanied the emperor at the time of the vernal equinox, when the swallow made its appearance, to sacrifice and pray to the first Matchmaker, and the result was the birth of Seeh;— see a very similar legend as to the birth of How-tseih, on III. ii. I. Sze-ma Ts'een, and also Ch'ing, after him, make the birth of Seeh still more marvellous. Keen-teih was bathing in some open place, when a swallow suddenly made its appearance and dropt an egg, which she took and swallowed; and from this came the birth of Seeh. We need not believe the legends, say the imperial editors;—the important point is to believe that the birth of Seeh was specially ordered by Heaven.

'gave birth to Shang;' i.e., to Seeh who became lord of Shang:—see the note on the title of the Book.

L.S. 宅 - 居, 'to dwell in.' We must understand 子孫, 'Sēeh's descendants' as the subject of Ë. As it was not till the reign of Pwan-kang, that the name of Shang came to be interchanged with Tin, we must suppose that the land of Tinis here improperly spoken of was a name for the district about 🚉, where Pwan-kang fixed his capital. The poet, writing after him, gives the denomination to the early seat of the family. 世世-大貌 'greatlooking; -to be understood of Seeh's descendants and their territory. As the Flower and Essence of the She' expands the line,—其子 孫宅居殷土國遂芒芒然 大. LL 4, 5, 古一昔, 'anciently.' The 帝 上帝, 'God' I translate L5 acc. to Gowyang Sew's exposition of it, which is the simples: I have met with:-謂湯始受命 以正四方之疆域

And it is [now] held by the descendant of Woo-ting. Received the appointment without any element of instability in it, The first sovereign of Shang

The descendant of Woo-ting

Bear the large dishes of millet. Ten princes, [who came] with their dragon-emblazoned banners, Is a martial king, equal to every emergency.

Is where the people rest; The royal domain of a thousand le

I.l. 6—10. $\frac{1}{100} = \frac{1}{100} = \frac{1}{$

struction of the text. ode was one to Woo-ting. It is not a fair conof the Preface that the sacrifice celebrated in the by way of inference. I do not think it would ever have been heard of but for the statement Maon as in favour of this view; but it is merely by way of inference. I do not think it would Type must be underbe tated start I have just stated. the radical M determines the meaning here to are interchanged, but Ying-tah observes that L VL 4, where we read ff. The two characters of 'millet and sacrificial millet.' The dict. quotes, under the character, this line, and also L I of H. number. 大 辭 is explained as a denomination Ying-tah have other ways of accounting for the illustrious among the princes,—if they came, all the others would be sure to do so. Ching and exom edt ot gririsier ee nei edt edt ot ere e π sacrificing. I do not think me are to lay stress on the specification of ten chariots. Yeu Ts'an says the fendal princes w ho came to assist the king in es in the translation. Ll. 13, 14 relate to 不刑無=觀不顯 'nietere of', 'resd 01. 丑。幽 "gaizl leitrem a'—stalemert 977 This hardly seems to be necessary, if that his descendants also so designated themtis properly a denomination of Tang, but Choo says that not enter on them again. IL 11—14. The difft. views of L 10 of course affect the interpretation of L. 11, 12; but I need reignty of the kingdom, which T'ang received, the permanence of the appointment to the sorethat the meaning of the three lines is that The first in, 'depended on,' T矩─千帮人翻5 近一些千帮. ascertain, take F Many of the critics, however, Wang Suh the first among them so far as I have been able to former kings of Shang anterior to Woo-ting. of T'ang, rather than, in the plural, of the (清主祭之表). On this view, 于中的 (清文表). On this view, 不由的 of Woo-ting. If we adopt this view of 1.10, the other lines present no difficulty, and I understand the expression denotes the sacrificing sovereign yang Sew, and Pan Ch'oo-e, the latter adding that -, the descendant of Woo-ting. So say Gow-矩-千刹 T海—01.1dira ing of them is very much disputed. To begin so. I.I. 8—10 seem plain enough, but the meansignification of $\overline{\exists}$; nor will I set myself to do definition without attempting to account for this Chow, with reference to the division of the country by Yu into nine provinces;—see the sometry by Yu into nine provinces;—see the Shoo, III. i. The dictionary repeats the same shoot number of the dictionary repeats the same country by the dictionary repeats the same shoot number of the distinct of the . 器 海, the fendal princes. four quarters, or in each of the four quarters. But there commence the boundaries that reach to the four seas

何。祿宜。命殷維景亦來是百咸受河。員亦。假

From the four seas they come [to our sacrifices];

They come in multitudes;—

King has the Ho for its outer border.

That Yin should have received the appointment [of Heaven] was entirely right;—

[Its sovereign] sustains all its dignities.

IV. Ch'ang fah.

方。下禹芒洪其長維濬長外土敷芒。水祥。發商。哲發

1 Profoundly wise were [the lords of] Shang,
And long had there appeared the omens [of their dignity].
When the waters of the deluge spread vast abroad,
Yu arranged and divided the regions of the land, stood of the presenting the dishes of millet at the sacrifice, and not of contributions by the princes to the Government.

Ll. 15—16,—see in the 'Great Ll. 15—17. Learning,' Commen. III.1. 隆=始, 'to begin.' There may, possibly, be a reference in the lines to the vigour of Woo-ting and his martial descendant, as re-establishing the ancient sway of Tang over all the kingdom. On 'the four seas,' see Ana.XII.iv. 前前-眾多貌, 'the app. of multitudes.' L. 17 is very obscure, and Choo acknowledges that he does not understand it. The most likely construction is to take 景 as the name of a hill, near which was the capital, —like 焆 in the next ode, l. 6; but it is there explained by 周, 'all round.' As we must take 何 of the Ho, the Yellow river, I do not see how it could be represented as going all round the capital. The translation gives what I conceive the line may have been intended to say. Lacharme has—'Regio King (ubi urbs regia) tota fluviis cingitur.' L. 22. 何一任 'to sustain.' Ch'nng says that the line—擅 天之多福, 'He sustains (or enjoys) the many sources of happiness conferred by Heaven.'

The rhymes are—商, 芒, 湯, 方, cat. 10; 有*, 殆*, 子, cat. 1, t. 2; 勝, 乘, 承 cat. 6; 里, 止, 海*, cat. 1, t. 3; 河, 宜*, 何, cat. 17.

Ode 4. Narrative. CELEBRATING SEEH, THE ANCESTOR OF THE HOUSE OF SHANG; SEANG-T'00, HIS GRANDSON; T'ANG, THE FOUNDER OF THE DYNASTY; AND E YIN, T'ANG'S CHIEF AD-VISER.—ON OCCASION OF WHAT SACRIFICE THE PIECE WAS MADE DOES NOT APPEAR. The Preface, indeed, says it was made on occasion of the great Te sacrifice (大篇), when the principal object of honour would be the emperor K'uh, with Seeh as his correlate, and all the previous kings of the dynasty and the lords of Shang, and their famous ministers and advisers, would be associated in the service. Choo is of opinion that the occasion was the Heah sacrifice (治祭). Other views have been advanced; but it is not necessary to enter into a discussion of them. There are many difficulties in construing and explaining the paragraphs and lines, and the remark of Fan Ch'oo-e quoted in the note on the title of the Book is often brought to mind;—if we think we have got the drift of the writer's meaning, we must be satisfied.

St. 1. Ll. 1, 2. 溶哲=深知, 'deep and wise,' or 'profoundly wise.' The lines must be referred, I think, to the ancestors of the Shang dynasty, when they occupied the territory of Shang. 長一人, 'long,' 'for long.' 洋一asin II iv. V. 7;—'happy omens.' As those omens issued in the sovereignty of T'ang, I think that l. 1 must be restricted as I have done. Similarly Lew Kin:—泛言溶哲之君,盖自遇以上,契以下,皆是也. Ll. 3—6. The work of Yu is referred to, not, apparently, with any purpose to sing the praises of

And assigned to the exterior great States their boundaries, With their borders extending all over [the kingdom]. Then the State of Sung began to be great, And God raised up the son [of its daughter], and founded [the Family of] Shang.

The dark king exercised an effective sway.

Charged with a small State, he commanded success.

He followed his rules of conduct without error;

Wherever he inspected [the people], they responded [to his instructions].

新獎, syns (arth guilt; 曼志王) gur'ud he looked at the people, and they had stirred themselves to respond to him. As Wang Chemoərəni, 今瓤以發明,另其斯逐 一道.J. 'without transgression.' L. 5 rules of conduct to be trodden by men." plished his object. If is taken as—iii, the plifted his lessons, and how rapidly he accombe successful. Ll. 4, 5 tell us how Seeh exemot = ,45 have free course,= to Jessous. they were subjected to the influence of Seeh's seem proper to speak of Seeh's rule as warlike, his work being to instruct the people in the social duties;—see the Shoo, II.i. 19. I.l. 2, 3. A small State, 'a great State,' may refer to Shang, small at first, but increased by subsections, small at first, but increased by aubsections of the States small and large, as expressions of the States small and large, as they were subjected to the influence of Seeh's they were subjected to the influence of Seeh's by Wang Taou, by 🔭, 'great.' It does not is explained, by Choo, by III, martial, and away the confusion and ignorance that prevailed. term as 'to scatter,' 'to remove:"-Seeh took to rule; -- with reference to the meaning of the he is styled the dark king. Be is defined by It is rain to inquire why carried back to him. (see the proleg, to the Shoo, pp. 97, 98).

St. 2. Ll. 1—5 are occupied with Seeh, who is styled 'king' in 1.9; not that he ever was a king himself, but the title of his descendants is king himself, but the title of his descendants is elemental Goda, whom he called H H H that the 祈 was the 黑 部 one of his five So, all the critica, except Ch'ing, who says es in many other places. Choo explains A by II-ty the meaning of 'the low-lying land;' but the pringdom,

It is difficult to defermine exactly the meaning

於據而太≲土不翻馬-七

土不獲禹 JII. 高數形土工

Seeh came into notice, and to connect his lambours with those of Yu as of universal benefit, just as we have Yu's work and How-tseih's brought together in ii. III. I. A. as in that monarch, but to give the point of time when the Shoo I. 11, et al.

The connection might seem to justi-

The line = # In the Shoo, III. i. I.

Le Tr. - as in last ode,

[Then came] Sëang-t'oo, all-ardent, And all [within] the seas, beyond [the middle region], acknowledged his restraints.

The favour of God did not leave [Shang], And in Tang was found the subject for its display.

T'ang was not born too late,

And his wisdom and virtue daily advanced.

Brilliant was the influence of his character [on Heaven] for

And God appointed him to be a model to the nine regions.

以身教故在寬而奏效捷 LL 6, 7 introduce Seang-t'oo, who appears in the genealogical lists, as the grandson of Seeh. 页以 烈,—'all-ardent,' or 'very meritorious.' is very obscure. 海夕 is literally, 'outside the seas;' but we cannot think of the influence of Sëang-t'oo as extending beyond the China of his day. The phrase—四海之外, 'the outside of the four seas,' the 'four seas' being a denomination of the kingdom in all its extent, and the 'outside' leading us to conceive of all the feudal States in distinction from the royal domain. Choo defines 截 by 整 齊, 'to be adjusted and made regular;' but that is merely a portion of Ch'ing's account of the line, and a result of the 有截. He says, 四海之 外率服截然整齊 截 means 'to cut off,' 'to intercept; 有截 sets the States before us as submissive to the restraints put upon them by the lord of Shang, whatever they were. Ching says that Sëang-tioo was employed by the then king of Hëa as a sort of director or president of all the other princes; but that is merely an inference drawn from this line. St. 3. The writer passes over all the other T'ang, the founder of the dynasty. Ll. 5,2. 定

Heaven, to be seen in due time, in its appointment of the House of Shang to the sovereignty of the kingdom, had never left it, but it was not till Tang that the proper man to receive it appeared. This seems to be the meaning of 湯齊, which Choo says he does not under-Soo Ch'eh, Fan Choo-e, and others, stand. explain 严 by 會, 'to meet with,' as if in Tang the man and the decree of Heaven met together (Maou says, 至湯與天心會; Soo, 與天命會; Fan, 至于湯,則 德與命會). Ll. 3, 4. 降=生, 'to be 不遲, 'not late,'—at the proper 聖敬,—'his sagely reverence,' 躋一 升, 'to ascend,'=to increase. Ll.5-7. 昭 假 expresses how the virtue of T'ang brilliantly affected Heaven (其德昭明感格 於天), and this it did by a continuous and gradual process (延延; comp. the phrase in I. xv. 2, et al.). 而一敬, 'to reverence.' 式 =法, 'to be, or to give, the law.' 九圍一 九有 in last ode. Ying-tah says, 'All under heaven being divided into nine parts, there they were, distinct as if each part had been marked lords of Shang, and brings us, with a bound, to out by a compass (九分天下,各篇 九處,若規圍然次 -____, 'to go away,' 'to leave.' The favour of

He received the rank-tokens [of the States], small and large, Which depended on him, like the pendants of a banner;—So did he receive the blessing of Heaven. He was neither violent nor remiss, Neither hard nor soft.

Gently he spread his instructions abroad, And all dignities and riches were concentrated in him.

He received the tribute [of the States], large and small, And he supported them as a strong steed [does its burden];—So did he receive the favour of Heaven.

He displayed everywhere his valour,

I must adopt this reading, and then the line defined (See in the 皇 清 興 解, ch. 1,408.) does not acknowledge, but which is found in the Urh-ya, the Yuh-p'een, and the Shih-wan, meaning a horse, with characteristics rariously BE a character which Kiang-he's dictionary Now, the Ts'e copy of the She read here tained a comparison, so ought the line defore us to factory. Evidently this stanza and the last are of similar structure, and as the 2d line there con--eitsenu vrov ei doidn-; 出 乳腺大面 -en guinnem edt eerig det-gair ban, Ly by seems to battle critical ingenuity. Maou explains monly the meaning of 🏋 , great; but 📆 Eg, indeed, has com-2 is more perplexing. been tried, but I need not dwell upon them. I. which I have here given. Other explanations have analogy of I. in last st. I, we get the meaning of I.1 sense of contributions, and keeping in mind the Taking # as = # BuideT telligible to Choo. St. 5. Ll. 1, 2 are both in themselves unintheir emoluments. ban esitingib soft lie. - A 月 | collected.

19

显示 be translated as I have done (是衙場

r 59. 類一談, to be and magnanimity. esonslineg to sviessytzs ei 🛃 🛃 To note and ot, 鐵一樣 in his government. Ll. 4-7, describe the manner of Tang 《如果》 L. S. (11) = (11), 'to bear,' 'to 祝祝 發乞頭 映圖 希祖 蓄設而千天鼠膏) renned a ot all the States were now attached as the pendants .to be connected. To T'ang denotes the tassels or pendants attached to a expresses his sovereignty in another way. respectively. The princes now rendered them to Ting, acknowledging his sovereignty. L. 2 tokens belonging to small and to great States odt od lliv 猴大 猴 化 their dignity. court, when they appeared there, as the tokens of the first place, and they brought them to the princes. They received them from the king in in shape and size, according to the rank of the of rank; -the = of the Chow dynasty, varying ing as Jill, in the Shoo, H. i. 7, the jade-tokens kind of jade.' We must give it the same mean-1. 1. 棘 is explained as 表表, an admirable kingdom. Ll. 1, 2. Choo does not understand St. 4. T'ang appears now as sovereign of the Unshaken, unmoved,

Unterrified, unscared:—
All dignities were united in him.

- The martial king displayed his banner,
 And with reverence grasped his axe.
 It was like [the case of] a blazing fire,
 Which no one can repress.
 The root, with its three shoots,
 Could make no progress, no growth.
 The nine regions were effectually secured by him.
 Having smitten [the princes of] Wei and Koo
 He dealt with [the prince of] Keun-woo, and with Këeh of Hëa.
- 7 Formerly in the middle of the period [before Tang], There was a time of shaking and peril, 下國皆於我乎頁載也). L.3. 何,—as in last stanza 龍一龍, as often. L.6—大進其武功, 'grandly exhibited his warlike merit.' L.8. 蓋 and 竦 are of kindred meaning—恐 or 懼, 'to be afraid.' L.9. 總, 'to be together;'—道 in last stanza.

St. 6 details the military achievements by which Tang made himself master of the kingdom. II. 1,2. 清 is a streamer attached to a flag; but it is here used for the flag itself, and with a verbal force,— he raised his banner.' is the particle. 有度—'reverently.' Tang had no wish to dethrone Kēch, but it was a duty which he owed to Heaven to take the course he did. II. 3, 1. 是,—here, i. q. 提, to repress,' to check.' 我 had better be translated in the 3d person. L. 5 is a metaphorical way of describing Keeh the last king of Hea, and his three principal adherents. He was the root (百一本); they were the shoots springing from it. L.6. 莫遂, 莫達 are to be explained with reference to the figure in l.5. As Ho Keeae says, 皆從葉字生出. L.7九有 as in last ode. 有截一as in the translation. Ll.8,9. The three great helpers of Keeh were the princes of Wei (or Chewei, 承章), Koo, and Keun-woo; but the exact site of those principalities I have not been able to make out. Their chiefs are represented as descended from Chuh-yung, a son of the ancient Chuen-heuh. We must repeat the 伐 at the commencement of l.9.

St.7.葉 = 世, 'age;' 中葉, -'the middle age;' i.e., some time between Seang-too and Trang. As Ho Kreae says, 此詩前言相土,後言成湯,所謂中葉者.

I

And sent him down a minister, But truly did Heaven [then] deal with him as its son,

Who gave his assistance to the king of Shang. Zamely A-hang.

roon wix Ά

And brought the multitudes of King together, Boldly he entered its dangerous passes, And vigorously did he attack King-ts'00. Rapid was the warlike energy of [our king of] Yin, Shang to engierore out to one the last out (\(\int \frac{\pi}{4}\)), position of the piece to the reign of Te-yih be discontinued. Hence Könng refers the comnot be removed and his share in the sacrifices not seasonal sacrifices; but several reigns would elapse before there was any accessity for making any other arrangement, so that his tablet should any other arrangement, so that his elapse. the argument, After his death his Spirit-tablet would be shrined in the ancestral temple of Shang, and he would have his share in the oceasion of a sacriffee to Woo-ting. The con-cluding stanza indicates turther that it was anade on the oceasion which I have indicated in The Preface merely says that this was made on VELUE, FIGH VAD HONOCHED, RING OF SHAM' HIS BEICK !-- NYDE' EHONYBEL' MHEN Y SEECIVE VAD THE GENERAL HAPPINESS AND VIRTUE OF OF WOO-TING AGAINST KING-TS'00, ITS SUCCESS, Ode 5. Narralive. ялт энт эктглявалаЭ

Дрв соттор ir disappears itself altogether. Chwang, and then it gives place to the name T'soo in the 1st year of duke He, and subsequent-Ch'un Ts'ër sereral times in the annals of duke Shang dynasty. The name King appears in the plexing. Both the names of Xin and Shang were in common use in the time of Xin and Shang Wan, who uses them combined in III. iii. I.; but we should say, but for this ode, that the name of Ts'oo was not in use at all till long after the Shang denastr. The name that the pages is the the combination here is more strange and perso often the combination Yin-shang as the name of the Shang or Yin dynasty in Il. ili.I. But of the Shang or Yin dynasty in II. ili.I. the same State combined together, just as we have L. 2. In # 1 2 we have two names of -grant off ni an-先去王骐-压毁 L. L. 在二天 31. rapid-looking.

gard to this ode the arrangement of the lines in Choo and the critics generally resume in rethe title of IV.iv; and on [iii] fiff, his name, or the name of his office, under IV. v. I. director. See on him the note in the Shoo on E Zin, who became his principal minister and suomed out mid zniviz ban (() qu znieier vd Il. 4-6. Heaven showed its favour for T'ang, Heaven loved T'ang, and made him its son. 今千而需要天-千天.mv the 'Flower and Essence,' taking T as in i. [i.] this line as meaning—' But truly did he—'T'ang prefer the riew of Ch'ing, which is followed in to be in a perilons condition. L. 3. Choo takes during thut period of decadence. 中著他 L.2 describes the state of Shang 5份对土脉对县设业共

T) car 1) to 2) 101 101 101 101 101 101 101 ·子 :8.1.8.1m. ·莱 .* 莱 ; ni :8.1 ,čī 1.no 救 沙 掛 鍪 頸 喝 顺 級 襉 , ani: 6.1mo - 關, 棘, 使, 便 (ā ni : f.1 , & 1 no , 董, 對 , 泵 源, t.ni.1.1, di. 圍, 加, 题, 劑 雅·發·斯·雷·act 16, t.3: in 3, 電, · 张 缵 · m : 0(zm · 阅 · 佛 · 强 · 大。西海、湖· 园 , I . is ni-orn sonrul our socia yang n ton stanzas, which seems to me to show that it is

Till the country was reduced under complete restraint:—
Such was the fitting achievement of the descendant of Tang.

2 'Ye people,' [he said], 'of King-ts'oo
Dwell in the southern part of my kingdom.
Formerly, in the time of T'ang the Successful,
Even from the Këang of Te,
They dared not but come with their offerings;
[Their chiefs] dared not but come to seek acknowledgment:—Such is the regular rule of Shang.'

opinion is that the name of Ts'oo first came into use about the beginning of duke He's rule of Loo, i. e., about B. C. 658,—between four and five centuries after the overthrow of Shang. If the ode before us be genuine, that opinion of course is incorrect. Han Ying, however, referred this piece to the time of duke Scang of Sung;and I must say that the balance of the argument rather inclines in favour of that view. I introduce here a long note from Këang on this point, and King-ts'oo, or King and Ts'oo, gener-楚雄南服立國在江溪 公時作商頌之說,殊 荆及衡陽爲荆州 即荆楚也,荆岐既旅 ,乃在西,雍州之荆 -荆·故以荆楚 别 F, 孰 謂周時始 有荆楚 後服:當湯之時,不敢抗衡, 商中微為中國患此高宗所 以討之也,按郝氏敬援二

L.3. Maou defines 采 by 深, after Ching by , 'daringly.' suits the connection. L.4. 裒一聚, 'to collect;' the translation. 族= 課, 'multitudes.' Perhaps the 'Essence and Flower of the She' is correct in understanding the line of the king's making all the people of King-ts'oo prisoners (荆州之衆,負 L. 5. 耳 所, 'their places;'—meaning the whole territory. 有截,—as in last ode. 6. 稻 = 功, 'meritorious achievement;' but it also indicates that the merit was a sequence of that of Tang and other sovereigns. St. 2 contains an address which we are to suppose Woo-ting to have spoken to the people or chiefs of King-ts'oo. L. 2. Maou explains

網 by 所, 'place,' so that 南鄉 simply= 'the south,' or 'the southern parts.' Woo-ting's capital being in the north of the present Ho-nan, he might very well speak thus of King-ts'00, of the labours of Yu, But where their capitals had been assigned within the sphere Heaven has given their appointments [to the princes],

For the business of every year, they appeared before our king,

We have not been remiss in our husbandry.' [Saying], Do not punish nor reprove us;

Our king] showed no partiality [in rewarding], no excess [in The lower people are to be feared. When Heaven by its will is inspecting [the kingdom],

He dared not to allow himself in indolence:-:[gardsinuq

And he made his happiness grandly secure. So was his appointment [established] over the States, at the royal court (The Party affairs, which brought them there were that they might take their part in the seasonal sacrifices, and to report on the condition of their States. We are to take II. 4, 3 as sucken by the princes praying the legical party of their states. last stanza, meaning that the princes appeared ni 王 來 ot suoyolene si 鞀 來 bae .gaist In l. 3, FF is here the as in the translation. 一、過多或預使馬干一、uT to tirson in L I is perplexing, as the whole is equivalent to saying that 'Heaven descends and inspects,' an awfulness which is to be feared." 、贵 归 艰=翮 nears as my people hear. Heaven sees as my people see; Beaven to be the same as that in the Shoo. Vi. Pt. ii. 7, The sentiment in II. I, 2 is understood -ออกอกชั St. 4 seems to refer to the general govt. of Woo-ting as strictly just, and regulated by a regard to the sentiments of the people, and to the thrun establishment of his thrune in consective than establishment of his thrune in consecution. portant duty. spoken by the princes, praying the king to deal gently with them, and promising to attend to the husbandry of their States,—their most im-ts.00 be expected now to acknowledge that of so long ago, much more might those of Kingin the translation. If the tribes of the Te-keang in the translation. If the tribes of the Te-keang had thus acknowledged the sovereignty of Trang remark of the king, and E has ging already headship of his tribe. L. 7 is an explanatory The rule, in normal periods, was observed by a chief, immediately after he succeeded to the in a technical sense,—————, once in the life-time to appear at the king's court.' This was the rule laid down anciently for the chiefs of the vild tribes, which hay beyond the uine provinces of the kingdom. Every chief once in his time was required to present himself at court. The rule, in normal periods, was observed by The rule, in normal periods, was observed by posn si + the productions of their country. 三二二十 to offer, i. e., to present as a tribute which was in Hoo-pile. I.l. 3—6. The Te-beang of Woo-ting. 多部一部 高加克 in the time of the Han dynasty. in i. [i] IV., ct. al. 古 高 清 , in the way operations of the present Kan-sult.

riii. Pt.ii.2, in the words of Yuch, the chief adriser The same ideas occur in the Shoo, IV. from the king, these might also be ascribed to that though the princes had their appointments King-ts'00. Two ideas seem to underlie II. I, 2presented themselves at the court of Woo-ting;
—the more so, we are to suppose, because of the way in which he had subdued the tribes of St. 3 relates how all the feudal princes loyally .gair-00//

- The capital of Shang was full of order,
 The model for all parts of the kingdom,
 Glorious was his fame;
 Brilliant, his energy.
 Long lived he and enjoyed tranquillity,
 And so he preserves us, his descendants.
- We ascended the hill of King,
 Where the pines and cypresses grew symmetrical.
 We cut them down, and conveyed them here;
 We reverently hewed them square.
 Long are the projecting beams of pine;
 Large are the many pillars.
 The temple was completed,—the tranquil abode [of his tablet].

or that 'Heaven exercises an inspection here below.' The 命 is to be taken adverbially, or as expressive of the law or method of procedure which Heaven prescribes to itself. Woo-ting recognized this, and showed that he did so, as is described in IL 3, 4. 晉 is understood of 'error in rewarding or bestowing favours (資之)' 達一段,'to have—or to allow one's-self—leisure.' L.5,—'Being appointed (i.e. by Heaven) over all the feudal States.' L. 6. 其一大,'grandly,' 'on a great scale.' 'His happiness' will mean his firm possession of the throne, and the presperity of the country.

St. 5 may be considered as an expansion of L 6 in last stanze. L. L. 邑 = 新, 'capital,' as in III.i. X.2, so that 商邑 = 王都, 'the royal capital.' 翼翼 = 整敷貌, 'the appearance of the city as well-built and ordered.' L.2. 哲 = 表, 'a model,' the type of what a city and Soverament should be. L.4. 最 has

St. 6. relates to the temple which had been built for Woo-ting, and which was to last as long as the Shang dynasty should last;—for ever, as the writer of the ode imagined. Choo remarks on the similarity of structure between this stanza and the last stanza of ii. IV., and says he does not know how to account for it. It is certainly suspicious, and must be added to the peculiarity in the use of the name King-ts'00 in st. 1, as suggestive of the later origin of the piece. L. 1. 景, 川,—see on III., 1.20. L.2. Choo explains 人人人 by 直, 'to be straight;' Maou by 易直, 'easy and straight.' The meaning of 人, 'anything round,' suggests the symmetrical appearance of the trees as the real 流,肌、蛰、矩 ,I .de ni—ora eomydr odl ob ot ' Ait to sense snouport reom eti ni A pose to the spirit of Kaou-tsung. meaning of the phrase. L.A. 井一正, 'square,' -ex svig ot diverswith to give re-

cat. 16, t. 3: in 4, 監, 嚴, 選 (prop. cat, .解.衛.和. 10: in 8, 時, 衛, 孫, 正 "享亲愚慷!! in s, ali ta, d, stoo. 恭. 闹

Equally obscure is the 赤 截 of Choo. L. 5. cult to see the meaning in the connection. reverently. The diet, with reference to this passage, defines it by AH, of which it is diffi-

•

INDEXES.

INDEX I.

References to Parts are preceded by : to Books of the same Part, and odes of the same Book, by ;. of a Book by [i.], [ii.], dec.; the odes by I.; II., dec.; and the stanzas by I. 2, dec. Parts of the whole Book are indicated by I., II., Co.; separate Books by i., ii.; Parts

OE SUBJECTS.

Agricultural pursaits, longing for, I. x. VIII. described, I. xv. I.: II. vi. VI.: IV.i. [iii.] V.; VI. See Longerity. spirits give comfort to the, IV. i. [iii.] V. -honour done to the, III, ii, II. Aged men, II. iv. VIII. 5.

Ancestors, Wan conformed to the example of his, III. i. VI. Ancestor, think of your, III, i. I. 5, 6.
—like your, III. ii. VIII. 2.
—of the marquis of Han, III. iii. VIII. 5, 6.
—of the earl of Shaou, III. iii. VIII. 5, 6.
—nonr meritorions, IV. iii. IV. 3.
—onr meritorions, IV. iii. I.; II.

do not disgrace your great, III. iii. X. 7.

do not disgrace your great, III. iii. X. 7.

male and female, IV. i. [ii.] 1V.; [iii.] V.

—our, will give ear. IV. i. [ii.] V.

—your, bless you, IV. ii. IV. 3. 4.

Arces'ral chamber. I. ii. IV. 3.

Arces'ral chamber. I. ii. IV. 3.

iii. IV. 2. V. 4: IV. i. [1]. S. 3' ivenple.

—temple, II. v. IV. 4: IV. i. [1]. S. 3' ivenple.

III. IV. 2. V. 4: IV. i. [1]. S. 3' ivenple.

3. I. 3. I. 3. I. 3' ivenple. -the personator of, III. ii. III. 3; IV. See Dend.
-sacrifice to, III. iii, IV. 3. See Sacrifice.
-continuing the services of, III. iii. VI. 3, VII.
1: IV. iii. VI.

5 J. Jii III ,ewel ban sommes— C.X if All zaiges-Ancient, rule, L iii, IV, L

V .

Abode, the tranquil, (of the tablet of Woo-ting), IV, iii, V. 6.

Absence of a friend, lamenting the, I. i. III., v. ii. VIII.; v. of a friend, l. ii. III.; VIII.; iii. VIII.; v. VIII.; iii. VIII.; iii. VIII.; vii. II. of soldiers from their families, I. iii. VII.; ri. III.; ri. III.; ri. III.; ri. III.; ri. III.; rii. VIII.; rii. VIII.; rii. VIII.; rii. V.; r. iii. v. iii.

Acconfinements of duke 1700 of 1701, I. v. I.

Acconfrements, warlike, II. iii. III.

Acred height, the, II. v. VI. 7.

Acres, I. viii. VI. 3: II. vi. VI. I.

—ten, I. ix. V.

I. j: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI.

I. j: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI.

—newly enhivated, II. iii. IV.

—defining the, III. i. III. 4.

Address of Woo-ting to the people of King-ts'on Accomplishments of duke Woo of Web, I. v. I. .c .IIIV Admirable officers of king Ch'ing, III. ii. VIII. - Moni. T. iii. I. iii. Address of Woo-ting to the people of King-ts'00, [11, iii, V. 2.

Admiration of a husband, I. ii. VIII.

Admiration of a husband, I. ii. VIII.

—of a lady, I. xii. X.

—of lounds and hunting, I. viii. VIII.

—of princely men, II. xii. VI.

—of princely men, II. xii. VI.

Admonition, an, I. xii. VI.

—to king Ch'ing, III. ii. IX. xi. X.

—to king Ch'ing, III. ii. XII.

—to king Ch'ing, II. ii. XII.

—to king XII. ii. XII. ii. XII.

—to king Alaiseuky of giving, to a bad king.

Advisor, the soveroign of Yin has no, III, iii. J. v. Z. vi J.

Affinity, by marriage, II, iv. IV., vii. III, 3; IX. Age, from age to, III, i. I. 2, 3.

And words of, III, ii. X. 3.

Ancients, thinking of the, I. iii, II. 3, 4. -not taking the, as a pattern, II. v. 1. 4. -example of the, IV. iii. I. Anger of Heaven, the, III. ii. X. 8; iii. III. 4; XI. 1. -moved with, III. iii. IX. 4. Angling, I. ii. XIII.; v. V. 1: II. viii. II. 3. 4. Announcement, I have made, III. iii. VIII. 5. Announcements, timely, III. iii. II. 2. -of success, III. iii. VIII. 2. Answer, every word finds its, III. iii. II. 6. Ant-hills, I. xv. III. 3. Antelope, I. ii. XII. 1. Antiquity, the lessons of, III. iii. VI. 2. -example of, IV. iii. I. Anxiety, the proper subjects of, III. iii. III. 5. Auxieties, do not think of all your, II. vi. II. -have no doubts nor, IV. ii. IV. 2. -of Chung Shan-foo, III. iii. VI. 8. Apparatus of war, III. iii. IX. 1. Apartment, the honoured. II. ii. X. 2. Apartments, large inner, of temples in Loo, IV.ii. Appeal against a bad husband, I. iii. IV. from inferior officers of Chring to superior, I. vii. XI. Appointment of God, the, III. i. I. 1.: IV. iii. III. of Heaven, III. i. I. 4,; II.: IV. i. VI.; iii. V. 3.—the long acknowledged, III. ii. VIII. 4. -the great, III. i. I. 6; iii. I. 7: IV. iii. II. -the bright, III. ii. III. 7. -Wan and Woo received their, III. iii. VIII. 4. -former kings received their, III. iii. XI. 7. —the king will preserve the. IV. i. [i.] VIII. —of Chow, IV. i. [iii.] X.; XI. -the first sovereign of Shang received, IV. iii.III. -established, over the States, IV. iii. V. 4. Archer's thimble, I. v. VI. 2.: II. iii. V. 5.

Archery, I.ii. XIV.; vii. IV.; VIII.; viii. XI.; xi.

II.: II. iii. IV.; vii. VI. 1.; viii. II. 3.: III. ii.

II.; VI. 1.; iii. II. 4: IV. ii. III. 7.

Armies, III. ii. VI. 5; iii. IX. 1.

—the royal III iii. VI. 5 Apron, II. viii., II. 2. -the royal, III. iii. IX. 4, 5. Armour, the king donned his grand. IV. iii. VIII. Army, manœuvring of an, I. vii. V. -marching of an, II. viii, III. the king's, IV. iii. VIII. Aroma of spirits and viands, IV. iii. V. Arrival of Chwang Këang in Wei, I. v. III. Arrow, an, flying rapidly, II. iv: V. 4.
—straight as an, II. v. IX. 1.
Arrows, the four, III. ii. II. 3.
—put in cases, IV. i. [i]. VIII.
—whizzing forth, IV. ii. III. 7. See Archery. Arrow-thorn, the, III. i. V. 1. Artemisia, I. ii. XIV.; v. VIII. Artful smiles, I. v. III. 2; V. 3. -speech, H. iv. X. 5. Ascending and descending, III. i. I.: IV. iii. I; II; III. See Heights. Assignation, failure of an, I. xii. V. Assignations licentious, I. vii. XXI. Assistants, at ancestral service, IV. i. [i]. I.; iii. --in husbandry, IV. ii. I. Attendants of a lady. I. viii. IX.: III. iii. VII. -of the feudal princes, II. vii. VIII. 4. Aunts, I. iii. XIV. 2. Autumn, plants decay in, II. v. X. 2 Autumnal sacrifice, II. vi. V.: IV. ii. VI. 3, 4;

iii. 1.

Awe, not standing in, of one another or of Heaven, H. iv. X. 3. Awe-inspiring, Nan Chung, the, II. i. VIII. -Grand-master Yin, the, II. iv. VII. 1, 2. -king Woo, the, IV. i. VIII. Axe-handle, hewing an, I. xv. V. Axes, I. viii. VI. 4; xii. VI.; xv. I.: III. ii. VI. 1: IV. iii. IV. 6. we broke our, I. xv. IV. . -ends, II. vii. IV. Axle I. iii. XIV. Azure, vault, the, III. iii. III. 7.

B

Bubbling, II. v. VI. 3.
Budgers, I. ix. VI.; xv. I. 4.
Buck of the aged, wrinkled, III. ii. II. 4: IV. ii. Back-hone, the, II. vi. I. 3. Bags, bottomless, III. ii. VI. 1. Bamboos, I. v. I. V. 1. -a clump of, II. iv. V. 1. Bamboo frames for bows, I. xi. III.: II. iii. I. 2. -screens, I. viii. X: II, iii. IV. 1; III, iii. VII. 2. -hats, II. iv. VI. 2. -flute, II. v. V. 7: III. ii. X. 6. -sprouts, III. iii. VII. 3. -a mat of fine, II. iv. V. 6. -dishes of, II. vii. VI. 1: III. ii. III. 4: IV. ii. IV. 4. Bands, green, IV. ii. IV. 5. Banks, of the Joo, I. i. X. -of a stream in the south, I. ii. IV. of the Ke, I. v. I. -of the Ho, I. vi. VII of a river in Wei, I. ix. VI. of the Wei. III. i. II. 4, 5. of western rivers, III. i. III. 2. of the Keang and Han, III, iii. VIII. 3. —of the Hwae. III. iii. IX. 2, 4. the graceful sweep of the, II. iv. V. 1. -dwelling on the, of a river, II. v. IV. 6. Banners, I. iv. IX.: II. iii. V.; VIII.: IV. iii. IV. 6. with tortoises and serpents, II. i. VIII. 2, 3; iii. IV. 2; iv. VI. 4: III. iii. III. 2. -falcon, II. i. VIII. 2. -dragon, II. i. VIII. 2. IV. i. [ii.] VIII.; ii. III. 1; IV. 3; iii. III. Barbarian fees Barbarian foes, your great, III. iii. X. 5.
Barbel, the, II. ii. V. 1, 2.
Barley, IV. i. [i.] X.; i. [ii.] I.
Barns, II. vi. V. 1: III. ii. VI. 1.
Barnses Mule of Ham the Time Baroness Muh of Heu, the, I. iv. X. Barrenness of Kenng Yuen, III. ii. I. 1. Barrows, II. viii. III. 2. Barter, I. v. IV. 1. Baskets, I. iii. X. 3; viii. IX.: II. i. III. 6; v. III. 8. -square and round, I. ii. IV.: II. vii. VIII.: IV. i. [iii.] VI. –deep, I. xv. I. -fish caught in, II. ii. III.; V. -of offerings, II. i. I. 1. Battalions, II. viii. III. 3. Beacon, look to Yin as a. III. i. I. 6. the, of Yin is not far distant, III. iii. I. 8. Beams of a temple, the, IV. iii. V. 6. Beams, reaping, II. vi. III. 3.—gathering, II. vii.

-How-tseih planting, III. ii. L.4.

Bean-sprouts, II. iv. II. 2.

VIII.

```
— red. R. m. r. — adorned with horn, H. vii. IX. — adorned with bone, IV. ii. III. 7. — ornamented, III. ii. II. 3. — two, in each chariot, IV. ii. IV. 5. — and arrows, III. ii. VI. 1; iii. II. 4. Braggarts, noisy, III. ii. IX. Braggarts, noisy, III. ii. IX. Branches and stems, I. i. X. I: III. i. V. 6.
              Bow-cuse of tiger's skin, I, xi, III.

Bowing the head, III. iii. VIII. 5, 6.

H. 3: IV. i. [i.] VIII.

-with ivory ends, II. i. VII. 5.

-red, II. iii. I.

-red, rich with ivory ends, II. i. vII. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Çrane, ... ...
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         Osprey,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           ... ... .... X100 888.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            ,oloinQ...
               Boundaries, reaching to the four Sens, IV, iii,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              —ns n, on the wing is hit, III, iii, III. 14.
Birds, II. iv. V. 3, 4: IV. i. [nii.] IV.
—the cry of, II. i. V. 1.
—the cry of, III. i. VIII. 2.
                                                                                                                                                              See Birth.
                           Hone, hows adorned with, IV. ii. III. 7.
Booths for strangers, III. ii. VI. 3.
Bottle-gourds, I. iii. IX.; xv. I. 6.
Bottles of spirits, two, I. xv. I. 8.
Born, better not to have been, II. viii. IX. 9.
—in an unhappy time, III. iii. III. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 Bignonia, the dowers of the, II. viii. IX.
Bird, the duke of Chow compares himself to a,
L. zv. II.

—Yellow, I. i. II. I; iii. VII.; zi. VI.: II. iv. III.

—x, hying up to heaven, II. viii. X. 3.

—a, ascreened and supported How-tseili, III. ii.
            Bonding soup, III, iii, I, 6,
Bonds of the State, superior men are the, III,
iii, III, 3,
                                                                   Boilers, I. ziif. IV.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Besotted by drink, III. iii. II. 3.
Bestotted by drink, III. iii. VI. 2, 3.
Betrutling, I. ii. VI. 2, 3.
Bewalling his degradation, the eldest son of king Senen, II. v. III.
                                                             Crossing the Wei in, III. ii. VI. 6.
Boatman, I. iii. IX. 4.
Boatmen's sons, II. v. IX. 4.
          —of spiress—wood, L. iii, L. 1; iv. I.
—of pine, L. v. V. 4.
—of willow, II, iii, II, 4; vii. VIII, 5.
—n little, I. v. VII, 2.
—nodrift, like a, II. v. III, 4.
Bonts, a bridge of, III, i. II. 5. —on the King,
III, I. IV, 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          ΛIX
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Benevolence of a prince celebrated, the, L. ii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   -attached to banners and front-boards, IV i. [ii.]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              -attached to a sacrificial knife, II. vi. VI. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  -at the cross-board of a carriage, II. ii. IX. 4.
-eight, of horses tinkling, III. iii. VI. 7,8; VII.
4: IV. ii. III. 1.
       Blue, collar and girdle-strings, I. vii. XVII.

—dies, I. viii. I.; II. vii. V.

Boars, wild, I. ii. XIV.; viii. II; xv. I. 4; II. iii.

VI. 4.

Boat, I. iii. X. 4; XIX.

—of cynress-word I iii I. ii. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  -ringing of, II. vi. IV.; V. 5; vii. VIII. 2; viii. V. V. 5; vii. I. V. 5; III. II. IX. 4; iii. IV. 2; viii. IX. 4; iii. IV. 4; iii. IV. 2; VIII.; IV. 1; III. II. IX. 4; iii. IV. 3; VIII.; IV. 1; III. IX. 4; iiii. IX. 4; iii. IX. 4; i Bells, I. i. I. S; z. II.: II. vii. VL 1: III. i. VIII.
       -by king Tang, IV. iii II.

Blind, See Musicians.
Blood, weeping, II. iv. X. X.
Blood, weeping, II. iv. X. X.
Blood, weeping, II. iv. X. X.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Beauties, flaunting, I. vii. XIX.

Beauty, fennale, I. vii. XVII.; iv. IV.; v. III.; xii.

Beauty, fennale, I. iii. XVIII.; iv. IV.; v. III.; xii.

—of duke Chwang, I. viii. XI.
—and virue of a lady, I. xii. IV.
—and viree of a lady, I. xii. IV.

Beds, crickets under, I. v. III.

Beds, crickets under, I. zv. I. 5.

Beginnings, small, of the House of Chow, III. i.
     conferred by Heaven, II. vi. VI. 4; vii. I. 1; III. i. IX. 5, 6; IV. ii. IV. 8.

-by Spirits, II. v. III. 5; V.; VI ; VII.; vii. VI. 2; III. i. V.; IV. i. [i.] IX.; [ii.] IV.; VI.
                                                                                                  -on the aged, III, ii. II. 4.
      -the king supplicates, on his ministers, II.
    The seeks the, for himself, IV. ii. III. 4.
Blessings, on the king from Heaven and his ancostors, II. i. VI.: III. ii. III.
costors, II. i. VI.: III. ii. III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         Beautiful paan, a, I. vii. XX
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      Fox, ..... Rat, .....
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Bont, "na, ... tound, ... Stallion, Cat, wild, ... Leopard, ... Tiget, ... Volt, Doe, ... Pig, ... Pig, ... Buther, ... Rabbit, ... Rabbit, ... Rac, ...
  Direct gourns, I. Av. III., 5.

Black-haired race, the, III. i. III. iii. IV. 3.

Black of grain, the, IV. iii. III. 2.

Blesser, king Wan the, III. i. VII.

Blesser, king Wan the, III. i. VII.

-of God, III. i. VII. 4.

-without ead, III. ii. V. 8: IV. iii. II.

-without ead, III. ii. VII. 4.
Birth, the, of king Wan, III. i. II. 2;—of Woo, 6.
—the first, of the people of Chow (How-tseih),
III. ii. I: IV. ii. IV. I.
—of Foo and Shin, III. iii, V. I.
—therven gave, to the people, III. iii. I.; VI.
—the, of the father of Shang, IV. iii. II. iV.
Bits, I. zi, II. ii. IX. 4; iii. IV. 2.
—ormanented, I. v. III. 3.
Bitter gourds, I. xv. III. 3.
Bitter gourds, I. xv. III. 3.
Bitter gourds, I. xv. III. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  See Antelope,.....Gont,......Sent,
Badger,......Hare,.....Shep,
Bonr, wild,....Hound,....Stag.
Bonr, wild,....Hound,....Stag.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        Beasts, worse than, I. iv. V.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       dreaming about, II. iv. V. 6,7.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Bears and griely bears, III. iii. VII. 5,6.
```

Breast-bands for horses, IL iii. IV.: III. iii. V. 4; VIL 2.

Bride, the virtue of king Wan's, Li L; IL: IV.;

Vallil; VI i. -praise of a Li VI

-marriage of a, L ii. L; iii. IX.

IL TIL IV.

-the delicate fingers of a. L ix. L of the marquis of Han, III. iii. VIL 4.

Bridge of boats, 2, III. i. II. 5.

Brother, a younger, abroad thinking of his elder, Liz.IV.

Brothers, unfriendly, L iii, L 2.
—loving like, L iii, X, 2.

–learing, L. iil. XIV. 2; ir. VIL; r. V. 2. –separation from, L. ri. VIL; r. VL

—the words of, to be feared, I vil II

-the close relation that should subsist between, II. i. IV.; ii. IX. 3; iv. V. 1; III. ii. II. 1.—cold treatment of, by the king, II. vii. IX. Brotherly duty of king Ke, III. i. VII. 3.

Brossoneia, See Paper-mulberry.
Bubling of boiling soup, like the, III. iii. I. 6.
Buckles, gilt, I. ri. III.
Buil-coat, I. ri. VIII.
Buil-coat, I. ri. VIII.

Bulding houses, III. i. III. 3. 5.

-the Marvellous tower, III. i. VIII. 1.

—a palece, II. iv. V.

—the city of Seay, II vill. III.: III. iii. V.—temples. IV. ii. IV. 9: iii. V. 6.

eli, H. i. VIII. 8; iii. VII. 2; iv. V.: III. i. III. ü.

Ball, secrificing a red. IL vi. VI. 5: III. i. V. 4.

-a white and a red, IV. ii. IV. 4

-a black-mazzlei, tawny, IV. iii. VI.

-arctie IV. il VIL

- and a ran a IV. i. j.] VII. Bull-figured golder, IV. ii. IV. 4. Burdens carrying, II. viii. III. 2.

Burlined, the people are heavily, III. ii. IX. Bury, since one will, a dead man, II. v. III. 6. Burying alive, barbarous practice of, I. vi. VI. Burying alive, barbarous practice of, I. vi. VI. Burying alive, barbarous practice of, I. vi. VI. Burying alive, barbarous practice of, I. vi. VI.

Endes, clearing away, IV. i. [iii.] V.
Brahy clumps. III. i. VII. 2.
Braking II. viii. VIII. 3.
Braking II. viii. VIII. 3.
Braking II. viii. III. ii. X. 7.

Calabashes, used as cops. HL ii. VL 4. Columbia, reduced to takes by, III. iii. III. 2 Calumates, rife among the people, ILiv. VIII. 1, Cap of dake Woo of Wel L v. L 2.

-the strings of a L will VI 2.

-the strings of a L will VI 2.

-awaring a L will VII 3: IV. L July VII.

-awaring a L will II.

-days and herestin L sire III.

-days and The Will II.

-produce of Yim III. -manufement given to by the king, IL vil 1X

- produce of You III is I. 5. Colored our slop, fraction man with, II sik VI. 4.

-ine eastern, H. vi. IX.

-of the State of Shin, III. iii. V. 2.

-of Shang, IV. iii. V. 5.

-need of reformation in the, III. ii. IX.

Capitals, assigned within the sphere of Ya's labours. IV. iii. V. 3.

-and bridegroom, first meeting of, L viii, III.; Captives, II. iii, IV. 4: III. i. VII. 3; iii, IX. 4. See Prisoners.

Carambola tree. L xiii. IIL

Careful as on the brink of a gulf, de., H. r. L 6;

-be III. iii. II. 5.

Carnation-gem, L vi. IX. Carp. the, L xii. IIL: IL ii. IIL 6: IV. ii. VL

Carriage(s), L ii. L; iii. IX; XIL 3; XVL 3; ir. VL 8; IX; v. IIL 3, 4; V. 4; vii. IX; XIV; ix. II.; x. II.; xi. II.; III.; xv. III. 1: II. i. VIII.; vii. IV.; viii. VI.

-of the king's daughter, L ii. XIII.

—the great, L vi. IX.

-of State. I. xi. IX.: II. vii. VIII. 1: III. iii. V. 5; VIL 3.

-of a general, IL i. VIL 4; iii. IV. L -war-, IL iii. IIL

-leaded, II. iv. VIII. 9, 10. -many, I. xi. L: II. vi. VII. 4: III. ii. VIII. 19. See Chariot.

Carriage-cover, IL vi. VIL 4

Carriage-horses, splendid, IV. ii. L. See Horses.

Carriage-officers, IL i. VIII. 1, 2. Carts, L. z. L

-box-, IL riii X 4.

Caterpillars, I. zv. III. 1. Cats, wild L xv. L 4: III. iii. VII. 5. Cattle, herds of. II. iv. VI.

-and sheep. III. ii. II. 1.

Cantion, exhortations to, III. iii. II.; IX. 1.—you employ. III. iii. III. 5.
Caves made by Tan-too, before there were houses, III i III Celar, I. v. V. 4,

Celebrating an officer. L vil VL: IL iii IIL —the king feasting with his relatives II vil III the services of the earl of Shaon, IL vill. III.

hing Wan. III. i L to VIL: IV. i [1] L; IL;

III.; V.; VII.; [iii.] X
-the mother and wife of king Wan, III. i II.;
VI. 1.

the appointment of the chief of Shin, III. iii. Y.

-the appointment of the chief of min, and —Chung Shan-foo, III. iii. VI.

-How-teeth, HI. ii. I: IV. i [i.] X; ii. IV. 1.

-the representatives of two former dynasties, IV. i. [ii.] III.

-the dake of Sang, IV. i. [ii.] IX.

-a marguis of Loo, IV. ii. I; III.

-dake He of Loo, IV. ii. IV.

-Woo-ting IV. iii. V.

-king Woo. IV. i. [ii.], X; [iii.]. IX.

Cetry, H. i. I. I.

Cent per cent, three times. III. iii. X. 4.

Cent per cent, three times, III. El X. 4.

Centre of attraction to the people, the sovereign should be, III. it VIL 2. U.—of the king bon, the capital the, III. i. VIL 5;

IL IX; IIL L 4. Cereils. If sweetself sowed the ground with yel-

195. IIL il I. 5. Circuitales, provision for all, IV. III. V.

```
Convolving, I. x. XI.
Convolving with a feast, IV. i. (ii.) IX.
Cook, the chief, III. iii. IV. 7.
                                                                                                                                                            See Garments, Robes, & I. iii. IX.; v. IX.; viii. IX.; vii. V.; viii. V.; x. II.; III.; zi. V.; vIII. Oloud, virgins like a beautiful, III. iii. VII. 4.
            Contrempts shown to a normy series of instruction, III, II, II, II, Contrast of beauty with vice, I. iv, III, —of a man's own poor wife with thaunting beauties, I. vii. XIX.

Conviving entertainment, II. ii. X.
                                                                                                                                                                    Ses Pence.

Clan, the head of the Yin-, III. iii. IX. 2.
Cloth, fue and coarse, I. i. II. 2;—v. IV. I.
Clothes, a queen washing her own, I. i. II. 3.
—putting on, upside down, I. viii. V.
—p bride making, I. ix. I.
—of mourners, I. ixi. I.

See Garments. Robes, & I. iii. IX.: Y.
See Garments. Robes, & I. iii. IX.: Y.
                            Contempt shown to a worthy man, I. iii. I.
                                                                             .....αοίτΟ
                         Ladle,...........Weaving Sisters.
Lucifer,.......Weaving Sisters.
Milky Way,.....
                                                                                                                                                                               -of Ts'e, fortifying the, III, iii, VI. 7, 8, Civil virtues of the king, III, iii, VIII, 6, -and inartial qualities, IV. ii, III, 4, City, E...
iv. IX. G.
                                        Hesperus,......Sieve, Hyndes,......Three Stars,
                                                                                                                                                          —though you may be as, III, ii, IX, 4.
—treat the people as your, III, iii, II, 6.
Chisel(s) and polisher, I, v. I, 1.
—we splintered our, I, zv. IV, 2.
Chiselled ornaments, III, ii, IV, 3.
Cloada, the, I, zv. I, 4: II, v. III, 4.
—ilke the noise of the, III, iii, I, 6.
—a lady's forehead, like, I, v. III, 2.
Circlet of water, a hall with a, III, i, VIII, 3, 4; Z. 6.

Circlet of water, a hall with a, III, i, VIII, 3, 4; Z. 6.

Circlet of water, a hall with a, III, i, VIII, 3, 4; Z. 6.
                                         Ses Draught Ozen,...Pleiades,
Fire Star,......Rabbit Zet,
          Conscience, people who have no, II, vii, IX, 4.
Constent social duties, the, IV, i, [i,] X.
Constellation, II, v. VI. 2; IX, 5, 6, 7: III. i, IV, 4.
Constellations and Stars,
                  Confusion, breeders of, III. iii. XI. 2.

—the country all going to, III. iii. XI. 4.

Congratulation of troops, II. i. VIII.; IX.

Conjunction of the sun and moon, II. iv. IX.

Conquest of Yin, IV. i. [ii.] X.

Conquest of Yin, IV. iii, X.

—of King-ts'00, IV. iii, V.

—of Sunscience, people who have no II. vii IX.
                                                                                                                                                                                     -though you may be as, III. ii. IX. 4.
                                                                                                                                                         Ann unkind, i. z. vit.

Chiefs of the savage tribes, II, iii. IV, 4.

—of the region of Seu, III. i. III. 9.

—of the region of Seu, III. iii. IX. 6.

Child, a tender, I. viii. vIII. 4: IV. i. [iii.]

L.; II.; III.

Child's teeth, along with grey hair, IV. ii. IV. 8.

Child-like joy, II. i. IV. 6.

Child-ne, the people served king Wan as bis, III. i. VIII. 1.
       Compliments, frivolous and vainglorious, I. viii.
                                                                                                   See Lament.
                    -of inferior against superiors, II. viii. VI. -of an officer against bis fellows, III. ii. X.
     of hard treatment by a great officer, I. z. VII.

of a cunuch suffering from slander, II. v. VII.

of a lieuation of an old friend, II. v. VII.

of an officer on duty, II. vi. I.; II.;

of king Yër's queen, II. viii. IV.

of lingerior against superiors. II. viii. VI.
                                                                                                                                                                     of the States of the north, III. iii. VII. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                                 Chief of Shaou, memory of the, I. ii. V.

of Seun, I. xiv. IV.
                                              of the baroness of Heu, I. iv. X.
                                                                                                                                                        Cherry tree, H. i. IV. 1; VIL 4.
Chestnut trees, I. iv. VI. 1; vii. XV.; z. II.; zi.
I.: zv. III. 3: II. v. X. 4.
                                           Complaint, a wife's, I. iii. IV., X.

Out the ministers of Le, I. iii. XII.
    Compassionate Heaven, arrayed in terrors, Iliv.
                                                                                                                                                        Cherishing the thought of king Wan, IV. i. [iii.]
                                                                                                                                                                          Charioteers, numerous, III. iii. V. 7.
—and footmen, IV. ii. III. 7.
Cheek, tripe and, III. ii. II. 2.
Cheertuiness of the people of Tsin, I. z. I.
                                                                                 -have, III. III. II.
  —a onne, 1. vii. Avii.

College of Loo, the state-, IV. ii. III.
Colours, significance of, I. iii. II.
Colle, a brilliant white, II. iv. II.
Comb, ears of corn like the teeth of a, IV. iii. VI.
Combpin of ivory, I. iv. III. 2.
Compassion for the guards, III. iii. IV. 7.
I. xv. IV.
I. sv. IV.

Langue, III. iii. III. 1.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                            See Carringe.
Charloteer, I. zi. II.; III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                      —and horses, II. ii. VII. 4.
—a hundred, III. iii. VII. 4.
—a thousand, IV. ii. IV. 5.
—rety large war-, IV. ii. III. 7.
                          —and heat, passing through, II. vi. III.
Collar, a vermilion, L. z. III.
—a blue, I. vii. XVII.
                                                                                                                                                                                                -three thousand war-, II. iii. IV.
                                                                                                                                                                                                           -ten large, war-, II. iii. III. 4.
                                                                                                                                                    nr, v.

—to Chung Shan-foo, III iii, VI, 3,4,
—to the marquis of Han, III. iii, VIII.
—to Hoo of Shaou, III. iii, VIII.
—to Hwang-foo, III. iii, IX...

Chariot(s), I. iii, XIV. 3; v. I. 3; VIII. 1; vii.
IV; V.; viii. X.; xiii. IV.: II. i. VIII. 3;

Viii. III.: III. iii. II. 4; VIII. I.
—description of, I. zi. III.

—made of sandal-wood, I. iz. VI.: II. i. IX. 3:
III. i. II. 8.
—ten large, war., II. iii. III. 4.
                                                             Cold of winter, the, I. xv. I.
 Cold water from a spring, I. iii. VII. 3; xiv. IV.:
            Coiffure, grey and madder-dyed, I. vii. XIX.
Cobras and other serpents, dreaming about, II.

iv. V. 6, 7.

and efts, II. iv. VIII. 6.

Cock-crow, I. vii. VIII.; XVI.; viii. I.
                                                        Cloudy weather, I. iii. V.; X.
                                           -dense masses of, II. vi. VIII. 3.
                                                                                                                                                     Charge, king Senen's, to the earl of Shaon, III.
                                                                  an arch of, II. vi. VI. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                   Changes, of the seasons, I. xv. I.
                                                          Clouds of girls, I. vii. XIX.

—of attendants, I. viii. IX.

—of snow, II. i. VII. 6.
                                                                                                                                                    Chamber, a lovely girl in a, I. viii. IV.

—you should not be ashamed when the light
shines into your, III. iii. II. 7.
```

Breakfasting at Choo, I. xii. IX. Bream, the, I. i. X.; viii. IX.; xii. III.; xv. VI. 1: II. ii. III. 2; viii. II. 4: III. iii. VII. 5. Breast, beating the, I. iii. I. 4. Breast-bands for horses, II. iii. IV.: III. iii. V. 4; VII. 2. Bride, the virtue of king Wan's, I. i. I.; II.; IV.; V.: III. i. II.; VI. 1.
—praise of a, I. i. VI. -marriage of a, I. ii. I.; iii. IX. -and bridegroom, first meeting of, I. viii. III.: II. vii. IV —the delicate fingers of a, I. ix. I.
—of the marquis of Han, III. iii. VII. 4.
Bridge of boats, a, III. i. II. 5. Brother, a younger, abroad thinking of his elder, I. ix. IV. Brothers, unfriendly, I. iii. I. 2. -loving like, I. iii. X. 2. -leaving, I. iii. XIV. 2; iv. VII.; v. V. 2.
-separation from, I. vi. VII.; x. VI. the words of, to be feared, I. vii. II. the close relation that should subsist between, II. i. IV.; ii. IX. 3; iv. V. 1: III. ii. II. 1. cold treatment of, by the king, II. vii. IX. Brotherly duty of king Ke, III. i. VII. 3. Broussonetia, See Paper-mulberry. Bubbling of boiling soup, like the, III. iii. I. 6. Buckles, gilt, I. xi. III. Buff-coat, I. xi. VIII. Building houses, III. i. III. 3, 5. —the Marvellous tower, III. i. VIII. 1. -a palace, II. iv. V the city of Seay, II viii. III.: III. iii. V. temples, IV. ii. IV. 9; iii. V. 6. -walls, II. i. VIII. 3 ; iii. VII. 2 ; iv. V.: III. i. III. 6. Bull, sacrificing a red, II. vi. VI. 5: III. i. V. 4. –a white and a red, IV. ii. IV. 4. —a black-muzzled, tawny, IV. iii. VI. —a noble, IV. ii. VII. —and a ram, a, IV. i. [i.] VII. Bull-figured goblet, IV. ii. IV. 4. Burdens, carrying, II. viii. III. 2. Burdened, the people are heavily, III. ii. IX. Bury, some one will, a dead man, II. v. III. 6. Burying alive, barbarous practice of, I. xi. VI. -sacrificial offerings, III. iii. IV. 2. Bushes, clearing away, IV. i. [iii.] V. Bushes, clearing away, IV. i. VII. 2. Buskins, H. vii. VIII. 3. Buttresses, the great families (feudal chiefs) are, II. vii. I.: III. ii. X. 7.

Calabashes, used as cups, III. ii. VI. 4. Calamity, reduced to ashes by, III. iii. III. 2. Calumnies, rife among the people, II. iv. VIII. 1, -encouragement given to by the king, II. vii. 1X. See Stander. Cap of duke Woo of Wel, I. v. I. 2. - the strings of a. I. vill. VI. 2. ... secaring a, I. viii. VII. 3: IV. i. [iii.] VII. -a white, I. thi. II. med aported decrokin, I. xiv. III. was hather, H. vit. 111. 1. expension of Yin, III, i. I. 5. Cara of the side drunken men with, II, vil. VI 4.

Capital, the old of Chow, I. vi. I.: II. viii. I. of Chow, I. xiv. IV.: III. i. I. 5; II. 2, 6; IX.; -remove to the royal, II. iv. X. 7. -the eastern, II. vi. IX. of the State of Shin, III. iii. V. 2. –of Shang, IV. iii. V. 5. -need of reformation in the, III. ii. IX. Capitals, assigned within the sphere of Yu's labours, IV. iii. V. 3. Captives, II. iii. IV. 4: III. i. VII. 8; iii. IX. 4. See Prisoners. Carambola tree, I. xiii. III. Careful as on the brink of a gulf, &c., II. v. I. 6; II. 6. -be, III. iii. II. 5. Carnation-gem, I. vi. IX. Carp, the, I. xii. III.: II. ii. III. 6: IV. ii. VI. Carriage(s), I. ii. I.; iii. IX; XII. 3; XVI. 3; iv. VI. 8; IX.; v. III. 3, 4; V. 4; vii. IX.; XIV.; ix. II.; x. II.; xi. II.; xv. III. 1: II. i. VIII.; vii. IV.; viii. VI. -of the king's daughter, I. ii. XIII. -the great, I. vi. IX. -of State, I. xi. IX.: II. vii. VIII. 1: III. iii. V. 5; VII. 3. of a general, II. i. VII. 4; iii. IV. 1. -war-, II. iii. III. -loaded, II. iv. VIII. 9, 10. -many, I. xi. I.: II. vi. VII. 4: III. ii. VIII. 10. See Chariot. Carriage-cover, II. vi. VII. 4. Carriage-horses, splendid, IV. ii. I. See Horses. Carriage-officers, II. i. VIII. 1, 2. Carts, I. x. I. -box-, II. viii. X. 4 Caterpillars, I. xv. III. 1. Cats, wild, I. xv. I. 4: III. iii. VII. 5. Cattle, herds of, II. iv. VI.

and sheep, III. ii. II. 1. Caution, exhortations to, III. iii. II.; IX. 1. —you employ, III. iii. III. 5.
Caves made by Tan-foo, before there were houses, III. i. III.
Cedar, I. v. V. 4.
Celebrating of the control of Celebrating, an officer, I. vii. VI.: II. iii. III. the king feasting with his relatives, II. vii. III.
the services of the earl of Shaou, II. viii. III. -king Wan, III. i. I. to VII.: IV. i. [i.] I.; II.;

III.; V.; VII.; [iii.] X. the mother and wife of king Wan, III. i. 11.; the appointment of the chief of Shin, III. iii. V. -Chung Shan-foo, III. iii. VI. -How-tseih, III. ii. I.: IV. i. [i.] X.; ii. IV. 1. the representatives of two former dynastics, IV. i. [ii.] III.
-the duke of Sung, IV. i. [ii.] IX.
-a marquis of Loo, IV. ii. I.; III. -duke He of Loo, IV. ii. IV. Seeh, and his descendants, IV. iii. IV. -Woo-ting IV. iii. V. -king Woo. IV. i. [ii.], X.; [iii.], IX. Celery, II. i. I. 1. Cent per cent, three times, III. iii. X. 4.

Centre of attraction to the people, the sovereign of the kingdom, the capital the, III. L VII. 6;

Cereals, How-tsell sowed the ground with yel-should be, III. ii. VII. 2. 3.

Ceremonies, provision for all, IV. iii. V.

ii. 1X.; iii. L. L.

lux, III. ii. L. 5.

```
Convolving, L. x. XI.
Convoying, with a feast, IV. L. (ii.) IX.
Cook, the chief, III. iii. IV. Z.
                                                                                                                                          Se Garments, Robes, & Lift, IX., v. IX.; vil. XIV.; vill. V.; vill. V.; vill. VII.; vil. VII. VIII. VII. VIII. Oloud, virgins like a beautiful, III. iii. VIII. t.
     of a man's own poor wife with thauning beauties, I, vit, XIX.
Conviving entertainment, II, ii, X.
                                                                                                                                                    Clothes, a queen washing her own, I. i. H. 3.
—putting on, upside down, I. viii. V.
—a bride making, I. ix. I.
—of mourners, I. xiii. II.
                   Contempt shown to a worthy man, I. iii. I. —of instruction, III. iii. II. II.
Contract of beauty with vice, I. iv. III.
                                                                                                                                                        See Peace.
Clan, the head of the Yin-, III. iii. IX. 2.
Cloth, fine and coarse, I. i. II. 2;—v. IV. I.
                                                                                                                                                              of Tree, fortifying the, III. iii. VI. 7, 8. Civil virtues of the king, III. iii. VIII. 6. — and inartial qualities, IV. ii. III. 4.
                 See Draught Oxen,... Pleindes,
Fire Star,....... Starbit Set,
Hosporus,...... Sieve,
Hyndes,...... Ting,
Ladde,...... Ting,
Ladde,...... Weaving Sisters.
Aliky Way,....
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       City, 11. 0.
iv. 1X. 0.
                                                                                                                                          Chiesel(s) and polisher, I. v. I. i.

Chiesel(s) and polisher, I. v. I. i.

-we splintered our, I. zv. IV. 3.

Chieseled ornaments, III. i. IV. 5.

Chieseled ornaments, III. i. IV. 5.

Chieseled ornaments, III. iii. I. 6.

-iike the noise of the, III. v. III. 4.

Cienda, the, I. zv. I. 4: II. v. III. 4.

-iike the noise of the, III. iii. I. 6.

-iike the noise of the, III. iii. I. 6.

-iike the noise of the, III. ii. VIII. 3,

Lizelet of water, a hall with a, III. i. VIII. 3,

Lizelet of water, a hall with a, III. i. VIII. 3,

I. J. X. 6.
   Conscience, people who have no, II, vii, IX, 4. Constant social duties, the, IV, i. [i.] X. Constellation, II. v. VI. 2; IX, 5, 6, 7: III. i. IV. 4. Constellations and Stars,
            Conjunction of the sun and moon, II. iv. IX.
Conquest of Yin, IV. i. [ii.] X.

Of King-ts'00, IV. iii. V.
                                                                                                                                                                 -though you may be as, III, ii, IX, 4.
-treat the people as your, III, iii, II, 6.
                                                                                                                                           an unkind, I. z. VII.

Chiefs of the savage tribes, II. iii. IV. 4.

of Joo and Juy, III. i. III. 9.

of Jid, a tender, I. viii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [iii.]

Child, a tender, I. viii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [iii.]

I. i. II.; III.

Child-like joy, II. i. IV. 6.

Child-like joy, II. i. IV. 6.

Child-like joy, II. i. IV. 6.

III. i. VIII. 1.

Though you may be as. III. ii. IX. 4.
                    —the country all going to, III. iii. XI. 4.
Congratulation of troops, II. i. VIII.; IX.
—of king Chring, III. ii. VIII.
                                  Confusion, breeders of, III. iii. XI. 2.
   Compliments, frivolous and vainglorious, I. viii.
                                                                                         See Lament.
              or an officer against his fellows, III. ii. X.
                   -of inserior against superiors, II. viii. VI.
  of hard treatment by a great officer, I. z. VII.

of a counteh suffering from slander, II. v. VII.

of an officer on duty, II. vii. I.; III.

of king Yöw's queen, II. viii. IV.

of king Yöw's queen, II. viii. IV.
                                                                                                                                                       -of the States of the north, III. iii. VII. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                  Chief of Shuon, memory of the, I. ii. V. —of Seun, I. xiv. IV.
                                                                                                                                           Cherry tree, II. i. IV. 1; VII. 4.

Chestrut trees, I. iv. VI. 1; vii. XV.; x. II.; xi.
I.: xv. III. 3: II. v. X. 4.
                                     Complaint, a wife's, I. iii. IV., X.

of the ministers of Le, I. iii. XII.

of the baroness of Heu, I. iv. X.

of a woman, I. vii. XV.
                                                                                                                                            Cherishing the thought of king Wan, IV. i. [iii.]
                                                                                         X.1; v.11.
                                                                                                                                                             Cheek, tripe and, III. ii. V. 7.

—and tootmen, IV. ii. III. 2.

Cheek, tripe and, III. ii. II. 2.

Cheek, tripe and, III. ii. II. 2.

Cheerfulness of the people of Tsin, I. z. I.
 Compassionate Heaven, arrayed in terrors, Il.iv.
                                                                          -have, III. iii. III. 1.
 Commander of the guards, III. iii. IV. 7. Compassion for the people, the duke of Chow's, I. xv. IV.
                                                                                                                                                                                                             See Garriage.
Charioteer, I. xi. II.; III.
                                                  Comb-pin of ivory, L. iv. III. 2
                                                                                                                                                                                         -very large war-, IV. ii. III. 7.
 Comb, ears of corn like the teeth of a, IV. iii. VI.
                      Cold of winter, the, I. zv. I.

-and heat, passing through, II. vi. III.

Collar, a vermilion, I. z. III.

-a blue, I. vii. XVII.

College of Loo, the state, IV. ii. III.

Colours, significance of, I. iii. II.

Colours, aignificance of, I. iii. II.

Colour, a brilliant white, II. iv. II.

Colt, a brilliant white, II. iv. II.
                                                                                                                                                                                  —ten large, war-, II. iii. III. ±.
—three thousand war-, II. iii. IV.
—hunting, II. iii. IV.; VI.
—an horses, II. iii. VII. ‡.
—a thousand, IV. ii. IV. 5.
— thousand, IV. ii. IV. 5.
                                                                                                                                            -made of sandal-wood, I. ix. VI.: II. i. IX. 3:
III. i. II. 8.
Coiffure, grey and madder-dyed, I. vii. XIX. Cold water from a spring, I. iii. VII. 3; xiv. IV.: II. v. IX. 3.
                                                                                                                                           -to Chung Shan-foo, III iii. VI. 3,4.

-to Chung Shan-foo, III. iii. VII.

-to Hoo of Shaou, III. iii. VIII.

-to Hwang-foo, III. iii. IX.

-to Hwang-foo, III. iii. IX.

IV; V; viii. X; ziii. IV.: II. I. VIII. 3;

viii. III.: III. iii. II. 4; VIII. 1.

-description of, I. zi. III.

-description of, I. zi. III.
                            iv. V. 6, 7.

—and efts, II. iv. VIII. 6.

Cock-crow, I. vii. VIII.; XVI.; viii. I.
Cobras and other serpents, dreaming about, II.
                                                   Cloudy weather, I. iii. V.; X.
                                        —dense masses of, II. vi. VIII. 3. — white, II. viii, V. 2.
                                                                                                                                            Changes, of the seasons, I. xv. I.
Changes, leing Senen's, to the earl of Shaou, III.
iii. V.
                                                              an arch of, II. vi. VI. 2.
                                                                                                                                           Chamber, a lovely girl in a, I. viii. IV.

—you should not be ashamed when the light
shines into your, III. iii. II. 7.
                                                           -of attendants, I. vili. IX.
                                                         Clouds of girls, I. vii. XIX.
```

654 Cooking fish, I. xiii. IV. Correct and upright, the Spirits hearken to the, II. ii. III. 4, 5. Couches, to sleep on, boys shall have, II. iv. V. S. -lolling on, II. vi. I. 4. Counsels and plans, bad followed, and good rejected, II. v. I.: III. iii. III. duke Woo's, III. iii. II. Counsellors bad, II. v. I.: III. iii. III. Country, Chow was an old, III. i. I. 1.—great, III. i. VII. 4. 5. reduced to order, III. iii. VIII. 2, 3; IX. 6. Courage, unprincipled men without, II. v. IV. 6. Court, the royal, I. i. X. —great officers of a, I. ii. VII. -of a duke, I. vii. I. -early, I. viii. I. _the open, I. viii. III. —irregularity of a, I. viii. V.
—of the temple of Chow, IV. i. [ii.] V.; [iii.] I; –of Loo, IV. ii. II. —of Tsin, pleasure and freedom of, I. xi. I. —of Yin, III. iii. I. princes who do not come to, III. iii. VII. 2. -the marquis of Han came to, III. iii. VIII. 1. the feudal princes at, II. ii. IX.; vii. I.; II.; VII.; VIIÎ. —holding, I. xiii. I. -thinking, of the officers at, II. vi. III. Court-gate, III. i. III. 7. Court-yard, I. ix. VI.; x. II.: III. iii. II. 4.
—a ducal, I. iii. XIII. 2. —a torch blazing in the, II. iii. VIII. -of a palace, II. iv. V. 5 Cousin, I. xi. IX., note, III. iii. V. 5. Cousins, I. iii. XIV. Covetous men try to subvert their peers, III, iii. Cowries a hundred sets of, II. iii. II. 3. Cows, I. vi. II. Cranes, I. xv. III. 3.—the common, II. viii. V. 6.—the cry of, II. iii. X. Creepers, the dolichos and other, I. i. IV.; vi. VII.: III. i. V. 6. Creeping grass, I. vii, XX. Cress, water, II, vii. VIII, 2: IV. ii. III. 1. Cricket, I. x. I.; xv. I. 5. Crime, what is my? II. v. III. 1.—the net of, III. iii. X. 1; XI. 2. Criminals indeed suffering, but the innocent also ruined, II. iv. X. 1. Crops, good, II. vi. VII. 3,4. See Years. Cross-board of a carriage, II. ii. 1X. 4. Crows, I. iii. XVI, 3: II. iv. VIII. 3; v. III. 1. -distinguishing the male and female, II. iv. VIII. 5. Cruelties of Yin, IV. ii. X. Cry, of birds, II. i. V. I. —of the oriole, II. i. VIII. 6. -of wild gress, II. iii. VII. 3. -of the crane, II. iii. X. -of a male child, loud, II. iv. V. 3. of the infant How-tseil, III. ii. I. 3. Cubit-line, IV. ii. IV. 9. Cubits, five thousand, of walls, H. iii. VII.; iv. V : 111. (. 111. 6. Cultivation of Stars, Liv. IV. 1; xv. L.1. Cultivation of the fields, the common, III. ii. VI. 5. Se Agricultural. Cap (8. Lam XIII. 3; XIV. 2,3; II. iii. VI. 4; 96 V. 3; van VII.

m to an extende to, Lar. Lot II, val. L. t.

-the pledge-, II. v. III. 7; vii. VI. 1; viii. VII. 4:
III. ii. II. 2.
-of rest, II. vii. VI. 2.
-libation-, III. i. IV. 2; V. 2; iii. VIII. 5.
-calabashes used as, III. ii. VI. 4.
Curses, oaths and, III. iii. I. 3.
Cypress-wood, I. iii. I. 1: II. i. VI. 6; vii. III.
1: III. i. VII. 3: IV. ii. IV. 9; V. 6.

D

Dam in a stream, a, I. iii. X. 3; v. IX. 1; viii. IX.; xiv. II.: II.v. III. 8, V.1,2,4; viii. V.6,7. Daily inspects us, Heaven, IV. i. [iii.], III. Dancers, IV. ii. IV. 4. Dancing, L iii. XIII.; viii. XI.; xii. II. II. vi. IV.4; vii. IV.3: IV iii. I.—riotous, II. vii. VI. Darnel, I. viii. VII. 1,2: II. vi. VIII. 2. Dates, (fruit), I. xv. I. 6. Daughter, of a king, I. ii. XIII. —of the house of Wei, I. v. V. Daughters, low estimate of, H. iv. V. 9 Day, one, like three months, &c., I. vi. VIII.; vii. XVII. -a lucky, II. iii. VI. you turn the, into night, III. iii. I. 5. and night. See Night. Days and months, I. x. I.—passing, II. v. II. 4. Dawn, early, I. ii. II. 3; VI.1; X. 1; iii. IX. 3; iv. VI. 3; vii. VIII.; viii. I.; V.: II. v. II. 1. Dead, antelope, I. ii. XII. -deer. ib. -man, II. i. III. 6. -representatives of the, II. vi. V. 1; VI. 3: vii. VI. 2: III. ii. III. 3; IV.; X. 5. Death, and burial, II. i. IV. 2.

-of two youths, I. iii. XIX. -we should enjoy our good things before, I. x. II: II. vii. III. 3. is approaching, III. iii. IV. S. Decay of the power of Chow, I. xiii. IV. -of filial piety, I. xiii. II. Decrees, the king's bright, III. iii. VI. 2, 3. Deep, fish in the, II. iii. X.; v. X. 7: III. i. V. 3. Deer, I. ii. XII. 2; III. iii. VII. 5.— -fields, I. xv. III. 2. calling to one another. II. i. I. —herds of, in a forest, III. iii. III. 9. Deer-skin cap, I. xiv. III. Defects in the king's duties, III. iii. VI. 6. Degradation of the eldest son of king Seuen, II. v. III. of king Yëw's queen, II. viii. V. we are constantly subjected to, III. iii. XI. 3. Deluge, the, IV. iii. IV. I. Demeanour,) correctness of, in former times, Deportment,) II. viii. I.

—be careful of your, III. ii. IX. 3; X. 5.

—duke Woo on, III. iii. II.

—of Chung Shan-foo, III. iii. VI. 2. of the marquis of Loo, IV, ii. III. 4. Demon, the, of drought, III. iii. IV. 5. Denunciation of the Grand-master Yin. II. iv. VII. Descendant, the distant, II. vi. VI.; VII.; VIII.;

III. ii. II. i: IV. i. [i.] II.

-flial, II. vi. V.: IV. ii. IV. i.

-of Nan Chung, III. iii. IX. i.

-of the duke of Chow, IV. i. [ii.] IV. 3.

-of king Tang, IV. iii. I.; V. i.

-of Worting, IV. iii. III.

-in unbroken line, III. ii. II. 6.

-of Shang, III. i. I. 4. --promised to the king, III. ii. III. 8.

of Sung, at the court of Chow, IV, i. [ii.] IX.

He of Loo, IV, ii. IV.

Dukes, I. iii. XIII. 3.; II. i. VI. 4: III. iii. IV, 7. vindicates his course, in the character 'op expedition to the east, I. zv. III.; IV. do. praise of the, L zv. V.; VI.; VII. op. Dry provisions, faults in the matter of, II. i. V. 3.

Dry provisions, faults in the matter of, II. i. V. 3.

Dryandras, III. ii. VIII. 9.

Ducks, wild, I. vii. VII. 1: III. ii. IV.

Ducks, wild, I. vii. II. ; viii. V. 7.

Duke of Shaou, I. ii. V.; III. ii. VIII.

Duke of Shaou, I. ii. V.; III. ii. VIII.

-of Ching, I. vii. IV.

-of Chow, IV. ii. IV.

do. nraise of the, I. zv. V.; VII. Drunk, not returning until, II. ii, X. I.
—the Sprits have, or are, II. vi. V. 5, 6,
—I eroon as if, III. iii, III. 13.
Drunkenness, II. vii, VI. Drume, a sind ingleses, II. ii. IV. 3; III. ii. II. 2;

IV. i. [ii.] V.

-the roll of, I. ii. V. I; II. iii. IV. 3; vi. IV. 2;

3; VII. 2; III. i. III. 6; IV. ii. II. iii. I.

-and bells, I. x. II.; III. ii. II. vii. VI. 1, 2;

viii. V. 5; III. i. VIII. 3, 4; IV. i. [i.] IX.

-hand-, IV. i. [ii.] V.

Drume, not returning until, II. ii. X. Driver of a charlot, I. vii. V. 3: II. iv. VIII.

Drought, I. vi. V.: III. iii. IV. 5.

—the demon of, III. iii. IV. 5.

—as in a year of, III. iii. XI. 4.

Drumners and jinglers, II. iii. IV. 3.

II. iii. IV. 3. the personator of the dead, III, ii. IV. the king happy while, II. vii. VII. long life to the prince, I. zr. I. S. pleasure and, II. vi. I. 6. all round, II. vi. V. 3. -to excess, II. ii. X.; v. II. 2; vii. VI.; IX. 5. -to the full. III. ii. III.: IV. i. [i.] IX.; ii. II. Drinking wine or spirits, II. i. I., IV.; V.: IV. ii. Drink and food, I. x. X.: II. i. VI. 5; viii. VI.; III. ii. VI. 3. —sorrow compared to an unwashed, I. iii. I. 5.
—colours of, I. iii. II.
—of a lady, I. iv. III.; v. III.
—simplicity of, II. viii. I. Draught Oxen, the, a constellation, II. v. IX. 6. Dreams, divining of, II. iv. V. 6, 7; VI. 4; VIII. 5. Dress, of great officers, I. ii. VII. 1; IV, 3; iii. III. Dragon-dag, II. i. VIII. 3; iii. IV. 2; vii. VIII. 2: III. iii. VII. 2: IV. i. [ii.] VIII.; ii. III. —fibre, shoes of, I. viii. VI.; iz, I.; II., v. IX. 2.

Donnain, See Royal.

Donnestic life, a pleasant picture of, I. vii. VIII.

Doom of the kingdom, the, III. iii. III. 2, 3.

—of a recluse's hut, I. zii. III.

—of a recluse's hut, I. zii. III.

—ora recluse's hut, I. zii. III.

Dove, the, I. ii. I.; v. IV. 3; ziv. III.

Libe annall cooing, II. v. IV. 3; ziv. III.

Doves, Filial, II. i. II. 3, 4; ii. V. 4.

Doves, Filial, II. i. II. 3, 4; ii. V. 4.

Doves, Willel, II. i. II. 3, 4; ii. V. 4.

Doves, Filial, II. i. II. 3, 4; ii. V. 4.

Doves, Filial, II. i. III. 3, 4; ii. V. 4. Descendants, of Wan and Woo, III. i. I. 2: IV. Dolichos, the, I. i. II. 1, 2; IV. 1; iii. XII.; iv. i. ii. J. IV.; V. .

III. 3; vi. VII.; VII.; X. XI.; III. i. V. 6.
—fibre, shoes of, I. viii. VI.; iz. I.; II. v. IX. 2.

-prayer that goodness may be transmitted to, IV, ii, II, -ensuring prosperity to, IV. i. [ii.], VII.; iii. V. thousands and hundreds of thousands of, III.

Does, sleek and fat, in the Marvellous park, III. i. VIII. 2. III, iii, XI, 5.

Ditches, T'an-foo dug the, III, 4, iii, VIII, 4.

Dividing the land, III, i. III, 4, iii, VIII, 8.

IV, iii, IV, I.

Divination, I. iv, VI, 2, v, IV, 2; II, i, IX, 4;

—of dreams, II, iv, V, 6, 7; VI, 4,

—plants for, I. ziv, IV,

—yith grain, II, v, IV, 4,

Diviner, the chief, II, iv, IV, 4,

Diviner, the chief, II, iv, VII, 4,

—of dreams, II, iv, VIII, 5,

Diviner, II, iv, VIII, 5,

Iliviner, II, iv, VIII, 5,

Dodder, I, iv, IV, 1; II, vii, III,

I)odder, I, iv, IV, 1; II, vii, III,

Dog, I, ii, XII., hunting, I, zi, II.

Does, steek and fat, in the Marvellous park, III. Distant people, I. viii. VII.
Distant people, I. vii. T. T.
Distress, former wealth contrasted with present,
III. iii. XI. 5.
Distress, Trun. 5. Dissatisfaction and distress, III. iii. III. 3.
Dissipation of the officers of Ch'in, I. zii. I.
Distance, things more difficult to overcome than,
I. v. VII. of the people, the cause of the, III. iii. III. -of drunkenness, II. vii. VI. Discretion of the people of Tsin, I. x. I.

Discretion of the people of Tsin, I. x. I.

Dishes, I. xi. X. — made of bamboo and wood,

II. vii. vi. Y. i. III. ii. III. 4: IV. ii. IV. 4.

—at ancestral service, II. vi. V. 6.

—with food and drink, II. i. IV. 6.

—of grain, II. i. V. 2: III. ii. I. 7.

—of millet. II. v. IX. iv. iii. IX. iv. VII. to X.;

V. I.; II.; IV. iv. IX.; X.: III. ii. IX.; X.; iii.

V. I.; II.; IV.; IX.; X.: III. ii. IX.; X.; iii.

III. X.

—of drunkenness. II. vii. III. ii. IX.; X.; iii. -of an officer who removed to another State, . II, iv. III.; IV. Disappointment at not meeting a lady, I. iii. and riches of king Tang, IV. iii. IV. 4, 5. Dignity and happiness of the personators of the dead, III. ii. IV. Ling IV. on rushes and grass, II. viii. V. 2. Dew-lap, the wolf's, I. xv. VII. Difficulties of the kingdom, the many, IV. i. - on southernwood, II. ii. IX. Dew, morning, I. ii. VI. l.

exposed to the, I. iii. XI.

loaded with, I. vii. XX.: II. ii. IX. 3, 4.

white, I. zi. IV. Or duke Lew to the people, III. ii. VI. Devourers of grain, II. vi. VIII. 2: III. iii. Devotion to duty. I. iv. VI.; v. IV. 5. II. 12. Despatching an envoy, ode on, II, i. III.
Deterioration of virtue brings distress, III. iii. -of the old capital of Chow, I. vi. I. -of the country, III. iii. XI. I. Desolation of the State of Wei, I. iv. X. Dumplings, III. i. III. 3.

Dust, do not raise the, II. iii. II.

Duties, social, IV. i. [i.] X.—public. IV. i. [ii.] I.

Dutifulness, of king Wăn's queen, I. i. II.

Dykes, IV. i. [iii.] V.

Dynasties, the two earlier, III. i. VII. 1: IV. i.

[ii.] III.

See Hön, Shang, Yin; Index II.

E

Eagle, II. v. X. 7.—like an, on the wing, III. i. II. 8. Ear, an, laid close to a wall, II. v. III. 8. Ears, stopped, I. iii. XII. 4.
—cutting off the left, III. i. VII. 8: IV. ii. III. 5.
—I hold you by the, III. iii. II. 10.
Ear-plugs, I. iv. III.; v. I. 2; viii. III.: II. viii. I. 3. Ears of grain, left in the field, II. vi. VIII. 3. like the teeth of a comb, IV. iii. VI. Earl of Shaou, the, building the city of Seay, &c., II. viii. III.; III. iii. V.
—of Juy's ode, III. iii. III. Early, rising, II. v. II 4: III. iii. II. 4. instruction, III. iii. II. 10. —feasting, IV. ii. II.
—and late, busy, III. iii. VI. 4; VII. 1. See Dawn. Earth, this lower, I. iii. IV. See World. Earth used in building walls, II. iii. VII. 2; iv. V. 3: III. i. III. 6. Earthen vessel, I. xii. I .- ware stands, III. ii. Ease, a little, desired for the people, III. ii. IX. East, the sun in the, I. viii. IV.—dawn in the, I. viii. V. -hills of the, an expedition to the, I. xv. III.; IV.; VI: II. viii. VIII.: III. iii. VI. —going to the, to hunt, II. iii. V -those tribes of the, IV. ii. III. 6. -the States of the, made to serve the West, II. v. IX. —gate, the, I. vii. XV.; XIX.; xii. II.; IV.; V. —wind, gentle, I. iii. X.; II. v. VII. Easy and indifferent, I. iii. XIII. —the culightening of people, III. ii. X. 6. -and self-possessed was our prince, II. i. V.; ii. VII.; VIII. Eating the bread of office, III. iii. III. 6. - and drinking to the full, IV. i. IX. - field labourers, their meal, IV. iii. V. Eaves, crickets under the, I. xv. I. 5. Eclipsed, the sun, H. iv. IX. Egrets, like a flock of, on the wing, IV. i. [ii.] 111.; ini. 11. Egret's teathers, and egret-fan, I. xii. I. Elegant carriage, an, like egrets flying, IV. i. [ii.] III. Elephany's teeth, IV. ii. III. s. Illing, therey and white I. x. II.; xii II .- Six, I. xi. VII. Embankment, the, I. xii. VII. Embrodered relys, L vii. XIV.; x. III.; xi. V. sairte L. xv. VI, L. Industry, sloab, H. v. VI. 1. to error, the pate of the ARL h III. 7. I was well set in a discould III. h VII. 7 s. I prove the fash of a cromonist, III. h IV 5. For greens we marked to the H. Completer of the people H. S. S.

iii. I. 4. Entertainment, a royal, II. i. I. -of friends, II. i. V -a district-, II. ii. III. of ministers by the king, II. ii. VII. of feudal princes, II. ii. IX.; vii. I.; IL; VII.; VIII. —of relatives, Ⅱ. vii. Ⅲ: Ⅲ. ii. Ⅱ.; Ⅲ. of personators of the dead, III. ii. IV. Envoy, ode on despatching an, II. i. III. Ephemera, an, I. xiv. I. Equipage, of the bride of a marquis, I. v. III. Error, and confusion, in government, III. iii. II.3.

-king Ching acknowledges his, IV. i. [iii.] IV. Escorting, a duke, his uncle, I. xi. IX. Eunuch, I. xi. I.—Mang-tsze, an, suffering from slander, II. v. VI. Eunuchs interfering with govt., III. iii. X. Evening, a happy, I. x. V. Ewes, (emaciated) with large heads, II. viii. IX. 3. Examination of prisoners, IV. ii. III. 4. Example, bad, of the king, II. vii. IX. —good of king Wan, III. i. VI. 1. Excitement of a gentleman in love, I.xii. VIII.; X. Excursion, an, I. xii. II. Expedition, an, to the East, I. xv. III.; IV.; VI: II. viii. VIII: III. iii. VI.—to the North, II. i. VIII.; VIII.; IX.; iii. III.—to the South, II. iii. IV.; viii. III.—to the West, II.—ii. IV. to the West, II. vi. III. against the tribes of the Hwae, III. iii. VIII.; IX.: IV. ii. III. -against King-ts'00, IV. iii. V. -a hunting, II. iii. V.; VI. -the toil of an, II. viii. VI. Expeditions, many toilsome, II. viii. X. Experiences, bitter, IV. iii. IV. Extortion, in Wei, I. ix. VII.

To the officers of Yin-shang, III. iii. I. 2. Eye-brows, bushy, of old people, I. xv. I. 6: II. ii. VII. 4: IV. i. [ii.] VII.; VIII.; ii. IV. 5, Eyes, clear, I. vii. XX. -beautiful, I. viii. XI.

Enmities, the sovereign of Yin contracting, III.

F

Fabrics, dark-yellow and red, I. xv. I. 3.
Face, a prince's, rouged, I. xi. V.

—a wrinkled, IV. iii. II.
Faces, unblushing, II. v. IV. 5.
Falcon, I. xi. VII.; II. iii. IX.
Falcon-banners, I. iv. IX. 2: II. iii. III. 4: III.
iii. III. 2; VIII. 1.
False hair, I. iv. III. 2.
Fame, endless, of king Wan, III. i. I. 2; X.

—and focs of Tan-foo, III. i. III. 8.

—of Tae-sze, III. i. VI. 1.

—of king Ke, III. i. VI. 1.

—of king Ke, III. i. VI. 4.

—virtuons, without fail, II. ii. V. 3: iii. VIII.

6: IV. i [ii.] III.

—brilliant of the marquis of Loo, IV. ii. III. 2.

-of Woo-ting, IV. iii. V. 5.
Inmilies, the great, are buttre-ses, III. ii. X. 7.
Famuly of Ling Weo, the. IV. i. [iii.] IX.
I maine, I. vi. V.: III. ii. X. I.

- and death, II. iv. X. I. t. III. iii. IV.
I and death, II. iv. X. I. t. III. iii. IV.
I and death, II. iv. X. I. t. III. iii. IV.
I and large, IV. ii. I. and structure of the III.
I at and large, IV. ii. I. and structure IV in II.
I at and large, IV. ii. I. and structure IV in II.

-king T'ang compared to a blazing, IV. iii. IV. 6.

-difficulty in geteing, II. viii. IX. 3. See Viunds. -bringing, to field-labourers, II.vi. VII, 3.; VIII. 4; IV. iii. V. -of not enjoying good things, I. x. II.

Bood, spirits and, II. iv. V. 9; vi. VI. 8: III. ii.

VI. 4. Folly of pursuing objects beyond one's strength, I. viii. VII. —extensive, large, II. vi. VII.; VIII.
—taken from the people, III. iii. X. 2.
—taken from the people, III. iii. X. 2.
[ii.] I.; II.; iii. V.
Filial feeling, the decay of, I. xiii. II.
—of king Woo, III. i. IX. 3, 4: IV. i. [ii.] VII.;

[iii.] I.

Clii.] I. Effice, f. 111, X.III.: I.V. III., ii. X. 6.

—the bamboo-, II. v. V. 7: III. ii. X. 6.

—double, IV. i. [ii.] V.

Ely, the blue, I. viii. I.: II. vii. V.

Elying away from sorrow, impossible, I. iii. I. 5.

—aloft to heaven, II. v. X. 7.

—egrete, IV. i. [ii.] III.

—egrete, IV. i. [ii.] III.

Followers taken from private citizens by govt.,

III. iii. X. 2.

—numerous, of duke He, IV. ii. IV. 5.

—numerous, of duke He, IV. ii. IV. 5. Feudal princes, entertained by the king, II. ii.

IX.; vii. I; II.; VII.; VIII.

— Kanthering of the, II. v. IX.; X.

— establishment of the, IV. i. [i.] VIII.

— masisting at a sacrifice, IV. ii. [i.] VIII.

— praise of, II. ii. IX.; vi. X.; vii. I. IV. i. [i.] IV.

— praise of, II. ii. IX.; vi. X.; vii. IV. i. [i.] IV.

— praise of, II. ii. IX.; vi. X.; vii. IV. i. [i.] IV.

— of young millet, I. xiv. IV.

— of young millet, I. xiv. IV.

— of young millet, I. xiv. IV.

— toiled in the open, II. iii. VII. i.

— toiled in the open, II. iii. VII. I.

— stony, II. iv. VIII. II.

— stony, II. iv. VIII. II.

— stony, II. iv. VIII. II. VII. II. III. V. III.

— toiled in the open, II. vi. VII. ii. VI. 5; lii. V. 8;

— stensing out, II. vi. VII. ii. VI. 5; lii. V. 8;

— laying out, II. vi. VII. ii. VI. 5; lii. V. 8; —elegant as, I. ix. II. —brilliant, II. i. II. i. —splendid are the, II. vi. X. Flute, I. iii, XIII.: IV. iii. I. of the carambola tree, I. xiii. II.

of the cherry tree, II. i. IV. 1; VII. 4.

of the blynonia, II. viii. IX.

of millet, II. i. VIII. 4. -of the ephemeral hedge-tree, I. vii. IX.
-of the lotus, I. vii. X.; xii. X.
-of yalerian, I. vii. XXI.
-of ythe thorn-mallows, I. xii. II. Pestivity of Ching, I. vii. XXI. Fotid tree, the, used for firewood, I. xv. I. 6: II. iv. IV. 1. Flowers, of the peach tree, I. i. VI.; ii. XIII. 2.

—of the sparrow-plum, I. ii. XIII. 1.

—of the plum, I. ii. XIII. 2. See Entertainment. Flocks and herds, the largeness of king Seuen's, II, iv. VI, Flesh, roast and broiled. III. ii. I. 7; IV. 5. Flattering parasites, III. ii. IX. Flaw, a., in speech, worse than in white jade, III. iii. II. 5. Feathers, a screen of, I. vi. III.

—of the wild geose, I. x. VIII.

—changing, II. iv. V. 4.

—stack in music-frames, IV. i. [ii.] V. troubles like III. ii. X. 4. Planies, blazing, may be extinguished, II. iv. Flags, See Banners Feathered streamers, I. iv. IX. 3. Five braidings, the, of an officer, I. ii. VII. Feather-figured shield, I. xi. III. See Entertainment, Festal. Feather, a pheasant's, I. iii. XIII.:—egret's, I. xii. I. Yellow-jaws. ... ,den-buld Tench, nong L ในอกฎ -drunken, II. vii. VI. -and deliberating, IV. ii. II. Carp, ... Sturgeon, Rud, Band-blower, Eream, Fenst, a. I. vii. I. —a private, II. vi. V. 5.
—a parting, III. iii. V. 6; VII. 8: IV. I. [ii.] IX.
Fensting, I. iii. X.; vii. III.; II. iii. III. 6: IV.
i. [i.] IX.
—a bride, II. vii. IV.
—a bride, II. vii. VI. hodrack bod. —in the blarvellous pond, III. i. VIII. 2.

—rect, I. iii. XVIII. 3; v. III. 4.

—basket, II. ii. III.; viii. IX. 3. -aniong the pond-weed, II. vii. VII. VIII. Eavourite, indulgence of a, by king Yen, II. iv. dreaming of, II, iv. VI. 4. Eavours conferred on feudal princes, by the Fish, I. v. III. 4; viii. IX.; xii. III.; xiii. IV.: II. ii. I.; iii. X.; iv. VIII. 11: IV. i. [ii.] VI. —fresh, III. iii. VII. 8. Ob great and august! IV. I. [iii.] L.; II.

Oh! my great, IV. i. [iii.] L.; II.

Eavour of God, and of Heaven, on T'ang, IV.

iii. IV. Fire-wood the, gatherers of, consult the, III, ii. X, 3. Enther of husbandry, the, II. vi. VII. 2; VIII. 2. Fire-star, the, I. xv. I.

Fire-wood, I. i. IX.; X.; vi. IV.; vii. XVIII.; viii.

VI. 4; x. V.; xv. I. 6: II. iv. VI. 8; VIII. 4;

v. III. 7; IX. 8; vii. IV. 4; viii. V. 4: III. i.

IV. 1; V. 5.

Fire-wood, the gatherers of consult the III. ii. See Parents. -none to be looked up to like a, II. v. III. 3. Eather and mother invoked, I. iii. IV. 4.
—thought of, I. iz. IV.
—separation from, I. vi. VII.

83

Foot, marching on, II. viil. III. 3.

Footmen, numerous, III. iii. V. 7.—30,000, IV. ii. IV. 5. and charioteers, IV. ii. III. 7. Footsteps, successors treading in the, of predecessors, III. i. IX. Forage, and grain, II. vii. II. 2, 3. Forces, Ts'in raising, I. xi. VIII. Foreing a lady to marry, I. ii. VI. Ford, I. iii. IX.; v. IX. Forefathers, thinking of our, II. v. II. 1.

appeal to, II v. X. 1.

Forehead, a fine, I. iv. III.; vii. XX.; viii. XI. Forest, I. i. VII. 3; ii. XII.; iii. VI.: II. iv. VIII. 4; vii. IV. 2; viii. V. 6: III. iii. III. 9. -troops like a, III. i. II. 7 —How-tsein placed in a, III. ji. I. 3. Forgetfulness, the plant of, I. v. VIII. 4. —of a husband, I. xi. VII.

Former wealth and present distress, III. iii. XI. 5. -kings, III. iii. XI. 7: IV. i. [i.] IV. –men, example of, IV. iii. I. Fortifying Ts'aou, I. iii. VI. the city of Ts'e in the east, III. iii. VI. 7,8. Forwards or backwards, impossible to go, III. iii. III. 9. Fountain, a, by a recluse's hut, I. xii. III. Four, a chariot and, I. vii. IV.; V. See Horses. —dishes of grain, I. xi. X quarters, God surveyed the, III. i. VII. 1. -quarters, the people of the, III. i. X. 4-6. -seas, IV. iii. III. Fowls, I. vi. II.

Foxes, I. iii. XVI.; v. IX.; viii. VI.; xv. I.4.

—the long-tailed, II. viii. X. 4.

—the white, III. iii. VII. 6. Fox-furs, I. iii. XII. 3; xi. V.; xiii. I: II. viii. I. 1. Fragrance of a sacrifice, II. vi. VI. 6: III. ii. I.8. Frames, for building earthen walls, II. iv. V. 3: III. i. III. 5,6. music-, IV. i. [ii.] V. Friend, slandered by an old, II. v. V. -alienation of an old, II. v. VII. Friends, no, equal to brothers, II. i. IV. —left alone in office by, II. iv. IX. 8. -insincere, III. iii. III. 9,14. the king giving repose to his, III. ii. V. 4. Friendship, and gifts, I. v. X.; vii. VIII. —old, I. vii. VII. —the duty and value of, 11. i. V. - like hills and mountains, IV. ii. IV. 4. Front-board of a carriage, IV. ii. VIII. Frontiers of the north, guarding the, II. i. VII. Frontlets, carved, for horses, III. iii, VII. 2. Frugality and politeness, II. viii. VII. Fruits, the peach, I. i. VI. -the plant. I. ii. IX. —the carambola, I. xiii. III. grapes, sparrow-plums, dates, and bottle-gourds, I. xv. I. 6. deavenly gourds, I. xv. III. 2. - bitter gourds, I. xv. III. 3. -- p ars, H. i. IX. 1. = p ats, H. b. IX. I. = nadlits, H. b. IX. B. = goards, H. vi. VI. I. = nauterius, IV. ii. III. S. = xys-clool, III. iii. VII. B. Fugaryes, o divind, H. n. IV. 2. the people are all wantering, III, in XI, 1. For dree, I Note VI; M. L. I; H. C. IX. L. F. at See, 5 weath H. van, V. L.

Farage II to V 3

G

Gags, the ranks with the, I. xv. III. 1: III. ii. ÍI. 8 ; III. 2. Galloping, horses, I. iv. X.; II. i. III. Garden, a, fenced with willows, I, viii. V. —peach trees in a, I. ix. III.
—vegetable, I. xv. I. 7: II. iv. II.
—a pleasant, II. iii. X.
—the willow-, II. v. VI. 7.
Garments, holding up the lower, I. vii. XIII. -embroidered lower-, I. xi. V. with the hatchet, II. vii. VIII. I: III. i. I. 5. Gate, the north-, I. iii. XV.

—the east-, I. vii. XV.; XIX.; xii. II.; IV.: V.

—of the tombs, I. xii. VI. -my, II. v. V. I, 3. -of the temple, II. vi. V. 2. of the enceinte, and court, III. i. III. 7. Gatherers, consult the grass and firewood-, III. ii. X. 3. Gathering, duckweed, I. i. I. 3.; ii. IV. the dolichos, I. i. II. 2 —the mouse-ear, I. i. III. I.
—plantains, I. i. VIII.
—fire-wood, I. i. IX.; X.; II. viii. V. I.
—southernwood, I. ii. II.; xv. I.: II. i. VIII. 6; vi. III. 3; -ferns, I. ii. İII. -mustard-plant and earth-melons, I. iii. X.; iv. IV. 3; x. XII. 3. dodder, I iv. IV. 1. wheat, I. iv. IV. 2. –lilies, I. iv. X. 3. -sorrel, mulberry leaves, and oxlips, I. ix. II. -liquorice, I. x. XII. -mulberry leaves, I. xv. I. 2: III. iii. III. 1.
-sowthistles, I. x. XII. 2; xv. I. 6.
-hemp-seed, I. xv. I. 6. —thorn-ferns, II. i. VII. —medlars, II. i. IX. 3; vi. I. 1. -white millet, H. iii. IV. -sheep's-foot and poke-weed, II. iv. IV. 2, 3. -pulse, II. v. II. 3· -beans, II. vii. VIII. -cresses, II. vii. VIII. 2: IV. ii. III. 1. -the king-grass, II. viii. II. -the indigo-plant, II. viii. II. 2. -the pond-weed, IV. ii. III. 2. -mallows, IV. ii. III. 3. Geese, flying, I. vii. IV. 2; xv. VI.: II. iii. VII.
-shooting, I, vii. VIII. 1. -feathers of the wild-, I. x. VIII. Gem, a virtuous lady compared to a, I. ii. XII. —girdle, I. v. V. 3; xi. V.; IX.: II. iii. IV. 2: III. ii. Vl. 2. -elegant as a, I. ix. II.: II. iv. II. 4. Gems, the beautiful keu, yaou, and këw, I. v. X.; vii. IX.: III. ii. VI. 2. - hwa gung and ging stones, I. viii. III.
--stones if for polishing, II. iii. X. 2.
--on a scabbard, II. vi. IX. 2.
--the second of the state of the second -- the sonorous, IV. iii. I. General of an army, the, I. vii. V. 3: II. i. VII. 5; VIII. - Fang-shuh an aged, H. iii. IV. Generations, for a hundred, 111, i. I. 2. Gentleman, a splendid, I. vii. XIV. Gentlemen, slight and elegant, H. v. IX- 2tierm of life, each seed a, IV. iii. V.: VI. -parting, I. vi.

Gitts and triendship, I. v. X.

Growth, of grain, IV. i. [iii.] V.

Growth, of grain, IV. i. [iii.] V.
Guests, from the feudal States, II. i. I.

—responsive ode of the, II. i. VI.

—radmirable, II. ii. V.; iii. I.

—radmirable, II. ii. V.; iii. I.

—radmirable, II. ii. V.; iii. I. -and evil, when you did not know, III. iii. II. 10. Grind-stones, II. iii. X. I. Groom, I. iv. VI. 3. ziv. L; II. at the frivolity of some parties in Ts'aou, I. Grey hair, and wrinkled face, II. ii. VII. 5. Griet, of an officer, I. iz. III. vii. L Grave, hoping to share the same, I. vi. IX.
Greasing wheels, II. v. V. 5.
Greed of ministers of Wei, I. iz. VI.
Green colour, significance of, I. iii. II.
Green-beaks, the, a kind of birds, II. v. II. 5; —How-teeih eleared away the thick, III. ii. I. 5.
—clearing away, IV. i. [iii] V.
Grass-hoppers and insects. I. ii. III.: III. i. VIII. 5.
Grass-gatherers, consult the, III. ii. X. 3.
Grass-gatherers, consult the iii. X. 3. -the way to Chow overgrown with, II. v. III. 2 -dying, II. v. VII. 3. -the king-, II. viii. II. -the dark, II. viii. X. 4. -the Small, I. xy. I. 4. -ropes of, I. xy. I. 7. -dew on the luxariant, II ii. X. 2. -a bundle of fresh, II. iv. II. 4. -a bundle of fresh, II. iv. II. 4. Grapes, I. zv. I. 6. Grass, white, I. ii. XII.; iii. XVII. 3; v. III. 2; II. viii. IV. I., 2. Grand-sons, sons and, II. vi. V. 6. Grand-daughter, I. ii. XIII.
Grand-daughter, I. ii. XIII.
Grand-master, Yin, the, II. iv. VIII.
Grand-master, Yin, the, II. iv. VII.
—Shang-foo, III. iii. IX.
—Hwang-foo, III. iii. IX. Grand, is the mountain Leang, III. iii. VII. Granaries, thousands of, II. vi. VII. 4. — high, IV. i. [ii.] IV. -good and abundant, II. vi. VII. 8.
-foot horses, II. vii. II. 4—7: IV. i. X.
-How-tseih's, III. ii. I. 4—7: IV. i. X.
-dake Löw's, III. ii. VI. 1.
-pecking up, II. v. II. 5.
-insects that destroy, II. vi. VIII. 2: III. iii. IV. I.
-insects that destroy, II. vi. VIII. 2: III. iii. IV. I. II [.ii] different kinds, of, I. xv.I. 7: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI. all kinds of, II. vi. VI. 2; VIII. 1: IV. i. — error and confusion in, III. 11, 8; X.

— error and confusion in, III. iii. II. 8; X.

— mis-, III. iii. I. III.

— the bonds of, relaxed, III. iii. IV. 7.

— spread abroad flee king's, III. iii. VI. 3.

Grain springing, I. ix. VII.: II. iv, VIII. 7.

— four dishes of, I. xi. X.

— four dishes of, I. xi. X. Government, affairs of, I. iii. XV. -the sparrow-, I. v. VI.

-the bottle-, I. iii. IX.; xv. I. 6.

-the bottle-, I. iii. IX.; xv. I. 6.

-the sweet, II. ii. V. 3.

-the sweet, III. ii. V. 3.

-the sweet, III. ii. II.

-the sweet, III. ii. II. -and bad princes distinguished by Chung Shan-foo, III. iii. VI. 4.

-men are going away, III. iii. X. 5, 6.

-faith asserted, I. vii. XVIII.

Goose, wild, I. iii. IX. 3.

Gourd-leaves, II. viii. VII.

Gourds, I. iii. IX. 1: II. vi VI. 4.

-the sparrow-, I. v. VI.

-men, the sovereigns of Yin had no, III. iii. —men neglected, I. xiv. II. II. iv. IX. 2: III. ii. iv. IX. 2: III. ii. X. 5; iii. III. II. 13. —n fence, III. ii. X. 7. 7. —nll are at first, III. iii. I. I. I. —nllen. the strengenes of vir. Gold, pure as, I. Y. I. S.

Gold, pure as, I. Y. I. S.

Good man, the, I. Z. I. Y.; xi. III.

—things should be enjoyed I. z. II.

—men destroyed, I. zi. YI.

—men neelected. I. zi. YI. —kinged by, IV. I. [1.] LX.

—appointed grain for the nourishment of all,

IV. i. [1.] X.

—the bright and glorious, IV. i. [ii.] I.

—regarded Köang Yuen with favour, IV. ii. IV. I.

—the great and sovereign, IV. ii. IV. 3.

—the great and sovereign, IV. ii. IV. 3.

—the favour of did not leave Shang, IV. iii. IV. I.

—the favour of did not leave Shang, IV. iii. IV. 3.

—the favour of did not leave Shang, IV. iii. IV. 3.

—the great and soverenced God, IV. iii. IV. 3. —it is not, who has caused this evil time, III.

iii, I. 7.

—does not come to us, will not exempt me,
grant me liberty, consider me, III. iii. IV.
2, 3, 4, 5.

—kinged by, IV. i. [i.] IX.

—kinged by iv. i. [i.] IX. ·II .iii .III ! si srorrest ni beyrrar woH ! si terr woH. III. ii. X has reversed His usual course of procedure, smells a sweet savour, III. ii. I. 8. -a toe-print made by, III. ii. I. I. I. J. IIV VII. 3.

-king Ke was gifted by, III. i. VII. 4.

-king Wan received the blessing of, III.i. VII.4.

-said to king Wan, III. i. VII. 5, 7.

-in accordance with the pattern of, III. i. -surveyed the hills, III, i. VII. 8. -raised the States and a ruler for them, III. i. -brought an intelligent ruler, III. i. VII. 2. hating the great States, turned to the west, II, II, VII, I. Ling Wan served, III. i. II. 8. -'is with you,' III. i. II. 7: IV. ii. IV. 2. -great is, III. i. VII. -this god, (the king), is very changeable, II. God, there is the great; does he hate? II. iv. Glow-worms, I. zv. III. 2. Goats, I. vi. II. Go-between, I. v. IV.; viii. VI. 4; zv. V. Goblets, bull-figured, IV. ii. IV. 4. Goal there is the greent, does he hate? Gloom, consolation under, I. vii. XVI. Girl, a lovely, I. viii. VI. 3.

Girl, a lovely, I. viii. IV. See Lady.

Girls, about the Ilan, I. i. IX.

—against lewdness of, I. iv. VII.

—clouds of flaunting, I. vii. XIX.

Gleanings left in the field for the widow, II. vi.

VIII. 3. Girdle, L. i. VIII. 3; v. IX. 2; vi. X. 3; xiv. III. 2; vi. X. 3; xiv. III. 3; v. IX. 2; vi. X. 3; xiv. III. 2: II. viii. I. 4.

—ornaments of a, L. v. V. 3; VI.; vii. VIII. IX.; XVII.; iii. IV. 2; v. X. 1X.; II. iii. IV. 2; v. IX.; II. iii. IV. 2; v. IX.; III. ii. VII. 2.

exerting all his, IV. i. VI.

-and visitors at ancestral service, II. vi. V. 3; VI. 3.

Guilty and guiltless exchange places, III.iii. X. 2. Gulf, careful as on the brink of a, II. v. I. 6.

H

Hair, mode of keeping the, I. iv. I.; III.; v. IV.6: II. viii. I.; II. −of a child, Í. viii. VII. 3. -garments of, I. xv. I. -thick and straight, II. viii. I. 2. -hoary, IV. ii. IV. 5,8; iii. II. virtue is light, as a, III. iii. VI. 6. Halberds, I. v. VIII.; xiv. II. Half-mace, (libation caps), III. i. IV. 2; ii. X. 6. —a man not left, III. iii. IV. 3.
Hall, IV. i. [iii], VII.—waiting for in a, I. vii.
XIV.; viii. III, —the cricket in the, I. x. I. --of state, L xiii. L -of our prince, I. xv. I. 8. -of king Wan, with a circlet of water, III.i. VIII. 3,4; X. 6. Hamlet, I. vii. II. Hand, holding by the hand, I. vii. VII.—in the, III. ii. X. 6, Hand-drums, IV. i. [ii.] V.; iii. I. Handfuls of grain left for the widow, II. vi. 7III. S. Handkerchief, I. ii. XII. Happiness of the king, II. vii. VII. —desired, II. vii. II. —secured, IV. iii. V. 4. —like mountains and rivers, II. i. VI, -and dignity of personators of the dead, III. ii. IV. Happy, land!-State!-Borders!, I. iz. VII. -pair !, I. x. V. -and courteous sovereign, III. ii. VII.; VIII. -intercourse of a marquis with his officers, IV. ii. II. Hard-hearted man, a, III. iii. III. -and soft, popular saying about the, III. iii. Hare, the, I. vi. VI .: II. v. III. 6; IV. 4. Harem, I. i. I.; II.; ii. X.; XI.; iv. II. Harvesting, I. xv. I. 4-7. Hatchets, I. xv. I. 3.; IV. 1 Hatchers, 1. XV. 1. 3.; 1V. 1.

-on lower garments, II. vii. VIII.; III. i. I. 5.

Hats, bamboo-, II. iv. VI.

-of Tac leaves, II. viii. I. 2.

-light splint, IV. i. [iii.] VI.

Hawk, II. iii. IV. 3.; v. X. 7; III. i. V. 3.

Hazel trees, I. iii. XIII. 4; iv. VI. 1; xiv. III. 4:

II. vii. V. 3; III. i. V. 1.

Head, bowing the, to the ground, III.iii. VIII.5,6.

Head of the Yin clan, the III. iii. IV. Head of the Yin clan, the, III. iii. IX. Heads of departments, HL iii. IV. 7. Head-ache, L.y. VIII. 3.—painlike a, II.y. III. 2. Head-dress, of a princess, I. ii. II; iv. III. Heart, the toiled, of a lover, I. xii. VIII. -of one deploring the decay of filial piety, I. ani. II. -of our deplaring the decay of Chow, I. xiii, IV. - of the heir-apparent, degrated, H. v. III. -of a futer disappointed in his son, III. iii. -the kinds, at rest, II vill, III. 5: III. iii.

VIII. :.

Hearts, sorrowing, II. i. VII.; VIII.; IX.; iv. VIII.; VIII.; v. II. 1; vi. III.; IV.; vii. III.; viii. I.; V.; IX.: III. iii. III. i, 4; 1V. 5; X. 6, 7. Heaven, submission, to, I. iii. XV.
—invoked, I. iv. I.; vi. I.; x. VIII.; xi. VI.: II.
iv. VII. 5, 6; X.; v. III. 3; IV.; VI. 5; vi.
III.: III. iii. III. 1. -a visitant from, I. iv. III. 2. -protects and establishes the king, II. i. VI. -the son of, II. i. VIII. 1, 3; iii. III.; VI.; iv. VII. 3, X. 6; vii. VIII. 3, 4, 5: III. ii. V. 4; VIII. 7; iii. VI.; VIII. 5, 6; IX. 3, 6: . IV. i. [i.] VIII.; [ii.] VII.; iii. IV. 7.
-unpitying and unjust, II. iv. VII.
-dark but mighty II iv. VIII. 4, 7, 12. -dark but mighty, II. iv. VIII. 4, 7, 13.
-the ordinances of, II. iv. IX. 7, 8: IV. i. [i.] II.
-not standing in awe of, II. iv. X. 3; v. V. 3. compassionate, II. iv. X. 1; v. I. 1; III. i. Γiii.] XI. 1. the dove flies up to, II. v. II. 1.—the hawk do. III. i. V.3,—the phœnix do, III. ii. VIII. 8. · what H. confers, II. v. II. 2. -what is my offence against? II. v. III. 1. —who gave me birth, II. v. III. 3. -our parent, II. v. IV. 1. -kindness of parents like great, II. v. VIII. 4.
-all under, II. vi. I. 2: IV. i. [iii.] XI.
-the blessing of, II. vi. VI. 4; vii. I. 1. the way of, hard and difficult, II. viii. V. 2. the way of, evident, IV. i. [iii.] III.-king Wan is in, III. i. I. IV. i. [i.] I. the appointment of, III. i. I. 4, 5; II. X. 2:

IV. i. [i.] VI.; i. [iii.] III.

the will of, III. i. IX. 2; ii. IX. 1.

look at Vin in the light of IV. -look at Yin in the light of, III. i. I. 7. —the doings of High, III. i. I. 7. -not readily to be relied on, III. i. II. 1.
-surveyed this lower world, III. i. II. 1. -like a fair denizen of, III. i. II. 5. -raised up a help-meet, III. i. VII. 2.
-the three sovereigns were in, III. i. IX. 1.
-the king receives his dignity from, III. ii. III. 7; V. 1. is sending down calamities, exercising oppression, displaying its anger, III. ii. X. 2, 4, 5; iii. II. 12 enlightens the people, III. ii. X. 6. revere the anger & changing moods of, III. ii. great, is intelligent, is clear-sceing, & is with you, III. ii. X. 8; iii. II. 11. -gave birth to the people, III. iii. I. 1; VI. 1. made the ministers of Yin with their insolent dispositions, III. iii. I. 2. it is not, that flushes your face with spirits, III. iii. L. 5. -those whom great, does not approve of, III. great, makes no mistakes, III. iii. II. 12. -does not nourish us, III. iii. III. 3. -the severe anger of, III. iii. III. 4. is sending down death and disorder, III. iii. III. 7; IV. 1. -God, in the great, III. iii. IV. 3,5,6. -I look up to the great, III. iii. IV. 7.5; X. 1. -beheld the ruler of Chow, III. iii. VI. -disorder does not come down from, HI.iii. X.3. -is reproving us, III. ini. X. 5 -is letting down its net, III. iii. X. 2,6. -my steriously great, III. iii. X. 7.

Houses, repairing, for winter, I. xv. I. 5,7.

—Inuta were before, III. i. III. 12,5.

—the hundred, IV. i. [iii.] VI.

—the hundred, IV. i. [iii.] VI.

—olicers have no, in the capital. II. iv. Z. 7. —noble, III. iii, V. t.
—long and large, III. iii. VI. 2.
—long and large, III. iii. VI. 7.6.
—strong, III. iii. VI. 7.6.
—strand, IV, ii. III. 2.
—chariots and, II. iv. IX. 6.
—the Ruler of, II. iii. VI. I.
Hosts, the six, of the king, III. iii. II. VII. II.
Hosts, the six, of the king, III. iii. II. VII. II.
Hosts, the six, of the king, III. iii. III. 5.
Hosts, the six, of the king, III. iii. III. 5.
Hounds and hunting, I. viii. VII.
Hounds and hunting, I. viii. VII.
—the, careb the hare, II. v. IV. 4.

And spacious, I. x. IV. 4.

and spacious, I. x. IV. 4.

—the honoured, of Chow, III. iv. X. 2: III. i. II.
IV. ii. IV. 2;—x plank-, I. xi. III.; v. II.

—the honoured, of Chow, III. iv. X. 2: III. i. II.

—the honoured, of Chow, III. iv. X. 2: III. i. II.

—yh, II. v. V. 5.
—counsels about building a, II. v. I. i.
Houses, repairing, for winter, I. v. I. i.
—huy, II. v. V. 6. —piebald, with white left feet; bay with black mane; yellow with black mouth; and black, a.i. IX.

—bay, and red, flecked with white, I, xv. III. 4.

—white with black mane, II. i. II.; vi. X. 3.

—young, piebald, white and black-maned, and grey, II. iii. IV. 1.

—piebald, II. iii. IV. 1.

—piebald, II. iii. IV. 1.

—piebald, IV. i. [III.]

—wellow, II. iii. V. 6.

—well trained and fleet, III. ii. VIII. 10.

—well trained and fleet, III. ii. VIII. 2.

—noble, III. iii. V. 4.

—noble, III. iii. V. 4.

—noble, III. iii. V. 4. -with white foreheads, I. zi. I. -iron-black, I. zi. II. -piebald, with white left feet; bay with black Horre, has a sparrow no? I. ii. VI. 2.

Horre, has a sparrow no? I. ii. VI. 3.

—no old ram is without, II. vii. VI. 5.

—don't look for, on a young ram, III. iii. II. 8.

—of a bull, IV. i. [iii.] VI.; ii. IV. 4.

Horned sheep, II. iv. VI. I.

Horree, an old, thinks himself a colt, II. vii. IX. 5.

—the master of the, III. iii. IV. 7.

—the master of the, III. iii. IV. 7. Horn, rhinoceros, cups of, I. i. III. 3; xv. I. 8: II. vii. I. 4. Hordes of Kenn, the, III. i. III. 8.

—of the South, III. iii. II. 4.

See Tribes. Hooks, for trappings, II. iii. IV. 1: III. iii. V. 4; Hoes, IV. i. [ii.] I.; [iii.] VI. Home, a soldier's thought of, I. ix. IV. —choosing a, III. iii. VII. 5. Hoop's for trappings III iii. VII. 5. iii. II.

THI. 5.

-the northern, II. vi. I. I.

-the northern is looked up to, II. vi. IV. 5.

Itills of the east, I. xv. III. I.

-enduring as the southern, II. i. VI. 6.

-of the north, II. ii, VII.

-grind-stones and gems found in, II. iii. X.

-faring down, II. vi. IX. 3.

-faring on the, II. vi. IX. 3.

-faring on the, II. vi. IX. 3.

-ford surreyed the, III. i. VIII.

-God surreyed the, III. i. VII. 3. —hazels growing on a, I. iii. XIII. 4.
—trees on the sides of a, I. xi. I.
—absardity of denying that a, is high, II. iv.
VIII. 5. south. Hesperus, II. v. IX. 6. Hewing timber reverently, IV. iii. V. 6. High-way, I. vii. VII. 1. Hill, thunder on the southern, I. ii. VIII. Herdemen, II. iv. VI.
Mero, a, I. v. VIII.—a large and peerless, I. x.
IV. Helpers, a good ruler seeks, III. iii. III. 8.
Helpers, a good ruler seeks, III. iii. III. 8.
—in. agriculture, IV. i. [iii.], V.
Hemp, I. vi. X.—planting, I. viii. VI. 8.—twisting, I. zii. II.—steeping, I. zii. IV.
—robes of, I. ziv. I.
—-seed, I. xiv. I.
Herb-flavoured spirits, III. iii. VIII. 5.
Ilerde of game, II. iii. VII. 5.
—of cattle and sheep, II. iv. VI.—of pigs, III. ii.
VI. 4. Heir-apparent, an, dewailing his degradation, II, v. III.
Helmets, IV. il. IV. 5. peas growing on, I. zii. VII. - southernwood on, II. iii. II. - level, II. i. III.; IV. Heavens, high, and earth, thick, II. iv. VIII. 6.

—over head one arch of clouds, II. vi. VI. 2.

—the points of the, III. ii. VI. 5. has given their appointments to princes, IV.
iii. V. 3.

by 4. sent down a minister, IV. iii. IV. 5. -our prosperity is sent down from, IV. iii. III. -commissioned the swallow, IV. iii. III. -king T'ang received the favour of, IV.iii. IV.5. will give great blessings to our prince, IV. ii. the purpose of, carried out in its time, IV. ii. made the lotty hills, IV. i. [i.] V.I.

—uccept my offerings! IV. i. [i.] VII.

—revere the majesty of, IV. i. [i.] VII.

—How-tseih the correlate of, IV. i. [ii.] X.

—giving rest even to great, IV. i. [ii.] VII.

—does not weary of its favours, IV. i. [iii.] IX.

—king Woo was glorious in the sight of, IV. i.

[iii.] IX.

[iii.] IX.

—the noble, II. viii. I. How admirable! how complete! IV. iii. I. Hulling grain, III. ii. I. 7. Humility of the duke of Chow, I. xv. VII. —recommended, II. v. II. 6. —ancient example of, IV. iii. I. Hunger and thirst, troops have to endure, II. i. VII. 2, 6. Hunch back, I. iii. XVIII. Hundred, a man above a, I. xi. VI. -years, L x. XI. 4,5. —generations, III. i. I. 2. —sons, III. i. VI. 1. -springs, the, III. ii. VI. 3.

-le, III. iii. III. 10; XI. 7.

-houses, the, IV. i. [iii.] VI.

Hunting, I. vii. III.; IV.; VIII.; viii. II.; VIII.;

ix. VI.; xi. II.; xv. I. 4: II. iv. VI. 3; viii. II. 3. -expedition, a, II. iii. V.; VI. Husband, bad treatment by a. I. iii. IV.; V. -deploring the absence of a, I.ii. III.; iii. VIII.; v. VIII.; vi. II.; xi. VII.: II. viii. II.—desire for a, I. v. IX.—return of a, I. vi. III.; vii. XVI, -separation from a, by famine, I. vi. V. -a, praising his own wife, I. vii. XIX -rousing a, in the morning, I. vii. VIII.; viii. I. —and wife, happy meeting of, I. x. V.
—mourning the death of a, I. x. XI.
Husbands, affection for, I. i. X.; ii. VIII.; vii. VIII.; IV. i. [iii.] V. Husbandmen, II. vi. VII.: IV. i. [iii.] V. Husbandry, traced to its first author, II. vi. VI.; VII. 2; VIII. 2: III. ii. I. See Agricultural. Hut of a recluse, I. v. II. Huts, in fields, II. vi. VI. 4. —made by Tan-foo, III. i. III. Hwa-stones, I. viii. III. Hyades, the, bringing rain, II, viii. VIII. 3. Hypocrites, skilful to prevaricate, III. iii. III.

I

Ice, I. iii. IX. 3;—hewing out and storing in houses, I. xv. I. 8. -How-tseih was placed on the cold, III. ii. I. 3. —careful as if treading on, II. v. I. 6; II. 6. Idle, don't be, III. ii. X. 8. Idleness, and greed of ministers of Wei, I. ix. VI. Illustration of illustrious virtue, the, III. i. II. Illustrations not taken from things remote, III. iii. II. 12. Imitation, virtue will secure, IV. i. IV. -of king Woo, IV. iii. VIII. Imp, an, or a water-bow, II. v. V. 8. Impartiality of Woo-ting, IV. iii. V. Implements of husbandry, II. vi. VIII. 1. Incest, I. viii. VI.; IX.; X. Indifference and absence of a lover, I. vii. XVII. of fellow officers, III. ii. X Indignation rife in the Middle kingdom, III. ini. I. 6. Indigo plant, the, II, viii, II, 2, Indulate, Woosting allowed himself no, IV, iii. Indulgance of some officers, and toil of others, Hi, vi. I. lo harry of king White quen, L. E. H. - of a factor's rate, hamile of a wife, I. v. IV. 5. Infant, How-tseih, the perils of the, III. ii. I. 3. Influence of king Wan, III. i. IV. 4; V. 3; VI. —of king Woo, III. i. IX. of manly conduct, III. iii. II. 2. of Seeh's lessons, IV. iii. IV. 2. Ingenuity, human, III. ii. VII. Injustice of the Grand-master Yin, and of Heaven, II. iv. VII. Innocence, injured, II. v. IV.;—III. iii. X. 2. Insects, in buzzing crowds, I. viii. I. 3. -the mulberry-, II. v. II. 3. -that eat grain, II. vi. VIII. 2: III. iii. III. 7; ·X. 1; XI. 2. Locust, See Ant,... Caterpillar,... ... Scorpion, Cicada, Silkworm, ... Sow-bug, Cricket, Ephemera, Sphex, Fly, Spider, Glow-worm, Spinner, Grasshopper, ... Tree-grub, Grass-insect, Wasp, Inspector, and recorder, of those who get drunk, and who do not, II. vii. VI. 5. Instruments, musical, II. vii. VI. 2. Intercourse, licentious, I. viii. IV. Intrigues, with ladies, I. iv. IV. of duke Ling with the lady Hea, I. xii. IX. Investiture of the marquis of Han, III. iii. VII. -of Hoo of Shaou, III. iii. VIII. 5. Iron, III. ii. VI. 6. Irregularity and disorder of a court, I. viii. V. Islands, three in the Hwae, II. vi. IV. 3.

Islets in a river, I. i. I. 1; iii. X. 3; xi. IV.; xv.
VI. 2: II. iii. II. 2.; X: III. ii. IV. 3. -and ponds, I. ii. II. Ivory, I. iv. III. 2; ix. I: II. i. VII. 5.

J

Jade, I. iv. III. 2; v. I. 3: III. i. IV. 5; V. 2; ii. VI. 2; iii. VIII. 5.

-bland and soft as a piece of, I. xi. III.

-mace, like a, III. ii. VIII. 6.

-a mace of white, III. iii. II. 5.

-sceptres of, III. ii. IX. 5.

Jar, and pitcher, II. v. VIII. 3.

-of spirits, III. iii. VIII. 5.

Jasper, a precious, I. xi. IX.

Jealousy, Tae-sze's freedom from, I. i. IV.; V.

-cured, I. ii. XI.

Joke, making a, of what is sad, III. ii. X. 4.

Joy, at the return of a husband, I. vi. III.

Judges, without having appealed to the, IV. ii.

III. 6.

Jujube-tree, I. iii. VII.; ix. III.; x. VIII.; XI.; xi.

VI.; xii. VI.; xiv. III.: II. ii. X. 3; vii. V. 2.

K

Kernels, II. vii. VI. 1. K.ω-stones, I. v. X. 3; vi. X. 3. Kiin-like huts and caves, III. i. III. 1. Kindness, satiated with, III. ii. III. 1.—we shew no, III. ii. X. 5.—II. aren shews us no, III. iii. X. 1.—of king Wan, IV. i. II.

Labours, the sphere of Yu's, IV, ii' Lad, a simple-leaking, L v IV, L — a conceited, L v, VI, with bells attached, II. vi. VI. 5. Krow, the mame of a fish, I. viii. IX. I. Kwei, an edible, plant, I. xv. I. 6. III. I. —the miserable state of the, II. iv. VIII.; VIII.; III. ii. IX.; iii. I.

List, X.; viii. IX.; III. ii. IX.; iii. I.

—the centre of the, III. ii. IX.; iii. I.

—the Middle, III. iii. I. 6.

Knee-covers, white, I. iii. II.

—red, I. xiv. II.: II. iii. IV.; V.; iv. V. 8; vi.

IX. I; vii. VIII. 3.

Knife and iile, I. v. I. I.

Knife and iile, I. v. I. I. Kings, wise, III. i. IZ. l.

Cho former, III. iii. II. 3; XI. 7: IV. i. [i.] IV.

Kingdom, the royal, II. iii. III.: III. i. I. 8; iii. -chrone at rest, II. vii. III. iii. VI. 3.

-chrone and tongue, III. iii. VI. 3.

-duties, III. iii. VI. 6.

-phns, III. iii. IX. 6.

-army, IV. i. [iii.] VIII.

-relations, I. ix. II. II. vii. III.; IX.: III. ii. II.; IX. III. ii. II.; X. III. ii. II. ii. II. ii. II.; X. III. ii. II. ii. II. ii. II.; X. III. ii. iii all the land and people are the, II. vi. I. 2. -heart at rest, II. viii. III. 5: III. iii. VIII. -cause, people of Ts'in ready to fight for their, I. zi. VIII.; III.; IX.; iii. I.; vii. I.; vii. I.; iii. III.; III.; III.; Seuen, gave Hwang-foo, III. iii. IX.

—the, gives rules, IV. i. [ii.] I.; VIII.

—the martial, IV.i. [iii.], VIII.; IX.; iii. II.; IV.6.

—the dark, (Seeh), IV. iii. IV. 2.

—the, of Shang, IV. iii. IV. 7.; V.

—the, of Shang, IV. iii. XII.

—the, of Shang, IV. iii. XIII.

—business, I. iii. XVII.; X. II.; III.

—envoy, a request to, I. z. IX.

—envoy, a request to, I. z. IX. J.iiiz Seven, gave charge to Hoo of Shaou, III. iii. VIII. 3. "IIV" Han, III. iii. " appointing the marquis of Shin, III.iii.V. praise of the, by the fendal princes, and response, II, Xi, X; Xii, VII.

sponse, II, vi. IX.; X.; vii. VII.

— Wan is on high, III. i. I. to X.

— celebrating, Wan, III. i. I. to X.

— praise of, Re, III. i. VIII. i. I. to X.

— praise of, Ch'ing, and, K'ang, IV, i. [i.] IX.

— praise of, Ch'ing, and, K'ang, IV, i. [i.] VIII.;

IX.; [ii.], X.; [iii.] VIII.; IX.

— praise of, Seuen, III. ii. IX. 3.

— praise of, Seuen, III. ii. X.

— praise of sone, III. ii. V.

— praise of, Seuen, III. ii. V.

— praise of sone, III. ii. V.

— praise of, Seuen, III. ii. IX. 3.

— praise of, Seuen, III. ii. IX. 3. $\cdot XX$ ліх led away by slanderers, II. v. III.; IV.: III. iii. XI. 3. King, the tranquillizing, I. ii. XII.

—the, orders an expedition, II. iii. III.

—the claws and teeth of the, II. iv. I.

—blaming the, II. iv. VII.; X.; v. I.; vii. IX.;

X.: III. iii. X.; XI. Lading out water, III. ii. VII. Ladders, scaling, III. i. VII. 7.

Legions, the royal, III, all, IX, 5, Legis, ulcerated and sweller, II, v. IV, 6, -withered, I. vii. XI. -of the willow, I. xii. V. Leaves, of the gourd, I. iii. IX.

—of the doliches, I. i. H. I.

—of the mulberry-tree, I. v. IV.: III. iii. -leaning-board bound with, III, iii, VII, 2, -caps, II. vii. III. L-naves of wheels bound with, II. iii. IV. 2: IV. Laws, ang.

IV 21, III, iii. I. 7.

—ancle of former kings, III, iii. II. 3.

—wisfirty, IV. i. [ii.] II.—a hundred, III. iii. III.

Le, '10 ;—a thousand, IV. ii. [iii.] III.

Le, '10 ;—a thousand, IV. ii. [iii.] III.

Leather, vermilion coloured, I. viii. X.

Leather, vermilion coloured, I. viii. X.

Leather, vermilion coloured, I. viii. X.

Leather, vermilion coloured, II. iii. IV. 2: IV. zii. VII.

—over abuses in Ts'aou, I. xiv. I.; III.

—over the miserable State of the kingdom, II.

Ix. VII. (o X.; v. I.; III. iii. III.

Ixances, I. xi. VIII.; xiv. II.

Ixand dividing the, IV. iii. IV.

Ixand slips, II. iv. IX. 3.

Ixands, Iiils, and gelds, I confer, III. iii. VIII. 5.

Ixands, Iiils, and gelds, I confer, III. iii. VIII. 5.

Ixands, Iiils, and gelds, I confer, III. iii. VIII. 5.

Ixand, waiting is placed in a, III. ii. I. 3.

—How-tseih ixed to every faculty & relation Law, a, ann. iii. IV. I.

ship, II. sof antiquity are his, III. iii. VI. 9.

ship, II. sof antiquity are his, III. iii. VI. 9.

The less rules given by Wan and Woo, III. i.

Ixays, any

Ixays, any

Ixays, any

Ixays, any

Ixays, any —of a man bereaved of relatives, I. xi. VI.
—for three worthies of Ts'in, I. xi. VI.
—for three worthies alienation of her lover, I. xii. VII.

zii. VII. Lambs, fatted, II. i. V. 2. Lament, over the duke Chwang, I. viii. XI. —young, going to be married, I. zv. III. 4. Lamb, sacrificing a, I. zv. I. 8. —birth like that of a, III. ii. I. 2. —-skins. I. ii. VII. —-fnr, I. vii. VI.; z. VII.; young, Eathering mulberry leaves, &c., xv. I. -attendant on a bride, I. v. III. 4. - and gentlemen, I. vii. XXI.; II. viii. I. Ladies, intrigues with various, I. iv. IV. -passionate love for a beautiful, I. zii. VIII.; X.
-praise of a, I. vii. IX.
-Këang, the, III. i. III. 2.
-x, mocking her lover, I. vii. X.
-x, mocking her lover, I. vii. X. warning off her lover, I. vii. II. -lamenting the alienation of her lover, I. zii. -longing for her lover, I. vi. VIII.; vii. XVII. -rejoicing in an unlawful connection, I. vii. -anxious for marriage, I. ii. IX.; iv. VII. -declaring her attachment to her lover, I. vii. Ladle, the, a constellation, H. v. IX. 7.
Lady, young, I. i. I. VI.; IX.; ii. I.; IV.; VI.; iii.

XIV.; XVII.; v. V.; ziv. H.

—princely, I. ii. XII.; zii. IV.

—virtuous, I. ii. XII.; zii. IV.

—virtuous, I. ii. XII.; zii. IV.

Leisure, no, II. viii. VIII.; X. Leopard-skin, I. vii. VI. 2; x. VII. Levée, a king's anxiety about a morning-, II. iii. Lewd, connections, against, I. iv. VII. Libations, III. i. I. 5. Libation-cups, III. i. IV. 2; V. 2; iii. VIII. 5. Licentious manners of Wei, I. iii. IX. -pleasure, I. v. IV. 3.—repressed by a virtuous magistrate, I. vi. IX. -assignations, I. vii. XXI. -intercourse, I. viii. IV. Madder plant, I. vii. XV. –freedom, I. viii. IV Life, an officer weary of, I. vi. VI. Light and shade, duke Lew surveyed the, III.ii. -and darkness, you make no distinction be-tween, III, iii. I. 5. Lilies, mother-of-pearl, I. iv. X. 3. Lin, the, a fabulous animal, I. i, XI. Line, making straight with a, III. i. III. 5. IX. 3, Lines, used in angling I. ii. XIII. 3.

a few elegant, II. v. VI. 1. Liquorice, I. iii. XIII. 4; x. XII. Lizard-skin drums, III. i. VIII. 4. Mallows, thorny, I. xii. II. gathering, IV. ii. III. 3. Locusts, I. i. V.: xv. I. 5. Locusts, 1. 1. V.: XV. 1. D.

Lodging for a night in Too, II. iii. VII. 3.

Loneliness of a widow, I. x. XI.

Longevity, desired, for the king, II. i. VI.; vi.

VII. 4; IX. 2,3; vii. II.: III. iii. VIII.

—for the foundal princes. II. iii. VII. -for the feudal princes, II, ii. IX Marabou, the, II. viii. V. 6. March a day's, II. iii. III. of duke Lëw, III. ii. VI. 1. for the marquis of Loo, IW. ii. III. 3. -conferred by ancestors, II. vi. V.; VI. 4: IV. the eye-brows of, IV. i. [ii.] VIL; VIII.; ii. a model, I. viii. I. Look at the Loh, II. vi. IX. Look at the con, II. VI. I...
Looms, empty, II. v. IX. 2.
Lord, noble, a husband so stylecd, I. ii. VIII.

—a princely, I. x. III.

—of Ts-in, growing opulence of the, I. xi. of Wei, I. iv. X. -people ready to fight for their, of Tae, How-tsein became, III. ii. I. 5. L xi. VIII. Lover, a lady warning off her, I. vii.

mocking a, I. vii. X. forcing a, I. ii. VI. -declaring attachment to a, I. vii. XIIII. -thinking of a, I. vii. XV. —indifference and absence of a, I. vii. X —affinity by, II. iv. IV. -longing desire of a, I. xii. VIII.; X Lovers, a woman longing for, I. vi. X.
Loyalty, declared, I. x. VII.
Lucifer, a Star, II. v. IX. 6.
Lucky day, a. H. iii. VI.
Lutes, I. iv. VI. 1; vii. VIII.; x. II.; xi. I.: II. i.
— small and large, I. i. I. 2; II. vi. IV. 4. of king Wan, III. i. II. 1-6. small and large, I. i. I. 3: II. vi. IV. 4. Lute-arrings, six reins made music like, II. vii. Luxuriance of flowers, I. ii. XIII. of the doli-7; VII. 5. che s, h. I. H. I.

—of Panta and trees, H. i. VIII. 6; IX. 2.

of so the reaced, H. iii. H.

of a forest, H. via IV. 2. I: VIII. 1.

of dryandras, III ii. VIII. 2.

of dryandras, IV is [iii.] V.

outling IV is [iii.] V.

outling it is attached in III. iii. XI 4 -k qu. Marve. Master uous, tower, partire VIII.

of hords, of hounds, I. viii. VIII. with arrestative and HI. ni. XI 1 Leveline allowers, the Hell X. Mar, the ne litate, IV. i. [iii] V. of tiger's a sgind not a. I. iii. I. 3.

M

Mace, a jade-, III. ii. VIII. 6. of white jade, III. iii. II. 5. half-, III. i. IV. 2; ii. X. 6. Maces, and other tokens, exhausted, III. iii. IV. -dyed, I. vii. XIX.: II. vi. IX. 1. Magistrate, a severe and virtuous, I. vi. IX. Magpies, pairing of, I. iv. V.—nests of, I. ii. I.; xii. VII. Mailed horses, I. vii. V.; xi. III. Maize, I. x. VIII.: II. iv. III. 2; vi. VII. 4. Majestic appearance of king Seuen, III. iii. Majesty, the dread, on high, III. i. II. 1. of Heaven, IV. i. [i.] VII. Male animals, hunted by the ruler of Ts'in, I. Man, what, was it? II. v. V.

being the, III. iii. II. 2: IV. i. IV.; ii. VII. Manners, licentious of Wei, I. iii. IX. Manœuvring of an army, I. vii V. Manufacture of silk, I. xv. I. 3. Marching of an army, II. viii. III. Marchioness, a vicious, I. iv V. Mares, three thousand horses &, I. iv. VI. 3. Marquis, the reverent, I. ii. XIII. of Ts'e, of Wei, of Hing, I. v. III. 1. of Tsin, I. x. IX. of Shin, III. iii. V. of Han, III. iii. VII. of Loo, IV. ii. I.; II.; III.; IV. 2, 8. Marriage, of a princess, I. ii. I.; XIII. a young lady anxious for, I. ii. IX.; iv. VII. -a widow protesting against a second, I iv. I. -rules of, I. viii. VI. 3, 4. -of the marquis of Han, III. iii. VII. 4. —OI King Wan, 111. i. ii. 4—b.

Marriages and reunions, I. xv. III. 4.

Marsh, the, in the west, IV. i. [ii.] III.

Marshes, and low ground, I. iii. XIII. 4; vii. IV.

X.; x. II.; xi. I.; VII.; xii. X.; xii. III: II.

i. III.; IV.; iii. VII. 2; X.; v. X. 8; vi. VI. 1;

viii. III. 5; IV.: III. ii. VI. 5; iii. VII. 5:

IV. i. [iii.] V.

Martial man, a. I. i. VII.: v. VIII. 1: III. iii. V. Martial man, a, I. i. VII.; v. VIII. 1: III. iii. V. troops, III. iii. VIII. 2.
ing. IV. i. [iii.] VIII.; IX.; iii. III.
id. ilities, IV. ii. III. 4, 5, 6, llous, tower, park, pond, III. j. VIII. Mats, of rush nekin I. xi. III.

Autren, of a li Yang on, H.vii. VI. III.ii. II. 1.2; VI. 1.

arem, I. i. II. 3.

Musical instruments, IV.ii. V. See, Bell, Drum, Flute, Hand-drum, Lute, Organ, Pan-pipe, Whistle.

Musicians, II. vi. V.6.—blind, III. i. VIII. 4: IV. i. [ii.] V.

Mustard plant, I. iii. X. 1; iv. IV.3; x. XII. 3.

Myriad regions, the, III. i. I.7: IV.i. [iii.] IX.

Myriads of blessings and of years, II. vi. V.; VII.; VII.; IX.; vii. III. i. IX. 5,6; ii. III. 1,2,6,7; iii. VIII. 5,6; IV. ii. IV.5.

—of carts, II. vi. VII. 4.

—of measures of grain, IV. i. [ii.] IV.

—of stacks, tens of, II. vi. V. I: IV. i. [iii.] V.

N

Nature, the, conferred by Heaven, III. iii. I. 1; Naves, of a carriage, I. xi. III. bound with leather, II. iii. IV. 2: IV. iii. II. Neglected officer, a. I. iii. I. —wife, a, I. iii. II.

Nest, the magpie's, I. ii. I.; xii. VII.

—a robbed, I. xv. I. Net, the, of crime, III. iii. X. 1,2.

of Heaven, III. iii. X. 6. Nets, rabbit-, I. i. VII.

—fish-, I. iii. XVIII. 3; v. III. 4.

—with nine bags, I. xv. VI. 1. --bird-, II. vii. II. New Tower, the, I. iii. XVIII. Night and day confounded, I. viii. V. —drinking long into the, II. ii. X.—How goes the? II. iii. VIII. -busy, day and, III. iii. VI. 4; VII. 1: IV. i.
[i.] VI.; VII.; [ii.] III.

-reverent day and, IV. i. [iii.] I.

Nine, bags, a net with, I. xv. VI.

-regions, the, IV. iii. III.; IV. 3,6.

Ninth mat of the march, the II iii. Ninth pool of the marsh, the, II. iii. X. Ninetieth year, duke Woo, in his, III. iii. II. Ninety black-lipped cattle, II. iv. VI. 1. Noble, a, slandered by his triend, II. v. V. Noble men, the king addresses his ministers and lords as, II. ii. VII.; IX. Normal nature of man, the, III, iii. VI. 1. North, expedition to the, II. i. VII. return from the. II. i. VIII. —in the, is the Ladle, (a constellation), II. v. IX. 7. -the States and tribes of the, III. iii. VII. 6: IV. ii. IV. 5. Northern hill, the, II vi. I. 1. Note of the phonix, the, III, ii. VIII. 9. —of the owl. IV. ii. III. 8. Notes of music, IV. i. [ii.] V.

()

Octogenarians, I. xi. I. 2. Ode, I make this, III. iii. III. 14. of great excellence, III. iii. V. 8. Offering and sacrifice, a pure, III. ii. I. 1,2. Offerings, baskets of, II. i. I. 1.—to forefathers, II. i. VI. 4: IV. i. [iii.] V.—spirits and viands for, II. vi. V. 1. -I have brought my, IV. i. [i.] VI. of fish, IV. i. [ii.] VI. -to father and mother, IV. i. [ii.] VII.; VIII. -without error, IV. ii. IV. 3. of spirits and soups, IV. iii. II. chiefs coming with, IV. iii. V. 2. Office, the hazard of taking, II. iv. X. 6. -husbandry preferred to, III. iii. III. 6. Officer, the wife of an, I. ii. III.; IV. an, bewailing neglect of his worth, I. iii. I. -mean services of an, I. iii XIII. -hard lot of an, I. iii. XV: II. vi. I.; II. —melancholy, of an, I. vi. I.; VI. _celebrating an. I. vii. VI. —grief of an, I. ix. III. lamenting his master's frivolity, an, I. xiii. I. an, feasted on his return from an expedition, II. i. II. -abandonment of public life by an, II. iv. II. -moving from one State to another, disappointed, II. iv. III.; IV. a song made by an, II. v. X. 8 officers, easy dignity of some great, I. ii. VII. refugees in Wei, I. iii. XI. -zenlous to welcome men of worth, I. iv. IX. —attendant on a bride, I. v. III. 4. -appeal from inferior to superior, I. vii. XI. of Wei, I. ix. II. of Ch'in, dissipation of, I. xii. I. of escort, I. xiv. II. of king Seuen, praise of the, II. iii. VII. of king Yew, named and accused, II. iv. IX. 4. deserting their places, H. iv. X. unfair employment of, II. vi I. -of the capital, II. viii. I. -of the capital, II. VIII. I.

-of Chow all illustrious, III. i. I. 2, 3.

-of Yin, III. i. I. 5; iii. I. 2, 3.

-of king Wan, III. i. IV. 2; VI. 5: IV. i. [i.] I.

-of king Woo, III. i. X. 8: IV. I. [iii.] IX.

- proper ordering of, III. ii. V; VI. 4.

-of king Chang, III. ii. VIII.

-my great, and excellent men. III. iii. IV. 8. my great, and excellent men, III. iii. IV. 8. etiger-, III. iii. IX. 4: IV. ii. III. 5. and people in distress. III. iii. X. 1 -Ah! Officers and ministers, IV. i. [ii.] I. of Loo, IV. ii. II.; III. Oh! yes, king Ching, &c., IV. i. [ii.] II. Oh! great now is Chow, IV. iii. XI. Ointment, congcaled, I. v. III. 2. Old together, growing, I. v. IV. 6; vii. VIII.

friendship, I. vii. VII. -through grief, II v. III. 2 -man's admonition, an, III. ii. X. 4; iii. II. - no, experienced men, 111, iii. 1. 7. ways, the, III. iii. II. 12. Olden time, life in Pin in the, I. xv. I. - the example of the, IV. iii. IV. of the dignity of Shang, IV. id. IV. One man, (the king), the, 11L iii. VI. 4. Opportunities, a woman regrets lost, I. vii. XIV. Oppression, and misery in Wei, I. iii. XVI.; ix. VII.

•

Polite intercourse, the rules of, to be always ob-Pickles, II. vi. VI. 4: III. ii. II. 2. Pig, roast, IV. ii. IV. 4. served, II. viii. VII. Pond, fish in a, II. iv. VIII. 11. duke Lew took a, from the pen, III. ii. VI. 4. -the Marvellous, III. i. VIII. 2. Pillars, of a courtyard, II. iv. V. 5. Ponds and islets, I. ii. II. 1. —of a temple, IV. iii. V. 6.

Pine tree, I. v. V. 4; vii. X. 2: II. iv. V. 1; vii.

III.: IV. ii. IV. 9; V. 6. Pond-weed, I. ii. IV.: IV. ii. III. 2. Poo vegetable, the, III. iii. VII. 3. Pool, the ninth, of the marsh, II. iii. X. —a deep, II. v. III. 4. Pins, hair-, I. iv. III. --water, may be made useful, III. ii. VII. 1. Pint measure, I. x IV. -when a, becomes dry, III. iii. XI. 6. Pitcher and jar, II. v. VIII. 3. Pools, cattle drinking at the, II. iv. VI. 2. Plain in the south, the, I. xii. II. -water flowing from, II. viii. V. 3. -left by floods, I. ii. IV.: III. ii. VII. -in the middle of the, II. v. II. 3. -the, of Chow, III. i. III. 3. Poor, Chung Shan-foo did not insult the, III. iii. of Muh, IV. ii. IV. 2. Plains, and marshes, II. vi. VI. 1; viii. III. 5. Popular saying, a, III. iii. I. 8: II. 1, III. 9; VI. the finest of the, III. i. VII. 6. -duke Lëw surveyed the, III. ii. VI. 2. Population increase of the, II. iv. VI. 4: III. ii. of the far distant borders, IV. ii. I. Plans, recklessness of the king's, II. v. I. Porcelain, whistle, the, II. v. V. 7: III. ii. X. 6. -wisely arranged, II. v. IV. 4: III. iii. III. 8; Post, keeping to one's, in bad times, IL iv. IX.; X Posts and boards in the palace of king Wan, III. IX. 6. far-reaching, III. iii. II. 2: IV. i. [iii.] II. not far-reaching, III. ii. X Posterity, a line of virtuous, III. ii. V. Pounded, feeling as if, II. v. III. 2. Pounding earthen walls, II. iv. V. 3: III. i. III. 6. Plant of forgetfulness, the, I. v. VIII. 4. Plants, divining, I. xiv. IV. -the tae and the lae, II. ii. VII. 1. Poverty of an officer, I. iii. XV. -a person regretting his. I. x. \underline{X} Powers, the, above and below, III. iii. IV. 2. Praise, of duke Wan, I. iv. VI. of a virtuous and intelligent lady, I. xii. IV. Beans,Indigo plant, Poo, -of a virtuous lord, I. xiv. III. Bignonia,Kwei,Pulse, of the duke of Chow, I. xv. IV. to VII. -of the king, II. i. VI.; vi. IX.; vii. VII.; III. ii. Bitter gourd,...Lilies,.....Reeds, Bohmeria,.....Liquorice,....Rush,.... Bottle gourd, ...Lotus,.....Scallions,..... ш.; У. Broussonetia, ... Madder, Sedges. -of feudal princes, II. ii. IX.; vi. X.; vii. I.: IV. Calabash,.....Maize,Sheep's foot, i. [i.] IV. -of officers of king Seuen, II. iii. VII. Cereals,Medallion, Smart-weed, of the ladies and gentlemen of a former time, -of a bride, II. vii. IV. Convolvulus,....Melon,.....Sorrel,..... Creepers,.....Mil'et,.....Southernwood,... Creeping-grass, Mistletoe.....Sowthistle, Cress,Motherwort,Sparrow-gourd, Darnel,Mouse-ear,Thorn-ferns, of king Wan, III. i. I. to VII.: IV. i. [ii.] VII.; [iii.] X.
of king Ke, III. i. VII. Dodder,.....Mugwort,Tribulus,..... -of king Woo. III. i. IX.: IV. i. [i.] VIII.; IX.; [ii.] X.; [iii.] VIII.
-of kings Ching and Kang, IV. i. [i.] IX. Dolichos, Mustard, Valerian, Volets, Violets, Vi Fern.Paddy,W'rPolygonum, of king Chring's officers, III. ii. VIII.
--Odes of Loo, IV. ii. title: Gourds,.....Pea,.....Wheat... Prayer, before a hunting expedition, II. iii. VI. 1. Grain,.....Peony,.... Grapes,Pepper, -for rain, II. vi. VII. : -for the aged. III. ii. II. 4. Plantains (plantaginaceae) I. i. VIII. Playing and singing, I. ix. III. -for the king, II. vii. II. Pleasure, pursuing nothing but, III. iii. II. 3. Pleasure, pursuing nothing but, III. iii. II. 3. Pledging, III. ii. II. 2; See Cup. Pleiades, I. ii. X. 2. Plentiful, See Years, Abundance. Plum-tree, the, I. ii. IX.; XIII.; vi. X. 3; xi. V.; VII.; xii. VI.; xiv. III.; II. ii. VII. 3; v. X. for a good year, III. iii. IV. 6. -king Ching's, to his father, IV. i. [iii.] II.
-of officers of Loo, IV. ii. II. Presenting precious things, the tribes of Hwae, IV. ii. III. 8. Presents, king's, III. iii. VII. 2, 3. Priests, II. vi. V. 4, 5 1. See Sparrow-plum.
—fruit, I. v. X. Prince, a fit mate for a prince, I. i. VII. virtues of a. symbolized by a lin, I. i. XI. I return a, for a peach, III. iii. II. 8. Ploughs, I. xv. I -the harem of a, I, ii, X, -of Twin, I, xi, L; II.; V. Phougheshares, II. vi. VIII. 1: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI. Phoughing, IV. i. [ii.] II.; [iii.] V. -the duties of a, III. iii. II. Potate of the heavens, determining by shadows Princes, wives for young, I. xv. I. 2. -lower garments for, 1, xv. I. 3. tha, 111, ii. VL 5 Person, a rejected wife compared to, I. iii. X. 5. -furs for, I. xv. I. 4. -a pattern for, III. iii. VI. 3. Person its ways, why the paugle enjoy, III. ili. -Ye brilliant and accomplished, IV. i. [i.] IV. -full of harmony and gravity, IV. i. [ii.] VII. 111. 11. Parenty H. iv. IV. 3. Polit, the of a car-carriage, L ai. III.

Lebusa 882

let us, III. iii. IX. 6.

Reverence, of a prince's wife, I. ii. VII. 6.

Reverence, of a prince's wife, I. ii. II.

Reverent watchfulness, would prevent slanders,
II. iii. IX. 3.

—be, III. iii. IX. 1.

—be, III. iii. IX. 1.

—let me be, IV. i. [iii.] II.

Reversed, God has, His usual course, III. ii. X.

Reversed, God has, His usual course, III. ii. X.

Revising the good, III. iii. III. 6.

Revards and punishments, justice of Wooting's, IV. iii. V. 4.

Rhinoceros' horn, I. i. III. 3; xv. I. 5: II. vii. I. 4.

Rhinocerose, horn, I. i. III. 3; xv. I. 5: II. vii. I. 4. Relatives, mean, put into office, II. iv. VII. 4.

—feasting the king's, II. vii. III. iii. II.; III.

—cold treatment of, by the king, II. vii. IX.

—the king's, a fortified wall, III. ii. X. ?

Repetition, assiduous, in teaching, III. iii. X. ?

Repining of soldiers absent from home, I. iii. VI. IX.

Representatives of the dead, II. vi. X.; VI.; vii. VII. ii. III. 3; IV.; X.

Responsibility, shirking, II. iv. X.; Y. I.

Hest, a wife desiring, for her husband, I. ii. VIII.

—the people find, in the king, III. ii. V. 4.

—the people find, in the king, III. ii. V. 4.

—the people find, in the king, III. ii. V. 4.

—the soldier's, I. iii. XVII.

—the soldier's, I. zv. III. iv. II.; IX. 8; X.

Return of a husband, I. vi. III.

Return, when shall we? II. iv. VIII.; IX.

—te us, III. iii. IX. 6.

—te us, III. iii. IX. 6. Regions, the nine, IV. iii. III.; IV. 3, 6.

—Yu arranged the, IV. iii. IV.

Regrets, a wonnan's, I. vii. XIV.

f. III.; iii. XIII. 2; vii. IV.; viii. X.; zi. II.; II.

f. III.; iii. XIII. 2; vii. IV. i; vi. X. 3; vii. IV.

a: III.; iii. VII. 2; IV. i. [ii.] VIII.; ii. IV. 3.

Relations, the superintendent of the ruler's, I.

iz. II.

Relatives, mean, nut into office, II iv. VII. 4. Regathering of the people under king Seuen, II. Accompense, every good deed has its, III. 6.
Recompense, every good deed has its, III. ii. II. 6.
Reed-organ, I. vi. III. v. IV. 2; II. i. IX. 4.
As bundle of, I. v. VII. 1.
—and rushes, I. zi. IV.: II. v. III. 4.
—sedges and, I. zv. I.
Reformation, a call for, III. ii. IX.
Recesses, the, of a large mound, III. ii. VIII.
Recluse, happiness of a, I. v. II.
—contentment of a, I. zii. III. Rebellion plotted against Tsin, I. x. III.

-the duke of Chow on, I. zv. II. Ram, no old without horns, II. vii. VI. 5.

—don't look for horns on a young, III. iii. II. 8.

—sand a bull, IV. i. [i.] VII. 2.

Rams, pure, for victins, II. vi. VII. 2.

Rams, pure, for victins, III. ii. VIII. 1. 2.

Rams, distinguished by robes, I. x. IX.

Ranks for an army, III. iii. IX. 2.

Rate, I. ii. VI. 3; iv. VIII.; ix. VII.: II. iv. V. 3.

Reapers, IV. i. [iii.] V. 5.

Reaping time, I. xv. I. 5.

Reaping time, I. xv. I. 5.

Seaping time, I. xv. I. 4, 7.

—beans, II. vi. III 3.

—soring and, III. iii. III. 6: IV. ii. IV.

Espring and, III. iii. III. 6: IV. ii. IV. Rain, no old without horns, II. vii. VI. 5. 699

Rhinocetoses, hunting, H. iii. VI. 4.

—we are not, H. viii. X. 3.

Rice, L. z. VIII.: IV. i. [ii.] IV.; ii. IV. I.

—coarse and fine, III. iii. XI. 5.

-vind and, I. vii. XVI; zv. II. 2, 8: II. v. VII. I. -genial, II. viii. VIII. 3. -great, II. viii. VIII. 3. Habbit Catcher, praise of a, T. i. VII.

Habbit Net, the, a constellation, the Hyades,
II. r. IX. 6; viii, VIII. 3.

Rafts, I. i. IX.; iii, X. 4.

Rain, good, I. iv. VI. 3.

O for! I. v. VIII. 3.

Of for! I. v. VIII. 3. Rabbit, a single, baked, roasted, or broiled, II. \mathbf{R} Queen, allusions to king Wan's, I. i. II., IV.; V. Cueen, allusions to king Wan's, I. i. II., IV.; V. Quips and jokes, I. v. I. 3. Quiver, IV. i. [i.] VIII.

—of seal-skin, II. i. VII. 5; iii. IV. I. Quails, I. iv. V.; ix. VI. duntters, the four, III. i. Z.; ii. V. 8; VIII. 5, 6; IX. 1, 8; iii. II. 2; IV. 6; V. 1; VI. 8; VIII. 1, IX.; iii. III. VIII. 2; VIII. 2; VIII. 1, IX.; iii. III. —dutles, reverently attend to, IV. i. [ii.] I. Pulse, (a plant), I. zv. I. 6, 7: II. 7. II. 3. —How-tseih's, IV. ii. IV. i. Purification for sacrifice, III. ii. I. 7. -affairs, a woman, has nothing to do with, III. -life, regret at the abandonment of, II. iv. II. Provident arrangements, I. xv. II.

Provident arrangements, I. xv. I.

Provisions, excellent, III. ii. II. 2.

—exhausted, III. ii. X. 5.

—exhausted, III. iii. Y. I.

—of millet, IV. i. [iii.] VI.

Public, fields, and private, II. vi. VIII. 3.

—service, a young soldier on, I. ix. IV.

—service, a no efficer complains of the arduous duties of, II. vi. II.; III.

Julic, Itelas, an officer complains of the arduous duties of, II. vi. II.; III. Proud men, II. v. VI. 5. I. iv. I. Protest of a widow against a second marriage, .õ .X of demeanour, III. ii. III. 4, 5; IX. 8; the rules of, to be observed even by the most frugal, II. viii. VII. Progenitors come and enjoy offerings, II. vi. V. Progress, consultation without, II. v. I. 3.

—making a, IV. i. [i.] VIII.; [iii.] XI.; ii. III. I.

Propriety, a man worthless without, I. iv. VIII.

Propriety, a man worthless without, I. iv. VIII. Private feast, a, II. vi. V. 5.

Brivate feast, a, II. vi. V. 5.

Broclamation, duke Lëw made, III. ii. VI. 2.

Prodigies celestial and terrestrial, II. iv. IX.

Prodigies celestial and terrestrial, III. iii. X. 4.

Profit, three times cent per cent, III. iii. X. 4.

Profit, three times and enjay offerings. II. 4.

Prisons, deemed fit immates for, II. v. II. 5.

T'ang appointed the, IV. iii, III.

Princess, marringe of a, I. ii. I.; XIII.
Princesses of Che, the, III. i. VII. 6: III. i. VII.
8: IV. ii. III. 5.

—drizzling, I. xv. III.: II. vi. VI. 9.
—drizzling, II. iv. VIII. 9.
—prayer for, II. vi. VII. 2; VIII. 3.
—tents falling like, II. vi. III. 1.
Rainbow, I. iv. VII.

—steaming, III. ii. VII. 1. —-fields, II. viii. V. 3. -harvest, I. xv. I. 6. Riches, of Ts'e, I. v. III. and parsimony of Wei, I. ix. I. Ridge, III. ii. VIII. 9; See Heights. Right, and left movements of the princes all proper, II. vi. X. 4. king Wan descended on the, IV. i. [i.] VII. Rings, attached to hounds' necks, I. viii. VIII. gilt, for the traces of a carriage, I. xi. III. attached to reins, III. iii. VII. 2.: IV. i. [ii.] VIII. Rise early and go to bed late, II. v. II. 4: III. iii. II. 4. See Early and Dawn. River, seeking a man up and down a, I. xi. IV. Rivers, hills and, IV. ii. IV. 1. See Proper Names, Ho, Këang, Han, Hwae, King, Wei, Road to Chow, the, II. v. III. 2; VIII. 1, 2.—the great, II. vii. IV. 5; viii. X.4. —the Spirit of the, III. iii. VI. 7; VII. 3.
Roads opened, III. i. III. 8: IV. i. [i.] V.
Robbers, and oppressors, III. ii. IX.; iii. I. 3; Robe, a lady's embroidered, I. v. III. 1. —black of duke Woo of Ching, I. vii. I. —a prince's embroidered, I. xi. V. —a grand-ducal, I. xv. VI.
Robes the upper, I. iii. II.
—officers', I. iii. XII. 4; vi. IX.
—of State, pictured, I. iv. III.
—suits of, I. x. II. of white silk, I. x. III.
not without, I. x. IX.; xi. VIII. clothed in, II. iv. V. 8. -dark-coloured, with the dragon, II. vii. VIII. 1; III. iii. VII. 2. Rocks, white, I. x. III.
—masses of, II. iv. VII. 1.
—frowning, II. viii. VIII.
Rock and II. Rock-covered hill tops, II. v. VII. 3. Roofs of houses, I. xv. I. 7. Root, the with its three shoots, (the last king of Hea), IV. iii. IV. 6. Roots removing, IV. i. [iii.] V. Rope-rush, steeping the, I. xii. IV. Ropes of grass, I. xv. I. 7.

—boat-, II. vii. VIII. 5. -to bind horses, IV. i. [ii.] IX. Rouge, I. iii. XIII.

—used by the prince of Ts'in, I. xi. V. Round and round, I. x. V.
Royal House, the, I. i. X.
—marriage of a princess of, I. ii. XIII. -domain, I. vi. title.: IV. iii. III. domain, an officer decides to return to the, II. iv. III. Rud, a fish, I. xv. VI. 1. Ruin, a bad man going to, I. xii. VI.: III. iii. II. 4. —coming on the kingdom, II. iv. VII.; VIII.; IX.; X.: III. iii. I. 6; III. and disorder, III. ii. X. 5. Ruler, the, of horses, an object of worship, II. iii. VI. 1. -a righteous and an unrighteous, III. iii. III. 8. Heaven takeld the, III. iii. VI. 1. God raised up a, III. i. VII. God the, of men, III. iii. I. 1. Rush the white-flowered, H. viii. V. Rush-mat, H. iv. V. 6. Rushes, L. a. XIV. 1; xv. H. 3; H. vii. VII. 3. mby the way site, III. if. If. 1.

—and sedges, I. v. III. 4.
—reeds and, I. xi. IV.: II. v. III. 4.
—and lotus plants, I. xii. X.

S

Sacks, grain in, III. ii. VI. 1. Sacrifice, I. ii. II.; IV.: II. iii. VI. 1; vi. V. to VIII.: III. i. VII. 8; ii. I.; iii. IV.; VI. 7; VII. 8: IV. i. [i.] III.; [ii.] IV.; VII.; VIII.; ii. IV. 3; iii. I.; II. victims for, II. iv. VI. 2; v. V. 7: III. i. V. 4; Sacrificial millet, I. vi. I.; x. VIII.: II. vi. V. 1; VI. 3: IV. ii. IV. 1. services, II. vi. V.
Odes of Chow, IV. i. title. Odes of Shang, IV. iii. title. Sad condition of the State of Ching, I. vii. XI. Sadness, I. v. IX.; vi. I. See Heart. Sages, wise plans of the, II. v. IV. 4.

—there are no, III. ii. X. 1.

Sandal trees, I. vii. II.; ix. VI.: II. i. IX. 3; iii.

X.: III. i. II. 8.

Sandal blower a lend of fact. II. ii. III. 1 Sand-blower, a kind of fish, II. ii. III. 1. Sashes, of brides, I. xv. III. 4. Satiated with kindness, III. ii. III. 1. Satirizing a marriage, I. iii. XVIII. —parsimony, I. ix. I. Sauces, II. vii. VI. 1: III. ii. II. 2; iii. VII. 3. Saying, an ancient, III. ii. X. 3.

—a popular, III. iii. I. 8; II. 1; III. 9; VI. 5, 6.
Scabbard, gemmed, of the king, II. vi. IX. 2. duke Lëw's ornamented, III. ii. VI. 2. Scallions, I. xv. I. 8. Sceptre, a great, III. iii. V. 5. the large, of his rank, III. iii. VII. 2. Sceptres to play with, sons shall have, II. iv. V.8. Scholar venting his pride, a, I. ix. III. 1. Scorning a scorner, I. vii. XII. Scorpion's tail, hair like a, II. viii. I. 4,5. Scoundrels believed, II. v. IV. 3. Screen of bamboos, a, I. viii. X.: II. iii. IV. 1: III. iii. VII. 2. Screens, the great States are, III. ii. X. 7. and buttresses, the feudal chiefs are, II. vii. L -Foo and Shin are, to all the States, III. iii. V. 1. Sea, the court of the, II. iii. IX. 1. —the southern, III. iii. VIII. 3.
—the States along the, IV. ii. IV. 6,7.
Seas, the four, IV. iii. III.—all within the, IV.
iii. IV. 2. Seal-skin quivers, II. i. VII. 5; iii. IV. 1. Searching for a man up and down a river, I. xi. Seasons, the four, II. i. VI. 4; v. X. Sedges, I. vi. IX .- and reeds, I. xv. I Seduction a young lady resists, I. ii. XII. —a woman bemoans, I. v. IV. Seed, selecting the, II. vi. VIII. 1. Self-cultivation of duke Woo, I. v. I. Self-possessed officers, I. ii. VII. Self-suilleient, don't be. III. iii. II. 10,11 Semi-circular water, pleasant is the, IV. ii. III. Separation of soldiers from their families, I. iii.
VI.; vi. IV.; II. i. VII.
—of husband and wife, I. iii. VIII.; vi. V.
—from brothers and parente, I. iv. VII.
—from kin, I. vi. VII.

```
Sizer, I. iii. XIV. 2; v. III. 4.
Site of the capital of Chow, III. i. X.

—T'an-foo looked out for a, III. i. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                           —of sorrow, II. viii, V. 3.
—and dancing, II. vii. IV. 3.
—to admonish by, I. xii. VI.
—to lutes, III. ii. II. 2.
—of luffs, I. i. II. 1; iii. VII. 4; VIII. 2; IX. 2, 8: xx. I.
      Sorrow, of an officer, I. iii. I.; XV.

Sorrow, of an officer, I. iii. I.; XV.

of a mother, I. iii. VII.

at the departure of the duke of Chow from the east, I. xv. VI.

caused by the minister of War, II. iv. I.

of the people, III. ii. IX. See Heart.

of the people, III. ii. IX. See Heart.
                                                                                                                                                            Silken string, the, of a bow, III. iii. II. 9.
Simple-looking lad, a, I. v. IV. I.
Singing and whistling, a sign of satisfaction, I.
ii. XI.
                                                        Songs, responding in, I. zii. IV.
Sorrel, I. iz. II.
                                                                                                                                                               -I have made this, II. v. V. 8: III. iii. III. 16;
V. 8; VI. 8.
      Song, my few verses in prolongation of your, III. ii. VIII. 10.
    —on Heaven. Ose nearen.

Sons, seven, blaming themselves for their mother's sorrow, I. iii. Y III.

—and daughters, the auspicious intimations, and diff. lot of, II. iv. V. 7, 8, 9.

—train and teach your, II. v. II. 8.

—of the East, and of the West, II. v. IX. 4.

—and grandsons, II. vi. V. 6: IV. i. [iii.] V.

—and grandsons, II. vi. V. 6: IV. i. [iii.] V.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Sifting grain, III. ii. I. 7.
                                                                   See Heaven,
                                                                                                           of Heaven.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           .7 .XI
                                                                                                                                                          Shouting and brawling, II. vii. VI. 4.

Shouting and brawling, II. i. III. 6.

—of workmen, III. iii. I. 5.

Shrike, the, I. xv. I. 3.

Shrine, of king Woo, IV. i. [ii.] VIII.; [iii.] II.

Sickles, IV. i. [ii.] I.

   Solitary, alas! for the helpless and, II, iv. VIII, 18; v. II, 5.

—the king, III, ii, X. 7: IV, i. [iii,] I.
Son of a marquis married, the, I. ii, XIII.
—Oh! my, III, II, 10, 12,
—of Heaven, See Heaven
                               misery and murmuring of, II. viii. X.
                                                -cheerful alacrity of, II. viii. III.
                                                                                                                          ίν. Į.
                                                                                                                                                          Sheepskins, I., v.H.,
Sheep's-foot, a plant, II. iv. IV. 2.
Sheep's-foot, a plant, II. iv. IV. 3.
Shells on vermilion-strings, IV. ii. IV. 5.
Shells on vermilion-strings, IV. ii. IV. 5.
Shields, IV. i. [i.] VIII.
—dragon-figured, and feather-figured, I. xi. III.
—of duke Lew, III. ii. VI. 1.
Shouten of dolichos, I. viii. VI. 2; ix. I.: II.
v. IX. 2.
Shouting and brawling. II. vii. VI. 2.
    complaint of, against the minister of War, II.
    Soldiers, separation of, from their families, I. iii. VII. VII.
                                                                                                                   Xv. III.
   —every, and word correct, II. vi. V. S.
Snow, I. iii. XVI.: II. i. VII. 6; VIII. 4; vi. VI.
2; vii. III. 3; IX. 7, 8.
Social life, the duties of, IV. i. [i.] X.
Soldier's thought of home, a, I. ix. IV.; x. VIII.;
X, III.
 —on an old friend, II. v. VI.

—an ennuch suffering from, II. v. VI.

—of women and ennuchs, III. iii. X. 4.

Sleep, death spoken of as, I. vi. VI.

Sleep on couches, sons, but daughters, on the ground, II. iv. V. 8, 9.

Sleet and snow, II. vii. III. 3.

Slopes, those eastern, III. ii. VIII. 9.

Sold-adorned, II. iii. V. 4.

Sold-adorned, II. iii. VIII. 9.

Sold-shorned, II. iii. VIII. 9.

Smartweed, IV. i. [iii.] VI.

Smartweed, IV. i. [iii.] VI.

Smartweed, IV. i. [iii.] VI.
                                                                                                                                                                     Sheep, and lambs, killing, I. xv. I. 8.

—herds of, II. iv. VI.

—for sacrifice, II. vi. V.: IV. iii. VII.

—and oxen protected How-tseih, III. ii. I. 8.

Sheepskins, I. ii. VII.

Sheepskins, I. ii. VII.

Sheepskins, I. ii. VII.
                                                                                                                                                                                    Shaking with terror, III. iii. IX. 3.
Shameful things in a harem, I. iv. II.
Sheaves, three millions of, I. ix. VI.
—collecting, I. xv. I. 7: IV. i. [iii.] VI.
—ungathered, II. vi. VIII. 3.

1 xv. I. viiing I. 3.
                                -appeal to Heaven against, II. v. IV.
                                                                                                                                                          Shadows, determining the points of the heavens by, III. ii. VI. 5.
 Slanders, against giving ear to, I. x. XII.: II. iii. IX. 7; X. 4; v. III.; vii. V.: III. iii. X. 4; XI. 3.
                                                                                                                                                          Shade, the, wide of a mulberry tree, III. iii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      iii. X. 3.
 Skirts, gathering seeds in, I. i. VIII. 3.
—embroidered, I. xv. VI. I.
Slab of stone, Paou-sze compared to a thin, II.
viii. V. 8.
                                                                                                                                                           -relative importance of the, II. iv. V. 9: III.
                                                                                                                                                          Sexes, estimate of immorality in the two, L.v. IV. 8.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                       -orders of nobility I. x. IX.
                                                                                                                                                          — mil are the king's II. vi. I. I. Service, incessant, II. viii. X. — reverence in the, IV. iii. I. Settlement of Pin, the, III. ii. VI. 5,6. Settlement of Pin, their mother's sorrow, I. iii. Material sorrow, I. iii.
 of white foxes, red panthers, and yellow grisly bears, III. iii. VII. 6.
                                     Skin of a rat, the, I. iv. VIII.
Skins, lambs' and sheeps', I. ii. VII.
Six reins, the, II. i. III.

—orders of nobility, I. x. IX.

—hosts of the king, III. i. IV. 3; iii. IX. I.

—days, a husband absent for, II. viii. II. 2.

Sixth month, an expedition starts in the, II. iii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                         Serpents, on a banner, See Bann
—dreaming about, II. iv. V. 6.7.
Servants, I. i. III. 4: II. vi. V. 5.
—hired, IV. i. [iii.] V.
—plenty of, III. ii. II. 2.
—nll are the king's II vi I I See Banner.
```

*****,

South, tribes of the, IV. ii. III. 6.—the hordes of the, III. iii. II. 1. —in the, is the barbel, II. V. 1, 2.
—an expedition to the, II. iii. IV.; viii. III. -a ridge on the, III. ii. VI. 3. -the States of the, II. v. X. 6: III. iii. V.; IX South-lying acres, I. xv. I. 1: II. vi. VII. 1, 3; VIII. 1, 4: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI. Southern Sieve, a constellation, II.v. VI. 2: IX. 7.—sea, III. iii. VIII. 3.—metals, IV. ii. III. 8. Southernwood, I. i. IX.; ii. II.; xiv. IV.; xv. I.: II. l. I. 2; ii. IX.; vi. III. 3.—offering, with fat, III. ii. I. 7. -oxtail-, I. vi. VIII. –aster-, II. iii. II. different kinds of, II. v. VIII. 1, 2. Sovereign, a true, III. i. X. —the duty of a, III. ii. VII. —alas! you, of Yin-Shang, III. iii. I. —the last, of Hëa, III. iii. I. 8. -truly is the king the, -lord, IV. i. [i.] VIII. - -king, IV. i. [ii.] VIII. Sovereigns, the virtuous of old, II. vi. IV. -the three, in heaven, III. i. IX. 1.
-our two, IV. i. [i.] VI.
Sowing, II. vi. VIII. 1: III. iii. III. 6: IV. i.
[ii.] II.: [iii.] V.; VI.; ii. IV. 1. -neither, nor reaping, I. ix. VI Sow-bug, in chambers, I. xv. III. 2. Sowthistle, I. iii. X.; x. XII. 2: III. i III. 3. Sparrow, I. ii. VI. Sparrow-plum, the, I. ii. XIII.; xi. VII.; xv. I. 6. Sparrow-gourd, the, I. v. VI.
Spears, I. vii. V.; xi. VIII.: II. iv. VII. 8: III.
ii. VI. 1; IV. i. [i.] VIII.; ii. IV. 5.
Speech, the artful, II. iv. X. 5. -without action, II. v. I. 3. -elegance of, II. viii. I. 1. -be cautious in, III. iii. II. 5, 6. Sphex, the, II. v. II. 3. Spider's web, I. xv. III. 2. Spike, worn at the girdle, I. v. VI. 1. Spinner, the, an insect, I. xv. I. 5. Spirning and weaving, I. xv. I. 3. Spirit, the Father of husbandry, the, II. vi. VIII. 2, -of the Path, the, III. ii. I. 7; iii. VI. 7; VII. 3. —no, not honoured, III. iii. IV. 2. the mountains sent down a, III. iii. V. 1. Spirits,-spiritual beings, hearken to him who cultivates friendship, II. i. V. 1 -come and confer blessings, II. i. VI. 5; vi. V. -hearken to those who love the correct and upright, II. vi. III. 4, 5. -representatives of, eating and drinking, II. vi. V. of the land, and of the four quarters, II. vi. VII. 2; VIII. 1: III. iii. IV. 6. great altar to the, of the land, set up, III. i. cheered and encouraged by the, III. i. V. 5. had no occasion for complaint or dissatisfaction, 111. i. VI. 2 the host of all the, III. ii. VIII. 3. the approaches of, cannot be calculated beforehand, III. iii. II. 7. -reverent to the intelligent, III. iii. IV. 6. the, are not bleying, III. iii. X. 5. such has attracted and given rest to all, IV. i. [1] VIII. S, into ordent, and visude, I. v. H.: II. vii. III.; IV. s., w. VIII. 12; vi. V. 1: III. ii. IV.

-making and drinking, I. xv. I. 6, 8: II. vi. VI. 3. -straining, II. i. V. 2, 3. -good and abundant, II. ii. III. 1, 2, 3; V. -and food, daughters have only to think of, II. iv. V. 9.
-presents of, II. v. IX. 5. -sacrificing with, II. vi. V.; VI.: IV. i. [ii.] IV.; ſiii. | V -good and soft, II. vii. I. 4: IV. i. [iii.] VII. _mild and good, II. vii. VI. 1. -pouring out a cup of, II. viii. VII. -clear (yellow liquid), III. i. V. 2, 4: IV. iii. II. -sweet and strong, III. ii. II. 4. -drinking to the full, III. ii.III. See Drinking.
-pouring into a calabash, III. ii. VI. 4.
-the king's face flushed with, III. iii. I. 5. -besotted by, III. iii. II. 3. a hundred vases of clear, III. iii. VII. 3. -herb-flavoured, from black millet, III. iii. VIII. 5. -sweet, IV. i. [ii.] IV.; [iii.] V.
-drinking the good, IV. ii. III. 3.
Spirits (animal), full of, III. ii. VIII. 2.
Spokes, wood for, I. ix. VI.
-aids for, II. iv. VIII. 9, 10.
Spoons of thermound II. v. IV. 1 Spoons, of thorn-wood, II. v. IX. 1. Sport, do not make, III. ii. X. 4, 8. Spring, thoughts natural to the, I. ii. XII.—the approach of, I. xv. I.: II. i. VIII. 6.—it is now the end of, IV. i. [ii.] I. and autumn sacrifices, IV. ii. IV. 3. Spring of water, I. iii. XIV. 1: II. v. X. 5. -cool I. iii. VII. 3; xiv. IV.: II. v. IX. 3. -a stream flowing from a, II. v. I. 5. -nothing deeper than a, II. v. III. 8. -water, bubbling up; from a, II. vii. VIII. 2: III. iii. X. 7. —surely as the water flows from a, III. iii. II. 4. —when a, becomes dry, III. iii. XI. 6. Springs and streams, II. viii. III. 5: III. ii. VI. 5. and pools, III. i. VII. 6. -the hundred, III. ii. VI. 3. Sprinkle and sweep, III. iii. II. 4. Spuds and hoes, IV. i. [ii.] I. Stable, a, II. vii. II. 3, 4. Stack yard, II. v. II. 5. Stacks, III. ii. I. 6. in a kitchen garden I. xv. I. 7,8.
-tens of myriads of, II. vi. V. 1.: IV. i. [iii.] V. like islands and mounds, II. vi. VII. 4. Stags, II. iii. VI. 2; v. III. 5.
Stain, king Wan without, III. i. VI. 4.
Stairs, IV. i. [iii.] VII.
Stalks of grain, IV. i. [iii.] V.
Stallions, IV. ii. I.
Stand, a large, IV. ii. I.
Stand, of weatherware for Stands of wood and earthenware for offerings, III. ii. 1. 7. Star, the morning-, I. vii. VIII.; xii. V.

—the Fire-, I. xv. I.

Stars, I. ii. X.; iv. VI. 1: II. v. IX.: III. iii. IV.8.

—on a cap, I. v. I. 2.

—the Three, I. x. V.: II. viii. IX. 3.

Star-light, I. iv. VI. 3. State, the great, i. c., Ts'e, I. iv. X. 4. -a virtuous man rectifies the, I. xiv. III. -ministers the foundation and light of the, II. ii. VII. -worn out in the service of the, II. vi. I. 4. -a large, (Sin), III. l. II. 1,5. -an interior, IV. ii. IV. 1. ; -God raised up the, III. i. VII. J.

-with assiduous repetition, III. iii. II. 11. -an inferior asking, from his superiors, II. viii. Tamariz, the, III. i. VII. 2.
Target, I. viii, XI.; II. vii. VI. I.
Tassels, vermilion, IV. ii. IV. 5.
Toaching a monkey to climb trees, II. vii. IX.6. Tall and large, a beautiful lady who was, I. v. -against believing people's, I. vii. XVIII. -how to stop dascless, II. iii. IX. Talk, a lady attaid of, L. vii. II. Talent. early kings attended to the education of, II, iii, II, Tail, the, of a bird, all broken, I. zv. II. 3.

of a wolf, I xv. VII. AIII' T Tablets, orders of the king written on, II. i. Tablet of Woo-ting, the tranquil abode of the, IV. iii. V. 6. Sympathy, an officer complains of want of, III. Swearing, by the sun, I. vi. IX. See Sweep your court-yard, III. iii. II. 4. Sweet rain II. vi. VII. 2. Sword, III. ii. VI. V. See Outh. Surnames, all the hundred, II. i. VI. 5.
Surveying, I. iv. VI.: III. ii. VI. 5.
Surveyor, the, of the fields, II. vi. VII. 8; VIII.4.
Surveyor, they of the fields, II. vi. VII. 8; VIII.4.
Swallow, Heaven commissioned the, IV. iii. III. Surname, none like those of one's own, I. x. VI. Surmises, na to the death of two youths, I. iii. -are the bonds of the social state, III. iii. III. 3. -my, III. iii. IV. 3.

28

Terrors, Heaven arrayed in angry, III. iii. XI. I. Terbering by the foot, II. iv. II.

Terror, of king Seuen in time of drought, III. iii, IV. 3.

iii. IV. 3.

inspired by the march of troops, III. iii, IX. 3.

inspired by the march of troops, III. iii, IX. 3.

great and glorious, III. ii. VIII. 3. and fields of Shin, III. iii. V. 3. of Loo, IV. ii. IV. 2.

-elephants', IV, ii. III. 8.

—a child's, with hoary hair, IV, ii. IV. 8.

Temple, the, of a prince. I. ii. II.

—the middle path of a, I. zii. VII.

—vancestral, II. x. IV. 4; vi. V.; III. i. III. 5;

VI. 3; ii. IV.

—of Chow, the, IV. ii. IV. ii. IV. Ii. IV. 1,8.

Temples, the solemn, the new, IV. ii. IV. 1,8.

Temples, the solemn, the new, IV. ii. IV. 1,8.

Temples, the solemn, the new, IV. ii. IV. 1,8.

Ten phones, the solemn, the new, IV. ii. IV. 1,8.

Ten phones, the solemn, the new, IV. ii. IV. 1,8.

Tentions and men, IV. ii. III.

Tentions the, IV. iii. III.

Tentions, the, IV. iii. III.

Tentions, the, IV. iii. III.

Tentions, the, IV. iii. III. Territory, duke Lew's, broad and long, III. ii. Tenm, See Horses.

Teams, See Horses.

Tears falling, IV. i. [ii., IV. 8; IX. 1; vi. III. 1.

Teeth, the, of a rat, I. ii. VI. 8; iv. VIII.

—elephants, IV. ii. III. 8.

— proprietal and the statement of the st

TOL IT. Thirties, varile arranged in, acording to colour, Superior men, neglected, II. iv. VII. 4. intercourse with, III. iii, II. 7. Thence, II. [ii.] IV. i. [ii.] IV.
Thinch, II. vi. VII. i.
Thirderes, ravaining. II. vi. X. t.
ii. the court of Yin, III. iii. I. 3.
Thimbles howstring., II. iii. V. 5.
Thirdes, cattle arranged in, acording to 6; IX. 1; vi. III. 2; 3 Superintendent of Works, III. i. III. 5. dignity conferred on, IV. i. [i.] IV.

dignity conferred on, IV. i. III. I.

Suite, of an envoy, II. i. III. I.

of the duke of Sung, IV. ii. IX.

Sunnier, the fourth month comes, II. v. X. I.

—in the fourth month comes, II. v. X. I.

—in the fourth month comes, II. v. X. I.

—as sacrifice in, IV. iii. I.

Sun, I. iii. XIII. 1; iv. VI. 1; v. VIII. 3; vi. IX.

II. vii. IX. 7. 8.

—and moon, I. iii I. 5; IV.; VIII. 3; II. iv. VI.

—and moon, I. iii I. 5; IV.; VIII. 3; II. iv. VII. 3; VIII. 3; V Sturgeon, I. v. III. 4: II. v. Z. 7: IV, ii. VI. Sturgeon, I. v. III. 4: II. v. X. 7: IV, ii. VI. Suburban region, II. i. VIII. 2. Success of king Woo, IV. iii. V. 2. Successful, Tang the, IV. iii. V. 2. III. i. IX. III. i. IX. III. i. IX. Stupid mon and a wise, a, III. iii. II. 1, 9, II; III, 10, Study the former kings, III. iii. II. 3. Strong and oppressive, Chung Shan-foo does not fear the, III. iii. VI. 5.

steed, Tang supported the States as a, IV. iii.
IV. 5. Soing over hills and, II. viii. VIII.

Streemers, white, II. iii. III. 4.

Streemers, wii. III.

Streets, I. vii. III. Stream, happiness like a, II. it. VI. Stream, happiness like a, II. iv. X. 5.

—going to rain like a, II. iv. X. 5.

—rolling like a, III. iii. IX. 5.

Streams, overflowing, II. iv. IX. 3.

—dried up, III. iii. IV. 4.

—dried up, III. iii. VII. 5.

—edried up, III. iii. VII. 5. Stream, handiness like at II. ii. VI. 3.

Stools, III. ii. II. 1. 2; VI. 4.

Stools, III. ii. II. 1. 2; VI. 4.

Story, the, of the duke Lew, III. ii. VI. 3.

Strangers, booths for, III. ii. VI. 3.

Strangers, hooths for, III. ii. VI. 3. Steward, the, of the chief of Shin, III. iii. V. 3. Sting of a wash, the, IV. i. [iii.] IV. Stone, the mind not a, I. iii. I. 3. — Erlind-, II. iii. X. I. — Erlind-, II. iii. X. I. — Erlind-, II. vi. IV. 4: IV. i. IX.; ii. V. — sounding-, II. vi. IV. 4: IV. i. IX.; ii. V. —the attached, of Loo, IV. ii. IV. 3, 6, 7.
—the attached, of Loo, IV. ii. IV. 1.
— exterior great, IV. iii. IV. 2, 4, 5.
—small and large, IV. iii. IV. 2, 4, 5.
Statutes, of king VVan, IV. i. [i.] III.; V.
Stave-tree, the III. i. VII. 2.
Stope, of dissatisfaction, III. iii. III. 3.
Stope, of dissatisfaction, III. iii. III. 3. -good and bad princes of the, III. iii. VI. 4. -of the North, III. iii. VII. 6. -the centre of all the, III. i. VII. 6; ii. IX. 3.

the great, are sereens, III. ii. X. 7.

-sereens of all the, III. iii. V. 1. 9; III. 9; IV the lords of the various, II. iv. X. 2.

of the East, II. v. IX. 2.

of the South, II. v. X. 6: III. iii. V.; IX.

of the South, II. v. X. 6: III. iii. V.; IX. —the king's, III. iii. VIII. 2.3.

—our complete, IV. î. [i.] III.

—the glory of the, IV. î. [iii.] V.

States, the fendal, I. xiv. IV.; II. vii. I. 2; III.

—the four, I. xv. IV.; II. iii. VIII. 6.

—the four, I. xv. IV.; III. iii. VIII. 6.

—the nyrtad, II. iv. VII. 10.

—the nyrtad, II. iv. VII. 10. Thirty le, IV. i. [ii.] II. -thousand footmen, IV. ii. IV. 5. Thorns, I. i. IX. 2; vi. IV.; vii. XVIII. x. V.; XI.; —the arrow-, III. i. V. 1. Thorn-ferns, II. i. VII.; v. X. 8. Thorn-wood, spoons of, II. v. IX. 1. Thorny bushes, II. vi. V. 1. Thoughtfulness about horses, IV. ii. I. Thousand chariots, a, IV. ii. IV. 5. -le, IV. iii. III. Thousands of pairs, IV. i. [ii.] II.; [iii.] V. Three Stars, the, I. x. V.: II. viii. IX. 3.—thousand horses and mares, I. iv. VI. 3. -years of oppression, I. ix. VII. of absence from home, I. xv. III. 3. -hundred farms, and round bins, I. ix. VI. -ornaments of of a fur-dress, I. vii. VI. 3. ministers of Hwang-foo, II. iv. IX. 6.
high ministers, II. iv. X. 2.
aged ministers, IV. ii. IV. 4. -sovereigns in Heaven, III. i. IX. 1. -troops, III. ii VI. 5. -cups, II. vii. VI. 5. -creatures for sacrifice, II. v. V. 7. Threefold labours of husbandry, the, III. iii. Three-year-olds, I. ix. VI. Throat and tongue, be the king's, III. iii. VI. 3. Thunder, I. ii. VIII; iii. V. —the onset of battle like, II. iii. IV. 4. —lightning and, II. iv. IX. 3. —I feel the peril like, III. iii. IV. 3. -terrified by invasion as by, III. iii. IX. 3. Tiger, I. iii. XIII.; vii. IV.: III. iii. VII. 5. attacking a, II. v. I. 6. Tiger's skin, a mat of, I. xi. III. —a bow-case of, I. xi. III. -a leaning-board covered with, III. iii. VII. 2. Tigers, wolves and, II. v. VI. 6. -we are not, II. viii. X. 3. -officers like raging, III. iii. IX. 4: IV. ii. Tiles, ornamental, I. xii. VII. -to play with, daughters shall have, II. iv. V. Time, I was born in an unhappy, III. iii. III. 4. —of shaking and peril, IV. iii. IV. 7. __dark, and clear, IV. i. [iii.] VIII.
'Times, the disorder of the, II. iii. IX.; iv. VII;
VIII.; IX.; X.; v. I.; II.; IV.; IX.; X.; III. ii.
IX.; X.; iii. III.; X. Ting, a space in the heavens, I. iv. VI. 1. Tithes, paying. II. vi. VII. 1. Toc-print, a, made by God, III. ii. I. 1. Tokens of rank, IV. iii. IV. 4. Tombs, I. x. XI. -the gate of the. L xii. VL Tongue, words that come only from the, II. iv. X. 5. -no one can hold my, for me, III. iii. II. 6. -be the king's throat and, III. iii. VI. amischief of a long, III, iii, X, 3, Torch, the, in the court-yard, H. iii. VIII. Tornal's, H. v. VII, 2. Torrower, large, IV, n. III. s. on Lamers, Se Hanner. Testalse-shell, dismetten by, I. v. IV. 2: II. i. IX. 1; v. L.o. III. 1, III. 2; X. 7. Toker, the New, Latt. XVIII. established NVHd eta XIX. Remove it a vestiliant le Mi III,

Trade, enormous profit in, III. iii. X. 4. Trains of gourds, long, III. i. III. Travellers, between Loo and Ts'e, I. viii. X. Travelling, through the country, II. iv. IV.; V. See Progress, Trays, II. vi. V. 3. Treading out grain, III. ii. I. 7. Treatment, bad of a wife, I. iii. IV.; V. Tree, like a ruined, II. v. III. 5. "when a tree falls &c.," (a popular saying),
III. iii. I. 8. Tree-clad hill, I. ix. IV. Tree-grub, the, I. v. III. 2.
Trees, I. i. II. 1; IV.; IX.; iii. VI.: II. ii. V. 3;
v. VII. 3: IV. ii. III. 8. -fallen, III. i. VII. 2.
-felling, II. i. V.; v. III. 7: III. i. VII. 2: IV.
ii. IV. 9; V. 6.
-perched on, II. v. II. 6. of soft wood, II. v. IV. 5. the e, the tung, and the tsze, I. iv. VI.1: II. ii. IX. 4. -the k'aou and the nëw, I. x. II.: II. ii. VII. 4. the kow and the yu, II. ii. VII. 5. the tsze, Π . v. ΠI . 3. —the e, II. v. X. 8.
—the yih, III. i. III. 8; IV. 1; V. 5; VII. 3.
—the p'oh, III. i. IV. 1. See Arrow-thorn,Oaks, Carambola,.....Papaya,.... Cedar,Paper-mulberry, Cherry,Peach,.... Chestnut,Pear, Cypress,Pine, Elm,Plum, Fetid tree,Sandal,.... Fir, Stave-tree, Hazel, Tamarix,
Hedge-tree, Thorn,
Jujuhe, Varnish-tree, Medlar,.....Willow,.... Mulberry, Trial, on account of refusing to marry. I. ii. VI. Tribes, savage, of King, II. iii. IV. 4: IV. ii. IV. 5 ; iii. V. of the Hwae, III. iii. VIII.; IX.: IV. ii. III. 5, 7, 8; IV. 6, 7. of the West and North. IV. ii. IV. 5. See Wild. and in Index, II., Heen-yun, Jung, Man, Mih. Tribulus, growing on walls, I. iv. II. -on the ground, II. vi V. 1. Tribute, Tang received the, IV. iii. IV. 5. Trident-spears, I xi. III. Tripe, III. ii, II. 2. Tripods, and pans. I. ii. 1V. 2. - large and small, IV. iii. VII. Troops, nurmaring of, I. vi. IV. -despatch of, to the north, II. i. VII. - return of II. i. VIII.: IX. -of Yin-shang, in the wilderness of Mah, III. L II. 7: IV. ii. IV. 2. – of king Wan, III. i. VII. 5, 6. – three, III. ii. VI. 5. -marching of, III. iii. VIII. 1: IX. 2, 3. Trunks, dead, and fallen trees, III. i. VII. 2. Tube, and reed, I. iii. XVII. 2. Turth, roast, II, in III, 6; III, in VII, 5, turth show, L al., III. So hore. Turth short ferry, L is III, II, v. X. I way outlies the death of Talle XIX.

2.7

-characteristics of, III. iii. II. Lot king Wan, III. i. L to X.: IV. i. [i.] I.; II.; III.; V.; VII. cultivate your, III. i. 6. -of king Wan's father and mother, III. i. II. 2; VII. 4. bad times, II. v. II. .of a bride, II. vii. IV. 1V. 4.

To good, II. vii. IV.; III. 4, 5, 6; vii. III.

To good, II. vii. IV. 3.

To good, II. vii. IV. 3.

Vice, and beauty contrasted, I. iv. III. 4, 5, 6; vii. III.

To good, II. vii. IV. 3.

Vice, and beauty contrasted, I. iv. III. 1.

Victims, I have grudged no, III. iii. IV. 1.

Victims, red and black, II. vi. VIII. 4.

Victories, three in one day, II. iv. VIII. 4.

Victories, three in one day, II. iv. VIII. 4.

Victories, three in one day, II. iv. VIII. 4.

Victories, III. iv. VII. 3.

Victory, of king Van's bride, I. iv. II. IV.; V.:

Virtue of king Van's bride, I. iv. III. 1.

Virtue of king Van's bride, I. iv. II. 1.

Of the women about the Han, I. i. IX.

—of the family of king Van's Li. IV.; V.:

—of the women about the Joo, I. i. X.

—of the women about the Joo, I. i. X.

—of the women about the Joo, I. i. X.

—of a lady of Ch'in, I. xii. IV.

—of a lady of Ch'in, I. iii. VIII.

—of a lady of Ch'in, I. xii. IV.

—of a lady of Ch'in, I. ii. Xii. IV.

—of a lady of Ch'in, I. ii. Xii. IV. See Luxuriance.

See Luxuriance.

Verses, I have made these few, III. ii. VIII. 10.

Vessels, drawing water with. III. ii. VIII. 3.

Visades, II. i. V. 2; iv. VIII. 12; vi. V. 1: III. ii.

VI. III. IV. 4; iii. VII. 3: IV. I. [iii.] V.; ii.

IV. 4.

IV. 4.

To dund abundant. II. ii. III. 4, 5, 6; vii. III. Vegetable, the poo-, III. iii. VII. 3. Vegetables, I. iii. X. 6: III. iii. VII. 3. Vegetation, luxuriant, I. xiv. II. Vapours, rising in the morning, L. xiv. II.

Vase a gilded, L. i. III. 2.

—washing a spirit., III. ii. VII. 2.

Vases, a hundred, of spirits, III. iii. VII. 3.

Vases, a hundred, of spirits, III. iii. VII. 3. Valour of Tang, IV. jii. IV. 5. Vanity of a ruler of Kwei, L. xiii. L. Vanitsh-1929, the, L. iv. VI. 1; x. II.; xi. I. .III. iii. III. ggral out mort sends wind iii. III. Valley, careful as on the brink of a, II. v. II. 6. Valerian, I. vii. XXL; xii. X. Useful, unlikely things may be made. III, ii. TII. Paide down, putting on clothes, L vill. V Unlawful connection, an. I. vil. XX. .5 .V .ir .II knieuoo ban--paternal and maternal, invited to a feast. II, i. Uncles, the king's, III, iii, V. 5, 74 IV, ii, IV, 2, Uncles, I, iii, XII, 3, 4; vii, XI.

—Mas done its work, H. iv. X. 4.

—Mas done its work, H. iv. X. 4.

—Aparatus of, HI. i. VII. 8.

Warriage, I. zi. HI. 56. Chardot.

Warlike spirit of Ts'in, I. zi. VIII.

—preparations of laing Wan, III. i. VII. 5,6.7.

—preparations of laing Wan, III. i. VII. 5,6.7.

—onergy of laing Senen, III. iii. IX. 4.

Warnings to king Le, III. iii. IX. 4.

Warnings to king Le, III. iii. IX. 4.

Warnings to king Le, III. iii. IX. 4.

Warnings in king Le, III. iii. I.

Warnings in king Le, III. iii. IX. 4. linister of, II. iv. L War, keeping up the exercises of, L zv. L 4: III. iii. II. 4. L xii. IL Wanton associations of young people of Ch'in, Wanderer, a, from Chow, I. vi. VII.
Wanderings, Great Heaven is with you in all your, III. ii. X. 8. Valley of the Lat. Tr. L [m.] Vr. L. — old. L. iv. Vr. 2. — old. L. iv. Vr. 2. — old. L. iv. Vr. 2. — of Fung. III. i. VII. 2; iv. V. III. i. VII. 6. — of Fung. III. i. X. — of Fung. III. i. X. — of the city of Han, III. iii. VII. 6. — of the city of Han, III. iii. VII. 6. Vanderen a. from Chow. L. vi. VII. a vise man builds, but a vise voman over-throws a, III. iii. Z. 3. —sheaves high as a. IV. i. [iii.] VI. min, a rat dores intougn a, l. n. VI. 3.

—meeting as the corner of a, l. iii, XVII.

—tribulus growing on a, l. iv. II.

—and most, l. v. iv. II.

—and most, III. i. X. 3.

—the people are a. III. ii. X. 7.

—the circle of the king's relatives is a fortified,

—the circle of the king's relatives is a fortified,

—the circle of the king's relatives is a fortified,

—the circle of the king's relatives is a fortified,

—the circle of the king's relatives is a fortified, Waggon, do not push forward a, II. vi. II. Waggons, driving, II. viii. III. Waggons, driving, II. iV. 3; v. II. 4. Wag-tail, the, II. i. IV. 3; v. II. 4. Wall, a rat bores through a. I. ii. VI. 3. Wall, a rat bores through a. I. ii. VI. 3. М Vones, broken marriage-, I. v. IV. 6. -cultivate association with the, III, ii, IX, 3, Visitant, a from heaven, I, iv, III, 2, Visitor, the noble, IV, I, [ii.] IX. Virtuous, sovereigns of old, II, vi. IV. Virtues, you lorget my great, Il. v. VII. 3. of king Ching, IV, i. [i.] VI.

I will cultivate admirable, IV, i. [i.] VIII.

of the marquis of Loo, IV, ii. III. 4, 5.

of Keang Yuen, IV, ii. IV, I. —is licht as a hair, but few are able to lift it,

—the old, III. iii. XI. 6.

—the old, III. iii. XI. 6.

—will be imitated, IV. i. IV. -of the chief of Shin, III, iii, V. s. -of Chung Shan-Go, III iii, VI, I. -the people maturally love, III, iii, VI, I.

-an indication of inward, III, iii, II, I.

7 di MI Zuis omos do-

Washing, water good for, III. ii. VII. Wasp, IV. i. [iii.] IV. Watchfulness recommended, III. iii. II. Water, a hot thing must be dipped in, III. iii. Ш. 5. pleasant is the semicircular, IV. ii. III. Waters, the fretted, I. x. III. -cold, from a spring, I. xiv. IV. a large volume of flowing, II. iii. IX. of the Hwae, II. vi. IV. —of the Loh, II. vi. IX of the deluge, IV. iii. IV. 1. Water-bow, a fabulous creature, II. v. V. 8. Water-plants attached to a tree, III. iii. XI. 4. Water-polygonum, I. vii. X. 2. Way-farers, II. v. I. 4; IV. 5. Ways, the grand, IV. ii. III. 3. Wealth, the, of former days, III. iii. XI. 5. Weapons, I. iii. VI.; xi. VIII.: III. iii. II. 4. See Arrows, Bows, Axes, Halberds, Hatchets, Shields, Swords. Weariness of life, I. vi. VI. Weaving, III. iii. X. 4. Weaving Sisters, the, a constellation, II. v. IX. 5. Weeds, I. viii. VII. Weeding, II. vi. VII. 1: IV. iii. V.; VI. Weeping blood, II. iv. X. 7. Welcoming men of worth, I. iv. IX. West, fine men of the, I. iii. XIII. 4 -going to the, I. xiii. IV.: II. vi. III. our hearts, in the, I. xv. III. 1. -the sons of the east made to serve those of the, II. v. IX. 4. _from east to, no quiet, III. iii. III. 4. —the marsh in the, IV. i. [ii.] III. tribes of the, IV. ii IV. 5. Wheat, I. iv. IV. 2; X. 4; vi. X. 2; ix. VII.; xv. I. 7: IV. ii. I. --How-tseih's, III. ii. I. 4: IV. 1. [i.] X.; [iii.] Wheel-aids, II. iv. VIII. 9,10. Whetstone, II. v. IX. 1: III. ii. VI. 7. Whirlwind. I. xiii, IV. Whistle, the porcelain, II. v. V. 7: III. ii. X. 6. Whistling and singing, I. ii. XI.
—in sorrow, II. viii. V. 3. White, worn by mourners, I. xiii. II. White colt, the brilliant, II. iv. II. -grass, the, I. ii. XII.; iii. XVII.; v. III. 2: II. viii. IV. 1, 2. Widgeons, III. ii. IV. Widow, a, protests against marrying again, Liv. I. -loneliness of a, I. x. XI. -pity for the, II. iii. VII. 1; vi. VIII. 3. III. Wite, industry of a prince's, I. ii. II. a, bewailing her husband's absence, I. ii. III.; iii. VIII.; v. VIII; vi. II.; V.; xi. VII.: II. viii. II. -diligence of an officer's, I. ii. IV. -a, admiring her absent husband, I. ii. VIII.; iii. VIII.; xi. III. _jealousy of a. I. ii. XI. k neglected, I. iii. II. -tad treatment of a, I. iii. V.; V.; v. IV. __a, longing for her native place, I. iii. XIV.; v. Ling of a, at her husband's return, I, vi. III.; vii. XVI. may received her husband kindly, L vil. VIII.; -a man primes his onn poor, I. vil. XIX.

-taking a, I. viii. VI. 3, 4; xii. III. -happy meeting of husband and, I. x. V. -and children, union with, II. i. IV. 7, 8.
-bad, of king Yew, II. iv. VIII.; IX. 4. -virtue of King Wan's, III. i. II.; VI. 1. Bride. the marquis of Han's, III. iii. VII. 4. there is given you a heroic, III. ii. III. 8. admirable, of the marquis of Loo, IV. ii. IV. 8. Wild, the, I. ii. XII.; x. XI. Wild tribes of the North, II. i. VII.: III. iii.VII. 6. _of Keun, III. i. III. 8 of Kwan, III. i. VII. 2 of the South, III. iii. II. 4. the Man, the Chuy, and the Mih, III. iii. VII. 6. Wilds, desolate, II. viii. X. 3. Wilderness, the, of Muh, III. i. II. 7, 8. Will, the clear, of Mun, 111. 1. 11. 7, 5.
Will, the clear, of Heaven, III. i. IX. 2; ii. IX. 1.
Willow tree, I. vii. II.; viii. V.; xi. I.; xii. V.: II. i.
VII. 6; ii. VII. 2; X. 3; iii. II. 4; v. III. 4;
vii. VIII. 5; X.
—garden, II. v. VI. 7.
Willy and observious, the III ii IV Wily and obsequious, the, III. ii. IX. Wind, flerce, I. iii. V.; xiii. IV.: II. v. VIII. 5, genial south, I. iii. VII.: III. ii. VIII. 1.
gentle east, I. iii. X.: II. v. VII.
cold north, I. iii. XVI. 6; X. 3. cold, and rain, I. vii. XVI. –cold, I. xv. I. and rain, I. xv. II. 3: II. v. VII. 1. -soothing like a quiet, III. iii. VI. 8. a slanderer like a violent, II. v. V. 4. like going in the teeth of the, III. iii. III. 5. Winds great, have a path, III. iii. III. 12, 13, Windows, I. ii. IV. 3. —stopped up, I. xv. I. 5. Wine, I. iii. I. 1. good, II. i. I. sweet, II. iii. VI. 4. Wings, a man has no, to fly from sorrow, I. iii. of the pheasant, I. iii. VIII. of the ephemera, I. xiv. I. of the pelican, I. xiv. II. variegated, II. vii. I. 1. left of yellow ducks gathered up, II. vii. II. 3. men who act as, to the sovereign, III.ii. VIII.5. swift, as if on, III. iii. IX. Winter, I. iii. X. 6. the long nights of, I. x. XI. -preparation for, I. xv. I. 5 -a sacrifice in, II. vi. V.: IV. iii. II. -stormy, II. v. X. 3. Wise men still might be found in a bad age, II. and ignorant, different effects of drinking on men plant trees of soft wood, II. v. IV. 5. the, II. v. II. 2. men, were the lords of Shang, III. iii. III. man, a, protecting his own person, III. iii. man, a, and a stupid, III. iii. II. 1, 9; III. 10. -man, a, and a wise woman, contrasted, III. Withered leaves, I. vii. XI. Wives of the Joo, affection of the, I. i. X. soldiers separated from their, I. iii. VI.; vi. IV.; xv. III.: II.i. VII. 1; VIII. 5; IX; viii. X. 2.
helping at a sacrificial service, II. vi. V. 3, 5.

and children bringing food to field labourers, II, vi. VII, 3; VIII, 1.

-and husbands, affection of, IV. i. [til.] V.

Young people, wanton associations of, I. zii. II.

Youth, a conceited, I. v. VI.

—and age, III. iii. II. 10, 11.

Youths, the death of two, I. iii. XIX. World, this lower, II. v. I. I; vi. III. 21III. i. II. Yoke, an ornamented, III. iii. VII. 2: IV. iii. II. Xearly appearance of the chiefs before the king,
IV, iii, V, 3.

Yellow bird, or Oriole, I. i. II. I; iii. VII.; xi.

—ducks, II. vii. II.; viii. X.

—colour of dress, I. iii. II.

Yellow-jaws, a kind of fish, II. ii. III. I: IV. ii.

Yellow-jaws, a kind of fish, II. ii. III. I: IV. ii.

Yellow-jaws, a kind of fish, II. ii. III. I: IV. ii. -be careful of your, II. v. VI. 3: III. ii. X.; iii. -coft and clastic, III. lili. II. 9. Year, the close of the, I. x. I.

—months of the, described, I. xv. I.

—sacrifices for the coming, III. ii. I. 7.

—a, of denught, III. iii. IV.; XI. 4.

Years, a wife faithful for three, I. v. IV. 5.

—plentiful, II. iv. VI. 4; vi. VII. 1: IV. i. [ii.]

I. [iii.] IX.

—prayer for plentiful, IV. ii. II.; iii. II. 3.

—prayer for plentiful, IV. ii. II.; iii. II. 3.

—may you fulfil your, III. ii. VIII. 2-4.

See Myriads.

See Myriads. and theore, II. v. VI. 6. Wrappers, it clothing for daughters, II. iv. V.9.
Wren, IV. i. [ili.] IV. -and children have repose, IV. i. [iii.] VI.
Welf. a, springing forward, L. xv. VII.
Wolfs-tail grass, L. xiv. IV.: II. vi. VIII. 2.

Tung-stones, I. viii. III.

Wound, a painful, I, iii, I, I.

VIII. III. iii. XL 2. Worthless characters employed, IL iv, VII.; II. 5, 6. Works, Tun-too's superintendent of, III. i. III. -sweet, of scoundrels, II. v. IV. 3. Woodman, a stalwart, I. ix. VI.
Words, fair, and haired, II. iv. IX. 7.

Stallow, II. v. I. 4. Wood-cutters, How-tseih found by, III. ii. I. 3. -dishes of, IL vil. VI. 1: III. ii. III. 4: IV. ii. "Loo", stands of, III. ii. I. Vomen, interfering with government, III, ili. X. -a wise, causes rain, III. iii. X. 3. regretting lost opportunities, I. vii. XIV.

Thinking of her lover who does not come, I.

Thinking of her lover who does not come, I. Woman, a, who had been seduced, I. v. IV.

- desiring a husband, I. v. IX.

- longing for her lovers, I. vi. X.

Mark for her lovers, I. vii. XII.

- Mark for her scorner, I. vii. XII. Wohes, Lvill. IL.

INDEX II.

PROPER NAMES.

A-hang, E Yin, the minister of king T'ang, IV. iii. IV. 7.

Chang, a city taken from Loo by Ts'e, IV. ii. IV. 8. Chang Chung, the filial and brotherly, II. iii. III. 6. Ch'in, the State of, I. iii. VI.; xii. title. Ch'ing, the king, III. ii. VIII.: IV.; i. [i.] VI.; IX.; [ii.] II.; VIII.; [iii.] I. to IV.; ii. IV. 2. Ching, the State of, I. vii. title. Ching, a district in the royal domain, III. iii. IX. 2. Choo-lin, a city in Chin, I. xii. IX. Chow, the royal State, I. i. title; vi. title; vii. I.; xiii. IV.; xiv. IV.; II. i. II.; iv. VII. 3; VIII. 8; X. 2; v. III. 2; IX. 1, 2; viii. I.; III. i. I.; II. III.; III. i. I.; II. III.; IV.; VI.; VII.; IX.; iii. IV. 3; V. 1, 7; VIII. 5: IV. i. title; [i.] III.; VIII.; [ii.] V.; [iii.] X.; iii. II. 2, 3. Chow, the duke of, I. xv. III. to VII.: IV. ii. IV. 3, 8. Chow, a city of Ching, I. vii. V. Chow Këang=Tiac Këang, III. 1. VI. 1. Chung, Mr, I. vii. II. Chung-hang, one of three men buried in the grave of duke Muh, I. xi. VI. Chung-nan, a mountain in Shen-se, I. xi. V. Chung Shan-foo, the minister of king Seuen, III. iii. VI. Chung-yun, the chief cook of king Yëw, II. iv. IX. 4. Chuy, a wild tribe, III. iii. VII. 6. Chwang, the duke of Loo, IV. ii. IV. 3. Chwang Këang, the wife of one of the marquises of Wei, I. iii. I. to V. notes; v. III.

Fan, the minister of Instruction under king Yew, II. iv. IX. 4. Fang, a place overrun by the northern tribes, II. iii. III. 4. Fang Shuh, the leader of an expedition to the South, II. iii. IV. Fei-ts'euen, a river in Wei, I. iii. XIV. 4. Foo, or Poo, the prince of, III. iii. V. 1. Foo, a hunting ground, II. ili. V. 2. Fuh-kwan, name of a place, I. v. IV. 2. Fun, king Le, 10 called, III. iii. VII. 1. Fung, the name of the capital of Chow, and of a otteam, III. i. X.

G

Gaou, the name of a hill, II. iii. V. 3.

Han, the State of, III. iii. VII. 5, 6.

Han, the marquis of, III. ii. VII.

Han, the river, I. i. IX.: II. v. X. 6: III. iii. VIII. Han, the name of a hill, III. i. V. Han K'eil, the bride of the marquis of Han, III. iii. VII. 5. Haou, a name of the western capital, II. iii. III. 4,6; vii. VII.: III. i. X. He-sze, a brother of the marquis of Loo, IV. ii. IV. 9. Hëa, the dynasty, III. iii. I. 8: IV. iii. IV. 6. Hëa Nan, the son of a mistress of the duke of Ch'in, I. xii. IX. Hëah, a river, III. i. II. 4. Heang, a district in the royal domain, II. iv. IX. 6. Hëen-foo, a noble of king Seuen, III. iii. VII. 3. Hëen-yun, a wild tribe in the north, II. i. VII.; VIII.; iii. III.; IV. 4. Heu, the State of, I. iv. X.; vi. IV.: IV. ii. IV.8. Höw-foo, the earl of Ching, III. iii. IX. 2. Hing, the State of, I. v. III. 1. Ho, the Hwang-ho river, I. iii. XVIII.; iv. I.; v.
III. 4; VII.; vi. VII.; vii. V.; xii. III.: II. v.
I. 6: IV. i. [i.] VIII.; [iii.] XI.; iii. III.
Hoo and Yih, two hills in Loo, IV. ii. IV. 7.
Hoo, the earl of Shaou, III. iii. VIII.
How-teelb the fact account of Charles III ii I. How-tseih, the first ancestor of Chow, III. ii. I.; iii. III. 2: IV. i. [i.] X.; ii. IV. 1, 2, 3. Hwae, the river, II. vi. IV.: III. iii. VIII.; IX: IV. ii. III. 5,7,8; IV. 6,7. Hwan, the prince of Wei, I. iv. V. notes. Hwang-foot the president of the govt under Hwang-foo, the president of the govt. under king Yew, II. iv. IX. 4, et seq.
Hwang-foo, a Grand-master of king Seuen, III.
iii. IX. Hwang valley, the, in Shen-se, III. ii. VI. 6.

Hwun, a river in Wei, I. ix. Il.

Hwoh, a place occupied by the northern tribes, II. iii. III. 4.

Jin, Tae Jin, the mother of king Wan, III. i. II. Joo, the river, I. i. X. Joo, a state on the east of the Ho, III. i. III. 9. Jung, wild tribes of the West, II. i. VIII. 5. Juy, the State of, on the east of the Ho, III. i.

....wild tribes, III. iii. VII. 6. Man, the wild tribes of the South, II. vii. IX. 8:

W

Le, the king, III. iii. I.; III. notes. Löng, the mountain of, III. iii. VII. Löh, the river. II. v. IX. Loh, the State of, I. viii. VI.; X.: IV. ii. title. Kwo valley, the, in Shen-ae, III, ii. VI, 6. Kwei-foo, the inther-in-law of the marquis of than, III, iii. VII. 4. Kwei, the State of, I. xiii. iiie. Kwei, a mountain in Loo, IV. ii. IV. 6. Koo, a principality of Hea, IV, III, IV, 6. Kung, a place in the State of Ynen, III. i. VII. 5. Kwai, barbarian tribes, III. i. VII. 2. Kwai the State of 1 viii 2.2. King, the river, I, iii, X, 3; II, iii, III, 4; III.

King, the more of a bill near the capital of
King, the more of a bill near the capital of
Shang, IV, iii, III, Y, 6,
Shang, IV, iii, III, Y, 6, King, the barbarons region of the South, II. iii. Keun, barbarous tribes, III. h. III. 8. Keun-woo, a principality of Hea, IV. iii. IV. 6. Kiw, the wilderness of, in the West, II. vi. III. I. Keih-foo, an officer who commanded an expedition to the North, II. iii. III.

-the author of odes, III. iii. V. 8; VI. 8; IX. 9. Keilt, a great charmana, II. vill. I. 3. Keilt, a surnamer, III. ili. VII. 5. Keen-hoo, one of three men, buried in the grave Rech of Hea, the tyrint, IV, III, IV, 6, Means Yuen, the mother of How-tseilt, III. il. Main a summing Livivity of the Resident of the Main and American A Means of Te, tribes of the West, IV, III, V. 2. Rears that, the Yang-1-re, I. I. IX, ii. XI.; II. v. X. 6: III. iii. VIII. Mea-pile, the chief administrator under king. A XI iv. II. iv. I X. Keeblang, the name of a place I, w. IV. H. A. H. Will 10. - Chaw, III, at VIII, & 7 'AI 'H AII TT Ke, king, the father of king Wan, III, i. II. 2; य भा Managraph, thunk minister of Orime, IV. il.

J

Sung, the State of, I. iii. VI., v. VII., xii. III. —the duke of, IV. i. [ii.] IX. Sung, an ancient State, IV. iii. IV.

Sin, the State of, II. i. II. 4—6. Sin-foo, a hill in Loo, IV. ii, IV. 9. Sun Tsxe-chung a military commander of Wei, Show-yung, a mountain in Shan-se, I. x. XII.

Shuh-twan, brother of duke Chwang of Ch'ing,
I. vii. III.; IV.

Shin, the State of, I. vi. IV.

-the chief of, III. iii. V.
Shoo, a half civilized region, east of King, IV. ii.
IV. 5.

Shan-kung, the name of a place, I. iv. IV.
Shan, an ancient city and principality, I. ii. title.
—the duke of, I. ii. V.: III. ii. VIII.; iii. VIII.

4, 5, 6; XI. 7.

—the earl of, II. viii. III. iii. V.; VIII.

Shang-foo, the Grand-muster under king Woo, III. i. II. 7, 8, Scum, a small Scate, I. iii. VIII. et seq., notes.

Scum, a small Scate, I. xiv. IV.
Shang, the dynasty, III. I. I. 1: IV. i. [iii.] IX.;
ii. IV. 2; iii. title; III.; IV.
—Yin-Shang, III. i. II. 2, 6, 7.
Shang, III. i. II. 2, 6, 7.

Senen, a dissolute dake of Wei, and Souen Keang Sen, the States of, about the river Hwae, III. iii.
IX., IV. ii. IV. 7.
Senen, the brug, II. v. III. iii. IV. to IX.

Pin, the State of, I. xv. title: III. ii. VI. 5, 6. P'00, or P'00, the State of, I. vi. IV. 2: III. iii. V. I.

Paou Sze, the favourite of king Yew, II. iv. VIII.; IX. 4: III. iii. X. 3.

Paou, a nobleman's friend suspected of slander-

Sou, a city of Wei, I. iii. XIV.

Pel, I. ill. title.

'N 'Y II mid gai

Pang, a city of Ching, Lyil, V.

L III. YL.

Ze, the name of a place in Wel, I. III. XIV. 9. San-chung, the leader of an expedition to the Sorth, II. i. VIII.; III. iii. IX. I. Saon, a bill in Ts'e, I. viii. II.

.0 .VI di .VI (co.1 ni nintanom a Baule Mah, the duke of Tsin, I. zi. VI.

IV, II, IV, 2, Muh, the wilderness or plain of, III. I. II. 7, 8: Mei, a district in the royal domain, III. iii. V. 6. Meih, the Stato of, III. h. VII. 5. Mih, a wild tribe, III. iii. VII. 6: IV. ii. IV. 7. Juy, the name of a six am running into the King. Many, wild telbes in the West, IL vil. IX, 8, Man, the east et, III, iii, III.

Ŋ

Jug, the earles, III. in, III.

Kan, the name of a place, I, iil. XIV. 3. Kang, the blog, IV. b. (i.) IX. Kang, a tean in Tain, I. x. III. Xang, a tean in Tain, I. x. III.

T

Tae Kwei, a concubine of the marquis of Wei, I iii. II. et seq., notes. Tae, the king, III. i. VII.: IV. i. [i.] V.; ii. IV. 2. The, the mountain, IV. ii. IV. 6. T'ae, a principality in Shen-se, III. ii. I. 5. Tae Jin, the mother of king Wan, III.i.II.2; VI. Tae Këang, the wife of Tan-foo, III. i. III. 2; VI. 1. Tae Sze, the queen of king Wan, I. i. I. et seq. notes: III. i. II.; VI. T'ae-yun, a district in Shan-se, II. iii. III. 5. Tan, the State of, I. v. III. 1. Tan-foo, the ancient duke, III. i. III. Tang, a town in Wei, I. iv. VI. Tang, the State of Tsin, so called, I. x. title. Tang the founder of Shang, 1V. iii. I. to V. Te, the Keang tribes of, IV. iii. V. 2. Ting, a constellation, I. iv. VI. 1. To, branches of the Keang river. I. ii. XI. Too, a place near the capital, III. iii. VII. 3. Ts'aou, the State of, I. xiv. title.
Ts'aou, a city of Wei, I. iii. VI. 1; XIV. 1; iv. X.
Tse, the name of a place in Wei, I. iii. XIV. 2.
Ts'e, the State of, I. v. III.; viii. title; VI.; X.;
xii. III.: III. iii. VI. 8. Tseaou, a place occupied by the northern tribes, II. iü. III. 4. Ts'eih, a river in Pin, II. iii. VI. 2: III. i. III. 1: IV. i. [ii.] VI. Ts'eu, a river în Pin, II. iii. VI. 2: III. i. III. 1: IV. i. [ii.] VI. Ts'euen-yuen, the Hundred Springs, the name of a river, the same as Fei-ts'euen, I. v. V. Tseuen, a city of Wei, I. iii. VII.; iv. IX. Tsin, the state of, called T'ang, I. x. title. Tsin, a river in Ching, I. vii. XIII.; XXI. Ts'in, the State of, I. xi. title. Tsing, a city in Ching, I. vii. V. Tsioo, Tsioo-këw, the new capital of Wei, I. iv. Tsoo-lae, a hill in Loo, IV. ii. IV. 9. Yew, II. iv. IX. 4.

Tsow, the recorder of the Interior under king

Tsow-yu, a name of doubtful meaning, supposed to be "a righteous beast." I. ii. XIV. Tsung, the State of, III. i. VII. 7.8; X.2.

Tsze, the surname of the dukes of Sung, I. xii. III.

Tsze-chung, a clan name in Ch'in, I. xii. II. Tsze-këu, the clan name of three men buried in the grave of Muh, duke of Tsin, I. xi. VI. | Yung, a surname, I. iv. IV. 3.

Tsze-too, and Tsze-ch'ung, two gentlemen so designated, I. vii. X. Tun-k'ëw, a place in Wei, I. v. IV. 1.

Wan, the, name of a river, I. viii. X. Wan, the king, Li. I. et seq. notes: III.i. I. to X; ii. X.; iii. I.; VIII. 4: IV. i. [i.] I. to V.; VII.; [ii.] VII.; [iii.] X.; ii. IV. 2. Wan, a duke of Wei, I. iv. VI. notes. Wei (衞), the State of, I. iii. note on title; XIV.; iv. X.; v. title III. Wei (契盟), the State of, I. ix. title. Wei, a principality of Hëa, IV. iii. IV. 6. Wei, the river, I. iii. X. 8: III. i. II. 4, 5; VII. 6; ii. VI. 6. Wei, a river in Chaing, I. vii. XIII.; XXI. Woo, the king. III. i. IX.; X.; iii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [i.] VIII.; IX.; [ii.] VIII.; V.; [iii.] VIII.; X.; [iii.] VIII.; X.; [iii.] VIII.; IX.; ii. IV. 2.

Woo, duke of Wei, I. iv. I.; v. I.: II. vii. VI.: III. iii. II. coluin the notes III. iii. II. only in the notes. Woo, duke of Ching, I. vii. I. notes. Woo-ting, a king of the Shang dynasty, IV. iii. III.; V. Y Yen, the State of, III. iii. VII. 6. Yen, the name of a place, I. iii. XIV. 3. Yen-seih, one of three men buried in the grave of duke Muh, I. xi. VI. Yew, eclipse in the reign of king, II. iv. IX. Yih, a surname, I. iv. IV. 2. Yin, the dynasty, III. i. I. 5-7: IV. i. [ii.] X.; iii. III. V. 1. Shang, III. i. II.; iii. I. Yin, the clan-name of a great family in the royal domain, II. iv. VII.; viii, I. 3: III. iii. IX. 2. Yu, the Great, II. vi. VI. 1; III. i. X. 5; iii. VII. 1; IV. ii. IV. 1; iii. IV. 1; V. 3. Yu, the captain of the guards under king Yew, II. iv. IX. 4.

Yung, a State, I. iv. title.

Yuen, a State, III. i. VII. 5, 6.

Yuen-kew, the name of a mound, I. xii. I.; II. Yuh, Keuh-yuh, a city of Tsin, I. x. III.

i. VII. 6; ii. X. 1; iii. L. 1; III. 1; V. 4, people, =the people, II. iv. IX. 1, 7: III.

plants, L. iii. Z. 1; T E, the lower Below; lower, that which is below.

To stoot subsed of the roots of

OF CHIZESE CHARACTERS AND PHRASES;—

IZDEZ

111

AND CONCOMPANCE FOR THE CLASSICS. имембер або то негр тоwards the бойнатіом об а Dictionant

อินบบุร

上宫, the name of a III. 2. It is used for any expressive of I. vil. V. 1, 2; zii, I. i. II. iv. V. 6; vii. or without T or A before the noun. without them, and with As a preposition, after the noun, with or i. [iii.] III. L 77, God. Sope;—see 77. head. II. i. I. I.; but in II. I.—to be on high, i. c., in heaven, III. i. I. I.; but in II. I.—to be on high, spoken of the Providence of God, and with nearly the same meaning in IV. in II. vi. VI. 2, L F = the sky overen on high, IL vi. III. 1: III. i. I. 7; but L 天, high Heaven, or Heav-XIII. I. L E. a high, conspicuous place, I. iii, Above; that which is above. Used of what is superior in quality, I. vii. IV. 2. three principal supporters of Keeli of Heas. three shorts, used metaphorically of the 轻三 ;t.VI ,ii. IV. (nin:roonu) erot III. ii. VI. 5; = 3, three aged ministhree troops (the meaning is uncertain), Trac, Ice, and Wan, III, i. IX. 1; 三里, covenants, II, v. V. 7; 三 后, the kings from the country, L. xv. I. 7. mwot silt of og of A. E shang I. iii. III. 8; VIII. 2, from below, from above; IV. i. [iii.] II. eto ascend and qescend, To ascend. In correlation with place in Wei, I. iv. IV. 1, 2, 8; so, also III. iii. IV. 2. and Earth, the Powers above and below. a wish. I. ix. IV. 1, 2, 3. L T., Heaven

LOF IL La dog, a pig, and a fowl -used in making III. iii. IX. 2; = in the three victims ?; and the three-fold work of husbandry, principal ministers of the king, II. iv. X. belt, II. viii. IZ. 8; 三 重, the three z. V. I, 2,3; perhaps the stars of Oriou's E. prodably three stars in Scorpio, change. I. v. IV. 4; II. viii. V. 7. Observe of on tariable in, to ii. IX. 2. ___, perhaps, = three tenths. I. Tree or five. I. ii. L. Zv. L. I, 8. meaning of L F is uncertain. = the seventh, L. xv. I. I., 2, 3, 5, 6.
Three, L. iv. VI. 3; v. IV. 5; vi. VIII. I., 9, 3; vii. VI. 3; vii. VI. 3; vii. VI. 3; viii. VIII. I. 3; viii. VIII. II. 3; viii. VIII. I. 3; viii. VIII. II. 3; viii. VIII. 3; viii. VIIII. XIII. (2) In the name TF ; see FF. 1, Seven, I. ii. VII. 3, 4. In I. ii. IX. 1, Seven, I. iii. VII. 3, 4. In I. ii. IX. 1, ii. ii. II. X. IX. 1, ii. ii. ii. IX. I. IX. 1, ii. ii. ii. ii. IX. IX. 5, 6, the of seven orders. In I. v. IX. 5, 6, the

(1)一富, to light upon. III. iii. IV. 2. chang en pegs, I. i. VII. 1; or upon trees, II. i. I, the sound of blove upon wood-IZ. 4; III. VI. 4. apronful, id., 2; — A, the king, III. i dands full, II. iii II. 1; — Anna sband our siew, IL vii. IZ. 4; - All, the two or soul, L. xiii, II. 3; — 75, one point the phrase-My-eserniq out and unchanging. L. xiv. III. I. Observe to be. (3) To be uniformly correct, one .et may here be explained also as oral zem if nguont , & .2. VX Jii J. ni , oS . (gninrough whole. II. iii. I. 1, 2, 3 (- all, the whole I. 1. 3, 4, 6. Harily more than our a. I. ix. 11. 2, 3, (2) All, the ix. II. 2, 3, (2) All, the

(1) One, Ly. VII. 1; vi. VIII. 1, 2, 3; vii. XVII. 3; 11 I. VII. 4. =the first. I. xy.

THE 12T RADICAL,

УŅ

บุเว,ย)

ans

丘 k'ëw

中

chung

(in I. xv. II. 2, 下民=the people below, with reference to place); this lower world, the world below the sky, I. iii. IV. 1, 2: II. v. I. 1; vi. III. 1; et al. (in IV. iii. IV. 1, 7, perhaps, simply=the land). alone,=this lower world, III. i. II. 4; VII. 1; used for the by his legs, II. vii. VIII. 3. conduct below, III. iii. VI. 1. meaning—those We find who come after. III. i. IX. 1. As a preposition, after the noun, with or without between them, and with - or 在 before them. I. ii. or without -IV. 3; VIII. 3; iii. VI. 3; x. XII. 2; xii. I. 2; II. 1; III. 1; xv. I. 5; III. 1; II. vi. I. 2; III. i. III. 2: IV. i. [iii.] XI. In III. iii. III. 1, I T=the shade. the feudal States generally, or any one State. IV. ii. IV. 1; iii. IV. 4, 5; V. 4.

To descend. In correlation with 7; see . Also, I. vi. II. 1, 2; xiv. IV. 1, 2,3(下泉): II.i. II. 3, 4: III. i. IV. 3: IV. ii. II. 1. To degrade, II. vii. IX. 7.

Not. Passin. With other negatives, as 莫, 無, 靡, conveying a strong affirmation. It is also repeated, having another character, such as 政. between, with the same effect. It follows frequently interrogative characters, such as 岩 and 曷; and in many places it has to be construed itself interrogatively, or disregarded as if it were a mere expletive particle. E. g., II. i. IV. 1: III i. I. 1. This usage is so frequent as to be a peculiarity of the She. Perhaps=do not. I. vii. VII. 1, 2.

(1) And, moreover. I. iii. III. 4; V. 1. 2, 3; vii. III. 1, 2, 3; xii. X. 2, 3; IV. iii. ...and, I. x. II. 3. (2) This. IV. i. [iii.] V.

(1) A particle, untranslateable:—at kwan the end of lines. I.vii. X. 1; XIII. 1.2; XIX.2; XXI.1,2; x. IV.1, 2; II.v. IV.1. So we have 只且. I, iii, XVI, 1, 2, 3:

of a line. I. iv. III. 2, 3. (2) Many, looking many, III. iii. VII. 1.

Laking reverend and dignified. ∐, IV. i [ii.] IX.

An age or generation; for ages. III. i. 1. 2. 4: 1X. 1; ii. I. > - the time;; V. 2. W Al, the Loreditary virtue, III. i. IX. z. 永世, the whole er a life-time.

A mound, a hillock. I. vi. X. 1, 2, 3: II. 献丘, the acred viii. VI. 1, 2, 3. 旄丘, a high, heights. II. v. VI. 7. 阴丘, sloping mound. I. iii. XII. I. 丘,宛丘;-see阿,頓,and宛.

THE 2D RADICAL.

The middle, that which is in the middle. Used as a preposition, after the noun, with or without between them, and with or 在 before the noun. I. or without ii. II. 2; iii. XI. 2; vi. X. 1, 2, 3. 在中, Very often, 中 _is in it, III. i. V. 2. precedes a noun, and-our mid-. I. i. II. 1, 2; VII. 2, 3; iii. V. 1; X. 2; XI. 1; XIV. 2; iv. I. 1; vi. V. 1, 2, 3; x. X. 1, 2; xii. VII. 2; xiii. IV. 1, 2: II. iii. I. 1, 2, 3; iv. VIII. 4; v. II. 2; vi. VI. 4: III. ii. IX. 1, 2, 4, 5 (where 中) the centre of the kingdom); iii. I. 4 (中 國, in the same way); III. 9: IV. iii. IV. 7; et al. = inward, III. iii. III. 12. Spoken of the centre of a spring, i.e., the spring itself. III. iii. XI. 6. Used for the middle, or two inside horses of a chariot. I. xi. III. 2. 中軍=the general. I. vii. V. 3. 中 央, the centre. I. xi. IV. 1. 中國, the middle kingdom or State, - the China then being. III. iii. I. 6; III. 7. To be in the middle, on the meridian. I. iii. XIV. 中毒=the interior, 1; iv. VI. 1. inside a chamber. I. iv. II. 1,2,3. 桑中, name of a small place in Wei. I. iv. IV.1, 2, 3.

Plump and good-looking. I. vii. XIV. 1.

The appearance of the two tufts in which the hair on a child's head was gathered. I. viii. VII. 3. 串夷, the Kuan wild tribes; 二混 夷. III. i. VII. 2.

THE 3D RADICAL.

儿儿, to be symmetrical, IV, iii, V. & 九

Of a red, or clanabar, colour, L.xi. VI. l.

To be hest, to provide over a feast, III. ii. III. ii. VIII. d. The marker of an estate, IV, he has V.

不 hēa

fung

}}-

1.:16

Œ

שייב

pression MI (4), or (4). The exrrs z t in iii in it To come to, = 2; to go to,=11. I. iv. vili. II. 3; V. J. 2, 7, 8; et acquissime. (7) 1V. I, 2, 3; IL vi. X. I, 2, 3; vii. I. 3; E L L, 2, 3; XL L, 2, 3; III, II, 2, 3; and feminine, I. l. VI. l, 2, 3; IX, 2, 3; cases. (6) This, these; both masculine a passive force. There are other similar 中 orling of super Ju IL vil. VIII. 9, WILL 9, at let IX, i. a, at II, ii. V. a; let V. a; the serbs of other characters, I. iii, II. gives substantive force to the verb, or 平 ; £ , L , X , III , 不 為 肋 ; £ , L , V i X 于[基本 r.i. of similar nature. it is difficult to assign any positive mean-ing, I, vii, V, I, 2; xi, X, I, 2; II, viii, IV, 4. Often used with other characters (1) A particle of exchanation, to which

THE 5TH RADICAL.

(1) The numeral for earringes. II. iii. III. 4: IV. ii. IV. 5. (2) A team of four horses. I. vii. IV. 1, 2, 8; xii. IX. 2: II. vii. II. 3, 4; VIII. 1: III. iii. V. 5; VII. 3: IV. ii. II. 1, 2, 8.

To ride in, to drive, I. vii, IV. I,

To mount on, to ascend: I. v. IV. 9; I. 7 (the dict. explains it here by

2, 3; zil. IX. 2: II. iii. IV. 1; vi. X. 8.

Dry. II. i. V. 8. -growing in dry ground. Lvit XIII. 1. 2; 也 就 L xi. v. L Kollowed by other particles; - H H. A particle, rounding off a line. I. ii. XI. 1, 2, 3; XII. 3; iii. I. 3. II. v. V. 6; et seepe. As a rest in the middle of a line. I. ix. III. 1, 2; 3; xii. II. 2; VI. I, 2; II. 1, 1V. 3, 4. With exclanatory force, I. iv. I. I, 2; 3; III. 2; 3. .V. iii. VI. M. 九—oale, 国 九 bns X. 1, 2; H F - H, the nine provinces of the kingdom, IV. iii. III.; IV. 6; ninth or central pool of a marsh II, iii. compartments, I. zv. VI. 1; 九 具, the have N III, a net with nine bags or We T. T. nine or ten. I. xv. III. 4. We Kine; the ninth. I. xv. I. 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 8.

1177 12草

W Th

նուրց 溗

Guyys

珧

00.31 址 (5) 🕇 often

117 M = but. I. iii. 1V. I, 2, 3; iv. VII. Lail J. VI rholt All - morreg but not as in the Shoo, of the second We have it white Lyft, Z. L. 2: III. L. emniertion which it indicates is rations. Vilnoupout geomi to exaction in to him south (1) Y conjunction at the beginning of case. The regent follows the S, and The sign of the possessive 3. Long, for long, I. iil. XII. 2: II. iil. III. 6; & VIII. 3.

multitudes of others in which we can of this usage also under 1; but there are It may be possible to bring some instances ·办案人孫成不=案人2 が 城不 tailt Baiyea , 美 八 S ·v.II nit.lbnn;野其一野方其 雅合其之翟也, adding that che addnees L'2 in L. iv. III. 2. III 🚓 In illustration of this usage, Wang Yingarded, and treated as a mere expletive. of lines, Z has very often to be disreusage of the term is very common throughout the She. (4) In the middle the 🔀 under 1; dut this descriptive this latter passage, I have tried to bring 明智喜樂也 In the notes in S 吹楽 言 gnibbn 號 示 > 非依樂依樂 te 1114 xi 1 ni 8 1 可,甚么和試言,其順侧 耐,例以不而,御其關読 卡公不,anivae、而玄誠所,令 to be explained by II, niding the descriptive power of the line. In illustration of this usage, Wang Yin-che refers to L. 2 in I. III. III. In 2. 1 ot 2, 3; et passim. (3) Zis in many cases simply admit the fact.

heu

乙 yun

五

1000

亞 ya

邱 keih

T

wang

亂 lwun (1) To throw into confusion or disorder; to be disordered; disorder, rebellion. I. viii. XI. 3; xi. III. 1: II. i. IV. 5; iii. IX. 1; iv. VII. 2, 5; v. IV. 1, 2, 3; vii. V. 2 (夏声, to set at variance); VI. 4: III. ii. X. 5; iii. II. 3; III. 1, 5, 7 (東京), death or ruin, and disorder. This is a frequent adjunct of the noun); et al. (2) A ferry. III. ii. VI. 6.

THE 6TH RADICAL.

子》子》事

The 1st personal pronoun; used also as the possessive. I. iii. X. v.; vi. IV. 1, 2, 3; IX. 3; vii. I. 1, 2, 3; viii. I. 3; ix. IV. 1, 2, 3; et sæpe.

To give to. I. iv. IX. 2: II. vii. VIII. 1; et al. = to approve of. IV. iii. IV. 7.

(1) Business, affairs. I. ii. II. 1; iii. XV. 2, 3; x. VIII. 1, 2, 3; II. i. II. 1, 2, 5; VII. 3; VIII. 1, 5; IX. 1, 2, 3; III. ii. X. 3 (= duties); iii. II. 10; et al. 從事, to pursue one's business. II. iv. IV. 7; vi. I. 1, 2, 5, 6. 執事, to attend—hold—to one's business. III. i. III. 4: IV. iii. I. 有事, ministers. II. v. IX. 6. 三事,—see 三. In II. iii. VIII. 1, 事一to go to work, to take business in hand. (2) 'To serve. II. vi. I. 4: III. i. II. 2; iii. VI. 4.

THE 7TH RADICAL.

Two; the second. I. iii. XIX. 1, 2; vii. V. 1, 2; xv. I. 1, 4, 8. 🔃 ~see -二 人, parents. II. v. II. 1. the two dynasties of Hea and Shang. III. __ j=, the kings Wan and Woo. IV. i. [i.] VI. _____, the two spears set up in a war-chariot. IV. ii. IV. 5. (1) A preposition,—in, on, to, &c. I. i. II. 1, 2; VII. 2, 3; iii. III. 1, 3: II. i. IV. 4 (inside): IV. i. [iii.] III. (up to); IV. (among); et passim. It is found often after 至. 至于, coming to, as to. I. v. IV.1: II. vi. III. 1: III. i. III. 2; VI. 2; et al. Sometimes there is a peculiar inversion of and the other characters in the line to which it belongs. E.g. III. iii.V.1, [1] 丁游·四万丁宣、60 落于四 宜于四方; and in sc. 3, 副 愠于茲小Lill Li ② Ris exceptible used as an expletive particle, which cannot be translated, and is intershangeable with 日. 上. and lly. This usage constitutes a peculiarity of the She. I. i. II. 1; VI. 1, 2, 3; IX. 2, 3; ii. II. 1, 2; iii. III. 1, 2, 3: II. i. VIII. 3, 6; et scepe. In many of these cases the old interpreters explained it by 住, to go; but this must be disallowed. So 于以 is to be taken as a compound expletive. I. ii. II. 1, 2; iii. VI. 3. (3) 一篇, to make. The example of this usage given by Wang Yin-che is from I. iv. VI. 1, 作于楚宫, 作于楚宫; but it may be doubted if this should not be brought under (1); comp 篇于周祐, III. i. VII. 5. (4) 一是, to be;—as in the last lines of II. i. VIII. 3, 6.—

7; 111. 5.

Five; the fifth. I. ii. VII. 1, 2, 3; X. 1; XIV. 1, 2; iv. IX. 2; viii. VI. 2; xi. III. 1; xv. I. 4, 5; et al.

THE STR RADICAL.

(1) To go to ruin. II. vii. IX. 4: III. iii. II. 4. (2) To go away; not to be more. III. iii. X. 5, 6; XI. 1. (7) II. II. X. XI. 1, 2, 3; xi. I. 3. (3) To be in poverty. I. iii. X. 4. (4) Used for III., to forget, to be forgotten. I. iii. II. 2.

(1) Emulously, I. iii. xv. 2, 3. Together. I. xi. III. 3. To be in intercourse. II. vii. I. 4; VIII. 3; IX. 3. 交替 all round, II. vi. V. 3. 交简, — acc

Therefore, where the state of t is probably, the principal meaning of the character, and we may derive from it the II. 3, 4; et al. A. L. me; used de-precistingly of one's self. I. iii. III. 4. H W any other thing. III. 7. I. 8. A, the ancients L iii. In I vi vii. 1.2.3. Al A = 2 stranger. aread of my heart state. 早 Other, another. I ir. I. 1, 2; vii. XIII. 1, 2; vii. XIII. 1, 2; s. II. 1, 2; s. II. 1, 2; vii. XIII. 1, 2; s. II. 1, 2; s. III. 1, 2 Liml whom I cherish, bae voz= others, III. iii. L g. e Z ; 8 m ; 5 m m ; 1.V ii III sluosq sation to the people. III ii the raginil IL i IV. 8; 7. IL 4. i. [i.] IV.; [ii.] 7. Used for men of official 脊(8) Пį a dog's neck. L viii. VIII. 1. the man. I. iv. VI. 3: III. iii. II. 9: IV. L L (2) A to sound of the rings at As a lady); et al To be, or play, (1) To order; orders. I. viii. V. 9; xi. Man; men. Passin, Sometimes it is semining as in L ir. V. 2; xii. Z. I, 2, 3 IIIV ; E. IV iii ; E. IV iii ; E. IV iii vI : 6 Th ii vI : 6 Th iii vI : ₹ End (分) · 3 · 1 · 7 · (外, 中) · 8 · Ⅲ N. 4; 五 3: 田 i. L 2. (合图); ii. THE 9TH RADICAL ii. Cood; to make good. Liii. VII. 9: II.
iii. T. 3; Z. 3, 4; iv. T. 3; vii. IV. 3; viii. IV M. i. l. 25; iii. V. 3. (2) Read min. river-souge. M. ii. IV. 5. (1) 電 電, to be rigonously active. Quil ♣, To supersede. III. iii. III. 6. 12.39 The grandather of king Tan. W. L. W. L. 2. ຈນາ 15/12, to be reir strong. III. i. VII. 3. 暹 (1) Truly II. i IV. 8: iv I. 3: IX. 6:
III II. I. S. Sincerity III. II. X. I. (2) To employ men in odices; to be employed in odice. II. iv. VII. 4; X. 6; r. X. un, 京, to be great, intense. II. iv. VIII. I. 置 5:22 Z 6, 7; ü. VI. 3 (dere 京 南 都at oc-To sustain a burden. IV. i. [iii.] III. # T T. I (here 京=扇); TII. 6; IZ. I, 2; (馬)。(馬) 3; II. i L 5; II. 2, 6; £Ĵ Forthwith. III. iii. IX. 4. Buil 東) e.(京間) 1.71.7iz .1 Lesique L [iii.] & (4) (4) (4) (4) desistant officers of husbander. It in I. ξÏ Great; to be great; to make great. I. 2; 3; IV. L. Armour; in mail. I. vii. V. I. 2; 3; IV. L. Armour; in mail. I. viii. V. I. 2; 3; IV. L. Armour; in mail. I. viii. V. I. 3; 3; IV. L. 4; III. 4; III. 4; III. 4; III. 4; III. 5; VIII. 5; (1) A large height, or mound L iv. (2) To present oderings—in sacridee. II. i. V. 4: IV. i. IV. ii. IV. 3; iii. II. iv. obring contributions, IV. iii. IV. 3; iii. II. iv. obring contributions, IV. iii. IV. 3; iii. II. iv. iii. IV. 3; iii. IV. 3; iii. II. iv. iii. IV. iii (1) To aid, to benefit, I. zv. I. 9. Used for The To cook. I. zr. L 6: II. Budzy 202.7 A, the men of the present day. 山流江 V Sap,d times it is followed by H. L zi L. 1, 2. be specified as cases where the connective force should be indicated. zi. L. 2, 3. 本情 本 his morn-ing, this night. H. iv. H. 1, 2; et al. Some-VII.; IX. (= (F)); ii. IV. 3; iii. II., may ii. I. J. 3, 4, 5 (indeed): IV. i. II. II : E. I. iii. I. issolaninglesi. I. iii. I. ii. I. iii. I. ii. I. ii 本者, non. I. MZ Z I ni 2s. Et ban 2, I. III zi I ni Now, the present time. I. ii. IX. 2; z. I. ii. IX. 2; z. I. i. IV. I; VII. 6; III. ii. II. 3; IV. i. [iii.] V; et sape. use in the middle of lines. After 35, as 顯水 世, in III. i. L. 2, of the same tirz.y To draw spirits from a vase. II, vii. VI. 2. 4 The destination of the sea from the sea from the sea from the sea of the sea nay in I. ii. III., as an example of its expletive Ą 上見類状 soonstant odo-nix zur W treated simply as an expletive particle. ייי, איני oving the first state of the control To be kind, I. vii. III. 1; viii. VIII. 1. Ŋ and ni bas isonil 10 olibbin odi ni bas 、孫:靈:雖:汝:遜:朱 uil everywhere, both at the commencement A conjunction; -also, and. moom II, iv. IX, I. (2) FE SE to dit about as birds. I. zi. VI. I. 25 II. v. II. v. II. 5: vii. I. 1. 25 II. v. $7£ Te CHIZESE CHARACTERS AND PHRASES.

685

仳

p'e

价 këae

任 iin

伉

伎

ke

伊

伏 fuh

伐

休 hëw

ii. VI.2; iii. X. 5: IV. i. [i.] II.(假以); et al; of 是以, therefore, thereby, I. ix. I. 2; et al. (Foften takes the place of); and of \square , I. iii. I. 2; ix. I. 1; xii. III. 1; et al. The same primary (2)meaning may be traced in its most frequent usage, as our to, the sign of the infinitive mood,—to, in order to, so that, thus, and thereby, &c. I. i. III. 2, 3; v. III. 3: II. i. I. 3; VI. 1, 3; iv. VII. 10; vii. VI. 1: III. i. III. 5; V. 5; ii. I. 1, 2, 7; II. 4: IV. i. [ii.] III.; IV.; et passim. (3) We must often take it as a preposition,—by, by means of, on account of, where still there is an indication of the primary meaning. I. iii. I. 1; IX. 4; X. 1, 3; iv. VI. 1: II. iv. IV. 3: III. ii. II. 3; iii. VII. 6; et al. (4) 一 血, along with. I. iii. VI. 2; et al. Akin to this are the cases where it = with, bringing along with, I. iii. X. 1; II. vii. 3; VIII. 4; vii. X. 3: III. i. VII. 7; et al. (5) = 用, to employ. I. ii. XI. 1: II. vi. IV. 4: IV. i. [iii.] IX.; ii. I. I-4 (to use in). (6) It is often used before , to take to be, to regard as. I. iii. X. 5; iv. V. 1, 2; v. IV. 1; et sape. Before other verbs, its meaning is sometimes lost, as in 以告, I. x. III. 2. (7) Wang Yin-che gives it as = ffff, and; and under this usage I would bring, I. iii. V. 2, 4; v. III. 3; xiii. I. 1; et al. The word following may be translated as a verb in the present participle. (8) has been noticed, under -, as a compound particle. So 裁以, I. xii. II. 3. And 以 alone, in I. xi. III. 2, and perhaps. III. ii. II. 2; iii. VII. 6. (9) - 與, to give to. II. vi. (10) We must translate by when, or as = 及in III. ii. I. 4, 8; iii IX. 1: IV. ii. II. 3. (11) = hired servants, those who may be ordered about at pleasure. IV. i. [iii.] V .- It is difficult to classify the various usages of the character. I. vii. xxi. 1, 2; v. X. 1, 2, 3; and some other passages, are good illustrations of Julien's reduction of it merely to a sign of the accusative case.
To look up; to look up to. II. vi. I. 5;

The second in order of birth. We have thing III IF applied to two ladies, I. iii. III. 4.III. i. II. 2; but in. II. v. V. 7. 仰氏 means the younger of two genthemen. It becomes equivalent to a name. Il - Mr. Chung, L vii. II, 1, 2, 3; but -III is a designation in L iii. VL 2, while it -- a clin-name in I. xii, II. I. We have 印 介, in L & VL 2; 首 印, in. 11.

i. VIII. 3, 5, 6: III. iii. IX. 1; 張 仲, in. II. iii. III. 6; 仲允, in. II. iv. IX. 4. It is a clan-name in. III. iii. VI. 1-8. To be separated. I. vi. V. 1, 2, 3 (111

Good. III. ii. X. 7.

To be sincere in friendship. I. iii. III. 4. (2) To carry on the shoulders. II. viii. III. 2: III. ii. I. 6. (3) 任 and 太任. the wife of king Ke. III. i. II. 2; VI. 1.

The appearance of being high. III. i. III. 7. (有优) k'ang 夜伎, the app. of moving slowly. II.

(1) This. I. xi. IV. 1, 2, 3: II. Passim. i. V 1 (but 伊人 hardly=more than a man); iv. II. 1, 2; et al. Wang Yin-che brings under this meaning. I. iii. VIII. 1; II. vi. III. 3; I. xv. III. 2; et al. (2) Its most common use is as=禁止, hardly translateable, but sometimes having the force of the copula. I. ii. XIII. 3; iii. X 2, 6; vii. XXI. 1, 2: II. iv. VIII. 1; v. I. 2; et sæpe. (3) In II. vii. III. 1, 豈伊 異人, Wang explains it by 有, to be; in the same way 伊嘏文王 in IV. i. [i.] VII. But it is better not to perplex ourselves to seek a substantive meaning for the character in such cases. (4) 伊威, the large sow-bug. I. xv.

(I) To be lying down. I. xii. X. 3 (伏 枕): III.i. VIII.2. hid. II. iv. VIII. 11. (3) = to suffer for, bear the consequences of. II. iv. X. 1.

(1) To cut down; to fell. I. i. X. 1, 2; ii. V. 1; ir. VI. 1: III. ii. 1, 3; et al. To this should be referred 斯伐, II. iv. X. 1. (2) To smite, in war. II. i. VIII. 5; iii. III. 3. 5; III. i. II. 6. 8; IV. iii. IV. 6. V. 1. (2) IV. iii. IV. 6; V. 1; et al. (3) Applied to beating drums, II. iii. IV. 3; vi. IV. 3. (4) A shield of medium size. I. xi. III. 3.

(1) To rest,—as under the shade of trees. I. i. IX. 1. To rest or cease from labour. III. iii. X. 4. To rest, to be unemplaced. I. X. 4. employed. I. X. I, 3. To find rest, from suffering. III. ii. IX. 2. To be at rest, at ease. II. iii. II. 4; iv. IX. 8; X. 5 依休, to be quiet and (處 休) (2) Excellence; exserene. I. x. l. 3. cellent, admirable. I. xv. IV. 3: III. iii. VIII. 6: IV, i. [ii.] VIII.; [iii.] If. afavour. IV. iii. IV. I. A favourable auspice. IV. i. [iii.] VII. (ii) 休父. a designation. III. ini. IX. 2.

441 yang 411

#

ų d

ųįď

To impute to. II. v. III. 7.

I. I. iii, X. 6.

To assist. IV. i. [iii.] III. -985-67

they must be employed by the translator confg not be given in a dictionary; but these, and some other different versions, To set an example, IV. iii. I. IIV spring up. II. i. II. 5. To raise up. III. i. IX. i. VII. 3. To rouse one's self, III. i. IX. To agitate, II. iv. IX. 5. To p. II. i. II. 5. To raise up. III., .8 .XI To march. III. iii. field. II. vi. IX. 6. To call to the the field. I. zi. VIII. 3. III, to be friends. IV, ii. IV. 4. To take in. III. i. 7. To do. III. i. I. 5. vii. V. 3. I. iv. VI. I. (作于; 806 于); vii. I. 8: is used actively for-to build, to compose. significations which these verbs have. It to make, to do, with the active and neuter Passim. Its most common meaning is

v. 1Z. 5. XVII. 2; ix. I. 2; xi. V. 2; IX. 2; II. vi. X. 3; vii. VIII. 3 (報 小); 1X. 1; To wenr at the girdle; the gen-stones at the girdle-pendant. I. v. V. 2; VI. I, 2; as for H. - unnecessarily.

of the She. In III. iii. I. 3, E is taken

To be strong II. iii. III. 5.

To meet with. IL vi. II. 9 (有 信).

Benutiful. I. zil. VIII. 1, 2, 3 (📆 🙏 IL PE PE sight and elegant-looking, a beautiful lady).

(1) To help, I. x. VI. I, 2. (2) To be fitted on. II. iii. V. 5. nongy mrnir ir r Will X = was not permitted. .3 .Z .vi what may be employed, or followed. II. 山(距) 4; et al. To send. Il. i. VII. 2 To cause, to make, I. ii. XII. 3; xy, VI. 3; IV. 6; VIII. 4; vii. XII. 1, 2; xy, VI.

regard by a rest Luc X of the all भाग न्यु स्वरं (७५० क्या क्या व म ५०) ५ "XLI, III leage oratal spirotesque 在 M. v. M. guines bue guiog. J. (土) fallers of or come, to successfully the control of the successfully and successfully the su Passine (1) To come. Lift. V. 2; VIII. 3, 3: v. IV. 1: et supissine. In L'vii. VIII. 3,

> ₩ A H uncles. I. iii. XII. I, 2, 8; vii. nĥ designations. II. iv. IX. 4 (家). 余 two friends. II. v. V. 7 (相 民). uT 0,2 (1) The elder born. Of brothers. IV. Iii. XIV. 2. Of 3/

a Spirit, the Ruler of horses, and for the of king Ke. III. i. VII. 3. (5) Used for (4) 工作 the elder brother or superintendent of many other princes. I. ii. V. 1, 2, 8; xiv. IV. 4: III. iii. V. I I, 2, 3, 4. (3) The third of the titles of mobility,—earl. II. viii. III. I, 4, 5; III. ii. I. 6. But it is used also for the chief IIIV .v. I .busband vm O . A H. XIV. 3, 4,=0 Sir. So (H in II. iv. VIII. ni 令的合体 ni wa XI. I, 2.

To resemble, to become like. II. v. II. 8; vi. X. 4: III. ii. VIII. 2; iii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [iii.] VI. 3° continue,—by inpwan II. ii. VIII. 2. In the phrase # full of spirits.

act of sacrificing to him. II. iii. VI. L.

A A to be strong. IV. ii. I. 3. lieritance, II. iv. V. 2 (似飘).

For long. I. iii. III. 2.

IIK IIK, mean-like, II. iv. VIII. 18.

XI. 9 : IV. 1. [1.] VIII. 'Yo help. II. fil. III. 2 ; vii. VI. 5 : III. 'I X. 0 ; fii. VII. 1. 1. (天 位); 11. V. 4; 111. 1. 2; VII. 1; Position, place. II. vi. V. 5. Place of of-fice; the throne. II. vi. III. 4, 5: III. i. II.

文 时在 10s 1, 7: 1V. 1. [ii.] 1; et al 1, 2, 3; iv. X. 3; viii. IV. 1.; VI. 1. III. ii. I. it? is of frequent occurrence. II. iii. VIII. si wou ?wou , III III, how? how? 級 何, to be few. II. v. IV. 6. be translated by something. I. vi. I. I, 2, 3, Who; what; how; why. Passin, Must and perhaps some other passages. alone has a similar force in I. xv. III. 4, II I siir ar 3' f zir x' r All (II) have you to do with? &c. Liv.III. 1; vi. rather differently,-what is it to? What Tu, which we must sometimes translate

To bean to earry, I. xiv. II. 1 : II. iv.

 z_i t_i T iii. T in t_i t_i t_i

ેનું મું આપ્ત self-posessed in manner, Liv. III. J. Combus muzolo od or 3 3 3 3 3 3

319 .

27/5

孤

22.57

XI

X

າ/ກ.ກ.ງ

묖

情院

rəd

胍

3.) 미

oy

oy

回

OSI

羽

າຈລາ

羽

92,57

驯

כנוסס 宀

ક,ત

Ų

əzs

A

#

闽

0.1

釽 hoh

侑 yëw 册 chow 依

甁

亿

俄

IV. 1—5; VIII. 1; iii. VIII. 1: IV. i. [ii.] I.; iii. II.; et al. (3) Wheat. IV.i. [i.] X.; [ü.] I.

To encourage. II. v. IX. 4.

IEEE, the app. of what is small and widely extended,-a few diverging points. II. v., VI.12.

Pure and still. IV. ii. IV. 1 (有 值).

To press to eat. II. vi. V. 1.

To impose on. I. xii. VII. 1, 2.

(1) To depend, rely on. II. i. VIL. 4; v. III. 3. To lean on, as a bench. III. ii. VI. 4. To keep close to. IV. i. [iii.] V. (有 依). (2) To accord with, IL v. I. 2: IV. iii. I. (3) To regard with favour. IV. ii. IV. 1. (4) (alone, and repeated. 灰 依, to be luxuriant, to be young and tender-looking, II. i. VII. 6; vii. IV. 2. (5) To find rest, or remain quietly III. i. VII. 6; ii. VI. 4. The dict. gives this meaning in 2d tone.

To despise, to insult; insult, contempt. I. iii. I. 4; xv. II. 2: II. iv. VIII. 2: III. i. III. 9; VII. 8; iii. VI. 5. 不侮—humility and complaisance. III. ii. VI. 5.

(1) The second title of nobility,—our marquis. I. ii. XIII. 2, 3; iv. X. 1; v. III. 1: II. iv. II. 3: III. iii. VII. 1—8. IV. ii. III.1-5; et al. 諸侯, the feudal princes generally. II. iv. X. 2. So 侯 alone, III. iii. II. 5, and 侯氏, VII. 3. 公侯prince. I. i. VII. 1, 2, 3; ii. II. 1, 2. (2) A target. I. viii. XI. 3: II. vii. VI. 1. (3) To be admirable, beautiful, I, vii, VI, I, (4) As a particle, 二维, which we must generally leave untranslated. II. iii. III. 6; iv. VIII.4; IX.6; v. X.1. It is sometimes redoubled in the same line, as in IV. i. [iii] V. Wang Yin-che specifies III. i. I.4, and iii. I.3, as instances where it = 15, and may be translated by but.

To invade, to overrun. II. iii. III. 4: III. i. VII. 5, 6.

QQ, large, having the app. of being stout. I. iii. XIII. 2.

To back as if it were falling off; spoken of a cap. H. vii. VI. 4.

Tick to box respectful. IV. i. [iii.]

(1) To protect; to preserve, to mainpaou

tain. II. i. VI. 1, 2, 3; ii. VII. 5; vi. IX. 2, 3; III. i. II. 6; VI. 3 (=to maintain one's-self, one's virtue); ii. V. 1; iii. V. 5; VI. 1, 3, 4: IV. i. [i.] IV.; V.; VII.; VIII.; et al. In I. x. II. 2,—to possess. (2)—安, happily, tranquilly. II. vi. V. 2,

3, 5: III. iii. IX. 3. (3) 保介,—see介。 To await. I. iii. XVII. 1; iv. VIII. 2; vii. XIV. 1, 2; viii III. 1, 2, 3. 俟俟, to be waiting together. II. iii, VI. 3. (1) Truthful; truly; to be sincere; to believe. I. iv. VII. 3 (of a woman's being true to herself, to the modesty of her nature); v. IV. 6; vi. IX. 3; vii. XVIII. 2; x. XIL 1: II. iv. VII. 4; X. 8; v. III. 7; IV. 2, 3; VI. 4; vi. VI. 1; vii. V. 1. at last. III. iii. V. 6. (2) To rest two nights in the same place. I. xv. VI. 2, 3. In IV. i. [ii.] IX., 信信 = to rest two nights or four.

= 1. To stretch out, to make good. Some so construe II. ir. I. iii. VI. 5. VII. 4.

A stand for meat at feasts and sacrifices. II. vi. V. 3.

(1) To put in order, to cultivate, to regulate. I. xi. VIII. 1, 2, 3: III. i. I. 6; VII. 2; iii. II. 4; IX. 1. (2) To be long, long. I. vi. V. 2: II. iii. III. 3: III. iii. VII. 2.

Thin, shallow. Applied to the comparatively short length of a war-charlot. I. xi. III. 1; and to the thin mail with which the horses were covered, ib., 3.

To begin; a beginning; first, II. vi. VIII. 1: III. ii. III. 3; iii. V. 4: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI.

To cause, to enable, to let. Sape. I. iii. II. 3: II. i. VI. 1, 2; iv. VII. 3, 5, 6; IX. 6. (=), to); vii. VI. 5; X. 1, 2, 3 (= let; like si from sine): III. i. III. 5; ii. VIII. 2. 3, 4 (=may, in the imper.); VI. 4. (= to arrange, to cause to be set): IV. ii. IV. 1-5 (to make, to constitute); et al. The construction is difficult in I. iii. IV. 3.

(1) A granary. H. vi. V. 1; VII. 4. To store in granaries. III. ii. VI. 1. (2) 名 庚, an oriole. L xv. L 2; III. 4: IL i. VIII. 6. (3) used for 愴. in 倉兄 commiseration III. iii. III. 1.

僧人, A groom, a superintendent of carriages. I. iv. VI. 3.

= cent. per cent. = 招, 300 per cent. III. iii. X. 4.

To turn upside down. Applied to the huddling on one's clothes. I. viii. V. 1, 2. To be overthrown. I. xii. VI. 2. In both cases, we have iiii fil.

贬人, officers of escort, I xiv II I.

信 shin

俎 tsoo

傪

ระเบ

俴 ts'ërn

俶 shuh

俾 pe

ts'ang

kican pei

쉡

햕

To be impossible to III to II. 3.

78 Kieh Kieh ·V [.iii] rect, what they ought to be. I. iii. I. 8; The app. of grain growing long. IV. i. with the implication that they are cor-Gund dition of Fi. - deportment, manners, 劉 负 答语, to allow no rest. II. vi. I. 8. (I) Alone, but generally with the ad-. .niedrosin. . ЭD head-dress standing up high, I. ii, II. 8. 'Yo pant, to have a difficulty in breath-ing. III. iii. III. 6. cipal officer. III. iii. V. 3. 颲 00 The meaning (3) 健卿'n steward or prin-VIII. 8 Gun, 劬 (1) To reach to. II. vii. X. 8: III. ii. 即 電 面, the appearance of a lady's attendants. [II. iii. I. 4. the 8d case. ings, II. v. V. 8. 靴側 го рило по only to determine the pronunciation of on the side, I. i. I. 2 =veerings and turn-The rhymes of the She enable us side. II. vii. VI. 4. K III. to turn back three pronunciations and meanings of 111,87 Disorder; confusion, II. vi. IV. 4: III. 魯 ono no nyon quo a . H III ix. VI. 2. 1/157 viii. VI. 3 ;iiI/ 11157 . 6 .XI ; S. I. iv. I. 2; IX. 3; The side; -of a hill, I. ii. VIII. 2: II. 魯 Slander. II. v. IV. 2. 228 留 นออูรว To be able, talented. I. viii. VIII. 3. To be in error, to go to excess. III. iii. II. 8: IV. iii. V. 4. 魯 to be vigorous. II. vi. I. l. the same good deportment. (2) 법 합 (1) Together with; to be together. I. iii. Yorking '1) Together with; to be together. I. iii. YIII. 2; XX. Yorking '1, VIII. 2; XX. Yorking '1, YII. 1; XX. 4. In 2; XX. 4. In 2; XX. 4. In 2; XX. 4. In 1; XX. 4. In 1; XX. 4. In 1; XX. 4. In 2; XX. 4. In To be dignified. I. v. I. I. 쑀 ner. II. vii. VI. 4. AK Aik, dancing in an irregular man-Sp5A 剧 with A at the side. Lovely, I. xii. VIII. I. The dict. gives the character with this meaning in 2d tone. It should be written, probably, (); II. (); II. (); III.; IV. 3. (); III.; IV. 3. (); III.; IV. 1. (); III.; IV. 1. (); III.; IV. 1. nonej (新 同) 8.X Ji JII :(新 百) 猁 VI. 1: 1V. I. (ii.) II.; ii. III. 4; iii. I. (1) Men associate in office. II, v. IX, 4. es of the worship of them. III. iii. IV. 8; 11177 so as to affect; spoken of Spiritual beings, 쮔 넶 Great, sovere. III. iii. III. 4. to come to, to draw near to,-(3) To be attached, annexed, to. III. ii. .11 [.i] 17.77 倒 U.ved for \! [1], ... [11], why, what. IV. i. 1. VIII. 8. So 楼夫. II. L. VIII. 1, 2. 数 lug 3(置 撰). (2) A carriage-driver, II. II. v. III. 2, 4. phrase III IIK, to go to alcep undressed. (I) A servant, I. i. III. 4 : II. iv. VIII. 27.27 2d tone. (1) Great; magnanimity. III. manner, II. vil. VI. 3. 11574 副 the full to caper about in a fantastic hur.y T : X : TL 7; X. 3. H rough 161 III .oldanimba RK 101 bost To overthrow, to be overthrown, III. iii. 2579 .E.Y. illy JI, ville V. 3. 刮 To be lying down. IL vi. I. 4, 5, oft ni trut M W iv, VIII. 1; et al 数 II . I, et alt; and by J. I. xiii. L 2: II. (基数) t. H. J. H. Snilmin ad or ii. I. ii. III. 3; xiii. II. 2; xv. I. 2; II. ii. 信 Bright-looking large, II, vi. VII, I: A AIV 41 AI 41 AI 41 AII 44 AV 3 AII It is often accompanied by Al. as lunys 'I'o be wounded, to be pained ;—used of XI. i'il viii. IX, viii. IX, viii. III. 3: III. 5: III. 1 到 * 17 EIJ). beech Bersen, II. iv. VIII. G. 抓 To be just, fair. II. iv. VII. 5. 2 22,83 텕 04 Dimples in the cheek, I. v. III. 2. 保 器 樣 not to stop. If vil. VI. 4. >77 训 4:01:24 .E ,2 A dix A Aband and ni blod oT XX Trice, II. vl. V. 5, and IV. i. [ii.] 5. Trice in the initial of t Far. 43 notes I. vil. XI. I. 2. 111 terk out oxig at extracting out exer of -Tubbo eli le esampler instances of its occur-10011 Suppose, IL III. III. III, 10, III.):l Must be translated by oil, To be prepared, to be made all ready. 骩

밁

假 heuen

儨 pin

傶 yen

iv. VIII. 1; viii. XI. 2; XIV. iii. 1, 2; II. ii. XI. 4; iii. II. 1; v. II. 1; III. iii. III. 4, vi. V. 3, 5. Probably=equipments, in I. xv. III. 4. (2) A mate. I. iv. I. 1. (3) 一善, good, the doing of good. II. iv. V. 9. (4) To copy, to imitate. III. i. I. 7: IV. i. [i.] VII. (養式刑). (5) To reckon, to judge. III. iii. VI. 6. Ten myriads. I. ix. VI. 2: II. vi. V. 1, 4: III. i. I. 4; ii. V. 2: IV. i. [ii.] IV; yih

[iii.] V.

To be active, nimble. I. viii. II. 1.

To set forth, to arrange. II. i. IV. 6.

庶, in crowds, with the additional VANT PEacu idea of moving, or rushing about. I. viii. X. 4: II. iii. VI. 3.

(1) In the phrase 優游, expressing the idea of sauntering about with ease and satisfaction. II. iv. II. 3; vii. VIII. 5: III. ii. VIII. 2. (2) Applied to abundance of rain watering the earth. II. vi. VI. 2. (3) To be many. III. iii. X. 6. (4) 優優, in a gentle manner. IV. iii.

(1) To walk with measured steps. I. v. V. 3. (2) 荷能 to look soft and de-liente. I. xiii. III. 1, 2, 3. The dict. gives 17.4. 儺 (I) in the 2d tone, and (2) in the 1st.

Dignified-looking. I. xii. X. 3.

THE 10rn RADICAL)L

(1) True, loyal; truly. I. iv. VI. 2: II. ii. 兒 X.3(頃允); iii IV.3,4(頃允); V. 8; vi. IV. 1: III. ii. VI. 5; iii. IX. 6: IV. i. [i.] VIII.; [ii.] X.; [iii.] IV.; VIII.; XI.; ii III. 4 (redoubled); iii. IV. 7. (2) In u∗h a designation, \mathcal{H} \mathcal{L} . II. iv. IX. 4.

(1) Large, great. II. iii. III. 4; IV. 4.

(=very): III. iii. V. 7: IV. ii. III. 8. (2)

Eldest. IV. ii. IV. 2.

An alder brother. 1 iv. V. 1. vii. II. 9. An elder brother. I. iv. V.1; vii. II.2; ix. IV. 3: II. iv. III. 2: III. i. VII. 3; ii. 兀 yuen Kung VI. 5. 兄弟, brothers, cousins of the same surname, is of frequent occurrence.

I. iii. I. 2; X. 2; XIV. 2; iv. VII. 1, 2;
II. i. IV. 1-7; ii. IX. 3; iii. IX. 1; et al. III III VIII. 5, means—along with your breth-

Commiseration, sorrow. In the phrase Commiseration, sorrow. In the phrase All R. - we All; and alone, III, iii.

元 元 年, ar stoppers, I. v. I. 2; viii. III.

translate I. iii. XII. 2, by-you are as if you were ear-stoppers. (2) 子充。 Before,—as a preposition, after its regimen. II. iv. VIII. 2: III. iii. X. 7. First; designation. I. vii. X.2. in front, before others. II. iii. III. 4: III. i. VII. 5; ££, the first-born. III. ii. I. 2. Former, ancient. We have 先人, forefathers; IL v. II. 1; 先 民, the ancients, II. v. I. 4, et al.; 先 祖, II. v. X. 1; vi. V. 2, et al.; 先公, Ⅲ. ii. VⅢ. 2; 先正. Ⅲ. ii. IV. 4, 5; 先王, 亚流云, 先后, 17.

To be beforehand with. II. v. III. 6; and iii. III.

Light; splendour; glory. I. viii. I. 2: II.

Light; splendour; glory. I. viii. I. 2: IX. 5:

ii. VII. 2; IX. 2; iii. VII. 4: IV. i. [ii.]

kwang III. i. II. 5; VII. 3; iii. VII. 4: IV. i. 光seen VIII.; [iii.] III. (光明 = pure intel.

(1) To subdue, to overcome. II. iv. VIII. 7:IV.ii.III.7. 不克, invincible, III.iii. ligence); et al. IX. 5. (2) To subdue, be master of, one's self. II. v. II. 2. The dict. gives this as a distinct meaning of the term. (3) As an anything of the term. distinct meaning of the term. auxiliary, to be able to, to attain to, often merely giving combasis to the work that auxiliary, to be able to, to attain to, often merely giving emphasis to the verb that follows. I. viii. VI. 4; xv. V. 1: II. ii. I. 3, 4; iv. VII. 4, 11; vi. VII. 3: III. i. 4, iv. VII. 4: IV. i. [i.] X.; [ii.] VII., et al. ii. I know not under which meaning to bring Live et al. bring 五元, extortionate exactors. III.
iii. I. 2. See the same phrase in Mencius.
To be made paragraphs III. i. III. 8; To be made permeable. III. i. III. 8; 兌 VII. 3.

A child. IV. ii. IV. 8 (見齒).

t'uy

A rabbit, a hare. I. i. VII. 1, 2, 3 (兎 宜, a rabbit-net); vi. VI. 1, 2, 3: II. v. 兎斯, with the same meaning;—see HF. II. viii. VII. 2, 3, 4. III. 6; IV. 4. The rhinoceros. II. iii. VI. 4; viii. X. 3. 别航, cup made of the horn of a rhino. ceros. I. i. III. 3; xv. I. 8: II. vii. I. 4: VI. i. [iii.] VII. (1) To be strong. II. iv. VI.

To be cautious. II. v. I. 6; II. 6. 兢兢 To be fearful. III. iii. IV. 3; XI. 2.

THE 11TH RADICAL. A

Bess. 111. i. VI. I.

其

Buid

bunsy

ynď

ճսռչյ

网

อนซลู

刚

IV. I. [ii.] I (A. A.). (8)— A., merit, service, II. iii. III. 8; III. i. VIII. 4; X. 4; iii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [iii.] VIII.
Passim. The character is peculiar to about 130 times. indicated in a translation. It occurs often be left untranslated, or rather not middle or end of a sentence. It must or interrogation, according as it is in the is 'used as an exchanation of admiration gives an erroneous account of it, that it in the way of admiration. Dr. William's emphasizing the statement, and generally end of lines, and of the members of lines, poeticul compositions, occurring at the

Sharp, pointed, weapons of war. I. ili. VI. 1; xi. VIII. 3: III. ili. II. 4.

edt ni elidu , = ti eyes ed esznete 4, 5, 6, in the 1st line of each of which times as if it were = 5, as in II. ii. III. (8) Wang Yin-che construes it some-墨龙其碧。曼爾不貴, 季在堂、歲事其莫也▼7. Were = 74, 'to be; as in L x. I. I., M di li as beitenari ed Lineuperinu ton 則具是灌, IL v. L. 2. (7) It must sometimes gives an optative force (= xr.1.71 禁台播台製: (6) 14 · 倫其且日樂不歩 A L L will, indicating the future; as in L x. T = F (4) It is sometimes = 13. sentence, as we may eay in English,— The Lord, He is God, In this range, Wang Yin-che would, probably, say that used as a repetition of the subject of a ⊪与事╫ be (3) It is often VIII. 1, 2, 3. In this usage, H is call-J. 電其號 1. 17 1. 1. 華其份 first, and the thing follows, as in Mi when the descriptive term or terms come I III VI.1, 雨雪其票, XVI.1; 2d, . 整其積響 ni an ,ewollol mret evri thing is mentioned first, and the descripche specifies two cases:--lat, when the with a descriptive force; and Wang Yin-Inte it in the let person, as in I. x. VIII.
I, 2, 3: IV. i. [iii.] II.; at other times, in the 2d person, as in I. xii. I. 2, 3: III. iii.
III. 5. (2) Its most common usage is Sometimes, we cannot do other than transis called in Chinese—指事之詞 and possessive, of both numbers, and all genders, I. ii. IX. I, 2, 3; vii. genders, I. is it. IX. I, 2, 4; vii. XXI. I, 2; et sæpissime. In this usage it The pronoun of the 3d person, personal (I) Passim;—more than 300 times.

> 1X. 4. = at court, 111, 111, 12, 0, 1 itself, 6. Used probably for men's minds. H, the recorder of the Interior. II. vi. apartments. I. z. II. 2: III. iii. II. 4. which is inside the court,—the inner M. that Within; the interior.

Used for a carriage, L. ii. L. I, 2, 3; III. Two. I. iv. I., 2; vii. IV. I, 2, 3; viii. II. 1, 2, 3: II. iii. V. 6.

iii. VII. 4; for pairs of shoes, I. viii. VI. 2.

bits of the horses in a carriage. II. iii. IV. 2: III. iii. VI. 7, 8; VII. 4: IV. iii. I. V. 2. N And, the eight bells at the Eight; the eighth. I. zv. I. 3, 4, 5, 6: 11. THE 12TH RADICAL.

in his hand. I. xi. II. 1; III. 1: II. vii. IV. 6; the six reins which a charioteer held zv. I. 5, 6: II. i. III. 2, 3, 4, 5; et al. IX, 2 (F A robes of the siv orders); jewels attached to a hair-pin), IX. 3; x. Six; sizth. I. iv. III. 1 (六 凱, six et al. F fff, the royal armics. II. v. X. I: III. i. IV. 3; iii. IX. l.

ruler, or government; and so there is likewise, perhaps, in III. iii. X. 4, and H), but here there is still the idea of the 2; et al. (2) —public. II. ri. VIII. 3 (🟂 other noun, as we often use the posses-sive;—equivalent to the duke's, the prince's. I. II. II. 3; VII. 1, 2, 3; X. 1, 2; viii. V. I, ərnos bas 全 70 , 門 冬 , 祖 冬 — 88 III. 3; IV. 1-5; X. Y. Alone is used at sacrifices. II. vi. V. 5; VI. 8; III. ii. ib., I. A., the personator of the dead A PR, the superintendent of carriages, marshaller of a ruler's carriages, ib., 2; kindred of a ruler, id., 8; A the sons of the ruler I i. XI. 2; A the tlemen, in II. v. iz. 2; Att, the grand-State generally, the phrase-officers, gen-F. – see F.; J. 2, 3, 4; and as ruler of a State, I. xv. I. 2, 3, 4; and as there ine principal officers of the [ii.]. VII., VIII.; ii. III. 1. We have 🙏 译文, the feudal princes, IV. i. [i.] IV.; dukes of the ancestral temple. III. I. VI. 2. iii. XIII. 3; v. III. 1; et al. (1) The first of the titles of nobility,— 'duke, I, zi, Y. I, 2, 3; zy, IV, I, 2, 3; VI.
2, 3, 4; VII. I, 2; II. I. VI. 4; iv. II. 3; et al. Sometimes it simply—a prince, a tuler, whatever was the actual rank. I. 冰 ping

冽 lëeh

ts'e

ke

出

chuh

second it is the personal pronoun. (9) Occasionally it must be taken as merely an ming expletive particle (語助,無意義 也); -as in II. vii. X. 3, 子 _Some of the cases under these different usages may be resolved into the others, and the number of the usages might possibly be reduced; but the character has certainly a Protean application. 3d tone; interchangeable with 記, 层,

A, and M, an expletive particle; found always in the line 彼其之子. I. vi. IV.; vii. VI.; ix. II.; x. IV.; xiv. II. 1st tone; interchanged with III and 居, a particle used at the end of interrogative lines. I. ix. III. 1, 2: II. iii. VIII.

1, 2, 3.
(1) To contribute to; to discharge one's duties. II. vii. III. 3; v. IV. 3; vi. III. 4, 5. ling 艺人, people in office, 1, 2, 3; III. iii. VII. 1; XI. 2. (2) Name of a city or district. III. i. VII. 5, 6. (3) Tribute. IV. iii. V. 5. But I think this should be

To hold fast. III. iii. II. 3. in 3d tone.

To be all present; all provided. II. i. IV. 6: iv. VI. 2. It is generally found as = (I, all, all at once, all together. I. vii. IV. 1, 2, 3: II. iv. VII. 1; VIII. 5; v. X. 2; vi. V. 5, 6; vii. III. 2; III. ii. II. 1; iii. ш. 2.

Statutes. III. iii. I. 7: IV. i. [i.] III.; VII.

THE 13TH RADICAL.

A helmet. IV. ii. IV. 5.

To cover, to overspread. I. iii. IV. 2.

In the phrase 井 載 meaning an inner chamber, the harem. I. iv. II. 1, 2, 3. Name of a cap of state, worn during the Yin dynasty. III. i. I. 5.

THE 14TH RADICAL.

Deeply; or duringly, IV, iii. IV, 1.

A cap. I. viii. VI. 2; xiii. II. 1.

(1) A hill-top, II, iv, IX, 3. (2) 家 the grand alter to the Spirits of the land III. i. III. 7. (1) 家罕, a prime minister. III. Mir IV. 7.

The dark portions of a chamber. II. iv. V. 5. (2) 吳冥, to make it dark or The diet. obscure about one. II. vi. II. 2. puts the character in this sense in the 2d tone; but Twan-she admits only one tone __the 1st_of the termination ing.

THE 15TH RADICAL.

The winter. I. iii. X. 6; x. XI. 4, 5; xii. I. 2, 3: II. v. X. 3. tung

Ice. I. iii. IX. 3; xv. I. 8: II. v. I. 6: III. ii. I. 3.

Cold; to be cold. I. xiv. IV. 1, 2, 3: II: The received text, v.以8(有例): Cold. I. iii. II. 4.

凌陰, an ice-house. I. xv. I. 8. however, reads 漫.

Congealed, I. v. III. 2.

THE 16TH RADICAL. JL

(1) A stool;—used to lean on, when seated on mats, according to ancient custom. III. ii. II. 1, 2; VI. 4. (2) JL JL to be self-composed. I. XV. VII. 1. All. II. i. IV. 1; VII. vi. 5: III. i. I. 2. 凡百二all ye. II. iv. X. 3, 4; v. VI. 7. It H, all the people, = any of the The female of the phœnix. III. ii. VIII. people, any others. I. iii. X. 2. fan 7, 8, 9.

Pleasant;— genial. I. iii. VII. 1, 2. (制) 凰 hwang 風)· kiae

THE 17TH RADICAL.

Evil, misery. I. vi. VI. 3: II. iv. IX. 2; vii. X. 3. 凶 keung

HT, to come forth from. II. vi. II.2. 不出, not to go beyond, - not to miss. I. viii. XI. 2. H. A, going out and coming in, abroad and at home. II. v. VIII. 3, 4; vi. I. H E to go out and in, in III. ii. X. 8. To get out. II. viii. VIII. 2. (2) To send forth; to produce. II. i. VIII. 1, 2; iii. III. 1, 2; iv. X.7; v. v.7; IX. I.(田湖); vii. vi. 5; viii. L.1 (出言): III. ii. X.1 (出

Lung

kung

典 iëen

> 自clus 冒 mon

背 昂

Leu

冠

I. xv. I. 6. To strike down; -as dates from a tree.

To flay; to slice, II, vi. V. 2; VI. 4.

A head-dress of hair. I. iv. III. I.

To be rent. III. ii. I. S.

(I) To be Incerated and stript. III. iii.] X. (2)
III. I. —cruelty. IV. i. [ii.] X. (2)
The name of duke Löw. II. ii. VI. I,—6.

THE 19TH RADICAL.

To hit and catch;—in shooting with an arrow and string. I. vii. VIII. 2. Work, labour. I. xv. I. 4, 7: II. viii.
III. 9. Merit, successful achievement.
II. vii. VI. 1: III. i. X. 2; iii. V. 2, 4; IX.
6: IV. i. [i.] IV.; [ii.] X.; ii. III. 6; IV. 3. To use the strength, to labour at or on. II, iv. VIII, 7: III, iii, III, 6, 15; VI. 2. To strengthen. III, iii, I. 3. 派力, u. ri. t. 8: m. iii. m. r. Strength. I. iii. XIII. 2; vii. VI. 2.

III. IV. 4; VI. 6. To assist, II. iii. V. 5; iv. VIII. 9: III.

ех сепатуе. pangs of childbirth; but the usage is more the phrase to 'the toils of parents' 'the II. iii. VII. 1, 2, 8: V. viii. 1; vi. I. 5. Williams and Medhurst would restrict to have pain and toil. I. iii. VII. 1: Pain, toil. Always in combination with Courage, II, v. IV. 6: IV, iii, IV. 5.

To urge, to stimulate. I. iii. III. 4. 8elf. I. iii. X. 1: II. iv. IX. 7: III. iii. IV. 6. ii iii, to exert one's III. i. IV. 5. M M to be ever active. II. iv. IL. 3. To exert one's self. -to strive against.

Used for 📻, insult, II, i. IV. 4.

6: IV. i. [ii.] X. To overcome, II, iv. VIII, 4: III, i, III, ill) see ill]; 萃, II. v. VIII. 2. bination with synonymous terms:-as led. II. v. VI. 5. It is found in comin heart, to distress the heart, is frequent.

L. iii, III, 3; xii, VIII, 1, 2, 3; xiii, I. 2,
3: II, viii, V, 4, 6. tressed, burdened. Toil, distress; to be distressed, to distress. Ly. V. IV. 5: III. ii. LX. 2, but through this does not seen, to be districted as a very, to be districted as a very to be districted as a very to be districted. construed by some in this tone. two of the three examples above are also To be equal to. IV. iii. III. The first

nov

祭 buiys

bunys

翻 oom

鋖

บุทภูบุ

順

นอฐเน

娥

6unfi

闺 nə,y 伸

0023

焔 rea

妣 бипз

低

നളു

圈 ym f 刪

mof ا

yo,d

割 yn,d

鄉

To contain. IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI. hardly necessary. it is marked as in the 3d tone, which is (五); iii. Yl. 8; VIII. 1.—In II. iv. X. 5,

THE 18TH RADICAL.

ii. YI. 2. (2) A small boat. I. v. VII. 2. (I) A knife; a sword. II. vi. VI. 5: III.

To cut. I. v. I. I.

To cut down. I. i. II. 2; IX. 2, 3.

was lucky. II. vi. III. l. The lat day of the moon, which III. I. II. 4; III. 1; II. I. 1; III. I. 1. The beginning, the early part; first. I. vi. VI. I, 2; 8: vI. VI. I, 2; 8: vi. VI. I, 3; A pattern; lave; to be a pattern to. III. 3. IV. i. I. 7; II. 3. IV. i. I. 7; III. 3. IV. i. III. i. VI i. III. i. VI i. III. i. VII.

Froft, advantage. II. vi. VIII. 3: III. upm,d To be separated, to diverge, IV. i. [iii.] L.

To come to. III, iii, VII, 5. iii. III. 15 (🖟 📆), injury, injurious).

To make, to prepare, L. zv. III. 1.

To punish. III. iii. X. 3. To be satirized, an object for satire. I. ix. I. 3.

equivalent to M denoting sequence thing consequent on what has preceded. I. thing consequent on what has preceded. I. ii. III. 1, 2, 3; iii. V. 1, 3, 4; IV. 1; XVIII. 3; iv. X. 1; v. IV. 6; et sape. Wang 3; iv. X. 1; v. IV. 6; et sape. Wang Yin-che observes that it is some times

III.III.IV.8. 雖則,一see雖. 、獸跌不順、帝 土天昊 bras 歌鴻則離之正正五四四。 Without consequence;-as in A H pattern; to be a pattern to; to observe the pattern or rule, L. zv. V. 2: II. iii.

III. 2; iy. VIII. 7: III. i. VII. 7; ii. VIII. 5; iv. VIII. ii. VIII. 1, 2, viii. III. 1, 2, viii. III. 1, 2, vivere it—normal law, and according to this normal law. To use as a model. II.

To pare. III. i. III. 6. bered. III. iii. III. 5. To be dismem-

To scrape; -- eto thin. III. i, VII, 2.

To be hard, firm. II. i. VII. 3; vi. I. 3: III. iii. VI. 5 (what is hard): IV. iii. IV. 4.

Before, in front; former. I. iii. XIII. 1; v. VIII. 1: IV. i. [i.] IV.

. buny t,ciy 僧 นออู,รว lir

บุงวูร

間

¥157

順

8252

崠

อบุว 劆

ກດກາ

匯

əį

脉

陆

00,43

ЦX

бигу 阩

[IX

પુરકુ,કર ía

novi

 \mathcal{L} uny

塚

遺

千

pe 卒

南

勞感動感動。動

tung

勿 wuh

匍

匐

pih

To reward and encourage. I. xiv. IV. 4: II. viii. VII. 1: III. i. V. 5.

To be laborious. IV. i. [iii.] X. 勤斯, =laboriously. I. xv. II. 1.

Toil, pain. II. iv. X. 2.

To move. I. xv. I. 5: IV.iii. IV. 5.

THE 20TH RADICAL. 人.

In the phrase of kill, the small peony, choh
I. vii. XXI. 1, 2, we should read, probably,

Do not. I. ii. V. 1, 2, 3: vi. V. 6; et al. Occasionally it is simply the indicative not, as in I. ix. III. 1, 2; xv. III. 1: 式勿從謂, II. vii. VI. 7. Wang Yin-che adduces 弗間弗仕, 勿醫君子 as an instance, where 勿 is merely an expletive particle; but I much prefer construing the lines as I have done in the translation.

To wrap, to enfold. I. ii. XII. 1.

The two hands full. I. x. IV. 2: II. viii. II. 1. See —.

In the phrase 前 富, to crawl,—walk on the hands and knees. I. iii. X. 4 (—to do one's utmost): III. ii. I. 4 (used of a child's first attempts to walk).

A calabash, a gourd. III. ii. I. 4. Perp'aou

See 匍.

THE 21st RADICAL.

七郎北京

A spoon, or ladle. II. v. IX. 1.

The north, north, northern. I. iii. XV. 1; XVI. 1: v. III. 4: xi. II. 3; VII. 1: II. i. IX. 3; ii. VII. 1-5; v. V. 4; IX. 7; vi. I. 1: III. i. X. 6; iii. VII. 6. Observe 有此 in II. v. V. 6.

THE 22D RADICAL.

(1) To relieve, to deliver. II. iii. III. 1.

ter and b, it sometimes—if not, as in II. v. III. 2, 8. —improper. II. vii. VI. 5. 2d, — E, it is not...that. I. iii. XVII. 3; v. IV. 1: X. 1, 2, 3; vii. XIX. 1, 2; viii. I. 1, 2; xiii. IV. 1, 2: II. v. IV. 3: III. i. X. 3: ii. X. 4: IV. i. [iii.] V.; et al.—Wang Yin-che argues also that it is often used for b, that;—as in II. v. I. 3; I. iv. VI. 3; II. viii. 1, 5. But all the passages he adduces may be explained from one or other of the above usages. (2). Used for b, elegant and accomplished. I. v. I. 1, 2, 3.

To fail, to cease. III. ii. III. 5.

THE 23D RADICAL.

A compeer. III. ii. V. 3. To correspond to III. i. X. 3.

THE 24TH RADICAL.

A thousand. I. iv. VI. 3: II. iii. IV. 1, ts'ëen 2, 3; et al. 十一,—see 十; but in IV. i. [ii.] II.,—ten thousand. 千元, the utmost force of a large State. IV. ii.

IV. 5.
A calendaric branch-character. II. iii.

Grass and the smaller plants. II. i. vIII. 6; IX. 2. Used for trees in v. X. 4, and in 2 1 1 = all plants.

(1) A measure, which we may call a pint. I. x. IV. 1. (2) To ascend. I. iv. VI. 2.; II. i. VI. 6; iii. VI. 1: III. i. I. 8. To climb. II. vii. IX. 6. =to go into the fold. II. iv. VI. 3.

To be low. II. iv. VIII. 5.

To finish, to get to the end of. I. xv. I.

1. To have an end, or sequel. I. iii. IV.

4. To be ended or used up. III. iii. IV.

1. =to finish one's duty. II. v. VIII. 6.

Quite, entirely. I. xv. II. 3: II. iv. IX. 5;

vi. V. 3: III. ii. X. 1, 5; iii. III 7, 8; XI.

1: IV. ii. III. 7. In the end. II. iv. VII.

1, 6.

(1) The south; southern; southwards; in the south. I. i. IV. 1, 2, 3; IX. 1; ii. III. 1, 2; IV. 1; VIII. 1, 2, 3; et seepe. (2) It occurs in the titles of Bkk. I., II., of Part I., and is used with reference to the odes in them in II. vi. IV. 4. (3) A name. I. xii. IX. 1. A clan-name. II. i. VIII. 3, 5: III. iii. IX. 1. (4)

THE 27TH RADICAL,

A ring. III. iii. VII. 2.

iii. IV. ö. Used for Es some kind of horse, IV.

(1) A plain. I. zii. II. 2: II. iii. VI. 8: III. ii. VII. To be thick. II. iv. VIII. 6; v. IV. 5. Secure. III. ii. VIII. 3. Virtuous. II. i.

-sib a to sman (2) trict. II. iii, III. 5. 1; IV. 2, 8. 6; ii. VI. 2, 8. A level height. II. i. III.

sometimes we can hardly avoid translatgenders and numbers. Sometimes it is hardly more than the definite article; and The third pronoun possessive, of all

To receive sufficient nourishment. (1) To be wearied out. II. v. I. 3. Tranquilly and long. II. ii. X. F F to be tranquil and serene. I. xi. III. 3.

.onot albe 4th tone. to be wet. I. ii. VI. 1; though some read . 国纪祖 probably should be brought girls Tobat .V[.ii] J. VI ni . 個獨 ban 獨

(6) The app. of a sash hanging down. II. (1) A whet-stone. III ii. VI. 6. (2) To be oppressive. II. iv. VIII. 8. To be oppressive. II. iv. VIII. 8. To be iii. III. 8. Disorder. III. iii. X. 1, 3. (3) iii. III. 8. Disorder. III. iii. X. 1, 3. (3) on the passage. (4) To go through a stream with the clothes on. I. iii. IX. I. stream with the clothes on. I. iii. IX. I.

THE 28TH RADICAL,

7.0 go away from, to leave. I. ii. VII. I. 5, 3: II. iv. V. 3: III. ii. I. 8; iii. IV. 6. Three-cornered, or having three teeth; —of a spear. I. xi. III. 3.

To put avay. II. vi. VIII. 2.

Probably Orion, I, ii, X, 2, irregular, uneven appearance. I. i. I. 2, 3. ns the phrase & & to present an

THE 29TH RADICAL.

ณอูกิ

X

2115

É

up,si

A

深

平子

οις.γ

闖

นอกิ

墹

นอดิ

澗 yənə.y 쮔

uənfi 厠

aroy

固

ดินงาน

W

भार

Further, moreover, I. vii. I. 1, 2, 8; IV. 2; 7 viii. VI. 1—4; xv. I. 1, 2, 3; II. iv. VIII. 9; v. IV. 2; vii. VIII. 1: IV. i. [ii.]

7 .VI ii .VI m , the wild tribes of the south, in sea of the south, in III, iii. VIII, 3, and out 和 南 which is lost.—. teol ei doidw name of the 10th ode of II. i., the text of the hills of the south, (5) 南南, the but [] In some places means only This is the 南山山山山, Y. 1: ct al., canne to belong to Ts'in. I. xi. V. I, 2. the name of a famous hill of Chow, which

To be large, IV, ii, III, 7,

THE 25TH RADICAL,

size. III. iii. VIII. 4. A jar for containing spirits, -of medium VIII. 5. A diviner of dreams, II. iv. reference to dreams. II. iv. V. 5, 6; VI. To divine, or interpret. Used with (1) To divine,—by means of the tortoise-shell. I. iv. VI. 2; v. IV. 2; II. i.,
IX. 4: III. i. X. 7. (2) To give to. II. i.
VI. 4; vi. V. 4.

.U THE 26TH RADICAL.

III. ii. VIII. 6. this out. (2) III II, majestic-looking. selves. The above instances hardly bear proprinte to females speaking of them-The diet. says the character is ap-(2) I. I. iii. IX. 4; viii, XV. 2: III. ii.

A calendaric branch-character. II. iv. x.1(觸 切). = [1], to look up to. III, iii, IV. 7, 8;

'a 'b 'II 30 Bungay Is often written and printed, instead noviu

A mane of a plant called mouse-นอกลูงุ (I) To be rolled up. I. iii. I. 3.

(8) Curred; to curve or curl. Used of a having recesses. III. ii. VIII. 1 (香香). ear. ? the lappa minor.
(1) Elegant. I. xi. X. 2. The dict. does not give this meaning. (2) Indented, (2) Indented, นอกอ,วุ

To conne to. I. v. IV. 1 (天 []]); vii. certain way of dressing the hair. II, viii. I.

always with L, excepting in III. iii. I. Used A high minister and noble. VI. 6; X. 3. = and then, so. III. ii. I. 5. XV. 2; viii. IV. 1: II. iv. IX. 5: III. ii.

must mean - the chief minister. 土嶼ス.ヤエ.ホエ.ヤエ.メエ.ッi.ll al

buny

峭 tzety

間

③

豢 ll1

116

ดินทธิ

111

Bunb

111

ດາລູຄົ

早

כןיבוו

早 ynd

ᆡ yod

扯

I.; [iii.] IV. It occurs occasionally at | the end of lines, where it has a verbal force. II. ii. V. 4 (=again and again); v. II. 2 (= to come again, to be regained);

vii. VI. 2, 5 (= to repeat).

A friend. I. iii. IX. 4; II. iii. IX. 1, 3; So 友生, II.i. IV.5; V. 1.

The combination 朋友 is frequent. II. iv. X. 6: III. ii. III. 4; et al. To be friendly with. III. iii. II. 7. To give a friendly welcome to. I. i. I. 3. Used for the mate of a bird. II. i. V. 1. (2) Brotherly. II. iii. III. 6: III. i. VII. 3. (3) Used for A. III. iii. IV. 7. twos. II. iii. VI. 3. (4) In

Sape. To come to, to reach to; to attain to. I. iii. III. 1, 2, 3: II. i. III. 1; vi. VIII. 3: III. iii. I. 6; III. 5; VI. 7; et al. To avail. I. vi. V. 3. = to follow. II. iii. IV. 3. Very often it simply and. I. ii. IV. 2; xv. I. 6: II. ii. III. 4: IV. ii. IV. 7; Occasionally we must translate it by with, along with;—as in I. iii. X. 1, 6: III. i. II. 2.

叔

双 tsteu

取 tseu

更 show

(1) To return. I. iv. X. 2 (旋反): II. vii. IX. 1 (of the recoil of a bow): IV. i. [i.] IX. (=to be repeated). To this may be reduced 文側 in I. i. I. 2; see 側; and 反覆, to be turning, changeable, II. vi. III. 3. Also I. viii. XI. 3, where it used of arrows lodging successively in the same spot. (2) To violate, to break. I. v. IV. 6: III. ii. IX. 5 (to be reversed). On the contrary, even, notwithstanding. I. iii. X. 5: II. vii. VI. 5; IX. 5: III. iii. X. 2. (3) JY J文, to be decorous. II. vii. VI. 3:IV. i.

(1) The younger of brothers, used as a designation, and sometimes equivalent to a name. I. vii. III. 1-3; IV. 1-3: II. iii. IV. 1-4. (2) =uncle,—a father's younger brother. So, in connection with

| H;—see | H. | 表文, my uncle. IV. ii. IV. 2. (3) To gather. I. xv. I. 6.
To take, to get. I. ix. VI. 1—3; xv. I. 3, 4: 1I. v. VI. 6; vi. VI. 5; VII. 1 (and to levy, take as a tax); vii. IX. 5: III. ii.

3; xv. V. 1: 111. iii. VII. 4.

To receive. I. iii. I. 4: II. i. VI. 2; iii. I. 1-3; III. 6; vi. VI. 4; vii. I. 1, 3; VI. 4; IX. 4: III. i. II. 3: VII. 2, 3. 4; IX. 5, 6; et sope. ==to believe. II. v. VI. 4. 優受,-see 優.

11 11, the noise of grain being warhed. III. ii. I. 7.

THE SOME RADICAL.

The month, H. iv. VIII, 2; 1X, 7; v. IV.5. | 15, to feed one's self. III. Loh ii. I. 4. Used for the beak of a bird. I. xv. II. 3.

Old, ancient; of old. I. iii. II. 8, 4; IV. 1: II. vi. VII. 1: III. i. III. 1, 2; VI. 5 (, meaning king Wan); iii. VI. 2: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI.; iii. I.; III.

To be drawn to the full ;-spoken of a bow. III, ii, II. 8.

A particle, at the end of lines, and of members of lines;—untranslateable, though it seems to denote some affection of the mind. I. i. IV. 1-8; iii. III. 4; iv. I. 1, 2: II. ii. VII. 1-5; vii. VII. 3, 4, 5. So, 只且 in I. iii. XVI. 1—3.

To call out. II. vi. I. 5. (月十號).

To call, to summon. I. viii. V. 1: II. i. VIII. 1; iv. VIII. 5: III. i. III. 5.

The apparage of Shaou, and the territory subsequently so called. In the title of I. ii.; I. v. 1—3: II. viii. III. 1, 4, 5: III. iii. V. 2, 3, 4, 6; VIII. 3, 4, 5, 6; XI.7. May, might; can, could. I. i. IX. 1, 2, 3; iii. IV. 3; et sæpe. It is often followed by 1; -see 1. =to count tolerable, to tolerate. II. v. V. 2.

Used for 給, in the phrase 台背, the wrinkled back of old age. III. ii. II. 4: IV. ii. IV. 5.

A recorder, or historiographer. II. vii. VI. 5. 內史, the recorder of the Interior. II. iv. IX. 4.

(1) The right; on the right. With the right hand. I. vi. III. 1, 2. Generally used in correlation with 左, the left. I. i. 2, 3; II. vi. VII. 3; et al. attendants (those on the right and left). II. iii. VI. 3; vii. VIII. 4: III. iii. IV. 7; et al. 左之右之, to move horses, in driving, to the left or to the right. II. vi. X. 4. 左右, to arrange, to order. 左右—in every way.
(2) Used for the spear-III, iii, IX. 2. IV. i. [ii.] IX. man, who sat on the right of the driver in a chariot. I. vii. V. 3. (3) To honour. II. iii. I. 2: IV. i. [i.] VII.; VIII.; [ii.] VII. To assist. III. i. II. 6; ii. V. 1. (4) In the phrase 左右, to assist. IV. iii.

To superintend; an officer. 司徒 the minister of Instruction. II. iv. IX. 4; Works. III. i. III. 5. In I. vii. VI. 2, wo have II in, one who adheres to-is all for-the right.

To be sorrowful, to sigh, I, i. III. I.

Each, every one, f. iv. X. 3: II. iv. X. 3; v. 11. 2; vii. VI. 3; 111. iii. 11. 9.

中和 këaou 召 chaou

旬 kow

只 che

召 shaou

미

石

યુદ્ધા

可 μŦ

I. 7; VI. 6; X. 6; iii. II. 12. To marry. I. viii. VI. 3, 4; xii. III. 2,

T T Indies of noble Houses. II. viii. princes, II. vi. X. 4; vil. L. 1,2; et al. by guests of their host, and by the host of his guests, II. ii. III. 1—3; V. 1—4; of the feudal VII. 1—5; IX. 1—4; et al.; of the feudal IV. 1, 2, 3; of a husband, I, i, X, I, 2; ii.

III. 1—3; VIII. 1—3; iii. VIII. 2; iv. III.

I; vii. XVI. 1—3; et expe; of officers,— princely men, I iii. VIII. 4; iv. X. 4; ix.

VI. 1—3; II. 1, I. 2; et sape; of superior
nen, or worthies, II. v. IV. 4, 5; III. iii. II.

7; III. 3; IV. 8; X. 4, et al., of the king,
II. v. III. 6; vi. IV. 1—3; IX. 1, 3, et al.,

by guests of their host, and by the host

To bark, I. ii. XII. 3.

Not, or not; denial. I. i. II. 3; iii. IX. 4: II. v. I. 5; V. 6; vi. VII. 3; vii. VI. 5.

the She, the character has the same name in both its meanings.

(1) To move. I. vi. VI. I. (2) To reform. I. xv. IV. 2. Evil, bad. III, ili, II, 10; VI. 4. But according to the old pronunciation in

VII.; ii. III. 6. Some pronounce the character hwa, when it has this meaning. To blow, to blow upon. I. iii. VII. 1, 2; vii. XII. 1: II. i. I. 1; v. V. 7. To be noisy, clamorous, IV. i. [iii.] VII.; ii. III. 6. Some pronounce the mi rhe noise made by deer in II. 71. V. 5. To inform, to announce to: I. I. II. 3; iv. IX. 3; v. II. 3; viii. VI. 2; X. III. 3; IV. IX. 2, 6; v. I. 3; X. 8; X. III. 3; II. iv. III. 3, 4; iii. II. 2, 9, 12, vi. V. 4, 5; III. ii. III. 3, 4; iii. II. 2, 9, 12. She it should, probably, always be read as kuh, unless where it has a peculiar pronounclation by poetical license,—as in kaou and kuh of the character, but in the The dict. gives the two pronunciations 具吾, name of an ancient State. IV. iii. IV. 6.

VIII, 8 (宗 禹, the honoured capital IV. 1, 2(用页): 27. IV. 1-3 (the old Chow): II. I. II (cap.): iv. VII. 8 (dyn.); and sometimes the capital of the dynasty. In the title of L. i. L. xili. IV. I, 2 (cap.); xiv. the dynasty, sometimes the old territory, In the Sue, the term sometimes denotes (1) The territory occupied by T'an-too, and from which the dynasty of his descendants received the name of Chow. calling happily to one another. II. i. I.

viii. Z. 4: III. i. III. 4. Everywhere, universally. II. i. III. 2-5; IV. 7. (4) Great. I. i. III. II. II. I. II. bend. I. x. X. 2. (3) To help. III. iii. [iii.] V; X; XI; ii. IV. 2, 3, 8. (2) A of Chow); X. 2 (周景, the honoured

88

(1) The same; together; in common, along with L ii. X. i. iii. X. i. XII. 3; Along with L ii. X. i. iii. X. i. ii. XII. 3; XII. II. 2; 3; xi. IX. i. 2; xi. IX. i. IX. i. Xi. i. it the pronunciation bein. (2) 🛨 🛱, a name, II. iil. III. 5, 6: III. iii. V. 8; VI. 8. (3) A clan-name, II. viii. I. 3. Thus used, the dictionary gives VI. 4. 771 = 300 771. (2) Fine, elegant, I. ii. IX. 1: III. ii. VIII. 7, 8. IX. I; et al. With lucky auspices. II. i. To be united. To be placed side by side, I. zi, III. 2. To be harmonious, II. I. Y. 7. — a mate, III. i. II. 4.

(1) To be fortunate, lucky, I. ii. IX. I

(i) is the fortunate time); iv. VI. 2; x.

(it is the fortunate time); iv. VI. 2; x.

1; et al. (3) To come together in, to be collected, concentrated. II, ii. IX, 4; vi. IX, 3; et al. (4) To covenant, to proffer allegiance. IV. of a general audience of all the princes with the king. II, iii, V. 4. (3) To be equally matched. II, iii. V. 1,? 5, vii. VI. colour, II vi. VI. 2. II (2) Anne is a general hunt, I. zv. I. 4. (2) Name 凹 輩 clouds all one III. ii. X. 3. 雨 簱, fellow-officera. 1. VII. 7; st al.

To be famous. I. viii. XI. 2.

called II, the sovereign God IV. ii.
IV. 3. The term is applied to the feudal princes in L. 6, IV. iii. III., and to the Fig. 80e _); VIII.; et al. God is see =); X. 3, 4; iii. I. 8: IV. i. [i.] VI. (1) A sovereign. III. i. IX. 1 (三)

(1) A window facing the north. L. xv. To eject from the mouth. III, iii. VI. 5.

(2) The name of a district. II. iv.

αιουρ

图

ดาวูกิ

娰

岩岩

0001

븊 ຕົກ,ນຸວ

知

oom

果 06

洲

19,d

To anol

逯

贵

We find it used of a prince or ruler of a State. I, i. I. 1; v. I. 1, 2, 3; xi. V. I, 2, xiv. III. I—1, et sape; of T'ae-sze, the queen of king Wan,—princely lady, I. i. phrase # + is very variously applied. found in combination with 7, and the iii. III. 4. The term is most frequently of a State. I. iv. V. 2. R. the presid-ing wives. II. vi. V. 3. 4. A husband. I. Passim. A ruler; commonly used of the prince of a State, but sometimes spoken of the king. I. iii. XI. I. 2; v. III. 8; III. iii. III. 8: II. i. VI. 4 (including princes and kings); iv. V. 8; X. 2; vi. V. 6. To be or play the ruler, I. xi. V. 1: III. i. VII. 4; ii. V. 2. To acknowledge as ruler. VII. 4; ii. V. 2. To acknowledge as ruler. VII. 4; ii. V. 2. To acknowledge as ruler. hi I. 5.

unəx

基

凹

00,3

屽 anoy enin À hun,

间

II. IV. 6.

LOF IL

(3) 唐棣

To open the mouth wide. 15 15, the app. of diverging points. II. v. VI.2. A particle of exclamation; in sentences, says Wang Yin-che, expressive either of says wang im-one, expressive either or admiration or grief. I. i. L. 2; ii. VIII. 1 admiration or grief. We find it at the admiration of interrogative lines, where Wang end of interrogative lines, where it is also interrogative. 影 To wail,—as a child. III. ii. I. 3. 哉 To be clamorous, to brawl. II. vii. VI. 4. says it is also interrogative. I iii. XV. says it is also interrogative. It occurs 1.3; vi. I 1.3; II. 1; et al. It occurs also at the end of members of lines, where To call out. III. ii. I. 5. 强萨呼). also at the end of members of these, where it is little, if anything, more than an expletive. III. i. I. 2; et al. Passim. As a verb. To charge, to The subject may be order, to appoint. Heaven or God. the king, any leader, annointment. An outer border. IV. iii. III. (1) To be of use to. II. iv. VIII. 8. As a noun, charge, appointment;—gener-(2) = Z, the final particle I. vii. XIX.1. ally the appointment by Heaven to the ally the appointment by meaven to the sovereignty of the kingdom. Liv. VI. 3; x. II. 3; III. 3; III. 17. 2; iv. IX. 8; v. III. 3; III. 17. 2; iv. IX. 8; v. To be perspicacious, wise. II. iii. VII. quen 3(哲人); v. L 5: 皿: 区 1; 蓝区 XI.2; III.i.Ll, ½, 5, 7; IL.½, 6; VII.2; IX. 1,(哲人) 9; VL 4; X.3; IV. i. [ii.]
VII.; iii. IV. 1. 2; X.2; iL III. 7: V.1; VIII. 4; IX.2; et yun sorpe one's appointed lot. I. ii. X. 1, 2; May; to be well with;—followed by iv. VII. 3; vii. VI. 1. =the nature confer-Theh To condole with the living on account of their misfortunes. I. iv. X. 1:

To condole with the living on account of their misfortunes. I. iv. X. 1:

The dodder. I. iv. IV. 1. (2) The hall of the leading from the gate to the hall of path leading from the gate to the hall of the leading from the gate to the hall of the leading from the gate to the hall of the leading from the gate to the hall of the leading from the gate to the hall of the leading from the gate to the gate to the leading from the gate to the gate the gate to the gate the gate the gate the gate the red by Heaven, III, iii, II, L death. III. iii. IV. ½, 8. In IV. i. [i.] II., death. 111.111. it by E, but that is not necessary init ordinances. Equally gratuitous is its explanation of 唁 the character by in IV. i. [1.] VI. yen the sparrow-plum: 3 kind of plum or cherry-tree. I. ii. XIII. 1. 3 temple. L xii. VII. 2. 康康, to be very productive. III.ii. The character should probably be written with H at the top, instead of To respond to in singing, I, vii, XI, 1, 廰 (1) A fault. II. i. V. 2. (2) Responsibility; blame, II. v. I. 3; vi. I. 6. (3) Inauspicious, I. v. IV. 2. fung I at the side. To sell away. I. iii. X. 5. 秘 Lo To beat a drum. III. ii. II. 2. 售 Only. IL. iv. V. 9. 唯唯, to move about, go out and in, show Loud, or sneering laughter. I. v. IV. 5. 男は To peck up. II. iv. III. 1-3; v. II. 5. (1) To consult about, to plan. In conicei freely. I. viii. IX. 3. rection with other verbs, as fix, E., &c. (1) The dynasty of Shang; sometimes denoting its original seat; and in IV. ii.

denoting its original seat; and III. i. 1. 4;

III. 1. 2, the first lord of Shang. III. 1. 8;

III. 1. 8. IV. ii. IV. 2;

III. 1. 8. IV. ii. IV. 2; II. i. III. 2, 5: IV. i. [ii.] I. (2) Alas! wei All; entirely; to unite. III. iii. V. 7: chon 浴 III. iii. L 2—8. III i. II. 0, 7, and, denoting the king of IV. ii. IV. 2; iii. III. shong the dynasty, iii. I. 2-3. (2) III. A beak or bill. I. xiv. II. 3. 戚 the name of king Woo's grand-master. To be distinguished, glorious, I. v. I. Liva 臣臣, the slow and heavy move-昳 阻制因, the sound of a dram. IV, ii. nest of a carriage. I. vi. IX. 2.

To ass. to make inquires. IV. ii. VII.

To question prisoners. I iii. XIV. 2.

To ass complimentarily. I iii. XIV. 2.

To ass complimentarily also compliant to in mire for sending also compliant. 0 زرين III. i. II. S. 1, 2-HEI HEAR TO commiscrate. I. xv. IV. 1. 2.

To pity, to commiscrate. II. iv II. 6: iii. VII.

To pity, to commiscrate. II. iv III. 6: iii. VII.

3: v. X. v. I ob iii a sad or deplorable case. II. iv. IX. 1: v. I. 2. Mas ! alas for.
case. II. iv. IX. 1: v. III. 1: ii. 6: 5: IX. ii.
II. iii. VIII. 1: iv. vIII. 1: ii. iii. X. X.

1. II. 5: viii. X. 2. 3. 7. 7. 7. 7. 7. 7. 11. v. 阻 1.64.676 峄 and to inquire for sending the compli-mentary offerings. I, vii. VIII. is KIЦ 5. v. L. t. III. in. XI. 7. 衰衰, IL v. vin.La.有疑····有桐··········

 m_{z} :

i. VI. 1: IV. i. [iii.] VIII. - the heir.

쨟 豐 An initial particle. L x. X. I, 2. Syn-To continue, I. vii. XVII. 1: II. i. IX. E 698 源 An exclamation. Oh! ah! See 厚. ·製舌 uznu:製子 tion. ous, wide and deep. II. iv. V. 5. VIII. 2: IV. ii. III. I. (2) To be spacirepeated, IV. i. [ii.] L. (2) In a designa-美, I. viii. XI, 1-3; and the character of the horses' bells in a chariot. IL iii. hnavy 纖 In Descriptive of the sound 〒. 1—8; xv. 1. 5: II. iii. IX. 1. So, 30 臺灣 is as an exclamation, Oh! ah! alas! I, ix. ยุกจิณ Sepe. (1) To sigh for. I. i. III. I. To land: It's most frequent use 缓 A stoppage of the breath. I. vi. L 3. əyr . face. II. iv. IX. 7. unst and and the talk before the 勴 爆 To enjoy, to relish. II. vi. V. 4, 6. IL III. IV. 4: III. III. V. 7; IX. 5. gives the character in the 3d tone. of troops;—but the meaning is uncertain.
III, ii. VI. 5. (8) To exert to the utmost.
IV. i. [1] VI. In this sense, the dict. up,z panting. II. i. II. 2. (2) To be numerous. 痼 ·脚脚 upt (I) Horses snorting and 寓 I. I. Z. 1: H. i. V. 1. Spoken of spears rising aloft in a chariot. I. vii. V. 2. (1) Entirely H. i. VI. 1. (2) A body эų 卓 流 喧, Oh! yes. IV. i. [ii.] II. High: applied to mountains. IV. i. [L.]
WIII., [iii.] XI. Applied to trees, growke food ing high without throwing out branches. πούρυ 闸 黑, a seream of alarm. L xv. II. 4. nones iv, VII. 2; X. 1; VII. III. 3; III. II. X. 5; III. III. 7; IV. I. To destroy, III. III. II. 12. viii. V. 3. 邋 To blow, to whistle. I. ii. XI. 8; II. e: în i: m erally with the adjunct of $\frac{1}{2}\text{Cor} or $\frac{11}{2}\text{.} II. 8ang sacrifice in the temple of ancestors, and to offer it, II. i. VI. 4; vi. V. 2: IV. ii. IV. To lose. I. iii. YI. 3: III. i. I. 7; YII. 3. Death, ruin. III. ii. I. 6; iii. XI. 1. Gen-襲 Bunys the sound of small bells, vii. VIII. 2; of flutes, IV. iii. I. (1) To eat; to taste. I. x. VIII. 3; II. vi. (2) The subumnsl bups 燛 Mourning; durial, I. iii. X. 4: II. i. IV. .V [.ii.] the noise made by insects, II. v. III. 4; of hwang a male child. II. iv. V. 8; of the harmony the in [i.] IX.; (2) 唐曹 山(c) (南南) *កំពេល*ប្ 酊 (1) Spoken of the stars. Small-like. I. X. 1, 2. To sparkle, III. iii. IV. 8 त्र्वि प्रचि descriptive of the loud cry of 虛 To rejoice; to rejoice in. I. vii. XVI. 8; x. II. 8; XV. I. II. III. II. 1, 2; III. 6; vi. VII. 8; VIII. 4; vii. IV. 1; III. iii. III. 10; V. 7; IV. ii. IV. 8. i. [i.] vil. 型量 想文王, king Wan, the blesser. IV. 00:y AIII. 4: IV. I. [II.] VIII.; II. IV. 8. hnory 船 To bless, blessing. II. vii. VI. 2: III. ii. 渝 To pant, III. i. III. 8. The app. of novh by locusts. I. il. III. 1: II. i. VIII. 5. 駠 The app. of a chariot driven irregularly. my descriptive of the noise made III. i. III. 4. atoy blessing, III. ii. III. 3. (2) 嘉 荒, the barbel. II. ii. V. I, 2. (3) To take a wife. 利4 The throat, III, iii, VI. 3. III. VI. 8. 就 告, to announce in 2; vil. XVI. 1; of bella. II. vi. IV. 2: III. 2; vi. L. 3. Sape. (1) Good, admirable. I. xv. III. 4; IV. 2; II. i. I. 1—3; ii. III. 4; V. 1—4; iii. I. 1—3; iv. II. 2; v. X. 4; et al. To approve, to admire. I. iv. X. 2: II. iv. VII. 9; of the whistling of the wind. I. iii. XVI. 豐 birds, I. i. H. i : H. i. VIII. 6 : III. ii. VIII. อทอง descriptive of the notes of 睯 Good, to be good. I. iii. VII. 2: II. vi. VII. 3: III. ii. X. 5. To be good at. I. iv. X. 3: v. I. 3; vii. IV. 2: III. iii. III. 15, 16. uv.7 นลบุธ 輿 奉 To sigh. I. vi. V. I; xiv. IV. 1-3; xv. əv,y บุลทบุว 船 級 The sound of sighing. I. vi. V. I. The app. of weeping. I. vi. V. 3. II. 2; VII. 3; VIII. 4. un,7 (頭声).v [iii].i 颜 bination with Lo or 禺,=to rest. II. i. The sound of many people eating. IV. and distress. II. iii. VII. 3. nonb star. H. v. IX. 6. (2) To kneel. In comthe cry of geese in agitation 硱 副, Luciter, the morning (1) To lead the way. II. iii. III. 4. To begin. III. ii. VI. 1. To lay open. II. vi. VII. 5. III. i. VII. 2. = to enlarge. IV. ii. year. III. ii. I. 7. in it the succeeding IA. r. [ii.] X.

1(髓酮): III.i.II.i. To inberit. III.

225)

onymous with Mr.

噲

娛

测嚏

te k'wae iv. V. 5.

腹膜, to be in multitudes. III. iii. VII. 5.

note on the passage.

To sneeze. I. iii. V. 3. But see the 嚴 To be stern, majestic. Always in combination with 有. II. iii. III, 3: III. iii. yen IX. 3: IV. iii. V. 4. The character alone, and redoubled,-巊 Birds calling to one another. II. i. VI. 1. ying 囂 (1) The noise of many gaou voices. II. iii. V. 2; iv. VIII. 2. (2) Con-The dict. temptuously. III. ii. X. 3. proposes to pronounce hëaou-hëaou in the first instance of the characters, and to distinguish between their meaning in the 1st and 2d;—unnecessarily. A sack, or bag. III. ii. VI. 1. nang THE 31st RADICAL. 囚 A prisoner, IV. ii. III. 5. is'čw Four, the fourth. I. iv. IX. 1; v. III.3; Ш viii. X. 2; XI. 3; xi. II. 3; xv. I. 1, 4, 8; II. i. II. 1, 2; IX. 3; iii. III. 1, 2; et al. We have 儿 威, meaning all in a State, the four quarters of it, whether the subject be the royal State, or a feudal one. I. xiv. III. 3: II. iv. IX. 2; X. 1; vii. V. 2; III. ii. IX. 3; iii. II. 2; V. 1, 8. But the same terms also-the States of the four quarters, i. e., all the States of the kingdom. I. xiv. IV. 4: III. i. VII. 1; iii. VIII. 6. In I. xv. IV. 1—3, VI 域 74 means four particular States. occurs frequently, meaning the four quarters of any one State, or of the kingdom, as comprehending all the States. II. iv. VII. 3, 7; IX. 8; vi. I. 3; viii. X. 4: III. i. II. 1; IV. 5; VII. 1, 3, 8; IX. 6; X. 4, 5; ii. V. 3; et al. With, the four horses of a chariot is also frequent. II. vii. IV. 5: III. iii. III. 2; V. 4; VI. 7, 8; VII. 2; et 加, the four seas, seems to include the feudal States, and all beyond them. IV. iii. III. To rely on. I. iv. X.4. By means of. III. iii. V. 3. To go on from one thing to an-凶 y i:u other, III. iii. VII. G. 因心, by the natural movements of the heart. III. i. VII. 3. (1) To revolve. III. iii. IV. 1. (2) To e be deflected, corrupt. KE, II. vi. IV. 2: III.L II 3; V. 6: IV ii. IV. 1. [巴斯] 11. v. l. 1; 111. iil. 11. 12; 111. 5, XI. 2. (b) Todis Joy, ter, bellious, HL iii, IX.6.

INDEX III. 禾 A round grain bin. I. ix, VI. 3. k'eun Secure; securely; to make sure. II. i. 田 VI. 1: III. 1. VII. 2: IV. ii. III. 7. koo 肎 A park. III. i. VIII. 2. yëw 庯 A vegetable garden I. viii. V. 3; xv. I. 7. poo (1) Borders. III. iii. III. 4; XI. 1. (2) 幸 An instrument to give the signal for yц stopping a performance of music. IV. i. Passim. (1) A State. I. iii. VI. 1; vi. 域 X. 2 (國人); ix. III. 2; xii. VI. 1 (國 kwoh (); et sæpe. 人); ziv. III. 4 (國 most natural meaning is that of kingdom, as embracing all the States, in II. iv. VII. 1, 3, 6; VIII. 10; v. I. 5; vi. I. 4: III. iii. III. 2, 8; XI. 7. So, 中國, in III. iii. I. 6; III. 7; but 中國 is the capital, the centre of the kingdom, in III. ii. IX. 武, the royal 1, 2, 4, 5; iii. I, 4. State,—in some instances, probably—the kingdom. II. iii. III. 1, 4: III. i. I. 3. 灵, the two dyn-四域,—see 川. asties that preceded Chow. III. i. VII. 1. 、 | od . the feudal States. IV. ii. IV. 9; iii. IV. 4, 5; V. 4. (2) In a designation. 子 國. L. vi. X. 2. 九圍, the nine 圍 Anything encircled. provinces or divisions of the kingdom. wei IV. iii. IV. 8. A garden. I. vii. II. 8; ix. III. 1, 2: II. 園 iii. X. 1, 2; v. VI. 7 = a park. I. xi. II. 3. yuen To plan, to consult for. II. i. IV. 8; iv. 圖 X. 1: III. iii. V. 5; VI. 6. t'00 THE 320 RADICAL. + (1) The ground, land. II. vi. I. 4. It is used for a land, a region. I. ix. VII. 3: III. iii. V. 5; VII. 5; IX. 2; X. 2. We t'oo have , meaning this lower world, in opposition to heaven above, and sometimes with special reference to the people inhabiting it. I. iii. IV. 1, 2: II. v. I. 1; vi. III. 1; IX. 1: III. iii. IV. 1: IV. ii. 十字一terri IV. 1 ; iii. III.; IV. 1. tory. III. ii. VIII. 3: iii. III. 4. land and fields. III. iii. V. 3; VIII. 5: IV. 土胍 and 温土, the land ii. IV. 3. and its boundaries. III. iii. V. 6; VIII. 3. 十風, w -to inhabit. III. i. III. 1. do the field work in a State. I. lif. VI. 1. (2) 家土, the altar to the Spirits of the land, III. i. III. 7. (3) 相土, one of the early lords of Shang, IV, ili. IV, 2.

xv. II. 9.

ans;

狂

007

(1) A boundary. IV. iii. III. (2) A place of tombs. I. x. XI. 2. Perhaps the meaning here is the enclosure or border of such a place.

Increasingly. I. iii. XV. 2, 3.

will 王無競棒 III. II. VI 4. in hand, to attend to. I. xv. I. 7: II. vi. V. 8: III. i. VII. 8: IV. iii. I. — to take. 1, 2 (魯執); XV. 1, 2; et al. T.O fure To hold, to grapp. I. iii. VI. 4; XIII. 8; vII. 1, VI. 1; VII. 1; VII. 1, VII. 1, VIII. 2; vII. IV. 1; VIII.

those divisions. II. vi. VI. 3, 4; III. ii. strength was king Woo. IV. i. [1.] IX. The smaller divisions of fields; to make

A foundation. II. ii. VII. I: III. iii. II.

To brush; to sweep away. I. iv. II. 1; x. II. 2; xv. III. 3; II. i. V. 2; III. iii. II. 4.

(1) A hall; the principal apartment, to which you ascend by steps. I. vii. XIV. i. 2; viii. III. 3; x. I. I—3; xv. I. 8: IV. i. iii. J VII. (2) An open glade in a hill. I. xi. V. 2. (8) Mane of a town in Wei. I. xi. V. 2.

ii. L. 5; II. 8. To be hard; strong. II. vi. VIII. 2: III.

i. [iii.] II.; IV. To be equal to, to be able to bear, IV.

ATOW & 電解 pensed. III. iii, III. 6. To respond to, to recompense. I. iii. IV. 2, 4; v. X. 1—8; vii. VIII. 8; II. v. VIII. 4; vi. V. 2; vi. V. 2; vi. 4; vi. To be recom-we find the character meaning a vegetable when not required for the other purpose, A stack-site. I. xv. I. 7, 8; III. 2: II. ch'ang stacks was cultivated with vegetables, ch'ang stacks was cultivated with vegetables, of recompense, II. v. IX, 6, 2; iv. V. 2: III. i. III. 6. Fity cubits' length of wall. II. iii. VII. garden in II. iv. II. 1, 2.

Fowl-holes in a wall. I. vi. II. 1.

Mire. II. i. VIII. 4; vii. IX. 6.

long time. III. iii. X. 1; XI. 3. (3) (2) FOF (1) To fill up. III. iii. III. 11. (1) To stop up. I. xv. I. 5. (2) To be sincere; sincerely. I. iii. III. 4; iv. VI. 3: III. iii. IX. 6.

·[10]·雷月 Dust. II. vi. II. 2, 3. Used for M. to be in distress. II. v. II. 5.

(2) To collect, to gather. I. ii. IX. 3. (2) To rest. III. ii. V. 4; VII. 3. (3) = to be angry with. I. iii. X. 6. to raise a cloud of dust about one's self.

A wall. I. ii. VI. 8: IV. i. [iii.] VI. Fortified walls. III. i. VII. 7, 8. To wall. III. III. VII. 6.

5,21 祖 bunh 職 นนุงขว 齏

uəə,ş

颠

4i2 銮

00,7

鲎

带。

002

뫆 nond

雡

Y, Cur

นอลูวุ

酒

Buv, 專

nons

學

92

鞏

All Mile

ηεγο

擀 əd

搟

પૃાર્દ

殛

L. iv. VI. 2.

An ant-bill. I. xv. III. 3. A wall, I. v. VI. 2: II. iii. VII. 2; v. III. 8; III. 8; III. 8; III. 8; III. 8

Ellth.

Buiys m. III. III. 112.

新丁海环 J. [ii.] I. 对 duties. IV. i. [ii.] L. side. I vii. VIII. 2. Æ 🚣 春 – public affairs. III. iii. I. 2. Æ 🌃, — at one's A, in offices; A M, in the conduct of in the midst of,-within. III. i. V. 2. A the earth. III, i. II. 4. 亚山 印尼 i. I. 1; II. 1. Æ T, to be below,—on L. to be on high, i. e., in heaven III. preposition, in, on, at; -as in III. i. II. 4. by a noun. Sometimes it is simply the But generally it to be in or on, followed Passim To be present. II. iii. III. 6.

Roots, or the bark about the roots. I.

II. iii. X. I, 2; et al. A rank-token of jade. I. v. I. 3: III. ii. VIII. 6; X. 6; iii. II. 5; IV. I (as used in T is followed by the preposition descendant. IV. iii. III. Sometimes the

-f. it rests in the person of Woo-ting's

The ground. II. ii. V. 9. The earth. II. iv. VIII. 6. · 1 998-·對圭) 3.IIIV; 2.IIV; 3.V; (soffirans ance, that which adjusts. II. iv. VII. 3. To be equally adjusted, II. i. III. 5.

To be fair, II. vi. I. 2. — to hit, to be equally matched, III. ii. III. 3. — as ballequally matched, III. ii. III. 3.

.8 .IV acter singly, of blows on musical instruments. L. xii. L. 2, 8.

To sit, L. xi. L. 2, 8.

To sit, I. xi. L. 2, 8. an axe on a tree, I. ix, VII. 1—3. Of the sound of drums. II. i. V. 3. So the char-A A descriptive of the sound of

IA. II. I. 1—4. Tracts of a State, far from the capital.

An islet. I. xi. IV. 2: II vi. VII. 4.

To split, to be rent. III. ii. I. 2.

To drop, to let hang down. I. v. VI. I., 2; vill. X. 2; II. viii. I. 4, 5.

Ruinous. I. v. VI. 2.

狱 mox

当

492,1

委

นอกน์

丑

romy

驯 ĥnys

亚 γι,γο

秫

e,yə

狱

Bunary

胍

052

चेष्

นทุวุ

X

unary

珂

93

獬 rəmə

H H, one's inward filthiness.

A wall of a city; to build such a wall a follow I. I. VII. I; iii. VI. I; iii. VII. I; VIII. 3; III. VIII. 3; III. I. VIII. 3; III. I. VIII. 3; III. I. VIII. 3; III. I. VIII. 3; III. III. VIII. 3; III. III. VIII. 4; VII. 7; VIII. 6; X. 3; III. V. Y. 1; VIII. 6; X. 3; III. V. Y. 1; VIII. 6; X. 3; III. X. 1; VIII. 6; X. 3; III. X. 1; VIII. 6; X. 3; VIII. 4; VIIII

k'in基

moo

增

墠 shen

墳 fun

橅 heuen

壑 hoh

褒 hwae

壯

郇 hoo 壼

kwan

(1) To plaster. I. xv. I. 3. (2) To inter. II. v. III. 6.

A grave. I. xii. VI. 1, 2.

增增, to To increase. II. 1. VI. 3. tsang be numerous. IV. ii. IV. 5.

A levelled space. I. vii. XV. 1.

(1) The raised bank of a river. I. i. X. 1, 2. (2) Great. II. viii. IX. 3.

A musical instrument, made of earth, and shaped like an egg, —a kind of whistle. II. v. V. 7: III. ii. X. 6.

To make a moat. III. iii. VII. 6.

To be ruined. II. v. III. 5: III. ii. X. 7.

THE 33D RADICAL.

Sape. (1) An officer. I. v. III. 4: ix. III. 1, 2: II. viii. I. 1-4: III. i. I. 2, 3, 5; We have III -, a high or et sæpe. principal minister. II. iv. IX. 4: III. ii. V. 4; iii. IX. 1: IV. iii. IV. 7. officer. II. vi. I. 1. (2) As a general designation for males;—a gentleman, a man. I. ii. IX. 1—3; VII. 1: iii. IX. 3; vii. XIII. 2; XXI. 1, 2; x. I. 1—3: II. vi. VII. 1, 2. Sometimes it must be translated by—you, you. Sir, as in I. v. IV. 3, 4. = a husband. I. vii. VIII. 1: IV. i. [iii.] V. (3) Soldiers. II. iv. I. 2. (4) 女士, a heroine, a heroic wife. III. ii. III. 8. (5) Used for 耳, to serve; business, affairs, I. xv. III. 1: IV. i. (iii.] III.

Great. 有土, in grand manner. II. jin vii. VI. 2.

Strong, to make strong. II. iii. IV. 4.

chwang (1) The bottle gourd. I. xv. I. 6. (2) A vase or jar for spirits. III. iii. VII. 3.

> A passage or corridor in a palace. III. ii. III. 6.

萱 青者, once. One. I. ii. XIV. 1. 2. II. v. V. 5, 6. To be devoted or given to. yih II. v. V. 6.

Longevity. II. i. VI. 6: IV. ii. IV. 4, 5. = int, probably, = three aged ministers. ib., 4; 😝 💢; an aged mother, ib., 8. We havo 海 考, long life, in I. xi. V. 2: II. ii. IX. 2; vi. V. 6; VI. 3: III. i. IV. 4; ii. II. 4; et al. [1] E. a longevity of myriads of years. I. xv. I. 8: II. i. VI. 4; ii. VII. 1, 2; vi. V. 2; et al. longevity of eyebrows, eyebrows denoting | mung VIII. 1: III. iii. II. 2.

longevity. I. xv. I. 6; II. ii. VII. 4: 1V. 壽貴, II. ii. IX. 8. iii. II.; et al.

THE 35TH RADICAL. 2

The summer, in summer. I. x. XI. 4,5; xii. I. 2, 3: II. v. X. 1: IV. ii. IV. 4.

> (1) Large. I. xi. X. 1. = to be extravagant. III. i. VII. 7. (2) 時 夏, these great regions,—a name for the kingdom of Chow. IV. i. [i.] VIII.; X. (3) The dynasty of Hëa. III. iii. I. 8: IV. iii. IV. (4) A clan-name. I. xii. IX. 1.

THE 36TH RADICAL.

The evening; in the evening. I. vi. II. 1, 2; viii. X. 1. 今 夕, this evening. I. x. V. 1: II. iv. II.2; vii. III. 3.] M, morning and evening. I. iv. X. 2; vi. I. 1; viii X. 3: IV. iii. I. the country lying west from hills. III. ii. VI. 5,-bright in the evening.

Abroad. I. iii. XV. 2, 3: III. iii. VI. 3: 海夕, the most exten-IV. iii. IV. 1. sive way of describing the extent of the influence of the lords of Shang. IV. iii. IV. 2. Outside. II. i. IV. 4; viii. V. 5. Beyond,—after its regimen, and with between them. I. vii. XXI. 1, 2. 📙 Ah, what is beyond, — the future. I. x.

Sape. Much; many. I. ii. VI. 1; iii. I. 4; XII. 1; vii. II. 3; II. vi. VIII. 1; vii. VI. 5; III. i. I. 3, 7: IV. i. [i.] I. et sape. As an adverb. II. i. IX. 8; iii. III. 6; et al. To become many, to multiply. II. iv. VII. 2.

(1) To be early. III. iii. IV. 6. Early in the morning. I. iv. VI.3; v. III. 1. Generally found in combination with 夜, - morning and night, early and late. I. ix. V. 1-3: II. iv. X. 2: III. iii. II. 4; VI. 4; VII. 1: IV. i. [i.] VI.; VII.; ii. II. 1-3; et al. But 风夜 - in tho early morning, in the early dawn, in I. ii. II. 3; VI. 1; ii. X. 1, 2. (2) 一篇, to livo retired. III. ii. I. 1.

The night, at night, late. I. v. IV. 5; x. XI. 4, 5: II. ii. X. 1, 2; et al. 历(仪) —sec //(.

To dream, dreams. II. iv. V. 6, 7; VI. 4; VIII. 5 (see 上). — tolic in bed with. I. viii. I. 3.

顶点点, to be dark and blind. IL iv.

外 wae

夏

夙 suh

夜

IV. L. [ii.] V. iii. L. (3) Success, vic. M. vi. V. 6; vii. VI. 2; M. i. vii. tory. III. i. III. 9. Es belies ei oisum to soirtes septied a music is called a Tr. form in music. Every turn or part of a (1) To exhibit, to display. If, iii. III. 55 (2) To perform in masic. Every turn of mark of a february and a february of a febru ii. III. (3) And (1) I. (1) II. (2) II. (3) II. (4) III. (4) III. (5) III 加克亚夫上。1777年春 2:057 VII. Forthwith, erelong, anon. III. i. VII. i. bunf To squeeze,—to occupy both sides of. 1: II. ii. IV. 3: X. 2: ii. Y. Will. 6: Y. II. ii. IV. 3: X. 2: ii. Y. Will. 6: Y. II. ii. IV. 3: X. 2: ii. Y. Will. 6: Y. II. ii. IV. 3: X. 2: ii. Y. Will. 6: Y. II. ii. IV. 3: X. 4: IV. 4: IV 本是大學 To be boastful III ii. L. 5. "真歉"亚亚""真事"。亚 tribes of the east. III. 8 () (ii. III. $\frac{1}{2}$ be peaceful; to be pacified. I. \(\begin{array}{c} be peaceful; to be pacified. I. I: II. iii. IV. 3; X. 2; iv. VIII. 6; v. II. horsei: fto be driven wrongly. II. iii. V. 6. feelinaitid i. V. 3. White spoken of III. ii. II. i. A. E. Mill Tag. III. 大高 the loss of kindly to no do the same that the same tha A M. one's high ancestor. in a or bells. IV. i. [ii.] T. I. T. VIL 3: III. III. II. 大伯. ai lid oT Descrip-* Airs A fiff, the grand-master. VIII I ... of the Aff. Descriptive of a Spl · L : IV. ii. face. II. i. VIII. 3; iii. —see 原. 夫人, —the great diviner. 3.7 A Ai II ters into many titles and names. 大原, Spoken of midnight, II, iii, 斯 17. 2-8 (大社); et al. (2) It en (1) The middle, the centre, I. xi. IV. I. cessirely, I. z. I. 1 3: II. vii. VI. 5: III here is in the 2d tone. The dict. does 决中 text as A, without the tone. (1) Exnot refer to the usage. Budh Fini. III. 1-3. Some editions say that This may appear sometimes in the 升 ir. VIII. 13. (8.) From the beart, as if bound with felters of longing desire. I. 7. 2; vi. I. 3 (=ministers): III. iii. IV. 8; 1V. ii. IV. 8. 2D,7 a great officer, I. iv. X. I. 4: II. iv. iii. VII. l. (2) Ominous calamities. II. VII 1-3. So XX I. i. VI. 1-8; 精, large dishes of millet, (1) Looking fresh and tender. I. ziii. 大東 the extreme east. IV. III. III. That. A. that man. I. zii. VI The title of Part II. IV. ii. IV. 6, nodh 赤。黑。 大,一大大。 "大," Le sape samilies); et sape 1 (Fiff, the multitude of the people, 00/ 秀 6: III. i. II. 4, 5, 6, 8; ii. II. 4; IX. 4; X. added to other words making them =conin Wil is it is it is in it is it is in If the great States of the east); vi. V. A man; a hero: III. iii. Z. 3 (大景). L 2; V. L 4; IV. 4; VIL 3; IL. 2(A IX 1, 2; vii. VII. 1, 2 (X iii. Z g. 3; II. iii. VII. 3; VI. 1, 2; VII. 1, 4; V. 3; VII. 1, 4; VII. 3; VII VIII. II; III. 2; VI. 2, 3; iv. VII. 3; 00/ I. Bairl sor the king. II. es sabs Great, greatly, L iv. VII. 3; X. 4; vi. É02 CHIZEZE CHYKYCLEKS YZD BHKYZEZ. THE 37TH RADICAL. \star

好

haou

如 妣

pe

妥 t'o

奾 chiow

妹 mei

*j*00

k'ëeh

奔 pun

奪 t'oh

醎 shih

奮 fun

pe

女 伴奂,-see 伴.

(1) To singe,—the tortoise-shell. III. i. III. 3. (2) 契契, to be sorrowful. II.

v. IX. 3. 契闊, to be separated. I. iii. VI. 4.

(1) To run away. II. v. III. 5. 奔走, to run or hurry about. IV. i. [i.] I. $(\overline{2})$ To rush to; -spoken of a licentious woman seeking the company of her lover. I. vi. IX. 2. (3) =rapid. III. i. III. 9.

(4) 奔, descriptive of a quail fighting for its mate. I. iv. V. 1, 2.

⑴ 奕奕. To be in long trains. II. iii. V. 4. So perhaps 有 灰, in IV. iii. I., of a dance, or—orderly. (2) To be all unsettled. II. vii. III. 1. (3) To be grand-looking. II. v. IV. 4. III. iii. III. 1.

looking. II. v. IV. 4: III. iii. VII. 1, 2: IV. ii. IV. 9. 奚斯, a name. IV. ii. IV. 9. Cofficer.

(1) To set for 1.1—4: III.—offerings in sacrifice. I. ii. ve 11 —, av. 2. (2) To put down. III. II. iv. IX. 4: III. 奠 tëen ofa 奥 yuh (1) A recess of stream. I. v. I. 1—3 Trm. II. vi. III. 3.

To take away violently TII. iii. X. 2.

Red. 有頭, to be relatil. iii. IV. 1;

vi. IX. 1. (1) To spread the wings. I. iii. I. 5.
) To rouse. III. iii. IX. 4. Vigorously. ÌÝ. iii. IV. 1.

To be hated. III. iii. I. i6.

THE 38TH RADICAL. 女

Sape. (2), 1, girl, a young lady. I. i. 1-3; I'., 1: ii. XII. 1, 2; iii. XVII. 1, 2;

- ··. 3, 4 (女也 = I); vii. IX. 1, 2; XIX. 1, 2; XXI. 1, 2; et sape. But it also means a bride, a young wife, and also a wife. I. ix. I. 1: II. vii. IV. 1, 2: I. vi. V. 1—3; vii. VIII. 1: II. i. IX. 1, 2; vi. VII. 2: III. i. III. 2; et al. 女子, a female child. II. iv. V. 9; but it also means—a young lady, I. iii. XIV. 2; iv. VII. 1, 2; and a woman generally I. iv. X. 3; v. V. 2. (2) Young, tender. I. xv. I.3; though perhaps 女菜 there means the female mulberry tree. (3) 織女,

the name of a constellation in Aquila. II.

v. IX. 5. For Ty, you. I. ii, VI. 2, 3; iii, XVII.

Good. I. i. I. 1; VII. 2; iii. VII. 4; vii. III. 2; VIII. 2; viii. II. 2 (to be skilful); xiii. IV. 3: II. iii. V. 2; VI. 1; iv. VIII. 2; v. V. 8; vi. VIII. 2; vii. IV. 1: III. ii. II. 5; iii. V. 8: IV. ii. III. 8; et al. = great, 好好, to be wealthy. I. ix. I. 1, 2. joyful. II. v. VI. 5.

To love, to be friendly with; friendship. I. iii. IV. 2; XVI. 1—3; v. X. 1—3; vii. VII. 2; VIII. 3; x. VII. 2; X. 1, 2; II. i. IV. 5; iv. V. 1; vi. III. 5: III. iii. III. 6; 好 haou et al. 作好, to look pleased. I. vii. V.3.

About 150 times. (1) As, as if. I. i. X. 1, 3: ii. XII.2; XIII. 2: iii. I. 1, 5; v. I. 1: xi. VI. 1_3; II. v. IV. 2;

V. 7; vii. III. 3; IX. 5; et sæpissime. 如, not to be as, not to be equal to. I. vii. III. 1, 2, 3 ; x. VI. 1, 2 ; IX. 1, 2 : II. i. IV. 5; v. V. 2, 7; VIII. 3; et al. So 莫如, III. iii. V. 6. 加 is often repeated in the same line, the members of which may be blended in one comparison. I. v. I. 3; III. ii. X. 6; iii. I. 6; IX. 3, 4,

5; et al. 如 —,—see —. 如何 and 如之何,—see 何. Wang

but. I. iii. IV. 1—3; iv. VII. 3. Yin-che explains 🏚 in many cases as= m, and instances in the She, I. iii. I. 1, 耿耿不寐如有隱憂(一而 [and] 有隱憂), and II. iii. V. 6,

舍矢如破(-舍矢而破); but in these passages 11 means—as if. (2) Like,—our ly, making descriptive adjectives. I. iii. XII. 4; iv. III. 3; vii. (3) Used in XX. 2; viii. I. 2; et al. oaths, after 有; -our by. I. xi. VI. 3, supplemented. A female ancestor. In the She, always associated with III II. iv. V. 2: IV. i.

where yet the literal rendering has to be

[ii.] IV.; [iii.] V. At ease. =to seat and place at ease. 1I. vi. V. 1.

To be agitated. II. vi. IV. 3.

A younger sister. I. v. III. 1. = a young lady. III. i. II. 5.

A wife. I. iii. IX. 3; v. III. 1; viii. VI. 3, 4; xii. III. 2, 3; xv. V. 1; II. i. IV. 7, 8; iv. IX. 4; III. i. VI. 2; iii. VII. 4; IV. ii.

The beginning, in the beginning; tho earliest; to begin. I. iii. IX. 3; xv. I. 7: II. v. IV. 2; V. 2 (坑 元): III. i. III. 3; VIII. 1; ii. I. 8; iii. X. 4; IV. ii. II. 3; IV. 2.

An elder sister, I. iii. XIV. 2.

狄

3; voi. IV. 1; XL 1, 2; XVIIL 1; ix. VII, 1-3; xv. II. 2; VI. 2, 3; II. v. VII. 1; vi. III. I' at sy to temporarily = $ 11.2, 3. (2) Zow, same surname. L x. VI. 2. 旦秤咖 out to 业间 (1) The surmanne. the wife of king Wan. III. i. VI. 1. A surmanne, II. iv. VIII. S. 纵外 sons, in A 姓, L.i. XL 2. the surrames 1-a designation of the people. II. i. VI. 5; iv. VII. 6. (2) = grand-

Rend

A surname. A surname, IX. I, iv. IV. I; v. III. 4 (肚 美元, ouse. A surname. Of the House of Ts'e. I. I, descriptive of ease and self-possession. III. ri. 引教委委 fans, &-1. III. In the phrases 🚁 🏰 repeated, I. il.

from Shin-nung. Beautiful. I. iii. XVII. I; viii. IV. I, 2. Admirable. I. iv. IX. 1—3. All the Keang claimed to be descended 2; xil. III. 3. Of a more ancier. ouse.

A surnante. III. iii. VII. 5.

A sister-in-law. I. v. III. I.

· 25 005-

IL iv, IV. 1, 2; VIII, 12; vii. IX, 1, riage, affinity by marriage. I. iv. VII. 3: -mm 、版看一;看 dity bestociated with The surranne of the House of Chow. I. ii, XIV. 1; iii. XIV. 1; xii. IV. 1, 2, 3. In this hast passage, it = a lady of distinction. Marringe-affinity. II. iv. IV. 3. General 聶 14. VI. iii. II. vieofarm X. 1, V. 1: III. iii. I. 1; XI. 1. A drend-ed occasion. II. i. IV. 2. Majesty, dignity. IV. i. [i.] VII.; [ii.] IX. To be awed by ally joined in this sense with Mr. II. iv. (1) To be terrible. II. v. IV. I. Gener-1(有缺) Mame of an ancient State. IV. iii. IV.

To be pleased, I, vii, XIX, 2, and dancing along. I. zii. II. I, 2, In the phrase 1 to go sauntering .带 592-,洒 书

Young ladies accompanying a bride to her harem. III. iil. VII. 4.

To trail along. == to wear, L. z. II. I.

To be annoying, II, vii, IX, 7, hun gunor, od ot , 👳 贼 2; viii. XI. 8. To be lovely, beautiful, I. vii. XX, I.,

To love, III, h. VI, I; IX, 4; II, V. 4; [iii.] V. A match-maker, a go-between. I. v. IV. I; viii. VI. 4; xv. V. I. i .VI :(sunuch and cunucha): IV. i. iii. X. 3, 4 (天 獻, men and women; 41. V. 3, 5; VII. 3; VIII. 4: III. I. VI. 13 .II : S. III , (norblide bin oliw 千 號) A woman, a wife, I. v. IV. 8; xv. I. I I' III' ZAHI' 1-3' John Jiff Hill, to be plensunt and genial.

delicate, I. viii. VII. 3; xvi. II. 4.

will 7, 8: IV I. [III.] V. 媚子, fin-

Eavour, L. xiv. IL. 3.

A beauty. I. iv. III. 3.

vourites. I. xi. II. 1.

To be married; -of the lady. III. i. II. 2.

III. II. I: IV. II. IV. II. The name of the mother of How-tailh.

L'Eung IV. L [III.] L. is it to po solitary and helpless.

To become wife to. III. i. II. 2.

Beautiful, admirable, I. ili, XIV. 1; XVII. 2; viii. XI. 3: II. vii. IV. I.

THE 39TH RADICAL,

L. il. XIII. 2, 3: iii. VII., 3, 4; XII. 4; ix.

Mearly 350 times. (1) A son.

and sometimes R. T., sons and grand-sons, descendants. I. i. V. 1—3: II. vii. VI. 2: III. 11. 2; 4; VII. 4; iii. III. 8; V. 2: iii. II. 6: IV. i. [i.] IV.; V.; et al. So. Z. iii. II. 6: IV. i. [i.] IV.; V.; et al. So. et sæpe. As sons, III. i. VIII. I. IV. 1: II. iv. V. 8 (男子); v. II. iv. VI

As a verb, to 天 592-,千天 子童 a youth. I, v, VI, 子子孫孫11.41.4.6.

Sentleman. In this usage, it must often be translated by you. I. iii, XIX. 1, 2; iv. IX. 1, 2; iv. IX. 1, 2; iv. IX. 1, 2; XIV. 1, 2; XIII. 1, 2; XIV. 1, Of insects, II. v. II. 3. (5) An officer, a

G8

T L'-206 T. Plost of the cases

328}

Ŧ

นอกลุ

變 uid 縋

13%

นอกดี

獅

233

测 atox

瓣 uənfi

徭 pora

齭

1914 ool

AOF IL'

· 📆 00S

uənk

娍

o,đ

นอา 重

の新

覹 规

杀

1231 M Buns

辨

นเห

网络

Diy Tik

:

姨

Y., siy

款

00,42

秋

Bungy

委

ก็บาร 鞦

> 228 W

> > 00.4

件 hëoh

獳

守 sliow

安 qan

米 sung

元 wan

of / (see /) belong to this usage, but in I. vi. IV. 1-3, members of one's family. 小. 君子,-see 君. 宗 see . (6) A young lady;—a bride; a married lady. I. i. VI. 1-3; IX. 2, 3; ii. XI. 1-3; iii. III. 1-3; VI. 3, 4; iv. III. 1; viii. IV. 1, 2; IX. 1-3; X. 1-4. In I. x. V. 1-3, a lady is the speaker, and — must be translated in the 1st person. 沙雙 于,—see 女. (7) Occurs in designations. 子仲,—see仲;子嗟, -see 嗟; 子國,-see 國; 子都, —see 都; 子充,—see 充. After designations, it is equivalent to our Mr. I. vii. II. 1, 2: II. iv. IX. 4; v. VII. 7. in this last instance is, perhaps, the two characters together, the designation. (8) In clan-names. 🕂 🎹, I. xi. VI. 1—3: 子仰, I. xii.·II. 1. (9) The surname of the ducal House of Sung. I. xii. III. 3. (19) 1 3, a boatman. I. iii. IX. 4. This might come under 1. (1) Half a man III. iii. IV. 3. (2)

, descriptive of a flag-staff rising conspicuously. I. iv. IX. 1-3.

Very, greatly. A favourite adverb in the She; occurs fully 60 times. I. i. X. 3; vii. VI. 2; xi. II. 1, 2; III. 2, 3; xv I. 3; III. 4; IV. 1—3; II. i. I. 2; IV. 2; VI. 1: III. ii. III. 5; VIII 3; X. 6: IV. ii. III. 7; et al.

To love, to take care of. III. ii. I. 3.

To be among. I. vii. XIX. 1.

To repose confidence in; confidence. III. i. I. 7; IX. 2, 3 (王之学, the confidence due to a king).

To be filial: filial duty; filially. II. i. VI. 4; iii. III. 6; vi. V. 2, 4: III. i. IX. 3, 4; X. 3; ii. III. 5; VIII. 5: IV. i. [ii.] VII.; VIII.; [iii.] 1.; ii. III. 4; IV. 4.

The eldest. I. iv. IV. 1—3; vii. IX. 1, mi 子, a designation, II, v. VII. 7. (1) A grand-son, but generally-descendant, -presiding at sacrifices. II. vi. V. 2, 4, 5: III, i. X. 8: IV, ii. IV, 2, 3, 4; iii. I.; II.; V. 1. 子孫·see子. 曾孫·sa remote descendant, II. vi. VI. 1. 3. 4; VII. E. C. VIII. 1: III. E. H. 4: IV. I. [L] II. 12 A grandel nighter, L. H. XIII, 2, 3, Che A surmanica L. in VI. 2.

To be humble. I. xv. VII. 1, 2.

(1) The third in order of birth; but used generally in the sense of younger. 子季, my young son. I. ix. IV. 2. 李 女, a young lady, married or unmarried. Ī. ii. IV. 3; xiv. II. 4: II. vii. IV. 1. 干李, king Ke. III. i. II. 2; VII. 3, 4. To learn. IV. i. [iii.] III.

= to be childlike, happy as children. II. i. IV. 6.

Calamities. II. iv. IX. 7.

THE 40TH RADICAL.

 ${f A}$ residence, where one resides. ${f \Pi}.$ iii. VII. 2: III. iii. V. 2. = a country for 徐宅, the settlement, III, i. VII, 1. region of Seu. IV. ii. IV. 7. To occupy, to inhabit. III. i. X. 7; IV. iii. III.

The sides of a house under the eaves. I. xv. I. 5; III. 2. 十 字, and 宇 alone, territory. III. ii. VIII. 3; iii. III. 4: IV. ii. IV. 2, 8. = to choose a site for a settlement. III. i. III. 2.

To keep, to guard. II. iv. IX. 6.

(1) To be at rest, to be tranquil and at ease. II. i. IV. 5; iii. VII. 2; iv. V. 5; VII. 1, 2; vi. III. 4 (安處), 5 (安息):
III. ii. IX. 5; VIII. 1. To secure tranquillity or ease. I. x. IX. 1, 2: IV. iii. V.
7. = to be firmly made II ::: III = 安安, to proceed in a leisurely way. ÍII. i. VII. 8. (2) How. II. v. VIII. 3 (安 在)

The name of a State. I. iii. VI. 2; v. VII. 1, 2; xii. III. 3.

To finish. III. iii. VII. 6.

(1) To honour, to be honoured. III. ii. IV. 4: VI. 4: iii. IV. 2. 周宗,—see 周. It is used for 宗 in the ancestral temple, the most honoured place, in III. ii. IV. 4; but in II. ii. X. 2 some royal apartment for feasting seems to be intended. 宗室, in I. ii. IV. 3, means the ancestral temple, or some chamber of it. 宗立, the honoured dukes, the ancestors of king Win-III. i. VI. 2. (2) Clans, - all descended from a common ancestry. III. ii. X. 7. In the same stanza, F denotes the circle of the king's relatives, all having the same surname with him. (3) The

(sze

孟 mang 孫 4.6.4

```
图、新語、Waking and sleeping. Li.
                                                                                                                    The to lie down undressed, — see royal House. II. vi. IX. 2. =a State. III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     1041
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                紙 Robbers, III, il. IX, 1—5: iii, I. 3; III, 16,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    iv. X. 7: III. i. III. 5. —a palace. III. ii.
                                                                                                   a silent way. IV. if [i.] VI. 6. (2) In mane of a State, III. i. VII. 5. (3) In real of a State, III. i. VII. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                001 population, II, iv. VI. 4. = houses, II, 孫過 = households,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              iv. V. 8. The same phrase = ceremonies of betrothal in I. ii. VL 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            A household, I. i. VI. 1: II, i. IV. 8;
                                                                                             To break off hastily. I. vii. VII. 1, 2, Viou
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           is constantly found along with 墨
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       A, an attendant. II. vii. VI. 2. It
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 นบรา
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     A mansion or palace, I. iv. VI. 1.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    xiii, III. 8; xr. III. 2, 8, A wife. II, iv.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  A household, L. iii. TV. 2, 8; v. IV. 5;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      I. I. IV. i. [ii.] III. To adom the per-
                                                                               The manner or air. L. v. VI. 1, 2; II. viii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            4775
                                                                                                                                                                            son, I. v. VIII. 2.
                                                                             The manner or nir T v Scabbard). (2)
                                                                           (1) To admit, to contain. I. x. VII. 2.
                                                                         A chan-name, II. iv, VII., 10; IX. 4.
                                                                        W. IK. 3: III. i. VI. 9: IV. L. Lin. J.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Bunk
                                                                     she kingdom, II. ii. VII. 1; iv. IV. 1; 瑟
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               To be deep ;—in plans. IV. i. [i.] vi.
                                                                     Y! YE
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               (2) TO GIMUSE ONG'S IMMUENCE, LIL. III. V. Alelds, III. i. III. 4. (4) Wide and comprehensive, III. iii. III. 8: IV. i. [ii.] VII.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        New
New 清 派 If doined with 新 na 家 in it.
                                                              haps meaning the kingdom, IV. i. [iii.]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            VII. 3: III. i. I. 7; ii. VI. 3; iii. VIII. 4; iii. VIII.
                                                            The royal House, IV. i. [iii.] IX. Per-
                                                          So of alone, I. xiii. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       ments. I. vii. VIII. 2. H. F. deemed At for prison. II. v. II. 5. A visitor, a guest. II. iii. VI. 4; iv. II. 2. 2; vi. V. 3: IV. i. [ii.] III.; V. II.; iii. I.
                                                       A, a family, a household. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            uənəş 直 with and interchanged with $\frac{1}{2} - \frac{1}{2} = \frac{1}{2} \frac{1}{2} = \frac{1}{2} \frac{1}{2} = \frac{ 7A 7
                                                  anola hosed, a family. Used along innimod # I
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               γ.γ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    right, = to cook with proper accompaniments. I. vii. VIII. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  立。to make
                                                                            Tr the glow-worm, I. xv. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          Day
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      臂
                                                                      Z Lax is d. X ii A Julin 3h
                                                                                                                                                                                                                        泵
                                       To feast, to take pleasure with, I, iii, tine, I, vii, III. 3. In the pleasure פנינוסת 宵 ush
                           comble, IL v. VIII, 5; X, 3, int. to be missing the beautiful of the line of t 流 温息
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    Small-booking. II. v. II. 1.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             宜
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                of a mound near the capital of Chin, I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                               (3) Fig. E. mano
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          uanh
                       Tanum openits in A. S. J. A. J. M. modil
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          xii. I. 1-3; II. 1.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         W 電影 张 派
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               Politely. I. ix. I. 2.
                      Toban soul ban sbrewots othe change
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         W. 1-3; M. II. 1-3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                            X J Sainana modific deruce 10 (1)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           (2)
                    - and the ser
                                                                                                                                                                                                                        sold out and to other in the other in the diese 11271E
                                                                                                             p_{uu_{majg}}v (1) promunciation in these has two usages is the ancestral temple, L. il. II. 2: III. 2: III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 弧
                                                                                                                                                                                               21:57
                                                                                                    IV. 2: IV. ii. IV. L.
          a State IV II. II. 5. J. E. the heir
                                                                                          d MI. v. I. moraqqu
      n orth 10 min on the fix
    V 2 T Ax T sosnon-supposed (1)
                                                                                                                                                                            till ill annune on the appearance of the sound of the sou 202 habitot odl to contrasping odl to contra
                                                                                            CHIZESE CHARACTERS AND PHRASEST
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Œ,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       INDEZ IIL
```

寫 sēay

晉 pacu

封 fung

射

魆

將 trea

tica

han 是 起 是 就

寘

che

I. 2; v. I. 1-3; xii. X. 1-3. 與寐, to rise up and to go to bed,—see EA

Cold; the cold. I. iii. VII. 3: II. vi. III. 1: III. ii. L. 3.

It is. I. ii. X. 1, 2. Interchangeable with 管 in this meaning.

- (1) To place. I. ix. VI. 1-3: II. v. VII. 2: III. ii. I. 3. (2) To set aside, to leave. I. i. III. 1.
- (1) A widow. II. iii, VII. 1. 据.II. vi. VIII. 4. (2) Solitary, helpless. IL v. II. 5; III. iii. VI. 5. worthless I, is a depreciating expression, used by a princess for herself, in I. iii. III. 4. But (4) 溟妻, III. i. VI. 2, means a rare wife, such a wife as is seldom to be found.

(1) To lie down to sleep. I. xi. III. iii: II. iv. V. 6; VI. 2. To place on to sleep. II. iv. V. S, 9. (2) 寝 is used for the back apartment of a temple; but alone, and in combination with 固识, it denotes the ancestral temple. I. v. IV. 4: III. iii. V. 4: IV. ii. IV. 9: iii. V. 6.

To wake. I. iii. L 4; V. 3, 4; xiv. IV. 1 -3:IL v. IX 3. 無果,-see 寐.

(1) 一是, it is. Interchangeable with 是 above L iii. IL 4; III. 3; XV. 1, 2, 3; iv. I. 1, 2; vii. XVIII. 1, 2; et sæpe. It is sometimes repeated in the same line. E.g., III. ii. I. 3, 5; iii. VII. 6. (2) To be real; really. L xi. VII. 1, 2, 3: IL iv. VI. 4; viii. V. 4: III. ii. X. 1; iii. L 8: IV. i. [i] VIII; [iii] VIII. 充耳秀實, ear-plugs of sec-stones; i.e., sec-stones serving as ear-plags, to fill up the ear. IL viii. I. 3. 實實, to be solid-looking, IV. ii. IV. 1. (3) Fruit. L i. VI. 2: ii. IX. 1, 2; vi. I. 3; ix. III. 1, 2; x. IV. 1, 2; xiii, III, 3; xv. III, 2; II. i, IX, 1. T, the regetation on a hill, II. iv. VII. Grains of seed, IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI.

(1) To have rest, to be peaceful; tranquillity, peace. II. i. IV. 5; iv. V. 4; VII. 6, 9; IX. 3; viii. III. 5; III. i. I. 3; X. 1; ii. I. 2 (=to comfort); IV. 1; X. 7; iii. III. 11; IV. 8; VIII. 2; X. 1; XI. 2; IV. i. [iii.] V; VI. (2) Used of a wife returning to inquire for visit her parents. I. i. II. 3. (3) Fellowed by a negative, = it is better that...than H. L V. 2. 贡 龙奶, would that it fell on me. III. iii. IV. 2; so, in 5. (4) -- 何, how, why. L L. IV. 1, 2, 3, 4; vil. XVII. 1, 2; II. iil. i IX. 3; iv. VIII 5; v. III. 3; III. iii. III. 1; W. 1; S. 7. After M it way be explained ed by JJ, II. v. X. 1, and alone in 6. Some explain it by 偏, one-sidedly, unkindly, in III. iii. IV. 4, 6.

To dissipate, to remove. I. iii. XIV. 3; v. V. 4. To disburthen, to be satisfied. II. ii. IX. 1; vi. X. 1; vii. IV. 4. To be magnanimous; to be at one's ease.

寬 L v. I. 3; II. 1. kiwan

A symbol of dignity, III. iii. V. 5.

THE 41st RADICAL.

寺 and 寺人, a ennuch. Lxi L1: 寺 II. v. VI. 7: III. iii. X. 3. sze

(1) Grandly. IV. iii. V. 4. (2) To be mercenary. IV. i. [i.] IV.

To shoot with bow and arrows. I. vii. IV.2; viii. XI.1-3. 射夫, an archer. II. iii. V. 5; vi. VI. 1.

To be satiated with, to loathe. II. vii. IV. 2: III. i. VI. 3: IV. i. [1.] IV. To be treated with indifference. III. iii. II. 7. To be great, to make great. I. i.

iv. 2; xv. IV. 1: IL iv. VIII. 1; v. IV. tsēang 6: IV. iii. II.; IV. 1. (2) To escort. Lii. I. 1; iii. III. 2; vii. XIV. 2: (3) Will,—sign of the future tense. L ix. VII. 1—3; ziii. IV. 3: III. ii. X. 4: IV. i. [ii.] L; [iii.] II. # ... half imperative, half furure. I. vii. VIII. 1. = whenever. I. vii. IX. 1, 2: II. v. VII. 1, 2. 万. (4) To nourish. II. i. 11. 3—5: IIL iii. III. 3. (5) To push forward. II. vi. II. 1, 2, 3. (6) = (III), the side. III. i. VII. 6. (7) To do, to perform, to carry into execution. II. i. I. 1: III. iii. VL 4. To march. II. viii. X. 1. 课课, to assist at a libation. III. i. I. 5. To bring. IV. i. [L] VII. (8) To arrange, II. vi. V. 2. To offer, IV. iii. I.; II. (9) To advance, IV. i. [iii.] III. To be sent in advance. IV. i. [iii.] III. To be sent in and go round. II. vi. V. 6: III. ii. III. 2. To be strong, II. vi. L 3

(1) To beg, to ask. I. v. IV. 1; vi. X. -3; vii. H. 1-3; IV. 1; H. iv. VIII. 9. 將 (2) 將將. Descriptive of the tinkling of gems, I. vii. IX. 2; xi. V. 2;—of the noise of bells, II. iii. VIII. 1; vi. IV. 1;—of a grand appearance. III. i. III. 7: IV. ii. IV. 4. =to blend together. IV. i. [i.] ix.

A vase, or vessel for containing spirits. IV. ii. IV. 4.

A measure of 8 cuties; to measure with that. IV. i. IV. 9.

To respond to in response. III. iii. I. 3; III. 13; VIII. 6: IV. i. [i.] 1: (iii.] XI. To currespond to, III. i. VIII. 5; -in dies to be a match, a ruler equal to the case.

nə.y

됍 ynzey

閆 nonzs

VIII. 6. (2) (1) 'To stoop, to bend the body. II. iv. III. 6. (2) 'To curl, to be twisted. II.

member of the line, by an used simithis usage it is followed in the other untranslateable. I. iii. I. 5; IV. 1-3. In pleased, III, ii, I. 8. (4) R. -- m-kindly. I. vii. VII. 1. (5) A particle, easily. III. ii. I. 9. (3) 'Iranquilly, well-1Z. 7. (2) Only. II. vii. X. 3. 居然, (to dwell in, used metaphorically). II. vil. and perlaps, II. iv. X. 2. -to become -the duties of one's position. L. x. L. I; abode, meaning the grave. I. x. XI. 4. vi Li i,—wich 康, III, it Yl. 1. An ti-nith L, II. iv. I. 1;-with L, II. iv. V. 2; -with A. II. i. VII. 1; VIII. JI : 8 JV iiv J. Aith B. L vil, VI. 8 : II. iii, XI, I. To stay, to rest, to abide. Il. i. tral, settled parts of the kingdom. III. III' II' AI' 2 ! III' A' 2 ! AII' 2' The con-I. vil. III. I. A settlement, a residence. 居人, occupants, inhabitants. าลสมร รอ (1) To inhabit, to reside in, to occu-偏曲發予LILIM

To come, to reach to. II, iv. VII. 5; v. III. 4; vii. VIII. 2. A limit, III, iii. I. 3; X. 1: IV. ii. IV. 2.

To make to pend, to subdue, IV, ii. III, 3,

VIII. S, 13. == 100f. II. iv. IX, 5. a plank-house); X. 1: xv. L. 7; II. iv.

To grean. III. ii. X. 5 (戦 展). R, a window, III, iii, III, 7.

To count pure; to condescend or stoop to. L. iii. X. 3; iv. III. 3.

(1) Truly. I. iii. VIII. 2; iv. III. 8; viii. X. Z. Z. II. iii. V. 8. (2) Now read in let tone. A robe of State. I. iv. III. 2.

A screen, IL vil. I. 2, 3: III. ii. X, 7.

To remove. III. i. VII. 2.

กลา

틟 Õ0,7

調

幽 bui,d

抓

นอบุว

퓄 บุอลูร

園

อนุ

뀖

ŲΝ

国 Aus sh

> ana.y 国

The name of a place. IIL iii, VIL 3.

IL'v. I. 6; II. 6; IX. 1, 2; viil. V.8: III. to tread in my footsteps); ix. L I: (3) To tread on. L viii, IV. 1, 2 (i. [iii.] 1X. Frequently, constantly. It. iv. VIII. 6: IV.

THE 42D RADICAL.

carefulness; to be careful; carefully. II. iv. VIII. 1; v. H. 6; III. i. II. 8; iil. VL 2. AIR #: IA: F [iii] I ! III N signation of courades in III. ii. IX. 4; X. 4. —you, my son. III. iii. II. 8, 10, 12. Used by the king of himself. III. iii. II. G. The same phrase is used as a demen. III. i. VI. 5. =as children, III. iii. of the east. II. v. IX. 2. Banos of Al III. III. I. 6. A A the small States A, small and great, -all. II. vi. V. 6: 小 4.1.iii.1.ii. 人室 0.2 1.1IV.ri vii, IX, 6; but=small, mean, men in II. IX. 1-5. A, the small men, the common people, II. i. VII. 5; v. IX. 1; 1X. 1—5. Small, I. ii. X. 1, 2; xi. III. 1: II. iii. VI. 4: v. VII. 3; et al. A little, III. ii.

Eou. I iii. L. L.

II. v. III. 5, 6. to be taken with the verb that follows it. III. iii. II. 4. (5) – 😭, an auxidiary, VI. 1.3: II. v. IX. 3. (4) To approve. wieh. II, vil. X. 1, 2. Would that. I. vi. L 6(尚 少, 7; L a; XL 7, (部) 3.1 (1) To add, or append to L viii. III. 3. (2) Still, L vi. VL 1—3: III. iii.

THE 43D RADICAL.

A shaggy dog. I. ii. XII. 3. 4.8 .X. vi .I. omald An evil cause. II, v. X. 4. = # to

Should be made with $ To have avollen legs. II. v. IV. 6. To go or come to, I. iii. X. 4 (=as to): II. iv. IV. IV. 2: III. ii. I. 4; iii. IX. 3: IV. i. [iii.] II.; III.

THE 44TH RADICAL.

A clan-name. II. iv. VII. 1—3; viii. I. 3; viii. I. 3; IV. 1—6; X. 5. (2) I. il. IV. 3 : II. iv. I. 3. To superintend. cestors of the kings of Chow. III, ii, III. A the personators of the an-(1) A representative, or personator, of the dead at eacrifices. II. vi. V. 5; VI.

用 ヤif. VII. 3. — the last 瑣分民 The tall L. L. Z. 3; Zr. II. 4; VII 1, 2:

垂 əye Ы

bunys

凰

เลรรา

颁 биош AL

mgfi

4

Buvys

侚 ทอกบุร

1

1231 闺 ų,ų H. H.

A cubit;—to measure with a cubit. IV.

A itagments, a remnant, L. iii, XII, 4.

爝 shuh

- chuh

Ш

shau

屺

L'e

岥

岡

દકસ્ય

岵 hoo 岸

gan

峙

che

땞

90

崧

sung

崩 păng

嵐 wei

嚴 yen

yen

差 chʻu

差 tsize

ii.I.1:II.1(選履). (2) 一禮, paths of duty to be trodden. IV. iii. IV. 2. (3) Emolument, dignity. I. i. IV. 1-3.

Shoes. I. viii. VI. I; ix I. 1: II. v.

To be joined to, to accord with. II. vii. IX. 6.

To have a connexion with; to be near to. II. v. III. 3, 8.

THE 46TH RADICAL.

齎 (1) A hill, a mountain. I. ii. III. 2, 3; VIII. 1-3; iii. XIV. 1; iv. III. 1; VI. 2; vii. X. 1, 2; viii. VI. 1; xv. III. 1-4; t'o 頻 源撒 泰山, 南山,一。。南. mount Tae, in the pres. Shan-tung. IV. yoh ii. IV. 6. 景山, mount King, near 齻 which was the capital of the Shang dyn. tëen IV. iii. V. 6. | | | | | | | , hills and streams. II. viii. VIII. 1, 2. Ш, 土, Ш, hills, lands, and fields, = territory. III. iii. VIII. 5. (2) 山甫, a designation. III, iii. VI.

A hill bare of vegetation, I, ix. IV. 2.

(1) Mount K'e, at the foot of which was the plain of Chow. III. i. III. 2; VII. 6; IV. i. [i.] V.; ii. IV. 2. (2) 岐 疑, to look majestic and intelligent. III. ii. I.

The ridge of a hill; a hill. I. i. III. 3; ix. IV. 3; II. i. VI. 3; iv. VIII. 4; vii. IV. 4; III. i. VII. 6; ii. VI. 3, (to ascend a ridge) 5; VIII. 9: IV. ii. 4 (= hills). 胍

Rugged. IV. i. [i.] V.

A wooded hill. I. ix. IV. 1.

(1) The high banks of a river. I. v. IV. 6: II. iv. IX. 3. (2) Used for the height, or highest point, of virtue. III. i. VII. 5. (3) = A prison. II. v. II. 5.

To accumulate, III. iii. V. 6.

版版, with solemn gravity. III. i. IV. 2.

Name of a hill in Ts'e. I, viii. II, 1-3.

峱 (1) To be high. IV. i. [ii.] V.; [iii.] VI. To reach the highest point. III. ii. IV. 4. (2) To honour. IV. i. [i.] IV. (3) The name of a State. III. i. VII. 7, 8; X. 2. كلاب للدا (4) -3; all, the whole of. I, iv. VII, 2; v. VII. 2.

Craggy masses. II, iv. IX. 3.

(1) 崔嵬, a rock-covered height, I. 崔 i. III. 2: II. v. VII. 3. (2) 崔崔, detstuy scriptive of a hill, high and large. I. viii.

To be large and high. III. iii. V. 1.

(I) To fall, to slip,—as a mountain. II. VI. 6; iv. IX. 3: IV. ii. IV. 4. (2) Used of a flock infected with disease. II. iv. VI. 3.

To be high and rocky. In the phrase 崔嵬,-see崔.

A hill, long and narrow. IV. i. [iii.] XI.

岐嶷,-see 岐.

A term applied to the five most famous mountains in China. III. iii. V. 1: IV. i. [i.] VIII.; [iii.] XI.

The top of a mountain, I. x. XII, 1.

嚴 嚴, descriptive of masses of rocks. II. iv. VII. 1: IV. ii. IV. 6. A hill-top. III. ii. VI. 2.

THE 47TH RADICAL.

A stream. II. i. VI. 3; iv. IX. 3 (百 Ш chtuen)); viii. VIII. 1,2: III. iii. VII. 5; IX. Ш ∭, ш. ііі. 1∨. 5∶1∨. іі. 1∨. 8. A nest. I. ii. I. 1-3; xii. VII. 1.

巢 ch'aou

THE 48TH RADICAL.

(1) To be skilful, able. II. vi. V. 4, 5. (工)=官, officers, IV. i. [ii.] I(臣 kung 工).

The left; in the left hand; to the left. I. iii. XIV. 3; x. X. 1: II. vii. II. 2; 左 viii. V. 7: I. vi. III. 1, 2; ix. I. 2. 右,-see 右. (2) The charioteer, on the left of the spearman in a chariot. I.

Artful; skilful. I. v. III. 2; V. 3; viii. 巧 XI. 1: II. iv. X. 5; v. IV. 5. ki zuou

To choose, I. xi. II, 2: II. iii. VI. 2.

参差, the app. of plants growing of different heights, I. i. 1.2, 3. descriptive of being uneven. I. iii. III. 1.

But in Li. II. 3, EM 4: HI W IN T

(訊號)2.11.ii.111:6.1.iii.1.2ea A imitate. IV. i. (iii.) VIII. oT (3) meren of the harem. (6) To

A girdle, a sash. I. v. VI. l, 2; ziv. III.

To hold as a genalways. IV. ii. IV. 4. ways. III. i. I. 5; ii. VIII. 4. To possess duties of social life. IV. i. [i.] X. The regular ordinary lot. I. x. VIII. 3. sdi (常) 育 II. iii. III. 1; iv. 1X. 2, (1) That which is constant, regular. carriage. I. v. IV. 4.

A curtain. ill 🐒 the curtain of a

第 bra 篇 (s)

VIL 4. (3) A city and district of Loo. IV. ii. IV. 5. A bind of cherry-tree IL i. IV. 1; eral rule. IV. iii. V. 2.

2: II. viii. L. 4, 5.

A buskin IL vii. VIII. 3.

min iii descriptive of curiages worn A territorial border, IV. III, IV. I.

Descriptive of leaves waving about. II. VI. 3. To be frivolous. II. vii. VI. 3. (2) (1) To be changeable. II. v. 御獅 out. II. i. IX. 3.

to be dense and luxuriant. Ornaments about a bridle, I. r. III. 3.

A corering. III. iii. TII, 2, A.I. ii .III gann

THE 51st RADICAL

(6) The name of a place. I. iii. XIV. 3. IV. 1, 3. (5) To seek for. III. i. V. 1. Used for The defend, soldiers. II. iii. AF a flag-staff L iv. IX. 1—3. (I) A shield L i. VII. I: III ii. VI. 1: IV. i. [I] VIII. (2) The bank of a river. I. iz. VI. I: II. iv. V. 1. (3) Used for I. iz. VI. I: II. iv. V. I.

(I) Level. I A. a forest in a plain,

Lux ii. XIII 2, ii. (6) Applied to iIIX ii. I. T. the tranquillizing king. 9 XI tranquillized, reduced to order; tranquil-lity. H. i. IV. 5; V. I. III iii. VIII. 9; to operations on the face of the ground. If of the ground, II, 5; III, 1; III, 5; III, 1; III the state of th breger dien-betelnien ed ot sieleger a wide forest. H. vii. IV. 2. III. ii. I. 3. (3) To be just. II. iv. VII. 2. 9. (3) To make peace with. I. iii. VI. 2. (4) To

THE 19TH RADICAL.

the past and perfect-complete tenses. IL. 6: IV. i. [i.] II. (2) To dismiss,—irom office. II. iv. VII. 4. (3) The sign of 们番 (2) & Lia III:1.7IZ; e-1 (1) A lane, a small street. L vii. III. 0233176Jy. L. x. L. 1—3: II. v. IV. L. 野 m I m ZK l' 3'3' (4) Ez-7. VI. 1: III, iii, III. 9. Observe a cumuch, or perhaps the chief of the eunuchs. This is the title of IL v. VI.,

the barem. denoting probably the passages to

THE JOIN RADICAL.

A market-place, I. zi. II. 2. A head-kerchief. I. vif. XIX. I.

Cloth, L TV, L.

begandstati ein 👬 🗘 ban 👬 God. Used often with the addition of Children, II. i. IV. 8 (妻 帑).

the is applied to the king, - this god. iii. III.; IV. 1, 3. In II. vii. X. 3, 2, 12: 2: 匠] :: ロ 12: 13: (ピ 虫) 8:

also, -- viten in the same ode, sometimes in

A bandkerchiel. L ii. XII. 3. a goddess. L. iv. IIL. 2. 225

仰哥

?}

流

쌇 ood

酢 sķs

单 wið

崩

Bunzy

ก็หมบุร 飙

開 張, IL iii. IV. 8; viii. III. 2: III. ाः साः सः । दः १८ १ सिने प्रसाः 2.500 men. L. zi. VIII. 1—3: II. 7iii. III. (2) Forces, troops;—properly a body of maginages of the people 7; in VII 6. adu 、而 大 , č 工 ; (加 泵 sunn (1) A multitude, all. II. iii. IV. 1, 3; iv. VII. 3; III. i. I. 6; ii. VI. 3 (in the bend !

उटि udy

獭

讕

聊 un/

翻

222,173

順 ym/

岬 yıd 삠

คืนกรุงุว

嶌,

1231 ┿

5n1

帶

訊

viil. VII. L.

the captain of the royal guards. II. iv. IX. ·天祖 (6) 2.11.1.111:18.12.1.117.7i Master, = the grand-master (大 南町) IL. capital. I. xiv. IV. 3: III. ii. IX. 3. (4) ri. IZ. 1: III. i. IV. 3. (3) 瓦酛, the iii. IZ. 2. T Efft, the king's armies. II. ments of music blending together. IV. iii. I., and to well-tempered soups, II.

2 to be discriminating and able. II. vii. VIII. 4. pëen

年 nëen

萬年, A year, years. I. xv. III. 3. 10,000 years, or myriads of years, = for ever, is frequent. I. xiv. III. 4: II. vi. VI. 3; IX. 2, 3; vii. II. 1-4: III. i. IX. 5; ii. III. 1, 2, 6, 7; et al. 粤.年, plentiful years. II. iv. VI. 4: IV. i. [ii.] IV.; [iii.] IX.; iii. II. So, 有年, II. vi. VII. 1; and 康年, IV. i. [ii.] I.

并 ping

All together. II. iv. VIII. 3.

THE 52D RADICAL.

84 yëw

(1) Dark, gloomy. II. i. V. 1. (2) To be of a dark colour. II. viii. IV. 3; X. (3) 组织 组织, descriptive of a hill, sombre in the distance. II. iv. V. 1.

(1) To be near. = Jr. III. iii. X. 6. 庶幾, to approximate to. What is approximated to generally follows; but in II. vii. IV. 3, the phrase stands absolutely, = to be in a tolerable condition. II. vii. III. 1, 2: IV. i. [ii.] III. (2) 二頁, to expect, what might have been calculated on. II. vi. V. 4.

(1) How. In the phrase 幾何, to be few. II. v. IV. 6. (2) A little time. I. viii. VII. 3 : II. vii. III. 3.

THE 53d RADICAL.

序

Order; to arrange in order. III. ii. II. 3; III. 5: IV. i. [i.] VIII. 繼序, continuing the order, successor. IV. i. [i.] IV.: [iii.] I.

瓜

To come to. II. iv. I. 2. (底止, to come to a stop). So, in II. v. I. 2; or perhaps E here - It, to end.

A kitchen. II. iii. V. 7.

厄 pruou 灰 kuny

(1) A calendarie stem-character. II. iii. VI.2. (2) 倉庚, an oriole, Sec 倉. (3) 長庚. Lucifer, the morning star. 11. v. 1X. 6.

To provide, IV. i [ii.] I.

Measures, III. iii. II. 5.

1) To measure, to estimate, to calculate. II. v. IV. I: III. i. VII. I, 6; ii. VI. 5: in II. 7: IV. u. IV. b. To be measured, to be according to rule. II. vi. V. 3. 度其心, God gifted him with the power of judgment. III. i. VII. 4. 容度, (2) To throw the earth into building frames. III. i. III. 6.

(1) The open court, or courtyard, in a palace, I. iii. XIII. 2; viii. III. 2; ix. VI. 1-3: II. iii. VIII. 1-3; iv. V. 5; v. I. 3: et al. 不距方, States whose princes do not appear at court. III. iii. VII. 1; IX. 6. (2) To grow up straight. II. vi. VIII. 1.

庶 shoo

庸 yung

脛の原が駆

隧

照

處 fei

烶

(1) All,-forming the plural; numerous; in abundance. I. ii. IX. 1—3; v. III. 4: II. i. VI. 1; vi. III. 2; V. 3; et al. the people. II. iv. VII. 4; v. II. 3: III. i. 肚人, ordinary peo-VIII. 1; iii. II. 6. (2) Used adverbially, ple. III. iii. II. 1. or as a conjunction. It may be, peradventure. I. viii. I. 3: II. v. IV. 2: III. ii. I. 8; iii. II. 12; VIII. 2. If but, would that. I. xiii. II. 1—3; II. iv. X. 2.

(1) To be joyful; tranquil, at ease; to bring to tranquillity. I. x. L 1-3: II. vii. VI.2: III. ii. VI.1; VIIIA: IV. i. [i.] V. = k'ang to restidly. IV. i. [i.] VI. 康年, a fruitful year, or to bless the year. IV. i. [ii.] L = prosperity. IV. iii. II. (2) The honorary title of king K'ang. IV. i. [i.] IX.

(1) To be engaged in service. I. vi. VI.3. To use,=to travel. I. viii. VI. 2. Service, merit. III. iii. V. 3. (2) A large bell. IV. iii. I. Should have at the side. (3) A surname. Liv. IV. 3. (4) | 新 眉. a small State, attached to, or dependent on, a large one. IV. ii. IV. 3.

Stacks in the fields. II. vi. V. 1; VIL 4.

A stable, II, vii. II, 3, 4,

Large;-meaning large States. III. i. VII. 1.

= a farm. I. ix. VI. 1.

dieu An ancestral temple. IL v. IV. 4: III. 廟 i. III. 5; VI. 3; iii. V. 4: IV. i. [i.] L; ii. 寝廟一般

To be degenerated, II. v. X. 4. To let come to nought. III. iii. VII. 1. To remove. II. vi. V. 5.

To be broad or wide; to be large; to le large; to enlarge, I. i. IX. 1-3; v. VII. 1, 2: II. Eggang iii. III. 3: IV. i. [ii.] VII.; ii. III. 5.

A granary, IV, i. [ii.] IV.

To erect Field-huts, IL vi. VI. L. booths. III. ii. VI. 3.

youd incavare, I. is. II. 1.

Euny

日

્રાયુક

先 žių.

6unz

表

代

Value of the Wall of the Conference of the Wall of the di MIV a II spirotanid bain odi in gain Empy Trans Milli (2) A.I. H. M. vews II. 3. 45 III. II. 2. 2. iv. VII. 4: III. iii. III. 1-3; V. II. 4: III. iii. III. 3. 4: III. iii. III. 5. 4: III. II. 5. 4: III. II. 5. 4: III. II. 5. 4: III. II. 5. 4: III. III. 5. 4: I products to be prolonged, IL vi. V. 6; III. 舨 યાત 追 To come to. II. i. TI. 5 (副明). ¥??} To piry. IL iv. VII. 3, 6: III. iii. X. 3. 鱼 nonn 追

A bow, I, vii, IV, 3; xi, III, 3; II, iii, I, -3; V. -1; V. Li, viv.

THE STIR BADICAL,

河 dimes it has the force of sering, and are other dimes it has the force of sering of the copula. It, i. i. 2; ii. V. i. 4; iii. IV, i. 2; 3; VI. 3; VI. 1; IV, i. 2; 3; VI. 3; VI. 1; IV, i. 2; 3; VI. 3; VI. 1; IV, i. 3; VI. 3; VI. 1; IV, i. 3; VI. 1; IV, i. 3; VI. 1; IV, i. 3; VIII, mh 重 1125 Q Eun, j ar times any meaning, while at other 31 a particle, to which we can hardly assign (3) The most frequent use of TE is us

THE 56TH RADICAL.

To give to play with. II, iv. V. 8, 9.

With wings dapping. U. v. UI. 1. นกอเส A cap—made of leather or deer-skin.

I. v. I. 2; xiv. III. 2; II. vii. III. 1—3;
wear a cap. I. viii. VII. 3; [iii.] VII. 1—3; wear a cap. I. viii. VII. 3; นออส 朱

THE STR RADICAL,

To set up; to establish. II. i. VIII. 9; 重 Magn The open court in a palace, N. T. L x. IL 2: III. III. II. Ł. bui, t 致

THE 54TH RADICAL. F

built by king Wan. III. i. VIII. 8, 4; X. 6. bunh

I is d in purch 35 68 South gradies IL this, these and sometimes ill IL the nointenance in been none south Mist B The IM dist I M service carriages, L. S. L. B. dy Logistos oliding off no gente od (I)

Luc com badical,

176

愆

BEE

Du 願

of the first without another than the first manner of the first without another than the first f $6un_{cd}$ Bund

Name of a city or district, between Wel and Chring, L vii, V. I. luxurianily, 11, vi. Vl. a. Buildely, follim to ovitairesch An An

An accomplished and admirable man. I vit, VL 3,

Red. I, III, XVII, 21 II, III, I, 1-3,

THE 59th RADICAL,

The nermal nature of man, III, iii, VI, I.

THE BEEN BADICAL,

To fulfil, complete, III, ii, L. 2; VIII, 2, 3, 4: 1K, il. 1K, 1, out to nothiernment out the pronunciation of the dictionary gives another meaning to this hement demonstrations of a magple in defence of its unite, I, iv, V, 1, 2, The -6v off to oviigitosob cut mi. To be strong, violent, III, iii, I. 9, 3; VI. 5. = able-bodied labourers, IV, i. 'A [III] 6ung.q 盟

(1) To bend,—a bow. II. iii. VI. ⁴; vii. (2) Large, III. iii. VII. ⁶ to be prepared). mance, II. iii. III. ⁶ to he prepared). The bow of the property of Gunya 張 Pill onds of a bow. II. i. VII. 5. (2) Tho ກວນ, ນຸລ

A bow undeut, II. iii. I. 1-3. possessed, L. vili, X. 2; H. ii. IX. 3; X. ii. IX. 3; X. VII. ii. V. I. 2, 3, 5, 6; ii. VII. 1-8; VIII. 1-6. (3) In the phrase 界 098-東界 A younger brother, I. iz. IV. S.

SIZ

27 闲

並

盟

廽

```
CHINESE CHARACTERS AND PHRASES.
    1-3; X. 1-3; et al. Following verbs and | adjectives, it everywhere gives a vivid, descriptive force to the lines. E.g. I. iv.
         I. 1, 2. We must sometimes translate it by—they, as in II. iv. VIII. 12; and by then, as in. II. iv. IX. 1, where 彼此
2: XXI. 1, 2: VI. 2; V. 2: VII. 4; V. 2; XXI. 1, 2; VII. 6; VIII. 4; V. 2; XXI. 1, 2; VIII. 2; 3; V. 2: III. iii. 1, 2; VIII. 2; VIIII. 2; VIII.                     III. 3; V. 6. The correlation of 往來 occurs in several of these instances.

(1) To go. I. ii. X. 1, 2. Used of the commission. II. iii. VII. 1. (2) To go on march of time. II. v. II. 4. (2) To go on a military, punitive expedition. I. XV. III. a military, punitive iIII. 1, 2; V. 8; vi. III. 3; IV. 1—3; II. iii. III. 6. To correct. III. iii. IX. 1: IV. ii. III. 6.
                       occurs in several of these instances.
                                                                                                                                           isung 征 tsung
                                          征夫, an envoy and his suite, II.
                                  i. III. 73, an officer, 2 soldier, IX. 2, 3, 4; III. 1; an officer, 2 soldier, IX. 2, 3, 4; viii. X 2, 3; III. iii. VL 7.—The meaning robably in III. iii III. 19 is uncortain Probably in III. iii. III. 19 is uncortain vin. A 2, 5; 111. III. VI. (.— The meaning Probably; in III. III. 12 is uncertain. Probably;
                                      U.iu. V.1; IV. La. of V. 工程旅, the et al. = on to. III. i. III. 4. 但旅, advancing troops, III. i. VII. 5. henceforth. IV. i. [iii.] X. to be fleet. IV.
                                                ii. I. 4. (2) 徂 灰. The name of a hill in Loo. IV. ii. IV. 9.
                          ts00
                                                     TIII. 6.
                                                             Afterwards, I. ii. XI. 1: II. vii. X. 1, 徧
                                                        2, 3. After nouns, our preposition after, preen
                                                          with and without Z between them. I.
                                                           x. XI. 4, 5: II. iv. VIII. 2. 我生之 leuh
                                                               the after part of my life. I. vi. VI.
                                          how
                                                                123. The future; descendants, posterity.
                                                                  I. iii. X. 3: II. ii. VII. 5; V. III. 8; Vii.
                                                                   IX. 5: III. ii. IV. 5: IV. i. [ii.] VII.; X:
                                                                     [jii] IV; iii. V. 5(後生).
                                                                       n second blessing. II. vi. v. 6. 後車.
                                                                        an attendant carriage, II. viii. VI. 1-3.
                                                                           最後, after me. III. iii. X. 7.
只知wof a province. III. iii. IX. 2, 3, 5,
                                                                                       (1) To go on foot. II. viii. III. 3. Foot
                                                                                   (1) 10 go on 100f. 11. viii. 11. 3. 7. 10f.

soldiers. II. iii. V. 3. 7. III. iii. V. 7. IV.

ii. III. 7. IV 5. (2) Followers. adherents.

ii. II. V. IV. 6. = rowers. III. i. IV. 3. (3)

II. V. IV. 6. = rowers. III. i. IV. 3. (3)
                                                                                6. IV. ii. IV. T.
                                                                狝 司徒 the superintendent of the multitude, the minister of Instruction. II. iv.
                                                                                          IX. I. III. I. III. 5.
```

MILVY.

(1) To follow; to pursue, I. ii. VI. 3; ii. VI. 2; x. III. 1, 2; iii. V. 2; viii. II. 1-3; VI. 2; x. III. iii. I. ts'ung xi. II. 1; IV. 1-3; xii. IX. 5; II. 3; VII. 4: IV. ii. III. 1; et al. 事, to discharge one's business. II. iv. IX. 7; vi. I. 1. 率從, to follow. II. viii. VIII. 4: IV. ii. IV. 6, 7. and so. III. ii. III. 8. =hunting grounds. II. iii. VI. 2. To follow to the grave, be buried with. I. xi. VI. 1-3. (2) From; after the word it governs. II. iv. VIII. 3; To plough lengthwise, from north to south. I. viii. VI. 3 (衡 從). Followers; attendants. I. viii. IX. 1—3. a familiar attendant. II. iv. X. 傅仰, a principal officer. II. ii. X. V. 3. (4) To provide against. I. iii. X. (5) To have at one's side. I. vii. VIII. To meet. I. ii. I. 1. to invoke. II.
To meet. II. ii. VI. 2 is doubtful; and,
vi. VII. 2. III. i. VI. 2 is doubtful; the other indeed the pronunciation in the other 2(在御). indeed, the pronunciation, in the other nuceu, the pronunciation, in the cases, was not peculiar anciently. All round, universally. I. iii. XV. 2, 3; (1) To come or go back, to return. I. xv. VI. 3: II. iv. III. 1—3; IV. 1, 2. xv. VI. 3: II. iv. II. 2. 二never to leady. Again. IV. ii. IV. 8 (2) 二never to repeatedly. II. v. VIII. 4. (2) A hut like a kiln. III. iii. III. 11. (2) 在 LE. a place in III. ii. III. 11. (4) II. i. VI. 5. III. i. III. 1. (4) 復開, a place in Wei. I. v. IV. 2 Wei. I. v. IV. 2.
Wei. I. v. IV. 2.

To be small, decayed. I. iii. I. 5;

(1) To be small, decayed the sun or moon

(1) To be small, decayed. (1) To be small, decayed. I. in. 1. out.
(1) To be small, decayed. I. in. 1. out.
(1) Yes to be small, decayed. I. in. 1. out.
(2) #E, in an eclipse. II. iv. IX. 1. (2) it is not that...I. iii. I. 1. is better that...than that II. i.

Ulcerated legs. II. v. IV. 6. conduct. II. i. V. 3 (失福); VI. 5. Kindness, II. iv. X. 1; V. VIII. 4; III. ii. III. 1. The limit insolent dispositions. III. iii. L. arrange the land according to

(1) To arrange the land according to a system of mutual cultivation. 5 (作人田); iii. V. 3; VIII. 3 (作人) To be persions, explicable

```
7. II. r. VII. 1. 2. apprehensive. 1. iii. T. 7. III. T.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      Eun.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                               To be mean. II. i. II 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        诏
                                                                                                                                                       Constant, permanent. U. vi. IU. 4, 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   To destroy utterly. III. i. VII. 8.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               ויבַססת
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               All Gupy
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           H. iii. IX. I. 3; IV. VIII. I. 3; IV. I. II. IV. III. III. IV. III. III. IV. III. III. IV. III. III. IV. III. III. IV. I everywhere,
                                                                                                                                    धाराष्
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               ₩,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   III. ii. I. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             To think of L iii Z 61 ziv. IV. I Ererrahere.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       бирл
                                                                                                                                                                                To depend on. II. v. VIII. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        To be trust-worthy. III. i. II. i.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           นออน
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       Ø,
                                                                                                                         The fight to be full of grief. II. vii. III. 3, 命 heart astrated with sriet.
To be envious, I. iii. VIII. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        ays
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     1
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Eura Cura
                                                                                                                                        M. io be rude. II. vii. VI. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            At, I. iii. VI. 2. Descriptive of the Pγυ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             [¥i] hap hap, L. ii. III. I. III. II. VIII. 5, and 划
                                                                                                             M. A. to contract enmities.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           Assil
                                                                                                        XIII
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                III. iii. I. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    To disgrace. II. v. II. 4: III. III. Z. 7.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     6unyo
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            To forget; to be forgotten. I. iii. IV. 3; vii. IV. 3; vii. IV. 3; vii. IV. 1; vii. IV. 3; vii. IV. 1; vii. IV. 1; vii. IV. 1; viii. IV 啉
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        r. VII. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     uəə,,
                                                                                                Used as meaning—life, III. ii, VIII.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      添
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               นอกก็
                                                                                           To be urgent; urgent circumstances.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              验
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             ธ<sub>นกล</sub>
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            3 3 7
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           6uis and the training of the state o
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                凹 利 unsz
                                                                                                              (1) To be insolent. II. vii. VI. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      YID Y
                                                                                                                                                                               To be idle. IV. iii. V. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            Ð,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              ILT. III. 6; Z. 1: III. iii. IV. 4.
                                                                               7, and the diet. explains it by JE to be sad. This is not necessary.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            hard-hearted. III. iii. III. 11.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     נמ<sup>6</sup>
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              43,2
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       Þ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            To endure,—to see or allow authing.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               意
                                                                            II is read in the 3d tone, in II, iv. VI.
                                                                         or Color of the first beginning the first beginning the first beginning the first beginning to the first beginning vil.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Z
                                                                     J. J. 别思新語 mi 是 autienco
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    (2) A final particle, I. vii. IV. 2,
                                                                 VII. Wang Yin-che would also thus
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     III. III. III. iii. III. iii. III. iii. III.
                                                               medial particle, II. vii. I. 4; IV. i. [iii.]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               of sorrow and distress. I. viii. VII. I; xii.
                                                              F (1)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              ə.y
                                                                                                            VIII.; [iii.] VI.; ii. III. 1, 2, 3
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           M M, descriptive of the heart full
                                                          8; VIL L; IL VI. I: IV. L [L] X; [II.]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          图
                                                        An initial particle, II. vii. IV. 1: III. i. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       3; xii. III. 2, 3; II. v. III. 3, ix. IV. 3; ix. IV.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   non
                                                                                 6; VIII. 4; ii. V. 4; iv. II. 8; et al.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 M
                                                   (2) A final particle, L. i. IX. 1: II. i. VII.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 plant, its inner branches, I. iii. VII. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 thoughts. II. v. IV. 4. The heart of a
                                               MR to cherish in the breast. I. i. I. 9.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Weik.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               thoum of the mind, the mind,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             VII
                                            strive, think enroestly. IV. i. [iii.] I. H
                                To be pained with sorrow:

Passim. Mearly 90 times.

V. 3; VIII. 3; XIII. 4; 5; III. 4; 4; III. 4;

V. 3; VIII. 3; XIII. 4; 5; III. 7; 4; III. 4;

V. 3; VIII. 3; XIII. 4; XIV. 1, 2; et sope.

V. 3; VIII. 3; XIII. 4; XIV. 1, 3; et sope.

V. 3; VIII. 4; VIII. 5; VIII. 4; III. 4; III. 4; III. 4; III. 4; IIII. 4; III. 4; II
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             √ 10° -366
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         H W to be satisfied or Weary in beart. I. v. VIII. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      国(必,一800
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    III. 6.: III. iii. III. 3, 8, such and such a state. I. iv. VI. 3: II. v.
                             JE JE, I. viii. VII. 2, and JE alone, 東海 次 to keep one's hearth-in
                                                                                                           To be pained with surrow.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         225
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 留 sope. A Hill M. head and heart to-the confidant of-his prince, I. i. VII.
                       To depend on, I. x. VIII. I: II. v. VIII. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               un
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            副
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        1, 2, 4; III 8, 4; V. 1; VI. 2; VII. 4; c.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     The heart, the mind. Passin. About 140 times. L. ii. III. 1—8; iii. I. 2—5. III. 1. 2—6. III. 1. 2—6. III. 1. 3—7. III. 1. 4—7. III. 1.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         ooy
                                        情似 a braggart, III. ii. IX. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      料 non_{M}
          IV. 6 (师 教); IX 4: IV. ii. III. 2 (to
   XXI
                                                                                                                                                        Cinglingani od
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                ďγ ら
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      THE 61st RADICAL.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        Good, admirable, II. vii. IX. 6: III. i.
914
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           0011 away: L. xv. II. 2: II. iv. 1X, 5; vi. V. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     凝/hany
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           LI I
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                II. iv. IX, 8. (3) To remove, to take
                                                                                                                           CHIMESE CHVBACTERS AND PHRASES.
```

INDEZ III

松neth

情

惔 tan

惕 t'eiħ

般

惟 wei

hwuy

恶

เขออ 惡

goh

惴 chuy

惸

惛 hwăn

愆 k'ëen

愈 yu

愉 yи

k'e

愚

災愛

gae

感 kan

愠 wăn

恌 kıcei

遫

300 cheueh

is'ing

瓜 ch'e

恩 găn 烙品

桐 t'ung

恭 kung

seih

姬

hwuy

悖 pei

悲

(1) To pity, to feel sorrow; sorrow. II. i. IX. 4, iv. I. 1—3; v. VIII. 3: III. iii. III. 5. (2) To regard, to care about. I. iii. X. 3: II. v. III. 8. 4411 seuh

To be ashamed, shame. II. v. VIII. 3; vii. VI. 5.

西斯, kindly. I. xv. II. 1. Kindness.

To be reverent. IV. iii. I.

To be dissatisfied. III. i. VI. 2.

桁, — alas! III. iii. III. 7. To be humble to, to be respectful. II.

v. II. 6; III. 8 (恭敬); vii. VI. 8 (其 盂, their reverence, they in their respectfulness); III. i. VII. 5; iii. II. 9; IV. 7(敬恭): IV. ii. I(温恭).

(1) To rest. I. ii. VIII. 2; vii. XII. 2; x. XI. 2; xiv. I. 2: II, v. IX. 3; vi. I. 4; 息 III.5(安息); vii. X.1. (2) 奄息, used for the final —see 在. (3) 思. L. i. IX. 1.

帽帽, to be full of grief. I. xii. X. 2. 愲 yuen 悄 and 悄悄; to be full of grief

悄 tsëaou and care. I. iii. I. 4; xii. VIII. 1: II. i. VIII. 2. 悉

All, completely. II, iii. VI. 3.

To repent, to regret. I. ii. XI. 1; vii. XIV. 1, 2: III. i. VII. 4; ii. II. xii. give cause for regret. III. ii. I. 8. 怒, to be angry with, III. iii. IV. 6.

To be disordered and distressed. III.

Only once alone, in IV. i. [iii.] II. To be distant, far-reaching. Descriptive of long and anxious thinking. I. i. I. 2; iii. V. 2; VIII. 3; XIV. 4; vii. XVII. 1, 2; xii. IX. 2. (2) Descriptive of length and distance. I. iv. X. 1; v. I. 1-3; x. VIII. 1-3: II. iv. IX. 8; viii. So, 悠遠, II viii. VIII. 1, 2. (3) Descriptive of a procession as long Calamity. IV. i. [iii.] IV.

To be sad. I. xv. III. 1; VI. 4: II. i. IX. 2; vi. IV. 2: III. iii. X. 6. 傷悲.

Descriptive of the ends of a sash hanging jauntily down. I. v. VI. 1, 2.

To be sad. I. iii. V. 1; v. IV. 5; xiii. I.3.

(2) To (1) To be hungry. I. i. X. 1. think sorrowfully. II. v. III. 2.

Kindliness, jolliness, I. xii. I. 1.

To be all on fire in the mind. II. iv. VII. With blazing fury. III. iii. IV. 5.

易物, to be full of trouble and grief. I. xii. VII. 2.

版, to look very sad. I. ii. III. 2.

To think solemnly,-in connection with sacrifice. III. ii. I. 7.

(1) To be kind; kindly, I. iii. V. 2; vii. XIII. 1, 2 (惠然: II. iv. VII. 5; v. III. 7: III. iii. II. 6. To love, to cherish, to favour. I. iii. XVI. 1-3: III. ii. IX. 1-5; iii. IV. 8; IX. 1: IV. i. [i.] IV. (2) To accord with. II. vi. V. 6: III. i. VI. 2; iii. III. 8; V. 8: IV. i. [i.] II. To be docile. I. iii. III. 4. To hate; hatred. I. vii. VII. 1: II. iv. VII. 5 : III. ii. V. 3; IV. i. [ii.] III.

Wickedness, II. iv. VII. 8; X. 2.

師 師, to look anxious and uneasy. I. . VI. 1—3: II. v. II. 6. xi.

(1) Solitary, helpless. II. iv. VIII. 13. (2) 惸 惸, to be sad. II. iv. VIII. 3. këung

惛 伮, noisy braggarts. III. ii. IX. 2. To go wrong, to err; errors. II. i. V. 3; vi. V. 4; III. ii. V. 4; iii. I. 5; II. 7. = to protract. I. v. IV. 1. 愈愈, to go on More. II. vi. III, 3.

increasing. II. iv. VIII. 2. To enjoy. I. x. II. 1.

To think of. II. iv. VIII. 10.

To find rest, II. vii. X. 2: III. ii. IX. 4.

Stupid, stupidity. II. iii. VII. 3: III. iii. U. 1 ; III. 10.

(1) To love. I. iii. XVII. 1; viii. IV. 4; III. iii. VI. 6. (2) To grudge. I. vii. II. 1—3: III. iii. IV. 1.

To touch. I. ii. XII. 3.

To be hated; anger, I. iii. I. 4: III. i. III 8.

To be ashamed. II. v. V. 3: III. iii, II. 7.

To complain. I. iii, I. 2.

(1) To be careful of, I. iii. III. 4; ix. IV. 1-3; II. v. VI. 3; III. ii. IX. 3; iii. II. 2, 5, 8; III. 8; IV. ii. III. 4. To guard and slow. II. iii. V. 7. 息加加

iii. 1II. 13.

```
suodita das ditui
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             I. vi. IV. 1—8: II. i. VII. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            Guns
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                1: III. ii. VI. i: IV. i. [i.] VIII. ( ).

A calendarie stem-character. II. iii. VI. I. VIII. ( ).
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         X
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Nooys
W
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          To be awakened or aroused to right
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          A lance or spear, I. xi, VIII. 1; xiv, II.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          mou
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      27
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Sunay
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                To rest. I. it V. S. A. A. A. A.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          0.у
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         THE 62D RADICAL,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               失
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      To be toiled, II, v. IX, 3; vi. III, 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 2, 3; III. iii. IV. shrink from. II. viii. VI.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          To be fearful, IV. iii, IV. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                      \begin{array}{c} \Lambda_{dimirmble,\,III.}^{(1)} \stackrel{Probably}{=} \stackrel{deep.\,I.\,\,xv.\,\,I.\,\,\underline{g}}{\text{M.i.i.}\,\,Yi.\,\,ii.}\,\,Yi.\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i},\,\,\underline{i}, o,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 瞓
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        To force one's-self to do a thing. II. iv.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                uəl
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 นบา
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       N 鄥
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               To linte, to dislike, I. viii. I. 3: II. iv.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             ə
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                VIII. 7; III. i. VIII. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   To fear. II, v. VII. 1, 2,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      .9 .M
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          為 uif
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     逐 aonathn gigg
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      wounded with sorrow, are constantly
                                                                                                                                                                    VIII. 1; XIV. 1; IV. VII. 3; X. 3; ct store of colocier. 1, xiii; IV. 4; disconsistent of colocies, II. xiii; V. 3; ct obe flutte in on one sacht III. i. ii. 3; ct obe sing on one sacht III. i. ii. 3; ct obe sing colocies.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      אנה המו od od the state of the state of the bound of the state of Buns, 劇 met with.
                                                                                                                                                         The combinations of T
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                X 1; V. IX 1-3; IX. III. 1, 2; X. I. 3; na na national policy of the property of the p
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              A Si II I Si VI Si AIX i AIX I Si II I Si A
                                                                                                                                                  Alout of times of the distant of the long Passim. About 80 times. To be sortow-
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              The state of the s onany
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              M mak 斖
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            \mathcal{L}_{ij,\gamma j}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 To be happy; to rejoice in. II. vi. V. 6; II. vii. V. iv. ii. Viii. vii. vii. vii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          To be lovely, L. All. VIII. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      XII
                                                                                                                     -Ruol enolyna St. M. J. M. J. A. J. A. J. M. J.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  If hill, to be grieved, I. xiii, II. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           Guiry
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         رديه
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         E MIV dix A Akall
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              溫
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               IX.3: III. II. IX. I Hi. IV. 6. (2) The line to be full of sortow. II. iv. X. A. II. iv. X. A.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       II. Vii. IV. 4: III. 1. III. 4: VII. 8: VII. 4: S. A.
                                                                                                                                                                                             to be full of sorrow. II. iv. X. J.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     unnz
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             ming
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      1
                                                                                                    (1) My at M. alwards, lead of the VII. 14
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       À
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   To exercise forethought, II, i_{Y}, I_{z}, I_{z}, I_{z} 過過
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       411,57
                                                                                                                                                                                                      To be ansir III. IL L. L.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    褂
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          To move slowly. I. vii. IV. 3.
                                                                                              To excite dissatisfaction, III, lil. L. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               A Said Wrong; to do the evil thing. I. A. L. 2. III. if IX. 3; iii. i. X. iii ii. III. i. Z. A.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            387
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 過機 unu ্রা shook lan babled of other
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  To be miscrable, the and the Lo. G.
                                                                AI :(Fig. 70) 1 TH Wa 18 THY WATH
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 Cal Porm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        別
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   m_{ m iii, m, m}
                                                        To be pleased L ili. XVII. 2 (12) (12)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         20,07
                                           legal out all outs out to one ful mi
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            To Musish. I. ili. A. J.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                (c) A[n] q Al amp flower for sun XX (c) XI q III or prodess of (1)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      2 dit d Mi souled
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   in 11 Joint in bours no be pained in mind II, iv.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               a m in misti ma
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     471.24
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     础
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       I some store of the lines. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     1:15
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    Car
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         湖
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    To pass and L x. L 3 (best
                                                                                                          Mappy of the IVA Like IX
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         T-l'III' ax
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                ijiji
                   La Ma Malandra of of the Mall of the (2:0,) 1.15
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             nov.,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       M
          matopulated and the manufacture of the first                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    To be agliated L zli, VIII, 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               趴
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         1 Zingig.
     To I make mill the mount v (6)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         泤
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       T-1 AV Ax A birale od of 湖 gix A lam MA
212
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          _{1N^{-1}}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            The sound of a slab.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               deschief II in II. a. (2) the ally, hadeed.
                                                                                                                                                                                                      CHIZESE CHVBACTERS AND PHBASES.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  MADEZ III
```

00.72

獙

直. I. xi. III. 1: II. i. VII. 4; iii. III. 1, 4, 5; IV. 4: IV. ii. III. 7. (3) Name of the wild tribes of the west. II. i. VIII. 5: IV. ii. IV. 5. (4) You, your. III. ii. IX. 4; iii. V. 7; VI. 3; VII. 1. (5) Great. III. i. III. 7 (=great affairs); VI. 4: IV. i. [i.] IV. (6) To help. II. i. IV. 4. (7) descriptive of furs much worn.

1. iii. XII. 3.

chʻing

(1) To complete. I. i. IV. 3; 40 times. ii. I. 3; iii. V1. 4: II. iii. III. 2; v. VI. 1, 2; et sape. To be completed; the completion. I. viii. XI. 2: II. iii. V. 8; iv. X. 4; v. I. 4; et 成人, grown-up men, III. i. VI. 5; experienced men, III. iii. I. 7. in, the determinate appointment. IV. i. [i.] VI. = perfect rules. IV. i. [ii.] I. 思成, the realization of one's thoughts. IV. iii. I.; II. (2) To make peace, a pacification. III. i. III. 9; and, perhaps, II. iv. VII. 6. (3) = to pledge. I. iii. VI. 4. (4) = , if indeed. II. iv. IV. 3. (5) The honorary title,—king Ch'ing. IV. i. [i.] IX. (6) 成湯, T'ang, the Successful. IV. iii. V. 1.

(1) To take precautions; to be cautious I. vii. IV. I: II. vi. VIII. 1: III. iii. II. 4, 5; IX. 1: IV. iii. II. (2) To warn. II. i. VII. 5; vi. V. 5: III. iii. IX. 2.

Passim. The first pronoun, personal and possessive. More than 300 times.

To injure. II. iv. IX. 5.

go 戕 tsëang 或 hwoh

我

(1) Some; some one; something. II. iv. VI. 1; v. I. 5, 6, 7; vi. I. 4, 5, 6; V. 2, 3; VII. 1; X. 3: III. ii. I. 7; II. 1, 2: IV. i. [iii.] VI. Or. II. iii. X. 1, 2. Either...or. II. iii. VI. 3. = if. II. v. IX. 5. Wang-Yin-che argues that in all these cases 或 = 有;—and correctly. And perhaps we ought to construe in the same way. I. ii. VIII. 1; xv. II. 2: II. i. VI. 6 (In this case Yin-che says The is only an expletive). (2) = X, also, and. II. vii.

践

THE CHICA

祉

(1) A battle-axe. III. ii. VI. 1. (2) Distress. to be sorrowful. II. vi. III. 3. (3) To be closely related and attached. 戚戚, III. ii. VI. 1. (4) 戚施, a hunchback. I. iii. XVIII. 3.

Alance; -usedinachariot. I xi. VIII.2.

To collect. (1) To collect one's self. II. vii. I. 3. (2) To fold up,—as a bird its wings. II. vii. II. 2; viii. V. 7. (3) To call in,—as arms. IV. i. [i.] VIII.

Entirely, II, i. VI. 2.

To cut off;-meaning to be secured, to be guarded, to be restrained. III. iii. IX. 1: IV. iii. IV. 2, 6; V. I. 戦 戰, to be apprehensive. II. v. I.

To joke; in jest. I. v. I. 3: II. iv. VII. 1: III. ii. X. 8 (殷 豫).

THE 63d RADICAL. A

A_door. I. x. V. 3; xv. I. 5; II. 2: II. 戸 iv. V. 2. ĥoo

(1) To come to, up to. II. iii. IV. 3; v. II. 1; X. 7; vii. VIII. 5: III. i. V. 3: IV. i. [ii.] III.; V.; ii. III. 1—3. (2) To settle. II. iv. X. 2: III. iii. III. 16; IV. 8. (3) Miseries. II. iv. VII. 5. To do violence. III. iii. II. 1.

(1) A room. I. vi. III. 1. (2) 大 房, a large stand,—used at feasts and sacrifices. IV. ii. IV. 4. (1) A place. II. iii. VI. 2: III. iii. IV. 4; IX. 4: IV. iii. II. V. 1 (其所, their 公所, the places, = their country). duke's place, where he is. I. vii. IV. 1. 我所, our proper place. I. ix. VII. 1. So in I. x. VIII. 1; xv. VI. 2. (2) Where, the place where. I. ii. V. 1-3: II. iii. VI. 2; iv. I. 1, 2; VII. 7; X. 3; v. III. 4: III. i. V. 5; iii. III. 3, 4: IV. iii. III. That which; he who. I. iii. XII. 3; iv. II. 1, 2, 3; X. 4; xi. IV. 1—3; xv. II. 3: II. i. VII. 5; iv. II. 1, 2; X. 2; v. II. 4; IX. 1; viii. I. 1: III. i. V. 5; iii. III. 8. Nearly 一所 以. II. vii, VIII. 2, 3.

Low, thin. II. viii. V. 8 (有扁).

桑扈, the green-beak. II. v. II. 5; vii. I. 1, 2.

THE 64rn RADICAL. 手

The hand. I. iii. V. 4; XIV. 3; XVI. 1, 2, 3; v. III. 2 (= the fingers); vii. IV. 3; VII. 2; ix. I. 1 (= the fingers); xi. II. 1; xv. II. 3 (of a bird's claws): III. iii. II. 10. With the hand, II. vii. VI. 2.

To be strong, IV. ii. I. 2.

To shake. II. iv. VIII. 7.

扶脈, the name of a tree,-probably the mulberry. I. vii. X. 1. (1) To bear, to bring in. II. i. I. 1: IV. iii. III. (2) 承元, to present sacrifices. IV. ii. IV. 3. (2) To honour, to be, honoured. III. iii. II. 6: IV. i. [i.] L. (3) To continue. I. xi. X. 1, 2: II.; i. VI. 6. (4) To withstand. IV. ii. IV 5.

戦 chen 戲 hе

戾

房

fang

所.

俪 pëen

扈‰

手 show

才 ts'ae

拡 wŭh

扶 ſoo. 承

ch'ing

計 An armlet used by archers. II. iii. V. 5. 科 นอกอวุ 零 buid Strength. II. v. IV. 6. 鲱 claws. I. xv. IL 2. to seize and grasp with the (組開) นกลูวุ 1 yoary 捏 To meet with, II. vii. IV. I. ə.y yong 좖 in the phrase if the color than the color 뫋 To come to, L. vi. II. 2. əvd (1) To bend,—as a branch. I. i. V. 3. 6. 6. Or no or in obeisance. III. iii. VIII. 5, 6. 垂 anod 밝 descriptive of a person beckoning. Lili. πουγο To beckon to. L. vi. III. 1, 2. THE 龀 oiois unf i. III. 4. 號 yənyə The appearance of a bird in dight, IV. To take, to gather, I. i. VIII, 2, 料 i. III. 8 ; VII. 3. 净 455'23 To be cleared away, to be thinned. III. 郡 强御 to be clover. II. v. VI. 4. yod The end of an arrow. I. xi. II. I. descriptive of rapid marching, III. iii. yaası 00/ (I) A victory II. i. XII. 4. (2) 張頵, 桝 亚 To keep the hand on, - to encourage. 路 棚 告002-晚計 To oppose, III, i. VII, 8, unu I. vii. V. 3. vi. V. I. aro,yo ш Lo pluck up,-as thorns. II. To hold. III, iii, II. 6. 晔 To take out,—as a weapon to use it. rub out seeds. I. i. VIII, 2, nov,d yənəy To entry, to bear in the arms. I. ii. X. 2; v. IV. I: III. iii. II. x. oi-,duroi=,vidador'l .(朱珠) I.III 甜 栤 To gather, to pluck, I. xv. II. 3: III. iii. yəyə nay To break, I. vil. II. I—3; viil, V. 3, To carry earth in baskets, III, i. III, 6. бирз may 平 To set up. II. vii, VI. I. 袱 To be long and curved. II, v. IX. I, 6; protection. II. v. III. 6. Meturikus rol one smot no liseli yniworal tidder yesy To hold, to grasp,—as an arrow on the string. II. iii, VI. 3. == to possess, to hold. 310,1 耕 北瓜野 II. v. VI. 6: III. iii. II. 8. 竔 To throw to, to present. I. v. X. I, 2, 3: yıß 剅 To lade out, II, v. IX, 7: III, ii, VII, .V. ili. ili. ili. VI. 3: Ili. ili. V. be noble-like, I, I, XI, 1-3; ii, VIII, 1-3, some. I, viii, XI, l. (3) Till to be សំរុម of (2) To be numerous, I. I. V. I. (1) An initial particle. I. vii. IV. 2, 3: II., iv. IX. 5. (2) To be elegant, hand-此 IV. l. [iii.] V. In the lat tone. 612 INDEX III. CHIZERE CHYBYCLERS YZD BHBYRES:

2. (2) Descriptive of birds in a flock. II. To look easy and unembarassed. I. ix. I. 9) (1) To hold, III, iii, II, 9, 꽓 arol To keep in order, III. iii. V. 8. 揉 1231.7 To measure, to examine, I, iv. VI, I. 祭 ii. l. 7. Read you. nĥ To scoop out,—as from a mortar. III. 繖 To push away, to decline responsibility. fin,7 业 I. vii. IV. 2. (2) To appeal. I. iv. X. 4. bun,y The cover or lid of a quiver, I. vii. IV. 3. - I, the hole of an insect. I, ziv. I, 3 To follow the lean of a tree in felling it. II. 7. III. 7 In the phrise iff The to be over-bur-To exact. In the phrase A tortionate exactors, III. iii. I. 2 To give, to give out. I. vii. I. I. 1—3; xv. I. I., 2: III. ii. II. I, 2: IV. I. [ii.] IX.

To bow to,—with the hands to the breast. I. viii. II. 1—3.

પુર્ણ

事

7. III. L

morg. IV. i. [ii.] III.; ii. II. I., 2. (4) From.

the appearance of a dock of birds on the or (2) To call in or back. In the phrase. (#) 表示 (E) . (E. VI. iii. II. 观示

In the 3d tone. (1) To shake, I. xv. I.

To be volatile. I. vii. XVII. 3 (桃莲).

To stop, to repress. III. i. VII. 5.

by grain in reaping. IV. i. [iii.] VIII.

descriptive of the noise made

To point to. I. ir. VII. 1.

骕 nonz,

雅 yoδ

Chih

t'ah

tsih

keih

擣 taou

攘 jang

攜

hwuy

欇 sheh

攪 këaou

иh

楊 yany

援

. 博

搔 saou

yaou

搜 sow

摧 tsuy

野心

骠

授师

揖 程程, descriptive of locusts clustering together. I. i. V. 3.

To grasp in the hand. = a stalk. I. xii. tseih 握

II. 3. A handful. II. v. II. 5.

A comb-pin. I. iv. III. 2; ix. I. 2.

(1) To impede, and so fret and expand water. I. vi. IV. 1—3; vii. XVIII. 1, 2; x. XIII. 1—3. (2) High and spreading branches. I. xv. I. 3. (3) A high forehead. I. iv. III. 2, 3; vii. XX. 1, 2; viii. XI. 1, 3. (4) To display. to be displayed. I. vii. XV. 2: III. iii. VIII. 6: IV. ii. III. 6. Used of flames blazing. II. iv. VIII. 8. Of a bird on the wing. II. iii. IX. 2: III. ii. II. 8. Of the movement of the eyes. I. viii. XI. 1. (5) To scatter. the eyes. I. viii. XI. 1. (5) To scatter, as chaff. II. v. IX. 7 (箕楊). (6) A battle-axe. III. ii. VI. 1.

To hold up one's clothes,-in crossing a stream. I. īii. IX. 1.

(1) 揭揭, to be rank and tall, descriptive of the growth of rushes. I. v. III. 4. (2) To lift up, to be lifted up. II. v. IX. 7. Applied to a tree uprooted. III. iii. I. 8.

To lay hold of, to cling to. III. i. VII. 5 (畔援, to reject this and cling to that). In st. 7, 釣援—hooked grapplers, = scaling ladders.

To seize, to strike. II, iii. V. 2.

To scratch. I. iii. XVII. 1.

To shake, L xv. IL 4 (漂搖). 搖 to be agitated. I. vi. I. 1.

The whizzing sound of a rapid arrow. IV. ii. III. 7(其 神).

(1) To thrust at, to censure I. iii. XV. 3. (2) To be extinguished. III. iii. IV. 3. (3) To feed with forage. II. vii. II. 5, 4. The dictionary gives the pronunciation in this case as-tso; but the thyme is tsuy.

The name of a State. III. i. II. 2.

(1) To grasp. I, vii. VII. 1, 2(1参勒). (2) 持續. to be delicate-looking,—as a lady's fingers. I. ix. I. 1.

(1) To fall down, to drop. I. ii. IX.

1-3. (2) 有類, descriptive of beating one's breast. I. iii. I. 4.
(1) To rule, to order. IV. iii. V. 2. (2)

To be uprooted. III. iii. I. 8.

To saw. I. xv. I. 7: II. vi. VIII. 1: IV. i. [ii.] II.; [iii.] V.; VI.

A small cap. H. vill, I, 2,

To be rapid, IV. iii. V. 1.

To choose, II. iv. IX. 6.

To beat. I. iii. V. 1; xii. I. 2,3: II. vi. VII. 2.

To depend on, I. iii. I. 2. keu

To pound, to be pounded. II. v. III. 2.

(1) To take. II. vi. VII. 3. (2) To re-(3) = amove, to thin. III. i. VII. 2. thief. III. iii. I. 3.

To take by the hand; to carry in the hand. I. iii. XVI. 1—3: III. ii. X. 6; iii. II. 10.

To assist, III, ii, III, 4,

To perturb. II. v. V. 4.

THE 65TH RADICAL. 支

(1) Branches. I. v. VI. 1. (2) The younger sons, and sons by concubines, of che the royal family. III. i. I. 2.

THE 66TH RADICAL.

(1) To receive. IV. i. [i.] II. (2) take,—as in a snare. III. iii. X. 2. To take up, to remove. III. iii. X. 1. The back and front of a carriage. I. xii. ш. і.

A synonym of F. A place. III. iii. VII. 5. That which. II. vi. V. 3. The place which, the place or individual where, wherein. II. ii. IX. 4; iv. V. 3, 4; vi. VII. 1; vii. VIII. 4: III. i. III. 7; IV. 2; VII. 8; VIII. 2; X. 4, 5: ii. I. 1; III. 4; IV. 4; V. 4; VII. 2, 3. Whereby, IV. ii. II. 5 ii. III. 5.

To change. I. vii. I. 1-3; xv. I. 5. 不改 unchangeable. II. viii. I. 1.

To work, = to polish. II. iii. X. 2. To take work in hand. III. i. VIII. 1. To be put in good order, to be made strong. II. iii. V. 1.

Government. I. iii. XV. 2, 3: II. iv. VII. 6; IX. 2; vi. III. 3: III. i. VII. 1; iii. II. 3; VI. 3: IV. iii. IV. 4.

(1) A cause, a reason for. I. iii. XI. 1. For the sake of; following its regimen. I. vii. XII. 1, 2: II. i. VII. 1; iv. IV. 1, 2. (2) Old intercourse, I. vii. VII. 1. = forefathers. I. x. VII. 1. 故美, old ministers. II. iv. VIII. 5.

To teach; instruction. II. v. II. 3; vii. IV. 2; IX. 2, 6; viii. VI. 1—3; III. iii. II. 11; X. 3; IV. ii. III. 2.

(1) To be diligent, to be active. II. vi. VII. 3; III. ii. L. 5; iii. VIII. 1. (2) The great too. III. ii. I. I.

收 show

攸 kae

攻 kung

故

```
月)(114.11年)(11.11年) [1.11年
日)(1.14.11年)(11.11年)
                                                                                                                                                                                                (4) We must take it as = 75, to be. II.
                                                                                                                                                                          ing the first in at. 5.

VII. 29. 35. 4.

So, first in at. 6.

In So, VII. 3. 4.

In So, VII. 3. 4.

In So, VII. 4.

In So, VII. 5.

In So, VII. 5.

In So, VII. 5.

In So, VII. 5.

In So, VII. 6.

In So
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         To both od of - ei Enineam ett und ,eet beor case the duite annual semination of them of them of them of them is a minimum of the semination of the
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       To ruin. III. iii. IV. 2. IV. l. lii.] III.
                                                                                                                                                                        i. I. do out of the work of the out of the control of music, IV, ili. L.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 Secontain affecting their meaning their meaning.
                                                                                                                                            VII. 1; A. 1 (HJ) TXA.

L. xii. YII. About 80 times.

L. xii. YII. (2) This, these, I. ii. YII.

V. S. III. 10; IV. 1 (= nny); iii. VI.

pended to the names of animals, plants,

&c. without affecting their meaning.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             375
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           勪
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    To discriminate. II. v. IV. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Curys 貅 arrange, IV. ili, IV. l. (2) = 14. ili, IV. l. (10. ili, IV. l. (2) = 14. all.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              200
                                                                                                                                     To cut down, to be cut down. II, iv.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           IV.^{i.}\left[iii.\right]XL
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             W.I.X.I.(事後)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                256 handle, I. xr. I. 3; IV. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          棋
                                                                                                                     Gence. IV. i. [i.] IX.
An axe. I. viii. VI. 4; xii. VI. I; xv. I.
3; IV. 1—3; V. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     upyo
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        IL V. VI. 7; A. III. ii. IX, 3; iii. III. 3; 俥 reverently, before other verbs:—as Harring 狐 Guda,s7
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   恭,11、6.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  spect, II, v. III, 3. IVe have by
                                                                                                                The of penetrating intelli-祧
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       · 18.0.1
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              恭敬 to reduct; II, iii. IX. 8; iv. X. 3; v. II. 2: III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               L L 4, ii. L. 8; et sæpe.
                                                                                                                                                                 The ^{69	ext{th}} radical. oldsymbol{\mathcal{H}}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Spoken of masses of troops III. iii. IX. 4.
                                                                                                                                                   A cup for spirits. III, ii. II, S.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           Used of rushes Browing thickly toge-独 spirits, III. ii. II. 4 measure for ladleing.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               unz 强 və.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                誻
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 To be ornamented, III. ii. II. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   upmi
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   (4) To deal with, to polish off. IV. ii. IV. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    涯 0207
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 to be select, to be polished, IVI. [ii.] IX.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          novej
                                                                                                                                                                       THE 68TH RADICAL,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             三天 1V. L. (美) (是 下) 1. VI. TX
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          √₹
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         XV. 8. (2) To be solitaty; one by one I.
                                                                   E elegantly drawn lines, II. v.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        iii I. noqu bəsoqini anvova is V g V
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         IIA
                                                        I; et sæpe. Without the Æ. IV. i. [i.]
                                                                                                                                      III, iii, VIII, 4,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          lin;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   To date, to venture, I. ii, VIII. 1—3; ii. IVIII. 1; VIII. 2; vi. IX. 1: III. i. VII. 4; ii. VIII. ii. IVII. ii. IVIII. ii. IVII. ii. IVIII. ii. IVII. ii. IVII. ii. IVIII. ii. IVII. ii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                To be dispersed. III iii. IV. 7.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      墾
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 强
                                                     E) III.1.1,2,8,4,7; II.2,8,4,6; VI.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   UDE of the Chow dynasty, king Wan, (X 猎 figgs, II. iii. III. 4. Of ceremonics, III. 1. iii. III. 4. Of ceremonics, III. 5. (2) Givil—endoved with civil iii. VIII. 6: IV. i. [ii.] VII. iii. III. 5: III. 6: IV. i. [ii.] VII. iii. III. 6: III. 5: III. 6: IV. i. [ii.] VII. iii. III. 6: III
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                To be worn out. I. vii. I. 1-3; viii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       u D.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   À
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       (I) To break, I. ii. V. 2. (2) To ruin, be ruiued, II. v. I. 5: III. ii. IX. 4; મહેં 撇
                      ful. I. xi. III. I. Used of the binzonry of fine binzonry of fine binzonry of III. II. III. 4. Of ceremonies. III. i. III. denonies. III. i. iii. of ceremonies. III. i. iii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     iii. 13.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Froud; proudly. I. iii. V. I: II. vii. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            ənd
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       殖
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      L. 4 (M. H. J. I. S. (2) A Stage for pantomimes, I. vi. III. 3. (4) Mame of a first of a stage for a first of a stage for a first of a first of a stage for a first of a first o novs
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              hill. II. iii. V. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              猜
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      นอด
                                                                                                       THE 67TH RADICAL.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Saunter about; to enjoy one's
     To Eather, to take up. II. vi. VIII. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                novb
172
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      นอลู
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     To be careful, II. vi. V. 4, 獲
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   To help, to relieve, I. iii, X. 4: III. ii. X. 4: III. ii. X. 4: III. ii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          城城
                                                                                                                                                   CHINESE CHYBYCLEBS VND BHBYSES.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        ويويه
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           INDEX III
```

矢斯張); IX 4(至于已斯 亡); et al. II. iv. V. 6, 乃安斯寝, 乃寢乃興, seems a case in point, to show the interchange of HT and 73. (5) = the descriptive I, in both the cases of its usage which have been pointed out under that character. E.g. II. iii. IV.2(朱芾斯皇); iv. V.4(如 跂斯翼如矢斯棘如鳥 斯革如 暈 斯飛); vi. VII. 4 (乃求千斯倉,乃求萬斯 箱); viii. V. 8 (有扁斯石): III. i. VI. 1(則百斯男); VII. 5(王 赫斯恕): Ⅳ.ⅲ.Ц有秩斯 (6) There are many instances where we can only say that it = if, a sort of copula. E.g. I. xv. I. 8 (別 酒 斯饗): III. ii. VI.4(于京斯依), 6 (于幽斯館). name. IV. ii. IV. 9. (1) New. I. iii. X. 2, 3, 6; XVIII. 1, 2; xv. III. 4: II. iv. IV. 2; vii. IV. 5.

新

斵 choh

斷

twan

(1) New. I. iii. X. 2, 3, 6; XVIII. 1, 2; xv. III. 4: II. iv. IV. 2; vii. IV. 5. = recent. III. i. I. 新田, fields in the 2d year of their cultivation. II. iii. IV. 1, 2. So 新 alone, in IV. i. [ii.] I. Newly repaired. IV. ii. IV. 9. (2) 新用, a hill in Loo. IV. ii. IV. 9.

To hew, IV. iii. V. 6.

To cut off. I.xv. I. 6: IV ii. IV. 9; iii. V. 6.

THE 70ru RADICAL. 方

方

Passim. About 90 times. (1) To mavigate with a raft. I. i. IX. 1-3; iii. X. 4. (2) Square. IV. iii. V. 6. (3) A quarter, a region. A quarter of the heavens. I. viii. I. 2; IV. 1, 2. A region, in which sense [IL] II, meaning the four quarters of a State, or of the kingdom, is very common. I. iii. IV. 3, 4; XIII. 4; xi. II. 2; II. i. VIII. 3; iv. VII. 3, 7; IX. 8; vi. I. 3; viii. X. 1; III. i. II. 1; VII. 7; IX. 6; X. 1, 5; ii. V. 3; et sarpe. II. ii. II. 3; IV. iii. IV. 1. We have II. ii. II. 3; IV. iii. IV. 1. We have II. ii. II. 1; the siae, I. ix. II. 2. (1) To prove s. I. ii. I. 2. (5) X. an adverb, snow; suffice ver; then; ... will, See. I. iii. XIII. 1; iv. VI. 1; vii. XXII. 1; ii. III. 2; II. VII. 2; iv. VII. 4; iv. VIII. 2; iv. V

4, 13; IX. 4; vi. I. 8; et sepe. = first. III. ii. VI. 1. To begin to be. IV. iii. IV. 1. (5) Grain coming into ear. II. vi. VIII. 2. To prepare for sowing the grain with the living germ. III. ii. I. 5. (6) To sacrifice to the Spirits of the four quarters. II. vi. VII. 2; VIII. 4; III. iii. IV. 6. (7) The name of a place or district. II. iii. III. 4. (8) A clan-name. II. iii. IV. 1—4. (9) A centre of attraction. III. i. VII. 6. In, at, among, in reference to. I. viii. III. 1—3; xi. X. 1, 2; xv. VI. 2, 3: III. i. IX. 5, 6; ii. X.: IV. i. [i.] I.; [ii.] VII.

於

yu

施she

尬。旁

pang

族。 旃 游

тиои

族 leu

旆

旋 staten

施族

And f . Oh! II. i. V. 2: III. i. I. 1, 4; VIII. 3, 4; iii. II. 10, 12; III. 1; IV. 1; XI. 7: IV. i. [i.] I.; II.; IV.; VI.; [ii.] I.; et al.

(1) Fili, a hunchback. (2) filing. jauntily. I. vi. X. 1. (3) To place, or set,—used of a rabbit-net. I. i. VII. 2, 3;—of a fish-net. I. v. III. 4; of stars in the sky, II. v. IX. 6.

To extend, to stretch to. I. i. II. 1, 2; xv. III. 2: II. vii. III. 1, 2: III. i. V. 6; VII. 4

stant motion. I. vii. V. 2:
A flag with dragons emblazoned on it.
II. i. VIII. 3; iii. IV. 2; VIII. 3; vii.
VIII. 2: III. iii. VII. 2; et al.

An expletive; or may be explained as

(1) A pennon of ox-tails. I. iv. IX. 1: II. i. VIII. 2; iii. V. 3. (2) 旄丘.

(1) To return, I. iv. X. 2 (); II. iv. III. 1, 2, 3, (2) To drive a chariot round about. I. vii. V. 3.

A pennon of differently coloured feathers, I, iv. IX.3: II, i. VIII, 2; iii, V.7.

(1) Kindred descended from the same and stor. I. i. IX. 3; II. iv. III. 1. (2)

F (2) The name of a mountain. III. IV. 5. (2) The name of a mountain, III. ringo, relatives by affinity, in II, iv. IV. at the rising of the rising sun.

(1) Drought, III, iii, IV, 2—7, III.

(2) Drought, III, iii, IV, 2—7, III.

(3) III. L. iv. VIII. 8. But = adinity by mar-G Fine: beauty. 1. v. 1 v. 0.

Fine: beautiful; excellent, Said Reneroff flowers): II, ii, I. 3. 3. 3; ii, III, 1. 1. 3.

IV, 3; VII, 19; VIV. 3; Vii, II, 4; III, 1. 4; IV.

IV, 3; VIII, 4; VIV. 3; Viii, J VII; ii, III, 3;

I; VIII, 4; V upmy H = the clear will of Heaven, 骨 be very bright or very glorious, in II, vi. od in astration of illustrations virtue. H H Clearly. I. v. IV. 6. (2) To be clear-seeing. III. ii. X. 8. =HH H 'I HI II II I I [ii] J. AI LXXI 8:XIL 株 国, the grey the bright and glorious God, dawn. I. vii. VIII. I. (1) The morning. AAB, in the early III. ii. III. 2, 8; IV. i. [i.] VIII. davra. I. iii. X. 3. AIII 68 II II II II SO MAIN M H = never, 11. be very intelligent, to be clear, ill. iii. in the course of a day. All Hany intelligence, IV. I. [iii.] III. Hy Dy to viii. IV. 4. day. II. vii. III. 3. viü, XI, 2, But in II, v. IX, 6, 188 H lighten, IV, l. (iii.) II. H. H. brighte anot for days only. Ask H, all day. I. ·uo o.L I [ii] i VI minal 10 soubord millet. II. vi. III. L. M. = the bright 田不.e. II. sut in I. ul. II. 3, 不日 less than a day, in no time. I. iii. V. 3. ansird odi = 11 12 L. VI. 2, 5; VII. 5; et stepe. III. iii. I. 5. = 10 bo brilliumily perform-1-8; VII. XVII. 8; X. I. 1-3; II. 8; II. Light, in opposition to darkness, $\begin{array}{c} 3, & \text{The sun. L. iii. L. } 5; \text{IV. } 1-f; \text{VIII.} \\ IX. & 3; & \text{VII. } 1; & \text{VIII. } 3; & \text{VII. } 1; & \text{VIII. } 2; \\ IX. & 3; & \text{VII. } 1; & \text{VIII. } 3; & \text{VII. } 1; & \text{VII. } 1; \\ IX. & 1; & 1Y. & 1X. & 1; & \text{VIII. } 2; & 3; & \text{VII. } 1; \\ 3, & 3, & 4xys; & 4xiiy. & 1; & 1xi. & 1; & 1xi. & 1; \\ 1. & 3, & 1X. & 1; & 1xi. & 1xi. & 1; \\ 1. & 3, & 1X. & 1; & 1xi. & 1xi. \\ 1. & 3, & 1X. & 1; & 1xi. & 1xi. \\ 1. & 3, & 1X. & 1; & 1xi. & 1xi. \\ 1. & 3, & 1X. ed. II. vi. V. 2. VIII. I XII. V. I. 2. T'hle dawn. II. V. the bright (= the morning) start Lvii. 2) V. 1: III. iii. I. 4; II. 3; 6! ob. be illustrious, to be intelligent, I, viii, I.

To be illustrious, to be intelligent, I, viii, I.

To he illustrious, to be intelligent, I, viii, I. THE 72D RADICAL, [H Gunn M VI to (2) PAll, ontirely. IL iv. VL 3: 2, 3, 5; IV. 1—3; III. L. 4; VII. 4; iii. IA Lind X anountal III I'l [1] IV; VIII. Without IV. 6. = when, II. iv. VIII. 4; viii. III. sometimes=since. II. iv. VII. 1; X. 2; v. THE WALL TO SELLE THE SELLE SE X. 2) il. III. I -3; iii. I. 4; et pussim, I. sign of the present-e amplete tense. I. i. More than 150 times. (1) Have the Tolumus odi of Sudafordes omen odl' AI some of an another state of the FIST RADICAL. F 艡 nnoy 裴 (2) An older brother, L vi. VII. 3. (2) curl in the hair, II, viii, I, 5 (有)前() no bonokaldara snoolah hila 12. M. Wi J. Ji ik JV Wi 12. M. Wi 14. $u_{\mathcal{D},n,\mathbf{y}}$ To be large III, it, VIII, a. 14 aky, Compressionale, M. M. W. K. urd The pendants of a banner, IV, lil. IV, 4, minimic off of onling off officers off ทกิ XIII 娫 physoned on it. It. Will be some wine with the 2 state of the state of Vain VI di mini in 2 an A distriction of arrive and subsequently and arrive com v_{H_I} in Tain Lix, IL 3,

nonys

MA

uvy

ynay

AL unəs

印 θŲ 貫

unz

Ħ

晛 hèen

畫 chow.

睎

che

晰

che

晤 woo

晦

hwuy

晨

景 king

景 ying

晳sein

暇 hëa

暑 sloo

暢

諬 sëeh

暱 neih

悬 paou

暵 han

膯

服

普 seih

Formerly; at first. I. iii. X. 5, (昔 者, the former case) 6; xii. VI. 1 (誰 昔=昔): II. i. VII. 6; VIII. 4; iv. X. 7; vi. III. 2, 3; V. 1: III. iii. XI. 5, 7: IV. iii. IV. 7; V. 2. 自古在昔, from of old before our time. IV. iii. I. l.17. The stars. I. ii. X. 1, 2; v. I. 2: III. iii.

星

明 星,-see 明. stars in Scorpio. I. x. V. 1-3; in II. viii. IX. 3, the meaning is uncertain. By starlight. I. iv. VI. 3.

The spring. I. ii. XII. 1; xv. I. 2: II. i.
VIII. 6: IV. i. [ii.] I. Referring to the sacrifice in spring. IV. ii. IV. 3.

春 ch'un 珠 mei

The obscurity of twilight. see 日.

hwăn

昭

I. q. To be in darkness; ignorant. III. iii. XI. 2.
(1) To be bright; to make bright; brightly. II. i. I. 2: III. i. I. 1, 7; II. 3 ch'aou (intelligently); IX. 4 (児子氏, brilliantly), 5 (昭 兹, id.); ii. III. 2, 3; iii. II. 11; IV. 1, 8; VI. 1: IV. i. [i.] VIII.; [ii.]

I.; II.; [iii.] IX.; ii. III. 2 (昭昭), 4; iii. IV. 3. (2) Shrined on the left in the ancestral temple. IV. i. [ii.] VIII.; [iii] II.

The Pleiades. I. ii. X. 2.

昴 maou

胩

More than 90 times. (1) This, these. I. ix. I. 2; xiv. III. 3, 4: II. iii. III. 1; et sæpe. = such. III. iii. I. 2. and 是用, thus, are common. I. xv. VI. 4: II. i. II. 5; VI. 5; et al. = 🗖, indicating what is right. II. ii. IX. 1; vi. X. 1, 2, 4. 是日, this. II. vii. IV. 3, 4. (2) To be,—generally before verbs and adjectives, making them participial or gerundial. I. xv. IV. 1-3: II. i. I. 1, 2; IV. 8; ii. III. 4; iv. V. 9; vi. V. 2, 3; VIII. 1: III. i. VII. 8; ii. I. 6 (redoubled in the same line); et sæpe. (3) To be right, I, ix. III, 1, 2. —obs. 是in III.iii.L2, and 安與是力, where 是 is hardly more than our and.

(1) To be splendid. I. vii. VI. 3. 晏 晏, harmoniously. I. v. IV. 6. To be splendid. I. vii. VI. 3. (2)

(1) The time. IV. i. [iii.] VIII. Sometimes. III. iii. III. 4. Now. III. iii. XI. 5: IV. i. [i.] VIII.; [iii.] XI.; iii. II. In season, seasonable, at the proper season. II. ii. III. 6; iv. IX. 5; vi. V. 6; vii. III. 2: III. i. I. 1; et al. = seasonal sacrifices. II. vii. VI. 2. 不時, an evil time. III. iii. 1. 7. Then. III. iii. VIII. 2. (2) -

是,-this, these; and often as a sort of copula. I. xi. II. 2; II. vi. V. 4: III. i. II. 8; VI. 2; ii. I. 1; VI. 3; iii. I. 4 (thus); X. 3: IV. i. [i.] VII.; VIII.; [ii.] II.; X.; [iii.] II.; X.; XI.

Heat, II. vii. IX. 7, 8.

The time of daylight. The morning. I. xv. I. 7. The day. III. iii. I. 5.

(1) To be dried up. I. xi. IV. 2: II. ii. X. 1. (2) The app. of the first rays of the sun. I. viii. V. 2.

哲哲, to be brilliant. I. xii. V. 2.

斯斯, descriptive of a torch burning dimly. [I. iii. VIII. 2.

Responsively, in response. I. xii. IV.

To be dark, darkness. I. vii. XVI. 3 III. iii. I. 5 : IV. i. [iii.] VIII.

(1) The morning. II. iii. VIII. 2. (2)

晨風, a falcon. I. xi. VII. 1. (1) Large. I. iv. VI. 2. (2) Bright. II. vi. III. 5. Sometimes either of these meanings is suitable. II. vi. V. 1; VIII. 4; vii. IV. 5; III. i. V. 4; ii. II. 4; III. 1, 7: IV. i. [ii.] VI. (3) Name of a hill near the capital of Shang. IV. iii. III.;

A shadow. I. iii. XIX. 1. To determine the position of places by the sun's shadow. III. ii. VI. 5.

To be white. I. iv. III. 2.

Leisure. II. i. V. 3; vi. III. 2; viii. X. 3.

Heat. II. v. X. 1; vi. III. 1: III. iii. IV. 5.

Long. I. xi. III. 1.

ch'ang Familiar. 藝術, a familiar attendant of the king, = a groom of the chambers. II. iv. X 4.

To be near. 巨腰, to bring one's-self near. II. vii. X. 1.

To be violent, or flerce. Spoken of the wind. I. iii. V. I. To treat cruelly, to be oppressive. I. v. IV. 5: II. v. IV. 3. (2) To seize, or attack, being unarmed. I. vii. IV. 1: II. v. I. 6. (3) The name of a State. II. v. V. 1; meaning the chief of Paou.

To be scorched up. I. vi. V. 1-3.

置層, and E, to be cloudy. I. iii. V. 3, 4. Descriptive of a cloudy sky. 有温, to shine, to glisten. I. xiii. I.3.

Desolate, waste. H. viii. X. 3.

yavu 贩 kiwang

In Post at. IV. I. [ii] II. Pethava III. ILS: ILLE THE TO THE STREET STREET iii. IV. I. (6) ## business. II. iii. 3; (1) The moon, L iii. L 5; IV. I—; VIII. VIII. I—5; VIII. I—6; VIII. I—6; IV. II. L. S; IV. II. I—8; III. L. S; IV. II. I. Si II. L. Si III. II. Si II. L. Si II. Si II. L. Si III. II. Si II. L. Si III. L. Si II. L. III. 1, 2 (= a soldier's kit); IV. 2. The two inside horses of a carrier, I. v. II. v. II THE THE RADICAL. YPAS State of the state Ħ So. M. P. VIII. I. VIII. I. to be martial-like, I. v. III, 4, State number of which is varies or cowries,—the ill ii, II, 3, (4) 'I'vo bottles or sare I in! The pieces composing a cap;—the spaces 퓄 the king on an emergency, H. iii, V. 8. sbneid friends. H. L. V. the nine provinces. IV. iii. 章九(8) (1) To assemble, to be collected. I. viii, M Inte it by to recognize, to acknowledge, L V. VIL 2: IL v. X. 6. To discontinue, II. vi. V. 6: III. iii, XI. 5, Used in the phrase for a remote virt. It, II, vi. VI. 3, 4; VII. 3 hnary A Thing the state of the state 魯 III. II, X b; iii. I. I. (foll. by A.) 7; XI. 3. II, iv. VIII, 10 (followed by E); X. 4; Eups; States and dynasties; before Our but comes near it, I. v. VII. 2; 目 There is used before the names of otalanatio of the difficult to translate i and he instances the cases Ji Guy, 昌 Large. IV. ii. IV. 9. As of they of the above, I, iii, VI. 2; IX. 2; IX. 3; III. i. VIII. i. VIII นอนเ A cattle-fold, III, ii, VI. 4, A writing,—orders described on tablets, nov,s 晶 2; Viii, VI, 1—4; II, VIII, I; iii, II, I;

L. vi. II, 1: II, v. X. 5, — inhen, I. vi. II, 3;

YIII, 3; III, iii, IV, 8, — inhen, I. vi. III, 9;

V. 1—8; X. X. 1, 2, (2) — iii, to check,

II. iii, IV, 6, — ivhat, I. vi. III, iii, IV, 6, — ivhat, II, vi. III, vi. III, iii, IV, 6, — ivhat, II, vi. III, vi. III, iii, IV, 6, — ivhat, II, vi. III, vi. II, vi. II, vi. III, vi. III, vi. III, vi. II, vi. III, vi. III, vi. III, vi. II, vi. II, vi. II, vi. III, vi. III 書源 II iii. IV. 6. No with the usage is as common like the cases under (2) of H where that the phrase is vivil a description of the contract of the diffictives, graing them a verbal force, so notification in verbal force, so notification in vitality at sandta and their so notification in vitality is so notification. To trail along, = to wear, I. X. II. I. (8) Followed by of order, in a wisp. II. viii. II. 1. state with the will offer out the state of t spoken of the hair out amecont at the total officer of the total officer offi North 360 times.

Yerb,—there is, there was, &c., I. ii. IV. 3; VI. 1; VI. 1; VII. 1; VI. 1; VII. 3; VII. 3; VII. 3; VII. 3; VII. 1; VIII. 1; VII. 1; VIII. 1; VII. 1; VIII. 1; the folds or corners of the heart. L'Xi. A bend. I. ix. II. 3 (). ynə,y Used as an expletive particle, initiatory of the transfer of t not to speak of III. iii. VIII. f. L. VI. 4; iv. VIII. 6; et sepe. Innovagini off (i) somit of or day days monthly, I. vi. II. 2; IV, 1—3; vi. VIII. 4; iii. VII. 6; IV, II. 6; III. 6; III. 5; IV. I. 1; ct. d. iii. IV. I. 1; ct. d. iii. VII. 6; IV. I. 1; ct. d. iii. VII. 6; IV. I. 1; ct. d. iii. vii. IV. I.; ct. d. iii. vii. IV. II. iii. IV. II. II. II. II. II. II. II. III. Between 60 and 70 times. (1) To say to one's-self); IL, 1, 2; XI, IL, 1, 3; XI, IL, 3; XIII, 1, 3; XI, IL, 3; XI, IL, 3; XI, IL, 3; XIII, 1, 3; XI, IL, 3; XI, 3; XI mafi 252 Yank CHIMESE CHARACTERS AND PHRASES. THE 730 RADICAL,

杕

te

杜 too

杝

t'o

杷 k'e

東shuh

杭 hang

東 tung

朕 ch'in

朗

箱. to draw a cart, II. v. IX. 6, may be referred to this. (6) To submit, to serve. III. i. III. 4, 5; X. 6: IV. ii. III. 5. (7) 服馬, to subjugate horses, = to drive a chariot. I. vii. III. 3.

(1) The 1st day of the moon, II. iv. IX.1 (朔日) (2) Northern. II. i. VIII. 3.

The royal we, our. III. iii. VII. 1: IV. i. [iii.] II. My. III. iii. VI. 6.

Brilliant, III. iii. II. 3.

lang (1) To look towards. I. iv. VI. 2; v. IV. 望 2; VII. 1. (2) To look up to I. xii. I. 1: wang II. viii. I. i.: III. ii. VIII. 6(令 望= the contemplation of hope). see 期答.

The morning, in the morning. II. iv. VII. 2; v. VII. 2; xii. IX. 2: II. iv. II. 1; 朝 chaou 靡有朝, I never had a morning, i.e., a morning's leisure. I. v. IV. 5.

- 訓, the whole morning. The court. I. viii. I. 2, 3. To go to court. 朗 ch'aou I. v. III. 3; II. vii. VIII. 1, 2.

于海, spoken of rivers going to the court of-flowing to-the sea. II. iii. IX. To hold a court, to give audience. I. xiii. I. 1.

(1) A stipulated time. I. v. IV. 1; vi. II. 1; xi. III. 2; xii. V. 1, 2: II. i. IX. 4; viii. II. 2. To make an appointment with. I. iv. IV. 1—3. (2) End or limit. II. ii. VII. 1; iv. II. 8: IV. ii. I. 2.

A final particle,—at the end of an interrogative line, II. vii. III. 1.

THE 75TH RADICAL. 木

A tree, trees. I. i. II. 1; IV. 1—3; IX. 1: II. i. V. 1—3; ii. V. 3; v. II. 6; III. 5; IV. 5; VII. 3: vii. IX. 6. Wood. III. iii. 木 muh 木 瓜. the papaw, — the corica papaya, and its fruit. I. v. X.1. 木学 and 木桃 in the same ode are uncertain.

The root of a tree. III. iii. I. 8. Used 本 for the heir-sons, by legitimate descent, of the House of Chow. III. i. I. 2.
Not yet. I. i. X. 1; v. IV. 3; viii. VII. nuq 未

3; et supe. Must sometimes be translated by-before. L. xi. I, 1; et al. So. 治一汞, I. xv. II. 2. anot. II. iv. X. 7: III. iii. II. 11; et al.

To rot, decay. IV. i. [iii.] VI.

A plum-tree, I. ii. XIII. 2: vi. X. 3: ii. VII. 3. The fruit,—a plum. III. H. ii, VII. 3. in II.a. 木坚一心木 有杕, descriptive of a tree growing singly. Always used in connection with the next character. I. x. VI. 1, 2; X. 1, 2: II. i. IX. 1, 2. The russet pear-tree. I. x. VI. 1, 2; X.

1, 2: II. i. IX. 1, 2. Williams calls it a sort of bullace or plum. To split wood in the direction of the grain. II. v. III. 7. (1) A species of willow. I. vii. II. 1: II. ii. X. 3. (2) Probably a medlar. II. i. II. 4; IX. 3; ii. VII. 3; v. X. 8; vi. I. 1. To bind, to tie together. I. iv. II. 3; x.

V. 1—3: II. viii. V. 1. 純東,—see 純. A bundle. I. vi. IV. 1-3; vii. XVIII. 1. 2: II. iv. II. 4: IV. ii. III. 6.

To cross a river, I, v. VII. 1.

The east, eastern, eastwards. I. ii. X. 1; iii. IV. 3, 4; XII. 3; iv. VII. 1; v. III. 1; vii. XV. 1, 2; XIX. 1; et sæpissime. 自伯之東, since my husband went to the east. I. v. VIII. 2. is not the verb;-往 小東大東,-see 小 and 大; but 大東-the extreme east, in IV. ii. IV. 6. 南東其畝 to make the acres lie to the south and east, II. vi. VI. 1.

杲杲, brightly, I. v. VIII. 3.

A tree good for making bows. I. x. II. 2: II. ii. VII. 4. Williams calls it 'a thick bushy tree, like a prunus.' It is fond of marshy grounds, has leaves like the almond tree, but more pointed, and whitish. The bark is red, and the wood grows very crooked. It opens its siky flowers, with small stamens, in the 2d month. It is also called 'the everlasting branches.' Another name for it is 相. In the Japanese plates it is figured as the privet.

A shuttle, II. v. IX. 2.

The fir tree; pinus sinensis. I. v. V. 4; vii. X. 2; II. i. VI. 6; iv. V. 1; vii. III. 1, 2: III. i. VII. 3: IV. ii. IV. 9; iii. V. 6.

(1) A plank. 板屋, a plank-house. I. xi. III. 1. (2) 板板, descriptive of God acting in providence out of His usual way. III. ii. X. 1.

The white elm. I. xi. II. 1.

To split wood. I. viii. VI. 4: II. v. III. 7; vii. IV. 4.

A pillow. I. x. XI. 3; xii. X. 3 (K 形, to lie with the face on the pillow).

(1) A forest, I. i. VII. 3; ii. XII. 2; iii. VI. 3; xi. VII. 1; II. iv. VIII. 1; et sarpe. A grove of trees. IV. ii. III. s.

杲 kaou

粈 nëw

杼 ch'oo 松 sung 极 pan

枌 fun 析 scih

枕 chin

沝

```
The projecting beams under the eaves
                                                                                                                                                                                                                              3 A ill 16 AI il AI oldmor a lo
                                                                                                                                                                               (2) (2) (1) (2) to be martial-looking, IV. i.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               [iii.] T. ii. III. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           4024
                                                                                                                                                                              effectively. IV. iii. IV. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      similar instrument of music giving the forth of the bond of bund of the forth of th small place in Wei. I. iv. IV. 1—3. (3)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        upary
                                                                                                                                                                 A to same of a town of a t
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                種
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            A pile of game, III, iii, V. 5.
                                                                                                                                                             Entherers of mulberty leaves, L. ix.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             T. III. II THE WAR WAR WAR TO BE TO THE TAIL IS A TO THE
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             V. 1, 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                           frees, or perhaps the female tree.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            The Weeping willow. L. viii. V. 3: II.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            25.57
                                                                                                                                                   L. 2. In Sr. L. 3, A means young 紫 for the leaves of the tree, I. ix. II. 9. Joeth ungs of the rung, or which it gives the start of the lord in the ling is the last.

7. IV. 3, 4: vii. III. 1; 1V. II. 2; X VIII. 3; XI. VIII. 3; XI. III. 3; XI. III. 3; XI. III. 3; XIII. 3; XII. 3; XIII. 3; XII 赋
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          An axe-handle, I. sr. V. I. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              To clear away trees and bushes. IV. L.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        Portor Smith) II, vii. IV. 4; VIII. 4; VIII. 4; VIII. 4; VIII. 4; VIII. 4; IV. 5; VIII. 4; VI a,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                [ii]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                47.57
                                                                                                                             kinds of the tinns, of which it gives the
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  The cylinder for the warp in weaving.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           排 xis 91. 19. The dict. says there are six a factor at the says that the says of                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               ธ<sub>นบร</sub> same as the elecococus oleifera. II, ii, 4057
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             黍 cordifolia of Thunders, probably the
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            A variety of the mountain mulberry tree. III. i. VII. 2, 排
                                                                                                                 The dryandra
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Chuk
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     \Pi
                                                                                                              It appears in the Japanese plates as the Sive rest to,—in the line line make mild. III. iii.
                                                                                                            our in the second of the secon ก็กบุ่ว
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          boog si doida lo boom ed part f.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            处 Dinonia.
                                                                                                  The name of a tree,—used by wheel.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    Gun.z
                                                                                             挑蟲加
                                                                                                                                                                          Al [iii] i. VI morm a selfit
                                                                                                                                                                                  (2) · K 992-14 X
                                                                                     (1) The peach tree; a peach, I, i, VI.

3; ii. XIII. 2; ix. III. I: III. iii. II. 8;

Lab. All. 2; ix. III. III. iii. II. 8; descriptive of soft wood. II.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  G. II. II. III. i. c.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             anol
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         ant growth of weeds. I. viii. VII. 2.
                                                                               the descriptive of the luxuri-
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  nov,, post or porch for fords. I. v. VIII. 1. (2) A the last king of Shang. IV. iii. IV. (3) (4) At the last king of Shang. IV. iii. IV. (3) uəf 4AF
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   浙
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   I ii I
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 y.d 軿
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                A handle, II, v. IX, z.
                                                                                       To come. U. vi. V. 3: III. iii. II. 7.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     紫然
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             L ii. VII. 5. In the Japanese plates, Bud
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               the Hovenia dulcis.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       ŶŶ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     it as—the musk-melon. It uppears plain-K Kis
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     moy
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               ly as now described,
                                                                                                                                                         Kernels. II. vii. VI. 1.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  saying that the Japanese plates represent 硛
                                                                  Rows of tangled trees, III, i. VII. 2, have there made a mistake, however, in
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          N. W.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       which I have translated it on p. 236.
                                          A species of the varnish tree. I. x. II. 21. VII. 4. The administrates of the colonius glandulosa, to Dr. Bretschneider.
                                                                                                                                       ace, to Dr. Bretschneider.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       Another name for it is the F. M. by
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           əj
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      the Tricosundus cucumerina, I. xv. III. 9.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 M
                                Fig. one of the snake-gourds;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       non.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          緣
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       The branches of a tree, I, xiii, III, 1: III, vill, 4: III, iii, I, 3, ai Tie name of a city in 0.71.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           nay
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           果 脚 scriptive of the temples of Loo, as completely and minutely finished. IV. ii.
                   High Har Solidity, and Bood Lit. II. L. D. S. Solidity, Solid-looking, IV. ayo
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               onyo
                    (3) Ears of grain, all good. UL ii. I. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               44
                                                                                                                                                                                                            i. [iii.] VI.
               A gag. I. xr. III. I. (3)
           XV. 2; x, II. 3; xi. I. 2; xv. III. 3; II. vi.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       Here it is associated with
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         Stems, small trees, L i. X. 1; III. i. V.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  x
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     the name of a place in Ch'in. I. xii. IX. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     tauz
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             派 狹 performed, II, vii. VI. 2.
                                                                                                                   To roost. II. vi. I. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              THE GESCRIPTIVE OF COMPICES TUIL OF COMPICES
252
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             (2) The app. of being full or complete.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         The Affin a forest in a plain, II. vii. IV. 9.
                                                                                                                                            CHIZESE CHARACTERS AZD PHRASES.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           INDEZ III
```

狱

棫 yih

棲

leang

(1) A dam. I. iii. X. 3; v. IX. 1; viii. 1-3; xiv. II. 2, 3; II. y. III. 8; et al. The dictionary unnecessarily makes two meanings of this:—a dam, and openings in a dam, where a basket may be placed to catch fish. (2) Used for a bridge, made of boats. III. i. II. 5. (3) The end of a carriage pole, where it rises like the curved ridge of a roof. I. xi. III. 1: II.vi. VII. 4. (4) The name of a mountain. III. iii. VII. 1.

A plum tree. I. ii. IX. 1-3; xi. V. 1; xii. VI. 1: xiv. III. 2: II. v. X. 4.

mei

梗

梧

woo

柸

棄

The name of a tree, yielding a valuable wood, and called 'the king of trees.' I. iv. VI. 1: II. v. III. 3. It is a variety of the 揪. Williams queries whether it may not be a kind of cedar; but it is figured in the Japanese plates with a large leaf, tricuspidate.

Distress, to be in distress. III. iii. III. 3.

kăng (1) Small branches, shoots. I. i. X. 1, 2; 條 x. IV. 1, 2: III. i. V. 6. (2) The white reacu fir. I. xi. V. 1. (3) To be prolonged. I. vi. V. 2. (4) 條桑, to pull down the branches of mulberry trees, and strip them of their leaves. I. xv. I. 3.

A sort of owl, which is said to eat its këaou own mother. III. iii. VII. 1.

See 村司.

有梃, descriptive of beams as long. ch en III. iii. V. 6.

To throw or cast away. II. iv. VIII. 9, 10; v. VII. 1, 2: III. ii. IX. 2; iii. IV. 8. To throw away one's own life. I. ix. IV. 遐 藥,—see 遐.

The fruit of the jujube tree,-called the Chinese date. I. xv. I. 6.

tsaou 棘

桃

桃

(1) The jujube tree, the zizyphus jujuba. I. iii. VII. 1, 2; ix. III. 2; x. VIII. 2; XI. 2; xi. VI. 1; xii. VI. 1; xiv. III. 3: II. ii. X. 3; v. IX. 1; vii. V. 2. (2) To be earnest; prompt, urgent; urgently. I. ziii. II. 1: II. i. VII. 5; VIII. 1: III. i. X. 3; III. 4; iii. VIII. 3. 如矢斯棘. like an arrow flying rapidly. II. iv. V. 4. To be hazardous. II. iv. X. 6.

A kind of pear tree. t'ang sweet pear tree. I. ii. V. 1-3.

> The name of a plum-tree, producing a small fruit; -called the sparrow's plumtree, I. xi, VII, 3. We have the 唐椒 in I. ii. XIII. I, and the 常禄, in II. i. IV. I. I suspect they are two varieties of the cherry-tree.

> 旅楼 descriptive of the deportment as corner and dignified. I. iii. I. 3.

The lar of a cart or barrow, IL vill. X.4.

The name of a thorny, bushy tree. Luh Ke makes it a kind of oak. III. i.

III. 8; IV. 1; V. 5; VII. 3.
(1) To roost. I. vi. II. 1, 2. To rest. I. xii. III. 1. (2) 棲棲, descriptive of bustle and excitement. II. iii. III. 1. (3) 有萋有丑, looking reverend and dignified. IV. i. [ii.] IX.

A clan-name. II. iv. IX. 4.

The stave-tree, III. i. VII. 2.

The name of a tree, closely allied to the 梓、Liv、VI.1:II.ii.X.4.

The pepper plant. I. x. IV. 1, 2; xi. II. 3. 有椒, like pepper, fragrant as pepper. IV. i. [iii.] V. tsëaou 3.

(1) To strike,—as on pegs. I. i. VII.
(2) To pound,—as earth. II. iv. V.
—to afflict. II. iv. VIII. 13. To be oppressive. III. iii. XI. 2.

A clan-name. II, iv. IX. 4.

福衡, to fasten a piece of wood across a bull's horns, to prevent his goring. IV. ii. IV. 4.

A willow tree; of willow. I. xi. I. 3; xii. V. 1,2: II. i. VII. 6 (楊 柳); ii. VII. 2; iii. II. 3; v. VI. 7 (楊園); vii. VIII. 5.

Ornamental leather bands,-about the pole of a carriage. I. xi. III. 1.

(1) A thorn tree; thorns. I. i. IX. 2; vi. IV.2; vii. XVIII. 1; x. V. 3; xi. VI. 3; et al. (2) For 楚丘, the capital of Wei. I. iv. VI. 1, 2. (3) 楚楚, descriptive of dense and luxuriant growth. II. vi. V. 1. Bright and fresh-looking. I. xiv. I. 1. (4) In order. 有楚, in rows. II. vii. VI. 1. (5) 荆ゼ, the state of Ts'00. IV. iii. V. 1, 2. (6) 萇楚, the carambola tree or shrub,—averrhoa carambola. I. xiii. III. 1-3.

The arrow thorn, III, i. V. I.

The white elm. I. x. II. 1.

Used for 楨 於, one part for the whole of the wooden frame by means of which adobie walls are built; = support, or supporter. III. i. I. 3.

An our. I. v. V. i. To row, to use the oars. III. i. IV. J.

(1) and to feel in peril. III. iii. II. 3; XI. 3; IV. iii. IV. 7. (2) The toothed face-board of a bell-stand or frame. III. i. VIII. 3; IV i. [ii.] V. (3)

聚 tsou 椐 keu. 椅 e

椒

核choh

榪

温福品 楊

yang

桑加加 楚 ts'00

楛 榆 源植

> 楫 tseeh

```
\begin{array}{c} x_i, y_i, o, \\ T_0 \text{ sing, } L, ii, X_L, g_i, v, H, g_i, Y_L, ii, Y_L, g_i, Y_L, ii, Y_L, g_i, Y_L, ii, Y_L, g_i, Y_L, ii, Y_L, g_i, Y_L,
                                                                                                                                                                 The solution of the short muzzles, I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           LOF IL
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           鄉鄉
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   O.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        .1 shrubby tree. III. I. IV. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          鴉
                                                                                                                                                                                                        (3) To be moved. III. ii. I. 1.
                                                                                                                                                            enjoy the fragrance of offerings. III. ii. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              x_i \bar{u}, 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  %。魏
                                                                                                                                                          (2) To smell and
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    To Eather Arewood, II, viii, V. 4.
                                                                                                                                                       (1) To like, III. i VII. 5 (1) Stanfaction from confined from con (c)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             The thorny clin. I. X. II. 1. In the tree, plates it is figured as a rose likings and desires).
                                                                                                                                                             (2) —of the notes of bells, II, vi, IV, 4
                                                                                                                                               I. IIV IX I. Singliff and longing. I. XI. VII. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         Trees with curved, drooping branches.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     novesi
                                                                                                                                            (1) Descriptive of a heart
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         辦 頹
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  The Petid tree. Probably one of the 00,1/2
                                                                                                                                    To desire, to wish; wishes, ambition, IX, 5. W. 5. Will, 4: III. 1. X. 8; ii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  瓣 u,,y angy
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Agenti low shrubby trees, I. ii. XII. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               炝
                                                                                                                               All descriptive of spirits as delicious. III. ii. IV. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         (100)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Yns
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          漪
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        A fence, II, vii. V. I. To fence, I. viii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 海鄉灣 ury
                                                                                                                                                                                                     THE 76TH RADICAL,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   To appear straight and high. III. i. VIII.
                                                                                                            arow tonunuom a lo oviiqirotob of the mountain I iliv I socialist Instruments of music; musicians, II. vi.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               燓 to feanness. L. xiii. II. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    Sun,s;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          3, pronounces it—gaon, To rejoice in; to pleasured, in, to rejoice in; to rejoice (active); to rejoice in; t 潜興, a beginning. I. xi. X. I. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   unnj
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           40%
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    藜 滁
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          นอกอ.หู
                                                                                                                                                                     An oak tree. I. xi. VII. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             翻
                                                                                        II. iii. I. 3: IV. i. [i.] VIII. the bow case.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           pronounces it solving of ini booloist of 4101
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         But Twan-slie always 減
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     To accumulate stores of arewood. III,
                                                                                A comb. IV. i. [iii.] VI. (referring to nov.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Fifty times.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 黎 tree, III. i. VII. 9, mountain mulberry its teeth).
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             נפהכעי 調源
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              (3) Lo
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 set at variance, II. vii. V. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            鮴
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      3. L. T. Hills. II. T. Someon de de
                                                                      II. Au Buildand To water bubbling up, II.
                                                                                                                                                            2 X m m is may na 繼線。
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 a hut, a hermitage, I. v. II. 1, 2, 3. uoh
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               moy
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    깺 撒
                                                           the first descriptive of the runbling of a carriage, L vi. IX. 1.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  To correct, to be a support
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               See on her To correct against. III. VII. 1.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     นบ.nd
                                                       requimita. - eyes embillity
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        線
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           The broussonetic, or paper mulberry.
                                                      en ernoqqn di ediniq osonnqnl odinii. sa ernoqqn di ediniini 艦 or codar? L v. V. L.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 旗
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  The hazel free, L. iii. XIII, 4; iv. VI. I; XIII, 4; iv. VI. I;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                   the junitier.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            製が入
                                                                                 The wild pear tree, I. xi. VIL 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  10.01.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  ₩
                                        The Comurish; — Comorix Sinensis, III. i.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       A pillar, II. iv. V. 5: IV. iii. V. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   lins
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  in evil. 2, To allow to to to an extreme, will vi. V. 1, V.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        科
                                A species of the sundal free; of sandal, N. 2; III, i. II, 8, VI. 1; II, i. IX, 3; iii, X.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        料
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Gui,yo
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Guif
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  酃 礟
                      VI. 1. (2) The state of the control
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                110,1 極
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             A file to have an end. I. x,
                      (1) A sack without a bottom, III. il.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          2, 3; Vi. V. 8; VIII. 4: III. II. IX. 3; III.
                Trees rising high without branches,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             7 IIIA
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         [A div II, 2, III, 2, 70,7
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             m. 15.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   sometimes in a bad sense. In the phinse
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 3 (AH AL): IV. 1. [ii.] 5 (= to stick
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 Sometimes in a good and אָרָיָגִינִניסיה
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                To plane, I. Iv. VI. I. F. VIII. 4: vill. 4: vil 飜
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             (1) To come to to reach the end, I. Iv.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         limit, an end.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      The mame of a tree, called also 'the rat 672 onys
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              本: II. ii. VII. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    咧
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  The to be strong. II, i VIL 4: III,
                                                                                                                                   CHIZERE CHVEVCLEES VZD BURVEES.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    ทก
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      VI. 7; IX. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            娳
```

INDEZ III

40.1.

桶 kwei

死

sze

妼

t-ëen

殆 t'ae

殊 skoo

殖 chih

殘 tsan

殪

殲 tsëen

殳 shoo

t'an 歗

sëaou

止

此

步

武

To sigh; to sigh for. I. iii. XIV. 4: II. i. IV. 3; v. III. 2; IX. 3: III. ii. VI. 2.

To sigh, to groan. I. vi. V. 2.

THE 77TH RADICAL.

Ninety times. (1) To settle, to rest, to stop. Generally neuter, but occasionally active. I. xi. VI. 1—3: II. iii. IV. 3; IX. 1; iv. I. 1, 2; VIII. 3; X. 2; v. I. 5 (to be settled); vi. VII. 1; vii. V. 1—3; viii. VI. 1—3: III. i. III. 3 (to dwell), (to settle, act.) 4; et al. (2) To remain, —be kept as a prisoner. I. ix. IV. 1. (3) Conduct right deportment I iv. VIII. 9. 止 Conduct, right deportment. I. iv. VIII. 2: III. iii. I. 5. (4) A final particle, which cannot be translated. This is its most frequent usage. I. ii. III. 1—3; viii. VI. 1—4; IX. 1—3; xi. V. 1, 2; II. i. VII. 1—3; IX. 1—4; et sæpissime. In II. v. IV.

3, we have 匪其止共instead of

(1) To rectify, to regulate. I. xiv. III. 3, 4: II. iv. VII. 9 (= rectifiers): IV. iii. What is correct; the right. II. vi. III. 4, 5: III. ii. IX. 4, 5. (2) The chief, heads of official departments. II. iv. X. 2: III. iii. IV. 4, 5, 8. (3) = EX, government. II. iv. VIII. 8. (1) The central part of a target. I. viii. XI. 2. (2) The exposure of an apartment to the light. II. iv. V. 5. (3)

The first month of summer. II. iv. VIII. 1. Nearly 80 times. This, these. Often in correlation with 彼;-see 彼. I. vi. I. 1_3; VI. 1_3; x. V. 1_3; XI. 1_3 (= here); xi. VI. 1-3; et sapissime. It! = henceforth. II. iv. IX. 1.

天步,一the To walk; the course. march of Heaven, providence. II. viii. V. 國步, the doom of the kingdom.

111. iii. III. 2. (1) Martial; pertaining to war; having military ability. I. I. VII. 1-3; vii. III. 3; xv. I. 4; II. iii. III. 3, 5; III. i. X. 2: IV. i. [ii.] VII.; ii. III. 4; iii. III. II. 4, 12; IV. 6; V. 1; 武人, a warrior, a leader. II. viii. VIII. 1-3. 交武, civil and military officers. III. iii. V. 7. 武夫, troops, III. iii. VIII 1, 2. prowess, III. iii. IX. 4. (2) To continue. III. i. IX. 1. (3) A foot-print. III. ii. I. An example. III. i. IX. 5. (1) The honorary title of king Woo, III. i. II. 6, 8; X. 7, 8; iii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [ii.] X.; [iii.] IX.; ii. IV. 2 (5) 武丁. a king of the Shang dynasty, IV, iii, III,

A year; yearly, I, v, IV, 5; vi, VIII, 3;
iv, VII, 1=3; x, I, 1, 2; II, i, VII, 1; vi,
III 2, 3; VII, 1; III ii, I, 7; et al.

About 80 times. (1) To return I. i. II. 3 (to parents' house); ii. VIII. 1—3; iii. VI. 2; XI. 1, 2; iv. X. 1; vi. IV. 1, 2, 3(還歸; so, al.); et sæpe. = to retire. II. i. X. 1. (2) To go and live with. I. xiii. II. 2; xiv. I. 1-3; et al. (3) To turn to,—for help and shelter. II. v. X. 2: III. ii VII. 2; et al. (4) To turn to,—with one's allegiance. I. xiii. IV. 3; et al. (5) To present. I. iii. XVII. 3. (6) To go to be married. I. i. VI. 1 —3; IX. 2, 3; ii. I. 1—3; xi. 1—3; vii.

XIV. 4 (as if to be married); viii. VI. 1; xv. I. 2; III. 4. 原妻, to bring home a wife. I. iii. IX. 8. (7) To return home. for good,—as a wife dismissed. I. iii. III. 1-3. To leave a State for good. I. iii. XVI. 1. To go home, = to die and join a deceased husband. I. x. XI. 4, 5.

THE 78rn RADICAL. 歹

To die, to be dead; death. I. ii. XI. 1, 2; iii. VI. 4; X. 1; iv. I. 1, 2; VIII. 1—3; vi. IX. 3; ix. IV. 3; x. II. 1—3: II. i. IV. 2; v. III. 6; VII. 3; VIII. 3; vii. III. 3.

(1) Good; i. q 腆. L. iii. XVIII. 2. (2) To prevent, to make to cease. III. i. III. 8; VI. 4. To cease. III. iii. III. 1; IV. 2. 殄瘁, to be entirely ruined. III. iii. X.

To endanger; to be in danger; perilous. II. iv. VII. 4; VIII. 4; X. 6: IV. iii. III.

An adverb, expressing strongly, but with some hesitation; Scotice, just. I. ix. II. 1-3.

殖殖, to be level and smooth. II. iv.

To be cruel, ravening. II. v. X. 4 (英 賊).

To kill, II. iii. VI. 4.

To destroy. I. xi. VI. 1-3.

THE 79TH RADICAL. 夕

A long halberd, I. v. VIII, 1.

(1) Many. I. vii. XXI. 2. (2) K and 度高, the dynasty of Yin or Shang. III. i. I. 5, 6, 7; II. 1, 2, 7; iii. I. 2-8; IV. i. [ii.] X.; iii. III. 1.21;—In 1.3 股 is used for Fiff, the country which gave its carliest name to the dynasty. (3) int, descriptive of sorrow, I, iii XV, I,

The roll of thunder, I, ii. VIII, 1-3.

IV. 2. To seek to please. II. iv. IV. 3. brothers will seek one another out it. to be are seekings, so be seekings, ri. I. 1-3; et sepe.

The seekings of ore seekings, ri. I. 1-3; et sepe.

The seeking of ore another seekings, ri. I. 1-3; et sepe.

The seeking of ore seekings of ore seekings. Wearly 40 times. To seek for, to agk. I. i. 1. II. ii. IV. 3; iii. VI. 3; iii. VI. 3; VIII. 4 (1) to corect, to desire); IX. 9; X 4 (X) 4 the robes of a streat officer of the court. I. vi. A. 1, 2, hair; III, iii, VI. 6. Fig. 10. iii vin filo hair soraped off: IV. II. IV. 4. file mass of a constant of the c Branches led from a river and returning to it again. L. ii. A. L. 1. ળરૂ,.γ fins 尔 T. H. all one's life, IV. i. to perpetuate one's fame. IV. i. 225 E III II tI LIII 张 LOUS. L. Z. IL 2: IL 17. IL 1. 2. WAR III [Ji] THE 520 RADICAL. 7 nodu 手 Crafty, II, r. IV, 4, To be flattering. M. ii. L. 5. 6uns appearance of water issuing from a spring. כעַמּיוּ 蠢 釆 Care, Caution, III. III. J. [III.] IV. appearance of water issuing from a spring. ₽ď 濉 hnanys (4) = R, to come to, in the case of, THE STR RADICAL. અ closely united together. IV i. [iii.] VI. 海 The people, one of the people, I. v. IV. 1, ble II. The Ville of the state To be matched. H. iii. III. 23. (3) To assemiched in strength, II. iii. III. 23. (3) To assemiched in or former people, ancient worthies. IL v. (smaller officers). III. iii. X. 9. Guput (1) To sympathize, I. x. VI. 1, 2. (2) $^{L,4;\, W,\, ii,\, \mathcal{K}, g}$ rank) had their people and followers 种 (I) To compare, I, iii, X, 5. (2) To make united, effect union, III, i. VII. 4. 10) mom 人用序人 94 E officers and people. वा III. iil. II. 5. ii.1V. 9: 孫良山.iii.L.1; VI.1:1V. ad THE SIST HADICAL. JE 41 IL V. VIII. 3; 监 国, IL VIII, I. I. IV. x[i]xII. ri. III. 1: III. iii. III. 11. II. IIi. I. iii. <math>I. 5: 馬摩·西加加加·尼加河風 Every, always, whenever, L. xi. X. 1, 2; I. ii. VI. X. 7, 1, 2; 題了 sound out over our ynz 攀 X 4: XV. II. 2: II. I. I. 2: V. 3: VI. 5: X. 3: VI. 5: V. 3: VI. 5: V. 6: V. 6 Do not. I. iii. X. 3: II. iv. II. 4; vii. IX. 6. 1914 parents, L. H. a. VII. 1; iii. IV. 4; of supering L. 1; III. VI. 2; vi. supering L. 1; III. VI. 2; vi. supering L. 1; III. VI. 3; vi. supering L. 1; III. VI. 3; vi. supering L. 1; III. VI. 3; vi. supering L. 1; VII. 1; VI. 3; vi. supering L. 1; VII. 1; V tuissnd 19 2. V iii VI dus-nah hosont on viii. V iii VI dus-nah hosont on viii 逛 A moiont wild tribes on the west, 00.71 unu foundation, II, iv. VII. 3. (2) 用 # aged mother. IV. ii. IV. 8. P (1) pronound definite article of he article of h V. V. 7: III. iii. V. 7; VII. 3. 37 A mother, L. iii. VII. I iii. V. iii. J. iv. L. i. o. vito. Vd borobnox od szum ni orodw glidenoimi wienen minimum a sasa commune one yourself (b) to III on the fine differential of the boundary of source is contact and contact of the first of the fi 00115 THE 801B RADICAL. IF Bolore the surmanne, III. J. 掛 I momow to snothmatisch out and the Late of the Late o The clan-man, (1) comments of T of the bayold all of the sum of the clan of the sum of t To overthrow, to destroy. I. 27. II. 1. T'TIÀ JU He have to sigh and groun, III, ii, X, 5. Litt. 17. Vitt. 12. Vit. 12. Vit. Vit. 13. Vit. hnny 循 2/15 Tur she radical. K 月 10 cat, to use as toods a summer of the leading visit of the leading vis นอว 細 TII. xi I shuniy shood sa sou os to our in our 182 nonzy CHIZERE CHYBYCLEBS TAD LIBYRES To kill, I. xv. I. 8: IV, l. [iii.] VI. 發 yoys INDEX III

泚 Ќwеi

光泉, a spring sending off its waters by several small channels. II. v. IX. 3.

il and il il, descriptive of a boat floating about. I. iii. I. 1; XIX. 1, 2; iv. I. 1, 2: II. iii. II. 4; vii. VIII. 5.

Nearly, perhaps. III. ii. IX. 1-5.

汕 shan 汗

woo

汗

woo

үЩ үЩ, descriptive of catching fish with a wicker basket. II. ii. V. 2.

I. q. 清. In 3d tone. To wash. I. i. II. 3.

To be laid under water. II. iv. IX. 5.

The name of a river. I. i. X. 1, 2.

joo 冮 këang

The river Këang. I. i. IX. 1—3; ii. XI. 1-3: II. v. X. 6: III. ili. VIII. 1-3 ()T 渔, the Këang and the Han at and after their junction; and so in the next passage); IX. 5. (1) A pool or pond. II. iv. VI. 2; vii.

V. 3: III. i. VII. 6; iii. XI. 6. (2) A moat. I. xii. IV. 1—3. (3) 美洲, the uneven appearance of the wings of a swallow in its rapid flight. I. iii. III. 1.

A river in Ts'e. I. viii. X. 2, 4.

An archer's ring or thimble, II. iii. V. 5.

fun

沃 yuh

沈 ch'in 沐

muh

沒 muh

wăn 决

> (1) A river in Wei. I. ix. II. 1—3. (2) A title of king Le, taken from that river. III. iii. VII. 4. (1) 沃若, to look rich and glossy.

I. v. IV. 3: II. i. III. 4; vi. X. 3. So, 沃沃, I. xiii. III. 1-3; and 有沃. II. viii. IV. 2. (2) A city in Tsin. I. x. III. 1. To sink. II. iii. II. 4.

To wash the hair. II. viii. II. 1. A wash for the hair. I. v. VIII. 2.

To be ended. II. viii. VIII. 2.

A babble of talk. II. iv. IX. 7. See 腹.

A large volume of water, II, iii. IX. 1, 2.

(1) Descriptive of the sound of cutting ch'ung the ends of reins hanging down. II. ii. IX. 4.

Sand, sands. III. ii. IV. 2.

An islet. I. ii. II. 1; iii. X. 3; xi. IV. 3: II. iii. II. 2.

IIII 711, to be laid prostrate. III. iii. L.S.

A tract of Wei. I. iv. IV. 1-3.

沮 tseu

狙 tseu

泪 tseu

沱

t'o

ПІ. і. Ш. 1.

沬

mei

The name of a river. Always mentioned along with A. In K'e-chow. II. iii. VI. 2 : IV. i. [ii.] VI. In Pin, 沮 涤·

To stop. II. v. I. 1; IV. 2: III. iii. IV. 4. To be stopt. II. v. IV. 2.

沮汝, low and oozy grounds. I. ix. II. 1.

(1) A stream issuing from the Këang and returning to it. I. ii. XI. 3. (2) 爱说, descriptive of tears and drivel flowing abundantly. I. xii. X. 1; descriptive of great rain. II. viii. VIII. 3.

The river Ho. I. iii. XVIII. 1, 2; iv. I. 1, 2; v. III. 4; VII. 1, 2; vi. VII. 1—3; vii. V. 1—2; ix. VI. 1—3; xii. III. 2, 3: II. v. I. 6; IV. i. [i.] VIII.; [iii.] XI.; iii. III. et al. But any stream of the north may be called a . So it may be used in I. i. I. 1; and in I. iv. III. 1: II. v. IV. 6.

觱沸, the app. of water issuing from a spring. II. vii. VIII. 2: III. iii. X. 7. = to do, to bring about. I. iii. II. 3.

To bubble up. II. iv. IX. 3; III. iii. I. 6.

A pool, a round pond. I. ii. II. 1; II. iv. VIII. 11 : III. i. VIII. 2.

(1) To increase. III. iii. III. 5. (2) An initial particle. II. i. IV. 3; VIII. 2.

Distant, from a distance. III. ii. VII. 1---3.

(1) To be dispersed. III. ii. IX. 4. (2) | descriptive of the slow flight of a pheasant. I. iii. VIII. 1; descriptive of people idle and indifferent. I. ix. V. 2: III. iii. X. 2.

A spring. I. iii. VII. 3; XIV. 1; xiv. IV. 1-3; II. v. I. 5; X. 5; viii. III. 5: III. i. VII. 泉 tsieuen 6; ii. VI. 3, 5; iii. II. 4; X. 7; XI. 6. 泉--see 池. 艦泉,--see 艦. (2) 肥泉, a river of Wei. I. iii. XIV. 4. (3) 源泉, a river of Wei. I. v. V. 2, 3.

Perhaps the same as the 肥泉.

The app. of a spring sending out its water. I. iii. III. 1.

To drivel from the nose. I. xii. X. 1 (済 泗).

有此, to look fresh and bright. I. iii.

-swollen streams. II. viii, VIII. 3.

河 ħο

沸

湾沸

ruh

治 ch'e 沼 chaou

夗

hwang 洄 hëung

洲

泌

pe

泗

沿 涯

mëen 神

沙

YIL: ilií

沿 a stream. I. v. III. f. yony 史 To morrue oil to evilgiresob की में yony $\sqrt{T_0}$ live, I, iii, VI, 3. The germ of life, $\sqrt{T_0}$ live, I, iii, VI, 3. 果 Kenny M. to be martial-hooking, III.iii. VIII. 9. 有涨 cavallerly. Lill. X. 6.

M. 1Z, 1, 2; iv. Z, v, v. L 5; et al. To flow, I. iii. XIV, I; v. III. 4: II. iii. ส่งส์ แอโรณ์อักษกูอาศู 2. To be in accord with 2. 2. (2) To permeate. III. iii. VIII. 6. (3) To be permeate. III. iii. VIII. 6. (3) To be provided for, to supply. IV. i. [ii.] IV.; provided for, to supply. IV. i. [iii.] V. (5) The name of a river. III. i. [iii.] V. (5) The name of a river. III. i. 合) 21 JHV .vi .H .oldmosen oT (1)

(1) To be deep. II. v. III. 8. (2) A city of Wei. I. iii. VII. 8; iv. IX. 1—3. of owl. Used of a star passing the meridian. I. xv. I. 1—3. = a liquid. III. take M Ble here as the name of a kind children of dispersion. I. iii. XII. 4. Some Lugitires. III.iii.III. in 流弧 now away, II. vii. IX. 8. M. U., to be current of a stream. III. iii. IX. 5. atrenus, II. vill. III. 5, 111 Sign tho Jan aprings and ZVIII. I, 2; et al. a current on which things flow; to carry away. I. i. I. 2; iii. I. I; vi. IV. 1-3; vii. baseless rumours, III. iii. I. J. to host ground. I. ii. VI. 1. 副, descriptive of dew on the

The bank of a river. III. iii. IX. 2, 4.

vast. II. iv. X. I. descriptive of the heavens as Dissolute, I. iii, V. I.

Buzy

娅

นออูเน W

uisi

อบบุ

业 atof 以 Sunj

頻 nony

保 ood

即衛 unesj

認 asi

巡 ynzy

四、(蔣朝) 8.77.11.71:(新南) The sea. II. iii. IX.-1: III. iii. VIII. 3 tive of a great fall of snow. II. vii. IX. 8;

of a river in large volume. III. iii, VIII. about. III. ii. I. 7. (2) Property., descripdescriptive of the vapour of steam floating 法法 (1) To float. II, iii, II, 4, to flood. II. v. IX. 3; viii. V. 3. To overflow. I. ziv. IV. 1-3. To soak, III. IV. 2. 座IV. iii. III. II. 118. 海外17.

smoothly. I. iii. XVIII. 2. Name of a stream. I. iii. III. 4: III. i. IV. 3; ii. IV. 1. iii. X. 3: II. iii. Ed M. descriptive of water flowing > Mire, I. iii. XI. 2. 7. Z ; 8 .7 .vi .11 :8 .V .iv bined with M. I. iii. III. 1, 2; v. IV. 2; To ween noiselessly. Alone, and com-wet with dow. II. ii. IX. 3. 10- (2) MM. (1) Descriptive of vegetation

To flow or lead to. III. i. X. 5; ii. VII. leaves as soft and glossy. III. ii. II. I.

3' 3' 2' 6' 8' circular pool in front of it. IV. ii. III. I, college of a State, so called from the semi-外界水, and 伴宫, the chief 畔, a beach or shore. L. v. IV. 3. (3) (I) To be melted. I. iii. IX. 3. (2)

(1) Excessively. II. v. IV. I. iii. III. 2. To be extinguished, to be ruined. III.

Mr. Att, descriptive of a river broad III, mount T'ae. IV. ii. IV. 6.

Name of a place in Wei. I. iii, XIV. 2. and deep. II. vi. IX. 1-3.

To dive. L. i. IX. 1—3 ; iii. X. 4

4. (2)—of the water flowing gently and abundantly from a fountain. I. zii. VII. I. (3)—of the wide extent of a plain. III. I. R. (4)—of the number and complete array of dancers. IV. ii. IV. 4. ters of a river as wide and deep. I. v. III. 洋洋 (1) Descriptive of the wazi. IV. 1, 3, 4.

My JE, to go up against a stream. I.

To sprinkle, to cleanse. I. x. II, 2; xv. be considered certain. iii. XVIII. 2. The meaning can hardly 再流, descriptive of a lotty tower. I.

III. 3: II. i. V. 2: III. iii. II. 4.

To wash, III. ii. II. 2.

Name of a river. II. vi. IX. 1—3.

H A the deluge of Yaou. IV. iii. 3; ZZF J, 2. Name of a river in Ch'ing. I. vii. XIII.

An islet. I. i. I. It. IV. 3.

班到一路那

001

ПĶ

arovjo

HÀ

buny

拟

પુરા

뷠

H

娅

Kn, $1

邮 hunk

挨 finatu 哪

hunk

派

953

桃

burk

蚁

3D.3 沗

uw

郑

นบวเส้

林 сүоо 式

211

34

203

ris, y

W,

Truly, I. iii. XVII. 8; vii. III. 1–8; VI. 1; XXI. 1, 2; xii. I. 1. = a stipulation. I. iii. VI. 5; unge 闹 sëaou

沜

sheh

涵 han 京 lëang

涼 lëang

亦料

感

溣 lun

淮

hwae

(1) To dissolve. II. vii. IX. 7. (2) A city and district on the borders of Wei and Ching. I. vii. V. 1.

To wade through water when it reaches to the knees and upwards. I. iii. IX. 1.; v. IV. 1; vii. XIII. 1, 2; viii. VIII. 3. To cross a stream in a boat. I. iii. IX. 4: III. 跋涉, to travel over hills and through streams. I. iv. X. 1.

To weep; tears. II. v. III. 6; IX. 1; vi.

涕泣,-see 泣. 涕泗,see ///.

To come and take command. II. iii. IV.

The banks of a river. I. vi. VII. 3.; xi. IV. 3: III. i. II. 4.

To admit, to receive. II. v. IV. 2.

To be cold. I. iii. XVI. 1.

(1) To assist. III. i. II. 8. (2) To prètend, hypocritical. III. iii. III. 15,

A river of Wei. I. iii. XIV. 1.; v. I. 1-3; IV. 1, 4, 6; V. 1—3; IX. I—3. 洪

, perhaps the name of a place near the K'e. I. iv. IV. 1-3.

To be good; virtuous; virtuously. I. i. I. 1—3; iii. III. 4; iv. III. 1; xii. IV. 1— tune. I. vi. V. 2. 淑族, a fine—splendid—flag. III. iii. VII. 2. 浓間, to be skilful at questioning. IV. ii. III. 5. st. 7, 孔 拟 = to become very good, to be transformed.

(1) To be cold. I. iii. II. 4. Unless we should read 凄. (2) 凄凄, descriptive of the coldness of wind and rain. I. vii. XVI. 1;—of autumn. II. v. X. 2. (3) 瀴 漊, descriptive of the luxuriant growth of rnshes. I. xi. IV. 2.

Great. IV. i. [ii.] IX.

(1) The app. of a boat moving. III. i. IV. 2. 油油. (1) Descriptive of rushes very abundant. II. v. III. 4. (2) Of flags waving and numerous. II. vii. VIII. 2.

A city moat. III. i. X. 3.

(1) Ripples. I. ix. VI. 3. (2) To sink in ruin. II. iv. X. 1; v. I. 5; III. iii. II. 4.

The river Hwae. II. vi. IV. 1—3; III. iii. VIII. 1; IX. 2, 4: IV. ii. III. 5, 7, 8; IV. 6, 7, 准夷, the hordes of the Deep. I. iii IX. 1; X. 4: II. iv. IX. 3; v. I. 6: III. iii. X. 7.

淵 yuen

混

淸

(1) To be deep,—with reference to the mind and feelings. I. iii. III. 4; iv. VI. 3. (2) The deep. II. iii. X. 1, 2; v. X. 7: III. i. V. 3. A gulf. II. v. I. 6. A pool. II. v. III. 4. (3)消清, descriptive of the deep sound of drums. II. iii. IV. 3: IV.

混夷, wild tribes of the north. III. kwăn i. III. 8.

(1) To be clear, pure. I. vii. XXI. 2; IX. vi. 1-3: II. v. X. 5; et sæpe. ts'ing

清風, a clear bright day. III. i. II. 8. a clear, quiet wind. III. iii. VI. 8. 帅, clear spirits. III. iii. VII. 3. 清廟, a pure, still temple. IV i. [i.]

(2) Bright eyes. I. iv. III. 3; vii. XX. 1, 2; viii. XI. 3. (3) To clear,—as river-courses. II. viii. III. 5. (4) A city and district on the borders of Wei and Ch'ing.

I. vii. V. 1.
(1) To be shallow. I. iii. IX. 1; X. 4. (2) A tiger's skin. III. iii. VII. 2.

(1) 旗旗, descriptive of a river wide and large. I. vii. XXI. 1. (2) To be dispersed. IV. i. [iii.] II.

An islet. I. ii. XI. 2; xv. VI. 2: II. iii. X. 1, 2: III. ii. IV. 3.

To change, I. vii. VI. 1: III. ii. X. 8.

某漢, descriptive of a spacious house. I. xi. X 1.

To moisten, to be moistened, with. I. iii. XIII. 3; xi. V. 1: II. vi. VI. 2.

Alone, and 温 温. To be mild and gentle. I. iii. III. 3; xi. III. 1, 2: II. v. II. 2, 6; vii. VI. 3: III. iii. II. 9: IV. iii. I.

不 測, unfathomable, To fathom. mysterious. III. iii. IX. 5.

The river Wei. I. iii. X. 3; xi. IX. 1: III. i. II. 4, 3; VII. 6; ii. VI. 6.

有類, descriptive of clouds gathering. II. vi. VIII. 3.
To thirst. I. vi. II. 2: II. i. VII. 2, 6;

vii. IV. 1.

To wander, to ramble,—enjoying one's self. I. i. IX. I (游 女, young ladies rambling about): II. iv. II. 3 (例: 涯, idle wandering): III. ii. VIII. 2 (游 and 優游); X. 8 (游行, wanderings and indulgences). (2) To swim. I. iii. X. 4. 训 游, to swim down a stream. I. xi. IV. 1, 2, 3. (3) We have 游音, a water plant so named from its spreading leaves. I. vii. X. 2; and 理, slip rings, I. xi. III. 1.

渙 hwan 渚 choo

渝 yu 集 k'eu

淺 ts'ëen

渥 uh 温 wăn

測 tsʻiȟ wei

> 渰 yen 渴 hoh 游

yëw

unys 量 The borders of a river, I, vi. VIII. I; nonsi 飍 A city of Wei. I. iii. VI. 1; XIV. 4; iv. E III' II' AIII' 8' əny 业 To cleanse, to wash, I. ziii, IV. 3. admitted. III. iii. II. 7. ດາດງ a window, where the light is 幽 1; x, II, 8; xi, I, 2. a river. (2) The varnish tree, I. iv. VI. પૂરર,કર્ (1) 梁阳—366 湄· 沿 The name of I. v. V. 4. ดเจกิ 骤 To blow or earry away. I. 9 (# 1 to shake). To blow or carry away. L. vii. XI, 2; ooy The bank of a river I. vi. VII. 1: III. f. III. 2; iii. VIII. 3. 撒 387

To steep, I. xii. IV. 1-3.

z. IV. 3: III. i. II. 4.

a. Z. 6: III. III. VIII. 1—8 (江)蹇'-(l) The Han river, I. i. IX. 1-

Descriptive of much dew, I. vii, XX. I.

2: III. l. IV. 4; III. IV. L. and 要, 漢, the milky way. II. v. IX. 要天 (!) (萬式) i .XI ;(工 ess ing continuously. L. v. IV. 2. (2) 海旗, descriptive of tears dow-(1) To ripple, to be rippling. I. ix. VI.

AIII I' 3' mili, to be high and craggy. II, viii,

To look deep. II. v. III. 4.

To wet. I. v. IV. 4.

Liquor. II. v. IX. 5, 7 (西號).

descriptive of men temporari-(2) What we may call a fish warren. IV; ter. II. iii. X. 1, 2; iv. VIII. 11; v. X. 7. -Bw off io mottod off the bid of (1) *6*นบลูรว ley). ly agreeing with one another. II. v. I. 2. A stream in a valley or ravine. I. ii. II. 2; IV. I; v. II. III. III. II. VI. 6 (=a valor inundation. I. ii. IV. I: III. ii. VII. nish mori syaw sine ways from rain

Where rivers meet. III. ii, IV. 4.

ZI. 4. 清 貴 breeders of confusion. (2) To be in, or go to, confusion. III. iii. (1) 有潰, to look angry, I. iii X. 6.

linary

灚 bunst 滥

novj

激

นออูญ

阊

調の調

นอลูรา

晶

An,si

潐

นบรว

擲 uəəsi

哪

นอลูก

颂

นอบุ

蔥 moli

则 upaij 尬

The margin of a stream, I. xi, IV, 2,

To thush with drink, III. iii. I, 5.

To boil, I. ii. IV, 2.

Alone, and WE WE to be abundant, II. (1) To strain spirits; strained spirits. II. i. V. 3: III. ii. IV. 3. (2) Descriptive of dew upon plants. II. ii. IX. I. (3) abundantly, II. ii. X. 1-3. M. descriptive of dew lying Long continuance of pleasure; to have that, II. i. I. 3; IV. 7; vi. I. 6; vii. IV. 4. To be addicted to. III. iii. II. 3.

High descriptive of a river flowing 混选, descriptive of a stream very elear, L.iit. X. 3.

He see descriptive of a large stream. on. II. vi. IV. 2.

Dissipated. I. z. I. I.

=| III., to show kindness to. IV. i. [i.] II.

Wide, great. U. vi. I. 2: UI. ii. VI. 3, 5; iii. VII. 6; XI. 6: IV. iii. II.

a numerous and increasing population. II. iv. VI. 4. ХХІ. 1, 2. (2) 🛣 🛣 деястірсіче об (1) A river in Ch'ing. L. vii. XIII. 1;

To sink. III. iii. III. 5.

Low, damp ground. I. S. g. Y. S. Used for plants

To extinguish. II. iv. VIII. 8; X. 2: III. iii. III. 7.

dispositions, III. iii. I. 2. X, 6: III, iii, VIII, 1.

thing scorched up. III. iii. IV. 5. (2) The descriptive of every-

To be left; untonched. II. vi. VIII. 3. .s .V water thowing from a pool. II. viii. The app. of water flowing.

әұэ

派(1)

200,2

紭

บุออูนเ

M bun,d

瓷

บุญร

蒙

yiəu 鮅

uis;

薬

00,đ

加 ilit

win.

巡

Gup,1

衢

hup;

쏈 buvys

器器 hiho

部

1(11)

深

นบบุว

粱

1175 煤

ดินบรร

眯 uəşiii 回

131/1

뽒

I, v. IV. 4; II. viii. X. 3: II. iii. IX. 2; vi. IV. 1: III. iii. VIII. 2.

The founder of the Shang dynasty. IV. iii, L; II.; III.; IV. 3; V. I, 2.

·X. 205-X.

(I) To clean, to sweep clean. I. xv. I. 知高 insolent along in great volume. I. viii. X. 4: II. v. M M. descriptive of a stream flowing nongd

爲 ıceî

爵 foo

1 1.00 13

tséoh

營 ying

wei sēeh

tsin

燿 yaou 惺

yeh 爆 (1) To regulate, to define. II. viii. III. 4. =to found. III. ii. V. 4. It is generally used along with 深. meaning to do all the work spoken of, from the definition of it to the completion. II. vi. I. 3; viii. X. 1: III. i. VIII. 1; ii. VIII. 2. (2) 营, descriptive of flies buzzing about. II. vii. V. 1—3.

Lasting. I. x. IX. 2. It is difficult to get this meaning out of the character.

A blazing fire. I. i. X. 3.

In accordance with, III. i. II. 6.

Ashes, to be reduced to ashes. III. iii. III. 2.

熠 耀.-see 熠.

糧糧, descriptive of lightning. II. iv. IX. 3.

To be splendid. III. iii. VII.4(場 苴).
Descriptive of the splendour of an embroidered coverlet. I. z. XI.3(場分);
—of the brightness of the Morning-star.
I. vii. VIII. 1 (右場).

A furnace, IL vi. V. 3.

THE STIR RADICAL.

爪 chaou 争 tsāng

yuen

tsıcun

Claws, talons. II. i. IV. 1, (M ±, chaou the taloned soldiers) 2.

To quarrel; strife, war. II. v. I. 4: III. iii. V.III. 2: IV. iii. II.

About fifty times. (1) A particle, which we can hardly translate;—interchangeable with 日,欣. and 聿. I. iii. VII. 3; iv. IV. 1—3; VI. 1; xv. I. 2: II. i. III. 2—5: III. i. VII. 1; ii. VI. 1; et sarpe. (2) Here, there, thereon. I. iii. VI. 3; ix. VII. 1, 2: II. iv. V. 2; et sarpe. The dict. and critics generally explain it by 丁 or 於; but it really = 於是. Often, however, one is in doubts whether to construe the character thus, or as (1). (3) 爱爱, to be slow and cautions. I. vi. VI. 1—3.

Nearly a hundred times. (1) To make, to do, I. i. II. 2; iii. XV. 1—ii; vi. VI. 1 (無 為, there was nothing doing); vii. I. 1; x. XII. 1—3 (為言, to tell stories; xii. X. 1—3 (無 為): II. i. VI. 4 (為 to practise virtue); et saye. 為 詩, to make a psem. II. v. VI. 7. 作 為 delags. III. ia. II. 12, 為 讀 to form plans. II v. I. 4; IV. 6. 何為 and 何意 are frequent. (2) To be, to play the part of; to become. I. iii. XVII. 3; v. I. 3; IV. 5; xi. IV. 1: II. iv. IX. 3; v. III. 2; V. 8; X. 4; et sæpe. 以意, to take to be, to consider as, is common. I. iii. X. v.; v. X. 1—3; et al. alone is sometimes = 以意. E.g. I. xi. III. 2: II. iii. III. 5; viii. X. 2. But 以意, in some cases = wherewith to make. These two meanings (1) and (2) often seem to run into each other. (3) To assist. III. ii. IV. 2. To remedy. III. iii. II. 5.

For. I. v. VIII. 1, and perhaps 2; xv. I. 5: III. iii. IV. 8; VII. 5.

(1) A cup. I. iii. XIII. 3: II. vii. VI. 1. (to drink a cup), 2: III. ii. II. 2. (2) Dignity, rank. II. vii. IX. 4: III. iii. III. 5.

THE 88TH RADICAL. 奖

(1) A father. I. vi. VII. 1; ix. IV. 1; x. VI. 1 (同文): II. v. III. 3; VIII. 3, 4. 父母, parents,—see 母. (2) Uncles, elderly relatives of the same surname. II. i. V. 2; iv. III. 3.

Used after clan-names, titles, and designations;—like our Mr. 家父, IL iv. VII. 10. 而父, IL iv. I. 1—8. 商义, III. i. II. 8. 亶父, III. i. III. 1, 2. 顯父, III. iii. VII. 3. 蹶父, III. iii. VII. 4, 5; 皇父 and 休父, III. iii. IX. 1, 2. 叔父, IV. ii. IV. 2.

THE 89th RADICAL. 爻

To be different, to alter. I. v. IV. 4. To alter for the worse, to be in error. shwang III. ii. IX. 2.

About 130 times. (1) You, your, I. i. V. 1—3; iii. VIII. 4; X. I. 2, 3, 5, 6; v. IV. 2, 6; V. I; vi. IX. 1, 2; et passin. (2) = $\frac{1}{2}$, at the end of lines. I v. IV. 4: III. i. II. 6; IV. i. [ii.] II. (3) = $\frac{1}{2}$, forming adverbs. II. iii. IV. 4; vi. V. 2. See the note on this passage. There are some other analogous lines. (4) = $\frac{1}{2}$, to be near, III. ii. II 1. (5) = $\frac{1}{2}$.

THE 90TH RADICAL.

A couch, I. xv. I.5: II. iv. V. s; vi. I 4.

```
scriptive of luxuriant vegetation. I vit original pronunciation of the character in all cases, underlying of the character in all cases.
                                                                                                                                                                                 III. 1, 2, 8. (3) Fig. and I in the second strong I will be in the second strong strong strong strong in the second strong strong strong s towl, H. V. V. 7). (2) Horses of equal
                                                                                                                                                                             (2) Reflet to be soft and pliant. I. zili.
                                                                                                                                                                          (1) To incline to one side. II. iii. V. 6. relationships, III, iii, VI, the faculties and
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   (1) To pull on one side. I. Xv. I. 8. (2) 0
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       7 IV .iii .II .nioiba oT
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             å
                                                                                                                                                          In July III, I. (2) = (2) It ille end of a line. I. ix. VI. 1-3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      the scene of the decisive battle
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     谻
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               (1) Aff and Af
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            獎, L. vili, XI, 1—8,
                                                                                                                                                                                   (I) An exclamation, I. v. I. 3,
                                                                                                                                                          The wolf. L. viii, H. 3; xv. VII. I, 2.
                                                                                                                                    The vinter hunt, a steat chase. I. II. 12. To hunt, I. ix. VI. 1-3: xi.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               風腦 ががなる
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     To be full. III. i. VIII. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         v. III. 3; xi. III. 9; II. i. VII. 4; 5; IX. 3; birds, I. iii. IX. 9, applied to the male of A pen, a stall, III. ii. VI. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         noys
                                                                                                                                                                                 Artful, I. vii, X. 2; XII. 1, 2, H
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    non
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       the four steeds of a chariot. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               nonay 本 estallions, and especially in the phrase
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   A
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         001/
                                                                                                                                                                             To drive back. IV. ii. III. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                УŔ
                                                                                                        The wild tribes of the north. III. iii. X.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           1,0,7 雅
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          B: IV. II. IV. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                arotte
                                                                                                                            To repeat, to practise L. vii. IV. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Barley. IV. i. [i.] X.; [ii.] I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    yia;
                                                                                            7
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 独 IIIX i (anindam i neut to Vietur 20 01 vi
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           mous
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              વાસા
                                                                                         To be insety or rash; mad, distracted, I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           #
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       constellation in Aquila. II, iv. IX. 6, 年
                                                                              In the name with the northern ordes, p = Huns, II.; VII. 1, 5; VIII. 1, 5; VII
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          "净薄色"
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        112,0
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  #
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 \mathcal{H} hordes.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             unfi
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           mau
                                                                                                                                    A dog, a hound, II, v. IV, 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           K
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                THE 930 RADICAL,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        *
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           นอนอ,.y
                                                                                                                     THE 94TH RADICAL, A
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      edge of the face-board of a bell frame, IV.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              The molar feeth. I. ii. V. ii. I. solom shirt is generally. II. I. ii. VI will restrict the following the political in the feeth of the following the feeth of th
                                                   A pure victim, II. vi. VII. 2: IV. ii.
                                             Catcle tawny and with black lips, II. VI. I. IV. J. [iii.] VI.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              บก์
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           THE 920 RADICAL. F
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  缺。
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     K
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              enlighten. III. ii. X. 1 (天天) [ X. ii. III. ii. X. I (天下) [ All shiens the people and s
                                       -Worle cholon of a melon, shore-
                                                                                                                                         ing the seeds, I. v. III. S.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           計
                 L. iv. L. 2. (2) A mate, iv. Iv. 8. An only one others, L. xi. VI. L. Used of grain grows animal of chase, 3 years old L. ix. VI. 2. (3) An see A.—see A.—se
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          A window, I. ii. IV. 3; Zv. II. 9. ð$
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    割
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     The boards of building frames. III. i.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        mafi
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  腳 香 noo's
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  und
                 (i) A male, II, iv. IV. 8, An only one.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               颁
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             THE DIST RADICAL.
          Outtle for victims, II. iv. VI. 2: III. iii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 #
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    decing IV. 4: iv. IX. 5 (Hill 1) wills and roots, necording to their colour, II. iv. VI. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 A wall, L iv. II. 1-3; vil. II. 9; II i.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            Bups
    Cattle divided 秤 strength. II. iii. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           注剿(2) [L'xii. V. I. (2) 崇美
682
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         綳 bun osnob to svirginosob 、無 無 (1)
                                                                                                                                          CHIZESE CHVEYCLERS VAD PHRASES, 糀
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        INDEX III
```

猱 nuou A monkey. II. vii. IX. 6.

猶 yēw

(1) Still, and so notwithstanding. I. v. IV. 3; ix. IV. 1—3: II. i. V. 1: IV. i. [iii.]
II. (2) Equal to. I. ii. X. 2. Similar.
II. vi. IV. 3; viii. V. 2. (3) Plans. II.
iii. IV. 4; iv. V. 1 (to scheme); v. I. 1, 2,
3, (principles) 4: III. i. I. 2; iii. IX. 6. et al. (4) = [#], to go along. IV. i. [iii.]

猷 yēw

Plans, II. v. IV. 4; vii. IX. 6.

獄 yuh 獨

Only, alone, solitary. I. iii. VI. 1; VII. 1-3; x. XI. 1-3; xv. III. 1: II. iv. VIII. 1. and 12 (to stand alone), 13 (學 獨, the helpless and solitary); IX. S; v. III. 1; VIII. 5, 6; et al.

(1) A trial,—at law. I. ii. VL 2. (2) A prison. II. v. II. 5.

Long-muzzled dogs. I. xi. II. 3.

獵

To get, to find I. iii. II. 4. To hit. I. xi. II. 2: III. iii. III. 14. To capture. II. i. VIII. 6; v. IV. 4. = to be right. II. vi. V. 3: III. i. VII. 1. To be won. IV. ii. III. 7.

To hunt, L ix. VI, 1-3.

See វវ.

Beasts of chase. II. iii. V. 3; VI. 2.

影 獻

To present, to offer up,—to a superior, as the spoils of the chase and of war. I. vii. IV. 1; xv. L 4; IV. ii. III. 5, 6, 8. To present,-in sacrifice. II. vi. VL 4. To present,—the cup at feasts. II. vi. V. 3; viii. VII. 2; III. ii. II. 2. To show, to exhibit. II. vii. VI. 1.

玁

THE 95TH RADICAL. 女

Dark-coloured. I. i. III. 3; xv. I. 3: II. vii. VIII. 1; viii. X. 2: III. iii. VII. 2. 支鳥, the swallow. IV. iii. III.

, the dark king. IV. iii. IV. 2. (1) To follow, to keep along. II. iii. IX. 3; vi. L 2; viii. X. 3, 4: III. i. III. 2; IX.2: IV. L [iii.] II.; iii. IV.2. 率由, to observe and follow. III. ii. V. 2; to give free course to, 3. Perhaps 22 here has the meaning of—to kad. Along, about II. v. II. 5. (2) To lead. II. iii. IV. 1-4; VI. 3: IV. i. [ii.] IL; VIII. In 李從, we might think that both meanings were combined. IL vii. VIII. 4: IV. ii. IV. 6, 7. (J) Universally, IV. L. $[x \subseteq X]$

THE 96TH RADICAL.

yuh

A gem; jade, a piece of jade, of jade. I. ii. XII. 2; iv. III. 2; v. V. 3; vii. IX. 1, 2; ix. II. 2; III. 1: II. iii. X. 2; iv. II. 4, and l.4, 毋金玉爾音, do not make the news of you rare as gold or gems: III. i. IV. 5; ii. VI. 2; IX. 5 (here again - is a verb, to hold as precious as a sceptre of jade).

干 wang

king, III. i. VII. 4.

About 150 times. (1) King, royal. I. i. X. 3; ii. XIII. 1—3; iii. XV. 2, 3, v. VIII. 1; et passim. (2) To acknowledge once in a lifetime the king's supremacy. IV. iii. V. 2. To bear sway over, play the part of 玊 wang 干

wang

玐

Ŀēw

玷

tëen

玼 tsze

珈 kēa

peih

珩 hăng

球

k ēw

理

Ìe

pung

As if it were 4, though in the rhymes no regard is paid to the tone. To resort to; to go. III. i. VII. 6; ii. X. 8.

A precious stone, only inferior to jade. I. v. X. 3; vi. X. 3.

A flaw or defect. III. iii. II. 5; XI. 3.

HH HH, descriptive of the richness and splendour of a robe. I. iv. III. 2. Jewels on hair-pins. I. iv. III. 1 (六 珈).

有郑, to glitter as a gem. IL vi.

The top gem of the girdle-pendant. IL. iii. IV. 2.

A rank-token of jade. IV. iii. IV. 3.

To mark out the smaller divisions of fields. II. vi. VI. 1: III. i. III. 4; iii. VIII.

A pebble, or precious stone;—used as an ear stopper. II. viii. I. 3. So, 秀瑩·

A gem worn at the girdle-pendant. I. v. X. 1; vii. IX. 1.

Precious treasures, IV. ii. III. 8.

To cut—work on—gems or precious stones. I. v. I. 1: III. i. IV. 5: IV. i. [ii.] IX (享 泵, polished,—of manners).

A gem ornament for the mouth of a scabbard. II. vi. IX. 2: III. iii. VI. 2.

The small lute. I. i. I. 3; iv. VI. 1; vii. VIII. 2: II. i. I. 3; IV. 7; vi. IV. 4; VII. 2 (with the lute). In all these cases 奏 occurs in connexion with 瑟 the large lute. = lute strings. II. vii. IV. 4.

(1) A flaw, a blemish. I. xv. VII. 2: III. i. VI. 4. (2) How. Liii, XIV. 3; XIX. 2.

```
In I. iii, X. 5, H may be taken as does he do that is not good I. iii. VIII. 4.
                                                                                                                                 Andw 無不用的
                                                                                                                           in, in, i, iv, vii, i', v, i, 2, 8; iii, 5; iii, 6; ii
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         The tiles in a temple path. I. xii. VII 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           III. ii. X. 1.
                                                                                                                        ful, and other terms, II. i. II. 5; VI. 4; bus Briting and after Brid alter
                                                                                                                   edi 201 = 131 dirar suomymonys sa besu
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              A tile. II. iv. V. 9.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             THE 98TH RADICAL, F
                                                                                                                _{\mu 	ext{o}} is often per paths); X. 4 (FFF), to declare the
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     A gourd—the bottle-gourd, I. V. 4; vi. VI. 4; viii. VII. 1. truth); v. L. I; et al.
                                                                                                          they do not use—keep to—their pro-
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    Commencement where it is yet small.

A named — the hardeness of the small of the sm eti is inside of to the plant at its
                                                                                                        VI. I. II. VI 5; iv. IX. 8(不用其
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               M. Eourds. III. i. III. 1; ii. I. 4.
                                                                                                    (I) To use, to employ, I. ii. II. 1, 9; iii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           順
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       AM, the carica popaya, I. iv. X. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       (1) Gourds, melons, I. xv. I. 6; III. 8; III. 1; III. 1; III. 1; (2)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                bunk
                                                                                                                                 THE 101st RADICAL.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      492,7 用 规
                                                                                       iii. VII. 4. Haring A. 2. A niece. III. 3. VII. 3. A niece. III. 3. A niece. III. vary
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      THE 97TH RADICAL. M.
                                                                                      A nephery. I. vin. XI. 9. A nicco. III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                M
                                                                               descriptive of herds of deer
                                                                                                                      9. III. iii. III. iiber Tanananan A. 9. iii. III. 19. iii. III. 19. iiber Tanananan A.
                                                                                                                                                                                                             ili. VIL L
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  ธ<sub>นซุร</sub>
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           上) & Miv ili III .quo-noitadii &
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                餚
                                                                           (5) The natural conscience.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      Precious, beautiful; of gens and 1-3; xi, IX, 2, 1-3; vii, IX, 1; viii, III.
                                                                         ants, IV. ili, V. 5. At The International Striss.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  2125
                                                                                                                                                                                               .6 JII . III
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    uds7 秭 arst-born, III, ii, I. 2; EFF, descend.
                                                                                                                                                                                               \widetilde{W}_{ik}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   骾
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           I Guna, y
                                                                 A triends, II. i. IV. 5; A L. tho
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          Certain gem-stones. II, v. IX. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               夏 secured. L. iii. X. 5. (4) We have 生概 青 When your livelihood was
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           A ring, I. viii. VIII. 9 (重理); zi.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               fins
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          息 (農物)1.111
                                                         the birth of. IV. iii. III. 1. 2. (3)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    III. iii. IV. I (used in sacrificing). I. 3:
                                       1-3: II. v. VIII. 3; viii. IX. 2; III. ii. III. 2, viii. IX. 2; III. iii. III. 3; viii. IX. 2; III. ii. III. 3; viii. IX. 3; III. ii. III. 3; viii. III. 2, viii. III. 3; viii. 1II. 3; viii. 1II. 3; viii. 1II. 3; viii. 1II. 3; viii. 3; viii. 1II. 3; viii. 3; viiii. 3; viii. 3; viii. 3; viiii. 3; viiii. 3; viii. 3; viii. 3; viii. 3; viii. 3; viiii. 3; v
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 upny
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                A half sceptre, II. iv. V. 8: III. ii. VIII. chang 6: X. 6. Used for a libation-cup. III. i. x 谣 પુરસ્ત
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     rich and splendid-looking. I. iv. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        A red gem. L vi. IX. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   the feeth, I. V. V. 3. (2) Edge appearance of the feeth of the difference of the feeth of the fe
                                  unu 幣 is some the sound of bells and goins. II, iii, IV, of the sound of bells and some the sound to any (1).
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               10 oviditosob 展育 ban 健健 band to band to band to band to band to band to band to 0,57
                                                                                                                                                                                                                     กแกร
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 龚
                                                                THE 100ru RADICAL.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               Ear-stoppers. I. iv. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              我
                    Wery; to be excessive. I. vii. XV. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           นออา
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            A kind of jusper, I. zi, IX. 2,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    ĬĬĬ
!??!y
                Harried in minute, N. v. v. t.t., 5. (3)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                A pebble, or precious stone, used as an entrangement L viii, III, 2, Along with dim unoll
             to be wenried in mind. I. v. VIII. 3. (3) 腿 育
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              £ 1.7.1.3£
           A VIL 2 (# 1110 (2) H (2) (2) H (2) (3)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Gunh
         Sweet, I. ili, X, 2; II. il. V, 3; V. IV.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          A beautiful atone or gen. I. v. Z. 9;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            豪
                                                                                                                                                                                                                       国). 頂頂, to be small, contemptible,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             III. ii. VL 9.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          nonE
                                                                                                                                                                                               111).y
                                     THE 99TH HADICAL. #
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         骐
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            Lin ain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                    Fragments, small I, ili. XII, 4 (Ff.)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                dense, III. i. V. 2, 5. (3) To be mussive, 172
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         05
                                                                                                                                                                                                            (1) The large late, See EE (2) To CHIZESE CHYBYCLEBS VAD BHBASES.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  挺
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  418
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            逐
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    INDEX III
```

યુંચતુ

町 t'ing

加 yun

界 këae

畏 wei

畔 pwan

畛 chin 音

hëuh

畝 mow

ts'ih

畢 peih

略 lëoh

番 p'00

番

 $p^{i}o$

畬 yu 畯

tseun

異

留

lëw

MI

t'un

微

(1) Great, large. I. viii. VII. 1, 2: II. (2) 甫甫, descriptive of the size and number of fishes. III. iii. VII. 5. (3) The name of a State. I. vi. IV. 2. In III. iii. V. 1, 甫一甫 侯, the marquis of Foo. (4) The name of a marsh. 首 for 首 田, II. iii. V. 2. (5) In names of men. 吉甫, II. iii. III. 5, 6: III. iii. V. 8; vi. 8. 川南, III. iii. VI. 1—8. (6) 新丽, name of a hill in Loo. IV. ii. IV. 9.

THE 102D RADICAL.

Ш t'ëen

(1) Fields, cultivated lands. I. iv. VI. 3; viii. VII. 1, 2; xv. I. 1: II. iii. IV. 1, 2; iv. IX. 5; vi. VI. 1 (曾孫田之, made it into fields); et al. + = lands. III. ii. VIII. 5 : iii. X. 1, 2 : IV. ii. IV. 3. H MH, the Father of husbandry,-probably Shin-nung. II. vi. VII. 2; VIII. 2. my, an officer of agriculture, the Surveyor of the fields. I. xv. I. 1: II. vi. VII. 3; VIII. 4. 徹田, to lay out the fields on the system of mutual cultivation. III. ii. VI. 5. (2) To hunt. I. vii. (3) Name of III. 1: II. iii. V. 2; VI. 1. a large drum. IV. i. [ii.] V.

To cultivate. I. viii. VII. 1, 2.

田 由 yëw

From. II. iv. IX. 7; vii. VI. 5 (由 整 一言); but the preceding line, 匪由 勿壽, is more difficult to construe, and seems to mean, Do not speak what you have no occasion to speak. By, to proceed by I. viii. VI. 1. To proceed to I. vi. III. 1, 2. 率由,—800率. speak. II. v. III. 8; = one's own words.

III. iii. II. 6.
(1) To excel. I. v. VI. 2. (2) A buff-cont. I. xi. VIII. 3.

(1) To prolong and increase. II. vii. VIII. 3: III. ii. V. 1; iii. III. 2 (= by repeated acts). (2) The name of a State. I. vi. IV. 1: III. iii, V, 1 (一甲 侯), 2,

With or without -f-, a male child. II.

iv. V. 8: III. i. VI. 1.

To regulate, to make cultivable. II. vi. VI. 1: III. iii. VII. 1.

To give. 1. iv. IX. 1: II. v. VI. 7; vi. VI. 3; VIII. 2 (乘界, to lay hold of and put into): IV. i. [ii.] IV. (孫 界 to present to); [iii.] V.; (id.).

HI Will, vacant ground near a house, a paddock. I. xv. III. 2.

版] 版, descriptive of land and marshy ground made ready for cultivation. II. vi. VI. 1.

Boundaries, IV. i. [i.] X.

To fear, to dread. I. vi. IX. 1, 2; vii. II. 1-3; xv. III. 2: II. i. VIII. 4; iv. X. 3; 畏 总, III. iii. III. 10. et sæpe.

To separate from, = to leave, to reject. III. i. VII. 5 (畔 援, to reject this and cling to that).

water-courses in Dyke-ways along fields. IV. i. [iii.] V.

To nourish. I. iii. IV. 4: II. iv. IV. 1, 2; VII. 10; v. VIII. 4.

Acres. I. viii. VI. 8; ix. V. 1, 2; xv. I. 1: II. iii. IV. 1; vi. VI. 1; VII. 1, 8; VIII. 献丘, the 1, 4: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI. acred height, II. v. VI. 7. 丽人, he dug the ditches, he defined the So, 實畝實籍, acres, III, i, III, 4, ·獲是畝, were III. iii. VII. 6. reaped and stacked on the ground. III. ii. Ī. 6.

髮髮, descriptive of ploughshares as very sharp. IV. i. [iii.] VI.

(1) All, together. II. iv. VI. 8. (2) 畢 and 天 畢, the Hyades. II. v. IX. 6; viii. VIII. 3. (3) A hand-net, to take with a hand-net. II. vii. II. 1.

有略, descriptive of ploughshares

as sharp. IV. i. [iii.] V. A clan-name. II. iv. IX. 4. The pronunciation is not Fan, as I have given it in the translation. The diet. makes it P'oo, P'o or P'wan.

番番, to be martial-looking. III. iii. V. 7.

Fields the 3d year under cultivation. IV. i. [ii..] I.

Sec III.

Different. 1, vi. II. 3: III. ii. X. 3. . 段 A, to be different from. I. ix. II. 1, 2, 3. The difference. II. iv. IV. 3. To be rare, I. iii. XVII. 3. 足人, strangers. II. vii. III. 1—3.

To detain, I. vi. X. 1-3. To remain. III. iii. IX. 2.

Seu III .

(1) The royal domain, IV. iii. III. (2) The threshold. I. iii. X. 2.

teen

甲 këah 申

> 男 11(171 何 tëen

```
the thing or kind to which it is prefaced. We
                                                                                                                             A hundred. I. ii. I. 35 st st steps is 15. 2. if I. ii. I. 30,500 is 17. 27 st steps frequently used to denote all, all of 30 lie, the other in the interpretation of the state of the stat
                                                                                                                        I. I.; IV. I.—3; II. iii. III. ½; x. III. I—3; xi. thin suo aron so of A thin
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           1111
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            To have toil and suffering II, v
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         VIII. 25 iv. X 4, 5 (to suffer in body).
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       yid
                                                                                                                                                     THE 106TH RADICAL.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            \Lambda III' 3'
                                                                                                            blowing. I. zv. I. I. So W II. v.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                fins;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 out. II. i. IX. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              科
                                                                                                                                                                                                                        VIII. 5; X. 3.
                                                                                                         (10) Fr. descriptive of the wind
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         upany
                                                                                                        descriptive of shoals of fishes. I. v. III. 4.
                                                                                                       description of shoots to solve                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    To be ill and disabled. I. i. III. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   upny
                                                                                                   (§) Lo pe
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       To be in pain.

Aching, I. V. VIII. 4. To be distressed, and the heart of the heart.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 献。新
                                                                                                10. III. III. VI. 8: IV. III. IV. 2. (7) To go to work on. IV. i. [ii.] II.
                                                                                              To grow long. III. ii. I. 5. (6) To reapond speak). (5) To send forth. II. v. I. 3 (2) To come forth. II. v. II. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      To be in evil case, III. iii. III. 7.
                                                                                        IV. 2. To begin a journey. I. viii. X. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 เอน 业 to disorder. (3) To go away I. viii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               nicitive mort inkly a gaidestini rom vitinin
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      ຣ<sub>ແນລູຣ</sub>
                                                                             (1) To shoot, with the arrow. L ii. (2) To remove. L iii. X. 3: Vi. VI. Y. The dict. explains it in these cases by Word I am hated, II, iv. X. 7. (5)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         揪
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          Teve Tol 浇木膏黑
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        E M. II. iv. X. I; v. I. II. iii. I. pounding the earth in building. III, i. III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     (4) To be angry. Especially in the phrase
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                1; ZI. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               8: II. v. III. 2 (F)

ache). (2) Calamitica, III. iii. II. I. VI. 4. (8)

A natural ailment or defect. III. iii. II. I.

(4) To be angry. Especially in the phrase descriptive of the noise made by 颏
                                                                     爱(8)
                                                                                                               (2) To complete, III, iii, V. 2,
                                                                  J. IV. ii ; b. vi. ii. VI. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             (1) To be in pain, sickness. I. v. VIII.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    to make one's-self ill, II, vi. II, I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                бирз 来 iseik
                                                                                              THE 105th HADICAL. YE.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               豪
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 To be in distress. II. viii. V. 8.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     To be feverish. — to pain, II. v. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        ə,
                                                                                            have secret sorrow. II. iv. VIII.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               To distress, to be distressed; distress? \( \text{IV} \), \( \text{VII.} \) 3; \( \text{IX} \), \( \text{IV} \), \( \text{III.} \) 1; \
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              W.yo
                                                                                    = hidden, In the phrase av
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              W
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     001/5
                                                                                       To be distressed. III. ii. X. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 鵬 məy
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          W
                                          To be distressed. II. v. X. 2: III. iii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 นบา
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 THE 104TH RADICAL,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                               歐
                                      To distress; to be distressed. II. vii. X.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                            You
                                                                                                                                                                                                                         灏
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     In security. III. iii. III. 3.
                                 To be cured, I. vii. XVI. 2: III. iii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                       ອນນຸວ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Bush
                                                                                                                                                                                                                    磁
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             To trip on. I. xv. VII. 1, 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               灣
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            (2) Coarse, = coarse rice, III, III, XI, 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                             mo,yo
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          But the meaning is uncertain.
                           To distress, to afflict. III. iii. IV. 6; 夏沁。 蜜
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        III. 9. But the meaning is a distance. III. i.
                        Afflictions,—un epidemic. II. iv. VII. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                              นออา
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          005
                                                                                                                                                                                                             瓤 顽
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             THE 103D RADICAL 057
                                                                                                                                                                                                       涯
                                                                                            To bury. III. iii. IV. 2.
             To be ill and disabled. I. i. III. 4; xv.
                                                                                                                                                                                                         ð
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        To fear, IV. L. [L.] VIII.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          common. I. Av. I. 8: II. i. VI. 4; ii. VII.
                                                                                                                                                                  II. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              Yəəz
          To be in distress; trouble, distress, II.
                                                                                                                                                                                                   00,7
                                                                                                                                                                                                                       si , bed in its, to be unlimited, is straight in the straight 2; vi. V. 2; et sæpe.
                                                                                         iv. VIII. 2; vii. IX. 3.
                                 be torn with distress. III. iii. X. 5. distress, II, v, X, 6; vi, I, 4, 泚
                                                                                                                                                                                                 nfi
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            3(疆土):[[[]][[[[]]][[]]][[[]]]]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                 to define the smaller boundaries, II. Yi. I. VIII. 1. VIII. 1. VIII. 4. ii. VI. I. VIII. 4. ii. VI. I. VIII.
243
                                                                                                                                                                                                                 seang larger boundaries, in opposition to Fig.
                                                                                                                                                                                                           A limit, a boundary; and to define the
                                                                                              CHIZESE CHYEYCLEES VXD PHRASES.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    INDEX III.
```

盈 ying

shing

盜 taou 盟

ming 盡

tsin

監 këen

읦

këen

尷碗

盬 koo

目 muh

骬 heu

首 chih

的tein

皆 këae 皇

have—百姓, II. i. VI. 5; et al.; 百僚, II. v. IV. 4; 百本, II. v. X. 2; 百 惠, II. vi. II. 1—3; 百福, II. vi. V. 4; et al.; 百 穀, II. v. VI. 2; et al.; 百 辟, II. vii. I. 8; et al.; 自 计, III. i. I. 2; 白塔, III. i. III. 6, et al.; 白泉, III. ii. VI. 3; 百鬴, III. ii. VIII. 3; 百春, III. iii. VIII. 8; 百雨, st. 4; 百 曫, st. 6; 百 里, III. iii. XI.7; 百禮, IV. i. [ii.] IV.; et al.; 百禄, IV. iii. III.; et al.; &c., &c.

The grain yet soft in the husk. II. vi. 皁 VIII. 2. tsaou

The mark,—in a target. II. vii. VI. 1.

All at once. II. iii. VII. 2: III. i. III. 6. Manifold. IV. i. [ii.] IV.

About 40 times. (1) To be great, great. II. vi. V. 2; VI. 4, 6: III. i. VII. 1; iii. hwang II. 4; X. 7: IV. i. [ii.] VII. (皇天 and 皇考); VIII.; X.; [iii.] L; II.; XI.

To magnify. II. vi. V. 5: IV. i. [i.] IV. (2) Admirable, III. i. I. 3. So 旦 旦 to be of admirable character. III. ii. V. 2: IV. ii. III. 6. In this last example the meaning perhaps = grand; as it is in 皇皇后帝, the great and sovereign God. II. ii. IV. 3. (3)

Bright,-as be brilliant, II. iii. IV. 2. 皇, in II. So 皇 grain. IV. i. [ii.] I. i. III. 1. (4) 皇=匡, to put to rights.

I. xv. IV. 1. (5) To make king. IV. i. [i.] IX.; [iii.] IX. (6) A horse yellow with white spots. I. xv. III. 4: IV. ii. I.

1. (7) The name of a valley. III. ii. VI. 5. (8) 皇 父, the designation of a minister of king Yew, II. iv. IX. 4, 5, 6; of another individual. III. iii. IX. 1.

(1) A pool in a marsh. II. iii. X. 1, 2. 儿 泉, the ninth pool, the centre, of the marsh. (2) 泉門, the gate of the enceinte of a palace. III. i. III. 7. (3) 泉泉 to be insolent, III, iii, XI. 3. (4) $1 Kil, Shun's minister of Crime. IV. ii. III. 5.

(1) The brightness of the moon rising. 胺 1. xii, VIII.). (2) 皎 皎, to be bril-Lenon liantly white. II. iv. II. 1-1.

(1) The brightness of the moon rising. and glistening, 1 x. III. 1.

有如皦日, I swear by Bright. këaou the bright sun. I. vi. IX. 3.

THE 107th RADICAL. | | |

The skin, -of animals; with the hair 皮 or fur on. I. ii. VII. 1; iv. VIII. 1: III. iii. VII. 6.

MI. THE 108rn RADICAL.

To fill; to be full. I. i. III. 1; ii. I. 3; IX. 2; vii. XXI. 2(殷其盈矣, how do their numbers fill the space!); viii. I. 1; x. IV. 1, 2: II. iii. v. 7; et sæpe. 雕盈, when people are not full of themselves. III. iii. II. 10. To increase on one. I. iii. XV. 2. In-益之, there is crease. II. i. VI. 1. 無益 withsuperadded. II. vi. VI. 2.

out more ado. III. ii. X. 6. To place, to deposit. I. ii. IV. 2: III.

Scoundrels. II. v. IV. 3. Thieves. III. iii. III. 16.

To covenant. II. v. IV. 3.

Entirely. II. v. X. 6; vi. I. 4. To fulfil entirely. II. vi. V. 6.

To inspect, to examine. II. iv. VII. 1. An inspector. II. vii. VI. 5.

To see, to look at. II. v. IX. 5: III. i. II. 4; VII. 1 (監觀); iii. VI. 1; IV. i. Anciently, no regard [iii.] III.; iii. V. 4. was paid to this distinction of tones in

A hound. I. viii. VIII. 1-3.

Not to be durable, to be slackly performed. I. x. VIII. 1:3: II. i. II. 1-4; VII. 8; IX. 1—3; vi. I. 1.

THE 109TH RADICAL. Ħ

The eye. I. v. III. 2; viii. XI. 1, 2: II. v. V. 8.

To stare, = to expect longingly. II. v. V. 5; viii. I. 5.

(1) To be straight. - smooth. I. vii. VI. 1; ix. VI. 2 (of water flowing even): II. v. IX. 1. To make straight. III. I. III. 5. (2) To be straight, right. I. vil. VI. 2; II. vi III. 4, 5 (正頂, the correct and upright); viil. V. 2; III. iii. V. 8.

(3) Only, I. iv. VI. 3.

Together, mutually, I. iii. IV. 2; vii. XX. 1, 2; XXL 1; II. iv. V. 1; VII. 6; scang X. 3; et sape.

皓

```
To grind, to polish. I. v. I. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             iv. VII. 3. Two of them were earried in Olli
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     轉
                                                                                                                                                                                                                    Great, honourable, II, viii,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               To file, I, r. L. L.
                                                                                                                                                                                                         Large in size; greatly, I, iii, XIII, 2; IV, I, 2; XI, II, 3; XI, X, 3; Xv, VII, I, 2; XI, Z, 3; Xv, VII, I, 2; ot scepe. Great, honourable, II, viii, 0.57
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 1, 2; et sæpe.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               翘
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  THE 110TH RADICAL,
                                                                                                                                                                                                   To strike a
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          To break. I. xv. IV. 1—3. downright blow. II. iii V. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       4148
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Дĥ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         bands and a lo i L X I ludalshed a fands
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      -suoixun unun n do sviiptive of a man n naixun a suoixun naim n do sviiptive of a suoixun a suoi
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  0,0
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              A whet-stone. II. v. IX. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           独
                                                                                                                                                                                       An earth-topped rocky hill, I. i. III, 4, 孙
                                                                                                                                                                      II. iii. X. I., 2; iv. VII. I. siii. I. siii. V. sii. V. VIII. I. siii. V.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      The forturn round and look at. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      Blind musicians, IV. i. [ii.] V.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            na.si
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            腴
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  8: iii. IV. 4, 7, 8; X. I (戦 广门); et al.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            智 4148
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  THE LITTH RADICAL,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      夕
                                                                                                                                                        A fig. to be martial-looking. IV. ii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Of the following                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                descriptive of a person un-Hermy careed for by any one. I. Z. VI. 2. To look at Generally to lool e III nongy
                                                                                                                                             How much more! II, I, V, I; vii, VI. 5; 额 u<sub>ayo</sub> former churacter denotes having the pu-鰤
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     m_{iii.\,II.\,R}
                                                                                                                                      III, i. VII. 7; but X FIII in II. v. II. 2, ungs
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            Jung ignorant. meaning blind musicians, The
                                                                                                                                 T FII = unconsciously,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        EX
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Having eyes without pupils, IVe have no one takes knowledge of my distress.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          the net of looking back with a feeling of line of the mine of the line of the L iii. XV. L.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    o oving the both descriptive of the feeling of the feeling of Mearly forly times, To know I. iii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           2010
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     줾
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           To look back, We have 職 膏 (= ai -i ff = di statu panil a ni soniq be uənə.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Λ [i] Τ'AΙ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             ЦŻ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     淵
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        We of the ariolo, I, iii. VIL 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          See above.
                                                                                         More than a hundred times. I. III. I. III. I. One on Or misson to the control of brightness of fruit, II. i. IX. I. So III นอลู่บุ 錮 off the description of the Aniqsib of Ally iii on the forth of the fort
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        To be brilliant or bright; beautiful. II.
                                                                                   To marshal, to be marshalled. III. i. III.
                                                                      unat
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               制 Gunyo
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       洲 242
                                                                                                                      THE HIM RADICAL. F
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           uənə.y
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                滑 brows, meaning bushy, well-formed eye-
                                                Old and wifeless. II.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      ovo do vivognol chi A service on the control of the
                                                                                                                                                                             the X. 2; Ill ill. VL 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  The cychrons, I. v. III. 2. Generally
                                                                                                                                                                                                                       Used for fife.
                                        (2) JANA Vigorous-looking. II.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       117,27
                                  VII. I. |X| A. Pitinble missery. II. vii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             iv. VL 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          To observe, to survey, III, i. VII. 2;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 2.714
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                阊
                            In a pitiable case, II, iii,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Descriptive of the black and white of the other sound white of the eyes well defined. L. v. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          lines
                    (1) To pity. II. v. VI. 5: III. iii. III. I.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    県
            L. vil. V. 1, 2: IV. ii. IV. 5. A. A. ....
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             Guy
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 und trident. I. zl. III. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                £ЯІ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   A shield, L xi III, 2.
                                                 a war chariot. Honce we have or Shang 1v (3) Aff (2) an ancient lord
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               ung
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 of Shang. IV. iii. IV. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   ic—1 JIIV, VI, I, 1998 of any look at 1 JIII, 1998 of any 圓
974
                                                                                                                                                                            CHIZERE CHVRACTERS AXD PHRASES.
```

וומסח K

Euniu

쀟

no.y

祝 chuh

祝 chow

枛 shin

响 tsze 祥

祭

tse

祺

k'e

祼 kwan

醿

禋 yin

禍 ho

頑 ching

福

fuh

(1) The musical stone. II. vi. IV. 4: IV. i. [i.] IX.; [ii.] V. In IV. iii. I., the instrument is said to be one of a more precious material. (2) To give the reins to, to gallop, horses. I. vii. IV. 2 (更

THE 113TH RADICAL.

亦 she 加土 shay

祀

sze

To show. II. i. I. 1: III. iii. II. 10: IV. i. [iii.] III.

The altar of the Spirits of the land. To sacrifice to those Spirits. II. vi. VII. 2:111. iii, IV. 6.

To offer a sacrifice; sacrifices. II. vi. V. 1, 2, 4; VI. 6; VIII. 4: III. i. V. 4; ii. I. 1, 2, 6, 7, 8; iii. IV. 2 (퀱 祀): IV. i. [ii.] VI.; VII.; ii. IV. 3.

胍

깼

k'e

祈

k•e

깺

che

(1) To be large. II. iii. VI. 3. (1) Descriptive of an easy and unconstrained manner, I. ii. II. 3; = gently, II. vi. VIII. 3; = leisurely and bright. III. iii. VII. 4. (2) In crowds, multitudes. I.
xv. I. 2: II. i. VIII. 6.
To be at rest. II. v. V. 6. The pronunciation is given on p. 345 as che; incor-

Only. II. v. V. 4; vi. II. 1-3. = it just is. II. iv. IV. 3.

祇 che

(1) To pray for; to beg. II. vi. VII. 2; vii. VI. 1: III. ii. II. 4; iii. IV. 6. (2) filt fift, in multitudes. IV. iii. III. (3)

War. II. iv. I. 1—3.

(1) Happiness. blessing. II. iii. III. 6: III. i. VII. 4; iii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [i.] IV. (加 福); [ii.] VII.; ii. IV. 8. (2) To take pleasure in. II. v. IV. 2. The space inside the door of the ancestral temple. II. vi. V. 2.

A halberd. I. xiv. II. 1.

顶方 fang 渡 tae MH troo

(1) Ancestors. 先祖, one's forefathers is frequent. II. v. X. 1; vi. V. 3: III. So 烈崩, II. vii. iii. III. 3, 4; et al. VI. 2; et al. We have 丸比而且 used for ancestors in II. iv. V. 2; but 加且 奴比, IV. i. [ii.] IV.; [iii.] V., = ancestors, male and 祖考=ancestors, II. vi. VI. female. 5; III. iii. VI. 3. 阜血, great ancestors. 11. vi. VI. 4; 111. iii. X. 7; et al.; but in IV. i. [iii.] I., = my great grandfather. 太帅, grand ancestor, 111, iii 1X, 1, (2) To offer a sacrifice, on commencing a journey or an expedition, to the Spirit of the way. III. iii. VI. 7; VII. 3.

To reverence, IV, iii, IV, 3,

꺄 Dignity. III. ii. III. 6.

t800 Blessing, prosperity. II. vi. VI. 4; vii. I. 1: III. i. VII. 5; 1X. 5, 6: IV. i. [ii.] 祜 hoo VIII.; ii. III. 4; iii. II.

(1) An officer of prayers. II. vi. V. 4, (2) To tie or bind. I. iv. IX. 3.

To curse. III. iii. I. 8(侯作侯祝).

Spiritual Beings. II. i. V. 1; vi. III. 4, 5; VIII. 2: III. ii. VIII. 3; iii. II. 7; IV. 1, 2, (明 浦) 6; V. 1; X. 5: IV. i. [i.] VIII. The Spirits of ancestors. II. i. VI. 5; vi. V. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6: III. i. V. 5; VI. 2. . The spring sacrifice to ancestors. In, or in offering, that sacrifice. II. i. VI. 4. To be auspicious, a happy omen. II. iv. V. 7: III. i. II. 5; iii. X. 5: IV. iii. IV. 1.

tsëang To sacrifice ; sacrificial. I. xv. I. 8 : II. vi. V. 2 ; VI. ö. III. ii. I. 7.

To be fortunate. III. ii. II. 4.

To pour out a libation in sacrifice. III. i. I. ŏ.

Happiness, prosperity; emolument, dignity. 自渝, occurs repeatedly. II. i. VI. 2; et al. 福藤 is frequent. II. vi. VIII. 1, 3; vii. VIII. 3, 5: III. i. V. 1; et al. 再禄, III. ii. VIII. 4. 後禄, the second blessing .- the feast at the conclusion of a sacrifice. II. vi. V. 6. See also II. iv. VIII. 3, 13: III. i. VII. 3 ii. III. 7 ; et al.

To offer a pure sacrifice. II. vi. VIII. 4: III. ii. I. 1, 2; iii. IV. 2. It must mean generally to sacrifice in IV. i. [i.]

Calamity. II. v. V. 2; X. 5. To be visited with calamity. III. iii. III. 2. to punish. IV. iii. V. 3.

A happy omen. IV. i. [i.] III.

More than fifty times. Happiness, blessing. II. i. VI. 1, 2, 5; ii. IX. 4; vi. III. 5; V. 1, 2, 3, 4; VI. 6; VII. 4; VIII. 4; IX. 1; et supe. 福 派,—sco 派. 祉福, IV. i. [i.] IV. IV. 1—3. To bless. IV. il. IV. 3 (万下 其福安).

To sacrifice to the Father of war. III. VII. 5. The sacriflee was offered at the scene of warfare;-to whom is not well ascertained.

To withstand, L viii, XL 3: II, i. IV. 1: III. i. III. 9. A match, an opponent. I. xi. VI. 3. 引度解, strong oppressors. III. iii. 1. 2; VI. 5.

ry Ling Probably a million, IV, L. [ii.] IV; Used for spirits made of the grain. III. Black miller HL il. I. 6: IV. il. IV. I.

(1) General many for a measure, weight, AHI 5 Wolf's-tail grass. I. xiv. IV, 1: II. vi.

for making spirits, IV. i. [ii.] IV. Lind of rice; -glutinous and good (2) An earldon in the royal domain. III.

or rule. To use as a pattern, II. v. l. b.

To sow or plant early, IV. ii, IV. I.

.7'o sow. III. ii. I. 5. of grain to be sown, III. ii. L. 6 (張祖). 1; III ii, 1, 5. (2) The different kinds (1) To select or use as seed. II. vi. VIII.

To be equal, corresponding, to. I. xiv.

The panieum miliaceum.

To lift up. I. xv. I. 8.

Sanot Builtyno IATE [HE] ALTHER IN (3) 巴松 1, 1—3; x, VIII, 1, 2; zv. L.7; IL'i. VIII, 4; vi. V. 1; VIII, 4; vii. V. 1; VIII, 4; Often used in connexion with T. V.

1: III. iii, III. 6 () and 7: IV. ii. IV. I (id.); iii. V. 8. — intrvest. I. xv. I. 7: II. vi. VII. 4. (2) Grain cut and in the field. I. xv. I. 7. (1) To sow. I. iz. VI. 1-3: II. vi. VIII. Rice in the plant, paddy. I. z. VIII. 3; xv. I. 6: II. vi. VII. 4; viii. V. 3: IV. ii.

VIII. 2, 3. Children, to be childish. I. iv.

(1) Grain. In the phrase 百款, the different kinds of grain. I. xv. I. 7: II. vi. ground. II. vi. V. 6: III. iii. VIII. 5, 6. 清首, to bow with the head to the

(1) To be penetrating, or, perhaps, to to be mild. III. iii. VI. 8. (2) Solemn, ynui 鄶 3, 5. A Solution of the service of t II. i. VI. 2. To become good. II. v. II. VI. '(2) Good. L. Xii, II. 2, 3 (= lucky): VI. 2: VIII. 1: IV. I. [ii.] II.; [iii.] V.;

profound, IV. i. [i.] I.; II. (8) 舂碌, that confined to certain parties. Private (1) Private;—used for private clothes. I. i. II. 3. In II. vi. V. 5,—the private feast, W. Alian L. XV. L. 4. plant that seeds without having flowered. (1) Millet. ดินเ,ขุว (1) Descriptive of the growing corn coming into ear. III. ii. I. 5. (2) (1f a 继 (1) Puddy, I. ix. VI. 1—3: III. ii. I. 4. (2) Grain generally. I. xv. I. 7: II. vi. VII. 3. Burys 扯

1V. II. IV. 3, 4. = 7K, three autumns, The autumn, I. v. IV. 1: II. v. X. 2: 烼 tiandfuls, II. vi. VIII. 3. iii. I. 3. 另 今 素素, the people possess a normal nature. III. iii. VII. I. = H, to employ. III. III. iii. III. 3. to keep the heart, to maintain certain principles in it. I. iv. VI. 3: II. v. III. 6: 必乘 XXI. 1: II, iv. VII. 3, 6, et al. To hold, to grasp. I. iii. XIII. 3; vii. of one's family. To take to one's self I. xx.I. 4. (2) A brother-in-law, I. y. III. 1. IX. 4: but in III. iii. V. 3,=the members 's brivate (i.e. low, poor) men, Il. v. delds. H. vi. VIII. 3: IV. i. [ii.] II.

THE 115TH RADICAL, TR

THE 1144 BYDICYL

that sacrifice. II. i. VL.4.

To pray to, II. iii. Yl. I.

A place in Wel. I. iii. XIV. 2.

The great Yu. the founder of the Heat dynasty. II, vi. VI. I; III, i. X. 5; iii. VII, I; IV, ii. IV, I; iii. IV, I; V, 3.

The summer sucrifice to ancestors.

Propriety, the rules of propriety, according to propriety; iv. iv. iv. iv. iv. V. 3-5; vii. VI. VIII. 3; IV. iv. IX. 5; Vii. IV. iv. IV. 3. VIII. 3; IV. iv. IV. iv. IV. iv. IV.

Permanent, IV. iii. III. (有 秩). alone, Orderliness, II. vii VI. 3; to be regularly and gracefully shaped. He V. 3. In II. iv. V. I, it is used of banks xi. III. 3: II. v. IV. 4; vii. VI. 1; III. ii. or is done in an orderly proper way. I. sbesoorg andw do svidgiressb 裁块 To feed horses,—with grain. I. i. IX. 2, 8: II. vii. II. 3, 4, Black millet, with a double kernel, III.

To collect. L. zv. II. 3 (蓄租).

probably=three seasons. I. vi. VIII. 2.

続加

腎

ng.y 瀦

11011.]

邸 oys

摊 ճառույ Ñq.

โทกขุง

祖 riys 酥

00.7

狱 fungs

盐 famj

孙

2287

褓 иэл

cy, ij

уощ

林 rad

娅

0053

亚

m2,53

buið

亷

328

浬

อเอร

豜 οų

ทก์

띪 yoh

蘇 non 좲

อน

HU

7)

TM.

nun

luh

穎 ying

tseih

suy

巡穠 nung

穑 sih

纃 tse 耯

hwoh

yaou

窶 křeu

窮 kieung

JL.

leih

巫 ping

竟 king

chang

車 t'ung

竦 treeh

to be profound, to be reverent. III. i. I. 4; [ii. V. 2: IV. i. [ii.] III. To be very admirable. IV. ii. III. 4; iii. I.

Tall, red millet. III. ii. I. 6.

Grain planted late and ripening early. I. xv. I. 7: IV. ii. IV. 1.

The ears of grain hanging down with their own weight. III. ii I. 5.

To collect; -in reference to the bringing the cut grain together and setting it up. IV. i. [iii.] VI.

To store up in stacks in the fields; such stacks. III. ii. VI. 1: IV. i. [iii.] V.

Ears of grain, I. vi. I. 2: II. vi. VIII. 3.

蔻蔻, descriptive of rows of rice growing luxuriantly. III. ii. I. 4.

Luxuriance, -of growth I. ii. XIII. 1, 2.

To reap. I. ix. VI. 1, 2, 3: II. vi. VI. 3: III. ii. I. 5 (=husbandry); iii. III. 6, 7: IV. ii. IV. 1; iii. V. 3. See 7.

A bundle, a sheaf. II. vi. VIII. 3.

To reap. I. xv. I. 4, 6: II. vi. III. 3; VIII. 3: III. ii. I. 6: IV. i. [iii.] V; VI. To cut down and bundle firewood. II. v.

The name of a place or district. II. iii.

穩穩, in abundant measure. IV. i. [i.] îx.; îi. II.

THE 116rn RADICAL. 穴

A cave. a pit. (i) Houses in the ground. I. i. III. 1. (2) A grave. I. vi. IX. 3; III. i. III. 1. hevek xi. VI. 1-3.

(1) To search into, to lay bare. H. i. IV. 5; iv. VII. 16; v. III. 7: III. i. VII. 1. (2) In the end; an end. II. iii. VII. 2: III.

iii. I. 3. (3) 究究, unkindly. I. x. VII. 2.

(1) A chink. I. xv. I.5; III. 3. (2) 戶面 穹蒼, the azure vault. III. iii. III. 7. 宫 is defined by lofty' and 'great.'

(1) Empty, hollow. II. iv. II. 4 So 有 空 E. III. III. 12 其空. descriptive of empty-unemployed-looms. II. v. IX. 2. To make empty, to exhaust. II. iv. VII. 3. (2) 司空 the minister of Works. III. i. III. 5. -The diet gives II. iv. VII. 3 in 3d tone.

To bure through, I. ii. VI, 2, 3.

Suddenly. L viii. VII. 3 (突而= 突然) iruh 窈

(1) 窈窕. descriptive of a bride as modest and retiring. I. i. I. 1-3. (2) 新州, deep and anxious thoughts. I. хіі. VШ. 1.

To stop up. I. xv. I. 5; III. 3. 窒益

See 窈.

窕 To be in distress from, embarrassed by. í-Eaou II. iv. VIII. 9. k eun

To be straitened, I, iii. XV, 1.

Poverty. I. iii, XV. 1.

THE 117TH RADICAL. T

(1) To stand. I. iii. III. 2. (2) To rear. III. i. III. 5, 7. To set up. III. ii. X. 6. To raise up, to appoint. II. vii. VI. 5: III. i. VII. 2; iii. III. 7: IV. iii. IV. 1.

(3) Used for 岩正, to provide grain-food; -rice or millet cooked in grains. IV. i. [i.] X.

Together. I. vii. II. 1-3; xi. I. 2, 3.

In the end. III. iii. IX. 4.

Anything of elegant composition. The blazonry of birds on a flag. II. iii. III. 4; and of other ornaments. VII. 2. A piece of weaving. II. v. IX. 6. Of the brilliance of the Milky way, III. i. IV. 4; and in 5, of carved figures. 有章, descriptive of the elegance of the princes, II. vi-X. 2; and of speech, viii. I. 1. glorious. III. ii. VIII. 3. Rules; statutes. III. ii. V. 2: IV. i. [ii.] VIII. A signal or pattern. III. iii. II. 4.

(1) A boy, a young man. I. vii. X. 2; so童子.Lr. XII. 1, 2; XIII. 1, 2. VI.1,2. (2) 童 羧, a young ram, one without horns. II. vii. VI.5; and 重 alone, in III. iii. II. 8.

To be afraid. IV. iii. IV. 5.

To be exhausted. III. iii. XI. 6.

(1) To be strong, to do vigorously. II. iv. IX. 7: III. iii. II. 2: III. 15; IV. i. [i.] IV.; IX (競 and 執 競). (2) To strive, to be quarrelsome. III. iii. III. 3: IV. iii. IV. 4.

i. Vi. 3; x, XI. 3. See bright, splendid. I. rii. VI. 3; z. XI. 3. Maize, L. z. VIII, 3: II, iv. III, 2; vi. UDSI 粢 C. E. S. Rice in the husk. II, ir, III, 1; v. II. μ_{II} L. (2) The knots or joints of plants. I. iii. 2. The belong. II. iv. VII. 1, 2. 2 6 HIE HOM HADICAL M 4775 The box of a carriage, or care, or care, 薬 Li in take one's own way. III, ii, Associated with El Lay V. 2: 'II. i. Eroze A double dute, IV. i. iii. YVII. 2. (2) 酴 fruits, sauces, see, at sacrinees and feasts, nintnoo of bosh cooding to local han nintnoo of bosh cooding to the contribute to th Z XI to IA A II summing to 1nd The Siere; the name of a constellation, בונטיו 1,554 It asked out of the mais it is the fast, It TI Puntu and in the state of TAI 7a 2.7 II bund out al gull out Zuive vouch 箕 elected they earling they are not the country are inn shunors off no broads and codinal for a strength south strength of south strength of the south strength of A flute L iii. XIII. a. to the resultation of the fields, III, iii, VII, 6, To divince by the reads or milloid, L. v. J. diolin to abyr the reads or milloid, L. v. 2.2.5 17 認識 J. A. A. Lamisodel bar Suol an box Smidelt a to satisficate by 41077 XI [i] A kind of dute, IV, i. [i.] IX. 玆 TO SHOW ILLY AND THE BEAUTIFUL. 370.7 VIII. I (see 12): IV. L [iii] VI. div Al in A distant band A. 尽 ינטין 27 0.1 A [11] TAI Solid-mid only II MI TA T WELL ON TO THE THE CHANGE OF THE A A it ill in Ment of in for solid our me onen a trion our. 校63 The state of the country of the state of the A hair-pio, L. iv. III. 1. #$ colm wire to additional and III resigned to among the group of the A. All That I'm a mar Palitan M. despite 2 despite an about off to the content of then resident to beden to disch (1) The A Manual is the Manual Name of the All and the All £ ... 計 Ling III some out the III both out i7: • 3 A sate M. Matter to Antice to the Many A. 詩 anca in relative II, in IV, it III, is, ringerin. As A cleared bung williams to plant, Tall and Annual 2000 action of the state of the stat of sanachan to best . and not a during the form the transfer and another وجردا A A Andrea A Labolt or Manach of all 31 Littly VI. II. m. VI. 21 vin. L. 21. 1117 Land of the United St. V. T. H. B. N. B. A. A. 1,1 Area of the Late of IV. Lead. Man the MAX and The pear of the ang April 10 MAX in the property of the second s 3.50 1 All and such the Saturd with Solds and 37 BALLAM COMPANY OF MILL AND COMPANY toring and The Transferred A TALL THE STATE OF THE STATE OF 11 THE WAY TO The state of the s * 't.37 Autholia de desante Tell matter and the event and the first try Mid coming i Prophysical Prophysical States Lam phage rmamy As a claim to things to - 1 The question of the part out. ţij 17:5 1:12 II avoiden esse una S isvana ngy shatovavno asakmo pas

粺

翘

档 cire

糧

leang

釋就

涿

粉。

紬

tur

純

£., 22.72

淞2素。

索過游 ci.w

淵

Jun

総

組 tsvə

絶

聚心

綵

520

絲。

l-ēw

浸

裕

綏

SUY

綏

ويتأتر

經

I. x. V. 3. Brightly. II. i. V. 2. , descriptive of fine dresses. IL v.

Fine rice; = fine. III. iii. XI. 5.

Provisions,-for a journey. III. iii. V. 6.

粻 ciang 类《类》,descriptive of stones and rocks appearing in water. I. z. III. 3.

Millet used in sacrifice. dishes of millet. IV. iii. III. . 槽, large

(1) Provisons of grain,—for a journey. III. ii. VI. 1; taxes in kind,—in st. 5.

To wash grain. III. ii. I. 7.

THE 120TH RADICAL.

(1) Light-looking IV. i. [iii.] VI. 京门京门, descriptive of thin, woven shoes. Î. iz. Î. i: II. r. IX. 2. 糾

35 斜,一see 35. kčasu 紀

(1) To regulate II. v. X 6 (=regulators): III. i. IV. 5 and ii. VI. 4 (洞道) -bonds of government. III. iii. IV. 7. (2) Nooks in a hill. L xi. V. 2.

To bind; to be bound. II. iii. IV. 2; iv. V. 3: IV. iii. II.

約 3 ai 納 nak

To convey to. I xv. I. 7, 8. upon. III. iii. VI. 3 (出納王命) To report 其深, descriptive of robes as clean and bright. IV. i. [iii.] VII.

To be remiss,-in behaviour. II. vii-VIII. 3.

純東, to tie together. L ii. XII. 2

(1) Great; pure. II. vii. VI. 2: III. ii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [ii.] VIII.; [iii.] VIII.; ii. IV. S. (2) Singleness. IV. i. [i.] II. Woven silk-bands. I. iv. IX. 1.

(1) White. I. ii. VII. 1—3; iv. IX. 1—3; xiii; II. 1—3. White silk. I. viii. III. 1; x. III. 1, 2. ix. VI. 1—3. (2) Idly, for nothing. I.

To twist, I. xv. L 7.

To remove. I. iv. III. 3.

Percanial hemp. I. xii. IV. 2.

To continue. III. iii. II. 3 (one's succession of the past): IV. i. [iii.] II. iii. iii. masses.III.ii.IX.2 天初一∞天 沸震, a rope,—fastening a boar. IL vii. VIII. 5.

Braiding. I. ii. VII. 1.

ro (1) For ever. I. v. I. 1, 2; vi. VII. 1-3: clung IV. i. [ii.] II.(永終, to perpendite.) (2) -all Lviii. XL2(於日): IL v. IX 5; 而正言(終朝): IT. i 回正 (8) Anend. III. ii. III. 3; iii I. 1; and In the end. II, iv. VIII. 10. (3)  followed by 且, can hardly be translated; = 資子. Liii. III. 4: V. 1—3; XV. 1: II.i. V. 1; vii. IV. So, followed by 亲性. L vii. XVIII. 1, 四終然.Lir.U.2 (1)終 a hill of Ts in. I. xi. V. 1, 2. Woven silk bands, ribbons, I. iii, XIII. 2; iv. IX. 2; vii. IV. 1.

結 To tie. L xiii. II. 3 (道 流, to be in a 4763 collection of knots); xir. III. 1; xr. III. 4: II. ir. VIII. 8; viii. I. 3 (苑結) (1) To extinguish III. i. VII. S. Exceeding, very. II. iv. VIII. 10.

iscuch

Pure II ri. V. 2 (菜裔).

Silk; silken, of silk I. ii. VII. 1—3; XIII. 3; iii. II. 3; iv. IX. 1—3; v. IV. 1; xiv. III. 2; II. i. III. 3; III. iii. II. 9 (= silken string); IV. i. [iii.] IX.

Fine cloth, from the fibres of the doli-

To be remiss. IV. iii. IV. 4.

Thread, string. IV. ii. IV. 5.

Coarse cloth, from the fibres of the delichos. I. i. II. 2; iii. II. 4.

keik To comfort, to give repose to. L i. IV. 1: II. ii. V. 3; vi. V. 6; vii. II. 4; at al. 綏萬邦, there is peace throughout the myriad regions. IV. i. [iii.] IX.

descriptive of a fox solitary sivny and suspicious I. v. IX 1-3; viii. VI. 1.

In the phrase 綏葦. the feathery ornaments of a dag. III. iii. VIL 2.

To regulate, II. v. I. 4. Joined with , and meaning to plan, to map cut. II. vi. I.3; viii. X. 1; III. i. VIII. 1; iii.

(1) Green. I. iii. II. 1-3: v. I. 1-3: IV. ii. IV. 5. (2) King-grass, II. viii. II. Should be written with -11- at the top.

To be close. IL viii I. 2 德獨直如 题 類型 tobial round and round

1201 翭

String. I. zi. III. 3. ous. II. yii, IX. 3. scriptive of bruthers as kindly and gener-To be gentle, I. v. I. 3. 始始 如 …

Black, I. vii. I. 1-3: II. viii. I. 2.

The string-ends of a cap, I. viii. VI. 2.

Jugir out no 🗿 die notiew od bluod? To cover, or fit, with III, iii. II. 9.

A seam. I. ii. VII. 2.

field, IV. i. [iii.] V. (2) 篇 猫, to be an army, III. iii. IX. 5; of weeders in a VII. 1-3: III. i. III. 1; of the march of ing, continuous growth of creepers. L. vi. (I) 關 獨 descriptive of the spreadgo on in regular connection. III. iii. IX. 2. his ancestors. IV. iii. V. I. descendant, as in harmony with those of I's: Vbblied to institutions deeds of it A line or thread of connexion. IV. ii. IV.

glority. III. i. I. 4: IV. i. [i.] III.; VI.; [ii.] continuous and bright, to continue and have All together, meaning to be of attendants, = many attendants. Sir fill, a continuance To continue. small-looking. II. viii. VI. 1-3.

II. v. VL 3. 流声 和 descriptive of people babbling. ATT: [1117] TH'

A line, a cord. I. ii. XIII. 3.

To twine about, I. i. IV. 3,

Of the finest fabric. L. iv. III, 3,

Thin, undyed silk. I. vii. XIX. 1, 9.

To hang up, to suspend. I. ix. VI. 1—3: IA. i. [iii.] IA. II. IV. 5. To bind, to tie. I. xi. III. 3. Bands.

LixI. A seam. I. ii. VII. 3. To sew, to make.

A bride's sash, I. xv. III, 4.

To bind fast, III i. III. 5.

蒸滤 hunst

鄒 yns

綳 ie 經

瓣

นอทอบุ

淵

Gun.1

翷

nony 則

ຄາດຊວ 鰯

路海海湖

Aisi Aisi

น่าจาะรั

採

นอวูนเ

鯼

2617

紫彩

鄉 um

upary

器 yo,yo

IV. i. [ii.] IX. A rope. IV. i. [ii.] IX. To tether, -by the feet. II. iv. II. 1, 3: (1) To let go,—an arrow. I. vii. IV. 2. (2) = although. I. vii. XVII. I. 2. (3) To give indulgence to. III. ii. IX. 1—5.

> Seuen tached,-n purnsite, III. il. IX. 5. -ir yldarngoeni Ala Bli, ozarilig otli al round. I. z. V. 1-3. I. xx. II. 2. .To be bound tound and passages. ings to suit the exigency of different and we may give it many different meanness belongs to the usage of the term; II. 亦. VI. 4, and 康 業維松, III. i. VIII. 3. The fact is, a great indefinite-.矣魚辮熙.夢孔人於=== also the meaning of M, and; instancde taken as an initial particle. He gives The I. vii. XII. I, but here it may 翁不毋敢·姑玄千辦 grif so. He explains it also by I, instancobserve the rules, and All = 75, and But we may take all as a verd, = to 《順序玄鹃》順聯玄開 stauces, II, iii, III. 2, 民物 匹聽 that it sometimes — 🗐 , to have, and in-may be thus construed; but in the line 加加加热性乳糖何加維 問雖舊那其你舊期間 LLL 86. LL 在工程,以上,在 surpe. times it has the force of the copula, as in we cannot thus construe it. (3) Some-About 200 times. (1) To tie,—by the collar. II. iv. II. 3. To hold together, iv. III. iv. YII. 3; vii. VIII. 5: 3; vii. VIII. 5: 3; vii. VIII. 5: 3; vii. VIII. 2; 3; vii. VIII. 2; 11. v. VII. 2; 11. v. VII. 4; et al. Viben it has this meaning, it will be found generally at the beginning of lines, though it is often in that position when though it is often in that construe it. (3) Someweg cannot thus construe it. (3) Someweg cannot thus construe it. 쌾 hnl 礟 2:57 鱂

Grey, L vii, XIX. 1.

Ropes,—of straw. L. zv. I. 7.

A net. I. iii. XVIII. 3. the four quarters take you as their pactern or regulator. III. ii. VIII. 6. 縣盒式四 3, we have All alone. 1V. 5 (獨新). So ii. V. 4, dut in st. To give the law to, to regulate. III. i.

To be connected with, to be attached to, IV. iii. IV. 4.

To arrange, II. vill. IL. 3.

機が強い

Gunz

組

Guny

幽

71017.2

と

tsung

To unite together and tie up. In the phrase 網 角, to have the hair bound up in a knot, or in two knots. I. v. IV. 6; viii. VII. 3. To be all in one IV. iii. IV. 5. We have 類, in I. ii. VII. 3, meaning a joining of a garment; but the dict. would read here in the 1st tone.

績 tseih

fan

穆

ากซิเซ

織

織

che

繍

SPID

繩

shing

(1) To twist, to spin. I. xii. II. 2; xv. 3. (2) Meritorious services. III. i. X. The sphere of such services. IV. iii. V. 3.

To be abundant; numerous, manifold. II. iv. VIII. 1: III. ii. VI. 2: IV. i. [ii.] VII.

See 網.

To weave. III. iii. X 4. 織女, see 女.

For R, flags. II. iii. III. 4.

Embroidered. I. x. III. 2; xi. V. 2; xv. VI. 1.

(1) A line. II. viii. II. 3: III. i. III. 5 (a builder's line). (2) To continue. III. i. IX. 5. 繩淵, descriptive of uninterrupted succession. I. i. V. 2: III. iii. II. 6.

糙

紙 suh 殿山

縦

衎

釟

(1) 有釋, descriptive of trains of princes waiting on the king. II. iii. V. 4. 澤端, descriptive of horses keeping together in a carriage. IV. ii. I. 3. Repeatedly, ever. IV. i. [iii.] X. Name of a hill in Loo. IV. ii. IV. 7. (3) (4)Used for E; = from stage to stage III. iii. IX. 3.

To continue, II. i. IX. 1 (繼嗣): IV. i.[i.] IV.(繼序);[iii.] I.; II.

See 发

To continue. II. iv. V. 2: IV. i. [iii] VI. A joining ring. I. xi. III. 1.

To be attached to. I. i. IV. 1: II. ii. V. 3.

To continue, to keep up. I. xv. I. 4: III. i. II. 6; iii. V. 2; VI. 3; VII. 1; IV. ii. IV. tswan 1, 2 쐚凝,-see 紼.

THE 121st RADICAL. 缶

A vessel of earthenware. Beaten sometimes as an instrument of music. I. xii. I.

To splinter, I. xv. IV. 1-3,

絣 ping 罄 k iny 罍

luy

A pitcher, II. v. VIII. 3.

To be exhausted. II. v. VIII. 3. Entirely. II. i. VI. 2.

A vase, a jar. I. i. III. 2: II. v. VIII. 3: III. ii. VII. 2.

THE 122D RADICAL.

出 icang

(1) Not, to be without. III. i. VI. 2; iii. 图 施, to transgress, to go to II. 3, the utmost extent of what is not right. I. v. IV. 4; ix. III. 2: II. v. V. 8; VIII. 4: vii. V. 2, 3: III. ii. IX. 3. (2) To deceive, to deal deceitfully with. II. iv. VII. (3) = calamities. III. iii. X. 6.

Seldom, I. vii, IV, 3.

A fishing net. I. v. III. 4.

A rabbit-net. I. i. VII. 1-3.

A net. 罪氧, the net of crime. II. vi. III. 1: III. iii. X. 1; XI. 1.

A kind of net or snare. I. vi. VI. 2.

單單, descriptive of catching fish chaou by covering them with a basket. Il. ii.

Crime, offence. II. iv. IX. 7; X. 1, 6: v. III. 7; IV. 1; vi. III. 1; III. ii. X. 1, To give occasion for blame. III. ii. I. 8.

九 戢, a net made with nine bags or compartments for catching fish. I. xv VI. î.

To set, to arrange, IV. iii. I.

A simple trap or basket for catching fish. II. ii. III. 1—3; viii. IX. 3.

Sorrow, troubles. L. vi. VI. 1: II. iv. V. 9; v. III. 1.

A kind of net or trap. I. vi. VI. 3.

A fowler's net. I. vi. VI. I. To take with a spread-net. II. vii. II. 1.

A grisly bear. II. iv. V. 5, 6; v. 1X. 4: III. iii. VII. 5, 6.

THE 123b RADICAL. 羊

The sheep or goat. I. ii. VII. 1-3; vi-II. 1. 2; xv. I. 8: II. iv. VI. 1, 3; vi. V. 2: VIL 1 (接羊, victim rams): III. ii. I. 3; II. 1: [V. i. [i.] VII. (a ram); [iii.] 牂羊, a ewe. IL viii. IX. 3.

罕 han 眾 koo

置 tsëay

图 koo 學 foo 罩

yih

experience men, ter, II, iv. VIII, 5 (H. E.); an old man); iii, L 7 (R M) experience a men); IV. ii. III. 3. POL 17. erother descriptive of the feathers stion frayed and worm, I, xv. II, 4. old to grow old L iii. VI. 45 iv. III. 1; v. 45 vi. IV. i. [iii.] XI. (2) To open the mouth, to gape. II. v. IZ. 7. regulated—Ho belongs to this meaning.

IT i first to belong to this meaning. ¥ 7. VI i. II. i. III. i. IV. 7. THE 125TH RADICAL. * Concorn. I. viii. X. 8; xiii. I. 2. the addition of morning about with un-A feathered staff, carried by pantotheany about L. vii, V. I; VIII, I; IX. I, 2; with descriptive of parties moving 2011.7 descriptive of the rustling of 8 7 MIV ii MI saniw 隓 blowing gently. I. iii. X. 1: II. v. VII. 翼.Lii.III.8; and 斯翼.r. V.t. finany The east wind a descriptive of the east wind with the east wind. Focently), and III. 5; iii. VI. 9. So 穣 Will state VI. 3: IV. III. V. 5. To grow luxuriantly.
II. vi. V. I. To be prudent and careful; at to be reverent. III. i. I. 3: II. 8. II. 8. 2614 显 of the orderly, regular motion of horses in a chariot, II, i. VII, 5; iii, IV, 1; and of the piece, III, iii, IV, 1; and To be well ordered and adjusted, II, Vi. VI. 3; IV, iii, V, 5. To grow luxmenately ally in the Ske means wings, L. iii, III. I; VIII. 1: VIII. 1 II. 4; VIII. 5. (2) The state of the secretarion of ns THE 124TH RADICAL. M W 2; II. vii. II. 2; viii. V. 7. Tro. 2; xiv. I. 2; II. vii. II. 2; viii. V. 7. Tro. setre as wings to, to support. III. i. X. 8; ii. I. 2; vii. I. 2; viii. I. 3; viii. II. 3; Soup. III, iii, I. 6: IV. ii. IV. 4; iii. II. યાર્ક 鬒 and to spare; in a good sense. II. iv. Gupy dguous of the suld of the conors of hanging the conors of his (2) To be in a perilous state. novb 雌 99S 樹 (1) To be numerous, I. i. (1) To desire eagerly. III. i. VII. 5. L XV. II. 4. To be righteous or good; righteousness. 27,75 Trees fallen down. III. i. VII. 2. ILLL Tim La, 5. harmonious, to move in concert. I. Xi. Tro he richtsome and in threes, II, iii, VI. 3. 如前, (2) Used for the support. It vii. I. 3: III. i. X. 4; ii. X. iii. V. a the flord of mean creatures): II. iii. VI. i. iii. VI. i. iii. VI. i. iii. IV. i. iii. VI. i. iii. IV. i. ö.: IV. iii. IV. ii. ii. IV. ii. iii. IV. iii. IV. ii. iii. IV. ii. II. iii. IV. ii. III. iii. III. iii. III. iii. IV. iii. 7 TIIA : 2 'T 張 成) ā XI iii III : 5 X ; I II . 7 (1) A flock, a herd, I, iii. I. 4 (量人, .Il Me dy high, Joined with M o'T (1) unzy approxime of some white birds. III. i. uny 柳 guineselb of the glistening 3-A it MI mat h əį A lamb five mouths old. II. i. V. I. nony A kind of phensant of variegated Collicissoqui in = ; surod modiu 翟 ganor, ram, and at the same time young. linary Ind a 美童 TV Jiiv JI Jin III In In I Suirelibre of fings authoring in the wind. III. jii. III. 2. abont, II. i. II. 3, 4; ii. V. 4; of babbling The lamb or kid. Lil. VII. 1—3; vii. VII. 1—3; vii. 8. 1. 3; xv. VII. 1, 2; xiii. L. 1—3; vii. 8. 1. 00.y 媄 descriptive of birds flying orter is found only in the let Part. beautiful lady. I. zii. X. 1-3. The charnony To My about, backwards and forwards; to My quickly. II, vii, IX, 1: IV ii, III, A, there is the 子美 is spoken by a lady of her પગર,ત To clip. I. il. V. 1—3: IV. ii. IV. 3. 幽 husband. I. x. XI. 1-3. But in xii. VII. lover, (2) A pheusant-pictured robe. I. iv. III. 9. And the man of my admiration, I wan นออะรู made of pheasants' feathers. L. v. III. 3. the servens of a lady's carringe, iif Kik 111.1-3; IX, 1, 2; XX, 1, 2; ct sape. (1) A pheasant's feather. I. iii. XIII. 3. 4; XVII. 2, 3, iv. IV. 1—3; v. III. 2; vii. Admirables fines boantiful, I. iii. XIII. 1/107 867 King iii. V K Wild tribes in the west. IV.

耕

kăng

耗

haou

耘 yun 耜

s.ze 耦

gow

耳

(1) To have long life. Joined with 壽, tsi k-aou and generally expressive of a wish or prayer that one may have long life. I. xi. V. 2: II. ii. IX. 2; vi. V. 6; VI. 3; 胡考, aged. IV. i. [iii.] V. (2) A deceased father, but also used for ancestors generally. II. ii. VI. 5: III. iii. VI. 3; VII. 1: IV. i. [ii.] VII.; VIII.; [iii.] I.; II. (3) To strike,—as a bell. I. x. II. 2. (4) To complete. I. v. II. 1-3; II. ii. X. 2. Completed merit. III. iii. VIII. 6. (5) To examine. III. i. X. 7; iii. III. 8.

Pertaining to old age. III. ii. X. 4. To be 80 or 90 years old. III. iii. II. 11.

Between 50 and 60 times. Following other words, and making them into adjectives or participles. I. ii. XIV. 1, 2; iii. X. 6; iv. IX. 1—3; vi. I. 1—3; viii. IV. 1, 2; ix. V. 1, 2; et sape. 彼蒼者天 Thou azure Heaven there, meaning Thou Power which art above the azure heaven. I. ix. VI. 1-3. Sometimes it forms 壹者, once. II. v. V. 2. 今 adverbs. 者, 逝者, now, hereafter. I. zi. I. 2, 始者不如今, our former relations were not like the present. II. v.

The wizened face of age. II. ii. VII. 5: III. ii. II. 4: IV. iii. II.

To be 80 years of age. I. xi. I. 2.

Old. IV. ii. IV. 5,

To raise to supremacy. III. i. VII. 1. To bring about. IV. i. [ii.] X.

THE 126TH RADICAL. Ifn

m

Tieh

(1) A conjunction. And. I. iii. XVI. 1, 2, 3; XVII. 1; v. IV. 4: II. iv. II. 4; v. V. 6; VI. 7; et sape. III has an idiomatic usage, which can only be learned by practice, where we may translate it by and, but the whole sentence will not admit a literal rendering. I. iii, I. 5; II. iv. IX. 1, 2; vii. VI, 4: III. iii. III. 14: IV. ii IV. 4. (2) And yet, I, iv. VIII, 1-3: III, ii, 1X. 4. (3) = 15, and so it is that, II. i. IX. 4. (3) Makes adverbs, as if it were 如 or 兴, 1 ii. XII. 3; viii. VII. 3; XI. 1. (1) = 如1. as. like, I, iv, III, 2: II, viii. l. l. (5) Used for 汝, you. H. v. 11. 1; iii. 1. 3. (6) A final particle, I. via, 111, t = 3,

THE 127rn RADICAL,

To gather the earth about the roots of 耔 plants. II. vi. VII. 1. tsze

To plough, IV. i. [ii.] II.; [iii.] V.

To empty, to waste. III. iii. IV. 2.

To weed. II. vi. VII. 1; IV. i. [iii.] V.

The plough-share. IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI. = a plough. I. xv. I. 1: II. vi. VIII. 1.

A pair of ploughers, or husbandmen. IV. i. [ii.] II.; [iii.] V.

THE 128ru RADICAL. 且

(1) The ear. I. iii. XII. 4: II. iv. VI. 1; v. III. 8: III. iii. II. 10. 充耳,—sec 克·② 桊 耳,-sce 笨. ③ 耳 H, to be soft and pliant. IV. ii. IV. 3.

To be addicted to pleasure;—in a bad sense. I. v. IV. 3.

队队, descriptive of a person dis-

耿 kăng 聊 િલાગા

聘 pʻing

聞 wän

聞 wăn

憁

城 tsiung

耽

tan

turbed and restless. I. iii. I. 1. A particle, indicating purpose,—with some uncertainty. I. iii. XIV. 1; vii. XIX. 1, 2; ix. III. 2; xiii. II. 2, 3. In I. x. IV. 1, 2, it is a mere expletive.

To be wise. I. iii. VII. 2: II. iv. VIII. 5; IX. 6; v. I. 5; II. 2: IV. iii. V. 3(些 敬 Li 腔, his wisdom and reverent attention to affairs daily increased. 些 人 and 聖 alone, — sages. II. v. IV. 4:

ÍII. ii. X. 1; iii. III. 10. To inquire,—about one's family, when absent. II. i. VII. 2.

To hear. I. vi. VII. 3; x. III. 3: II. v. V. 3: III. i. VI. 4; iii. IV. 5.

A noise. II. iii. V. 8. To be heard; where the voice reaches to. II. iii. X. 2; viii. V. 5. To be famed. III. iii. V. 8. 今間, fame, III. i. I. 2; ii. VIII. 6;

iii. VIII. 6.

To hear, to have consciousness. I. vi. VI. 3. To be wise or intelligent. II. iv. I. 3: IV. i. [iii.] III.

Noise, sound I. viii. I. 1 (sound of flies). The voice. II. i. V. 1 (of a bird), and iii. X. 1, 2.; iii. V. 8 (a chamour of voices). The sound of belts. II. iii. VIII. 1. 2; vii. VIII. 2; vii. VIII. 1: of various 1. 2; vii. VIII. 2; IV. ii. III. 1; of various instruments. IV. i. [ii.] V. Fame. III. i. X. 1. Et al.

(1) Duties of office, HL iii, VL 6 (交 職, the king's duties). (2)= 主 and 肅 ynh

隼 tini)

athearm, H. iv, VI, 3.

ad of almog ni-gainmant en dal ni di evrig have those means abundantly. The diet. of Michael Lift X, 5, L5; and in L7 +40 HUREPHARER Z. (3) Apronouis (1) To nourish, to train, II, v. VIII. 63

The lungs, HI, iii, HI, 8 (IIII) Jak

zij. A. 3. A Austruzul ban vensb od or All IIII

See under

iii. 111. 16, Z. 4. Behind the back, H. iv. 1Z. 7: III. To be falsified, III, iii, HI W HI 12. the side. III, iii, I. 4. (4) To prevariente. 3n bun buidad-,einenhaire All fef (E) on the north, of a house, L v. VIII. L. ii. II. 4: IV. ii. IV. 5. (2) The back, or a wrinkled back;--a sign of longevity. III. (1) The back. In the phrase 7 11:

TOUS-HAGG. IV. I. [HI.] V.; VII. ili. XL 1, 2; xil. IX. 1: II. iv. X. 5. (3) exclumation of admiration, L iv. III. 2; xi. III. 2; II. iv. VIII. 8;-- an 湖縣 5; IV. 1-4; XI. I, 2; et sape. (2) How, why, what, I. iii. L. ABCT 3 About 50 times. (1) A dewlap, I. zv.

Posterity. III. ii. III. 6, 7.

iji, vii. 2 (3) A final particle. II. vii. L. I, 2; III. (2) = AH, to survey. III, ii, VI. 2, (1) Matually, together. II, iv, X, I; v, I, 5; iii, I, 5; vii, IX, I, (=nll) 2: III, i, III, 2; iii, II, 1–3; IV, II, 4; III, 5, 9; X, 5: IV, ii, II, 1–3; IV,

The fat of animals. III, ii. I. 7. Greace, ointment. I. v. III. 2. To grease. I. iii. XIV. 8: II. 7. V. 7. V. 5. ii. IX. 1. (3) = m, and yet. I. v. VI. I, 2, (1) To be able, I. ili, I. 5; IV. 1-4; iv. X. 2; vii. XII. 1, 2; x. VIII. 1-8; et supe. Ability. II. vii. VI. 2. (2) To help. III.

4. II. v. (5 1V. 8; v. II. 4. (1) = III, reason, II, iv, VIII. 6, (2) The sides. Fig. 111. i. The straps;—used in yoking horses. I. xi. III. i.

M. to be gentle, to be quiet. I. ii. Minced meat, IV. ii. IV. 4.

Dried flesh. III, ii. IV. 3,

Tripe, III, ii. II. 2,

บุหกิ 具 โดยมหุ 洲

6; IX, 4: III, iii, II, 1; III, 15, 10; XI, 5,0. .VI .7; 7 .XI .vi .II : 8-1 .I .x .I .do not) ance, to be determined by the considera--troquni terit off to en rebience of ,

THE 1597H RADICAL. 重

(1) Fresh shoots,--from a tree. L. i. X. 2; by suddenly, I. xv. III. 3. may be translated by-thereon, L. z. L. I., 6; II. 3; III. 2; III. 11. 2. Sometimes and $\frac{13}{36}$. II. 4. III. 2, 3; V. 5; III. i. I A partiele, interelnangeable with of nets carefully adjusted, I. i. VII. 1—1. 18. (5) The same combination,—descriptive of the sound of dying geose. I. x. y. VIII. 1—2: II. iii. VII. i. (6) The same combination,—swifty. I. ii. X. j. x. (7) To spread out. II. vi. V. 2, and IV. i. ii. J. VII. vi. V. 2, and IV. i. ii. J. VII. (6) mats). To alread out. III. i (10 mats). To display. IV. i. [i.] VIII. (6) mats). To display. IV. i. [i.] VIII. (6) withue). (2) Thus although; and so. III. i. III. 3; VI. 4. 5; iii. II. 4; V. 8; IV. i. [i.] VII. (8) VI. dised of an onset in battle, III. i. III. 3; VI. 3; VIII. ii. III. 3; VIII. 3; VIIII. 3; VIII. 3; VIIII. 3; VIII. 3; VIII. 3; VIIII. 3; of nets carefully adjusted. I. i. VII. 1to go torward). (4) 福利, descriptive advance. III. iii. III. 6 (南 心, a mind of a commander. II. viii. III. 4. (3) To things. 開 開, to be severe. Spoken the cold contracts and shrivels up all diet, explains this ease by and because 8; iii. VI. 4: IV. i. [ii.] VII. (2) To he severe. Spoken of cold L. xv. L. 8. The IV.LULTV. Also 葡萄; III.L.VI. (I) To be grave, or reverent, II, v. I. 5: 2. (2) Toil, diatress. I. iii. X. 6.

To begin, to found; the first, at first. III. i. I. 6,8; iii. VIII. 4: IV. i. [i.] III.; odoou [iii.] IV.; iii. III.

THE 130TH RADICAL,

three years old. I. viii. II. I. den of duty. IV. i. [iii.] III. (2) A boar (1) The shoulder. 仟 肩, the burkesen 目 a stream in Wei. I. iii, XIV. 4. (1) Fat; fatted, II. i. V. 2. (2) [[] 具 is) 别 The thighs, the upper part of the leg. L xr. L 5. 3 = knees, II. vii. VIII. 3. ony 别

. X. Lii, II. 2, 2, 4, III. 1, IX. 2, 4, vii, IX. 7, X. 2, 4, vii, IX. 7, X. 7, X. 1, X. 1 To be willing. I. iii. V. 2; x. X. I, 2:

9253 獓 yiəsi 脊 yəşy 湿

> 21/3 開

อื่นฐน 罪

> 1138 骨 uıfi

刨

007

開 pod

蕌 aloys

副

m,d 加

1.1 1111

SH

闡 1'wae XII. 3,

ьe

卿 ooj

目 tsze

致

臺tae

猱

稥

舄 seilī

舅kiew

(1) The calf of the leg. Used for LE to shelter. II. i. VII. 5: III. ii. I. 3. (2) To decay. II. v. X. 2.

The intestines. 肺腸, lungs and bowels. 有肺腸, he has a mind of his own. III. iii. III. 8.

(1) The belly. 腹心-see心. fuh (2) To hold in the embrace. II. v. VIII. 4. 膋 The fat. II. vi. VI. 5. lëaou

To make large. II. vii. VIII. 3.

рe kaou 膏

kaou

膚 joo

膠

膳

膍

Ointment. I. v. VIII. 2.

To anoint; to moisten and enrich. I. xiv. IV. 4: II. viii. III. 1. To be covered with ointment. I. xiii. I. 3.

(1) The skin. I.v. III. 2. (2) Admirable; great. I. xv. VII. 1, 2: II. iii. III. 3: III. i. I. 5.

(1) Glue. To act as glue. II. viii. IV. 3. (2) 膠膠, descriptive of the crowkëaou ing of a cock. I. vii. XVI. 2.

Cooked provisions. 膳夫, the chief cook. II. iv. IX. 4: III. iii. IV. 7.

(1) Substantial. 膴仕, to be in important offices. II. iv. VII. 4. (2) To be many. II. v. I. 5. (3) 膴 膴, to be fertile and beautiful. III. i. III. 3.

(1) The breast. Ornaments on the breast of a horse. II. iii. IV. 1: III. iii. V. 4; VII. 2. —on the front of a bowcase. I. xi. III. 3. (2) To oppose. IV. ii.

Minced. II. iii. III. 6.

Cheek. III. ii. II. 2.

I. xv. III. 2. See 果.

THE 131st RADICAL.

A servant. II. iv. VIII. 8 (臣僕); vi. I. 2. An officer, officers. III. iii. IX. 4: IV. i. [ii.] I. (臣 工); ii. III. 5.

Good, right. I. iii. VIII. 4; iv. VI. 2; X. 2: II. iv. IX. 1; X. 2; v. I. 1, 2: et supe. 有臧, to be all right. II. vii. III. 2. To be dexterous. I. viii. II. 3; XI. 1. To think good. I. vii. XX. 2.

(1) To oversee. I. iii. IV. 1: II. vi. III.

不顯亦臨, out of sight, he still felt under inspection. III. i. VI. 3. To come to; to help. I. xi. VI. 1—3: II. v. I. 6; II. 6: III. i. II. 7: IV. ii. IV. 2. (2) An engine of onfall ;-used in sieges. III.

THE 132D RADICAL.

About 70 times. (1) From,—used with reference to time, place, and person. I. ii. VII. 1—3; iii. IV. 3, 4; VII. 1, 2; XV. 1; v. IV. 4: xv. III. 1-4; et scepissime. 天, from Heaven's point of view. III. i. 自彼成康, considering how Ching and King...IV. i. [i.] IX. 大, 巨後, before and after. II. iv. VIII. 2: III. iii. X. 7. According as. III. iii. VIII. 5. (2) To use. I. x. VII. 1, 2. (3) Followed by other words as verbs, meaning self, of all persons and numbers;—myself, yourself, &c. II. vi. II. 1—3; III. 3; vii. X. 1, 2: III. ii. X. 6; iii. III. 8. XI. 5: IV. ii. III. 4: et al. (4) III. 8; XI. 5: IV. ii. III. 4; et al. (4) Naturally, as a matter of course thereby. III. i. I. 6; et al.

To be fragrant. III. ii. I. 8.

THE 183d RADICAL. 至

To come to, to arrive. Often followed 主 by 於 and 于. I. iv. X. 1; v. IV. 1; vi. II. 1; xi. V. 1, 2; xv. I. 1: III. 3: II. i. VI. 3; iii. III. 4; VIII. 1, 2, 3; et sæpe. 禮既至, when all the ceremonies have been performed. II. vii. VI. 2.

(1) To bring about. I. v. V. 1. To carry out. IV. ii. IV. 2. To attract. III. i. VII. 8 (see the dict. for a different meaning here). (2) To transmit or convey hats. II. ii. VII. 1; viii. I. 2.

To come to. I. iii.-XIV. 3: II. iv. X. 3; vii. X. 3: III. iii. IV. 1.

THE 134TH RADICAL.

To hull grain. III. ii. I. 7. chiung

(1) A shoe or slipper; the sole of a shoe. I. xv. VII. 1: II. iii. V. 4: III. iii. VII. 2. (2) Large-looking. IV. ii. IV. 9(有 舄).

A mother's brothers are called III. Hence 元 舅 = great uncle. HI. iii. V. 舅比=an uncle. I. xi. IX. 1, 2, 諸 見, the princes of other surnames than the king's, called by him his maternal III. 3.

shen 膴 1000

ying

膾 kwae

臣 chin skin

滅 tsung

隔 onat

瓣

บุบอู่บุ

nĥ

茁

#; civil. I. III. XIV. 12: IV. II. IV. 4; dance, A denoting military dancing, and 3; VI. 2, 3: IV. ii. II. I. To make postures to music, to dance. I. vii. IV. 1; viii. XI. 3; II. i. v. 8; vii. IV. The iron ends of an axle, and to fix those ends. L. iii, XIV. 3: II. vii. IV. 1.

THE 1377H RADICAL. 4

Title of IV. i. [iii.] XI. boat-men. II. v. IX. 4. To cross by a boat. I. iii. Z. 4. (2) To carry at the girdle. III. ii. VI. 2. of a ferry boat. I. iii. IX. 4. 5: III. i. II. 5; IV. 3. FF F, the master (1) A boat. I. iii. I. 1; XIX. 1, 9; iv. I. Viiv. V. 3; IV. III. II. 4; v. III. 4; v. V. 3; IV. III. III. 4; v. III. 4; v. V. 7; I

THE 138TH RADICAL.

To be hazardous, full of scheming and peril. II. v. V. I. 1:4.7.1(艱難):11.11.17.5. (3) ties. III. iii. II. 12. .VX .iii .I .qidebraH V. 2 (艱難). 艱難 to indict calami-(I) To be hard and difficult. II. viii. who have no conscience. II. vii. IX. 4. So, III. ii. IX. 1. 規 1—3; et al where A A = good men. I. zi, VI. husband. I. z. V. I; zi. III. 3. But elsev. IV. 1; vii. IV. 2; et sape. 良人, Good, I. iii. IV. 3; iv. V. 1, 2; IX. 1–

THE 139TH RADICAL.

7 TIA 7 TIII ff, not loudly proclaimed or pourtrayed. 以雪大不 2.111 ii. VI . Zibunld The looks. III. iii. VI. 2.

THE 1401D RADICAL. HIH

The name of a desert place, II. vi. III. I.

(1) To cut down, to reap. IV. L [ii.] L. To be orderly. II. v. L 5. oT (2) 3. (2) To 7. VIII. 3. (2) To 7. VIII. 3. (1) Mugwort. I. vi. VII. ii. VII. 5. vii. VII. 5. VII. ii. VII. 5. (2) To finish, to carry out. IV. i. [iii.] II. (2) To be finished. II. iii. VIII. 2. VIII. 2. (1) To 7. VII

> 71. 1—8. (3) For. I. vii. VIII. 2. (5) allow, to approve of. I. z. XII. 2. (5) give to. II. vii. IV. 3: III. i. VII. I. 計 規, with whom can I dwell? L. z. allow us to be with her. I. ii. XI. 2. ton bluow onla ,與 朱不 ZII. 2. M they must have allies, I. iii. with. II. vi. III. 4: IV. ii. IV. 5. More than 60 times. (1) And I. ii. Z. 1—8; iii. VI. 3; vii. XXI. 1, 2; xii. X. 1—8; II. v. III. 3; et sape. (2) Vith; to be with. I. iii. VI. 4; XII. 3; XIV. 1; v. IV. vith. I. iii. VI. 4; XII. 3; XIV. 1; v. IV. 3; vi. IV. 1, v. IV.

[], there rises rain. II. vi. VIII, 3. T_0 to begin, to take place. II. iii. IX. 3. To rise,—from bed or sleep. I. v. IV. 5; vii. VIII. 1; zi. III. 3; et al. To arise, ing and Tielding abundantly. II. vt. V. I. (2) HH H, descriptive of millet growcle of exclamation. IV. i. [ii.] VI.; iii. I. (I) ## Mind Minone. A parti-

To make one's chief object. III. iii. VIII. 1-3. To introduce, to commence. arise,—to a crisis. III. i. II. 7. To rise.
—in building, III. i. III. 6. 'To prosper.
II. i. VI. 3. 'To raise,—as forces, I. zi
VIII. 1—3. To introduce, to commence.

avad I tirid on a si orat, 學不順額 EL = to set spout ploughing. L. zv. L. J. ii. V. 5; vii. VL 1: III. iii. VI. 6. 操 To raise up; to lift. I. vii. IV. 1: II.

THE 1857H RADICAL.

ancient virtue).

(1) To rest in. L vii. VI. 1. (2) To stop. II. 7. V. 5. The tongue. II. iv. Z. 5; v. IZ. 7: III. iii. II. 6; VI. 3; Z. 3.

(1) To put away; to set aside, I. z. XI. 12° yii. YI. XII. 12° YII. 7; 71i. YI. 3 (to leave); III. iii. X. 5. (2) To let go;—in shooting, I. zi. II. 2; II. iii. Y. Yi. Yi. III. 3; II. 3; II. 3; II. 3; II. 3; II. 3; II. 3; III. 3;

L. ii. ZIL. 3 (新 雨): II. 7. III. 7: III. iii. VIII. 1; IZ. 3. (3) The name of certain darbarous States. IV. ii. IV. 5. (2) To be remiss; slowly, leisurely. (1) To unfold, to untie, I. zii, VIII. 1

THE ISCTH RADICAL, AN

The name of a plant;—one of the makracea. L. vii. IX. I, 2.

00Y5

帑 fipys

舌脑各脑各。 mzy

nəy

雷

билу

庾 nh

餡 unys

moyə 舟

นงวเส und 級

อนาลู_]

นอฐญ 頨

可

X

avb 艾

072,77]}

pung

heu 芭ki 芒

mang

支 等 季 於 本 於

芬瓜芮沙芸如芹品

芻 ts'oo

芼 maou

带

治带

施苑

荒蘭, the sparrow gourd. Probahwan bly a species of tylophora. I. v. VI. 1, 2.

(1) | descriptive of the luxuriant growth of grain. I. iv. X. 4; xiv. IV. 4: II. viii. III. 1. Of the growth of trees. III. i. IV. 1. (2) 有荒, descriptive of the long tails of foxes. II. viii. X. 4.

To make great, to honour and magnify. II. iv. V. 3.

The white millet. II. iii. IV. 1, 2: III. i. X. 8; ii. I. 6.

世世, to look large. IV. iii. III.; IV. 1.

To clear away grass. IV. i. [iii.] V.

美首, the ribgrass or plantago. I. i. VIII. 1—3.

A creeping grass, with a leaf like that of the bamboo, growing in low, marshy grounds and salt places, of which cattle are fond. Williams supposes it may be a kind of salsola, and I have called it so in the translation; but from the Japanese plates it is evidently one of the panicgrasses. II. i. I. 3.

苾芬, and 芬芬, to be fragrant.

II. vi. V. 4; VI. 6: III. ii. IV. 5.

(1) Name of a State. III. i. III. 9. (2) Name of a river. III. ii. VI. 6.

To be of a deep, rich colour. II. vi. X. 2; viii. IX. 1.

Cress, II. vii. VIII. 2: IV. ii. III. 1.

Grass;—for fuel. I. x. V. 2. fuel-gatherers. III. ii. X. 3. Grass; for forage. II. iv. II. 4.

To cook and present in sacrifice. I. i. I.

蔽芾, to be umbrageous. I. ii. V. 1— 3: II. iv. IV. 1.

Knee-covers. I. xiv. II. 1: II. iii. IV. 2: V. 4; iv. V. 8.

But in the single passage where it ococurs, it is pronounced wan. 有苑, to be beautiful or elegant. I. xi. III. 3.

Bent, gathered together. 我心苑 水上, the sorrow of my heart is inextricably bound. II. viii. I. 3.

The liquorice plant (?). I. iii. XIII. 4; x. XII. 1.

(1) A kind of pea. Appears in the Japanese plates as lathyrus maritimus. I. xii. VII. 1. (2) The bignonia grandiglora. II. viii. X. 1, 2.

苗 (1) Grain in the blade. I. vi. I.1; ix. VII. vegetables. II. iv. II. 1. (2) To hunt, a hunting expedition. II. iii. v. 3.

(1) Bushy. I. x. VIII. 1—3; xi. VII. 2, 3; xiv. IV. 1—3: II. i. II. 3, 4. (2) The root. IV. iii. IV. 6. Firmly rooted. II. iv. V. 1: III. iii. IX. 5. (3) Seed with the germ ready to burst. III. ii. I. 5. Seeds 苞 paou bursting up. III. ii. II. 1.

(1) If only. I. vi. II. 2 (expressing a wish). (2) 有示, readily. I. v. XII. kow 1-3. (3) To be of little importance. III. iii. II. 6.

崇 首,-see 崇.

(1) As to, II. iv. X. 1 (若此). (2) After adjectives, like,-ly, I. v. IV. 3; VIII. xi. 1: II. i. III. 4; vi. X. 3. (3) To accord with, to be in sympathy with. II. vi. VIII. 1: III. iii. VI. 2: IV. ii. IV. 7, 9. In III. iii. VI. 4, 若否=臧否, be they good or not.

(1) Bitter, to be bitter. I. iii. IX. 1; X. 勞苦, to 2; xv. III. 3: II. vi. III. 1. be full of toil and suffering. I. iii. VII. 3. (2) The sow-thistle. I. x. XII. 3.

(1) An ornament on a spear. I. vii. V. 1: IV. ii. IV. 5. On a jacket. I. vii. VI. 3. (2) =flowers, blossoms. I. vi. IX. 2; ix. II. 2. (3) Name of a gem-stone. I. viii. III. 3. (4) 荒 荒, descriptive of the clouds as light and brilliant. II. viii.

Hempseed. I. xv. I. 6.

Grass floating in the water. such grass hanging on a tree. III. iii. XI. 4.

(?) A kind of celery. II. i. I. 1.

芯芬,-see 芬.

(1) A screen,—of a carriage. I. v. III. 3; viii. X. 1. (1) To clear away. III. ii. I. 5. (3) Happiness. III. ii. VIII. 4. (4) 前, descriptive of vigorous action. III. i. VII. 8.

To grow strongly and abundantly. I. ii. XIV. 1, 2.

(1) To be flourishing; luxuriant, rank. II. ii. VII. 4; iv. V. 1; v. III. 2: IV. i. [iii.] VI. Luxuriance. II. i. vi. 6: III. iii. XI. 4. Used of wickedness;—to be rampant. II. iv. VII. 8. (2) To be skilful. I. viii. II. 2. (2) Used of the correls. ful. I. viii. II. 2. (3) Used of the cereals. III. ii. I. 5.

Water mallows. IV. ii. III. 3.

To halt in the open country, amid the grass. I. ii. V. 1.

A kind of grass, marked with white lines, and used to bind things with. I. ii. XI, 1, 2; xv. I, 7: II, viii. V. 1, 2.

苟

首。 若減

央 ying

pʻing

cha

茸 tseu 甘

芯 peih

茀

古 chah

茂 mow

茆 muou

浚 poh

2/1/1014

yuen

苑

答

ling

11 3; xiv. IV. 1: II. viii. III. 1: IV. i. [iii.]

A fine rush mat. II. iv. V. 5,

3 ' 4' AIII' 1' 3' The nater-southernwood, II, iii, II. Iuselesa, injurious, words, II. iv. VIII. 2. VII. 1, 2; II. 11. VIII. 2. Medhurst says-the mendow fescue, I. viii, Weeds;-plants injurious to the grain.

reverent, II. vi. V. 3. Here the dict. gives II.2: III. i. V. 6. (5) To be still and 英 英, descriptive of dense foliage, I. I. $\frac{1}{2} = the people would be settled. 真今頃.g.X.ii.III ni tuli (olquoq one to give settlenent to the (3) To settle, III, i, VII, 1 (1 ii. II. 1. (2) To determine, -as plans. II. times it marks the imperative,—as in. III. niako a strong affirmation. 糞 ban 非 莫 to. III. iii. V. 5; et al. R MI, there is nothing like, or equal nigher than a mountain); et sapissime. III. 8 (英高匪山, there is nothing Me no one knows my distress): II. v. 我欣莫) I.YZ; I.Z; I.IIV;(eeog non estimos routilon of , 來 莫 主 谟) Abont 70 times. (1) Not, no one; there is not. I. ii. VIII. 1—8 (not); iii. V. 2 appears as equisoclum or horsetail. I. ix. But in the Japanese plates, it sorrel. IV. 6. 其 版 to come late to maturity. III. iii. II. 10. (2) Perhaps a kind of ing to the end of the year or of a season.

I, x, I, ii, II, i VII, i vi, III, 2, 3; IV,

I, iii, II, 'I'o be late generally, III, iii. the pronunciation—mik.

vii. X. 1-3. % TII. iv. VIII. 7; 08 ii, III, iii To grow luxuriantly. II. v. III. 4; III.

Fields one year under cultivation. II. L. xii. IV. 3; II. viii. V. 1, 2. which its abres can be made into cordage. The white flowered rush steeped, after age. I. x. VI. 2; of luxuriant growth. II. age. I. x. VI. 2; of luxuriant growth. II. iii. II. 1—8.

III. i. VII. 2. Dead trunks of trees still standing.

-366 Edible herbs, Only in the name ing. III. ii. I. 2. To endure calamity or suffer-∵∭ = > ดเลกิ * 个) 8,1117 // 11, 14, 711, 8 (今) 3. H. vi. V. I. (2) Thatch. H. vi. VII. unary (1) The tribulus terrestris. I. iv. II. 1-

. H vil. 1-3; ct al. Used for H; 太大, this present time): III. i. III. 3; IX.

A descriptive of a banner, waving mat; -made of a tiger's skin. I. xi. III. L. X III an elegant A carringe mat. III 表表 brilliantly. III. i. 1X. 8.

My the mudder plant, I vil, XV. in the wind. IV. ii. III. I.

1. Maidder-dyed, I. vii, XIX, 2. (1) To receive, I. iii, I. 2. (2) To receive, I. iii, III, 4: IV, i. [ii, III, 4: IV, i.].

King or Ts'00. IV. ii. IV. 5; called 10 State of The State of (i) One of the nine provinces of Yu.

a species of duckweed. Pro-36, in IV, iii, V, 1, 2, 耳 插, n kind of locust. L. ii. III., 1: II. plains); v. III. 2; VII. 3; et al. (2) non,s; bably the lemma minor. I. i. I. 2, 3.

(1) Grass, plants. I. v. VIII, 4; vii. XX, 1, 2: II, ii. X, 2; iii. V. 2 (= grassy

II. v. VL. 5. (i) 直真 to be sorrowful. L VIII. 5.

(2) The soft and pliant, II. v. (1) 在歌, large beans, III. ii. I. 4. kinou Inpanese plates it is the-hollyhoek. ? the thorny mallows;—used for the flowers of the plant, I, xii, II, 3, in the

The sprouting white grass. I. iii. XVII. 17 5: III. iii. II. 9.

(2) To be desolate, to go to desolation.

III. iii. III. 7; XI. i. (3) To be large.

III. ii. VI. 5; iii. II. 3. (4) To cover.

I. ii. IV. 2. To overspread. IV. ii. IV. 6,

7. (5) To cultivate. IV. i. [i.] V. ดินกลบุ (I) To go to wild excess. I. x. I. 1-3. 9.7 3 ; v. III. 2.

The letus plant, or water lily. I. vii. X. $2 i \times ii$.

ing rush. I. vii. XIX. 2; xv. II. 3. (3) -19woft A (2) .11 .111 .iii .111 .evs w suo -moaiog, poitter, poison-6: 111, i, 111, 3. (1) ? the sowthistle. I. iii. X. 2; xv. I.

IV. II. IV. 3. The honorary title of a marquis of Loo. A kind of smartweed. IV. i. [iii.] VI.

幸 L xv. L 5. M Mind of locust, the spinner. K buranya

2/15

亚

00.7

紫 oy

而 mf

耿

班

点

Buny

Bury

[df oof 硴

out

坚

and 콼

圍

2217

郊

1253

灭

name of a State. III. i. II. 6. tails of fishes. II. vii. VII. 2. (2) The (1) 幸幸, descriptive of the long

災 须

you

00111

其

翠 นอลู:y 青

Eur,sz

帯

นอกห์

滅

茶 aps; 翠* 规 928}

72,46

葉

yeh

葍 fuk 葑

fung 著

choo

shin

葛

葦 wei

農品

葱

葵

kwei

葽

yaou

蒙

mung

浦 p'00

ching 兼kčen

蒼 hwa

To cause, to make. III. iii. III. 6. To have to do with. IV. i. [iii.] IV.

蓝苕, the flower of the lotus, I. xii, X. 3.

The violet (?) III. i. III. 3.

(1) The blooming of plants, flowers. I. i. VI. 1; ii. XIII. 1, 2; vii. IX. 1; X. 1.; xiii. III. 2: II. i. III. 1; IV. 1; VII. 4; 黍稷方華, the millets were in flower. II. i. VIII. 4. white flowering rush. II. viii. V. 1. (2) Name of a gemstone. I. viii. III. 1.

Probably a species of turnip. The Chinese call it the earth melon. I. iii, IX. 1.

麦美, descriptive of trees growing luxuriantly. III. ii. VIII. 9.

To pickle vegetables. II. vi. VI, 4.

A kind of rush or sedge. I. v. III. 4; vi. IX. 1.

The general name for pulse. I. xv. I. 6, 7: II. v. II. 3; vi. III. 3; vii. VIII. 1: III. ii. I. 4(主 菽, large beans): IV. ii. IV. 1.

To collect, to assemble. I. xii. VI. 2.

喜菜, the averrhoa Carambola. I. xiii. ch'ang III. 1-3. The editor of the Japanese plates says it is not found in his country.

? the orach. Williams calls it thesowthistle. II. ii. VII. 1. In II. iv. IX. 5, it is used for weeds, or the country overgrown with useless plants.

(1) 萋 and 萋萋, descriptive of luxuriant foliage. I. i. II. 1: II. i. IX. 2: III. ii. VIII. 9. (2) 裏重, descriptive of dense clouds. II. vi. VIII. 3. (3) 事美, descriptive of a few lines artistically drawn. II. v. VI. 1. (4) 有 草, to be reverent. IV. i. [ii.] IX.

To wither, II. v. VII. 3.

See 蓝.

A tough reed or sedge. hwan xv. I. 3: II. v. III. 4.

About 50 times. Ten thousand, myriads. I. xiv. III. 4, where, and in other places, we have 萬年, in a wish for the longevity of the king, &c. So 14 145. see in . 出 邦, the myriad States,=all the kingdom, II, iv, VII, 10; etal, 连良, all the people, 111, iii. 11, 6; et al. 萬福, all happiness, II. vii. VIII. 1: et al.

(1) Spoken of a tree shedding its leaves. 落 I. v. IV. 3, 4. (2) The beginning, the commencement,—of a reign. IV. i. [iii.] loh II.

> (1) A leaf, leaves. I. i. II. 1, 2; VI. 3; iii. IX. 1; v. IV. 3; VI. 2; et swpe. (2) An age, a period of time. IV. iii. IV. 7.

Pokeweed. II. iv. IV. 3.

Probably a species of the mustard plant. I. iii. X. 1; iv. IV. 3; x. XII. 3.

The space between the gate and the screen. I. viii. III. 1.

Mulberries. I. v. IV. 3.

Nearly 20 times. The dolichos tuberosus, of whose fibres cloth is made; of delichos. I. i. II. 1, 2; IV. 1—3; iii XII. 1; vi. VII. 1, 2, 3; VIII. 1; viii. VI. 2; et sæpe. A reed or rush. I. v. VII. 1; xv. I. 3:

II. v. III. 4: III. ii. II. 1. A rush. Said to be the name for the wei before it flowers. I. ii. XIV. 1; v. III.

Green as an onion. II. iii, IV. 2.

4; xi. IV. 1-3.

ts'ung (1) An edible plant. Medhurst calls it -alsine. Williams says—an esculent mallows, I. xv. I. 6. (2) Used for 揆, to measure, to determine. II. vii. VIII. 5: III. ii. X. v.

The polygala Japonica. I. xv. I. 4.

蒙 戎, descriptive of furs as frayed and worn. I. iii. XII. 3. cover,=to be worn over. I. iv. III. 3. To cover over,-to twine about. I. x. XI. 1, 蒙伐, a shield covered with, or pictured with feathers. I. xi. III. 8. (3) A hill in Loo. IV. ii. IV. 6.

(1) The bulrush or cat's-tail. I. xii X. 1—3: II. vii. VII. 3. (2) An edible rush. ? the sweet flag. III. iii. VII. 5. (3) Osiers. I. vi. IV. 3.

Firewood from small branches. II. iv. VI. 3; VIII. 4.

A kind of rush or sedge, I. xi, IV. 1-3.

Azure, the colour of the sky. 蒼天, ts any the azure heavens, but meaning Heaven, the Power above the sky. I. vi. I. 1—3; x. VIII. 1, 2, 3; xi. VI. 1-3; and see So, 管着, the Power in the azure vault. III. iii. III. 7. 产她, blue flies, I. viii. I. 1. 看着, descriptive of the greenness of rushes and sedges. I. xi. IV. 1.

The male southernwood, H. i. I. 2; v.

弃 ping han 重点

が一般 shuh

tsuy

湬

萬 wun

```
medou tempeuous manner. III. ili. II. II.
                                                                                                     (I) Descriptive of a con-
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 AT TOA
                                                                                                                                                         Stores. II, iv. IX. 6.
                                                                                             To lay up, to deposit. II. lil. L 1; viii.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 Guosi
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Valerian (vuleriana villosa). I. vii. XXI.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 瀬 Guvsj
                                                                                          -loyal; prompt in doing service. III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                             瓣
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                (2) Used for The to act as a fence. III.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              (I) Luxuriant, I. x. IV. I, 2 (著行).
                                                                                                                                                                                                                             uisz
                                                                                                              The indigo plane, II. viii. II. 3.
                                                                                   descriptive of the admirable of the Admirable quality of spirits. II. i. V. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                        淵 ·带 第-see 带
                                                                                                            growth of millet, II vi. VIII. I. descriptive of the luxuriant
                                                                                                                                                                                                                       nos
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          XIII
Xisa
Xisa
                                                                                                                                                                                                                     藇
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           Mistletoe. II. vii. III. l. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                        ə
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     ทอบภูว
                                                                                                        Shepherd's-purse. I. iii. X. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                               2. (2) And the descriptive of luxuriant vegetation. L. xiv. H. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         Southernwood, I. i. IX. 3.
                                                                        957 ioj
II
                                                                      -97R for Baird o'I'
                                                                                                                                                                                                                              (1) A kind of southernwood, II. v. VIII.
                                                                   2; x. XI. I, 2, sprend over. I. vii. XX. I,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   10.n
                                                                hwang by a cloud of inscets, L i. V. 2; viii. L 3, Of a crowd. III. i. III. h. V. 2; viii. L 3, 2118
                                                                                                                                                                                                                           To be without, III, ii. X, 5; iii, III, 3, descriptive of the noise made
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              unn
                                                                                                                                                                                                     继 \widetilde{\mathcal{F}}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                abject erentures. II. iv. VIII. 13.
                                                           pencent, this sense the dictionary gives the pro-anom to ovinginosob AR AR
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          42?iu
                                                      nancintion ts'gen.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                    (1) Culinniy vescendles. III. iii. VII.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         1/118
                                                                                                                                                                                                               Sunartwood, IV, L. [iii.] IV, VI. (素)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     猿
                                                       With an air of indifference, I. v. II, 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                          uəəsi
                                                                                                                                                                                          growing high and hirgo, II. ii. IX. 1-4; nonny
                                                                                                                                                                                                         stand to swiptive of plants.
                                                                                                                                                                                          0,.7
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  莲
                                                                                                                                                                                         W. W.
                                                                                                                                                                                                        To sow, to plant, L viii, VI. 3; x, VIII.
                                                                                                                                           1.7 00g
                                            I MY A.M. is M. ii. M. A. ii. M. J. M. I. VII. I 震
                                                                                                                                    8 X 4 '8
                                         I 'VI Sanboow mi-youn anology I'v
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                2
                                    ŊŢ.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       Motherwork I. vi. V. 1-3.
                                                                                                                                            IA[\eta\eta]
                                                                                                                                                                             nony
                                                                                                                                                                                                            II countries of abundant de validies
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         lin.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      排 il. XIV. 2; V. VIII. 2. (2)
                                                                                                                                                                                              I buin and entried about by the wind. I.
                                (1) An initial partiele, I. i. II. 3; iii. 2: II. iii. 5: IV. ii.
                                                                                                                                                                                          oan Ind annuolinasando bita a oldmosos
                                                                                                                                                                                          (1) s a species of artemisia. He flowers
                          Used for the grapes of Eund
                                                                                                                                                                        you iji!
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              泵 tive of the neighbing of horses. II. iii. V. 7.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       The dock II, by 2,
                                                                                                                  w_{L,XY,L,\mathcal{G}}
                        -qiaosob (1) (2)
                                                                                                                                                                                   A clonk of leaves for earrying off the 411.70
                     VIII. 2; Mr. IV. 2; II. II. IX. 1-1; vi.
                                                                                             _{3.1.51\,M.\,16.1M} win II in VL 2
                                                                                                                                                                                The divining plant, the millioil; -a species of the Addito, I. xiv. IV. 3.
                     (1) The oxtuil southernwood, L. vi.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             05
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        3.7
               (2) Tri (2) descriptive of the greatness nonis
                                                                                                                                                                             the force of a peridentine before the state-of God. Hi. iii. IIL L.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    ment which follows:
             casy and plane I. vill. VI. I, 2; X. 1-4, int Z in IL viil, III, 2, 3, They have en baor a lo scriptive of a road as be translated in It. iv. VIII. 5, 6.
                                                                                                                                                                       es a married and the son
                                                                                                                                                   Bunj
       The untile-foot fern,—edible, I, ii, III.
                                                                                                                                                 191
                                                                                                                                                                    Dan Alisas Raibhi solos do Saintiseasta ban Alisas Raibhi and La Lita L. Alisas Garaga and Alisas Caracter and Caracter an
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                For, Lix, L, 2,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              211.7
                                                                                            2: W & Z 8.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             To soundands to svingings of the standance of 43nzy
                                                                                                                                             Y://
                                                                                   TA T. Ting
                                                                                                                                                                               a collection of veschibles. Lill. Z. 5.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           21357 aol bosh in the franchist Land to the first to the formal and the first to the firs 194
                                                                                                                                             unf
                                                                                                                                                                                 E IV a distant horse out in sound maintain of the painting of the maintain of the land o 17.73
                                                                          CHIZESE CHVEYGLERS VZD PHRASES.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        111
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       1.17
```

none

นวกา 藺

unf

leu

suh

luy

yoh 藩

fan

sow

藹 gae 藻

tsaõu

藿 ìoh

t'oh

蘇

500

蘊

wăn

蘋 nin

nëeh

lüen

fan

蘭

lan

Descriptive of a temple grand-looking. III. iii. V. 4. (3) Descriptive of Heaven as mysterious. III. iii. X. 7. The dict. gives the pronunciation as moh.

Sce 女山·

The ox-lip. Medhurst calls it alsowater plantago. I. ix. II. 3.

A creeping plant. Probably a kind of dolichos. I. i. IV. 1-8; vi. VII. 1-8: III. i. V. 6.

(1) 勺藥, the small peony. I. vii. XXI. 1, 2. (2) To remedy. III. ii. X. 4. A fence. III, ii, X, 7.

A marshy preserve for game and fish. II. vii. IV. 1-3.

高高, to be numerous. III, ii, VIII.

Tussel pondweed. I. ii. IV. 1: II. vii. VII. 1—3: IV. ii. III. 2.

Bean sprouts. II. iv. II. 2.

Withered leaves. I. vii. XI. 1, 2; xv. I. 4 : II. iii. X. 1.

See 扶.

To be collected, accumulated. III. iii. 我心蘊結, my heart is IV. 2. fast bound, i.e., with sorrow. I. xiii. II. 3. A large kind of duckweed. I. ii. IV. 1.

Shoots from the stump of a tree. IV. iii. IV. 6.

A convolvulus. I. x. XI. 1, 2.

White southernwood. I. ii. II. 1, 2; xv. I. 2: II. i. VIII. 6.

女羅, the dodder. II. vii. III. 1, 2.

THE 141st RADICAL.

(1) The tiger. I. iii. XIII. 2; vii. IV. 1: 11. v. I. 6; VI. 6; viii. X. 3: III. iii. VII. 5. Tiger-like, III. iii. IX. 4: IV. ii. 111.5. 虎腹, a bow-case of tiger-skin. l. xi. III. 3. (2) A name. III. iii. VIII. 4, 6. So.鍼虎.1. xi. VI. 3.

(1) Rudeness, I. v. I. 3. To be rude, troublesome, III. iii. II. 11. (2) To oppress; oppression. II. iv. VIII. 11: III. ii. X. 1; iii. IV. 5. Oppressors, III. ii. IX.

The roaring of a tiger. III, iii. IX.4 (加克 加克 馬, a raging tiger). hëaou

虔kien 熄 chroo

To be reverential, reverentially. III. iii. VI. !: IV. iii. IV. 6 (有 虔); V. 6. (1) To dwell, to stay. I. ii. VIII. 3; iii. VI. 2; x. XI. 1; xv. I. 5; VI. 2; et sæpe. 不古處, not to follow the old way of living with another, or of treating auother. I. iii. IV. 1. To abide permanently, to occupy a country. III. iii. IX. 2. 庞庞 to build and dwell. III. ii. VI. 3. To rest, i. e., in enjoyment, doing nothing. I. iii. XII. 2: II. iv. X. 5; vi. III. 4; et al. =to sit;-associated with 殿 or 居. II. i. II. 2; VII. 3; iv. V. 2. = prosperity. II. ii. IX. 1: vi. X. 1. Perhaps 方 should be thus taken, = possessing her prosperity, in II. iv. IX. 4. The diction-construe differently. I. iii. XIII. 1, would be a case in point. (1) 其虛其邪-is it a time for delay? hi is taken as being descriptive of forbearing. I. iii. XVI. 1-3. (2) Ruins. Here the dict. gives the 2d I. iv. VI. 2.

ary takes no notice of these different meanings or applications of the term. (2) To stop, to repress one's self. I. ii.

XI 3. —The dictionary under 虚, a place, adduces I. iii. VI. 3, which I must Captives. III. iii. IX. 4.

(1) To estimate. III. i. I. 7; iii. II. 5 (2) To be (不 虞, not provided for). anxious. IV. ii. IV. 2. To sympathize with. III. iii. IV. 6. (3) The name of a State. III. i. III. 9. (4) 關膜, acertain monstrous animal;—an emblem of a benevolent ruler. I. ii. XIV. 1, 2.

To cry out; to appeal to. I. ix. VII. 3: II. iv. VIII. 6 (= to proclaim); vi. I. 5; vii. VI. 4: III. iii. I. 5.

The upright posts of a drum-frame. III. i. VIII. 3: IV. i. [ii.] V.

To fail, to wane. IV. ii. IV. 4.

THE 142D RADICAL.

To weary and confuse, III. iii, II. 8.

(1) A cobra. II. iv. V. 5, 6; VIII. 6. hëang (2)) 原真, descriptive of horses jaded. (3)) 迪, descriptive of the muttering of thunder. I. iii. V. 4.

狐 Isavu In the morning, I. xv. I. 8.

虛 heu

> 房。 虞

> > haou

虛

k eu

虧 k wei

虹

鸿 hieny

See 犹·

```
A, travellers. I. viii. X. 8, 4; et al. (2)
                                                               Ti bas . A Ti
                                                     oildurg and no answar od of TT TT) Service); et stepe.
                                                                                                                                               a Brasshopper. I. ii. III. l. VIII. 6.
                                                    道); ix. IV. 1-8
                                                    Altogether nearly 100 times. (I) To
                                                                                                                                                           I. 4. Probably, a kind of locust.
                                                                                                                                           添斯.1.1.7.1—8, and 斯螽.1.xv.
             •
                                                                                                                              виру
                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Gunya
                                                                                                                              Ñ
                                                                      THE 144TH RADICAL,
                                                                                                                                                                   A sting. IV. i. [iii.] IV.
                                                                                                                                       grain plants, II. vi. VIII. 2. leaves of Blood. II. iv. X. 7 (MIM); vi. VI. 5
                                                                                                                                                                                                              "野"。
"野"。
"野"。
"野"。 plants, II. vi. VIII. 2. M
                                                                                                                                     nings to trace the the the trace of grain
                                                                                                                        Yanau
                                                                                                                         M
                                                          THE 143D RADICAL.
                                                                                                                                                                 A cicada. III. iii. I. 6.
                                        tenure of burbarous tribes. III. iii. VII. 6.
                                                                                                                                                                                                              bub.,
                                                                                                                                                   A kind of clenda, I. v. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                                              帥
                                        (3) Lp<sup>6</sup>
                                                            4: IV. II. IV. 7 (電額)
                                                                                                                                To some descriptive of intelligence of the highest order. III. ii. III. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                            暴温
                                      II. III. IV. 4 (營 類); IX. 8: III. III. II.
                                      (1) The barbarous tribes of the south.
                                                                                                                                                                                                           Gunk
                                   The silk-worm. I. xv. I. 3: III. iii. X. 4 (the nonrishing of silk-worms).
                                                                                                                                                     The fritillary. I. iv. X. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                          幗 um
                                                                                                                                         it the carpenter beetle. I. v. III. 2.
                                                                                                                  蠻
                                                                                                                            Medhurst ealls
                                                                                                                                                                                                        Gumu
                                                                                                                                                                                                     "無過極過極過
                                                                                                                                                       direc-srub.
                                                                                                                 unsj
                                            To be pure, purified. II. i VI. 4,
                                                                                                               T.
                                                                                                             นอกอง
                                                                                                              no the drive osla noming
                                                                                                                                                                               .
如 098
                                                                                                           นกมรูร 訓 oog
                                                                                                                                                                                 shair oht
                             To be stupid, to be insolent. II, iii, IV.
                                                                                                            朝
                                                                                                                                                                             顶 208
                                                                                                                                                                                                     ŽĮ.
                                                                                                                                a rainbow, I. iv, VII. I.
                                                                                                         海 海
                                                                                                                                                                                                   Gun_j
                                                                                                                                 東瀛 the aphex, II. v. II. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                                   翀 ·酶 oog
                                                                                                          257
                         An insect frequenting mulberry trees,
                                                                                                        理
                                                                             r^{x_{E} \, IIF} \, r
                                                                                                     411.42
                                                                                                                                                An oft. It, iv. VIII. 6.
                                                                                                                   of My Benerated in the water, II. v. V. 8.
                                        A scorpion's tail. II. viil. I. 4.
                                                                                                      翻事 build some Vldridory, Probably some bind build anter and at the transment of Sing Chil
                              A fly, I, vili, I : II, vil. V. 1-3.
                                                                                                               The cleads or broad locust. I. v. I. 4.
                                                                                                                                                                                                yık
Aiy
                                                                                                                                                                                             獅 1114
                                                                                                                                                                                         nonz.,
                                                                                                                                     I. III. AX J. modu Zangove descriptive of enterpillars
                                                                                                                                                                                           鰤 裥
                 - aoj भा भूमि
                                                                          獅 005
                                                vours of grout heat. III.
                                                                                                                                                               師師 a coleopterous insect, an Used of birds. III. ili. III. IV. L. [iii.]
                                                                                                                                                                                          usnh
                                                                                                                                        L-1 A vix A momenta
                                                                                                                                                                                          间 dissima, I. ii. III. 1: III. b. VIII. 5. (2) chung kind of locast; -probably the locusta variation arof
                                                                                                                        A bee or wasp. IV, i. [iii.] IV.
                                                                                                                                                                                        砌
                                     (1) Inspects. L. viii. L. 3.
                                                                                                                                                                                      Euns
                                                                                                                    The silkworm moth. I. v. III, 2, 郯
                                                                                           胍
                                                                                                        19 M. a small spidor, I. xv. III. 2.
                                                                                                                                                                                       00
                                                                Sill ong
                                                                                                                                                                                    Nij
                                                                                                    sect found on the mulberry tree, Il. v. II.3.
                                                                                          1125
         题) g. ix (表面 hun 机 面).
                                                                                                   in and the institution of the fall in a factor of the fall of the 洲 nonys
      An insect which ents the roots of grain plants. IL vi. VIII, 2: III, iii, III, 7: X.
                                                                         (311)
                                                                                                                                                                                  脚
                                                                                                                                                                                 Q. ame
   a ni stoozni to ovitqirozob
                                                                                                                          A serpent, II, iv. V. 5, 6.
                                                                                                            ary gives the pronunciation as-c.
                                                                                                                                                                               hings 뾪 chustor, L' L V. R.
                                                                                                Il. v. IV. 5; where, however, the diction
                                                                                                                                                                               27
                                                                                               Possocson I. il. VII. 1-3. So, Ill'Elle
                                                         W 11
 Miss. the ericket. I. x. I. 1-3; xy.
                                                                                    111/3
                                                                                   1/3
                                                                                             Mos aniod stono to ovitetives ob Alli F
                                                                                   4115
892
                                                                                           MA Lambool-oldmis od ot Mi Mi
                                           CHIZESE CHARACTERS AND PHRASES.
                                                                                                                                                                           淵
                                                                                                                                                       INDEX III
```

yrys

衾kin

浴kin

袍 paou

袢 fun

袪

裹ぬ

裼

seih

裼 t'e

獝 pëen

褎

sëw 褎

猲

hoh

行 hang

行 yen

衎 k'an

衝

衞

wei

衡

ch'ung

To go away; -meaning to leave her pa-- rents' house and be married; spoken of a lady. I. iii. XIV. 2; iv. VII. 1; v. V. 2; et al. (3) A way, a road. I. ii. VI. 1; III. ii. II. 1; et al. The paths of the sun and moon. II. iv. IX. 2. The pools gathered upon the roads. I. ii. IV. 1: III. ii. VII. 1-3. (4) To do; doings. I. v. IV. 4. (5) A row, a rank. I. vii. IV. 2; x. VIII. 3: 111. iii. IX. 2; et al. (6) 公介 the marshaller of chariots. I. ix. II. 2. (7) 作 行, a name. I. xi. VI. 2. (8) 宵 行,—see 宵. The dict. makes a distinction between the pronunciation and tone of (1)—(3) and of (4)—(8); but the She itself does not.

Action's, conduct. I. iii. VIII. 4: II. vii. IV. 5: III. iii. II. 2: IV. i. [iii.] III.

有犯,to Abundant. I. x. IV. 1, 2. be abundant. II. i. V. 3. 消失不行, to be dissolute. III. ii. X. 8.

To be joyful. II. ii. V. 2. To please. II. vii. VI. 2: IV. iii. I.

An engine for assault in sieges. III. i. VII. 7, 8.

The State of Wei. I. iii. XIV. 1; iv. X. 1; v. III. 1. Title of I. v.

The yoke of a carriage. II. iii. IV. 2; III. iii. VII. 2: IV. iii. I. 衡,—see 槅. (3) 阿 衡, name of an ancient statesman, or of his office. IV. iii. IV. 7.

Cross-wise. 'To plough crosswise. I. hwang viii, VI. 3 (從 質). Cross-laid, I. xii. III. 1.

THE 145rn RADICAL 衣.

Garments, clothes, robes. I. i. II. 3; iii. 衣 I. 5; II. 1; v. III. 1; vi. IX. 1, 2; vii. I. 1-3; x. II. 1; xi. VIII. 1-3; et sæpe. As opposed to 裳, 衣, denotes an upper robe, I. iii. II. 2; v. III. 1; vii. XIX. 1, 2; xi. V. 1; xv. VI. 1, 4. But in I. xi. V. 2 and xiii. II. 2, 😿 is used for a lower robe. In I. x. III. 1, 2, it means an inner garment. 衣裳 and 裳衣 together. I. xiv. I. 1; xv. III. 1. 顶, dresses. II. v. IX. 4. The same characters, in I. xiv. I. 2, are applied to the wing-cases of an ephemera.

To wear; to put on. I. v. III. 1; vii. XIV. 3, 4. To give to wear. II. iv. V. 8, 9.

Properly a name for the robes of the king, with their poculiar ornaments. And so in III, iii. VI. 6, we have it = royd. But in I. xv. VI. 1, 1, it sigrand-dncal; and = ducal (dragon-embroidered), in II. vii. VIII. 1: III. iii. VII. 2.

A coverlet, I. ii. X. 2; x. XI. 3.

The collar of a coat, I. vii. XVII, 1.

A long, quilted robe. I. xi. VIII. 1.

Long, hot garments. I. iv. III. 3.

(1) The cuff of a sleeve. I. vii. VII. 1; x. VII. 1. (2) 袪袪, descriptive of horses as stout. IV. ii. I. 4.

A head-dress, I. ii, II. 3.

To cover with, to invest. III. ii. III. 7.

To gather up the skirt. To place in the skirt. I. i. VIII. 3.

(1) Lining. I. iii. II. 1. (2) = thewomb. II. v. III. 3.

To be collected; to assemble. II. i. IV. 2: IV. i. [iii.] XI.; iii. V. 1.

To be abundant. II. vii. IX. 3 (有裕).

Fur garments. I. iii. XII 3; vii. VI. 1— 3; x. VII. 1, 2; xi. V. 1; xiii. I. 1, 2; xv. I. 4: II. v. IX. 4; viii. I. 1.

To supplement, III, iii, VI. 6.

A sheet for a bed. I. ii, X. 2.

(1) The lower garments. I. iii. II. 2; v. IX. 1; vii. XIII. 1, 2; ix. I. 1 (= clothes); x. II. 1; et al. 帷裳, the curtains of a lady's carriage. I. v. IV. 4. (2) 裳裳, descriptive of the splendour of flowers. II. vi. X. 1—3.

To wrap or bundle up, III. ii, VI. 1.

神神, having the upper part of the body bared. I. vii. IV. 1.

A plain wrapper, or swaddling cloth. II. iv. V. 9.

Narrow, contracted. I. ix. I. 2 (福心)

The cuff of a sleeve. I. x VII. 2.

(1) 髮如, the app. of being in full (2) Descriptive of dress. I. iii. XII. 4. grain springing up and growing long. 111. ii. I. 5.

Cloth of hair, I, xv. I, 1,

Used of a garment plain and unlined. L v. III. 1; vii. XIV. 3, 4.

k'eu 被 pe 被 p'e 結këeh 裏le 裒 pow 裕 yu 民 k'ëw 補 poo 禂 ch'ow 裳 shang making adverbs. II. v. IX. 1. vi. III. 3. (4) The name of a place, I. iii. XIV. 3. (3) = AF 頭 992-'晉國 squing 11: 1^{V} , III. 1^{V} , 2^{S} , 3^{S} , 3Pose 建: mq' 飌 improper words II. vii. VI. 5. $u_{l,s_{l}}$.鼠•••一·信 11. 8; XVIII. 1, 2; II. iii. IX, 3; iv. VII. 2; VIII. 1, 2; VIII. 1, 2; VIII. 1, 3; VIII. 騀 to talk, III. ii. VI. 8. A saying, words, and in 2, IV. II. II. VI. 9. A saying, words of an oracular response; vii. II. 8. X VIII. 1. 9. II. iii. IX. 8. iv. VII. II. 9. II. iii. IX. 8. iv. VII. 腻。 To appear defore. IV. i. [ii.] VIII, zi. I. 1-8; et sæpe. To feel. II. vii. IX. 7,8. 1, 2; XVIII. 3; vIII, VII. 3; X. V. 1-3; A SEED ZVII. 1; V. IV. 9; VI. VIII. 1-8; vii. Z. I; xii, IV, 3; II, IX, 4; et al. To see. I. i. X. I. 2; ii. III. 1-3; iii. Wearly 150 times. (1) To talk, to converse, to say. I. v. H. I. IV. 2, 6; vii. XI. *યરફ.*યુ THE 147TH RADICAL. 眉 นอกิ 르 THE 149TH RADICAL. 運運一號 A spike for loosening knots;—carried 要者 when the back is turned. at the girdle, I. v. VI. I. M. iii. M. hnay r. L. i: III. iII. II. 9, 11; III. 10, 13; X. 黝 in the continuity. If it is it it if it of water issuing from a spring. II. vii. II. vii. VIII. 2: III. iii. X. 7. yanay evily descriptive (2) To cover, to overspread. III, ii, I. 3. M 獹 (1) Fig. descriptive of the wind as nol cold L xv. L L. 疆 vii. I. 4: IV. i. [iii.] VII. Applied to a bow strongly bent. IV. ii. III. 7. Sharp, II, vi. VIII. 1. you uoh = to be long. III. ii. I. 3. 魯 To extend, to spread. L. II. 1, 2: III. 追 The west; western; to the west; in the west, iii, XIII. 4; iv. VII. 2; xiii. IV. 3; 6, 7; vi. III. 1; III. 1; III. 2; viii. VIII. 3; iv. V. 9; v. IX. 1; v. V. 9; v. V. 1; v. V. 9; v. V. IX. 1; v. V. 9; v. V. 1; A drinking vessel, made of a rhinokwang 4: IV. I. [iii.] VII. 3; XV. I. 8: II. vii. I.

A drinking vessel, made of a rhinokwang 4: IV. I. [iii.] VII. To be long and curved. iii. L. 6. uD,7 ma..y 直 ii. VL 4; VII. I. IV. i. [iii.] IX. i. IV. 4 nonf 瓷 is a child, I. viii. VII. 8. So Kill as is self in the bound of the self in th ənzy The west; mestern; to the west; in the grant 詉 (2) The hair gathered into tuffs, 36  171 THE 146TH RADICAL, The collar worn with a sacrificial robe. $\Gamma \times \Pi \Gamma \Gamma$ THE 148TH RADICAL. F yod 邈 To tuck up. L i. VIIL. 3. 2; viii, II, 4; III, i. VII, i (医自己); X. iii, III, i. yəəy 游 To see, to look at; to inspect. I. iv. VI. uv_{ij} (K) 008 倒 An apron. II. viii. II. 2. unny uz,ys Ŵ The collar of a coat. To fit the collar 酮 to a coat. L ix. L. l. To awake, I. vi. VI. 2. To be upright, III. iii. II. 2. nonny 極 $\underset{\text{constant}}{\text{2:}} \prod_{i} \underset{\text{constant}}{\text{VIII.}} \underset{\text{3:}}{\text{3:}} \underset{\text{4:}}{\text{2:}} \underset{\text{4:}}{\text{4:}} \underset{\text{5:}}{\text{4:}} \underset{\text{5:}}{\text{4:}} \underset{\text{6:}}{\text{4:}} \underset{\text{7:}}{\text{4:}} \underset{\text{7:}}{\text{7:}} \underset{\text{7:}}{\text{7:}} \underset{\text{7:}} \underset{\text{7:}}{\text{7:}} \underset{\text{7:}} \underset{\text{7:}} \underset{\text{7:}} \underset{\text{7:}} \underset{\text{7:}}{$ vi Al high lings and high, II, iv. Jogod. L. vii. IV. 2. ीत्र सुर्वे .ŭ. V (1) To remove, to clear away. L iv. II. To appear before—have an audience with—the king. III, iii, VII, 2. γουγ Τη Ιτ Gungs oliv of the wife Shing Yen, II. iv. VIII. 3. N. "!.y The name of a State, 597nond To hold the clothes up. I. vii. XIII. I, 2. N. CHIZESE CHVHYCLERS VZD LHHYSES. uəə.y

INDEX III

no.y

請 hwa詳

tsëang

詵 sin

詹chen

誓she

誕

t'an

誘 yëw

DH

yu

誠 shing

舗 sung

誨

hwuy

說

認 yueh

説

調 chow

調

諄

chun

談 t'an

諏 tseu 諒

leang

論 lun

諗 shin

疎ぶ説 t'ëaou

Æ.

言, to be high and large. III. i.

訊 sin

(1) To announce to, to admonish. I. xii. VI. 2: II. iv. X. 4. (2) To question. II. i. VIII. 6; iii. IV. 4; iv. VIII. 5; III. i. VII. 8 (菜訊, captives for the question).

訌 hung 訂 heu

go

訟 sung

酗

訪

fang

嗀 sheh

許

計學

訓

晋

詒

詛

1500

詢 seun

試

she 詩 sha 詭

wei

heung

To weary and confuse. III. iii. XI. 2.

(1) To be great, great. I. vii. XXI. 1, 2: I. iii. II. 2. (2) To cry loud. III. ii. I. III. iii. II. 2. 3. In this sense the dictionary gives the 計 pronunciation as-hoo. 型1, descriptive of rivers and lakes as large. III. iii. VII. 5. The dict. gives this in the

To teach, to be taught by; teachings.

(1) Baseless, idle. II. iii. IX. 3; iv. VIII. 1, 5. (2) To move about. II. iv. VI. 2. (3) To change. II. iv. VII. 10.

A trial, to come to trial. I. ii. VI. 3.

(1) To litigate. = judges. IV. ii. III. (2) Disorders, miseries. II. iv. VII. 1,

To set. I. xiii. XVIII. 3. To set in order. II. iii. I. 1—3; vii. VI. 1. To set up. II. i. VIII. 2; iii. V. 3: III. iii. VIII. 1: IV. i. [ii.] V.; iii. V. 3. 設席。

(1) The name of a State. I. iv. X. 3: vi. IV. 3. (2) A city and fields on the west of Loo. IV. ii. IV. 8. (3) A final particle. III. i. IX. 5.

青干 青干 descriptive of the sound made by many people using their strength at once. II. i. V. 2.

Descriptive of people defaming one another. II. v. I. 2: III. iii. XI. 2.

To revile, to speak evil of. III. iii. III.

3. To hand down. III. i. X. 8: IV. ii. II. 3.

To take measures with. III. i. VII. 7; ii. X. 3. 本前, to plan. II. i. III. 5. To use II. v. IX. 4: IV. ii. IV. 5. trained, disciplined. II. iii. IV. 1, 3.

An ode, a piece of poetry. II. v. VI. 7: III. ii. VIII. 10; iii. V. S.

Deceitful, wily. III, ii. IX. 1-5.

Words, speeches. III. ii. X. 1; iii. II. 5,

To narrate particularly. I. iv. II. 2.

部と 記述, the app. of being harmoniously collected. I. i. V. 1.

= ∰, to see. II. viii. II. 2: IV. ii. IV. 6.

To swear; an oath. I. v. IV. 6.

(1) To be widely separated. I. iii. XII (2) An initial particle. III. i. VII. 5; ii. 2—7.

To seduce. I. ii. XII. 1.

To discourse; to talk. I. xii. IV. 2: II. ii. IX. 1; iv. V. 2; vi. V. 3; vii. VI. 5. 語詩, to enter on deliberations. III. ii. VI. 3.

Truly, indeed. III. iii. V 6.

To croon over. III. iii. III. 13. A song. II. iv. VII. 10; V. 8; VI. 8.

To instruct, to train. II. v. II. 3; viii. VI. 1—3: III. iii. II. 11; III. 5; X. 3.

(1) One's word or promise. I. iii. VI. (2) To speak for, to atone for. I. v. IV. shwoh 3.

> = 悦, to be pleased. I. ii. III. 2; iii. XVII. 2: II. vii. III. 1; viii. I. 2.

> To stop, to halt. I. ii. V. 3; iv. VI. 3; v. III. 3; xii. IX. 2; xiv. I. 3.

shwuy Who. I. ii. IV. 3; VI. 2, 3; iii. X. 2; XIII. 4; iv. IV. 1—3; X. 6; v. VII. 1, 2; shwuy VIII. 2; IX. iii. I. 2; et sæpe. (2) An initial particle.誰昔=昔.I.xii.VI.1.

二重点 intense, repeated. I. i. X. 1.

To be mutually adjusted. II. iii. V. 5.

譚譚, repeatedly. III. iii. II. 11.

To speak, II. iv. VII. 1.

· 公 諏, to consult. II. i. III. 2.

(1) To understand, to sympathize with. I. iv. L 1, 2. (2) If indeed. II. v. V. 7.

Descriptive of the sounding in unison of musical instruments. III. i. VIII. 3, 4.

To announce. II. i. II. 5.

To admonish, to reprove. III. i. VI. 4; ii. IX. 5 ; X. 1.

To be trusted, to be relied on. III.

訓 III. iii. II. 2; VI. 2: IV. i. [i.] IV. heun 訛

訛 To be in error, I. iii. II, 3. yëw

To ask, to consult. IV. i. [iii.] II.

second mat is set. III. ii. II. 2

(1) To cause, to produce. I. iii. VIII. 1; X. 6: II. i. VL 5 (to give); iv. V. 9; vi. III.

To take an oath to. II. v. V. 7.

To read, = to recite. I. iv. II. 3. in a different tone. iii. VII. 5. The dict, gives this meaning

To reproach. I. iii, XV. 2.

To yield, to be humble. II, vii. 1X, 4, r' 5' 3' To shander; slanderous; slander. II. vii. X. IX. 3; vii. Y. IX. 3; vi IX. 3; vii. Y. (2) To be recompensed. III. iii. II. 6. (1) An enemy. I. iii. X. 5: II. iii. IV. 4.

THE 150TH RADICAL.

L. iii. Z. 1: II. v. VII. 1—3. impracticable, III. iii, III. 9. iii. III. 12. (2) 和 the east wind. (1) A valley. I. i. II. 1, 2; vi. V. 1—3; II. i. V. 1; iv. II. 4; IX. 3; v. II. 6: III.

THE 151sT RADICAL.

票 ir ur xiir i' six Ar i' si q 1-3: III. i. X. 8; iii. III. 14; et al; 五人 L r V 1 ru. ZV. 3; zui. L. III. ii. III. 4; iii. VII. 3; IV. ii. IV. 4. III. How. I. x. IX. 1, 2; zi. VIII. 1—3; II. iv. IX. 5; vii. III. 1—3; « « « V We have L Zr. V. 2: II. i. IV. 6: V. 3: vii. VL. I. 4: V. 3: III. ii. I. S. Associated with 3. sauces, &c., at eacrifices and feasts. II. vi. A ressel of wood for containing flesh, and 禁 !!. I. viii. Z. 12; II. ii. IX. 3; Z. 4; vii. V. 1; vvii. 2, III. i. v. 1, 2, 3, 5, 6; ii. viii. 1—3; viii. 1—6. Eartheonyare vessels, like the tote, to ·辨豈·床豈 enotications out syred To be happy, to be complacent. al; 豊 派 1. zit 111. 2, 3.

ir, VL 4: IV. I. [ii.] IV.; [iii.] IX.; iii. II. (2) Same of king Wan's capital. III. i. X. 2, 3, 4. Same of a stream near the capital, III. i. X. 5, 8. Fruitful;-in combination with A. II. (1) Luxuriant. II. ii. X. 2: III. ii. I. 5. hold soups at sacrifices and feasts. III. ii.

Beautiful. II. iv. X. 4.

2,10

霜

Suns

譶

Eup)

$

an.y 昌

召 buvl

噩

นบนุว

鷮

ດາດ,ນຸວ

聊

論 tsiñ

ynş 酮

THE 1250 RADICAL,

3 JV 33 A lear two years old. I. ii. XIV. 1: II. di All : (smine) & Ally dir Al Ziq A

> IV. I-L. which cannot be translated. I. iii. I. 5; vi. V. 5: III. iii. VII. 4. (2) A particle 6; IX. 1; iv. III. 2, 3; X. 2 (喬 客); (1) All; the mark of the plural. I iii. XIV. 1, 2; iii. III. 2: II. i. V. 2; iii. III.

Yes, to respond yes. IV. ii. IV. 7. ithe plant of forgetfulness).

(1) To speak, to say, to be said. I. ii. VI. I. 2; vi. IX. 3; VI. II. 2; vi. IX. 3; VI. II. 2; vi. IX. 3; 來創 表 講, you came to make proseek information and counsel. II. i. III. 3. 6: III. i. III. 3; Z. 8; et al. II. Iv. IX. 3; v. I. I, 2, 3, 4; VI. 2, 3, 4,

8: II. iv. YII. 1; et ak easily construed as = III. I. iii. XV. 1think); et al. (2) Before in iii ii most I mouly iv. II. 1, 2 (机 调, of whom I H, it was said to me, orders came to 罪): IIY.1-3(所謂): II.YII.1(罪

Name of a city. II. viii. III. 4: III. iii. make a mock of, III ii, Z, 4, 01、點點。68 v. L 3; vii. XXL 1, 2. To speak mockingly, to jest. I. iii. V. I;

Counsels, III. iii. IL 2.

To make cantions, III. ii. IX. 1—5. To de cautions, III. iii. II. 5.

consciously), iii, X, 4.

The name of a State, L v. III. 1.

As to be like. II. v. III. 4, 5: III. iii. II. 12 (an illustration).

to reprine, reproof, IL vi. III. 2, (eathernor levities existed tomarks). To think about II. iv. V. 9; vi. I. 6 omnis esimq estado estado estado T (1) IV 1. III. 2. VI fivil X. iv zi. XI fi II ivi. III. viqqen ed oT (2) AII Lifi i VI io

To forget, L v. I. 1, 2; II. 1; VIII. 4

To consult; counsels, L. iii, XIV, 1:

V. 2, 3, 6, 7.

To sing, I. ix. III. I.

To slander; slanderous. II. i7. X. 4; 7. VI. I, 2, 3, 4, 6: III. iii. III. 9; X. 4.

To know. III. i. VIL 7 (不識, un-

To remember. II. vii. VI. 5.

Descriptive or a name of and second and injured. As if there were of and second and injured. As if there were of and

ĸĩ

W.

2/33.7

THE

इ.स इ.स इ.स

un,

温

อขูว

諞

調品

1:123 齇

uĻģ

蓮

GOM

慕 neosi libis in in 删 yoay

ᆲ

1231 誾

arous

慕

ขอน

謂

uənəy

畿

貽

e

貿 mow

fun

pe貨加

賂

ぬ賄

hwuy

資 tsze

買 koo

賊 tsih

pin

賚 lae

賢lien

賦 joo

賃品

贅

chuy

贈 tsäng

膩 ying

赤 chile

赫

豜

图

pin

豵

tsung

豹 paou

豺 ch ae

hwan

貉

hoh

貊

mih

貍

le

貓 mëaou

貔 pe

pei

發於食 tan

kwan

ŢŢŢ iri

匹

第 (1) An elephant. IV. ii. III. 8(案 菌). sëang Used alone for ivory. I. iv. III. 1; ix. I. 2: II. i. VII. 5. (2) Pictured. I. iv. III. 1.

A boar three years old. I. xv. I. 4.

kien 豫 To be at ease, II, iv. II, 3 (逸 豫): yu III, ii. X, 8 (戲 豫).

Name of the State occupied by the ancestors of the House of Chow. I. xv., title. HI. ii. VI. 5, 6.

A pig one year old. I. ii. XIV. 2; xv. I. 4.

THE 1580 RADICAL.

The leopard or panther. I. vii. VI. 2; x. VII. 1, 2: III. iii. VII. 6.

The wolf, II. v. VI. 6.

The badger, I. ix. VI. 1.

The badger, I, xv. I. 4.

(1) A wild tribe in the north. III. iii. VII. 6. Apparently used for wild tribes in the south. IV. ii. IV. 7 (資質). (2) To grow up silently. III. i. VII. i.

A wild cat, I. xv. I. 4.

A wild cat, III. iii. VII. 5.

? the white fox. III. iii. VII. 6.

THE 154m RADICAL 貝.

A beautiful shell. 貝錦 shell-like embroidery. 貝胄, helmets adorned with shells. IV. ii IV. 5.

To carry on the back. II. iv. VI. 2: III. ii. I. 6. To carry away. II. v. II. 3.

To be poor; poverty. I. iii. XV. 1; v. IV. 4.

To covet, to desire, III. iii. III. 11, (貪人, a covetous man) 13.

(1) To go through. I. viii. XI. 3. To be strung on a string. II. v. V. 7. (2) To have to do with. I. ix. VII. 1—3.

To be double or changeable, I. v. IV, 4. To have doubts, III, i. II, 7: IV, ii, IV, 2.

To be degraded, III, iii, XI, 3,

To confer on, H. iii, I. I.

To present; a gift. I. iii. XVII. 2, 3; vi. X. 3; xii. II. 3: IV. i. [i.] X.

To barter for. I. v. IV. 1.

Large, III. i. VIII. 3.

Bright. 音妖, brightly. II. iv. II. 3.

To congratulate. III. i. IX. 6.

To contribute; money, or precious metals. IV. ii. III. S.

Wealth, substance. I. v. IV. 2.

A ground of dependance or help. III. iii. III. 3. — the necessary means of living. III. ii. X. 5.

A trader. I, iii, X. 5: III iii, X. 4.

(1) To injure, III. iii, II. 8 (不 版, doing nothing injurious to virtue). (2) A thief, a villain, II. v. X. 4 (多 版).

(2) Used in connexion with the and meaning specially insects that devour the joints of grain-plants. II. vi. VIII. 2: III. iii. III. 7: X. 1 (metaphorical); XI. 2 (metaphorical).

A guest. II. i. I. 1—3; ii. V. 1—4; iii. I. 1—3; VI. 4; vi. V. 3; VI. 3; vii. VI. 1—4: III. ii. II. 3.

To give to. II. vi. V. 4: IV. iii. II. Title of IV. i. [iii.] X.

(1) To be worthy;—endowed with talents and virtue. II. vi. I. 2. (2) Superior skill. III. ii. II. 3.

To diffuse, to spread abroad. III. iii. VI. 2, 3.

(1) To be simple and honest. II. i. VI. 5. (2) To appear before a court. III. i. III. 9. (3) To perfect. III. iii. II. 5.

Repeatedly, one after another. III. iii.

To give to; gifts. I. vii. VIII. 3; XXI. 1, 2; xi. IX. 1, 2: III. iii. V. 8; VII. 3.

To be left, III. iii. IV. 8(無贏, with no further ability remaining).

To redeem. I. xi. VI. 1-3.

THE 155rn RADICAL. 赤

Red. I. iii. XVI. 3; xiv. II. 1; xv. VIL 1: II. ii. V. 4; vii. VIII. 3; III. iii. VII. 2. 6.

(1) To be red. I. iii. XIII. 3. (2) To be commanding or awe-inspiring. I. v. I. 1, 2: III. i. VII. 1, 5: IV. iii. I. So 流流, with slight modifications of

4. To be strong. III. ii. V. 4: IV. ii. III.
2. To be martial. IV. i. [liii.] VIII.
To accond, to advance I. xi. IV. 2; xv.
II. 8: II. iv. V. 4: IV. iii. IV. 3. AOF IL' ally followed by F. I. zi. IX, 1: II, i. 257 Alone, but gener-M ii. II. ii. X would explain Les by A. 'Great,' 'loud), (2) A grand carriage. nopą.y M. a designation, III. ili, VII. 4, 5, VII. 2; ii. I. 3 (here the dictionary 翻 (2) A clan-name. II. iv. IX. 4. (3) So We sedulously. I. x. I. (1) To move. III. i. III. 9; ii. X. 2. To oppose. III. i. VII. ö. 10000 M (2) To travel over plains and hills. I. iv. M M descriptive of dancing. U. i. X.1. (数选). 2. I. IIV, 7Z. I. brawroft gnings of (1) unsi VII. 1: II. iv. V. 4. (2) Triangularly, the standard on tiptoe. I. Transgularly, T. 5. (2) Triangularly, (1) Tro a triangularly of (1) 齟 A hoof, II, viii. VIII, 3, 爾 lawless persons, people who will not walk 超。 in the proper path). up the toes, = to full a ploughing. I. xv. 和下, ili, II, ili, IX, 2 (不量) The foot, I. L. XI. L. 导剧, to lift 41087 酮 eye descriptive of general distress, II. To be enough I il VI 2: II. i. VI 2; 7 .IIY .vi 那 The feet or legs. II. v. III. 5. V. i. i. v. iii. J. v. iii. J. v. iii. J. v. ii. v. i To contract. III. iii. XI. 7. ynsz To be urgent. II. vi. 答 Ret the bottom of the character. THE 157TH RADICAL. Written also with ynsı 鄉 To walk daintily, with small steps. II, leaping about. I. ii. III. 1: II. i. VIII. ö. descriptive of grasshoppers iv. VIII. 6. yrası dignity of deportment, II. vi. V. 2: III. 腳 40% descriptive of the maintenance of 翻 To go on. Il. viii. VL. 2. To walk quickly. I. viii. XI. I. without loss of dignity. I. viii. XI. I. na.82 翻 He He, descriptive of quick walking of the royal stud. II, iv. IX. 4: III, iii. Guvəsi Tatentin director of the horse, master 볣 020,57 meaning is very uncertain. To be changeable, H. vii. X. I, 2. non 瑯 翝 To hasten to, III. i. IV. I. 712,57 To tread. III. ii. I. 7. arol 趣 To cut;—ns a noe cuts the ground. IV. S. and unbefriended. I. z. VI. I. Fig. descriptive of being solitary 潮 nove, ALE M. a compound particle I. xii, II. 3. 0 nay (2) = M. in. IV. i. [i.] I. (3) 鲥 To leap or pass over. I. vii. II. 1-3: II. iv. VIII. 10. (1) To transgress or go beyond, IV, iii, nh yənfi 御 he bed as level of a road as level and easy. II. v. III. 2. 皱 To rise. II. iii. IX. 2; vi. V. 5. 410,7 9,.7 ing perplexed. L. iii. XVIII. L. 細 strong-looking. I. i. VII. 1-3. making any progress, descriptive of be-政 or the the openiartial-looking, or The presting to walk without Oray 郵 0,70 HE to gallop one's horses, HI HI Gescriptive of reverent de-Tinini 矊 meanour, II. vi. V. 3. To run, to hurry. IV. i. [i.] I. (3 410,52 mosz To tread on. III. II. II. I 盟 L vii, XV, 3; xv. V. 8: II. i. V. 8. (2) 表 (1) The arranged in a row. THE 156TH RADICAL. นออูรา 麵 踊鼠, to leap about. I. iii. VI. 1. Bunk of the ruler's carringes. L. ix. II. I. Red pigment, I. iii. XIII. 3. hnys 魌 Anshiniendent 料 i where, the grand, however be taken. อีแรงรูว Red. L. i. X. 3. enraged at, to frighten. III, iii, III. 14. 5; VII. 3. In IV. ii. IV. 9 we have descriptive of intense heat. (3) To be 颜 VII. 4; III. IV. 1; vii VIII. 1; III. III. V. IV. II. IV. I; III. V. 5. In III. III. IV. 4. VIII. 8: III. I. II. I. II. I. 2; III. IX. I, 8:

00)

划 nə,y 骐 yod 例

躍 yoh

躍

teih

(1) To leap about. I. iii. VI. 1 (踊 混): III. i. V. 3; VIII. 2.

羅羅, to leap nimbly, II. v. IV. 4.

See 踟.

THE 158th RADICAL. 身

身

(1) One's person. In II. v. V. 3 it means the body or personal presence; and in I. xi. VI. 1—3, 人百其身—men would have given a hundred lives. In other passages it has a degree of moral meaning, nearly—personal character or duty. I. iii. III. 4: II. iv. V. 3: III. iii. VI. 4: IV. i. [iii.] II. (2) 有身一to become pregnant. III. i. II. 2.

The person. I. iii. X. 3; XI. 2; v. IV. 5; II. iv. VII. 4 (one's self); X. 5; v. III. 8; III. i. I. 7; iii. IV. 2; VI. 3; XI. 6.

THE 159rm RADICAL. 直

車

(1) About 60 times. A carriage, a chariot. I. ii. XIII. 1; iii. XII. 3; XIV. 3; XVI. 3; iv. IV. 2, 4; vi. IX. 1, 2; et sape. We have 路車, a grand chariot. I. xi. IX. 1; II. vii. VIII 1; et al. 戎車. a war-chariot. II. iii. III. 1; et al. 脂腐車, to grease your chariot, i. e., your chariot wheels. II. v. V. 5. 大車, a waggon. II. vi. II. 1—3. 核車. box carts; probably barrows. II. viii. X. 4. 我車, we drove our waggons. II. viii. III. 3. (2) 子車 a surname. I. xi. VI. 1—3. The dictionary here gives the pronunciation as chay.

The axle of a wheel, I. iii, IX. 2.

動に軍に呼

軪 naA

班

i-e

軷

1 -1.1

軸

An army, III. ii. VI. 5. 中軍, probably the general of the army, I. vii. V 3.

A carriage high in front. 如唯如 中 is used of the nice adjustment of war-chariots II. iii. III. 5.

The inner reins of the outside horses in a chariot. I. xi. 111. 2.

The nave of a wheel, III, iii, IV, 2; IV, iii, II,

To sacrifice to the Spirit of a road or path, III, ii, I, 7,

(1) To be self-collected, I. v. H. 3. (2) The name of a place between Wei and Chang, I. vii. V. 3.

更較, the carriage of a noble or high kësh minister at the royal court, with high sides. I. v. I. 3.

朝心載

塺

che

foo

釜 leen

lun

輯 tseih

輶 yēu 輸

shoo

鹝

/iuh

輾 chen

闽 yn

嬔

帽机

The end of a carriage pole sustaining the yoke, I. xi. III. 1.

Nearly 100 times. (1) To contain, or convey in a carriage. I. xi. II. 3: II. iii. III. 1; v. IX. 3; viii. VI. 1-3; et al. (2) To load carriages for a march. II. i. VIII. 1; IX. 4. To be loaded; and the load. II. iv. VIII. 9, 10. (3) To be contained; in a vessel. III. i. V. 4; iv. iii. II. (4) To fix bows in their frames. II. iii. I. 2. (5) In the phrase 載路, III. i. To fill. VII. 2; ii. I. 3. (6) = \blacksquare , to go to work. II. vi. VIII. 1: IV. i. [iii.] V.; VI. Doings. II. i. I. 7. (7) A year. III. i. II. 4. This is commonly in the 2d tone. (8) Its most frequent use is as a particle, which we can hardly translate, frequently repeated at the commencement of successive lines and of members of the same line. I. iii. VII. 4; XIV. 3: iv. IV. 2; viii. X. 1; xi. III. 3: II. i. II. 3, 4, 5; III. 2-5; VII. 2, 6; et sapissime. (8) = 11, to wear on the (9) To begin. I. head. IV. i. [iii.] VII. xv. I. 2, 3: 1V. ii. IV. 4.

A carriage low in front. See

To help; a help, IV. ii. IV. 2. Wheel-aids, II. iv. VIII. 9, 10.

A barrow or hand-carriage. To push along a barrow, II. viii, III. 2.

A wheel, I, ix, VI, 3.

To collect, to keep together: to be, and to make, harmonious. III. ii. VI. 1; X. i; iii. II. 7.

Light, I. xi. II. 3; III. iii. VI. 6.

To overturn, II. iv. VIII. 9, 10.

The spokes of a wheel. I. ix. VI. 2: II. iv. VIII. 10.

東真, to roll over half way. I. i. I. 2; xii. X, 3.

In the phrase 謹東, a beginning. I.

The place of a wheel where the spokes concentrate, I. xi. 111, 1.

To turn, to roll about (act.) L iii. L 3: II. iv. L 1—3; v. VII. 1. 東東東人—see 話話.

Reins, I. iii. XIII. 3; vii. IV. 1; viii. X. 2; xi. II. 1; III. 2; II. i. III. 2-5; vi. X. 3; vii. IV. 5; IV. ii. IV. 3.

บุออว J. D. 33: In altered fashion. I. iii. To alternate. પાગ III. iii. III. 111. 眂 THE 160TH RADICAL. To advance; -to official employment. ILL

อกแ 8; iii. IL. 3. 深 To go astray. II. iv. VII. 3: III. ii. X. บุทบุร reason. I. iii. IV. 4. 亚 To be in accordance with; -i. e., with

(1) To go back on the past; to repeat the past in the present. III. i. X. 3. (2) To escort; to overtake and feast. IV. i. [ii.] IX. (3) The name of a wild tribe in an orth. III. iii. VII. 6. appears as My. In the text the character wrongly 1. 4. 14. III. 1. III. 4. 7; ii. VI. 1, 2, 8,

1; zi. IX. 1, 2: II. vi. V. 5. 1—8; v. IV. 1; vii. IV. 2(送箭); XIV. To retire, to withdraw. I. ii. VII. 1—8; v. III. 3: II. iv. X. 4 (to withdraw from evil): III. iii. III. 9.

To escort. I. iii. III. 1, 8; X. 2; iv. IV.

To engrave, to work in gold. III. i. IV. 5.

To be rebellious, IV, ii, III, 7. meeting. I. vii. XX. 1, 2; x. V. 2. tatiesidentally; an accidental

To abscond; to hide, II, v. X. 7.

I. vii. V. 3; xiii. I. I. II. iv. II. 1. (1) A mate. I. i. I. I. (2) A place of gathering III. ii. IX. 2. กอออร to saunter about, to be at ease, novsz To do; to make. I. vi. VI. I. 2; vii. I. 2: III. i. ii. 5: IV. i. [iii.] VIII. (achieve-II. i. V. 2. To urge to. I. ii. VI. 2, 3. To invite. m. IV. 1, 2; 1x. VII. 1—3: III.iii. III. 5. 选为 = the time vill pass, by and by. I. zi. I. 2, 3. (2) An initial particle. I. are not to be east away. III. iii. II. 6. BDTOW 逝 IT 不言 HL II. VL 2. i. IX. 4; v. III. 8; V. 1-4; vii. IV. 1: I. iii. X. 3; XIX. 2; z. I. 2; xii. II. 3: II. (I) To go avay; to go to, to appreach.

III. iii. III. 4. To meet with. I. iii. I. 2; vi. VI. 1-3: nov,s; IV. i. [iii.] I.
(1) To go to. III. ii. VI. 4.
(2) To go to. III. ii. VI. 4.

= to prosper, to be established.

III. I. VII. 8. prisoners going on without interruption. 10 erutgen of the capture of sound of drums, III. i. VIII. 4. 套簿, descriptive of the harmonious

นอลู

運 hund

좛

Bunk

篆

歌

湿 yns

琢

948

亚

നൂ.ച

狠

狼 yıli

薻 atoy

湹

non, ब्रह

6uns

¥

fin, 習

fin2

哥

ໂກນຸວ 頂

อบน

郖

ments).

(1) A ruler, a prince. II. vii. I. 3: III. I; v. III. I; IV. I: III. iii. IV. I. Guilt, crime. II. iv. VIII. 3; IX. 7; X. (1) Bitter, painful. IV. i. [iii.] IV. (2) A calendaric stem character. II. iv. IX. 1.

時一聲. 時廊, a royal pavilion 民子, they appeared before our king). (2) 死) & .V .iii ;(王 鞀 ban) .IIIY ;.IIV AIL 1: IV.1. [L] IV. (路公); [LL] (知 自) s rv ; s rs ; t r m ; (知 LIV. 1, 2; VIII. 8; X. 6, 6; ii. V. 4(白

一流. To get out of the way. I. iz. I. 3. the justest words. II. iv. X. 3. ·言和 (4) Z. Z. Z. S. MIV . MI 25. MIV iii. I. 1. (3) — 图 , to open up. III. ii. 4. (2) = (译: Perversity. III. il. X. 6; (I) = $\frac{1}{2}$, to beat the breast. I iii. I. for archery. III. i. VIII. 3; X. 6.

Words, speeches. III. ii. X. 2.

THE 161sT RADICAL.

cultivated suburbs. I. v. III. 3. To cultivate the ground. To be disgraceful. I. iv. III. S. (* 111. v. III. 3.

At proper times, III, iii, II. 2; III. 4

(1) In season. I. zi. II. 2: II. vii. IV. 2.

and 農 A, husbandmen. I. zv. I. 6, 7:

THE 162D RADICAL.

II. vi. VII. 1—£: IV. i. [ii.] I.

To deceive. I. vii, XVIII. I. r [r] m: [ir] r To come to. III. ii. L. 8 ([]] IV.

6; IÝ. 4, 8. IŽ. 3. (2 (1) To be near. II. i. IX. 4: III. iii. I. IV. 4; St. 4: St. To associate with. III. ii. To go to meet, III, i. II. 5; iii, VIL. 4.

iii. IZ. 3; zv. II. 2 (英意): II. i. v. 3. Till; while, whenever, I. ii. IX. 1-3; 其. III. iii. V. 5. (2) Used as a particle, or ==

uny

T. Guik

M:

Guva

丢

บุเอนุ

bunu

鱟 ynt

┙

wys

灵

226

腦網

樜 yıə,d 拙 yıəd

拙 oox

室 uis

遠 yuen 溯

道 k'ëen

適為

```
逮
                                     To come up to. III. iii. III. 6. tae 進is 蓬 ki 漫 is 逸 ji
                        tae
                                To advance. Both transitive and intransitive. III. iii. III. 9; IX. 4.
                                  Where many ways meet. I. i. VII. 2.
                                 To keep at a distance. III. iii. II. 4.
                                (1) =佚, at ease. II. iv. II. 3(近 預). (2) To retire from the world. II.
                           iv. IX. 8. (3) 近, descriptive of an orderly, grave manner. II. vii. VI. 1.
                             To withdraw into retirement, II, iv. II.3.
                 tun
                        (1) And then, thereon. I. iii. XIV. 2:

II. vi. VIII. 4: IV. ii. IV. 6, 7; iii. IV. 2:

(2) To be conceited-like. I. v. VI. 1, 2:

(3) To be conceited-like. I. v. VI. 1, 2:
                         (3) To be complied with. I. v. IV. 5. (4)
                        To be equal to, to correspond to I. xiv.
                      II. 3. (5) To go forward;—to good. II. iv. X. 4. To make progress. IV. iii. IV.
                      1. (6) To prolong, to respond to. III. ii.
            造guy
                      Quickly; to hasten. I. iii. XIV. 3; iv. VIII. 3: II. v. IV. 2: III. iii. V. 6; VI. 8.
           週
                        To meet with. I. vi. V. 1, 2; vii. IX. 1,
                    2: II. v. IV. 4 (used impersonally).
                   To wander about. I. iii. I. 1; ziv. 4; x. X. 2; xi. II. 3; III. iii. VIII. 1; IX. 3 (to March in a straggling manner). 遊敖, to move about at ease. I. viii. X. L.
                (1) To pass by. I. v. II. 2. to come near. I. ii. XI. 3. (2) Name of a valley.
        過ぬ
                                                                             適tein 遏 goh
               (1) To repress. III. ii. IX. I—5: IV. i. i. I. 7. (2) To extinguish, to ruin. III.
                                                                           邁
                 (1). Far, distant. II. i. VI 2 (far-reaching); vii.II. 2 (long-continued). 遐棄, 遭 to abandon. I. i. X. 2; 遐心, the wish tsaou 遯 to abandon. II. iv. II. 4.
                                                                         tun
            what, how. II. ii. VII 4, 5; viii. IV. 4: 遲
           III. i. IV. 4; V. 3; IX. 6; iii. II. 7.
 To have leisure; leisurely. I. II. VIII. A. 3; iii. X. 3: II. i. II. 2—4; VIII. 1. 3; iii. X. 3: II. i. II. 2—4; VIII. 1. 3; II. 4; IX. 1; v. III. 4; v. V. 5; viii. VIII. 1. 3. To be idle, remiss. IV. iii. IV. 3. To ha collect, to consolidate. I. xv. IV. 3. To ha collected. Consolidate in IV. iii.
              To have leisure; leisurely. I ii. VIII.
         To be collected; concentrated, in. IV. iii.
        (1) A way, a road. I. iii. VIII. 3; X. 2; viii. II. 2; VI. 1, 2; X. 1—4; x. X. 1, 2; 道 遵
       xi. IV. 1—3; xii. I. 2; xiii. IV. 1, 2 (周 道); IL.I. I; VII. 6(行道); v.I.
                                                                   lsun
      3, 4; III. 2; VI. 7; IX. 1 (周道); viii.
                                                                 ts'een
      VI. 1; X 4: III. i III. 8 (行道); III.
     VII. 1: IV. ii. III. 3. (2) To tell. I. iv. II.
                                                                            To select, to point out. I. iii. I. 3: II.
    1. (3) Methods. III. ii. I. 5.
                                                                        iii. V. 3. Choice (adj.) I. viii. XI. 3.
                                                               senen
                                                                           A particle, = \exists | E | III. i. iX. i, 3.
```

(1) To be successful. IV. iii. IV. 2. 蓬 (2) Descriptive of grain springing from the earth. IV. i. [iii.] V.; and to this should be referred IV. iii. IV. 6. (3) A 達ta 挑達, to be dissipated. I. vii. XVII. 3. 遥 See 逍. yaou 違 To go away, to leave. I. ii. VIII. 1—
IV. iii. IV. 3. To be distant. II. iv. wei VII. 5. To go against. I. iii. X. 1. 遠 To be distant; distant; to extend far. I. iii. III. 1-3; VIII. 3; X. 2; iv. X. 2 (to forget); v. V. 1; VII. 1, 2; vii. XV. 1; viii. VII. 1, 2; x. IV. 1, 2; xv. I. 3; V. 2: II. yuen i. V. 3 (to be absent); et sæpe. to be kind to strangers. III. ii. IX. 1. 之子之遠, this man's sending me away. II. viii. V. 1. To leave. I. iii. XIV. 2: iv. VII. 1, 2; v. V. 2; vi. VI. 1-3. To go up, push back, to. III. ii. VI. 6. To go against. III. iii. III. 6. 遡洄 and 遡游,—see 洄 and 游. To send. III. iii. V. 5. (1) To come or go to. I. iii. XV. 2; vii. X. 1; XII. 3; XX. 1; IX. vii. 1-3; X. X. 1; XII. vii. 1-3; X. Y. II. 1. V. 2; v. X. 2; vi. V. II. 1. (2) To happen. II. i. V. 2. (1) The legitimate heir. III. i. II. 1. (2) To set the mind on. I. v. VIII. 2. To preside over. II. v. VI. 1, 6. To reprove. IV. iii. V. 3. To meet with. I. viii, II. 1—3: IV. i. [iii.] I. I. q. 遁, to retire, III. iii, IV. 5. (1) To rest, to enjoy one's leisure. I. xii. III. 1: II. vi. I. 4. (2) 遲遲, to lengthen gradually out; I. xv. I. 2: II. i. VIII. 6. To be long and tedious. II. i. VII. 6. Slowly; by sure and gradual process. I. iii. X. 2: IV. iii. IV. 3. be winding and tedious. III. i. II. 1. 追捧, to be late. IV. ii. IV. 3. To follow, to go along. I. i. X. 1, 2; vii. VII. 1, 2; xv. I. 2; VI. 2, 3. To act according to the case. IV. i. [iii.] VIII. To remove (trans, and intr.); to be removed to. I. v. IV. 2: II. i. V. I; iv. X. V. 3: IV. iii. V. 6.

骤回

Name of a principality. III, ii. I. 5. explained as descriptive of delay. line, meaning—There is no time for delay, I, iii, XVI, I—3. The word is I B H M un almost inexplicable ode. (2) 开州语, buskins, II. vii.YIII. 3. (1) To be deflected, to be depraved. IV. ii. I. I. But we must rend seu in the JII. iii. IV. iii. III. 那歲 the royal in IV. ii. IV. 8, in III. iii. VI. 4, but = our region and State States, = the kingdom. II. iv. VII. 10; vii.

The title of L. iii. The name of a State,

Name of a State, I. xiv. IV. 4.

Keeson III. IV. 2. Suburbs. I. iv. IX. 1; v. III. 3; ix. VIII. III. i. VIII. 2. Suburban-aliars. III. 3: II. i. VIII. 2.

To do wrong; error. II. vii. VI. 4.

III. V. G. of some gentleman in Ch'ing. I. vii. X. I. The name of a city in K'e-chow. III. iv. IX. 2. (5) 子都, the designation (4) The inner suburbs. I. I. vii. IX. î. (1) The capital, II. iv. X. 7; viii. I. I.-4: IV. iii. V. 3. (2) A large city. II. iv. IX. 6. (3) To be of an elegant carriage.

I. IV. I. The blossom of a tree fully opened. II.

A village. I. iv. IV. I (=delds): II. iii. IV. 2: IV. iii. V. I (=quarter). 一间, verging towards. II, iii. VIII, 3.

The title of I. iv. The name of a State.

ringes. I. zi. I. I. descriptive of the noise of ear-(1) Neighbours. II. iv. VIII. 12.

同 THE 164TH RADICAL,

The end, III, ii, VIII. 2.

国 uŋ

蠍

Gunh 瞓

Bungy

鄉 уоб

紭

23711

Ш

001 纵 ดาวูกิ

亚 unas

ग्रीट

12,d İH

217,7

ᆙ

22.25

业 fings

SIE

Bungy 摦

fice. III. i. I. 6. A partner, a wife. III. i. II. 6. i. VIII. 2. To be a worthy successor. III. i. I. 6; i. IX. l., 2. To accord with. III. i. I. 6; IX. 2. To be the correlate of. IV. i. [i.] X. To be a correlate, or assessor at sacri-(1) To pour out into a cup. I. i. III. 3, 8; III. ii. III. 4, 7 vii. VI. 2; IX. 5 (=to drink); viii. VI. 4; VII. 1—4; III. ii. II. 4; VI. 4; VII. 1—8 (=to lade out). (2) The title of IV. i. [iii.] VIII.

Alore than 60 times. Distilled spirits.
I. iii. I. 1: vii. III. 2; VIII. 2; x. II. 3; xv. I. 6, 8: II. i. I. 2, 3; IV. 6; V. 2, 3; xv. I. 6, 8: II. i. I. 2, 3;

ดารรา 崛 1;iv. III. 1—3. 我再供, my country 五 iii. II. 人 玄 濮 bas 人 濮 IV. 1; VI. IX. 4: III. L. VI. 2; et al. 12,4 State or the kingdom. II. ii. VII. I, 2; iv. 頭 and FFF, the State and its clans, = the royal State, or the kingdom. yoyə but in II. iii. IV. 4, 大 新 means the 堀 the ruling State of the time. I. iv. X. 4; ดาลูรา > through, IV. i. [i.] VIII. (4) M. M. (3) To make a royal progress by, to advance;—of time L. x. L. 2: II. v. 4: III. i. IV. 3: IV. ii. III. l. (2) To go II. iv. X. 3(行弧); v. I. 3 (id); viii. I. ZIV. 3; vi. l. 1−3 (∏ ∭); zii. ll 3: (1) To go a journey, to proceed. I. iii. countenance. II. vii. IX. 7. -eib or WT thing, II, v. VIII, 4. MI III, like an abandoned noburda of 3(子溫 half a man belt). (2) To reject, (I) To leave, II, iv. 1X. 6: III, iii, IV. To be left to, to be laid upon. I. iii. XY, 3.

ILALLE HURRING HURS HURS XUR

To be perverse, to be builir :(祖 贤) E. H. ii. I. mutor oT (1) ·武·峪

1V. 1—3-(A.); II. I. VIII. 6 (A.); II. III. III. IX. 6 (A.); I. II. II. IX. 6 (A.); IX. III. III. IX. 6 (A.); IX. III. III. IX. 6 (A.) To nimble-like, I. viii. II. I.

To return, II. v. V. 6.

regardlessly, IL viii. V. 5.

To be near; near, I. i. X. 3; iii. X. 2; vii. XV. 1; II. i. IX. 4; v. I. 4 (shallow words): III. ii. IX. 1.

띰 THE 1637H RADICAL,

To (1) A mound. I. xii. VII. 1, 2. (2) To Me troubled, to be distressed. II. v. I. I. I. I. 3. IV. 3. A city or town, I. zi. III. 2. A principal city or capital. III. i. X. 2: IV. iii. V. 5. O. inve or place one's capital. III. ii. V. 5.

A State, I. v. III. 1.

bund

涯

011 SIFE

Gury

SHE

Мų 囯

nry

Ħ

Wind The Control of t

uənəs

烝

อกวิห

瑶 rnu

涩

製

(2) 有 訓》 to be tranquil, II. vii. VIII. (1) Many. II. vii. I. 3 : IV. iii. I.

We have AFI, the great State, i. e., iv. III. 3; v. VIII. I; vir. VI. 2, 5. 81 sæpe. A country, a State. I. About 50 times.

and kin. II. iv. III. 1. 禹 邦, the myriad 野 yay

et sæpe. The phrase 白酒, good spirits, occurs several times; and especially 飲酒, to drink spirits, to feast. Sometimes the character is rendered bywine; but it denotes—spirits.

酢 tsoh (1) To present the return cup to the pledge cup. II. viii. VII. 3: III. ii. II. 1. (2) To recompense, to give in return. II. vi. V. 3.

站 koo

To buy spirits. II. i. V. 3. Spirits. IV. iii. II.

To offer a cup of spirits. II. vi. V. 3

To be stupified with spirits. II. iv. VII. 6.

ch'ing 醉 tsuy

To drink to the full; to be intoxicated. I. vi. I. 2: II. ii. X. 1: v. II. 2 (責任, to be devoted to drink); vi. V. 5, 6; vii. VI. 3, 4, 5: III. ii. III. 1, 2 (to give to drink to the full); iii. III. 13: IV. i. [i.] IX.; ii. II. 1, 2.

酸 tan 臨

hae

Brine. 西語 西語, the brine of meat minced small and pickled. III. ii. II. 2.

See above,

醴

New, sweet spirits. II. iii. VI. 4: III. ii. II. 4: IV. i. [ii.] IV.; [iii.] V.

Spoke Spok Spoke Spok Spoke Spoke Spoke Spok Spoke Spok Spok Spok Spok Spok Spok Spo

Spoken of spirits as being strong. III. ii. II. 4.

ris Lion To pledge, to drink to;—used of the 3d cup, from the host to his guests. II. iii. I. 3; iv. VII. 8; v. III. 7; vii. VI. 1; viii. VII. 4.

頭

To strain off wine. II. i. V. 2, 3.

THE 165TH BADICAL. 柔

About 60 times. (1) To gather, to pluck. I. i. I. 3; VIII. 1; ii. I. 1, 2; III. 2, 3; IV. 1; iii. X. 1; iv. IV. 1—3; ct sapissime. A. to keep gathering. I. i. III. I; VIII. 1—3. (2) A. to be variegated, to be splendidly adorned. I. xiv. I. 2. Spoken of the wings of an 釋 ephemera.

To louse. 釋期, to lay aside a quiver. I. vii. IV. 3.

THE 166TH RADICAL.

(1) A village; a place of residence. II. iv. IX. 8: III. iii. VII. 4. (2) The Chinese measure of distance, rather more than the third of an English mile. II. iii. III. 2: III. iii. III. 10; XI. 7: IV. i. [ii.] II.; iii. III. (3) To be plunged in sorrow. III. iii. IV. 7.

Heavy. [II. ii. IV. 7.

thung down. II. vi. II. 3. The dictionary, however, prefers reading this ch'ung, meaning , to involve.

(1) Two. IV. ii. IV. 5. See 1. Double, ch'ung one above the other. I. vii. V. 1, 2. One or more attached to another. I. viii. VIII. 2, 3.
(2) Used of grain sown early and ripening late. I. xv. I. 6: IV. ii. IV. 1.

(1) A wilderness; the uncultivated country. I. ii. XII. 1, 2; iii. III. 1: II. vi. III. I; viii. X. 3; et al. III. 1: II. vi. III. I; viii. X. 3; et al. III. 7. (2) Yet it must often be taken as the open country simply, away from the cities. I. xii. IX. 2; xv. I. 5; II. i. I. 1—3; iiii. VII. 1; et al. III. viii. VII. 1. In I. iv. X. 3, we have the yay covered with wheat. (3) A plain; level ground. III. ii. VI. 3: IV. ii. IV. 2.

To give. III. ii. III. 8; iii. VIII. 5: IV. i. [ii.] I.

THE 167TH RADICAL. 金

The general name for metal. Probably gold, I. v. I. 3: III. i. IV. 5. 南金, the southern metals;—gold, silver, and copper. IV. ii. III. 8. Gilded, ornamented with metal. I. i. III. 2: II. iii. V. 4: III. iii. VI. 2. To make rare as gold, II. iv. II. 4.

A pan, or boiler. I. ii. IV. 2; xiii. IV. 3.

To angle. I. ii. XIII. 3; v. V. 1: II. viii. II. 3, 4.

To be balanced. III. ii. II. 3.

Bells at the top of a flag-staff. IV. i. [ii.] VIII.

A battle-axe, IV. iii, IV. 6.

A hook. II. iii. IV. 1: III. iii. V. 4: VII. 2. 简 提, hooked grapplers, = scaling ladders. III. i. VII. 7.

A jingle, or instrument something like a bell, used to order the halt of an army. III. iii. IV. 3.

A sickle. IV. i. [ii.] I.

鉞yuèda

金

釜

foo

釣 iēaou 鈐

keun

鈴 ling

鉦 ching

銍

悶 pe . koh 閱

yueh

壨

yin

鱪

関

kıvei 闍

too

闔

tëen

(1) To shut, to repress. I. iv. X. 2. (2) Solemn. IV. ii. IV. 1.

署界, descriptive of building frames, one exactly over another. II. iv. V. 3.

(1) To bear, to be borne, with. I. iii. X. 3: II, v. III. 8. (2) = 57, a hole. 景, spoken of an ephemera bursting from its hole. I. xiv. I. 3.

A supporting wall, acting as a curtain to a gate. I. vii. XIX. 2.

To be separated; separation. I. iii. VI. kwoh 4 (契閣), 5.

To be at rest. II. iv. VII. 5.

A tower over the yin above. I. vii. XIX. 2.

置属, descriptive of the sound of the drums in recalling victorious troops. II. iii. IV. 3.

翮 (1) A look-out tower over a gate. I. kieueh vii. XVII. 3. (2) 有關, to be defective. III. iii. VI. 6.

關 kwan

皷

han

(1) 協協, the soft notes of ospreys calling to each other. I. i. I. 1. (2) 復 , a place or gate in Wei. I. v. IV. 2.

(3) 閒 閟,—see 閒.

To look enraged. III. iii. IX. 4.

The space between the gate and screen. I. viii. IV. 2.

THE 170th RADICAL. 卓

tow

灰 fun

沉 yuen 防

fang

囮

tsoo

(1) A large mountain mass. II. i. VI. 3. (2) Abundant, abundantly, on a great scale. I. vii. IV. 3: II. vii. III. 3. (3) Used of horses as being fat and large, in fine condition. I. xi. II. 1; III. 2: II. iii. V. 2; VI. 1. (4) 阜螽, a grasshopper. I. ii. III. 1: II. i. VIII. 5.

(1) A bank or shore. I. vii. XV. 1. (2) A hill-side. I. xi. I. 2, 3: II. i. V. 3. (3) (1) A bank or shore. I. vii. XV. 1. Rugged and stony. II. iv. VIII. 7(版用).

The name of a State. III. i. VII. 5, 6.

An embankment. I. xii. VII. 1. match for. I xi, VI. 2.

(1) To be difficult and dangerous. I. xi. IV. 1—3. Dangerous passes. IV. iii. V. (2) To be separated; separation. I. iii.
 VIII. 1. (3) To reject, to disclaim. I. iii.

(1) A large mound; a mountain. I. v. II. 2: II. iii. II. 1; iv. VI. 2; viii. VI. 1: III. i. VII. 6; ii. VIII. 1. 阿丘·n mound with one side high. I. iv. X. 3. (2) 有阿, to be beautiful, II, viii, IV.1—

3. (3) 所 順, the name of E Yin; the minister of Tang, or of his office. IV. iii. IV. 7.

A bank or shore. I, xii. X, 1-3.

陂 p'e 附 foo

胮

降

隆 chih

除

非除

ch'oo

陪 pei

陰湖 këang

To adhere to, to be added. II. vii. IX. 6: III. i. III. 9. To secure the adherence. 附庸, see 庸. III. i. VII. 8.

(1) To descend. I. iv. VI. 2: II. iv. VI. (1) To descend. 1. iv. V1. 2: II. iv. V1. 2; IX. 7: III. i. I. 1; ii. VI. 2; iii. X. 3: IV. i. [iii.] I.; II.; III.; iii. III.; IV. 3 (to be born); V. 4. (2) To send down. II. i. VI. 2: iv. VII. 5; X. 1: III. ii. I. 6 (=to give); iii. I. 2; III. 7; IV. 1; V. 1; X. 1, 6; XI. 1, 2: IV. i. [i.] IX.; [ii.] IX.; ii. IV. 1, 3; iii. II.; IV. 7. hëang

To submit; to become quiet, at rest. I. ii. III. 1; II. i. VIII. 5: III. i. V. 2; ii.

To ascend. I. i. III. 2-4; ii. III. 1, 2;

iv. X. 3; ix. IV. 1-3; II. i. IX. 3: III. i. I. 1 (防 隆); et sæpe.

To pass away. I. x. I. 1.

To take away;—in order to replace. II. i. VI. 1; vi. III. 2. To be kept away. II. iv. V. 3.

A near associate. III. iii. I. 4.

(1) To be cloudy; cloudiness, darkness. I. iii. V. 4; X. 1. | 全南, abundant, fertilizing rains. I. xiv. IV. 4; xv. II. 2: II. iv. VIII. 9. (2) Concealed, masked. I. xi, III. 1. (3) 险 陽, shade and the light. III. ii. VI. 5. (read yung), an ice-house, I. xv. I. 8.

To overshadow, — to do good to. III.

(1) To set forth, to arrange. II. i. V. 2; iii. IV. 3; III. iii. IX. 2 (to marshal). (2) To dispense, to give. III. i. I. 2. The line is a perplexing one. To diffuse. IV. i. [i.] X. (3) The name of a State. I. iii. VI. 2. Title of I. xii. (4) The path from the gate to the foot of the hall. II. v. V. 3. (5) Old stores of grain. II. vi. VII. 1. A large mound, a mountain-mass. II. i. VI. 3; iii. II. 3; IX. 3; iv. VIII. 5; IX. 1: III. i. VII. 6· IV. ii. IV. 4.

To make in the shape of a kiln. III. i.

To make in the shape of a kiln. III. i.

(1) 陌 陌, to look pleased. I. vi. III. The same meaning nearly suits. I. vii. V. 3, where the phrase is descriptive of the horses of a chariot prancing proudly; but the dictionary here gives the pronunciation as—taou. (2) 具 隔, one of Shun's ministers. IV. ii. III. 5

The land. I. xv. VI. 3. A level height I. v. II. 3.

隆 yin

陳 ch'in

iii. III. 14.

陵 ling 陶 t'aou

陶 yaou

शिग

陸

Guns

4

歉 II. and III. Portions of them are referred to in II. vi. IV. 4. M. and III. ากโร A M. A The titles of Parts Light A M. Line titles of Parts 业 keing I. viii. Vi. 1. The male of birds. I. iii. VIII. I, 2: II.

(3) To succeed, to be accomplished. II. v. vii. IV. 2. (2) To collect. II. vii. III. 3. -to be perched); et sape. III. 1-3; v. II. 6 (used metaphorically, and settling on trees. I. i. II. 1; z. VIII. 1—3: II. i. II. 3; 4; iii. IV. 3; VII. 2; iv. (1) To settle. Used of birds collecting

III, 5, To crow,—used of a pheasant. II. v. VI. 1-3: II. v. III. 5.

L 3; viii. III. 2, 3.

A pheasant. I. iii. VIII. 1, 2; IX. 2; vi.

The female of birds; but also used of bensts. II. iv. VI. 3; VIII. 5; v. III. 5.

mane, IV. ii, I. 3. Used of a black horse with a white 推 机。i. I. I. i. I. I. i. I. I. I.

•อสลาร วอ although, I. i. X. 8; ii. VI. 2, 3; v. VI. 1, 2; vii. VII. 2; 2; vii. XIX. 1, 2; II. I. IV. 5; iii. VII. 2; More than 20 times, 強能 and 錯情 則,

To be double and matched. I.

流. 化旗—see 化。 氰酰 dis-order and dispersion. II. v. X. 2. (2) To (1) To be dispersed. 流 雕-see worn at the girdle-pendant L. vil. VIII. S. Mixed. 聚焦 两, the various ornaments อินออกบุร A pair. 9.

hanging down. II. ii. X. 4. heads of millet, I. ri. I. I-3; of fruit (5) 預售 函售, descriptive of the drooping viii. VIII. 3. (3) To leave. II. iv. X. 2. = High to pass through II. vi. III. 1; vi. VI. 1-3. To be in. II. v. III. 3. (3) meet with, to fall into. L iii. XVIII. 3;

III ! AI 8 : IA ! [II] AII: of bells. II. ii. IX. 4. To be harmonious. iii. 1X. 3: III. ii. VIII. 9. Of the tinkling tive of the harmonious notes of birds. L (8) 肅龍,—see 肅· 雖離, descrip-(2) A marsh or pool IV. i. [ii.] III. (1) To obscure, to becloud. II. vi. II.

1; XVL 1-3; viii, L. L. Fowle, a fowl. I. vi. II. 1, 2: vii. VIII.

refrmities. III. ü. X. 2. OL (2) ob bass of III. 3 (難美) old age seldom enjoyed). V. 6: III.: II.1; IV. II. ditteult. II. v. .骥 502-骥 骥 (1) To be hard or ·M

udu

翴

瓣 bunk

嬲 əj

膒

1/105/

翪

孤 fins

掤

401

那

2,57

非

2257

ME

arosy

侧

ลบูว

鍬

yiəsi satisfied. I. vi. III. I. To de bright-looktain. I. z. XI. 1-3. (7) W. to look III. t. III. t. II. t. (6) 首陽, a moun-The north of a river. I. xi. IX. 1: II. iii. IL 3: IIL L VIL 6: IV. IL IV. 2. (5) (4) The south of a bill. I. ii. VIII. L; viii. (3) The 10th month. II. i.-VII. 3; IX. I. (2) Used of brilliant colours. I. xv. I. 3. Used of bright, genial days. I. xv. I. 2. the western slopes of hills. III. ii. VI. 5. Where it is bright in the evening, bright, bright places. III. ii. VI. 5. (1) The sun. II. ii. X. 1. Where it is -an indication, III. iii. II. viii. VL 2. V. 2 (the south-east corner of a house): A corner, an angle. Lili, XVII. 1; x.

Steps, stairs. II. v. IV. 6: III. iii. III. III. iii. IV. 2. Used of the intense fervours of heat.

tears are falling). To let fall, III, i. III, 8. w. 乞 圓 預 節) o . III x . II : t . I To fall to the ground, I. v. IV. 4; xv.

Narrow. III, il. I. 3.

jaded. I. i. III. 2. In II, spoken of horses tired and

1.7.1-5. To follow. - the obsequious. III. ii.

A difficult defile or pass. II. iv. VIII. 10.

1—3 (鼠科科 the mulberty trees in the Low, marshy, ground. L. iii. XIII. 4; v. IV. 6; vii. X. I. 2; x. II. 1—8; xi. L. 2; vi. VI. 2; vi. II. 1; III. 1; IV. 2; v. X. 8; vi. VI. 1; viii. III. 5; IV. viii. III. 5; IV.

THE 172D RADICAL.

A hawk, II, iii, IV, 3; IX, 1-3.

A sparrow, I. ii. VI. I.

寒 uns 事

wh

95]

劑

นออน

劍

fins

圎 fins

瀏

fin.3

灚 anh

型

uənfi

則 unh

鄖 enzy.

捌

Gunj

쩴

ทกิ

飿

Buil

则

AOF IA'

ing, IV, i. [iii.] VIII.

製 興, in crowds. III. i. III. G.

1(帽子) A border or circumference. IV. iii. IV.

A path. III. iii. III. 12, 13.

To ascend. Spoken of the rainbow and of rapours. I. iv. VII. 2; xiv. II. 4.

Painful, I. iii. I. 1. low grounds): III. ii. VI. 5 : IV. i. [iii.] V.

yopey

雞 nan

Difficulties. II. i. IV. 3(急難); VIII.

1, 4 (多難, to have many difficulties):

II. i. [iii.] II. (多難, the many difficulties); IV. (id.)

有難, to be luxuriant. II. viii. IV. 1.

THE 1730 RADICAL.

朒 yu

yu

Rain. I. iii. III. 1; X. 1; iv. VI. 3; VII. 2; v. VIII. 3; vii. XVI. 1, 2, 3; viii. IX. 2; xiv. IV. 4; xv. II. 2, 4.; III. 1-4: II. iv. V. 3; et sæpe.

雨

To rain, to shower;—followed by a noun. I. iii. XVI. 1, 2: II. i. VII. 6; VIII. 4; vi. VI. 2; vii. III. 3; IX. 7, 8. To rain on. II. vi. VIII. 3.

seueh

Snow. I. iii. XVI. 1, 2; xiv. I. 3: II. i. VII. 6; VIII. 4; vi. VI. 2; vii. III. 3; IX. 7, 8. 要見, descriptive of snow falling. II. vi. VI. 2.

雾如 零

其事, descriptive of snow falling thickly. I. iii. XVI. 1.

p'ang

ling

雷 luy 電

tëen

霂 muh

霆

Clouds, a cloud. I. iv. III. 2; vii. XIX. 1; viii. IX. 1: II. vi. VI. 2 (同 雲, one arch of clouds): III. iii. VII. 4. 雲漠, the Milky way. III. i. IV. 4; iii. IV. 1.

To fall;—spoken of rain, dew, and tears. I. iv. VI. 3; vii. XX. 1, 2; xv. III. 1—4; II. ii. IX. 1—4; vi. III. 1.

Thunder. II. iii. IV. 4: III. iii. IV. 3;

IX. 3.

Lightning. II. iv. IX. 3.

赢课, descriptive of soft drizzling rain. II. vi. VI. 2.

Rapid thunder. II. iii. IV. 4: III. iii. IV. 3; IX. 3.

ting 震

(1) To shake. III, iii, IX. 3 (震驚, to shake and be terrified): IV. i. [i.] VIII. (both transitive and intr.); ii. IV. 4; iii. IV. 5, 7. (2) = thunder. II. iv. IX. 3: III.iii.IX.4(震 怒, thundering anger). (3) To be pregnant. III. ii. I. 1.

霏 jei

订文

罪事, descriptive of a great fall of rain and snow. II. i. VII. 6. So 其霏. I. iii. XVI. 2.

To moisten. II. vi. VI. 2.

語 水田 iv. VIII. 1; v. 1X. 2. shæang Hoar-frost. I. xi. IV. 1; xv. I. 8: II.

See 澃.

Sleet. II. vii. III. 3.

loo 霾 mae

酃

阿靈

ling

Dew. I. ii. VI. 1; iii. XI. 1; vii. XX. 1, 2; xi. IV. 1-3: II. ii. IX. 1-4; X. 1-3.

Wind causing clouds of dust, I. iii. V. 2.

Thunder. I. ii. VIII. 1—3; iii. V. 4.

(1) Good. I. iv. VI. 2. (2) Marvellous; marvellousness. III. i. VIII. 1, 2; ii. I. 2. (3) Energy, majesty. IV. iii. V. 5.

THE 174th RADICAL. 青.

靑 ts'ing

瀞 tsing

靕

tsing

Green, blue inclining to green. I. viii. 青蠅, blue flies. II. vii. V. 1— III. 2.

青青, to be green. I. vii. XVII. 1,

Used for 菁菁, to be green. II. viii. IX. 2; to be strong and luxuriant. I. v. I.

To be quiet, retiring. I. iii. XVII. 1, 2; v. IV. 5; vii. VIII. 2. Silently. I. iii. I. 4, 5. Pure. III. ii. III. 4.

To be quiet; quietly. II. vi. III. 4, 5.
To tranquillize, to order. II. vii. X. 1—3:
III. iii. XI. 2. IV.; 1; 7 VI. VII

III. iii. XI. 2: IV. i. [i.] VI.; VII.

THE 175TH RADICAL. 非

fei 靡

非

(1) Not. After another negative. II. vi. I. 2 (莫非). (2) To do wrong. II. iv. V. 9.

About 70 times. (1) Not, there is not. I. iii. XII. 3; XIV. 1; iv. I. 1, 2; II. i. VII. 1—3; IX. 1—3; iv. I. 1, 2; v. III. 3; VIII. 3; et sæpe. Often joined with X, another negative. III. iii. I. 1; II. 6; III. 2; et al. 靡室勞矣, I thought nothing of my toil in your house. I. v. IV. 5. In several cases we have to take it as = must not. I. x. VIII. 1, 3: II. i. II. 1—3; et al. (2) To be extravagant. IV. i. [i.] IV. (3) 醛 靡, slowly. I. vi. I. 1—3.

THE 176TH RADICAL.

The face. II. v. V. 8. Face to face. 囬 III. iii. II. 10. mëen 靦 有興, to stand before another, face to face with him. II. v. V. 8.

THE 177m RADICAL. 草

萬城

t'een

(1) = skins, without the hair taken off, though that is the distinctive meaning of 丰. I. ii. VII. 2. (2) To moult. II. iv. V. 4. (3) The ends of reins. II. ii. IX. 4; iii. IV. 1; III. iii. VII. 2; IV. i. [ii.] VШ.

Large, II. iv, VII. 7. Shallow, L. i. HL. I; ii. IX, 3, ìí THE 18187 RADICAL, 7 71 3! TI communications; news. I. vii. XVII. 1: ii, V. 3: IV. ii, III. 2. (4) Messages, IATE ARE IATO HET ALLE AIL 42 at ar ill at ill ill ill at ill vill a, 4; vill (3) Of army or fame. Lift, X, 1; vit. IX, (2) Of words, L lil. IV. 3; ziil. IV. 3. and song, It vi IV I: III ii, VIII L.

with; to be submissive, docide, L vii.
VIII. 3; III. 2, 9; III. 3, 12; IV. II. III. 2.

(1) To writ for L iii. IX. 4. (2) A town in Wel. L iii. XIV. 4. To accord with; to be in sympathy

Il fifth descriptive of a lady as tall. the beat. II. vii. III. 1-3. no mon equa to eviptive of caps worn on

LYIILL

PAGE ZE F So III III, of a gentleman.

The downward flight of a bird. I. ili. Title of Part. IV.

TIL L The fift, to be large-headed, II, vil. m = (超 通):

The neek. I. v. III. 2: II. iv. VII, 7; 顺 E' u blace in Wel. L. v. IV. L.

The upward flight of a bird. Lili, III. 2. AH. I. 2.

A tornado. II. r. VII. 2.

Banks, III. iii. XI. 6. (1) To be imminent. III. ii. III. 2. (2)

To look at, II. 7, II. 4.

3° 4°

นอทธิ

阋

Guns

鼲

นะร์

ブ

2.7

昍

unt

運 fin,z

孫

4324

淫

ben

训

1271 间

1:216

funy

M

Guns K.

ə..y 削

2.3 ij¥

2.24

W

นหรูร M

Lunny

Ur

tryy

157

ist:

(2) Full and large temples, I. iv. III. 3. (1) The face, the countenance. L'vii. IX, 2; zi, V. 1: II. 7, IV. 5: III, iii. II. 7, LIII' \mathfrak{E} (2) 期 温, dignified III. ii. III. 3. (1) 有觀. to be large-headed. II. iii.

To wish; to long after, I. vii. XX. I.

particle. Lili. V. 3, 4: XIX, 1, 2; v. VIII. ingly, unless we take them as a compound it is following \equiv and the two = long-In the other instances of its occurrence,

THE 150TH RADICAL

Scallions, I. zv. I. S.

THE 1797H RADICAL.

Tonnilliad out to evriptive of the brilliancy

A leather-covering for the knees. I. xiii.

A bow-ca-o. I. zi. III. 3. The put a bow into its case, II. zi. II. 3. The dict. gives Same of a State, III, iii, VII, 1-6.

Same of one of the States of the Shang dynasty, IV, iil. IV, 6.

Z dily I worthed this butter (worther I

(1) To reduce to be reduced, to ex-training HL iii, IV, 7; X, 4, (2) The county by a closind a tree. HI, ii, VI, 6.

111.3, (3) -41. wathrest II, iii.IV.3.

OP (2) A HIV & H. deitron OP (1) All 15 Z dii A guirenthro Hotem dro of

A scabbard II, vi. IX, 2: III, iii, VL 2,

. -sib off ni gaineon eills bag son ob M

Z ZI w II raizool-zaol II II

repearing ix raight in in man altogether. H. v.

Lo allow one to go on to ex-

Knee-covers, II. vi. IX, I.

Madder-dyed, H. vi. IX. I.

THE 1787H RADICAL,

to IV dit I was ie un 2

ana (w) yan zana

To strengthen, HL iii, X, 7,

A person leans III, til, VII, 2, d All dx d sourt to quite L

A hin i I [ii] i II mush-band L

La d'it il dountand mond of fifth thick no priming to land in at off.

of flowers, II. i. IV. 1.

An archer's thimble, I. v. VI. 2.

uifi

泉

J17.y

罪 linn

皷

પુરસ્ત

헮

1.345

辩

t:r-y

4023

做

20 Ford

27779

2003

썲

37

7. 1. . R

岩

Comy

沿

r. Y

"Arrent

chang this in the 3d tone.

A sound; a note or tone. (1) Used of the notes of binls. I, iii. III.3; VII.4; VIII. 2; xr. II.4: IV. ii. III.8. Of music

tëen

(1) The forehead, I, xi. I. 1. 覆, to overthrow; to be overthrown, to be destitute. III. iii. II. 3: I. iii. X. 5. 頂沂, to fall utterly. III. iii. I. 8. 顛倒,—see 倒.

luy

(1) To discriminate. III. i. VII. 4. class. III. iii. I. 3. One's peers. III. iii. III. 13. (2) Good, blessing. III. ii. III. 5, 6. To be good. III. iii. X. 5. (3) To sacrifice to God. III. i. VII. 8.

觀 koo

(1) To turn round the head and look; to regard. I. iii. IV. 1; V. 1; vi. VII. 1; ix. VII. 1; xii, VI. 2; xiii, IV. 1, 2 (雇自 뺼): II. i. V. 2: III. i. VII. 1(眷顧); et al. (2) Name of an ancient State. IV. iii. IV. 6.

闙 hëen

(1) To be evident. IV. i. [iii.] III. 🔭 是自, out of view. III. i. VI. 3. To display. IV. i. [iii.] IV. To be illustrious. III. i. I.1(不顯 is to be taken interrogatively; and so, often), 2, 3; II.5; iii. II.7; V.7; VII.4: IV. i. [i.] I.; II.; IV.; IX. So 顯 顯. III. ii. V. 1. (2) 顯 炎, the designation of a high minister of Chow. III. iii. VII. 3.

THE 182D RADICAL. 面

fung

(1) The wind. I. iii. II. 4; V. 1-3; VII. 1, 2; X. 1; XVI. 1, 2; vii. XI. 1, 2; XVI. 1—3; xiii. IV. 1, 2; xv. II. 4; et sæpe. 谷風,—see 谷. 遡風, to go in the teeth of the wind. III. iii. III. 6. (2) = influence, III. iii, V. 8. [], a falcon, I. xi. VII. 1.

Lessons of manners. Title of Part I. To satirize, to censure. II. vi. I. 6.

fung 飄

風

飄風, and 風飄, a whirling wind, peaou a whirlwind. I. xiii. IV. 2: II. v. V. 4; VIII. 5, 6; X. 3: III. ii. VIII. 1.

THE 1830 RADICAL.

About forty times. To fly. Very often preceded by the particle - I.i. II.1; iii. I. 5; III. 1-3; VIII. 1, 2; v. VIII. 2; viii. I. 3; xv. III. 4; VI. 2, 3; et passim.

THE 181TH RADICAL. 食

About fifty times. (1) To eat, to take food. 1. ii. VII. 1-3; v IV. 3; vi. X. 2; vii. XII. 2; ix. III. 2; VII. 1-3; ct passim. 以就口食, when he was able to feed himself. III. ii. I. i. To devour. II.

毎食, at every meal. I. xi. (2) Food generally;—and that presented in sacrifice. Joined with 如约. Perhaps in these cases we should read the character-sze. I. x. II. 3: II. iv. V. 9; vi. V. 1, 4, 6; VI. 3. (3) Used of an eclipse of the sun or moon. II. iv. IX.1(日有 食乙),2, (2) The emoluments of office. III. iii. III. 6. (1) Food, rice. II. vii. IX. 5. (2) To give to eat. I. x. X. 1, 2; xv. I. 6: II. vi. VII. 1; viii. VI. 1—3: III. ii. VI. 4.

To be hungry. I. i. X. 1; vi. II. 2; xii.

III. 1; xiv. II. 4: II. i. VII. 2, 6; vii. IV. 1.

(1) Used as=答, to eat. eat the bread of idleness. I. xi. VI. 3. (2) = cooked millet. II. v. IX. 1.

To eat or drink to repletion. II, i. IV. 6.

To be made ready. II. iii, III. 1.

About thirty times. To drink. The phrase 飲酒, often equivalent simply to-to be drinking or feasting, is common. I. vii. III. 2; VIII. 2: II. i. IV. 6; V. 8; VI. 5; ii. X. 1, 2; iv VI. 2; v. II. 2; vi. I. 6; et passim. 飲食, to drink the cup of convoy. I. iii. XIV. 2, 3.

To give to drink. I. x. X. 1, 2: II. iii. III. 6; viii. VI. 1-3; III. ii. VI. 4.

Sweet cakes made of rice. III. i. III. 3.

有瓤, to be fragrant. IV i. [iii.] V.

To eat to the full; to satiate. I xi. X. 2: II. vi. V. 6; viii. IX. 3: III. ii. III. 1: IV. i. [i.] IX. An ornament. Used with reference to cuffs of leopard-skin. I. vii. VI. 2.

(1) To bring up, to cherish. IV. i. [iii.] VIII. (2) 養養, descriptive of perplexity and trouble of mind. I. iii, XIX. 1. To eat. I. vii. XII. 1; ix. IV. 1.

Remaining over; a remnant. I. xi. X. 1: II. viii. I. 5 (有餘): III, iii. IV. 3. To give a feast of convoy to one. III. iii. V. 6; VII. 8. See 飲.

=to advance, to increase. II. v. IV. 3.

The public quarters or court of a feudal State at the capital. I. vii. I. 1-3. To build temporary lodging houses. III. ii.

Provisions. Used of dried food. II. i. V. 3; iv. VI. 2: III. ii, VI. 1.

To steam rice. III, ii, VII, 1.

sze 飢 ke 飱 sun

飫 yu

節

飮 yın

食

飴 peih 飹 paou 飾 shih

養

yang

飲

yin

餐 ts'an 餘 yu 餞 tsčen 鮗 t'an

餱 how fun

館

kwan

A horse with green and white hairs inof a bow nicely adjusted. II, vii. IX. I. ii. I. 3; IV. 8, 4. (2) High descriptive ƙnyə 瓣 (1) Red. II. vi. VI. 5: III. i. V. 4: IV. 趣。。一点,域(9) chariots and horses, III, iii, II, 4; et al. all horses, II, vii. VIII, lot ol. Guzs To drive rapidly. II, iv. VII, 7 (摩斯 糊 乘馬, a team Reactly); [ii.] II.; iii. IV. 5. 1.; iii. IV. 6; A. 1.; iii. IV. 5. I-3; xi. I. I; et passim. great, = to contract): III i. I. 6; X. I; iii. Great, II, iv. X. 1 (K. 100 to be นทอรา Dill To run alvay in terror. III. i. III. 8. THE 1877H RADICAL ,E 쏋 lin,z An iron-grey horse, IV. ii. II. 3. To be fragrant. III. ii. IV. 1: IV. i. ell the second to sylventrices at the solution of the solution stretch of their speed. III. i. II. ö. uənəy 豳 6uny Fragrance III, ii, I. 8: IV, i. [iii.] V. 灩 A bay horse with black mane. I. xi. III. อนอกูบุ 2: IV. ii. L. 3. II. 5; III. 4; vi. X. 3: IV. ii. I. 3. nəj THE 186711 RADICAL. 蜖 coloured seems to be the meaning given 107 201 To cut off the left ears of prisoners or of the slain. III. i. VII. 8; IV. ii. III. 4 (the An iron-grey horse II. i. III. 5. Oreamat IV. ii. L. 4. left ears thus cut off) Jahung si die si die sellis muku. urfi Some kind of tree. In the 首馬, a hill of Tsin. L. X. XII. 1—3. 赠 1/0.71.4 VII. 2, where it is erroneously chassister. = one. H. viii, VII. 2, 3, 4, (3) 樋 printed E ili. VIII. 5, 6. (2) Used as a numeral or ILL ILL i. III. i. III. I. yod the head to the ground. If vi, V. 6: III. $T x_{i}^{r}$ 類 清清, to bow with xi. II. 1: II. vii. VIII. 2: III. i. II. 8; 1115 IV.3: II. v. III.2 (英首); vii. III.8; 骝 [1] The head, I. v. III. 2; VIII. 2; vii. 228 A horse looking fat and strong. IV. ii. 嵧 avoys pory II. I 文 THE 185711 RADICAL. To yoke, I. ili, XIV, di iv. VI. I-8; V. A horse with yellow and white hairs intermixed. IV. ii. I. 2. ညာ့သွ Provisions brought to field-workers. IV. 詉 vi. IX, 5, roung and strong); iv. II. 1—1; Iv [iii] Ji 6unys io,ii descriptive of loaded dishes. 2 (F E WE WIND Horses are colts. 娰 mung II, v. IX. I. këung and fat. IV. ii. I. I. I. II. III. ii. III. A colt. I. i. IX. 3; xii. IX. 2; II. i. III. ii. III. the offerings. If vi. V. 2: IV. i. [L] VII.; i. IV. onjoy 쾲 To offer at a fenst, or at a sacrifice. I. ขอ.y Dressed food. Gunzy 游 cooking II. iv. I. 3. A, bay horse, with white spots. I. Xv. Gunh 遞 you Famine, A dearth of grain 4 X wi M ban A horse with the hind left leg white. 資 D.y (2) To steam millet. III. ii. VII. I. x_{Γ} III. Γ tuoda 9virb ot . III U Sacrificial oblations, II, h. VI. 4. 201/3 絢 曾 idly, III. ii. X. 8. I: II. i. III. 9 one's horses, I. iv. X. I; x. II. i. III. i. one iii. V. 6. = to be fleet 訓 III, ii, VIII, 10, the sound of a wall when struck, indivescenbles, II. iv. X. 1: III. iii, IV. I; XI. I. 12.11.y denotes a dearth of grain; the latter, of 0,1/0 The former character and a solution of the former character of the former (3) All All, expressive of 嗰 (2) To rely on, III, il, VIII, 5 Il Juod & diodism rever without a boat of (1) (复溜) uz.y Ŋ To be satisfied. II, vii. IX, 5. Gup,d184 To entry food to the labourers in the fields, I. Xv. L. 1: II. vi. VII. 3: IV. i. |全 nh 到 CHIMESE CHYBYCLERS VAD PHRASES. 425 剽 INDEX III

矖

le

體

t'e

髱 t'e

maou

完 for 髪 for 懋

yuh

lae 麒

fei

踙 këa

kwei

霝 kwa

騫 kʻëen

騰 t'ăng

騵 yuen 騆

tsow

saou 驂

tstan

驅

k'eu

鵩 yah

t o

t'ëen

驕

A horse seven cubits high and upwards. I. iv. VI. 3.

(1) A piebald horse. I. xi. III. 1, 2: II. i. III. 3; iii. IV. 1. On IV. ii. I. 2, the colour is described as greenish-black. (2) Of spotted deer-skin. I. xiv. II. 3.

脚 脚, descriptive of horses going on without stopping. II. i. II. 1, 2; vii. IV.

A horse with red and white hairs intermixed. IV. ii. I. 4.

族族, descriptive of horses strong and eager. II. i. VII. 5; iii. III. 1: III. iii. II. 2; VI. 8.

A piebald horse. The dict. says, a yellow horse with a black muzzle; a horse of a light yellow colour. I. xi. III, 2.

To be defective, to want. II. i. VI. 6. To be injured. II. iv. VI. 3.

To mount up. II. iv. IX. 3: IV. ii. IV. 4.

A bay horse, black-maned, with a white belly. III. i. II. 8.

鸝 厚, a fabulous animal. I. ii .XIV. 1, 2.

To be moved. III. iii. IX. 3.

The outside horses of a carriage. I. vii. IV. 1; xi. III. 2: II. iii. V. 6; vii. VIII. 2.

 To whip up one's horses. I. iv. X. 1; viii. II. 1—3; X. 1; x. II. i: II. i. III. 2—5; 前驅, to drive a chariot in front of a host. I. v. VIII. 1. (2) E, side straps, running between the inside and outside horses. I. xi. III. 1.

A black horse, white-breeched. IV. ii. I. 1.

A horse, of a greenish-black colour, flecked as if in scales. IV. ii. I. 3.

A horse with white hairy legs. IV. ii. I.

(1) 有 蹻, descriptive of horses, as këaou looking strong. I. v. 1II. 3. (2) To be conceited and proud; insolent; insolence. I. ix. III. 1: II. iii. VII. 3; v. VI. 5; vii. IX. 7. (3) 篇篇, descriptive of the luxuriant growth of weeds. I. viii. VII. 1. (4) 默篇, short-muzzled hunting dogs. I. xi. 11. 3.

An iron-black horse, I. xi, II, 1.

(1) To disturb, to make confusion. II. iii. V. 7. (2) To be afraid. III. iii. IX. 3.

Fig III, descriptive of grain growing

驟 A fleet horse, II. i. II. 5. tsow

A black horse. I. viii. X. 2; xi. III. 2: II. iii. III. 2: IV. ii. I. 1.

THE 188m RADICAL. 省

(1) The limbs. I. iv. III. 3. the roots of plants. I. iii. IX. 1. prognostic on the tortoise-shell, or by the diagrams. I. v. IV. 2. (3) To be completely formed. III. ii. II. 1.

THE 189rn RADICAL. 局

To be high; high. I. i. III. 1: II. iv. 高 VIII. 6; IX. 3; v. III. 8; vii. IV. 4, 5; X. 8; viii. VIII. 1; III. i. VII. 6; ii. III. 3; kaou VIII. 9; iii. V. 1: IV. i. [i.] V.; [ii.] IV.; [iii.] III.; XI.

THE 190TH RADICAL. 長

An increase of the hair; = false hair. I. iv. III. 2.

(1) The hair shed from the pia mater, and brought down as low as the eyebrows on either side. I. iv. I. 1, 2. Distinguished, of promise. II. vi. VII. 1: III. i. IV. 2. To make eminent. III. i. VI. 5. (3) Used for 🎉 a tribe of western barbarians. II vii. IX. 8.

Used of hair hanging down over the forehead. I. iv. I. 1, 2.

The hair. I. iv. III. 2: II. viii. I. 2, 4, 5: II. 1: IV. ii. IV. 5, 8.

To be good. I. viii. VIII. 2. This seems to be the meaning, though we do not look k'euen for such a signification in a character formed from 長, 彲 Black, I, iv. III. 2.

THE 191st RADICAL. PE

To wrangle. II. i. IV. 4.

THE 1920 RADICAL.

(1) Herb-flavoured spirits. III. iii. VIII. chang 5. (2) A bow-case. 鬯弓, to put a bow into its case. I. vii. IV. 3.

(1) To be thickly-wooded. I. xi. VII. (2) The sparrow-plum. I. xv. I. 7.

職務 king vigorously. IV. i. [iii.] V.

II. i. VII. 5; iii. IV. i. (3) A horse with eyes like a tish. IV. ii. I. 4. The bream I. i. X. 3; viii. IX. i. 2; xii. III. 2; xv. XI. iii. ii. III. 2; xv. XI. iii. II. 2; xv. XI. Funf 'H III, a soal-skin guiver. or Inclinise. TO III. the barbel II. ii. V. I, 2, (2) A seal 2, 3; xiii, IV, 3; xv, VI, 1; d pessim. 12.5 other dove. I. v. IV. 3: II. v. II. I. (3) About thiery times. (1) Fish, a fish, L L X, 3; iii, XVIII, 3; viii, l X, 1—3; xii, III. 3: zii. III. omos (2) 4-1 . Hr. viz J. Ht. H. តាក្នុក្ ijĹ SIF (1) The turtle dove. L. if. L. I-3. cost (1) The wild-duck, I. vii. VIII. 1: III. ii. IV. I-5. (2) Zame of a hill in Loo. IV. ii. IV. 7. 37 the 1924 hadical. In the swallow. IV, iii, III. 12.7 證 Birds, a bird. L. i. H. 1; iii. VH. 4; xi. V. 1-3; H. 1; iii. HH. 4; iv. V. 3; 4; vii. X. 3; viii. VI. 1-3; HI. i. VIII. 3; 4; vii. X. 3; viii. VI. 1-3; HI. i. VIII. 2; iii. IV. (= a large bird). The mame of a State. The title of Lix. ಕಾಂಚ್ರಾ RODEL î To reject. I. vil. VIL 2. The demon of drought, III, iil. IV. 5. THE 19674 CHARACTER. demon regions, adistant regions. III. ili. 32.22 Y N (1) An imp IL v V. S. (2) 见力 mi 耐 111. iii. VII. 5. The tench. I. viil. IX, 2: II. viii, IL 4: bungs , W THE 1947 BYDICAL. The yellow-jawa. II. ii. III. 1: IV. i. 4 The tench, II, ii. III, 2. To nourish, I, xv. II. I. 1:2773 All the presence of the Spirits IV. iii. II. TA: F [III] AT 闸 -ni goditrone ni oleum mrotrog ot Will Sin The stargeon, L v. III, 4: IL v. Z., 7:.. fu-t: 1:1:5] 罚 3 All the geother, Lait La. (1) 捌 The rud, I, xv. VI. I. 1.1,73 1.003.7 A large boiler, I. xiii, IV, 3. A long, narrow fish. IV. h [iii.] VI. មោ,ភ:ភ្ (2) Old and wifeless, II. ifi. VII. I. 淵 THE 1900 RADICAL. (1) A deht -- unknown, I. viii. IX. I. IZDEZ III CHIZESE CHYRYCLERS YZD EHRYSES:

IL HI, the osproy. L. i. I. I.

The male phoenix III. ii. VIII. 7, 8, 9.

-च्रिं¥ २०ऽ

A hawk, II. v. X. 7: III. i. V. 3. 3: II. iii. III. 4; X. 1, 2. (2) Used of the sounds made by deer. II. i. I. 1—3. (1) To give out notes;—as to crow, to in YIII. 1; iii. IX. 2, 3; vii. VIII. 1; iii. IX. 2, 3; vii. 1, 1; IX. X. Y. 2, 1; III. X. Y. Y. 3; II. iii. II. 1; X. 1, 2. (2) Used of iii. III. 1; X. 1, 2. (2) Used of iii. III. 1; X. 1, 3. (2) Used of iii. III. 1; iii. III. 4; X. 1, 2. (4)

(1) A wild-goose. ? the grey lag. I. x. VIII. 1—3. (2) An iron-grey horse. I.

VIII. 1 : IL. III. VII. I—3. The wild-goose. I. iii. IX. 3; vii. IV. I; vii. IV. 3.

the male, the latter to the female. II. vii. Of stringoraga ai retactand remrot eilT the Tellow or Mandarin duck.

See last character,

unfi i

鴻

e,yə 刨

non ny 管音

bunk

當 wanfi

uəli

劕 nord

鄑 uanh 뛢

ճորա

销

照器.1.27.11.1. An owl. I. zii. VI. 2: IV. ii. III. 8. So

An our III. iii. X, 3. See last character.

Used of the rapid dight of a hawk. L zi. VII. I: II. iii. IV. 3; IX. 1—3.

The snouted sturgeon, I. v. III. 4: II. v. X. 7: IV. i. [ii.] VI. 读器 :8-2:V1:3-1:III.ii.71:1-1

The State of Loo. I. viii. VI. I. 2; X.

the title of IV. if.

HF 19: AH 2:

Eresh. III. iii, VII. 3.

部原 die (2) Good, I. iii. ZVIII. I. To consider as an exception, II. vi. I. 3. (1) To be few; few. I. vii. XVIII. 1. 2. II. viii. IX. 3; III. iii. I. I. iii. IX. 3; VL 6.

iff, not good. (3) Poor, destitute. iiff finest (rarest) plains. III. i. VII. G.

E, an orphan. II. v. VIII. 3.

The carp. L sil. III. 3: II. il. III. 3; iii.

The sand-blower, IL ii, IIL I.

IA: F [ii] AF The bull-head, or mudfish, II, ii, III, 3:

west 疆 篇 əį

蓼

นววร

넯

นวาร

釽

12.31

ÜÜ

公

Euns

開 te

鵠

kaou

鵲 ts'ëoh 離

chuy

shun

鶎 t'wan

ts ëw

鵙

keih

A large wild-goose. I. iii. XVIII. 3; xv. 鴻 VI. 2, 3: II. iii. VII. 1—3. hung 鵜

The pelican, I. xiv. II. 2, 3.

A name for the capital of K'ëuh-yuh in Tsin. I. x. III. 2.

The magpie. I. ii. I. 1-3; iv. V. 1, 2; xii. VII. 1.

The Filial dove. II. i. II. 3, 4; ii. V. 4.

The quail. I. iv. V. 1, 2; ix. VI 3.

An eagle. II. v. X. 7. In the note there, the pronunciation is said to be tun; -wrongly.

An adjutant or marabou. II viii. V. 6.

The shrike. I. xv. I. 3.

鶬 (1) 有 鶬, to be glittering. IV. i. ts'ëang [ii.] VIII. (2) 鶬 鶬, descriptive of the notes of bells. IV. iii. II.

> 有鶯, descriptive of the bright and variegated colours of a bird's wings. II. vii. I. 1, 2.

A crane, II. iii, X. 1, 2; viii. V. 6.

The medallion plant. I. xii. VII. 2.

有 %, descriptive of the note of the female pheasant. I. iii. IX. 2.

The widgeon. III. ii. IV. 1-5.

A long-tailed pheasant. II. vii. IV. 2

An eagle. III. i. II. 8.

An egret. I. xii. I. 2, 3: IV. i. [ii.] III.; ii. II. 1, 2.

A kind of crow, II. v. III. 1.

The white crane. I, xv. III. 3.

The bells at horses' bits. I. xi. II. 3: II. ii. IX. 4; iii. IV. 2; VIII. 1, 2; et al. The bells at a knife's handle. II. vi. VI. 5.

THE 198TH RADICAL.

A deer; deer. I. ii. XII. 2; xv. III. 2: v. III. 5; III. iii. III. 9

A doe; -found always in connection with]]]. II. iii. VI. 2: III. i. VIII. 2; iii.

pëaou

ШG

yu

(1) To weed, IV. i. [iii.] V. (2) 起, to be martial-looking. I. vii. V. 2.

一道, the margin of a river. II. v. IV. 6.

E, to be herding together in numbers. II. iii. VI. 2.

The foot of a mountain. III. i. V. 1.

An antelope. I. ii. XII. 1.

(1) To pass into. II. ii. III. 1—3. (2) Number. III. i. I. 4.

The fabulous animal, the k'e-lin. Lin is properly the female of it. I. i. XI. 1-3.

THE 199TH RADICAL.

Wheat. I. iv. IV. 2; X. 4; vi. X. 2; ix. VII. 2; xv. I. 7: III. ii. I. 4: IV. ii. IV. 1.

THE 200m RADICAL. 标准

Hemp; hempen. I. vi. X. 1; viii. VI. 3; xi. II. 2; xii. IV. 1; xiv. I. 3; xv. I. 7: III. ii. I. 4.

To motion to. II. iv. VI. 3.

THE 201st RADICAL. 首

Nearly forty times. Yellow. I. i. II. 1; III. 3; iii. II. 1; VII. 4; v. IV. 4; viii. III. 2 hwang (yellow silk); xi. VI. 1—3; et sæpe. Used of horses, probably of a bay colour. I. vii. IV. 2; xi. IX. 1: IV. ii. I. 1; II. 1. Used for yellow fabrics of silk. I. xv. I. 3: II. iii. V. 6. 古 香, the yellow hair and wizened face of old age. II. ii. VII. 5: III. ii, II. 4: IV. iii, II. yellow hair of old age. IV. ii. IV. 5. 亩 the cereals of yellow luxuriance. III. ii. I. 5. 黄黄, to be all-yellow;—dcscriptive of fox-furs. II. viii. I. 1.

THE 2020 RADICAL.

Millet.—probably the panicum miliaceum. I. vi. I. 1—3; ix. VII. 1; x. VIII. 1, 2; xiv. IV. 4; xv. I. 7; II. i. VIII. 4; iv. III. 3; vi. V.1; VI. 3; VII. 1, 4; VIII. 4; viii. III. 1: IV. i. [ii.] IV.; [iii.] VI.; ii. IV. 1.

黎民, the black-Black-haired. haired people. III. iii. IV. 3. 自姓, all the black-haired race. II. i.

·麓山屬是歷尼

麟

mih

脈 ma

hwuy

黍

黎

儅 ying

hoh neih

漂 yaou e

kčaou 鷹 ying 100

襲。 47 lwan

VII. 5.